Under no circumstances would we be able to defend all our possessions. We should not be able to defend the Philippines and Hawaii if Japan would attack those islands at the same time that a united Europe under Nazi rule attacked our very shores. We would be unable to fulfill our defense of Panama and Alaska, as well as the other places we have pledged ourselves to defend.

Through this looks like a very dark picture, we should remember that Great Britain is not defeated yet. We should give her every possible aid, that aid would be in our own self-interests. And then if Great Britain loses, we should then try to make our own self-sufficient and fully prepared to be able to.

With a united America, with the of our ability for our national defense with an enlightened public opinion, capable and unselfish men representing us in Congress, then this nation can and will not be defeated.

Bolt Threat Not Serious Says Atticus

Atticus Mullins in Montgomery

With three high ranking Democratic Gov. Frank M. Dixon, Ex-Gov. B. Graves and Chairman McCorvey of the State committee having called attention to the printed pledge on the last Democratic primary ticket, the bolt bolting in Alabama has calmed down. Chairman McCorvey not only called attention to the pledge every Democrat made who entered the May primary but also called attention to it in the past, those who have gotten the pledge have been barred from the succeeding primary insofar as running for office was concerned.

Gov. Dixon has announced his intention of making campaign speeches in election of Roosevelt. Gov. Dixon cannot be said to be one of those Alabama politicians who has endorsed everything that has been done in Washington. He is now and has always been a Democrat and will not vote for the Republican ticket in November.

Little Violation Expected

Former Gov. Graves in his statement suggesting that the campaign this Fall in Alabama be in charge the Alabama Democratic executive committee, expressed the opinion that there would be few Democrats who would deliberately violate their pledge by bolting.

The writer has heard more than one member of the Alabama Democratic committee say that in the event of a serious bolting talk or action on the part of Birmingham or any other section of the State, that they would in meeting, passing a resolution now would bar all pledge-breaking Democrats this Fall from taking part in primaries in 1942. In those primaries a Governor, United States Senator, nine congressmen, many State officers and many county officers will be elected. The committee has such confidence in its members that it wants to make an issue of bolting if bolting becomes serious.

Neither Gov. Dixon, Ex-Gov. Graves nor Chairman McCorvey believe that many Democrats will violate their pledge in Alabama this year.

The writer has been making inquiries as to bolting sentiment in Alabama and those who are talking bolting. In practically every instance we found that the bolting talk was from former Republicans or from a "to the death" anti Roosevelt movement. These men are mostly from the ranks of those who put human gain ahead of human welfare insofar as the war can find out.

There is not the same incentive Democrats to bolt the ticket as there was in 1928, it is recalled. In that year, thousands of rural Democrats, especially, were against Al Smith because of his religion. The cities were for Al Smith but the country voters pretty well divided against him. This year the farmers of Alabama are most to a man behind Roosevelt and the city workers are said to retain some regard for him that they had years ago. So the bolting condition is not the same in 1940 as they were in 1928.

Now what do you know about Adolf Hitler is sending an ambassador to France—once, Heinrich Albert.

The Youth in Business

By C. E. Johnston
Dean, Schools of Business International Correspondence Schools

THE youth who is preparing himself for the world of business will do well to give attention to a new field of management responsibility. This field has to do with the production and distribution of goods and services in such a manner as to win public approval. Every major executive knows that buyers are concerned with more than just products and prices. Consumers are interested in how the conduct of business operations affects employees and the general public in what may be termed the social aspects of business. Young men, as well as senior executives, should begin to think in terms of the social as well as the economic results of business.

Recently many industrial companies have held "open house" for their employees and their relatives and friends. This has been done in part to acquaint employees with the work performed in different divisions of the plant and in the factory as a whole. It has also been done to improve public relations. Holding "open house" is a means by which the community in which a concern is located is informed about the nature of its operations.

Today much attention is rightly given to the philosophy that underlies business management. The beginner in business, however, commonly misconceives the motives of the senior officials of his company. He is apt to think that the making of profits and the avoiding of losses is all that interests the "higher-ups." This is far from the case. An understanding of the true motives that move executives is essential to the young person entering business.

Music Hath Charms

By OSCAR MEADOWS

(Associated Newspapers.)
(WNU Service)

ROGER BROWN'S face was puzzled and he did not, as usual, pause at the end of the street to wave his hand. "Sit actually seems to try to think up ways to spend money," he thought grimly, "music! What nonsense! She wanted a house and I bought her one, now she's got to be satisfied."

At the station he bought a paper and paid 75 cents for two high-class magazines, but he did not read. Instead he stared moodily at the flying landscape.

"A wonderful morning, Brown," said a tired looking man of 35 years, his eyes upon a cottage with a steep tiled roof of Chinese blue. "I suppose this is an old story to you, but to me, after the dusty years in the city, it seems a miracle of beauty. You've lived here ten years, haven't you?"

"Yes," Roger's tone was filled with importance. "You see, my wife was determined to get out of flat-life. She saved and scrimped, so determined was she to put every penny towards a home. I like to live well. I earn the money and I propose to spend it. She watched the advertisements and ran about constantly wearing the shabbiest of clothes," Roger's fat face was petulant. "And finally she found our present home. I wasn't a bit anxious to tie myself up with payments and I hated to be far from the downtown theaters, but I gave in to her. I believe in being good to women—and."

Ben Miller looked at him in surprise. "But, aren't you glad that she coaxed you into buying? Your house must be worth much more than you paid for it."

"It's doubled," returned Roger smugly. "And the children have improved vastly in the fresh air and freedom to play. I'm saving a tidy sum each month now that I've no rent to pay. I often tell Susie it's lucky for her that she got such a good provider."

"But if she hadn't scrimped you'd have still been paying rent."

"Oh, that's a woman's place to save. She's getting extravagant, too. She's determined to have a radio. Says the children like music. I loved at her, but I really felt like scolding her."

Across the aisle were two women talking in high, affected voices.

"Yes, indeed," shrilled the one nearest the window, "I just told him to get down to earth. He thought if he could save in the suburbs I'd be interested in flowers and pots and all that and let him buy a house there and have Ethelinda home from school. Not me. Let the girl stay in boarding-school, where other people look after her. I want to be in my home when my future's no responsibility. I'm out every night somewhere, but he thinks just because he's on the road that I ought to sit in the house knitting."

"It should say not," returned the other, looking at herself critically in the mirror in the top of her square mirror. "Rat thought I ought to pay only $100 for my spring suit; said that was more than he could afford. Know what I did?"

"What?" queried the other, giggling and shifting her gum.

"Thanked him for the hundred, bought one that cost $175 and charged it. How's that for managing?"

"The old days of sitting at home saving and sewing have passed. I work half-days downtown and get my own money. My husband hates it and wants me to stay home and live on his salary, but why should I? This way I use all his money for our expenses and have my own for pocket money, and then I can always tell him that I earn my living. If I kept Ethelinda home I'd be tied down constantly. He pays her school bills, so I should worry!"

"Did you hear those women, Miller?" whispered Roger.

"I was mighty thankful when my wife consented to help me save so we could get a start. If we'd started at a home when we were first married we would have it paid for now, but I liked to see her wear pretty things and enjoy herself. It was my fault," Miller put in loyally, but his companion noticed the worry lines about his eyes and the dispirited droop of his thin shoulders.

"Now she's delighted with her little house."

"My wife wants a radio," murmured Roger forgetting that he had said this before.

Roger thought of the gold-banded cigars in his case. Such now that their house was paid for, never commented on his expensive habits. He frequently stayed in town to go to theaters with his clients. He thought, too, of the $100 suit so glibly called "cheap" by the overdressed woman across the aisle.

"Why, my wife never paid $100 for a suit in her life," he said, scowling at Ben.

"You're a lucky man. A man's wife makes or breaks him. If a radio will make Mrs. Brown contented don't you think it's a small matter? Giving the children the best in life is fine. Think of poor Ethelinda," he added in a whisper, glancing toward the gum-chewer in her gaudy hat.

"Poor Ethelinda is right," chuckled Roger, suddenly complacent. He had chosen a worthy mate. "Guess I'll send out a radio today."

FEDERAL GOVERNMENT PLACES CRIMINAL CHARGES AGAINST PRICE FIXERS

LEXINGTON, KY.—The Federal Government today capped a two-year investigation of the nations billion dollar tobacco industry with criminal charges of price fixing and monopoly against 34 tobacco companies and 33 individuals.

The Department of Justice complaint, filed in Federal Court here, named eight major tobacco manufacturing and handling firms, including the "big four"—American Tobacco Company, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Company, R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company and P. Lorillard Company.

Practices "which have been deliberately designed to dominate and dictate terms" both to growers of tobacco and to wholesalers and retailers of tobacco products were among the department's accusations of conspiracy.

In a statement, the department described these terms as "harsh and oppressive."

Comment on the charges came tonight from George Washington Hill, a defendant and president of the American Tobacco Company, who asserted his firm was innocent of the accusation.

In a letter to stockholders, made public at New York, Hill said in part:

"The American Tobacco Company has not done the things charged against it. . . . The real basis of this prosecution is not any violation of law on the part of the tobacco companies. It is brought against the tobacco industry for one purpose: to repudiate established economic principles and to promote economic theories wholly foreign to American principles of fair competition and individual enterprise—theories which have never received sanction in the law courts of this country."

They are charged with violation of the Sherman Act on four counts, each of which carries a maximum penalty, upon conviction, of one year's imprisonment and a $5,000 fine.

The complaint, filed by United States District Attorney John T. Metcalf as a criminal information which those accused must answer September 9, asserts that in some years the total combined income of the Reynolds, Liggett & Myers and American companies "equalled or exceeded the entire farm value of the tobacco crop of the United States."

Lexington is the largest burley tobacco market in the world.

The practices of the defendants, the complaint said, "had the effect of permitting a few companies to attain control of a bottle-neck in a great industry through a major farm commodity, on which several millions are dependent, must pass."

As to the effect of the alleged methods on tobacco products dealers, the complaint said:

"By nationwide advertising and sales promotion schemes, the big four and Philip Morris & Company, Ltd., created such a perfect acceptance and demand for their major brands that the offering of such products for sale, being a necessary adjunct to the conduct of numerous wholesale, retail and service establishments, such establishments are forced to handle the products even on unreasonable and arbitrary terms and at such prices."

The Justice Department said its investigation convinced it that a 1911 civil suit—by which the American Tobacco Company's business was divided among the big four and divorced from the British firms named in today's charges—"did not suffice to restore free competition and that the Sherman Act is today being violated in numerous respects" by the firms and individuals.

Major companies accused, besides the big four, are the Philip Morris Company, the Imperial Tobacco Company (of Great Britain and Ireland) Ltd., British-American Tobacco Company, Ltd., and Universal Leaf Tobacco Co. Ind.

The last named firm is described as the country's largest leaf tobacco dealer.

The other defendant companies are described as subsidiaries or affiliates of the major eight and the accused individuals as engaged in the management of the companies.

The individuals include the heads of the big four—George Washington Hill, president of American; William F. Flowers, chairman of Liggett & Myers; William N. Reynolds, chairman of the executive committee of Reynolds; and George H. Hummel, president of Lorillard.

Colonel Lindbergh Speaks To 40,000

Chicago—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh said in a speech in Soldiers Field, Sunday to 40,000 people that in the future the United States "may have to deal with a Europe dominated by Germany" and advocated "cooperation" with Europe "in our relationships with the other peoples of the earth."

He told a mass meeting in Soldiers Field, sponsored by the Citizens Keep America Out of War Committee, that: "There are still interests in this country and abroad who will do their utmost to draw us into the war. Against these interests we must be continuously on guard. But American opinion is now definitely and overwhelmingly against our involvement."

Lindbergh's speech was interrupted frequently by cheers and cries of "you tell 'em Lindy" from the crowd, which Police Capt. M. J. Doyle estimated at 40,000, and the noted aviator smiled several times as he waited for the applause to subside.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSISBy Farnham F. Dudgeon

England Extends Sea Blockade
As Nazis Continue Air Raids; Japanese Arrest British 'Spies'

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

While waiting for Adolf Hitler's scheduled invasion of England the British army undergoes special training in beach fighting tactics. This picture, passed by the British official censor, shows the Royal Scots Fusiliers, "Somewhere in England," being trained on the seashore for the "Battle of the Beaches."

THE WAR:
Extensions

While England extended her sea blockade of Europe to include the coastlines of Spain and Portugal to cut off possible re-shippments of war supplies through these countries to Germany and Italy, the axis powers were busy extending their air and submarine warfare against the British isles.

With new and more stringent orders the British high command threw the entire strength of the royal navy behind the restriction of shipping to the enemy as notice was served on all Atlantic commerce that all cargoes were subject to seizure unless navigated—a form of passport for approved shipments—could be produced by the captains of the shipping vessels.

While German and Italian troops were massing along the French coastline across the channel from England, the Nazi air force continued its smashing raids against the coast towns of Britain. Berlin claimed that the important port of Dover had been seriously crippled by repeated bombings but the British countered with the statement that always the invader was driven away from his objective, losing many planes in the process. Figures were released in London claiming the loss of 240 German planes in the past month.

A change in the plans for the defense of Britain was revealed when the order went out to remove many of the barriers which had been erected across roads to impede travel of the invading forces. It was explained that now since the home defense has organized the entire island into one "large armed camp" these barricades were not only unnecessary but a possible handicap.

POLITICS: Underway

Thus far both Republicans and Democrats have confined their 1940 political activity to a long-range "hit and run" exchange of statements regarding the respective demerits of each other's cause, but with the Willie notification speech scheduled for August 17, that date is looked upon as the time for the beginning of a "knock-down and drag 'em out" campaign.

While Candidate Willie has been busy conferring with party leaders on the draft of his speech, Democrats were casting about for a choice to succeed James A. Farley as head of the national committee and campaign manager for Franklin Roosevelt and Henry Wallace. After several prospects had been considered,

NAMES
... in the news

- Earl Browder, general secretary of the Communist party in the U. S., has asked the Supreme court to rule on his conviction on fraud passport charges. He faces four years' imprisonment, $2,000 fine.
- Yvonneville British movie star Richard Greene left his Hollywood roles to join the Canadian army at Vancouver, B. C. He enlisted.
- Appointment of Walter O'Keefe, comedian, as entertainment chairman was announced by the Republican national committee.
- Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies, headed by Chairman William Allen White, sponsored a series of half-page advertisements in metropolitan papers urging the immediate sale of 60 U. S. navy reconditioned destroyers to Britain.
- Neville Chamberlain, former British Prime Minister, now a member of the war cabinet, underwent a successful operation for relief of an intestinal obstruction.

Fugitive?

Mme. Genevieve Tabouis, one of France's best-known political commentators, is shown as she arrived in New York, on the S. S. Britannic from Europe. Mme. Tabouis, one of the French communists who consistently warned the world on the menace of Hitler, is now reported a fugitive from the new French government.

U. S. DEFENSE:
Appeasement

As the Congressional opposition to a peacetime military draft continued to grow President Roosevelt asked for authority to call the National Guard into immediate active service for a year's intensive training.

While it appeared that such authority would be forthcoming the opponents of the conscription plan refused to be appeased by an offer of the proponents to cut the registration limit to include only men between the ages of 21 and 30 rather than those between 18 and 64. This opposition headed by Senators Burton Wheeler of Montana, Norris of Nebraska and Vandenberg of Michigan argued that special training for the National Guard at the present time would provide enough margin of defense in the nation's manpower line up.

Five Billion More

As the debate over the manpower issue developed, the house representatives quickly passed another defense measure calling for the expenditure of $4,963,151,957 as a further boost in the nation's preparedness drive. The money, requested by the President, would launch work on the two-ocean navy, deemed so vital if England's naval force should be lost to Germany. Also included in the bill, which now goes to the senate, are provisions for 14,000 additional warplanes, and cash for purchasing equipment for 2,000,000 soldiers.

TRANSPORTATION:
Tragedy

Railroad investigators blamed failure of a train crew to follow instructions for the death of 43 persons in a tragic head-on collision of a 73-car freight train and a gasoline-motor coach near Akron, Ohio. They said that members of the gasoline-coach crew had been instructed to side-track to allow the freight train to pass but for some reason had neglected to do so. Severely injured, the crew members could not immediately give their version of the accident.

Census:
'Biggest'

As adding machines click and results are checked, findings of the 1940 census continue to take shape. Latest reports indicate that true to predictions rural areas are growing at the expense of large cities. The "25-biggest" cities list has been released showing New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Detroit and Los Angeles, in that order, still ranked as the five largest. Houston, Texas, ranking twenty-first and Denver, Colo., twenty-fifth, made the select list for the first time, crowding out Jersey City, N. J., and Portland, Ore.

Does A Real Problem
Confront Dept. of Agriculture

(By Tom McCord, Union Stock yard, Montgomery, Ala.)

A years crop of cotton, millions of bushels of wheat, thousands of cribs of corn along the railroad siding, cellars full of lard and pork—come to think of it, maybe these are the real problems confronting the Dept. of Agriculture. Here's an idea: Why not trade some of it for the seed-stock of Britain? I mean the great foundation herds and flocks that are in England, Scotland and the Channel Islands. One of the finest things Henry A. Wallace has done has been to prosecute a scientific search for superior germ plasm in our farm animals. Such priceless stuff is stored now in the Shorthorns, Angus, Herefords, Jerseys, Guernseys, Ayrshires, Berkshires, Shropshires, Southdowns, Hampshire, Oxford, Dorsets, Cheviots, Cotswolds, Orpingtons, other breeds too, in the British Isle. From Denmark Mr. Wallace has brought already and foresightedly Landrace hogs and Red Danish cattle to the Agricultural Research center at Beltsville. From other countries many other species. There is plenty of precedent for such a barter of food for seed-stock. It would be good business, fine diplomacy, to make such a trade. Canada would cooperate as to quarantine and distribution. The Department experts could allocate some of the greatest sires of some of our greatest farm breeds to capable breeders in strategic localities. Superior germ plasm built up thru the centuries would be saved and eventually improved to the lasting benefit of all. Great breeding matrons could be similarly preserved. This is no pipe dream. It is a barter that is a barter. —Samuel Guard in the Breeders Gazette.

Superintendent

For several years, he was just like a score of other men in the plant—a good, honest, fairly capable worker, but only that. There was nothing distinctive about him or his ability—nothing to make him stand out from the crowd—no reason, as a matter of fact, why he should ever receive a raise.

Then one fortunate day he decided that the reason he wasn't getting anywhere was because he lacked special training. He searched around a bit—asked a great many questions—and then controlled for a home-study course with the International Correspondence Schools.

"Soon after I began studying," he wrote to us the other day, "we had a change in management at our plant. The new superintendent said that only men who had really studied their work were in line for positions as foremen."

"I certainly was glad then that I had decided to study in my spare time. For, thanks to my I. C. S. course, I was the only man in the organization who could talk to the superintendent in his own language. As a result, I was promoted over men who had been here from ten to twenty years."

"What are you doing with the hours after supper? Can you afford to let them slip by unimproved when you can easily make them mean so much?"

One hour a day, spent with the I. C. S. in the quiet of your own home, will prepare you for success in the work you like best. Yes, if still? Put it up to us to prove it. Mail this coupon today.

Gov. Bibb Graves Gives Practical Advice

Gov. Bibb Graves declined the honor of conducting the 1940 Democratic campaign in Alabama as suggested the other day by Senator Hill, and in doing so has made some practical comments upon the campaign that ought to be helpful to local Democratic candidates in all counties where there is the least doubt of the outcome.

No living man in Alabama has had more political experience than Gov. Graves and out of that long experience including terms as chairman of the state committee many years ago, he advises that the 1940 campaign ought to be conducted by the regular party machinery under the direction of the state executive committee which is after all the highest party authority in the state. By putting the campaign in the hands of the committee itself Gov. Graves feels that its ramifications will then reach into every county and bring it into close contact with the probate judges and others who are in intimate touch with local conditions and how to handle them.

Governor Graves thinks there is not the remotest doubt but that Alabama will roll up the usual big Democratic majority because the "majority of our people were heart and soul for drafting Mr. Roosevelt" and "it becomes more necessary as the days pass to keep him at the helm."

Regarding the possibility of any extensive bolting movement in Alabama a statement issued by Gov. Graves on his return from Washington said: "More than a quarter of a million Alabamians went to the polls in the Democratic primary and voted knowing at the time that there was printed on the ticket a pledge to support all nominees. There can't be many in Alabama who won't support the ticket after pledging themselves to do it."—Alabama Journal.

Alabama Highways Unsafe
For Modern Motor Traffic

MOTOR ACCIDENT DEATHS PER 100 MILLION MILES TRAVELED

Alabama's motor accident death rate is second highest in the nation on a basis of miles traveled, according to Captain T. Weller Smith, director of the state department of public safety. This record indicates that Alabama's highways are unsafe for modern motor traffic.

Studies made by the state highway department and published by the American Association of State Highway Officials show that Alabama is $45,000,000 behind in the job of keeping up with traffic. The investigation revealed that there are 150 sub-standard bridges, and some 1,300 miles of main state highways that should be widened, relocated or rebuilt immediately "because of traffic and safety conditions."

If forecasts concerning money available for new construction are correct, prospects for making headway on this huge modernizing job are none too good. It is estimated that even including Federal Aid, there will be a 77 per cent drop in construction funds over the next four years.

Why this condition should exist in Alabama can be adduced from the following warning statement issued several years ago by Thomas H. McDonald, who, as Public Roads Administrator, is head of all Federal highway activities:

"A critical condition is being reached in a number of states in highway affairs. A considerable amount of the difficulty is chargeable to fallacies of so-called low cost construction which have now proven themselves to have been exceedingly high cost construction. Low cost road building is desirable where applicable to conditions, but the annual cost of our highways is the ultimate and critical cost. The cost of road maintenance should be determinative in the selection of design types in so far as possible."

Declining construction funds and rising maintenance costs plainly show that Alabama has not heeded this warning.

In contrast, each of the four states surrounding Alabama, realizing the fundamental soundness of Mr. McDonald's statement and with an eye to safety day and night in all kinds of weather, have built an average of approximately 100 miles of low-maintenance-cost concrete pavement annually for the past five years.

Significantly, all four of these states have lower motor accident death rates than Alabama.

As traffic engineers throughout the nation continue to point out: "Any solution to the safety problem must consider the fact that a SAFE HIGHWAY is the first and most important factor in highway safety." Until Alabama begins to build safe highways, it will continue to be one of the most dangerous states in the nation for motorists.

Work of Streamlining This Highway Through Chilton Stepped Up

The State Highway Department will begin reconstruction preparatory repaving and "streamlining" of the 125 miles of the U. S. 31 trunk road, known as the Birmingham Highway, which have been requested, State Director Chris J. Sherlock announced, on construction of the course, preparatory to repaving sections on the section of this important route from the South edge of the bridge just north of Clanton, including a short section in city of Clanton, about half a mile also a section extending from the edge of Clanton to Cooper.

Director, said approximately 19 miles of repaving and streamlining will be completed on this same arterial highway between Jemison and Cooper, that sections extending through Clanton and Thorsby are scheduled for improvement in the immediate future. Improvement will consist of widening the roadway and installing reinforced concrete curbs and gutters, to cooperate with the Department in this work. Also scheduled for streamlining is the section from Clanton, North, approximately three miles, including roadside beautification, the connecting spur-road from Clanton to Prattville.

Far, in the carrying out of the streamlining program for trunk highway initiated by Mr. Sherlock, for the purpose of maximum safety and meeting the demands of an already vast and increasing volume of motor traffic on these routes in Alabama, 45.5 miles of the Montgomery-Birmingham (U. S. 31 North) has either been reconstructed or is now in process of reconstruction.

The reconstruction consists of repaving with the adding of an additional shoulder; widening of shoulders; drainage ditches, retaining walls, and drainage structures, removal of curves, flatness of slopes, and the grading of shoulders, slopes and drainage ditches. A total of 30.5 of the 45.5 miles is already completed. On the rest, preliminary reconstruction has been started with only the laying of pavement to be done to finish the job.

The Highway Department will, at an early date, advertise for bids for the laying of bridges on the already reconstructed section of this highway in Clanton.

MARRIAGE LICENSES OFF ABOUT 50 PER CENT

are not going to make any rash moves as to just why the hottest time in the year should cool the ardor so far as marriage is concerned but it is a fact that sale of licenses has been down about 50 per cent. Following is a list of those who have been issued licenses with the exception of two that are marked, "Do Not Publish."

Clanton To Get New Bridge On Cotton Mill Road

Application has been made to the State WPA Headquarters at Montgomery for a new bridge to replace the one washed out by the heavy rains earlier in the spring on the Old Birmingham highway. This information was received from Mayor C. Fenn Jones in a conversation Tuesday. According to Mayor Jones it will be a matter of only a very few days until this application is oked and actual work on the new bridge begun.

There has been some rumor in that section that the bridge would not be replaced but according to the Mayor this was without foundation and through his efforts and the cooperation of the state WPA Headquarters the new structure will cost the City of Clanton far less than if the City Fathers had rebuilt it out of the city treasury.

NELL'S EAT SHOPPE CHANGES OWNERSHIP

E. J. Hamilton of Opelika has purchased Nell's Eat Shoppe from Mrs. Nell Kinmer. Mrs. Kinmer, with her husband, Vernon Kinmer moved to Opelika more than a year ago where Mr. Kinmer is in the furniture business. Since that time the Eat Shoppe has been under the management of Mrs. Burns Goodgame. The News joins Clanton in welcoming this young couple to our city and predict a prosperous future for them here.

HIGH COST OF FOOL LEADERS

There is enough of the world's goods to go round if only the leaders of the people would sit down at a table and work out a simple and fair method of distribution.

There isn't much sense in the way the human race is currently depicting itself. The race is spending its surplus on unproductive war devices.

This is something that leaders are doing to their constituents. If there were a larger measure of genuine democratic leaven working on the five continents it would cost earth's people less to live under their rulers.—Montgomery Advertiser.

MR. JAY RAWLINSON PASSED AWAY AUGUST 11TH

Chilton County lost one of its oldest and most highly respected citizens in the passing of Mr. Jay Rawlinson. Mr. Rawlinson died Sunday afternoon, Aug. 11, at 2 o'clock at the home of his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Motes.

Mr. Rawlinson was born February 7, 1850 near Prattville, Autauga County, the son of Enoch J. Rawlinson and Louise Riser Rawlinson, who migrated to Central Alabama in a covered wagon from South Carolina. When Mr. Rawlinson was about 14 years of age his parents moved to Chilton County and located near Fletcher. There, on November 14, 1875 he married Isabella Davis. Five children were born of this union, as follows are all living:

Jesse B. Rawlinson, Bastrop, La.
Mrs. W. T. Herrod, Tyler, Alabama.
Mrs. W. J. Motes, Clanton, Ala., Oscar Lee Rawlinson, Billingsley, Ala., and Mrs. C. D. Roberts, Powderly, Ala.

Mr. Rawlinson moved to Clanton in 1920 and had lived here ever since. His wife passed away several years ago.

In addition to the five children mentioned above Mr. Rawlinson leaves 15 grandchildren and 24 great grandchildren.

Mr. Rawlinson was buried Monday afternoon at White City Methodist Church cemetery, B. Lawrence preached the funeral with Spigner Funeral Home in charge.

Delighted to advise Rural Electrification administration informs me they are releasing project today involving $225,000 to build 320 miles of line to serve 746 members in following counties: Elmore, Autauga, Chilton, Tallapoosa, Talladega and Coosa. Regards, Lister Hill, U.S.S.

Jemison Boys Make Trip To Atlanta

Fifteen members of the Jemison Chapter FFA with their adviser, Mr. H. H. Denison, took a trip to Atlantic Beach near Jacksonville, Florida last week. All were very much interested in the different sections they passed through such as the black belt of Alabama; the peanut section of Alabama and Florida; and the tobacco section of Florida and Georgia.

The first night was spent in camp at the stock yards near the federal prison on about four miles beyond Tallahassee. After traveling all day the next day a camp site was found about five miles from Jacksonville Beach and about one and one-half miles from Atlantic Beach. The party enjoyed the time spent there very much. They left this camp Friday morning and came as far as Dothan Friday night.

Those making the trip were Charles Littlejohn, J. W. Collum, Alred Nolen, Winston Davenport, George Cleckley, James Watts, William Watts' Bill Cobb, Curtis Saterwhite, Billy Hawkins, Fulton Dennis, James Martin, J. C. Anderson, Mr. H. H. Denison, and two cooks, Charles Robinson, and Joe Sales. Leslie Glass, president of the chapter started but had a telephone call in Clanton to return home on account of the sickness and following death of his uncle, Mr. Varden. All members regretted that their president was unable to make the trip.

TENANT-FARM SYSTEM TO BE STUDIED

Committee To Meet In Mont- gomery Today; 4 Migrants To Be Heard

MONTGOMERY—The tenant farm system, blamed for many Southern economic ills, will be brought before a congressional committee here today on charges of contributing to the creation of destitute migrants.

The committee, headed by Representative Tolan (D., Calif.) is probing the economic forces that cause population shifts, with the view to recommending remedial legislation.

Tolan said on arrival today the body already had established that approximately 4,000,000 are moving annually from state to state, looking for work, and he and his colleagues intended to the three-day hearings here to establish the causes of such migration in the South.

In addition to investigating the part farm tenancy plays in the situation, he said the committee would delve into erosion and other causes for persons being unable to obtain economic security in their established locations.

Among witnesses to be heard are four actual migrants who will relate the stories of their lives and travels. Other witnesses will include educators, economists and agricultural experts who will report on conditions in the South that might lead to future population shifts.

Members of the committee are Tolan, Representative Sparkman (D., Ala.), Parsons (D., Ill.), Curtis (R., Neb.), and Osmer (R., N. J.), each representing a section involved in the migratory problem.

HAND FAMILY REUNION

The fifteenth reunion of the Hand family was held Sunday, August 11th at Poplar Springs Church. This is an annual affair looked forward to with happy anticipation by the family and friends.

All who attended enjoyed an afternoon of fellowship and worship together. All the family now living were present, consisting of six brothers: Rev. J. L. Hand and family of Climax, Ga., W. W. Hand and family of Clanton; R. C. Hand and family of Clanton; E. D. Hand of Birmingham; D. L. Hand and family of Deatsville and Wesley Hand of Bessemer. Quite a number of other relatives attended. Rev. J. L. Hand preached at the 11:00 o'clock hour and dinner was spread at 12:00. During the afternoon two fine quartets entertained with special numbers. The Crew quartet and the Burkhalter quartette, Rev. Clark Burkhalter preached the evening service.

Plans were made for the sixteenth annual reunion next year and it will be held on the second Sunday in August.

10-Point Agriculture
And Industry Program

Auburn, Ala.—Dr. L. N. Duncan, president, Alabama Polytechnic Institute, outlined the following 10-point program for both agriculture and industry at Farm and Home Week:

1. Plans for coordinating development and operation of agriculture and industry.
2. Plans for continued encouragement of the gradual acquiring of ownership of farms by capable and deserving farm tenants.
3. Plans for improvement of landlord-tenant agreements, written or oral, to encourage the care and improvement of farms upon which the income of both tenants and landlords is dependent.
4. Plans for continued financial support, through parity funds, of adjustment of farming in the South throughout the period of radical change that we are undergoing.
5. Plans for continued financial and educational encouragement of maintenance and improvement of the soil on the farms.
6. Plans for some redistribution of the burden of educating the people of rural Alabama, many of whom eventually become workers all over the United States.
7. Plans for moving Alabama's steadily growing volume of products into best market channels as orderly and economically as possible.
8. Plans for as much federal support of cotton prices as is feasible under current and prospective supply and demand.
9. Plans for encouragement of continued financing of sound agricultural production by low cost loans.
10. Plans for encouraging continued sound planning of land use by local authorities.

MARKET SEASON FOR CALF CROP

Tom McCord, Union Stock yards, Montgomery, gives advice about first-calves and old cows.

The marketing season for Alabama's various and sundry products begins in early March and lasts throughout the Summer, Fall and Winter until it begins the following year, never running out of some marketable product.

The 1939 cotton crop is about gone, the strawberries, potatoes, cabbage, fresh corn, okra and other vegetables have about had their day. Now we are into August and the harvest of the 1940 calf crop is just beginning to open up.

Much like the marketing season of the field crops, the calf season opens slowly and gains momentum into September when it usually reaches its heaviest movement in the third week of the month. The outlook for the season is that there will be a somewhat smaller number sold this year than last on account of the cattlemen making a determined effort to replace their losses of last Winter with young cattle from the 1940 calf crop. It is more or less reliably reported that something like seven percent of the cattle in the Black Belt were lost last Winter on account of the hard weather and a shortage of feed and hay.

This column is not prone to giving advice but if it were it would say: "Sell the calves off the first-calf heifers and the old cows in August and give them an opportunity to mend back and get good flesh before Winter sets in." If this had been done last year there would have been a smaller loss in the cow herds of the State.

Chester the Pup
By GEORGE O. HALLORAN

BUNNEYNONE has been going to night school the last couple of months, taking up manual training. He has been working on a three-legged table that Clara wants for the dining room to put the goldfish bowl on. We've been hearing so much about that table that I figured it would be impossible to buy one like it, because it took so much time and skill to put it together. Well, to-night he brought it home, and I'll say you couldn't buy one like it. If you didn't know it was a table and had 12 guesses, you wouldn't even come close as to what it was. It looked like an antique whatnot that had weathered a tough cyclone. None of the legs were the same length, and the only way it would stand up was to tilt it in a corner. Metal Objects Produced
By 'Powder Metallurgy'

A new process for the manufacture of metal objects is now available to industry, writes Phillip H. Smith in the Scientific American. It permits the alloying of metals without the customary melting and casting, while entirely new compositions can be produced from such untreated materials as metals and abrasives.

This process is called powder metallurgy; and although it has been known and used for more than a quarter century, it is only now coming into its own as a tool of production. In a matter which seems as simple as filling a physician's prescription (but isn't) it provides your automobile with oilless bearings, clutch facings and spark plug inserts. It offers your home and your family radio tube parts, lamp filaments, dental alloys, warming-pad mixtures and permanent waves, while to science and industry it contributes X-ray targets, welding electrodes, grinding wheels and other essential products. The art, which is characterized by the compression of metals in the non-metal state (powder), seems now to be on the eve of further commercial expansion.

Developing satisfactory methods for powdering and refining metals to approach some measure of standardization has been a long process and an essential step in the new metallurgy. Out of these labors have come 11 basic processes. The grinding process produces powders by crushing in stamp, ball or attrition mills and is quite simple. Brittle and tough metals can be handled in this manner, but malleable metals must be stamped. Atomizing, on the other hand, requires forcing a thin stream of molten metal through an orifice and then hitting it with a stream of steam or compressed air. This method permits a close control of powder size. Still another process which permits close control is that of reduction from the compounds, in particular the oxides, chlorides and hydrides, using temperatures below that which will melt the metal.

At the moment the leading application of powder metallurgy is in production of small metal parts—tungsten, molybdenum and tantalum, and in making cemented carbide tools, porous structures, electrical contact and electrode materials. But if it is true that a way has been found to get sufficient pressures with economy for large area work, and if the complex dies now in process of development and experimentation prove satisfactory, the way will be open for the manufacture of many more metal parts and products.

Vocational Classes
For WPA Employees

Vocational classes for the training of WPA employees in national defense industries in Alabama are rapidly taking shape with schools already opened in Birmingham and Mobile. W. G. Henderson, Alabama WPA Administrator, announced.

These vocational training classes are of the refresher type, designed to train WPA employees who have had occupational background which fits them for placements in industry producing items appurtenant to national defense. Classes already set up in Birmingham include: machinists, draftsmen, pattern makers and welders. In Mobile, schools for machinists and welders have been set up and training centers are proposed for Tuscaloosa, Gadsden, Selma and in the Chattahoochee valley, Colonel Henderson stated.

Employees of the WPA who have had some training or experience in industries essential to national defense will be eligible for and offered enrollment in these classes and will be paid the WPA security wage while refreshing their knowledge of the techniques of such occupations in which they have had experience.

The following industries are included in the classes offered through this training: aircraft manufacturing, maintenance and repair; machine tools; electrical; boiler and heavy steel plate; automobile manufacturing, maintenance and repair; forging; foundry; dormance; ammunition; woodworking; chemicals and light manufacturing.

The Federal Reserve Board estimates that about one million persons were taken off the unemployment list last year.

"Build-Up" Important
Protector of Women

A weak, undernourished condition often enables functional dysmenorrhea to get a foothold; thus leads to much of woman's suffering from headaches, nervousness, and other periodic discomfort.

CARDUI's principal help for such distress comes from the way it usually stimulates appetite; increases flow of gastric juice; thus aids digestion; helps build energy, strength, physical resistance to periodic pain for many.

Another way, many women find help for periodic distress: Take CARDUI a few days before and during "the time." Women have used CARDUI for more than 50 years!

Alabama National Guard On The La-Tex. Border

Montgomery, Ala.—While U. S. Senators debated whether the President shall have the right to call the National Guard into active service, 3,700 Alabama Guardsmen arrived early this week on the Sabine River, La.-Tex. to begin three weeks maneuvers.

Joining approximately 50,000 other Guardsmen—officers and men—from 13 states, the Alabama troops "went into action" in the cutover pinelands, where Southern soldiers have trained since the Civil War.

The maneuvers will result in one of the biggest "mock" battles in the Nation's peacetime history, and the second such military "sham" war to flow over the low Sabine plain in three months.

By truck, automobile and train the Guard units left Alabama, most of them Sunday Aug. 4,—although advance detachments had gone several hours before to make arrangements for "Alabama's arrival."

Headed by Adj. Gen. Ben M. Smith, the Alabama outfit became an integral part of the "blue" forces—in the last Sabine river maneuvers, the defenders. Enemy forces, "red", are composed of Guard units from southwestern States, west of the Sabine river.

Before leaving Alabama, many officers and men were recalling that Alabama Guardsmen were sent on active duty to the Mexican border in 1917 and had just returned to their homes when they were re-mobilized with the American declaration of war against Germany.

The present maneuvers, however, are scheduled for three weeks only; and high officials hinted at tacit understanding that the Guard will not be mobilized during that time, but these officers would not be quoted.

Marker Unveiled; War
Echo From Other Days

Wetumpka, Ala.—A roadside marker was unveiled near here Friday, Aug. 9, indicating the distance from the nearest point on the Montgomery-Wetumpka highway to the old homestead of William Lowndes Yancey, Alabama's famous orator of the War Between the States era.

Formal invitations to the ceremony were issued only to officers of the United Daughters of the Confederacy Chapters over Alabama. Open invitations were extended to everybody. The John B. Gordon (Wetumpka) Chapter of the patriotic society sponsored the event.

The ceremony took place approximately one and one-half miles south of Wetumpka, near the Talmadge-Sanford home, a half mile from the Yancey home, off the highway.

THE NEED OF TEACHER TRAINING IN LOCAL CHURCHES

Teacher Training is not penance for the ills of Sunday Schools and churches, but it will work wonders in the re-dedication of Christians to religious service. It is without doubt the most potent factor in throwing off the lethargy of church people and getting them out of the spiritual indifference in which most of them find themselves contented.

Our rural churches are in dire need of spiritual leadership—the blind for the most part not even trying to lead the blind. The people need vision without which they perish. We need to "look on the fields and see that they are white unto harvest."

Imagine if you will, all our pastors, superintendents, teachers and other workers taking from two to four study courses a year! What a difference it would make in our self-contented, self-satisfied indifferent churches of this day and generation.

Teacher training will increase the desire for Bible study, fill our churches every Sunday deepen our love for the lost, result in weekly teachers' and officers' meeting (the power house of the Sunday School) in almost all churches, and foster the missionary spirit.

Our training course books are written by our experts in Sunday School work. They give their whole time and thought to plans, programs, and methods of church work. Why shouldn't we study their books periodically and religiously and try our utmost to do what they outline, suggest, and advise?

Trained workers are required in the regular fields of life. Why shouldn't workers in the realms of religion, the all important business of life, be likewise required?—J. D. Griffin.

Two New Bridges
For Coosa County

Construction of two new bridges, to cost a total of approximately $40,000, on two important routes through Coosa county is in immediate prospect, according to information made public by State Highway Director Chris. J. Sherlock.

One of the new structures will be over Hatchemedege Creek on State Highway 11 between Wetumpka and Rockford. The other new bridge that is to be built will span Weogufka Creek on the secondary or farm to market road between Stewartville and Weogufka.

Provisions of Alabama's unemployment compensation law will not permit the payment of unemployment benefits to national guardsmen while they are in training.

Out of more than three hundred thousand draft dodgers during the World War, Grover Cleveland Bergdoll is the only one left in jail, according to the Department of Justice.

Leaders Urging Fight
For Full Farm Parity

Auburn.—Three speakers at Farm and Home Week here urged Alabama farm men and women to fight for full parity income for agriculture.

"For the welfare of all individuals and groups, full parity for agriculture is our greatest need and our biggest economic problem in 1940" declared P. O. Davis, director of the state extension service.

Senator John H. Bankhead described the fight in Washington for parity payments and declared that they may be lost later unless there is a constant and ceaseless battle for them and for agriculture.

"We shall continue to fight for our goal until farmers have been restored to full parity—not 50 or 75 per cent parity—with labor and industry," asserted Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Birmingham's street car strike has been settled—and everybody is now riding again.

FARM CONVENIENCES AND COMFORTS THROUGH

Nearly nine out of ten farm homes REA-financed electric lines have more than eight in ten have electric irons, more than half have electric washing machines, and nearly all have electric refrigerators, according to REA's third annual utilization survey just made public by Administrator J. W. Slattery.

The survey, which shows the extent of use of various electrical appliances on newly electrified farms, is based on questionnaires returned by 43,000 farms served by 82 REA-financed lines in 27 states.

The Spring House Has Moved Into the Kitchen

THE spring house, long a favorite rite in the country for food preservation, "has moved into the kitchen." In rural homes with cheap electric service, food is now kept fresh in modern electric refrigerators—so convenient and economical to operate.

Our effort to extend electric service to the rural communities of Alabama began in 1923 and today, as a result, thousands of Alabama farms have city conveniences.

Our rural engineers will be glad to discuss with you the operation and low cost of the conveniences.

Senate Votes to Call National Guard; War Spreads to Africa and Far East; England Offers Self Rule to India; U. S. Armed Forces Start War Games

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

(For further news of Japan, see Indignation.)

BATTLE OF BRITAIN:

Intensification
Information from unoccupied France was that German troops in great numbers were moving toward the French channel ports. Germany used all travel and communication routes between occupied and unoccupied France.

Worried about the turn of events in the Far East, England offered India to India after the war if the country would now aid the British cause.

England, with a new army commander-in-chief, Sir Alan Brooke, changed its mode of defense. Boasting an army of 4,000,000 well-trained men, it swung back to the old theory that the best defense is an offense. Therefore road obstructions laid to delay movement of an enemy if he tried were dug up—to permit the British army to get at him faster, he did.

Bombings

England bombed Germany and Germany bombed England. Both sides claimed heavy damage to the coast. Germany claimed the port of Dover, England, a shambles. England claimed the port of Hamburg, Germany, "pulverized." Both sides denied they were hurt much.

Virtually all British raids on Germany and Germany-held territory have been night calls, when safety is greatest for the fliers. On the other hand, Germans have paid day calls on England. This has led to the opinion the Nazi flyers are more interested in observation and destruction. But several east and southern English ports virtually have ceased to be open for commerce.

Africa

Meanwhile Mussolini began warlike gestures in Africa. Italian troops said to number 250,000 moved from Italian possessions on Egypt and British Somaliland. London newspapers warned their readers to expect some Italian successes. Italy's goal is believed to be Suez and the gate to India.

Indignation:

Japan So Sorry

Arrest of nine British trade leaders and journalists in Japan was regarded by Tokyo as breaking of an espionage plot. Japanese reported "suicide" of one journalist after his arrest. They said he had leaped from a window. England demanded explanations. London papers called for retaliation. Four Britishers eventually were released but London was pained by now and the arrest of undisclosed number of Japanese in England, and elsewhere in the British empire, put a further strain on Anglo-Japanese relations.

NAMES

... in the news

Running for re-election to the U. S. senate, in the Democratic and Republican primaries, Senator Hiram Johnson of California heard himself labeled by President Roosevelt as "no longer a liberal and certainly not a Progressive Democrat."

J. R. McCart, former controller general, died in Washington.

Lord Beaverbrook, Canadian-born London publisher, was added to England's inner war cabinet and is expected soon to replace Alfred Duff Cooper as minister of information.

Neville Chamberlain, Britain's premier and advocate of appeasement, underwent an operation and may retire from the cabinet.

Harriet Eliot, consumers' member of the National Defense Commission, revealed that body would stagger buying for the army and navy to prevent undue pressure on the consumer and consequent price raises.

PIES:

Intention Alert

G-Men have increased their force, due to many complaints about espionage. Chief G-Man J. Edgar Hoover told governors and their representatives, called together by President Roosevelt to form a common front against Fifth Columnists. Prior to the FBI investigated 35 cases in 1938. In 1938 the number rose to 1,000 and last year to 1,651. So far this year 16,855 investigations have been made.

Boomerangs

Boomerang throwing, warlike sport of aboriginal Australia, has an exponent in official Washington in the person of Henry Wallace, Democratic vice presidential nominee. He is pictured here (left) giving some instructions in the art to Attorney General Robert Jackson. Same day this picture was taken, one of the curved throwing sticks went out of bounds, clipped a news photographer on the head and four stitches had to be taken to close the wound.

CAMPAIGN: The Farmer

Republican candidate, Wendell Willkie, bent an ear to the wheat and corn belt problems when he ended his Colorado vacation by going to Des Moines, Iowa, to meet governors and their representatives from midwestern states. What they told him form the basis for his agricultural utterances in his acceptance speech. But he indicated he will advocate no change in the current farm program.

Efforts of Senator Wheeler (D., Mont.) to learn the Republican candidate's views on the conscription measures failed. Willkie said the President could have his opinion anytime he asked for it. Otherwise they also will first appear in the acceptance speech.

Democratic candidate for vice president, Farm Secretary Henry A. Wallace, changed his mind about staying in office during the campaign. He said he will resign when he accepts the nomination. He also had a little trouble with a "boomerang" (see cut).

BRITAIN'S PROBLEM:

Naval Losses

German claims to heavy destruction of British shipping show basis for alarm. Britain started war with 183 destroyers. They admit 29 are sunk and more are laid up for repairs. Less than 100 are believed in operation. Nazis say British loss in merchant ships is larger than in the World War, in excess of 5,000,000 tons.

Ships for Sale

Condition may have reaction in U. S. The United States has 238 destroyers, twice as many as any other two navies. Committee to Defend America by Aiding Allies is agitating for sale of 60 "over-age and unused destroyers" to British. Those favoring sale argue it would be better to put ships to practical use than to allow them to rust in U. S. navy yards.

Agitation was brought into the open when Gen. John J. Pershing, commander of the A. E. F., spoke in favor of the sale. He said it might be the last act America might be able to make "short of war" and said by sending help to the British we "still can hope with confidence to keep the war on the other side of the Atlantic ocean."

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, in a speech to the anti-war rally at Chicago, warned that in the future America "may have to deal with a Europe dominated by Germany," and advocated "non-interference by America with affairs in Europe." For these remarks the "lone eagle" was branded as "the chief of the fifth column in this country," by Senator Pepper of Florida. This statement resulted in some bitter debate on the floor of the senate.

MISCELLANY:

Disappointment

The duke and duchess of Windsor frustrated the hopes of many expectant dowagers when they decided not to come to America, en route to the former king's new job, governor general of the Bahamas. His royal highness changed plans, decided "they have to deal with Europe dominated by Germany," and that his Pennsylvania-born, Baltimore-bred wife soon may visit America for a plastic operation, details unannounced.

When reserve army officers of the medical corps were called to Carlisle barracks, Pennsylvania, for training, the major course was tropical and semi-tropical diseases.

A death sentence was voted by a French court for the rebel Gen. Charles de Galle, who fled to England when the armistice was signed and has since organized French forces for further resistance. Still to hear their fate are Former Premiers Edouard Daladier and Leon Blum and Marshal Maurice Gamelin. De Galle and Blum still are not in French hands.

Farmers Union Opposes Burke-Wadsworth Bill

At a regular meeting August 10th, the Chilton County Division of the Farmers Educational and Cooperative Association passed the following resolutions:

Be it resolved by the Chilton County Division of the Farmers Educational and Cooperative Union of America that we in regular session this 10th day of August 1940 go on record as opposing the Burke-Wadsworth Bill as unwarranted, unjustified and not necessary at the present time since the U. S. is at peace and whereas it would cause hardship and confusion and demoralize the entire U. S. as such legislation leads to dictatorship.

Whereas under said bill the men that were conscripted would receive the insignificant sum of 65 cents per day for 24 hours whereas the WPA worker receives the sum of $2.16 for 8 hours. Whereas the officials of the Government has not given the enlistment program any chance at all. Whereas if the Government would pay the enlisted men at the rate of $75 per month they would get all the men they need and whereas the enlisted men are very much more important to the Government than the WPA worker, why the difference in salary?

Be it further resolved that a copy of this resolution be sent to our U. S. Senators and Congressmen and to as many of the different presses as possible. Done this the 10th day of August 1940.

Rev. J. D. Hopper had a great revival in his church at Maplesville last week. There were twenty-five additions. Bro. Thoman Atchison and Bro. Ashby a young ministerial student did the singing. Rev. Bearden and Rev. Haggard contributed much to the success of the meeting with their prayers and personal work. Rev. Bearden preached last week at Rev. Haggard's church at Midline. He will also be preaching at Pleasant Grove third Sunday in August, and at Pilgrims Rest the fourth Sunday in this month. Pray, friends for these meetings. A

Pedestrians Walk Into Trouble, Report Shows

That simple thoughtlessness is to be blamed for most of the appalling number of pedestrian deaths in 1939 is the conclusion to be drawn from an analysis released in "Smash Hits of the Year," the tenth annual highway safety booklet published by The Travelers Insurance Company. Of 12,470 pedestrians killed last year, 3,290 or 26.4 per cent met death while carelessly crossing in the middle of the block. In contrast, only 210 or 1.7 per cent were killed crossing as they should on the proper signal at intersections. Other leading causes of fatalities, according to the analysis, were walking on rural roads, crossing at intersections against the signal, coming into the street from between parked cars and children playing in the street. Calling attention to the responsibility of pedestrians in accidents, the booklet states: "The pedestrian has become one of modern traffic's greatest problems. This problem child of the streets and highways, so neg-

HOW TO BE YOUR OWN DECORATOR

THE COLONIAL HALL

To return to a narrow hall, which may be treated in the Colonial manner, an arrangement of furniture is suggested in making such a hall interesting, as the furniture itself. An old-fashioned wallpaper, with a small figure in it between stripes, was used for the walls. The ground color was the softest imaginable apricot tint, rather than shade. The woodwork, therefore, instead of being painted white was painted this tone of the paper. This gave a warmth and interesting color note to the hall as you entered it. What this might not be instantly defined by the person entering the hall, but its effect was that of something a little out of the usual. The stair treads, the hand rail and the floor were stained a mahogany tone, and the latter waxed. It is better not to wax the stair treads to avoid the possibility of falling. Today there are excellent stain preparations on the market which give a dull finish. In the furnishing, the center of interest was the clock at the far end. Though there was but little space on the side wall, a shallow table of the Duncan Phyfe era was used there with a ladder-back mahogany chair on each side. A mirror, both for convenience and to give a feeling of space, was hung above the table with an excellent print on each side. In choosing prints for this use, if the house is Colonial, select a good print of one of our early generals, or Fighting Paul Jones, which will lend a note of interest. Colorful hooked rugs are placed where conveniences suggest, at the foot of the stairs, in front of the mirror, and in the doorway to the dining-room which is on one side, and to the living-room which is on the other. Do not place rugs cater-cornered. Do not put a clock cater-cornered. It is a bad principle. Put it flat against the wall. Put a rug in line with the surbase.

The lighting in a hall of this sort is most attractive when one of the Colonial fixtures, which are being reproduced extensively today, is used. They frequently have etched glass globes set in metal frames—in the old days to shield a candle and later an oil lamp; today, of course, they are electrified, but the quaint square, oval and round shapes in which they come are attractive and suit this period style.

Halls, like everything else, fall into a given type, or the last type of which I have spoken a number of times—nondescript. Naturally in a Colonial house, the hall partakes of its quality—white paint, mahogany hand rail; in an English house—the heavier furniture and darker woodwork is put in it; in a French house—the formal placing of French table, chairs and mirrors and possibly a marble floor bespeak its type; in an Italian house—spaciousness, bare wall spaces, long table, rich coloring are fitting. But the nondescript house, of which there are many, should have our special attention, here the hall has no distinctive whatsoever unless it is put into it by the decorator. Since we are not dealing especially with periods, but with the average house, let us first make attractive the nondescript hall.

In Colonial house, or houses with this feeling, a Colonial hall is easy to achieve. But for the small square hall of the average apartment or small suburban house, which might come under the term nondescript, the following plan: A wallpaper with a powder blue ground and a soft all-over pattern in oyster white was used on the walls, with the woodwork and stair risers painted oyster white. The treads, the spindles and the hand rail were stained walnut. This gave a distinct note of contrast which arrested attention pleasantly.

There was but little space for furniture, but in that space, in the niche formed by the turn of the stairs, a butterfly table of maple was placed, with one leaf dropped. On it could be a lamp, a bowl of flowers and a card tray.

Many Ancient Traditions

Surround Use of Cheese
On a midsummer eve, a maiden, having fasted all day, should lay a clean cloth with bread, cheese and ale, and sit down at midnight as if to eat. Her destined husband will then, if tradition is justified, be drawn to enter the room and drink a toast to her.

This is one of many samples of old English cheese-lore, collected in "At the Sign of the Cheese."

New Year's day greetings, it appears, should properly conclude with the jingle.

May you of potatoes and herrings have plenty.
Whiter butter and cheese and each other daintily.

Christmas eve cheese, on the other hand, according to a North Riding custom, should be marked with a cross and associated with barley meal and (sometimes) gun.

As for May day, the proper Randwick (Gloucestershire) procedure used to be to roll three cheeses, garlanded with flowers, three times around the village church before their ceremonial dissection by the villagers, says the Montreal Gazette.

Hungerford, at Hocktide, favored punch with its cheese, adding to this mixture macaroni and watercress. Going further back into history, it is surmised that the delicacy which Jael served to Sisera on a lordly day before murdering him was most probably cheese, and it is recalled that cheese added to this mixture macaroni and watercress.

In Ireland, cheese is said to have had an honored place in the gold-plated banquets of Tara.

Moreover, each English county has had its own variety of cheese. Among those which are now almost forgotten are mentioned the cheeses of Shropshire, Banbury, Norfolk, Essex, Kent, Sussex, Suffolk, and Cottenham (Yorkshire).

All this and much other interesting information about cheese has been collected by the New Zealand Dairy board, by which the booklet in question is issued. Approximately half the cheese consumed in Britain, it is pointed out, now comes from that dominion. The average consumption in England is 9½ pounds per head a year, compared with eight and seven-tenths pounds 20 years ago.

THIS WEEK IN THORSBY

MRS. WEBB PARRISH, Correspondent

The Thorsby Lions Club held its regular meeting on Tuesday evening, last, with the attendance showing the effects of summer weather. The meeting was held in the Fellowship Room of the Congregational Church as the Ladies Aid provided the meal.

THORSBY BAPTIST CHURCH
Our revival starts off well, Brother Calvert is bringing some splendid messages and Mr. Stephens is leading our people to sing the Gospel effectively. The attendance is encouraging and we are expecting the congregations to increase through the week. The revival will continue through next Sunday.

W. H. GOODGAME DIES

Mr. William H. Goodgame of Thorsby died at his home Saturday afternoon after several months of a lingering illness. He will be greatly missed as he had a great host of friends and relatives. He was 63 years old and lived in Thorsby for many years. The funeral services were held Sunday at Thorsby Baptist church, Rev. W. P. Lowery officiated, assisted by Rev. M. L. McLeod. Active pall bearers were his nephews, Messrs. Arnold, Ollis, Jack and Erby Littleton, Roy and Harold Farrington. Honorary pallbearers were Messrs. C. A. Peterson, G. F. Harper, M. E. Willis, W. L. Leary, Grover Bice, David Vines, Donald Merchant, Marvin Davenport, Ernest Porter, Malcolm Manning, Varney Wyatt, Walter Robinson, Dolphus Gentry, Leonard Lowery, and William Higgins. Spigener in charge.

He is survived by his widow; his mother, Mrs. Frank Goodgame, who is 84 years old, two daughters, Mrs. Herbert Peterson of Anniston, and Mrs. Webb Parrish of Thorsby, three grandchildren, three brothers, Burns, of Clanton, Sam of Mark Tree Ark, Robert of Thorsby and two sisters, Mrs. Hugh Thompson of Clanton and Mrs. Eliza Thompson of Thorsby.

THORSBY INSTITUTE

Thorsby Institute is to have a full registration in boarding department for this school term. This was indicated today from advance reservations already received at the office of the Institute. All the available room in the boys' dormitory has been reserved for some weeks and the reservations are in for all the room in the girl dormitories, including new applications. The Institute will hold its regular opening exercises at ten o'clock on Wednesday, September 11th.

Mr. H. M. Adair of the faculty of Thorsby Institute has undergone an appendectomy in a New York hospital. Word has been received at the Institute office that it was successful and Mr. Adair is getting along as well as can be expected. As there have been some requests for his present address, which has been changed since the close of school, it is 910 Summit Ave., Bronx, N. Y. His many friends in Thorsby wish for him a speedy recovery.

JUNIOR GIRLS SEWING CLUB

The Junior Girls Sewing Club met on Tuesday afternoon, of last week, at the home of Patty and Anita Campbell for their regular weekly meeting. An interesting program was presented under the direction of Charlene Williams. Mrs. Campbell continued her series of talks to the Club on "The Charm of Fine Manners," giving us this time, many helpful points on Good Manners in the Church. At the close of the program, Mrs. J. O. Johnson had charge of the sewing instructions. We are very busy at present, making vestments to wear at our special church service in September. Miss Gail Gletty assisted Mrs. Johnson in fitting and cutting the vestments. The hostesses served appropriate refreshments, and we adjourned to go immediately to the Church for our regular weekly choir practice.

Government Fiscal Outlook

Washington—Secretary Morgenthau gave this summary of the government's fiscal outlook when he testified at a congressional tax hearing Saturday. Estimated expenditures for current fiscal year, ending June 30, 1941—$12,058,000,000. Estimated revenues (exclusive of proposed new excess profits tax)—$6,367,000,000. Net deficit, $5,691,000,000. Approved and pending appropriations and contract authorizations for army—$6,809,000,000; for navy—$7,893,000,000. Total national defense outlay so far voted by Congress—$4,702,000,000. Estimated actual cash defense costs this fiscal year—five billion dollars. Present federal debt—$43,803,196,540. Estimated debt June 30, 1941, (exclusive of proposed new tax)—$48,700,000,000.

The U. S. Crop Reporting Board estimates that Alabama's cotton crop will be 697,000 bales.

In Memory

Of my dear husband W. H. Killingsworth. A precious one from me has gone. A voice I loved is stilled. A place made vacant in 'home' That never can be filled. Many months he suffered and stood it the best. Until God called him away to rest. My heart with sorrow that day did fill. When he was called away by God's great will. God in wisdom has recalled The soul his love hath given. And though the body slumbers here He is safe in heaven. Farewell loved one you are at rest. With a heavenly crown you are blessed. By his broken hearted companion Annie Killingsworth

Trust Fund Interest

Since the first deposit was made in the United States treasury Alabama's unemployment trust fund has earned nearly $700,000 in interest, which has been credited to the fund and is available for benefits in the future.

GENERAL HUGH S. JOHNSON Says:

AS TO PERSHING'S SUGGESTION NEW YORK—General Pershing says that we ought to sell 50 "obsolete" destroyers to England to save our own country from Germany. On the same subject George Fielding Eliot says:

"The question which we have to ask ourselves is a plain one. It ought not to be befuddled by such non-essentials as whether the transfer of destroyers to Great Britain would or would not be 'an act of war.' It would be of course, but that is only an academic question. The legal definitions of international conduct... are now obsolete."

It seems that everything is now obsolete as far as it suits the purpose of those who are hell-bent on getting this country into a war for which it is completely unprepared. The destroyers are "obsolete." Our own engagements in treaties and conventions and the things we have always stood and sometimes fought for, in international law, "obsolete."

As to the destroyers being "obsolete": If they are, how does it happen, as men of this opinion intimate or argue, that the battle of Britain, the fate of the world's freedom and the safety of our own country depend upon sending them to Britain? As an American officer said when it was being argued that we ought also to send over a million "obsolete" Springfield rifles, "No rifle is obsolete that will kill a man with an aimed shot at 1,500 yards—especially when you have nothing with which to replace it."

A ship doesn't necessarily become "obsolete" or "surplus" simply because it is 16 years old.

Nobody has shown this more clearly and honestly than Major Eliot. I don't know his qualifications as a naval expert, but applying well known published naval standards and opinions as to the proper ratio of destroyers to battle ships, Major Eliot showed that practically none of these destroyers is surplus or can be taken without stripping our own navy. They are no more "surplus" than "obsolete."

Just as a sidelight, most of them are armed with four-inch and three-inch guns, as well as with anti-aircraft guns. Except for World War 75 mm. artillery (about three-inch), cannon of higher caliber and anti-aircraft guns are what we do not have, what we most need and what we have the least prospect of getting quickly.

In Mr. Knudsen's last progress report as published, "bottle-neck" items of procurement were discussed as well as those in which there were no bottle-necks. But he didn't mention cannons. He probably didn't mention them because the trouble there isn't just a bottle-neck. It's a needle's eye and a flock of camels.

Major Eliot is very frank and very accurate in calling the shipment of destroyers an "act of war." It is war itself. But it is vicarious war—undercover war. The kind of war we have always condemned and pledged ourselves not to wage. The weakness of this position seems to me to be this: Our policy always has been not to be aggressors in any war. We fight only when we are attacked or threatened.

These war minded men are put in the position of having to say, and they do say, that we are so threatened now—to the death: If that is not true, then we ought not to go to war—even to the kidnapping, bootleg war. If it is true, then we ought to go to war tomorrow—with everything we have. In a fight to a knockout you can't "hit soft."

LINDBERGH AND PERSHING

You can get a sample taste of what "can happen here" from the debate in the senate blasting Charles Lindbergh's speech.

Three New Deal senators, than whom there are none whicker, danced around the torture stake: Milton, Pepper and—with deep blushes for my own home state of Oklahoma—that ineffable ex-teacher of elocution and Desarte, Josh Lee.

These gentlemen offered to disembowel Lindbergh for saying that if we are going to do business at all after this war is over, we will have to do it with both victor and vanquished, even if the victor is Germany, that we shall have to reconcile ourselves to this idea and that it would be wise to try to intercede to stop this war before it destroys any more of civilization.

Some journals imply that Lindbergh's speech had been ghost-written by Nazis and contrasted it with General Pershing's urging that we send part of our navy—50 destroyers—into this war by the subterfuge of "selling" them.

I disagree with part of what Lindbergh said, but the man who denies his right to say it as being un-American convicts himself thereby of an un-American state of mind out-Hittlering Hitler.

Black Jack at 80 is still one of the world's great soldiers, but he knows as little naval strategy as I. George Eliot unconsciously "obsolete" his text at the moment of its utterance. However, it may later be dragged by the apostate Knox. I happen to know that the navy doesn't agree with General Pershing.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to express my heartfelt thanks and appreciation to my many friends and neighbors and relatives during the illness and death of my husband. Also thanks to Bro. J. T. Daniel for his words of sympathy, and also Dr. Golden and his kind nurse for their help and comfort for him during his suffering. They cheered and made it easier for him. Words cannot express my appreciation but the Lord knows my heart when I say that I appreciate it. Yours very resp Mrs. Annie Killingsworth

Bibb Graves Will Teach Fraternal Bible Class Sunday

The Fraternal Bible Class of Montgomery, Alabama, every Sunday from 9:30 to 10:15 holds its services at the Strand Theatre, in that City. It is customary at these exercises to have a talk made at its meeting either by visiting lecturers or by the Class Teacher, Mr. Warren S. Reese, Jr.

Mr. John Stacey, President of the Class states that he is pleased to announce that on Sunday next, (August 18th), Ex-Governor Bibb Graves will make a talk to the Class upon a Biblical text, the nature of which is to be announced later.

Knowing the Governor's ability to handle subjects of this nature, it is believed that a large congregation from Montgomery and adjoining counties will be on hand to hear him.

All who desire to attend are cordially invited by the Fraternal Bible Class to be on hand that day.

The Dear House

By RALPH MILLER

(Associated Newspapers.) (WNU Service)

DEEP in Minna's heart was her dream of the dear house. And then she married Ted Byram and came to No. 1 Peters street, one of a dun-painted row of just-alike uglies.

She hated it from the first. Nothing fitted. Wall spaces were wrong, the windows too narrow, stock-size rugs would not fit the floors and the wallpaper was hideous.

Ted beamed at the results, however, while she choked down the lump in her throat to smile back at him.

"Grand little place!" he would crow. "Old Peters should see it."

G. H. Peters, millionaire, in his pink villa in Florida!

"Glad you like it, Ted, but we will begin to save right now for a house of our own," she announced firmly.

They saved rigorously until interrupted at the end of the first year by fat little Theodore. Many things checked their headway after that, up to their second interruption, which was Wilhelm's, also fat and adorable.

The case against No. 1 Peters street grew with the larger family. The little beds and chiffoniers took all the space in the bedrooms, and there was no place for the perambulator or kiddie car downstairs.

Minna brought her dream of the dear house to the fore, and again began saving for it. Ted took extra work at the mill to help out. G. H. Peters was still in Florida and his agent refused paint and paper.

Then one day—Minna called it her black Friday—he ran home.

"Minnal! Merry Christmas! Happy New Year! Birthday surprise!"

"What have you done, Ted?" Why should her heart be leader?

"G. H. Peters is home and is closing out his loose real estate. He gave me a wonderful bargain on this house and I snapped it up. You are a grand little saver, for we have enough for the down payment, and the rest will be like rent. Why, Minna—don't cry. I never knew that you wanted a home so badly!"

At first she sobbed convulsively, while he petted and coaxed her. Finally she could smile and say brokenly:

"It will be lovely to own a home, Ted!"

The dear house was gone. All her life this ugly, tucked-up, dun-colored hovel would offend her eye and cramp her living. There were days when even the pranks of funny little Teddy or the chuckles of Willy could not cheer her, but she did her best to keep a good face before Ted.

One day when she was downtown, getting the children's hair trimmed, Ted called the shop, agitatedly.

"Come home as fast as you can, Minna. The two houses back of us are burning, and they say ours may go, too. Some of the boys from the mill will go over with me and help get the things out."

Maybe the dear house would come now!

She could not hurry toward the black cloud which hung over Peters street. Teddy's short little legs and plump Willy in her stroller held her back.

Would they get the children's toys? Her Bavarian tea set with the wheat-heads—and the Quimper bowl! The flames would break through the window where they sat in the evening to watch for Ted. And the gable upstairs, by Teddy's bed, where he watched the pigeons against the sky—the little peach tree by the kitchen—the folding breakfast table Ted had made—the old linen cloth she had dyed to make spreads for it only last week—to match the voile curtains.

As she hurried, sobbing under her breath, a flood of comprehension engulfed her.

No. 1 Peters street was not ugly. Why, it was the dear house, and it had loved her all the years while she had been hating it! She never knew it until she had to lose it.

Smoke and tramping feet, shouts and hissing water, piles of furniture and clothing watched over by an officer, and a billow of smoke sweeping over the peaked roof. She turned and hid her face against the corner tree.

Then Ted's arm around her, his black coat smiling at her.

"It's all right, Minna—the fire caught the roof-peak at the back, but they got it out right away. It's all right, dear, don't cry!"

"Oh, Ted," she gasped. "You saved the dear house!"

"We did—the smoking needn't matter, for I was intending to have it remodeled for your birthday present. Now we needn't wait, but can go right to work. A larger living room, open stairs, a sun parlor, breakfast room, with an extra room, a sleeping porch and lots of closets upstairs. The plans are drawn, waiting your approval. Later we'll buy the place next door, sell the house off and have a real lawn, with shrubbery, hedge, a pool and everything!"

Oblivious for Teddy and Willy, to the laboring firemen and the eyes of curious strangers, they gazed at each other enraptured. Then her belated loyalty asserted itself.

"It will be grand, Ted, but without any of it, it is the dear house, just the same!"

Auto Quiz No. 10 ANSWERS

1. c. clear. Note that this question refers to fatal accidents. Most of us have learned to fear snow, rain and fog, and we drive accordingly. There are many minor mishaps in such weather, but because few of us drive at high speed under these conditions, fatal accidents occur more rarely than one would suspect.

2. f. 720 feet. As speed is increased, the car requires an increased turning radius. This radius increases as the square of the speed. Thus, when speed is doubled, the safe turning radius is quadrupled; when speed is tripled the safe turning radius is nine times longer. An appreciation of these facts will explain many accidents on curves.

3. c. high. Under any other conditions this would be considered a driving error. Using the gentler gear maintains the light friction which exists between the tires and ice, mud or clay. Be sure, however, that you engage the clutch with all possible care and slowness.

Weather Clearer: Motorists Are Urged to Use Caution

Roads dry; weather clear. Motorists are advised to drive with extreme care and caution while these dangerous conditions prevail.

If you were to read this report in the paper you would surely believe somebody was joking, but statistics indicate the advice is sound.

More than 86 per cent of all fatal motor vehicle accidents in 1939 occurred when the weather was clear. Only 1.3 per cent happened when it was snowing, 2.2 per cent during fog, and 9.8 per cent when it was raining. Contrary to popular belief, the vast majority of fatalities occurred when the road surface was dry, rather than when rain, snow or ice covered the pavements.

These pertinent facts are revealed in a booklet "Smash Hits of the Year" just published by The Travelers Insurance Company as the tenth in its annual series of analytical bulletins issued in the interest of safety on the streets and highways.

The figures indicate that clear weather and dry roads encourage speeding and carelessness, the booklet asserts. Slippery streets bring on a bumper crop of broken bumpers and other minor mishaps, but fatalities and serious injuries are comparatively infrequent.

MRS. J. HANCE ALRED COMPLIMENTS MISS SARA HOLLIS

One of the prettiest parties of the season was one last Wednesday afternoon, when Mrs. J. Hance Alred entertained Miss Sara Hollis of Mitchell, Mo., whose marriage to Malheur Thomas Duncan of Sheffield and Lexington will take place at an early date.

A profusion of summer flowers in effective arrangement was used throughout the living room, hall and gift room.

In the dining room the bridal motif was most attractively carried out. The dining table was covered with an Italian cut work cloth and centered with a crystal bowl of Madonna and Rubrum lilies, aster and pink tube roses. Tall white tapers in crystal holders burned at each end of the table. A miniature bridal party dressed in rainbow colors was artistically arranged with the centerpiece of the table as a beautiful background. Nuts and mints were placed at intervals on the table.

The receiving line was composed of Mrs. Alred, the hostess, who wore black lace with corsage of rubrum lilies, Mrs. John Hollis, mother of the bride-elect, who was becomingly dressed in flesh and black chiffon. Her corsage was of pink lilies and baby breath. The bride elect was most attractive in a gown of blue Mouseline De Soire with a corsage of pink sweetheart roses. Misses Mildred Johnson and Montine Dickinson of Lincoln, Ala., Miss Geraldine Hollis, Miss Betty Hollis and Miss Jerry Alred also stood in the receiving line.

The hostess was assisted by Mrs. James Wade, Mrs. J. Lee Smith, Miss Mary Courtney Jones, Miss Helen Moore, Mrs. Grady Reynolds, Mrs. Arthur Johnson, Mrs. Julius Burnett, Mrs. Omar Reynolds, Mrs. Dick Hayes, Mrs. J. C. Page and Mrs. Alex Creigh of Montgomery.

The linen gifts were displayed in the guest room. Refreshments carrying the colors of green and white were served to about a hundred guests from four to six. Mrs. M. F. Neisson and Mrs. B. C. Surtzer of Birmingham were the out of town guests.

Mrs. Horace Willis of Montgomery spent Monday in Clanton.

Mrs. Clyde Clackler, Mrs. Horace Popwell and Mrs. Joe Mims spent Tuesday in Montgomery.

Mrs. Geraldine and Helen Hubbard spent Monday with friends in Clanton.

Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Breedlove and Mrs. Greer Smith of Sylacauga were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Breedlove.

MISS SARA HOLLIS COMPLIMENTS MISS JOHNSON OF LINCOLN, ALABAMA

Miss Sara Hollis of Mitchell, Mo. entertained at a lovely luncheon on Thursday of last week honoring her house guest, Miss Mildred Johnson of Lincoln, Ala., whose marriage to Mr. Bill Roberts of Talladega will take place August 31st.

The home was decorated in baskets of garden flowers.

The luncheon table was covered with a lace cloth and the centerpiece was a bride's hat with which pink veil and held pink and white lilies, asters and tube roses.

The honoree was presented with a beautiful crystal bowl.

The guest list included Misses Mary Courtney Jones, Helen Moore, Montine Dickinson, of Lincoln, Deonie Hollis, Mrs. John Higgins and Mrs. Earl Gray.

Mrs. Jerry Burke and son are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Pitts.

Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Williams visited friends and relatives here the first of the week.

Hair Coloring, Disposition Show Definite Relation

The frequently expressed theory that there is no greater difference between blonde, brunette and red-haired women than between three automobiles of the same model painted in different colors has been disproved by British scientists.

The three types, scientists declare, are as distinct from each other as three human races, and there is ample evidence that they have been distinct races before humanity became so thoroughly mixed up by emigration and intermarriage.

The striking differences between the three types of women include the fact that a blonde averages 150,000 separate hairs on her head, a brunette has between 80,000 and 130,000, and a redhead may have as few as 25,000 because red hair is coarser than blonde or brunette.

Blondes skins are not really white, nor are brunettes' skins really brown. They each contain large quantities of red, orange, yellow, green, blue indigo and violet. A blonde has more yellow in her skin than a brunette, a brunette has less green or green blue than a blonde and "redheads" have a more equal blending of all the colors.

A blonde really can turn green when the blood leaves her cheeks as a result of the sudden shock or nausea, because the extra green pigment in her skin then becomes more prominent, the scientists explained.

Blondes and redheads are susceptible to skin affections. A real brunette virtually is immune. Brunettes seldom suffer from infantile paralysis and disease of the nervous system. Blondes are martyrs to the common cold, influenza and disease of the lungs. Brunettes usually have the best teeth. Blondes and redheads are more prone to rheumatism and rheumatic fever.

There is also a great mental as well as a physical difference between the three types. Blondes give way to excesses of rage and grief. They are more likely to kill those who have thwarted them than the other types.

MOVIE FEATURES PASTURE PROFITS

Hollywood gives us movies which star dogs, elephants, penguins, and even a pig like the one Will Rogers cherished in "State Fair." But "Green Acres," an all-color movie now making the rounds of farm meetings, is the first one to elevate "Bossy," the milch cow, to stardom. Included in her supporting cast are beef cattle, sheep, hogs, and horses. But "Bossy" tells all the fat lines—and that's no joke as farmers will observe when they see the picture at one of their farm meetings.

The picture tells the story of pasture improvement which today is making its way into the front rank of up-to-date profitable farming practices. "Despite the fact that pasture is the cheapest feed that can be grown for any kind of livestock, pasture improvement is just beginning to receive the serious attention it deserves," said R. H. Lush, Pasture Specialist, The National Feeder Association, and co-director of "Green Acres." "It is a crop that responds to plant food lime, and good management. Results of hundreds of experiments and demonstrations conducted by State Experiment Stations have spot-lighted its value to every farmer."

"Every well-fed cow," said Mr. Lush, "eats the equivalent of 100 pounds of grass a day. The cost of producing 100 pounds of digestible nutrients from oats is $2.02; from corn silage $1.54; from corn grain $1.88 while pasture produces this amount for $0.64."

The results of 34 experiments also showed that the cost of producing 100 pounds of beef on unimproved unfertilized pasture was $4.05, while the cost on fertilized pasture was only $2.71. The same experiment showed that unfertilized pasture produced only 12.6 cans of milk per acre, while the treated pasture made 44 cans.

Results of 7 years experiments at Tifton, Georgia, show unimproved pastures produced only 65 pounds of beef cattle per acre, while carpet grass and legume pastures fertilized produced 291 pounds of beef per acre.

CARD OF THANKS

Since God in his infinite wisdom has seen fit to take from us our husband and father, we find solace and comfort in an abiding faith in the Savior and in the love, sympathy and material assistance given us by hundreds of friends and relatives.

It is impractical for us to convey our heartfelt gratitude in person to all of those who were so generous and kind to us during the long illness and death of Dr. T. J. Marcus, we shall be grateful to the Press in Clanton if they will extend our sincere thanks through their columns to everyone.

Mrs. T. J. Marcus and family.

Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Chapell and Charles left Monday, August 12 for Norfolk, Virginia; Washington, D. C. and New York City. Charles is a native of Norfolk.

L & N Makes Fewer Stops For Water

It cost money to stop and start a passenger or freight train, because of the additional amount of fuel consumed and the L. & N. Railroad is constantly seeking ways and means to reduce the number of stops a train must make, in order to conserve fuel, according to the August 1940 issue of the L. & N. Magazine. A number of such stops are made for water and the L. & N. has recently been doing some satisfactory experimental work in reducing the number of these stops, by having engines carry a greater supply of water. This has been achieved through the use of double tanks and, in the case of Engine No. 266, by increasing the capacity of its water tank from 10,000 gallons to 14,000 gallons. No. 266 is thereby permitted to haul "The Pan-American" between Cincinnati and Mobile with five less stops for water.

The article also states that by the use of double tanks, heavy fast freight trains have made the 143-mile trip between Mobile and New Orleans without a single stop between the two terminals.

GENERAL HUGH S. JOHNSON Says:

United Nations WHO Service

A VISIT WITH WILLKIE

COLORADO SPRINGS puts a columnist on the spot. He is invited by a presidential candidate to give his (the columnist's) views on public questions to be taken or rejected as the candidate sees fit. It is a spot because a newspaperman's job is to take—no give—opinions, and to use what he can glean to inform the public. In this reversal of roles, I can't be talking about Mr. Willkie's views, as disclosed in two long sessions here, because he has to be absolutely fair to the press, and that means no favorites or opinions in interviews. I can't for another reason, which is that he is my friend and talks in as complete confidence as a man would indulge in with his own brother.

The net result from a newspaperman's viewpoint of a 3,200-mile airplane hop to interview Mr. Willkie is just like taking a dish of spinach to a luxurious banquet or being invited to dig freely in a diamond mine with a pair of eyebrow tweezers.

It's a spot, but his Colorado Springs setting on the edge of the Rockies at Pike's Peak is one of the most pleasant and beautiful spots on God's footstool, so I think I can survive the mental anguish.

It is telling no tales to say, from observation here and elsewhere, that Mr. Willkie is surely continuing the process of selling himself on sight. Little Mary Pickford, who had lunch with us, went away in raptures. She has marvelously preserved her stature in public respect and adoration—and otherwise. She is going to be a help.

If enough potential crusaders like Mary can meet Mr. Willkie in such circumstances, his lack of an old-fashioned political organization won't count for so much.

There is no question of his appeal and political "It" in personal contacts, whether it is with single individuals or in crowds. He has all that it takes. What remains to be seen, is what he can do on the radio and the content of his speeches. The Republican platform was so indefinite that Mr. Willkie will have to chart the party course almost single-handed. It is some chore!

The Republicans were leading at this stage of the 1936 campaign, but from the very day of Mr. Landon's undistinguished opener at West Middlesex they started on a toboggan slide that left them two states. Mr. Landon's theme was: "The New Deal is perfect, but I can deal it better. That left no issue, save one of personalities. As between Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Landon, that was just no contest.

There will be a contest in that field this time. Some people say that in his engaging exterior, Mr. Willkie is just another Roosevelt. Nothing could be further from the truth. The only point of similarity is that they are both pleasant gentlemen. Mr. Roosevelt's charm is that of a cultured actor. Mr. Willkie's is far more roughshod and homely. I believe that most people will regard it as more genuine.

But he is going to need more than that. He will have to make issues far more clear than they are today and convince people that his is the right side.

One handicap of Mr. Landon was that Col. Frank Knox and Ogden Mills were speaking with him—but not the same language.

Mr. Willkie may have a similar problem. Mr. Hoover is going to make at least two speeches. He is a thoughtful, experienced and respected American, but Mr. Hoover's speeches represent Mr. Hoover's doctrine and nothing else whatever. They will be attempts not to sell Willkie, but to sell the present edition of Hooverism—which may be something as different as Knox and Mills from Alfred Landon.

That would be one great handicap and there are many others. However, Mr. Willkie's life habit has been overcoming seemingly impossible handicaps, like getting a Democrat nominated on a Republican ticket. None of these new ones compares with that. Let's wait and see.

TRAINING PILOTS

Unconfirmed stories about the Germans sending partly trained boys to attack in flits, flying on only one or two ships equipped with modern instruments and piloted by really trained leaders may be true. They also may explain the astonishing British claims of bringing down three or four German ships for every one they lose.

That is too expensive a policy, and we certainly do not want to risk cities, ships, convoys—not to mention young lives and costly planes—on that kind of training.

The Civil Aeronautics administration is exerting great efforts to get some interest and primary training into young men by subsidizing older pilots to train them—at so much a head—for eight hours with dual control. Then the kid goes up solo.

After that he has 22 hours—altogether 30. He isn't supposed to be a pilot, but to have had his primary training—$325 worth.

Will the army and navy entrust its expensive military ships to these boys? Almost certainly no.

MT. CARMEL

Church services were well attended Saturday night and Sunday. Two came for baptism making a total of fourteen. Eleven of these being baptized on Saturday following the revival. Three were baptized last Sunday afternoon at Gale Creek.

All members are urged to be at church the first Sunday in September as this is the time to elect Sunday school officers and teachers, B.Y.P.U. leaders, also the pastor for the ensuing year. Be much in prayer concerning this important matter.

"Ma" Sewell is still hoping to recover her purse that was lost during the revival as it contained her glasses and other valuables she would like to have. The purse is of dark blue crocheted and was lost between the church and Clanton.

Miss Everee Foshee spent last week with an Aunt, Mrs. Tony Connell of Cane Creek.

Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Askins and children are spending several days with his parents near Cane Creek.

Little Barbara Sue Raspberry of Clanton is spending this week with her grand parents Mr. and Mrs. Lum Williams.

Mrs. Will Deshaso of Isabella spent a while Saturday afternoon with an old friend, (whom she had not seen in about 60 years) Mrs. S. C. Sewell.

Mrs. Odie Sewell and children of Clanton stayed with Mrs. Silos Oden from Wednesday last week till Sunday.

Rev. and Mrs. Nix went to Montgomery last Friday night to visit Mrs. Nix parents.

Rev. and Mrs. Hodges left last Friday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Royce Smith spent Sunday with the Lenoir family.

Bro. Allen Ruff and wife spent a day or two with Bro. Hodges and wife at their camping place here last week.

Dorothy Williams spent last week with her sister in Clanton.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wilson have been in Clanton for some time on account of illness of Mrs. Wilson's sister.

The McIntosh family moved from here last week.

Mrs. Curtis Sewell and children of Bessemer spent last week with relatives here in Clanton.

AUTOMOBILE PAYMENTS

Because of the widespread automobile ownership in the United States, most car owners have some kind of a vehicle to trade in when acquiring another car. Such vehicles ordinarily serve as a down payment, and most of the ensuing payments do not exceed $50. Thus, most automobile transactions in the United States involve payments of less than $50 at any one time.

MAHAN HEADS MAYORS

W. B. Mahan, Mayor of Russellville, who was appointed to serve out the unexpired term of Jimmie Jones, deceased, was elected president of the Alabama League of Municipalities at its annual meeting which closed at Huntsville Friday.

MADDOX REUNION

A very enjoyable day was passed as the Maddox family and relatives gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Omar Beasley for their annual reunion. The early morning was spent in talking and laughing. Later a very interesting talk was given by Rev. W. S. Cox and Bro. Robert Cost. Then a bountiful dinner was spread on a table in the yard. Those present were as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Omar Beasley and three sons, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Beasley and little daughter, Mr. W. E. Maddox of Clanton, Mr. and Mrs. George Littleton, Mr. A. T. Robinson of Thorsby, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Robinson and two grandchildren Doris and Margaret Cobb, Mr. and Mrs. Fortenberry and four children, Mrs. J. H. Jones, Miss Hildon Bussey, Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Jones and son, Mr. and Mrs. V. C. McKee and two children, Mr. Cecil McKee, Miss Inez McKee, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Maddox and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Austin Maddox and three children, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Maddox all of Birmingham, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Maddox and three children, Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Beasley and son, Rev. W. S. Cox and Rev. Robert Cost, Mrs. L. L. Beasley and son of Calera, Mrs. E. L. Henley and son, Eugenia Foshee, Olenie Dennis, Chester Edwards of Birmingham, Miss Francis Terry of Birmingham.

The afternoon was spent talking and laughing of old time until late, when every one departed for their homes with the expectation of another enjoyable day next year.

Mr. and Mrs. J. N. McKee also attended.

Equal Rights for All

BEYOND the Statue of Liberty, to the very lies a nation of free people . . . people still make their own laws in the interest of rights for all. In Alabama there are a scattering few beer retailers who refuse to obey the Alcoholic Beverage Control law . . . a law preserving the equal rights and privileges for those gaged in selling beer at retail. [Recognizing the existence of these few law-violators, the beer industry of Alabama is engaged in a self-regulating program of cooperation with law enforcement officials, seeking the elimination of the undesirable element which refuses to subscribe to "equal rights for all." 1,000 Nazi Bombing Planes Launch 'History's Greatest Mass Air Raid'; Aliens in U. S. Start Registration; Aircraft 'Bottleneck' Slows Defense

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
Released by Western Newspaper Union

A French soldier and sailor are pictured here reading the poster written by General De Gaulle, head of the French military forces in England. It reads: "To all Frenchmen: France has lost a battle—but France has not lost the war."

THE WAR: Greatest in History

From Wales to Scotland, German bombers attacked the island of Great Britain in what was being called the "greatest mass air attack in history." Always before as the planes attacked, their numbers would be reported in fives and tens at this time dispatches from both Berlin and London indicated that there were hundreds of planes in the air.

One official British source estimated that in a single day a Nazi armada of more than 1,000 planes had rained bombs on all of England—from Scotland's border right through the midlands to Wales. When London itself was bombed for the first time during the war as the German pilots dropped tons of high explosives up and down the river Thames, concentrating on a terrific back upon famed Croydon airport, one of Europe's largest and best equipped landing fields.

It was usual both Germany and England claimed that the enemy came at second best. England said that her famous fighter planes had driven off the Nazis in time to prevent great damage. But Berlin, while at first admitting that London had been bombed, did claim that the entire Thames valley witnessed the attack, al, irresistible German air forces which threaten all military establishments with destruction."

Southern Exposure

Mussolini has chosen to attempt the Italian version of a blitzkrieg in Africa. He sent 250,000 soldiers breaking across British Somaliland to control of the Suez canal and the British lifeline to India as stakes of the gamble.

The campaign will be hot in more ways than one. This is the time of the year when intense heat of more than 120 degrees grips Somaliland and the monsoon blows from midday to mid-afternoon. Clouds give relief from the enervating sun but there is little rainfall. The British hold all the best oases, where men must drink or die.

ALIENS: (Have, have not) . . .

Five million questionnaires in six languages are being distributed to aliens living within the United States. All must answer 15 searching questions asked by the government before December 26. Where that time also all residents have been born or naturalized must be fingerprinted.

Most pertinent query reads: "Within the past five years I (have, have not) been affiliated with or active in (a member of, official of, a sponsor for) organizations devoted in whole or in part to influencing or Manuel Quezon, president of the Philippines, was voted virtual dictator powers by the national assembly. He has control over wages, farming, industry, profits, transportation, rents and prices.

Lady Byng, widow of the one-time British field marshal, arrived in the United States as a refugee. Of the value of German bombing she said: "It was a bit wearying."

Fugitive

Patricia Wynn-Williams, little refugee from London—a fugitive from an aerial blitzkrieg—is pictured as she arrived in New York, en route for Chicago, where she and her sister will stay with friends until the war is over. She seemed a bit bashful as the cameraman pleads for a "big smile."

BUILDING PLANES: Speed Up

U. S. arsenals and navy yards went on 24-hour schedule as contracts for arms, ammunitions and ships began to pour out of the office of the national defense commission. Many industrial plants, bidding on thousands of articles needed to equip and train an army, also were given orders amounting to billions of dollars.

Bottleneck

Production of vitally needed airplanes still is the headache of all concerned. William Knudsen, production chief of the NDC, said American factories now are prepared to turn out planes at the rate of 10,000 a year and by next January will have speeded up to the rate of 18,000 a year.

But immediately following this announcement came the depressing news from War Secretary Stimson that although congress had appropriated money for 4,000 fighting planes, contracts had been let for only 33 of them.

And national guardsmen on maneuvers at the Canadian border are without equipment. Trucks are used as make-believe heavy tanks, station wagons simulate light tanks, logs are passed off as cannon, and gas pumps have signs warning those to whom it may concern that "this is an anti-tank gun."

Stimson said businessmen wanted to know, before they undertook contracts, how they would be taxed, as well as assurance of tax credits for the cost of plant expansion. Stimson said a company which undertook building of new factories for defense orders was taking an abnormal risk because the plants might turn out useless in case of "a sudden cessation of the emergency."

On the QT

Inside dope is that some airplane companies are waiting for congress to make up its mind about taxes. Planes are being produced and put on the shelf. When congress passes the tax legislation, planes will be available at once.

MISCELLANY: Touring

Mrs. Alice Cornelius of Glen Head, N. Y., parked her car on a hill and went shopping. The car was missing when she returned. So she walked down to the police station at the foot of the street to report it. She found: A wall of the police station smashed in, furniture wrecked, a stove overturned, and, halfway up to the chief's desk, her automobile.

Nation Works At 100 Dominant Occupations

More than three-fourths of all citizens in the United States, according to Dean R. T. Strohm, International Correspondence Schools, earn their living in 100 dominant occupations. This is true, he said, although it has been determined by research that there are more than 17,500 distinct occupations which may be followed.

Mr. Strohm said the 100 dominant occupations or jobs may be subdivided into 19 professional occupations, 9 managerial and official, 19 clerical and sales, 22 craft, 12 operating and 19 personal domestic service workers, including laborers.

The educational institution which Dean Strohm represents has, during the 50 years of its existence, enrolled more than 4,000,000 men and women. The schools have organized adult training for 32 of the 100 fields in which people are most actively engaged.

It is interesting to note, the dean said, that in the first 30 years of this century when machines and factories grew like mushrooms, the number of jobs kept ahead of the increase in population. In that 30 years the country's population increased from 76 million to 123 million, or a growth of 62 per cent. In the same 30 years, the number of gainfully employed workers increased from 29 million to 48 million, or an increase in employment of 66 per cent. Thus, the instructor said, jobs increased faster than population.

Dean Strohm said that the United States would have had an even greater number of unemployed persons today than it has if there had been a steady outpouring of inventions and mass-production methods. It took the inventive genius of the nation working at radio, electrical appliances, talking movies and improvements in the automobile and airplane to give the nation the economic balance possible today, according to the educator.

These dividends will aggregate approximately $585,000.

Big Melons Down Covington Way

Due to the increasing interest in the watermelon contest, which is being sponsored by the (Floral) News, one participant has brought in three melons with weights totaling one hundred and ninety-four pounds in an effort to win one of the three prizes offered. No one contestant may be awarded more than one prize but this particular "melon enthusiast" continued bringing in melons, each weighing more than the one he previously brought.

In addition to the melons, one resident having no melons, "broke into the news" by presenting us with two pumpkins, their weights totaling one hundred and ten pounds. Deciding to place the melons and pumpkins together, we found that their total weights were three hundred and four pounds for the five items. This was a most interesting display as vouchered for by passer-by who stopped and amused themselves by trying to figure out the weights—Floral News.

Mark Remarks:

The one thing needing emphasis in Chilton County more than any other is cooperative marketing of products, after full cooperation has been given in proper grading and preparing for market. The annual loss to Chilton County farmers in price, for lack of preparation of products, would more than pay for the cost of processing, grading and refrigeration.

According to his own statement John Cudahy, ambassador to Belgium, was not rebuked for his utterances in London. So the starving children of Belgium may yet get a few thin slices of that popular American brand of bacon this Winter.

The European war could never have reached its present magnitude except through conscription of civilians for military conquest.

A howl went up that was heard across the Continent when Lindbergh said we would have to trade with Europe regardless of who wins the war. Frank Knox, Secretary of the Navy is quoted as saying: "Should England be defeated by Germany we will be left without a friend in the world." Do your own thinking.

There is entirely too much "L" in Wendell L. Willkie for this to be a mild-mannered campaign.

The news coming from war-torn Europe is as unreliable as a "Gallup Poll."

Everyone agrees that all wars are wrong. Yet Greed goes right on and starts another one, and nobody interferes.

Starting conscription at 18 and going up instead of starting at 75 and coming down is all wrong. Kill off the old and infirm and save the young and virile to perpetuate and improve the race.

"Out of the frying pan into the fire." James Grant has left his Ashford Southeast Alabamian and gone to Canada to join the Royal Air Force.

Yes, there is going to be famine in both Europe and Asia this winter, and who can deny that we here in the United States have helped to bring it on.

We will have to wait awhile before appraising Ambassador Bullitt as a dum-dum or just a plain dud.

Notwithstanding the conflicting reports coming from the War areas of the world, and the uncertainty and doubt as to the correctness of news reports, there is gradually creeping into the American mass-mind, the belief that we are on the brink of one of the world's greatest crises.

It is perhaps too late, even now to send cruisers to England to again save John Bull's hide. But there is certainly no excuse for dilly-dallying and delaying our own preparedness program.

Piffle and the Duchess

Now that the Duke and Duchess of Windsor have arrived in Bermuda on the way to the Bahamas one great issue has been settled. The wife of the governor of Bermuda curtsied to the Duke and bowed to the Duchess. Thus the pace was set for the remainder of the island residents and Wally was duly put in her place.

What can the boys fighting for England's existence in air, on sea and land think of such foolishness? What do the munitions workers—men and women—think of those who regard such piffle as important? What can laborer and capitalist, side by side with backs to the wall fighting for existence, think of emphasis upon trivia

WE'LL NOT KILL THE GOOSE THAT LAYS THE GOLDEN EGGS

A great deal is being said about a chairman to line the Democrats up for the Democratic nominees in November. The Negro in the woodpile scared the Ex-Governor off the track. THE FARMER'S $1.00

Last week one of our good farmer friends came into the office and said that he didn't have the money to pay his subscription and asked us if we would take some tomatoes, onions and peas. After being informed that we would he went across the street and returned with 15 pounds of tomatoes, 15 pounds of onions and about eight pounds of peas. He said at market price it all would bring about 95c. We were only too glad to give him a year's subscription. As long as the farmer has to sell that much produce for 95c just that long will he remain as poor as Job's turkey.—The Covington News.

THE PLATFORMS

If you have plenty of time on your hands, and can find nothing else to do with it, you might study the platforms of the two major political parties. But don't take either one of them seriously. WHAT TO BELIEVE

Folks who are trying to keep up with what's what about the Blitzkrieg in Britain, and the British counter-offensive, are just about stale-mated nowadays.

There once was a time when one could take the Berlin reports and compare them with the London dispatches and get something that approximated the truth.

Those days are gone, at least for the time being. All dispatches exuding from German-occupied territory, or from beleaguered England, are obviously censored to the nth degree.

In this time of American befuddlement about war news, we are not by ourselves, by any means. In all probability the British people and Germans are kept in the dark just as much as we are. Censorship has blacked out practically all vestiges of truth and fact in war reports at this date. What you believe now becomes largely what you want to believe.—Tusculosa News.

"It's Enough That God Knows"

SAN FRANCISCO—If it were not for the $7,000 in currency and the fact that the little old lady in the shabby dark coat came twice, Mark Cotton, of the Community Chest organization, says he'd think he dreamed this story. The old lady came in last July. Attendants looked at her pityingly, and sought to guide her to the adjustment bureau for personal help. She insisted on seeing Cotton.

"I've just liquidated my assets," she told him. "I find that after taking out enough to take care of myself for the rest of my life, I have a little left over."

She pulled out an envelope from the depths of her bag and drew out 25 $100 bills and 10 $50 bills. "This is for sick children and old people," she said.

She wouldn't give her name. Friday she returned. This time doors were opened with alacrity. She turned over 50 $100 bills, said it was "for the needy," and again refused to tell who she was.

"It's not important that you know who I am," Cotton said she announced with finality. "It's not important that anyone knows who I am. It's enough that God knows."

And off she went.

Sweeter Watermelons

CHARLESTON, S. C.—Note to housewives who have trouble getting watermelons into the refrigerator: A streamlined melon will be on the market on or about May 1, 1942.

Not only will the new melon weigh less—about 23 pounds to the usual average 35 pounds—but, says Dr. Bryan L. Wade, head of the Department of Agriculture's coastal experiment station near here, it will be better in several ways.

It will have bright red meat, will mature about a month earlier than customary and will be sweet and firm.

Another project the experimental station is working on is a new cabbage. Idea is to develop a cabbage that will mature early, be tasty and be cold-resistant.

Prime Defense

Chilton County News has contended all along that well built highways were as necessary in our National Defense program as well built battleships.

John Temple Graves in his This Morning column in The Age-Herald says:

"One of the lessons being learned from army maneuvers all over the country, and especially in the South, is that highways which are worth building at all now are worth building well. Many roads are going to pieces under the heavy traffic of mechanized troops. The nature of any sort of military defense in this country may be called upon to make within its own vast boundaries is such that durable roads in good condition are indispensable. To make sure that every new road which is built is built of good materials is a prime defense measure, surely."

MORAL ECHOES

REV. D. W. HASKEW, D.D.

During the day we see the things that are near us. Even so we look up into the sky we can only see a few miles at the most. The sun is only a revealer of the things that move and live and grow around us. It is the night that reveals to us a thousand fold more than we see in the day. The stars show us celestial depths and heights that we cannot see when the sun is shining. When it is dark we see millions of miles into the vault of the heavens. David was seeing things when he said: "The heavens declare the glory of God and the firmaments showeth his handy works." To the sorrowing, discontented heart, there is no vision like the vision into the night. When dark experiences come, think not my friend that the heavens are brass above you. It is then that you can look up and away to God. Our vision broadens when the dark hours come.

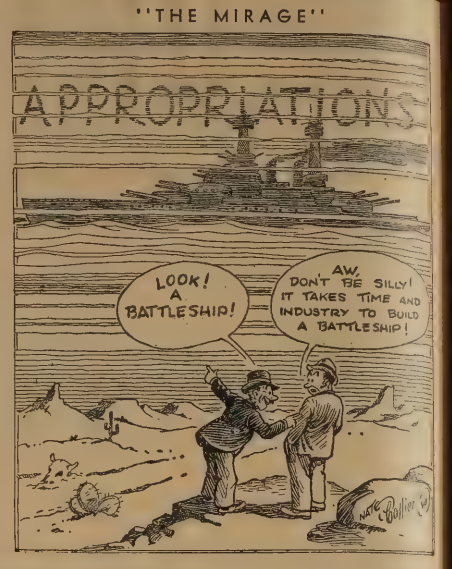

A Chinaman had just arrived in America and knowing a little English he ordered a taxi to the curb and hastily barked this order, "Shay man, drive me out to block a hundred times." The taxi driver being a slave for obedience, drove around and round. When he was on his sixty seventh round the Chinaman leaned out of the window and shouted to the driver, "Shay man, step on it I am in a hurry." This Chinaman had caught the American viewpoint with great haste. He had observed that all Americans were in a great hurry to go places, but that in reality they were just running circles. If we could have some of our own kind would avoid a lot of waste, and doubtless we would know why, when we had arrived. We rush off to places and never know why.

Did you ever observe that concrete roads are made thicker at the edges than they are in the middle? This is done to keep the concrete from breaking and crumbling when it is being bumped from the sides. If the concrete were made thick in the center and thin on the edges, soon the traffic would crumble off the sides and ruin the road. Where should we put the bulk of our force in the building of Character? The most of us gather the force of our strength around a few set principles, but we are not careful to make strong our character where we jostle against the world. Make strong the places where you contact the world and the center will take care of itself.

You remember the story of the English Lord who went elephant hunting. One night this Lord and his native helpers came upon a herd of elephants and all night long they worked to draw a bamboo stockade around them. The next morning the elephants would go to the bamboo vines, but would not attempt to escape over them. There was sufficient strength in the trunk of one elephant to demolish the stockade, but they feared the bamboo poles and were made cautious. When I was young in the ministry I had an old horse that could be fenced in with a cotton string. Elephant and horse had sufficient strength to break over the things that bound them in, but they had rather submit. Fear is holding us back. Adverse conditions without are made to challenge us; not to hold us in captivity. Obstacles are not giants, they are cotton threads.

The ferry boat landed at Red Fish point and sitting there on the shore I saw a group of negroes feasting from a barrel of oysters. I cranked up my car and went down the shell road, and my car swung around to a close curve. I ran in close range to a large bald eagle sitting in the road. He spread his wings and lifted himself into the blue deep. I started thinking of the contrast that is between the oyster and the eagle. What makes the difference? The eagle struggles and strives, while the oyster slides and glides. One fights his way up from earth and danger, while the other lolls and submits to be consumed. I tell you friends, this life is a struggle against the forces that destroy, and with the eagle spirit, we should strive to mount above danger of soul and body.

Birmingham's school-age population has dropped 2000 since 1938.

This Date In Alabama History

(By W. J. Boles in Birmingham News)

THORSBY

Thorsby, a prosperous town on the Louisville and Nashville Railroad, about 50 miles south of Birmingham, and 10 miles north of Clanton, county seat of Chilton County, was founded near the close of the last century. The newcomers were Western and North-western farmers seeking a milder climate where they could pursue their agricultural work for longer periods annually and cultivate a greater variety of products.

A large tract of land had been obtained in advance, and this was cut up into small farms on which the families moved and took up farm activities in their new homes. They devoted their land, their work and their capital to fruit, vegetables, poultry and other crops than cotton.

Strawberries, peaches, watermelons and the many kinds of vegetables that grow abundantly in that section were produced in large quantities. The settlers had had much experience in most of the products prior to coming to Alabama, knew how to cultivate and grade them and markets were soon found for their entire output.

Realizing that an educated farmer is more likely to make a successful farmer, the new citizens soon established the Thorsby Institute where boys and girls were taught the elementary higher courses that would prepare them for the business of making a living becoming intelligent and worthy citizens.

The population of Thorsby in 1840 was 426 and in 1930 it had increased to 771.

Community Packing and Storage Means Profits for the Farmer

The "Open Door" in the Background Leads to the Cold Storage Room

HOW small community packing and cold storage for farm products can be operated by groups of neighboring farmers with profit is shown at the Bienville Farm, near the World's Fair in New York, where a model plant is in operation. By this "share-the-cost" plan the investment by the individual farmer is really small compared with the actual process of handling and packing fruit. The center of attraction for farm folk and city folk alike is the fruit cleaning and grading system. With precision that seems almost human, the fruit grader, for example, finds and drops out all "elder" apples before moving the perfect apples on to the cleaner. The apples pass under a power-driven, oscillating brush-cleaner, while simultaneously a rotary brush whisks them from below. The conveyor then rolls each apple over half a dozen times to facilitate hand-sorting for bruises or other defects. After they have been cleaned, the apples are moved on to a mechanical sorter which, with uncanny accuracy, separates them into sizes, according to grade. Apples packed in this manner command better market—and better prices. A new type of potato and onion cleaning and packing equipment is also shown in operation. Even the most tender of new potatoes can be graded on this electrically-driven equipment, for soft rubber rollers are made ready for the consumer without rehandling. At the Electrified Farm is shown how electricity can be profitably utilized in the farmstead dairy, workshop, barn, poultry house and greenhouse. An exhibit you cannot afford to miss at the Fair if you are interested in up-to-the-minute farm practices!

9:45 a. m. Sunday School.
11:00 a. m. worship service. Subject, "Our Church Covenant."
7:00 p. m. Training Union.
8:00 o'clock evening worship.

The ordinance of baptism will be administered Wednesday evening after the prayer service.

Our annual Training Union Study Courses will begin Monday evening August 26. Our people are cordially invited to attend one of the following classes:

Junior class, book "Living for Jesus," Mrs. Allen Ruff, teacher.

Intermediate class, book, "The Memory of Church Membership," Rev. Allen Ruff, teacher.

Senior class, book, "Fields of Service," teacher to be supplied.

Adults class, book "Growing a Church" Mrs. M. I. McLeod teacher.

We are happy to announce that during the revival which closed Sunday night we had 30 additions to our church membership, 21 of these coming by experience.

THORSBY INSTITUTE

Thorsby Institute will open for the school year 1940-41 on Wednesday, September 11. The opening exercises will be held at 10:00 a. m. The boarding department of the Institute will be filled to capacity and a large enrollment is anticipated. Miss Tinker, a graduate of the Oberlin Conservatory of Music, will be an addition to the faculty, filling the place formerly held by Miss Alice Burr. Miss Marie Waters, of High Shoals, Georgia, will fill the position of commercial teacher and office secretary formerly held by Mrs. W. H. Sudley. Miss Waters prepared at Piedmont College, where she received scholastic recognition in the award of the Torch Pin for scholastic achievement. For the past two years Miss Waters has done secretarial and commercial work for the Appointment Bureau and in the Treasury's office of Piedmont College. Miss Waters is unusually well prepared and recommended for her work at Thorsby Institute.

Professor A. W. Alek, head of the Social Science Department of Evansville College, Evansville, Ind., a former member of the faculty of Thorsby Institute was among the visitors on the campus this week. Mr. Alek who did his first teaching at Thorsby Institute twenty years ago, greatly enjoyed reviewing acquaintances and reminiscences. He was accompanied by Mrs. Alek, a former resident of Birmingham where they have been visiting since their wedding last June.

The Junior Girls Sewing Club met at the home of Eulogene Belter, last Tuesday afternoon. An excellent program was presented by the chairman, which consisted of a one act play entitled "The Unseen". The characters were: Betty Brown, Charlene Williams and Patty Campbell. A reading, "The Pleasant Truth" was given by Betty Lou Wood. Mrs. Campbell gave the fourth in a series of talks "The Charm of Fine Manners." At the close of the program the girls worked on the Vestments they are making from feed sacks. Then a business meeting was held under the direction of the president. The following officers were elected: Secretary, Anita Campbell; Treasurer, Eloise Piper. At the close of the meeting refreshments were served after which we adjourned to the church for choir practice.

SELECTION of people for jobs is in itself a job. Human nature being what it is, and being variable in both the interviewer and the person interviewed, it is no wonder that there are almost as many methods of selecting employees as there are employers. While it is possible to determine physical capacity, it is not so easy to penetrate within the individual and to learn what he has that will enable him to fill a particular position satisfactorily.

Many firms use questionnaires and tests of various kinds in the selection of employees. These tests and questionnaires are not devised to find fault with a person's knowledge, but rather to disclose how well he is prepared for a certain kind of work. The individual is the supreme consideration. Ten men with a similar educational and social background may apply for the same kind of position. If all are hired, it will be found that a few will not be suited to the work and that one or more will definitely turn out to be square pegs in round holes.

The matter of selecting employees, however, is not as important as the training of them. Many businesses frankly state that new employees need not be experienced in any particular line of work. These concerns prefer to train new workers themselves, provided the employees have certain desirable qualifications with which to begin. While it is true that many firms conduct group training plans, such plans only provide a limited amount of instruction. Extensive training is today as in the past the individual's own problem.

GOLDEN WEDDING CELEBRATION

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Peterson held open house to their many friends and neighbors Saturday evening to help them celebrate their Golden Wedding Anniversary. This was postponed from last week because Mrs. Peterson received a letter of a death of a relative. Mr. and Mrs. Peterson received their guests on the porch. Mr. Herbert Peterson Sr., invited them into the living room where the guests registered in the bride's book, presided over by Mrs. Herbert Peterson Jr. Then on to the dining room where Miss Imogene Peterson served refreshments from a lace covered table centered with a large golden ice and decorated cake. Marigolds and golden glow were everywhere in Chrysal bowls. Golden candle light gleamed from chrysal holders.

The guests then went out on the lawn where seats were provided. The lawn was beautifully decorated with Japanese lanterns. Rev. Ensminger and Prof. C. M. Williams gave brief talks and Mr. Chas. A. Peterson the response. The Jr. choir of the Congregational church sang songs. Mrs. Peterson was attired in a soft blue silk with a shoulder corsage of roses and sweet peas tied with golden ribbons. About 100 guests and relatives called during the evening all wishing for this noble couple many more anniversaries together.

Only Four States Tax Cigarettes By Pack

Chicago—Only four of the 26 states which tax cigarettes place the tax on sales by the package, the Federation of Tax Administrators reveals. The states are Alabama, Arizona, Kansas and Oklahoma.

In Arizona and Kansas, the tax is levied per 20 cigarettes, which is the number in the ordinary package. The Oklahoma tax is levied on packages of 10, 20 and 50, while the Alabama tax is placed on packages of 10 or more.

In the other 22 states, cigarette taxes are imposed in various ways—as a percentage of the selling price, or by thousands; by tens or per cigarette.

The federation pointed out that of the seven cities imposing municipal cigarette taxes, five tax by the package. The five are Birmingham, Ala., and Chippewy, DeFuniak Springs, Marianna and Pensacola, Fla.

A SERIOUS PROBLEM

A Menace That Can Become Greater Than Europe's War

Montgomery—For every farm family migrating westward, ten have "moved into the crowded slums" of nearby cities and towns, "there to join the ranks of the unemployed seeking to get on WPA," H. L. Mitchell, secretary of the Southern Tenant Farmers' Union, told a congressional committee today.

Testifying at a three-day inquiry here into migration of the destitute being conducted by a House committee headed by Rep. Tolan (D-Calif.), Mitchell presented a prepared statement entitled "The Source of the Grapes of Wrath."

He held farm laborers should be guaranteed the right to self-organization just as much as industrial workers and proposed that Congress make "payment of minimum wages" a prerequisite for farm operators to share in government benefit payments.

"We are witnessing," he asserted, "the development of the factory farm in the south."

"During the past 10 years there has been a pronounced trend toward mechanization of cotton farming throughout the southern states. Tractors have replaced both men and mules. For every tractor put in use two to four sharecropper families have been displaced."

"Only a small portion of these displaced farmers have the means of transportation, the inclination or the energy to take to the highways and head for the West Coast."

Besides the tractor, Mitchell blamed displacement of farm labor partly on "the restrictions of cotton production under the AAA," declaring that it had "encouraged the expansion of holdings of land by corporations, absentee landlords as well as individual operators."

"It has so operated," he said, "to throw out additional thousands of tenants and sharecroppers, and the government subsidy payments have proved a means of enabling owners to purchase more tractors and other improved farm machinery."

As special areas in the Southeast, "where displacement of farm labor has been acute," Mitchell pointed to the Alabama Black Belt which is turning from cotton farming to livestock production and the Tennessee Valley where TVA flooded rich farm lands and where tractor cultivation has increased.

Because of what he termed the "breaking up" of the rural social structure, the union secretary said ruralists being forced off the soil potentially were a "fertile breeding ground for a real fifth column." He added that "the best defense that America can offer is a Democracy that works."

Lightning Kills 5 Mules

CHILDERSBURG—An electrical storm which struck this community and other sections of Talladega County last week end injured Mrs. A. B. Russell, killed her collie dog and took a toll of 5 mules.

Mrs. Russell was left unconscious by the same bolt of lightning that killed her pet instantly. She was taken to Sylacauga Infirmary, where her condition is reported improved.

Fertilizer Supplies Assured Despite War

In contrast to the acute shortage of fertilizer materials suffered at the beginning of the last European war, the present purchasing season for fertilizer finds the country prepared with adequate supplies for this year's crops.

"At the beginning of the last World War an immediate deficiency of nitrogen carriers occurred," said Charles J. Brand, Executive Secretary and Treasurer of The National Fertilizer Association. "There was an almost total absence of potash. Although there was plenty of sulphuric acid, there was a shortage of sulphuric acid needed to make superphosphate."

"When war disrupted shipping from 1914 to 1918, nitrogen materials for fertilizer became scarce, as we were once bound to Chile for nitrate," said Mr. Brand. "Today, we not only have adequate shipping service from Chile, but our country is the third largest producer of synthetic nitrogen in the world, and the largest producer of ammonium sulphate. The shortage of sulphuric acid during the last war was due to the heavy requirements of munition manufacturers for processing their goods. Improved methods of munition makers no longer require sulphuric acid. This leaves an adequate supply for use in making superphosphate."

"In 1914 we were entirely dependent upon Germany for potash. Today, we produce at home over 60 per cent of the potash we use and have sufficient reserves to care for our entire needs. In addition to this, French, German, Palestinian, and Spanish potash are available."

Prices farmers pay for fertilizer are now lower than before the World War; prices they pay for all commodities average 22 per cent higher.

Cook Pork Well Advises Bureau

Auburn—Cook pork well for safety, advises the Federal Bureau of Animal Industry.

Until science can discover a strictly reliable method of detecting trichinae that infest pigs, the Bureau is sticking to what it knows is a safe course—advising consumers to cook pork thoroughly. As a result of repeated warnings, more and more persons now know that unless pork is cooked thoroughly there is danger that trichinae from infested hogs may also infest the pork eater and cause trichinosis, a dangerous, painful, and often fatal disease.

Farm Income Rising

CHICAGO—With farm income running ahead of 1939 and prices of principal commodities higher than a year ago, United States farmers today had a chance of receiving the best annual income in a decade.

Price developments in the future depended partly on the war and world conditions. In the last four months of 1939 farmers benefited from sharp price rises.

Hotel Business Good In Walker

Evidence to prove that the hotels and boarding houses of Jasper and Walker County are doing good business was brought out here Monday night, when the sheriff's force failed to find lodging for a circuit court jury in Jasper or Walker County. Deputies Jim Daly and Murray Hinton carried the jury to Parrish and Oakman, and failing to find rooms for them, they were driven to Birmingham where they spent the night at a hotel—Jasper Mountain Eagle.

BIG VERMONT STRAWBERRIES

BURLINGTON.—Vermont farmers fear that the common strawberry may become a problem.

Recently, Conrow Chamberlain of Jericho arrived at market with a regulation berry basket that was filled by 25 strawberries grown on his farm.

The same day C. W. Young of St. Albans Bay disclosed that strawberries in his patch were running 22 to the quart.

BONDS REFUNDED

GRASSLAND AGRICULTURE

The necessity for a turn toward grassland agriculture to offset problems of increasing crop surpluses, soil erosion and human and animal nutrition, was the consensus following a two-day session of the Regional Grassland Conference held at Tifton, Ga.

Better Farming Will Reduce Farm Migration

Auburn.—The best way to treat the problem of rural migration is to remove the causes by making it more profitable and more desirable to stay on farms, P. O. Davis, director of the Alabama Extension Service, told the special congressional committee investigating interstate migration of destitute citizens.

Mr. Davis advocated long time written leases between landlords and tenants and explained that understanding of mutual landlord-tenant problems are being brought about:

1. Through community groups, both landlord and tenant come together to study the latest methods of production and marketing.

2. By method and result demonstration where practices are observed.

3. Through livestock production, tenants, landlords, and bankers are brought together in mutual interest.

4. Through an educational program directed toward both human and soil conservation, both of which require security of tenure.

5. Through assistance by county agents and specialists in making leases, both written and oral.

The Extension Service is striving to improve the well-being of the farm families not merely by increasing cash income but likewise by improving their real income through the live at home program, through home gardens, and orchards, food preservation, feed and forage production and seed saving. "This live-at-home program is part of a bigger program based upon wise use of all land a farmer has and efficient use of all his labor throughout the year, plus profitable use of money," he said.

FARMERS MAY GET INCREASE

Alabama's cotton farmers will receive approximately $48,000,000, marking an increase of about $6,000,000, if the state crop and price hold to their present levels, the Alabama Co-operative Crop Reporting Service said.

While a pedestrian takes one step and advances one yard, an automobile driven at a mere 30 miles an hour advances nine yards.

This is simple arithmetic, says "Smash Hits of the Year," latest booklet published by The Travelers in its safety crusade, but few persons stop to realize it. It is especially true that adults who have never learned to drive have little or no conception of the vast differences between walking speeds and vehicle speeds.

The simulated movie strip below shows what is likely to happen when a walker underestimates the speed of an approaching car.

Man, Not Machine, Chief Cause of Traffic Deaths

In the majority of automobile accidents throughout the country during the past year the driver and not the car was at fault, according to research experts of The Travelers Insurance Company.

They estimated that 93 per cent of all automobiles involved in fatal crashes in 1939 and 95.5 per cent of those in non-fatal accidents were in good mechanical condition. Of 37,000 cars dealing out death, only 870 were found to have defective brakes and 510 had faulty lights. A puncture or blowout was reported as the primary cause of accident in but 440 cases.

While it stressed man-failure rather than machine-failure as the chief cause of accidents, the report was careful not to minimize the importance of keeping vehicles in good condition. "It is known that many accidents attributed to some failure on the part of the driver would be averted if the car were in perfect or near-perfect condition," the report stated. "As an example, an investigating officer writes into his report as the cause of an accident: 'Operator drove off the roadway.' The driver may have been inattentive; however, is it not possible that with perfect brakes, perfect steering mechanism, and good tires he could still have pulled himself out of the hole into which his inattentiveness placed him?"

In other words, the report concludes, mechanical failure is often cited as a contributing cause but not the principal cause of accidents.

normal in July 1940, based on total cars of revenue freight handled, according to the August 1940 issue of the L. & N. Employees' Magazine. This was a gain of 7.7 points over the same month last year (72.6 per cent) due to improved business conditions in general, but a drop of 3.2 points under the June 1940 level (83.5 per cent).

Total cars handled in the first seven months of 1940, registered 82.5 per cent of normal—a gain of 13.7 points over the same period in 1939 (68.8 per cent).

A Gentle Laxative Good For Children

Most any child who takes this tasty laxative once will welcome it the next time he's constipated and it has him headachy, cross, listless, with bad breath, coated tongue or little appetite.

Syrup of Black-Draught is a tasty liquid companion to the famous BLACK-DRAUGHT. The principal ingredient is the same in both products; helps impart tone to lazy bowel muscles.

The Syrup's flavor appeals to most children, and, given by the simple directions, its action is usually gentle, but thorough. Remember Syrup of Black-Draught next time. Two sizes: 50c and 25c.

These statistics are obtained from the records of the County Health Department and are published for the purpose of promoting better registration of births and deaths. Filing of a certificate for the births and deaths with local registrars is made compulsory by the State Vital Statistics Law. Responsibility for filing birth certificates within five days after the birth rests on the physician or midwife in attendance; undertakers or persons in charge of burials are required by law to obtain a burial permit before the body is interred. Such permits are obtainable only on the presentation of a completed death certificate to the registrar in the heat in which the death occurred. Anyone having knowledge of births or deaths occurring during July and not included in the above list should report this matter to the County Health Officer immediately.

Come praying that God will win many souls through Bro Hand.

Gin Now Ready

It is with pleasure that we announce that our gins have been put in first class condition and are ready to gin this crop of cotton.

Let's cooperate to get the most possible for this crop, by each doing what we can to put the crop on the market in the best possible condition. We will keep our gin in shape to give you good turnout of clean well ginned cotton with as good staple as you bring us. Please pick cotton when dry from dew or rain or air and dry it before having it ginned and it will bring from $2.50 to $7.50 more per bale than cotton damo from rain or dew when ginned.

Get your nice worthwhile present by bringing us your first bale. We appreciate your patronage and assure you that we will do our best to please you.

CLANTON, ALABAMA, AUGUST 29, 1940

NUMBER 35

Mayor C. Fenn Jones And Cohen E. Stapp To Contest In Mayors Race Sept. 16th

Number Of Prominent Business Men In Race; Candidates
Petition For Two Voting Places

With the closing time for the Mayor and Councilmen for the City of Clanton, things got away to a look like is going to be a split vote for control of the City Government for the next four years. The incumbent, Mayor C. Fenn Jones, who has guided the city through tough spots on one hand and the popular Cohen E. Stapp on the other, it looks now like the race will be plenty exciting.

One of the places on the Council are contested. That of Number 2, Grady H. Heflin, and that of Number 5, L. E. Diefenderfer. On number one will be William Taylor and James Wade, and number three Otto Jones and J. W. Kemp. Incumbent, while place for four has John Deramus and Kemp contesting for the honor of the next four years as City Councilmen.

At the place there has been only one place in the local election and has been at the City Hall, but a man has been placed before the Mayor and council for two places in the coming election. One box to be placed at Hayes store for the convening of those voters living on the West side of the railroad and the other placed at the City Hall for those on the eastern side of the railroad. This petition in its entirety follows:

Clanton, Ala., Aug. 27, 1940.
C. Fenn Jones, Mayor of Clanton, Ala.
H. S. Shaw, Councilman No. 1 of the City of Clanton.
Grady Heflin, Councilman No. 2 of the City of Clanton.
J. Watts Moore, Councilman No. 3 of the City of Clanton.
T. W. Kemp, Councilman No. 4 of the City of Clanton.
L. E. Diefenderfer, Councilman No. 5 of the City of Clanton.

The undersigned candidates for Mayor and Councilmen of the City of Clanton, to be voted upon in the General Municipal Election to be held September 16, 1940, respectfully request compliance with the General Laws of Alabama, and for convenience of the approximately 100 voters and the election officials, to designate two voting places.

Hayes store for voters living East of the N. & N. Railroad, and the City Hall for voters living West of the N. & N. Railroad, in the General Municipal Election to be held September 16, 1940.

Further request that the Mayor and Councilmen of the City of Clanton, Cohen E. Stapp, Otto Jones, Deramus and James Wade, candidates for Mayor and Councilmen of Clanton, be allowed to name all number of election officials at the Hayes' store box and at the City Hall box in the General Municipal Election to be held September 16, 1940.

Further request that the Mayor and Councilmen furnish the election officials at the Hayes' store box a list of all qualified voters living West of the N. & N. Railroad, and the election officials at the City Hall box a list of all qualified voters living East of the N. & N. Railroad.

Respectfully submitted,
COHEN E. STAPP,
OTTO JONES,
JAMES WADE,
JOHN DERAMUS

PERSON HICKS, Principal.

COHEN STAPP ANNOUNCES FOR MAYOR

TO THE EDITOR:
Many of my friends have asked me to announce for the office of Mayor of Clanton. Because of my friendship and respect for the present Mayor and Councilmen it has been difficult for me to decide to announce. My reply to all who have approached me on the subject has been that unless the people really want a change, any opposition to our present Mayor would do MORE HARM THAN GOOD.

So many of my friends have assured me that the majority of the people do want a change of Mayorship and to many have urged me to announce that I have decided to offer for the place of honor and responsibility, subject to the election September 16, 1940.

Announcing a candidate for Mayor or I wish to state that I have had the most pleasant associations with, and considerations of the present Mayor and Councilmen, and that I am not offering as an opponent, but as one who desires to see all the people give whoever is elected, interested support for a progressive and efficient administration. Should the votes on September 16 indicate that the people want a change of Mayorship, I wish to publicly state that Mayor Jones will have my full support and cooperation in the progressive administration of the government of Clanton.

If the people do want a change and cast the majority of votes for me, I will do my best to give good service. I will ask that the Council meet regular each month in order that the citizens may know when they may present proposals for consideration, and I will ask that prompt answer be made to requests.

Upon taking office, if I am elected, an analysis of the possible revenue, obligations and current expenses will be made and a report of same given for public information. Based on this analysis a budget will be carefully worked out, and the public will be advised from time to time as to the financial condition of the city so that requests for new expenditures can be made accordingly.

COHEN E. STAPP.
JONES-BURDETTE

Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Rutherford announce the marriage of their daughter, Nell Jones to Mr. Jerrell Burdette. The wedding took place at the Baptist parsonage on Saturday afternoon August 24th. After a short wedding trip the Burdette's will be at home at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. John Still.

INFANT DEATHS MOUNT
A total of 23 infants have died under one year of age in Chilton County during the first seven months of 1940, according to a weekly bulletin released by the Health Department. Of these ten occurred during June and July. The leading cause of death among infants during this period was diarrhea and enteritis, commonly called colitis, which was responsible for five deaths. A lack of sanitary toilet facilities and screening was declared by a local health official to be largely responsible for the loss of babies from colitis.

MRS. JULIA A. MITCHELL
Mrs. Julia A. Mitchell, age 57, died Aug. 23 at the residence of Mrs. J. W. Knight at Marbury, Ala. whom she had been making her home with for the past 16 years.

Mrs. R. N. Griffin Able To Return Home

Mr. R. N. Griffin with Mell Martin went to Birmingham Tuesday morning to get Mrs. Griffin and bring her home. Mrs. Griffin was injured in an automobile accident while she and Mr. Griffin were on their vacation and has since been confined in the Franklin Hospital at Swainsboro, Ga. She and her son went to Birmingham on the Central of Georgia and was met there by the Martin ambulance.

ARCHER'S CHAPEL

We had a fine revival at Archer's Chapel last week. Three came forward by confession of faith, two of them being baptized last Friday afternoon. At the same time that the revival was going on, the pastor's wife, Mrs. Ballou ran a Bible School with a registration of 75.

The next service will be held the third Sunday afternoon in September at 3 p. m.

CHILTON COUNTY SCHOOLS TO OPEN MONDAY SEPTEMBER 2ND.

Large Enrollment Expected; Most Successful Year In History of School Predicted

Monday morning at 8:00 o'clock Clanton and Chilton County Schools will begin work for another school year. Much is planned and much is expected to be accomplished this year. Professor Hicks and Principal Abrams are anticipating the biggest and most successful year in the history of the schools.

At the High School, pupils will move into one of the most modern and up-to-date high schools in the state. There will be four new faces among the faculty this year, they are: Evelyn Sumner, S. C. Porch, Eloyse Hodgins and Mrs. D. L. Cox.

At the Grammar school only two changes will be made. Mrs. Herman Leacy and Mrs. Porch, are the new comers.

The Grammar school WPA lunch room will open on the 4th or 5th of September, and will begin serving something over eighty five lunches each day.

All of the new steel bodied buses have arrived and Mr. Tom Seary, who is in charge of the Transportation Department reports them ready to go. More than $50,000.00 was put into these new buses for the safety of Chilton County school children and every precaution is being taken for maximum safety.

HOSPITAL NOTES

Mr. Elbert Edwards is still improving. Mrs. Anna Wilkins was admitted Saturday for surgical treatment.

Mrs. Horace Miller came in Monday for medical treatment. Baby Mary Agnes Bryant was admitted Thursday for medical treatment.

An Economy of Cans

In the city where one can go down to the corner store and buy food each day as needed, there is apt to be too little attention paid to the fact that the canning season is now on in full swing in Alabama.

Under the direction of the Extension Service, pantry-store demonstrations are now being given in every county in the state. Some counties have several farm women who have set up standard pantries which are open for inspection from time to time.

The average farm family of five should have a canning budget, the experts say, of at least $225. There are some farm women of Alabama who when the season is over expect to have more than 500 quarts of canned vegetables, fruits and meats. One woman reports having put up this year seven kinds of meats, eight varieties of vegetables and six different kinds of fruits, besides jellies and pickles.

The gross effect of home-canned goods upon the farm economy is great. Usually, too, where there is a well-fitted pantry one finds a healthy farm family and a well-managed farm. There is security there, and a feeling of well-being that permeates the whole farm life.

And since the majority of Alabama's people live on farms, this program of canning surplus garden and orchard and farm products against the winter's need is one of importance, even here in the city where the pattern of life is slightly different.—Birmingham News.

Grand Jury Will Meet Next Tuesday

Judge Arthur Glover will empanel a Grand Jury Tuesday, September 3rd. The regular fall term of the Circuit Court will convene Monday, September 23rd.

TENT REVIVAL

A tent revival will begin at Jones-town, eight miles on Maplesville highway, Sunday night at 7:30, September 1st. Rev. Aaron Parker will do the preaching. Everybody welcome.

BAPTIST W M S COOKING SCHOOL BIG SUCCESS

The cooking school that was held at the Clanton Baptist church Tuesday and Wednesday of this week, conducted by the Alabama Power Company and sponsored by the W. M. S., was a great success and everyone who attended learned something new from the lady in charge, Mrs. Margaret Hutto, enjoyed the lessons very much with a very nice prize of some of the good things that had been prepared during each lesson. All those who helped with this cooking school would like to take this opportunity to thank the merchants in Clanton and Birmingham and Montgomery for the lovely gifts they most graciously gave to help make this cooking school a success. Mrs. Hutto was assisted by Mrs. Evelyn McMillan also a Home Economist with Alabama Power Co.

BRUSH ARBOR

Our meeting closed Sunday night with about 30 parents in the Altar praying for their children. Since the meeting closed there was some who wanted it to continue on so we will have service Sunday evening Sept. 1 at 2:30 o'clock so everybody come. If the people want this service to begin again it will be o. k. with me. This arbor is near Cooper. Rev. Jesse Mitchell in charge.

The Clanton Grammar School Parent-Teachers Association may well be proud of the wonderful record made this summer in the canning and preparing of foodstuffs for the underprivileged children of this city, of which there are over eighty in the Clanton Grammar School alone, which must be fed out of the reserve.

Much of the praise is due Mrs. Ruby Smith and Mrs. Maggie Coburn for their untiring efforts in gathering this produce and preparing it for the future use of these small children, who through no fault of their own are not able to buy their lunches, neither are they able to bring them.

There has been canned: 49 quarts of peas; 3 quarts of beets; 20 quarts of corn; 15 quarts of lima beans; 30 quarts of kraut; 54 quarts and one pint of tomatoes; more than 200 quarts of soup mixture; 425 quarts of string beans; and five quarts of shelled pole beans. Just to go a little further: More than 75 pounds of dried lima beans have been prepared, and 25 pounds of pole beans and 10 pounds of peas. It is well worth a trip to the lunchroom pantry at the school to see this beautiful assortment of canned vegetables lined on the shelves, ready for use by these children.

Mr. R. W. Lowe is also to be thanked for his usefulness in donating the use of the land for the garden and the time of his hired help in plowing and cultivating the land.

This garden, as stated before, was sponsored by the Grammar School P. T. A. The labor was paid for by the WPA, and the project was undertaken with the sole purpose of feeding the children at the school this winter who could not afford to buy their lunches. Mrs. Hattie Alred will be in charge of the Lunch Room this year.

Clanton Grammar P.-T. A. To Meet Tues.

There will be a meeting of the Clanton Grammar School Parent-Teachers Association held next Tuesday afternoon at the Grammar School. The meeting will be called at 2:30 and work and plans for the coming year will be discussed. All members and prospective members are urged to be at this first meeting of the school year.

Press Of State Plans To Observe Newspaper Week

Plans for the observance of National Newspaper Week in Alabama on October 1-8 were perfected at a meeting of a committee of the Alabama Press Association in Birmingham Saturday. One hundred and seventy daily and weekly newspapers of Alabama will participate in the observance of this special week which will have as its national theme, "Press Constitutes the First Line of Defense in the Battle for the Maintenance of Democracy."

The program for Newspaper Week will stress the importance of the freedom of the press, truth in advertising, pre-eminence of newspapers in the news field, advertising's contribution to the American way of living, plant visitations, speeches before civic clubs and women's groups, cooperation of clergy, pictures of staffs and newspaper functions, display of old newspapers before and after the days of dictators.

Newspapers of Alabama have generously supported hundreds of other special weeks for scores of business and welfare organizations and the publishers feel that it is only fair to devote one week to a presentation of the importance of their publications to their communities, the state and the nation.

The Clanton County News will cooperate in the observance of National Newspaper Week, details of which will be covered in later issues of this newspaper.

LITTLEFIELD-SMITH BLOW-VARDEN REUNION

Next Sunday, Sept. 1st is the date for the annual reunion of the Littlefield-Smith-Blow-Varden families at Mineral Springs. Walter Morris of Shelby County will be master of ceremonies. All are invited to come early, bring dinner and stay late. A pleasant time is assured all who attend this gathering of kindred, friends and neighbors. J. T. Smith

Wickard Will Continue Wallace's Farm Policy

Auburn.—Claude Wickard, newly appointed Secretary of Agriculture, will follow policies formulated during the term of Secretary Wallace.

Announcement of this was made by Mr. Wickard at the Farm Bureau Southern Training School in Bloxi immediately after he received notice that he had been nominated to succeed Secretary Wallace.

The present farm program of the Department of Agriculture has placed the United States in "a better position than ever before to meet war or peace," he said in announcing that the present policies would be continued.

"We realized years ago that a national farm program was necessary and it is just as necessary today as it was then," he declared.

Mr. Wickard said that he was "not pessimistic" about the future of the United States "because there is more solidarity between all groups—especially in agriculture—than ever before."

"We should see that industry, labor, capital, and agriculture adopt a program for the good of all," he declared, "because national strength is more important than the profits of any group of individuals."

Mr. Wickard is an Indiana farmer who was born and reared on a farm about 60 miles north of Indianapolis. He graduated from Purdue university in 1915.

He entered the Department of Agriculture in 1933, working on the AAA's corn-hog program and became chief of the corn section before his appointment as undersecretary last February.

ANCIENT MARINE WHEEZES HAVE GONE BY THE BOARD

Gone are many of the old-time pranks which were played at the expense of the hapless recruit, according to Captain Davis A. Holliday, Marine Corps Recruiting Officer, who interviews applicants for service in the Marine Corps, at 220 Clark Building, 20th St. and 4th Ave., No., Birmingham.

"A few years ago every recruit was regarded as a greenhorn," says the captain, "and was considered legitimate prey for the oldtimers who delighted in sending him on some mythical errand aboard ship or in the barracks."

Today, when somewhat higher educational standards prevail, the average recruit is not nearly so gullible as formerly.

Only a few years ago when oil lamps were in use in the Navy, it was not uncommon for a chief petty officer to send some recruit for some green oil for starboard lamps, or red oil for port. Sometimes they were sent to find W. T. Doors, only to learn later they were not in search of an individual but for water-tight doors.

A classic example of humor in the old Navy or Marine Corps was Charley Noble. "Charley Noble" was the funnel in the ship's galley or kitchen in the days when wood was used as fuel.

Sometimes it was necessary to clear the funnel of soot and a blank cartridge was fired into it. After the explosion it took a lot of elbow grease to clean up the galley. One can imagine the amazement of a recruit when he was told in all seriousness that the cook was going to "shoot Charley Noble at eight bells." Occasionally "rookie" sentinels of the Marine Corps are asked foolish questions as to how they would behave in some impossible situation. One of these questions is this: "What would you do if you saw a battleship steaming across the parade ground?" The time-honored reply is: "I'd run as fast as I could for the doctor."

The Marines have a language all their own. This language is difficult to describe and no writer of fact or fiction has ever fully mastered it, for the sea soldier speaks a strange argot that often is confusing to civilian ears.

Words they learn aboard ship or in their travels abroad are heard in every barracks. Afloat or ashore, the marine calls a kitchen a "galley," the floor a "deck," and his captain, the "skipper." Although a marine may be stationed miles from the sea, once he steps outside the gate of a naval reservation he is "ashore."

During the World War the sea soldiers added a number of French words to their lingo, but most of them have since been abandoned. Only a few of the terms they learned in Haiti, Santo Domingo, or Nicaragua are still in use.

Today, the Marines who return from China or the Philippines, bring back a number of Asiatic words or expressions. When a few Hawaiian terms are added their conversation is almost unintelligible to a civilian.

Naturally enough, they have no special accent. One may find as many accents among the marines as there are sections of the country, for they hail from every State of the Union.

Alabama Far In Lead In Making Mattresses

Alabama farm men and women continue to lead all other states in mattress making. Latest reports show that to date 127,307 mattresses have been made in Alabama. The next highest State is Arkansas with about 70,000, Mississippi next with 45,000.

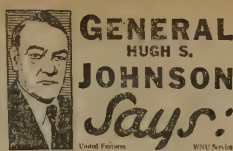

Throughout the country a total of 1,158,870 farm families have been selected by county agricultural conservation committee as eligible to receive enough surplus cotton to make a mattress for home use. Nearly 300,000 families already have completed their mattresses and have ordered a total of 106,055 bales of cotton for use in mattress making.

In Alabama 216,306 farm families have made application for mattresses and 210,140 have been certified. Present indications are that cotton will soon be available for making all of these mattresses.

Nazi Bombs Make British Milk Thin

London.—Farmer Charles James, of Barry, Wales, who argued that his cows gave thin milk because German bombs scared them, was acquitted of selling milk deficient in butterfat.

When James was arrested last week he pleaded that he wasn't responsible for the milk. A commission was appointed to check up on his claims.

GENERAL HUGH S. JOHNSON Says:

Washington, D. C.

WALTER CHRYSLER

"Wherever the McGregor sits is the head of the table."

During his prime that could well have been said of Walter Chrysler by the whole automobile industry—excepting Henry Ford. Now Walter Chrysler is gone. He was one of the World War era of the magic period of expansion beginning with the World War. Industry isn't producing men of that type today.

Maybe the new crop is a better type. It certainly is a more polished type but it lacks the stuff of the old type. It is the type of the generation that started working with its hands and knew—in addition to business strategy and tactics acquired later—every operation in the shop.

Eager to Do His Bit.

I have worked with or across the table with him many occasions in the past 22 years. His going wrenches me, as I think it does everyone who knew him well—the loss of an old army messmate. The first time I met him was in the old industrial plant of the World War. Those were not unlike those of NRA, in which we were very close.

With a reputation for being about the toughest trooper in the industry, he was really a complete softy on the sentimental side. One evening when the going was bad in the NRA day—he asked me to go to dinner with the heads of his industry. When I complained that I didn't have time, he carried me off almost bodily on a compromise that it would only be an hour.

With the coffee, he pushed his chair back and said: "I want to take a minute to tell you about an experience of my early youth. It started off innocently enough about a prospecting trip in the Rocky mountains with an old soldier named Desdemond. It was about five minutes he had that bunch of hardshells either rocking with laughter or dizzy with astonishment. It was a masterpiece of old-time frontier lying that would have made Mark Twain green with envy. It went on and on with a mingling of interest, a pause for breath or a failure of each succeeding whopper to top the earlier ones with fantastic imagery. When he stopped I suddenly awoke to the fact that it was after midnight and I swore fluently in the language we both understood so well.

"Aw shut up," he said gently. "You needed that letting-down to keep from blowing up. That was the only way I could think of to get you to take it."

Shouldered Too Much.

But he never learned to take his own medicine. Like Franklin Roosevelt and like Wendell Willkie—I fear—he insisted, until recent years, on doing everything important himself, delegating little or no responsibility and driving himself without mercy. I sadly believe that if Walter Chrysler had himself done more letting down to keep from blowing up, I wouldn't be writing this piece for many years and his country would have had the services in industry of one of the greatest masters of industrial production the world has seen. He was only 65.

MUST BE MORE DEFINITE

Mr. Willkie has a right and duty to make one last utterance in general terms. He has used that privilege up in his acceptance. Now he must be definite.

Considering all the difficulties of the times and the circumstances, his opener was a good job. It reads better than it sounded. But these sympathetic qualifications won't do the candidate any good except with the people who are for him anyway. It was his job to win over the independents, the luke-warm and some opponents. None of these will make excuses for anything less than perfection as each individual voter measures perfection.

With all its textual excellence there were two deadly but correctable slips, possibly resulting from an effort to condense. Mr. Willkie neglected specifically to guarantee labor against "employer" interference with collective bargaining. On agriculture he slipped back as far as Harding, Coolidge and Hoover into a generality offensive to farmers because it was used to fool them for 12 years. In these two fields certain words and short phrases have become symbols of whole economic essays and Mr. Willkie, new to this kind of language, adopted poisonous phrasing. That error can be retrieved in his speeches on these issues. I feel sure that his thinking there is straight.

HATCHET MAN IKES

The New Deal campaign against Willkie started with a barrage of gas, mud and fireworks which reveals nearly all its weapons and ammunition in one triple blast—Bullitt, Flynn and Ikes.

I know that Mr. Ikes would not deliberately lie. But he should have known that whether Mr. Willkie belonged to Tammany, whether he had not opposed Insull, whether he opposed La Guardia, whether he is still head of any utility, are cold statements of fact easily checked by anybody.

Bethsalem Singing

The singing was a grand success. We feel we owe the quartets, directors and singers a special invitation to attend next year. With deepest gratitude we thank you for your presence and wonderful singing because we fully believe the Lord sent many blessings through the many sacred songs that were sung. The service was opened with a song and followed with prayer by Bro. Clem Billingsley.

Directors for the day were: Edward Wilkins, Rev. Emmett Wilson, Clem Billingsley, Woodrow Deason, Columbus Taylor, Andy Brown, I. D. Huet, Miss Billie Ruth Deason, R. M. Brigrance, Raybond Crew, Joseph Giles, Olen Williams, J. B. Crew, L. Strowd, O. L. Devaughn, Philip Headley, A. O. Boswell, L. D. Hughes, Clark Burkhalter, Joseph Varner, Sam Henley, Jesse Jones, J. W. Devaughn, Joe Groomes, Jasper Jones and Clark Little.

Quartets were: Crew family quartet, Vermont quartet, Alpine quartet, Steward quartet, also a special quartet composed of Miss Pauline Outley, O. L. Devaughn, L. D. Hughes and Jasper Jones.

Finest were: Miss Pauline Outley, Joseph Varner, Earning Maddox and Lawrence Howard.

Chairman for morning session, R. E. Wilkins.

Chairman for afternoon session: Mr. O. L. Devaughn.

Thanking you again for your presence.

One Truck Out Of Every 16 In Alabama Is Government-Owned

One truck out of every 16 operating on the highways of Alabama is owned by the government—Federal, State or Local—J. B. Turner, Vice-Chairman, Alabama Petroleum Industries Committee, said today in commenting upon the increasing importance of highway transportation in carrying out the functions of government.

"The largest commercial user of the highways is the government. For the United States as a whole approximately one out of every 20 trucks is owned and operated by some branch of the government. The Federal government uses the roads and streets extensively in the transportation of the mails, as well as for other purposes. Many trucks are used in carrying out the activities of the various departments and bureaus of the State. The many State institutions, for example, use large numbers of trucks. Similarly the counties and cities are large users of trucks. Such vehicles are used extensively for road and street maintenance work, garbage disposal and in the operation of hospitals, and the police and fire departments."

"In addition to these publicly-owned vehicles, which generally operate tax-free on the roads and streets, there are many additional privately-owned motor vehicles engaged in carrying on work for the government. Besides the many trucks used by bureau men in performing work in connection with government contracts, there are 80,000 school buses assisting in the government function of education. These buses most of which are privately owned, are not included in the truck figures. The United States post office department utilizes 15,045 motor trucks, of which 8,500 are owned by the department and 6,545 are privately owned, operated on contract basis. In addition, about 30,000 rural mail carriers use privately-owned passenger motor vehicles in the delivery of the mails."

Terrace Maintenance

As a result of the heavy rains that have occurred during the summer, farmers in the CCC Camp Area, near Clanton, Alabama are urged to make a careful check of damage to terraces and diversion ditches.

If silt or other material has accumulated in the terrace channel, plowing out the channel is advised to permit the free flow of excess water from rains that may fall later.

When a channel becomes clogged with silt and debris and forces the water over the terrace, it may result in a break. One terrace break may result in a breakdown of the entire terrace system and permit water to rush down across a field and carry away considerable soil.

It is recommended that breaks be repaired immediately. If done soon after the damage has occurred repairs can usually prevent erosion later on.

Future Farmers Get State Farmer Degree

Among the 117 young Alabama Future Farmers who were honored last week at Auburn by receiving the State Farmer degree during the annual convention were four from Chilton County.

They are Jack Tucker, William Liff, Isabella, Wyndol Williams and Harry Sims, Clanton.

The degree was awarded because of superior scholarship and practical application of vocational agriculture during the past year.

Requirements for the degree include a minimum scholastic average of 80 per cent, two years of F. F. A. membership with outstanding farming projects in operation, personal investment or bank deposit, ability to lead a 40-minute group discussion, and evidence of leadership.

Largest Oat Crop On Record Is Predicted

Auburn.—Reports from every bama county indicate that Alabama farmers are planning to plant the largest oat crop this year in the history of the state.

After visiting various counties parts of the state, J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist, is optimistic over prospects for a bumper oat crop planned in September and early October. Many farmers now feel that oats are a better crop than corn because they are easily produced, they mature land during winter, and they produce excellent feed. If an oat crop which is rare—the land is available for another crop the same year, it is not true of corn.

CLOTH ORDER FROM HAITI

A $14,000 order from Haiti for 600 yards of cotton cloth has been received by the States prison extension for at least another month, Col. W. E. Persons, director of the State Department of Corrections and Institutions, announced last week.

Leon Trotsky, genius of the Russian Bolshevik revolution died from wounds inflicted by Jacques Mortar, a German, at his residence in Coyoacan, Mexico, last Thursday.

The Youth in Business

By C. E. Johnston

Dean, Schools of Business International Correspondence Schools

THE youth who for the past several years has been awaiting an opportunity to step ahead on the job should not be self-indulgent now. The business affairs which have developed recently in the United States as the result of the war in Europe are that more and more highly skilled people will be needed by business and industry. There will be great number of new types of jobs but there will be an increasing demand for skilled and trained sons.

Of course, it is not possible for the youth to acquire great technical and training opportunities but he can begin a program of study and self-improvement which will make him a decided factor in the nation's plan of preparation and self-defense. With the increasing tempo of business, will appear and he who has necessary training and background will be given the first call.

Our great factories and plants are beginning to hum with activity and thousands of men who have been "marking time" until they could get back to a regular routine are returning to work. Some of these men, many, in fact, gone into other fields of endeavor, will be needed to fill the vacancies at the bottom of the scale, but the great demand for men with special training is the chance that the young man with ambition has been given the chance to show what he is capable of with the knowledge he has been acquiring. Much depends upon the young man in this hour of crisis for our American way of life.

Political Campaign Opens Up as Ickes Replies to Willkie Acceptance Speech; Canada-U. S. Defense Board Formed; Fierce Nazi Bombing Raids Continue

Special chairs were reserved for Hitler and Mussolini at the Empire party held recently in London by the Overseas League to celebrate the "Non-Arrival of the Dictators." Highlight of the evening was the scene pictured above when a telegram was received by the Marquess of Willingdon, purporting to have come from Hitler and Mussolini, apologizing for their reluctance on this day of days, which, incidentally, was "Victory Day," the first day Hitler said he would be in London.

ACCEPTS:

And Takes Stand

In flag-bedecked Elwood, Ind., Wendell Lewis Willkie accepted the Republican presidential nomination and gave "an outline of the political philosophy that is in my heart."

Mr. Willkie stated his belief in labor's right of collective bargaining, wage pensions, unemployment insurance, regulation of security matters, banking and interstate utilities, rural electrification, minimum wages and maximum hours, and the existing farm program.

Of his foreign policy he said:

"I would do everything to defend American democracy and I would strain from doing anything that injured it. . . . I trust I have made plain that in defense of America and our liberties, I would not hesitate to stand for war. Our way of life is in competition with Hitler's way of life."

Of defense, he said:

"Some form of selective service is the only democratic way in which to assure the trained and competent manpower we need. The first task of our country . . . is to become strong at home."

He challenged the President to meet him in face-to-face debate.

Wild Harold

In what was declared before delivery to be the administration answer to the Willkie speech, Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes, in his third term, said the President could not adjourn the battle of Britain, on which American traditions may depend, to ride the circuit with Mr. Willkie.

Said "Wild Harold":

"If Mr. Willkie is so eager for a debate, I suggest he challenge his running mate, Senator McNary, with whom he is at greater variance on domestic and foreign issues than his speech of acceptance shows him to be with President Roosevelt."

DEATH:

In the Afternoon

Without a combat soldier being landed on her shores, England feels the threat of invasion for the first time since William the Conqueror, thousands of German planes, in daylight raids, bomb British airfields and munitions factories. Germans bombed London in 1916-18 but never with invasion as the objective.

Whether England can keep the Nazi flyers from her industrial centers is the real test, Maj. Alexander P. deSersversky, American plane designer, believes. He says England will win or lose in the air. If

How the Wind Is Blowing . . .

Manufacture—Electrical power for the week of August 3 reached second highest all-time peak, representing a gain of 12 per cent over same week last year.

Building—The Federal Reserve board announced that defense orders have pushed construction contracts to the highest level in 10 years.

Agriculture—Farm land sales are picking up, both to investors and to tenant-operators, a survey of farm realty sales organizations by the Northwestern National Life Insurance company indicates. Investors seem to be turning back to the land as a "good bet" in a war-conscious business world.

BASES:

Not at Home

Nazi Air Marshal Hermann Goering, writing in "Facts in Review," official and free publication of the German Library of Information, 17 Battery Place, New York, said:

"If American defenses are what they should be, particularly if American air force is properly developed, built up, organized and strategically based, America can defy group of powers."

Less than a week after the publication was circulated, President Roosevelt announced he was holding conversations with Great Britain for acquisition of naval and air bases on British possessions in this hemisphere.

Later Prime Minister Winston Churchill told the house of commons that Britain had decided to offer "suitable sites" to the United States in Newfoundland and the West Indies on 99-year leases. He said England was not asking for any advantage in return. "Naturally," he said, "no transfer of sovereignty is involved."

Faces North

Meanwhile President Roosevelt met Prime Minister Mackenzie King of Canada. In a joint announcement they revealed a permanent board of joint military defense had been set up. The board will survey problems by air, land and sea, as well as material and personnel. Personnel may mean a commander-in-chief already is being selected in case Canada is invaded and the armies of the two nations are called to act as one.

Agreement for a military link sets a definite departure from established policy for both nations. America never before has made such an agreement, even during the World War being only an "associate" of the Allies.

MISCELLANY:

It's a Pleasure

In Elizabeth, N. J., the city assessor got a letter from Philip Woolf, Jeweler. Woolf said that since the assessor's last visit his business had improved and he felt his personal estate now rated a higher valuation. "I will gladly pay the additional taxes," Woolf said. "It is a pleasure." The assessor said the 1940 taxes could not be raised but he will be glad to oblige in 1941.

Patrolman Thomas Moran, who has been on the Cleveland police force since 1905, surprised a burglar in a store near his home. He thereupon made his first arrest in 25 years. Moran was off duty at the time.

Stamp collectors who spend millions each year to get letters or new, fast air mail routes, have another to seek. Cy Williams, city engineer of Miami, Fla., left for the New York World's fair on a bicycle with 1,000 envelopes bearing the cachet, "First Flight-Bicycle Mail, Miami to New York."

Application Forms For Austrian Peas Here

By Pat H. Smith, County Agent

All necessary forms have been received in the AAA office in Clanton for making applications for Austrian Peas and 20 per cent superphosphate as a Grant-of-Aid under the 1940 program. The time has recently been extended for making applications for Grants-of-Aid in an effort to assist farmers in earning all of their Soil Building Allowance this year the county AAA Committee has ordered 360,000 pounds of Austrian Pea seed shipped to Clanton on consignment. These peas are expected to be in Clanton the first part of September. The peas will be stored in a local warehouse for distribution to farmers throughout the county.

Producers who have already made application for some of these peas will be notified when they arrive. After the peas arrive, one may get them on the same day his application is made.

Arrangements have been made to get farm delivery of 20 per cent superphosphate in Chilton County. This phosphate may be obtained by making an application to the AAA office in Clanton. It will be charged at the rate of $15.10 per ton delivered to any farm in the county.

The above two changes were made to enable more farmers to get maximum payments under this year's program. As it is now operated, farmers can make application for materials as a Grant-of-Aid and feel sure that he will be able to get the materials in time to plant.

It is hoped that everyone will earn all available money this year. If the Grant-of-Aid feature is a way to assist in doing this producers are urged to call by the AAA office in Clanton and file an application for materials at their first convenience.

The United States Senate by a vote of 54 to 23 refused to draft money along with men for national defense.

Price Of Calves Favorable This Year

Tom McCord Says:

The price on calves this year is very favorable as compared to 1939. On this day last year (Aug. 23rd) the quotation on calves was $3.00 per cwt for the best quality with a hard sort. Today the quotation is $9.25 without reference to any unusually hard sort leaving the opinion that they are being graded rather loosely. This runs into a considerable amount of extra profit for the cattlemen who is taking advantage of this good market to work off the lighter end of his calves.

Mark Remarks:

Now how could the Senate be expected to conscript money when it is the big monied men who are making the war?

Mr. Wilkie's wanting the president of the United States to go off on a political stump speaking tour at a time like this, is too silly to be given consideration by sensible people.

Lady Editor Mildred White Wallace of the Shelby County Democrat, calls him "Wahoo" Wilkie, and thus takes some of the "L" out of Wilkie.

Just a bit of advice to Candidate Wilkie: Better stay away from in front of that Irishman called "MIKE".

Before forming any "entangling alliances" with Great Britain it would be well for all of us to re-read a time or two, just why our great-granddads, and great-great-granddads organized these United States, and declared our independence.

Everlasting shame will follow Congress if it adopts the war policy of "take our boys, but don't touch our money."

There isn't a military man, statesman, near statesman, or politician in Alabama, nor one representing Alabama in the National Congress, or in any other capacity in Washington, who can advance one valid reason why Clanton, Chilton County, Alabama should not be given a unit of the National Guard.

If England is so weak that 60 old destroyers would save her, she is too weak to survive anyway. We wish we lived just what was back of the "old destroyer" proposal. We do not believe there is any official in Washington who believes that 60 old destroyers sent to England could have any effect on the final outcome of the war now raging over the English Channel.

DEMOCRATIC ROOSTERS LEARN TO CROW EARLY IN ALABAMA

The editor of this Journal has a "believe-it-or-not" and we pass it on to our readers:

Our small son, has a drove of small biddies given him by his grandmother some two or three weeks ago. The biddies were hatched about two months ago and in this drove there is one small rooster that weighs about a half pound that is crowing. He is not only crowing but scratches the ground and "clucks" to his mates (pullets) like a full grown rooster.

We believe this to be the youngest and smallest crowing rooster, at least, we have never heard of his equal—Luveme Journal.

LEST WE FORGET

He was a great guy when he fed us while we were starving. He was a fine fellow when he reached down and said, "No! You can't take that farmer's farm away from him." He was the best yet when he fixed your bank deposits so that none could steal it from you. He was grand when he held the price of cotton up. He was O. K. when he gave us the Social Security. He was simply great when he gave us the old-age pension. He was the super-man when he let us poor guys have the where-with-all to build our little bungalows now live in. He was MORE THAN GREAT when he built schools, court houses, jails, halls, water works and countless other things needed in the South that no other ever did before him for the deep South. So easy to forget. Well, it was not Wilkie who did all this.—Fort Payne Journal

GET READY FOR SCHOOL PLAN TO HELP NEEDY FAMILIES

School opening is only three weeks away. Mothers are making their many plans that attend the coming event. Among them are the preparations of the children's wardrobe. They fully realize that the young bareback Indians of the summer must have a change from the air-conditioned garb. Jasper stores are ready to meet the requirements.

But there are a great many parents who will not be able to buy the clothes necessary to prepare their children for school, particularly during cold weather that is not so very far off now.

It would be a splendid thing if some group, club or organization could take over the badly needed work of gathering old clothes from those who have to be distributed among those who have not. There are many children in the county who will begin school only to drop out in cold weather because of the lack of enough clothes to protect their bodies. There are enough clothes stuck away in closets, never to be used again, to supply all the needs if they could be assembled and distributed to the needy.—Jasper Advertiser.

PEOPLE WANT DEFENSE, NOT WAR

A financial authority recently made this significant observation: "Let us be on guard against the building of war hysteria. Let us keep it clearly in mind that what we are talking about is defense and not going to war. This is the time for clear thinking rather than emotional thinking."

The standard polls indicate that while the American people are almost unanimously in favor of adequate preparedness, they are also overwhelmingly opposed to belligerent participation in the European slaughter.

Industry does not want war because, if for no higher reason, it knows from its experience in the last World War that it results in ruinous taxation and depression. It will do all in its power to avoid war—even while it does all in its power to make our defense so strong that all aggressors hesitate at bringing war to us.—Colbert County Reporter.

BONDED INDEBTEDNESS

The Elmore County Commissioners Court last week refinanced $170,000 in Road Bonds at 2 per cent interest. These bonds were issued in 1911 at 5 per cent interest, and you can readily see that Elmore County has paid in interest, one and one-half times the principal amount of these bonds. In other words Elmore County has paid $255,000 in interest and still owes the $170,000 principal.

There are many Alabama Counties that were caught in a trap back there then by issuing Bonds for a twenty or thirty year period at a high rate of interest, and the bonds were so issued that they were not callable until maturity.

In 1918 and 1919 Bibb County issued

$143,000 in 5 per cent Road Bonds. These bonds are now over twenty years old and the county has already paid over $143,000 in interest and still owes the $143,000 principal. Judge Pratt and the Commissioners have made several attempts at setting aside a sinking fund for these bonds, but the Road and Bridge Fund taxes have been decreased so much during the past few years until it has been a hard matter to pay interest and other operating expenses out of the Road and Bridge Fund. These Bonds will become due in 1948 and 1949, at which time they must be refinanced. If the people that are now holding these bonds would release them at par, then the county could refinance them now at a much lower rate of interest, but they cannot be bought for less than $115 on the $100.

There are many counties that issued Bonds many years ago to build new Courthouses and Jails and within the past few years these Courthouses and Jails have been torn down and new ones built in their place. They still owe for the old Courthouses and Jails as well as for the new ones.

Counties that issue Bonds now issue them so that they can make regular monthly, quarterly or yearly payments and liquidate the Bonds over a period of a few years, instead of paying interest on the entire amount for a number of years and then being forced to refinance the Bonds.—Centreville Press.

CHILTON'S LATE PEACHES

They are selling peaches along the highway in Chilton County at the same old stands between Clanton and Thorby. We thought all of the peaches in that section were killed.

The peaches we saw at the stands were of good size and in excellent condition and of good flavor. We just wondered whether those peaches were re-sold from shipments coming in from the Elberta belt of Georgia. Of course not, but the thing has been done in other sections of the country.

Anyhow, the Chilton peach is about the best peach in the country.—Atticus Mullins in Montgomery Advertiser.

SAFE IN THE BAG

Bibb Graves says he sees no necessity for setting up an organization in Alabama to insure the success of the Democratic ticket in November. That is exactly our view. BUSINESSMEN AND BEST WISHES

If some businesses spent as much time going after business in a straight above-board manner as they do in trying to "gyp" newspapers out of advertising space under the guise "news" story, these businesses would be better off in a financial way. We're indulging in hate, which will degenerate us. No one can hate without his better self being destroyed. I'm much more afraid of moral decline than of the power of dictators.

The War Spirit

(From The Birmingham News)

The United States is now entering into the most tragic era of its existence. I don't speak of a danger of invasion, but of the war spirit now flourishing. We're indulging in hate, which will degenerate us. No one can hate without his better self being destroyed. I'm much more afraid of moral decline than of the power of dictators.

I think our boys will soon be drafted in peacetime. There is much talk of the moral value of military discipline; but anybody with a sense of spiritual values, who has served in the army, knows that the army is a godless and soul destroying place.

We are being stampeded by passion, not being guided by sane reason. No informed Christian can believe in the prevailing spirit. Let me predict that those living five years hence will see a depression and a crime wave in this land never heard of before, unless perchance our Congress remains for peace, which I doubt.

We're fond of singing "God Bless America," in which we ask Him to "stand beside her," but I am concerned about America "standing beside" God. He can't stand beside a war-mad, hate-filled people. I'd like to hear some of these Christians (?) try to give one sentence from Christ or His apostles that teaches us to resist evil with hate, our own strength and killing! Jesus teaches the opposite. "Resist not evil," "My kingdom is not of this world; if My kingdom were of this world, then would My servants fight," "The weapons of our warfare are not carnal" and "Overcome evil with good" are a few terse statements of the New Testament's teaching on war.

"But such principles won't work again such evils as those that threaten us now," is the argument I get when I present these eternal truths. But may I ask, how do you know? Who has tried or is trying them? Is faith in God for good times and security only? Don't tell me that Jesus expects us to defend ourselves with carnal weapons, because you'll not find such a statement in His Book! We need some sincerity when we sing "Protect us by Thy might, great God our King."

MORAL ECHOES

REV. D. W. HASKEW, D.D.

A sour woman, a sour man! That is one kind of a person of whom children are afraid. Young people shun them. Older people are cramped in their presence. Doctor Newsome of Birmingham England writes of a sour woman who nursed her baby while her mind and heart were filled with extreme bitterness. An hour or two later the baby died. Doctor Newsome said the bitterness of the mind caused toxic changes in the milk from the breast and this poisoned the baby. What do we gain by reacting to the things over which we have no control in a fit of bitterness? We should remember that a sour disposition is a matter of cultivation and that we gain nothing, but lose everything, when we become cynical, bitter, sarcastic and despairing. Therefore rejoice and be glad.

If we make our religion as lovely and as attractive as a spring morning, then children will revel in it, love it and live in it. The reason why the world is not drawn to our Christ is because we fail to make our profession real, vital to life. A church affiliation is just about as far as we go. Where Richard Baxter lived it is said that all of his neighbors had family prayer. Today parents have discarded family prayers, and yet the family altar is the main anchor of home life. The family altar is the anchor that holds. Frequently the anchor can not be seen, but in its place under the water it holds the ship steady. A devout, everyday worship, clean living, attractive religion, will create an anchor that holds.

At the close of the World War a large amount of poisoned gas was left in a munition factory near Cologne. The city fathers tried to get rid of this gas by burning it, but vegetation was destroyed. They tried burying it but it ruined the water supply. Some one proposed that it be sent to the sea and cast overboard, but the sea was too far away. Finally it was decided to make a large concrete vault and seal it therein and bury it in a secluded spot for thirty years. You see how hard it was to get rid of poisoned gas. It was harder to exterminate than it was to create. Gossip is social poison and it is not so hard to start, but like poisoned gas, it is hard to overtake, to neutralize and destroy. A gossip should think twice before social poison is created. Gossip is not hard to start, but it is hard to stop.

Recently two English explorers were delving into the secrets of Egyptian tombs. They came upon a small tomb. The iron gate had been sealed for three thousand years. When they opened it they found the mummy of a small child and this inscription, "Oh my life, I love my little one, would God I had died for thee." After reading the inscription the two Archeologists lifted their hats from their heads and tears flowed down their cheeks. Weeping they stepped into the light and scaled the tomb and then walked away to leave love and death to their eternal vigil. Sorrow is as old as the human race. It is no different today from what it was three thousand years ago. A million years from today, sorrow will be the same.

I was traveling on a vessel of the Clyde line and we were off Cape Hattaras. A storm was raging over the waters and our ship was tested to the danger point. I was too sea sick to stay long at any one place. No sea seemed suitable for me to lie. Clinging to the rods of the ship I looked at the raging waters and every wave seemed to say to the ship, "You shall go down." With my traveling pal, we went down to our bunks where we could hear the throb of the engines. They seemed to say, "You shall not go down, you shall not go down." The power within was greater than the power without. It is the biggest of the man within him that will carry him through the storm.

Labor Sunday Message, 1940

Requested to be Read in the Churches on Labor Sunday, September 8, 1940, or, if preferred, on September 1, 1940

(Issued by the Executive Committee of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, through its Department of the Church and Social Service) The Concern of Religion with Unemployment

The founder of Christianity was a workman. Christianity stands in peril when it forgets that Jesus knew what it meant for a man to labor with his hands, to find the joy that comes when with skill he uses mind and body to minister to the needs of men. Work was not a burden when Christ reluctantly assumed it. It was a means of fellowship with God, for Jesus said, "My Father worketh even unto now and I work." Jesus knew that creative work gave meaning and splendor to human life.

Any economic society which fails to provide work for all, not only threatens the bread and butter of the poor, but also robs the unemployed of mankind's divine heritage of self-respecting labor. A human society tainted by unemployment is immoral to the extent that it fails to seek a cure. We would, therefore, confess the corporate sin of our society in which millions today are denied the right to work.

The Extent of Unemployment

The conservative estimates of the National Industrial Conference Board indicate that about nine million potential workers were unemployed in April, 1940. The situation is the more serious because for the past three months of 1939 industrial production, according to the index of the Federal Reserve Board, was greater than the average for the year 1929. While divergent opinions are advanced to account for this unhappy situation, we would emphasize that controversy about the causes must not be permitted to obscure our common responsibility for their removal.

The Nation's Basic Economic Problem

While recognizing that there have been many commendable efforts toward the solution of unemployment, we must now press forward with renewed determination and in a spirit of cooperation and unity. Whatever the defense needs of the nation may be, pre-occupation with them must not be allowed to divert attention from our basic economic problem. The problem of unemployment must not become a political football. It must not be used for partisan purposes by any party. It must be the common concern of all. This is the more important since there revolve around the problem of unemployment other major issues of our national well-being, including our hope for peace and the possible danger of war.

Spiritual and Social Dangers

Economic desperation leads multitudes of well-meaning citizens into temptation. Baffled, confused, embittered, seeing themselves in want in an age of potential plenty, not knowing where to turn, they are an easy prey for demagogues and would-be dictators. It is in such a psychology of despair that class bitterness increases, "scapegoats" are blamed for all the trouble, race hatreds flourish, civil liberties are curtailed or destroyed, labor's rights of organization are imperilled, and the ground is prepared for violence and dictatorship, either from the right or from the left.

It is not enough to condemn these alarming social symptoms which have already made their appearance in the life of our country. The more alarming the symptoms the more urgent it is to insist that the nation's attention be focused on the causes. True religion and sound economics agree that every legitimate effort be made to abolish unemployment.

The Duty of the Church

Because of the issues of justice, human personality, of suffering, want, and of peace or war which involved unemployment is a major concern of the church. The church must insist in the name of God that every man shall have an opportunity for self-respecting work.

Let America accept the challenge, discover and put into effect means for the cure of unemployment as one of the greatest possible contributions to democracy and to enduring peace among all nations.

Let our churches call upon members for their most prayerful thought and sacrificial devotion to end that we may help build a world of economic security, justice, brotherhood and peace.—Alabama Christian Advocate.

ANCESTORS AND OFFICES

Should the American people be governed by what some of their ancestors said, like the Chinese, or be governed by the Constitution which does limit terms of office.—Mountain Echo

Those Washington feminine editors must have taken some of the heat of Florida's Senator Pepper. Anybody he has cooled down.

The Washington Bureau of Economics estimates that the American family cash income for 1940 will be $900,000,000.

Birmingham political gossips are talking about Jim Simpson running for governor. They do it every four years.

The Youth in Business

By C. E. Johnston

Dean, Schools of Business International Correspondence Schools

AMERICA is suddenly faced with a real shortage of men competent to fill junior and senior positions. Now awake to the evils that may befall our democratic institutions through the triumph of European dictators, we may be hamstrung because of lack of men capable of directing production. With many industries changing from working one shift a few days a week to a 24-hour basis there is a dearth of qualified men to supervise operations. Industry needs trained men, not only to operate machines and to direct workers, but also in all offices and in the highest ranks of management. Business long have been aware of a coming shortage of qualified personnel, but have been unable to do much about the problem. There has been opportunity to train young men for high positions, but for a number of years few promotions have been made.

It has been suggested that experts can be "loaned" from certain companies to other concerns where their services will be more urgently needed. Successful experience of one type of industry, however, does not always mean that a man will do a good job in another type of work. Intensive training plan for employees who have shown unusual ability is the best means of overcoming the shortage of skilled personnel. Expanding the number of skilled operators and executives from within is the answer to the question, how can production be increased in the immediate future?

★ FASHION PREVIEW ★

COLLEGE fashions, unless we are mistaken, are going to appeal to many not of college age or over it. For instance, for country goers or walkers in the park on brisk autumn days, the August Harper's Bazaar features among other styles the black and white wool shepherd check, a velveteen collar on the jacket, patch pockets and a red leather belt. High white socks, clocked in red, are much less trying with such a short skirt.

Training of Selected Workers In Defense Project, WPA Aim

By Billy Smith, Director of Information

Accent on national defense projects and training of selected WPA workers in vocations allied to preparedness needs will be one of the foremost features in the aims of the WPA in the State and nation during coming months, Colonel W. G. Henderson, WPA Administrator for Alabama, said today in releasing a survey of WPA activities in Alabama on projects of defense importance.

Already training centers have been established in strategic points throughout the State to give what is called "refresher" courses to those WPA workers who have had basic training or experience in lines of work appurtenant to national defense so that they may be available and ready to accept jobs in those industries likely to produce defense materials.

Projects amounting to a total expenditure of more than three and one-half million dollars have been submitted or approved since June 1, 1940 for Alabama and classed as being of high defense value, Colonel Henderson stated. Work done by the Alabama Work Projects Administration during the past five years on roads, bridges, utilities, at airports, armories and other bases suitable for use by armed forces is a considerable factor in national defense, the survey showed.

Projects Underway

Three new major projects have already started operation in Alabama under the defense program and are furnishing employment to approximately 3,000 men from the rolls of the WPA.

Work on the new Army Training Basic Air Corps located just south of Selma is well underway with several hundred WPA workers rapidly shaping the field and preparing for the construction of 43 barracks to house 60 men each. Approximately 1,000 men will be given employment on this project alone. Other projects in connection with the construction of this air base are awaiting final approval.

Near the municipal airport at Montgomery and adjoining the present field, several hundred WPA workmen are clearing land and preparing for the construction of 34 hollow tile buildings to be used as barracks each housing 60 men. This project also calls for the construction of storm and sanitary sewer systems, roads, walk ways, water systems and incidental work.

Construction by WPA of a new State Arsenal building near Kilby Prison is expected to get underway within a few days.

The Army's Southern Air Depot, at Mobile, is well under construction and several hundred WPA workmen are employed there where utilities such as lighting systems, gas and water facilities are being constructed.

Other projects submitted to the State WPA office since June 1, 1940 and termed of defense value include the construction of a quartermasters warehouse, post exchange, 12 mess halls for enlisted men and officers, headquarters building and concrete tent floors at Fort McClellan; an additional hangar, new concrete runways and general improvements of the National Guard Airport in Birmingham adding to the present facilities; a gunnery base for the Army at Dauphin Island, re-vamping the existing camp and constructing buildings and runways; the construction of an airport at Huntsville and additional barracks at Maxwell Field, Montgomery. Twenty-six stucco barracks have already been completed at Maxwell Field by WPA workmen and three additional buildings will be constructed.

The estimated total expenditure on these projects is $3,521,777.00 with WPA's participation shown at $2,496,605.00 and the estimated total WPA employment on all projects submitted since June 1 and classed as being of defense value with the exception of the statewide vocational training classes is put at 7,036 men.

Finally, in the survey, Colonel Henderson listed the Adult Education classes being conducted throughout the State, as one of the most valuable in that these classes are teaching Americanism and reducing, if not eliminating, illiteracy and forming a definite protection against "fifth columnist" activities in the State.

Gov. Dixon Proclaims Traffic Safety Week

This is Traffic Safety Week in Alabama, Gov. Frank M. Dixon, proclaiming it so several days ago, said, "I especially urge that the parents of children during this safety week impress upon their children rules of safety, and all employers cooperate in stressing to their employees the value of safety in the use of their streets and highways." He declared that "mounting casualties . . . are reaching such proportions and costing such an annual toll of life and health in the state and nation, that it behooves all users of our streets and highways to exercise the utmost care and thought . . ."

The State Highway Patrol is working to further the purpose of the Traffic Safety Week—continued direction of public attention toward public travelling safety, Patrol officials said.

Furniture Goes To Circuit Solicitors

Montgomery—Alabama's solicitors have started calling for "delivery" under a 1940 act which assures them telephone service, stationary, stamps and equipment at state expense.

Finance Director A. R. Forsyth said today a desk and two chairs had been shipped Frank Mizell, Jr., solicitor of the 22nd circuit (Covington County) and president of the State Association of Solicitors.

The act, sponsored by Senator E. F. Hildreth of Eutaw, was described by Forsyth as "virtually a blank check" and he estimated the furniture bill alone would approximate $18,000.

It covers the 23 circuit solicitors and their deputies and assistants in the 67 counties, and appropriates automatically "sufficient funds" from the state treasury to pay the bills.

Passage of the office supply bill, effective upon the approval by Governor Dixon last July 10, followed by several months a bill raising salaries of solicitors but providing they would not engage in private practice on the side after their current terms end.

Immediately all circuit solicitors and deputies elected by the people got $600 yearly raises, while all deputies and assistants not elected got $300. Beginning with new terms in 1934 solicitors and deputies elected by popular vote will get $4,800 from the state instead of $3,600. Deputies not elected by the people will be raised to $4,200 and assistant deputies to $2,400. Many counties supplement salaries of solicitors.

A state renovating shop has been established by Forsyth to repair excess furniture on hand and to maintain that distributed among various offices, including those of solicitors.

French Government Bans Hard Liquors

Vichy, France.—Premier Marshal Philippe Petain's new dry laws are now in effect outlawing all aperitifs containing more than 16 per cent alcohol and clamping restrictions on all other alcoholic drinks except wines and beers.

The laws, which in a happier day would have wrought a revolution in the social life of France, heaviest drinking nation in Europe, were brought on by reports from military experts that alcoholism had caused the moral collapse of the French army under the German attack and that it was the worst of the four main problems now facing the country.

The other problems, as listed by a government spokesman, are "tuberculosis, cancer and syphilis."

REST PERIOD NEEDED

Cows allowed to have a dry period of at least six weeks before calving will produce a higher yearly average amount of milk.

The proposed draft by the military compulsory bill would get between 800,000 and one million men into the army by next July.

McNutt Says F. D. R. Savior Of U. S.

Charging the Republican party with "12 years of economic mismanagement and political blundering," Paul V. McNutt, in a speech at New Haven Conn., credited the Roosevelt administration with saving America from conditions like those which he said led to the collapse of France and the peril of England.

The federal social security administrator, keynoting the Democratic State Convention here, asserted that Wendell L. Willkie, the Republican presidential nominee, and that party leaders "appear completely unaware of the basic conditions which made possible the fall of French civilization and which threaten momentarily a blackout of the British."

"It was not, as they suppose, the mere fact that the Nazis had built a few thousand tanks or a fleet of bombers which the French could not catch," he said. "These facts were themselves the result of more fundamental causes."

McNutt asserted that the Battle for France "was lost before Hitler's march through the Low Countries was begun."

"Something had already happened to France and it had happened to England," he said. "And that same thing was happening to the United States of America before 1932."

"That is why we were as helpless before the economic blitzkrieg of 1929 as were the French before Hitler's wave of green-gray troops and roaring bombers."

"But America was saved. It was saved by the Democratic party, by Democratic leadership, and by a courageous, far-seeing Democratic president, Franklin Delano Roosevelt."

There is music even in the beauty, and the silent note which cupid strikes far sweeter than the sound of an instrument.—Sir Thomas Browne.

SARDIS

Health of this community is very good at present. We had a good attendance at Sunday School and B. Y. P. U. Sunday and Sunday night.

Messrs. E. L. Owen and Welch Knuck reported an enjoyable trip to Indiana last week to drive back a new school bus.

There will be a cemetery cleaning at Sardis Friday morning August 30, everybody come and bring tools to work with.

Remember Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night are our regular preaching days. All members are urged to be present as this is the time to call a pastor for another year. Everybody has an invitation to be present at these services.

Southern Governors To Hold Conference

Thirteen Southern chief executives, members of the Southern Governors' Conference, will hold shipboard conference on Mobile bay, Sept. 15-17.

National freight rate equality and balanced Southern prosperity are two problems to be discussed, according to Georgia Governor E. D. Rivers, chairman of the Conference.

Chester the Pup

By GEORGE O'HALLORAN

UNCLE SEDGEWICK is a handy

guy to have around the house. He's always willing to help with the work. In fact he insists on helping.

The only trouble is that you have to do it his way. This morning he helped Charlene with the wash and before they were half through he had her madder than a Swiss yodeler with a split lip. She had half a dozen of Spindlegoose' shirts in the wash machine and uncle dumped in a gallon of bleach, and when Charlene went to take them out all that was left were the buttons. He's as nearsighted as an owl at noon, too. I was dozing in the wash basket and the bug klunk picked me up and I dunked me in the bluing and now I look like a Christmas tree ornament. He starched all the turkish towels and stockings. He even starched his beard by mistake, and when it dried it was so stiff he couldn't open his mouth.

Miss Haynes Conducts Leadership School

Miss Carline Haynes, Specialist in Clothing and Handicraft, conducted a Leadership school at the Conference Room at the Home Demonstration Agent's office on "Firm Foundation Garments and Slips." Each leader who attended drafted her own slip pattern. Plans were made for giving the demonstration in the clubs during the months of September and October. The following leaders attended:

Mrs. A. B. Jones, Mrs. T. J. Cowart, Mrs. J. A. Marcus, Mrs. R. R. Sutley, Mrs. J. E. Williams, Mrs. C. J. Williams, Mrs. Hoyt Cleveland, Mrs. Matthews, Mrs. A. D. Scott, Mrs. H. L. Ruffin, Mrs. G. W. Samsom, Mrs. R. L. Sutley, Mrs. J. B. Hicks, Mrs. A. L. Phalin, Mrs. Belle Dorniney.

SHELBY FARMER KNOWS HOW TO RAISE STOCK

When you raise 80 beef cattle, 10 work mules and colts, four brood mares, two brood sows, 25 pigs and a flock of poultry on feed produced on 160 acres of land, you're doing something to crow about!

W. S. Bailey, of Montevallo, Shelby County, is doing just that. The only feed he bought for his stock the past year was two sacks of wheat bran, and that was given as a laxative feed for his brood mares at foaling time.

Mr. Bailey took several honors at the colt show in Auburn during Farm and Home Week. With one brood mare and five colts, he won first place in the mule colt class, under one-year-old section; first, second and third prizes for the second section, one-year-old and under two-years; championship mule colt ribbon, and the first prize for the mare and colt class.

German Troops Eat Soybean Flour

The "National Provisioner" reports that soybean flour is being used in substantial quantities for feeding military forces in Germany. A method has been devised by scientists for producing "pure soy" which is more similar in its constituents to meat and livestock products than to cereal.

Being a vegetable product, it is said to cost less than the livestock products it replaces. It is also important in helping Germany to economize in the use of fats—Alabama Journal.

FIRST SEED ASSOCIATION

Selma.—What is thought to be the first seed improvement association in the state was organized at a meeting of Marion Junction, Dallas County, farmers, at the Black Belt experiment station, the object being to get pure strain Alabama seed, especially for Winter and Summer legumes. A. F. Caley was elected president; R. B. Wallace, vice president, and H. A. Strobel, secretary and treasurer.

FINE DAIRY HERDS

Nine Alabama dairy herds averaged over 400 pounds of milk or 30 pounds of butterfat the past month. They are: Bonis Bros., Talladega County; Spring Lake Farm, Jefferson County; C. C. Glenn and Sons, Morgan County; J. C. Berne, Madison County; Howard Gray, Madison County; King Bros., Perry County; J. J. Paine, Mobile County; W. J. Forrester, Houston County; Kirby Dairy Farm, Montgomery County.

"Build-Up" Relief Explained to Women

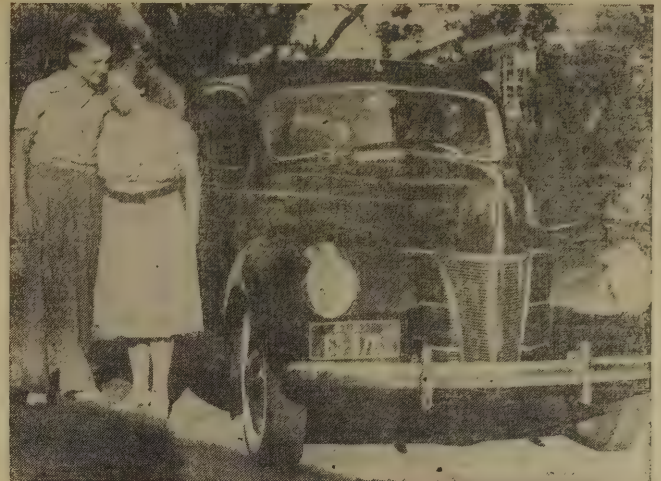

A simple method has saved many women a lot of suffering!

It is based on the fact that headaches, nervousness, cramp-like pains are often symptoms of functional dysmenorrhea due to malnutrition.

Help for this condition so often follows the use of CARDUI, because it usually increases the appetite and the flow of gastric juice; thus aids digestion and helps build physical resistance. Usual result is less periodic distress.

Many who take CARDUI a few days before and during "the time" have found this helps ease periodic discomfort. Women have used CARDUI for more than 50 years!

ALABAMA BOY LEAVES FOR NEW YORK FINALS IN $30,000 NATIONAL GOOD DRIVERS CONTEST

Grover Marchison, Jr., 16, Montgomery, is pictured here with his mother shortly after being informed that he had won top ranking among boys of high school age from all over Alabama who competed in the Ford Good Drivers League contest. They leave this week for New York where Grover will represent Alabama in the national finals. $30,000.00 in college scholarships await the winners at New York. While at New York, Grover and Mrs. Marchison will be guests of The Ford Motor Company.

THORSBY LIONS CLUB

The Lions Club met at New Salem Church on Tuesday night. The ladies of the church served a delightful supper and the program which was provided was splendid. County Agent Pat Smith being the principle speaker, discussed "New Programs in Chilton County." There was a good turnout and an enjoyable meeting. The New Salem ladies are excellent hostesses.

The Junior Girls Sewing Club met at the home of Eloise Piper, Tuesday, Aug. 28. A one-act play entitled "Aunt Jemima's Money" was presented. The cast included Eloise Piper, Eulagete Belter, Patty and Anita Campbell. A helpful talk on "good manners at the Sewing Club" was given by Mrs. Campbell. In the business meeting which followed it was voted to hold a "hot" roast instead of the regular meeting on the next Tuesday to be in the park under the supervision of Mrs. J. O. Johnson. The meeting adjourned to the church for the regular rehearsal of the Junior Choir.

The Ladies Guild will hold another party on "dormitory hill" on Thursday night of this week, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Campbell. Entertainment has been planned by the committee in charge to provide a good time for everyone. It will include table games of all kinds, horseshoe pitching and a program of musical numbers by the Junior Choral Club, a one-act play, by the same group, and a Scotch Auction. A most enjoyable evening is promised, and the proceeds are to go toward the new refrigerator for the boarding department of Thorsby Institute. Everyone is most cordially invited to come and join in the fun.

THORSBY INSTITUTE

The Library of the Institute will be open on Friday of this week because of the work of renovation and decoration which is being done preparatory to the opening of school on September 11th. Some of the class rooms are being repainted, and a new hardwood floor is being laid in the main hall. The work on the hall will prevent any access to the library. The library will be open again on Tuesday, September 2nd.

Miss Elsie Tinker, who was elected last Spring to head the music department of Thorsby Institute, holds a Bachelor of Music degree from Oberlin College Conservatory, with the major in piano and a minor in voice. Miss Tinker is an experienced teacher, having taught music in Hudson, Ohio for the past four years and also has taught in Oberlin Conservatory. She has been a member of the church choir where she did much solo work; also a member of the Musical Union at Oberlin. Her Commencement Recital contained such selections as Scarlatti Pastoral, Capriccio with other selections by Beethoven, a group of Chopin and Litz. Miss Tinker brings to Thorsby Institute in addition to a keen musical ability a wide experience in dramatics and will add much to the program of the school year.

BAPTIST CHURCH

There will be regular services Sunday and Sunday night. Everyone invited.

Mrs. Ida Breckner of Chicago is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Fred Howard.

Joe Tine of Washington, D. C. and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Payne of Hueytown, Miss J. of Birmingham, spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Howard.

Mrs. Ben Franklin returned to Ope-like Tuesday after visiting with her sons and their families here for several days.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Higdon of Campbellsville, Ky., returned home last Friday after visiting Florida, Opelika and Thorsby.

Mrs. J. H. Goddard had for her 6 o'clock dinner guests last Monday Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nelson, Mr. Homer Sims and Mr. C. W. Karlson.

Congregational Ladies Aid
The Congregational Ladies Aid will meet on Thursday September 5th at the home of Mrs. T. E. Campbell. Everyone invited.

Mr. Jim Higgins and son Herman and Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Hak of New York left last Wednesday for a camping trip at Blount Springs and Muscle Shoals. Mrs. Hak and Mrs. Higgins were girlhood friends and this is the first time they have seen each other in 24 years. Mr. and Mrs. Hak have been visiting Mrs. Hak's sister, Mrs. Maynard at Maynard's Chapel for several weeks.

Messrs. John and Aleck Rowell recently visited their parents here.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Johnson of Montgomery visited relatives here Sunday.

Mrs. Grover Bice, Mrs. H. L. Walker and Miss Pauline Walker, Mary Virginia Bice, Emogene Lowery and Billy Childress attended the Deep South concert in Birmingham Friday night.

Miss Mabel Gibbons of Falkville, is visiting relatives and friends here for a few days.

Mrs. Jack Berriman and Folsom of Sebring, Fla., visited Mr. and Mrs. Harry Thompson the past week end.

Mr. Frank Powers and Mrs. Ella S. Jackson, of Miami Fla., are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Harry Thompson. Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Laull of Birmingham were also guests of Mr. and Mrs. Thompson Sunday.

Jack Higgins of Tuscaloosa is at home with his parents until time for him to resume his studies at University of Alabama.

Miss P. Bell of Monticello, Fla. and Mrs. Eric Bell and children of Tallahassee, Fla., spent last week with Mr. and Mrs. Rowland Funk.

Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Funk of Strasburg, Va., returned home Tuesday after spending 1 day here with Dr. and Mrs. Funk.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Robinson, Misses Hilma Collins and Bernice Robinson and Mrs. Paul Marcus spent last Thursday in Arab and Cullman. While in Cullman they went to see little Jerusalem.

Mr. S. J. Davenport left Sunday for Charlotte, N. C., to take up his new position with the International Harvester Co.

Mrs. Coy Gibbons and son Farrell went to Selma Tuesday for Farrell to undergo treatment from Dr. James F. Ellison.

Mr. and Mrs. Ruel Parsons of Birmingham spent Sunday with her parents Mr. and Mrs. John Cayton. Davis Dean returned home with them for a two weeks visit.

Fifty years ago on Aug. 24, 1890, near Wetumpka in Elmore County, Jimmie Ann Goodwin, aged 22 was married to James William McCain, aged 24. They lived in Elmore county until they moved to Thorsby in 1918. Mr. McCain was a farmer, but for the last several years he has been the one who has kept the Thorsby streets and park clean. Their children are Frank, Elizabeth, Mrs. Marion Martin, Russell and Stella. Mrs. Johnnie Burnett, Mrs. Martin has a daughter and a son and Mrs. Burnett has four sons and four daughters. To honor Mr. and Mrs. McCain on their Golden Wedding Anniversary Saturday the Eastern Star and several other friends gathered in the City Park for a pot luck lunch. Mr. and Mrs. McCain received many lovely gifts and flowers, and they wish to thank all their friends for the many expressions of friendship. Mrs. Martin could not be present at the celebration Saturday, so the McCains and their four children and nine grandchildren celebrated a second day with a pot luck lunch in the park on Sunday.

There was a happy gathering at the Johnsons house last week with all the immediate family home. They began gathering a week ago Saturday and were all present by Monday afternoon. There were Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Johnson and two sons, Bobby and Billy; Mr. and Mrs. Emil Peterson with daughter, Henrietta and son Forrest; Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Kietzman, all from Gary, Ind.; Mr. and Mrs. Veddie L. Johnson from Dallas, Texas; and Miss Esther Johnson, who arrived a week ago from a visit to Gary, Ind.

Two years ago Mrs. Peterson was the only one of her family here. Henrietta Peterson went to Birmingham Thursday to visit Norma Peterson for a day. They met in Thorsby several years ago. All the rest of the visitors attended the Ladies Guild at Mrs. Chas. Howard on Thursday. Bobby and Billy Johnson and Edith Kietzman furnished music. Maynard and Veddie Johnson left Friday morning and the rest left Saturday.

Miss Arlis Hodgins of Pleasant Grove spent last week here with Mr. and Mrs. W. E. McKelley.

Mr. and Mrs. John Rowell and family visited relatives in Birmingham Sunday.

Mrs. J. P. Payne Sr., is spending this week in Randolph with her sister.

Mrs. Ida Bellenger of Cleveland, Ala., is visiting Mr. and Mrs. W. E. McKelley.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Collins and children left Monday to spend several days in Panama, Florida with her parents Rev. and Mrs. L. E. Goodgame.

Mr. and Mrs. Keith Litz of Selma were Sunday visitors here.

Miss Bertha Littleton of Birmingham spent the week end with home folks.

GOOD COWS, GOOD PASTURES

Auburn, Ala.—Scrub cows on excellent pasture land is no better a condition than high producing cows on poor pasture land, says F. W. Burns, experienced dairyman. The immediate requirement, he continues, is to put high-grade dairy cattle on succulent and abundant pasture. Only then can the farmer expect to get the greatest profit.

German-Russian Agreement Sealed Fate of Many Nations

Says the Associated Press in Birmingham Age-Herald:

A year ago today (Friday) a world grown used to one crisis after another received another jolt—the signing of the German-Russian non-aggression treaty. "The seeds of a new great war," was the general reaction to this startling handclasp between Adolph Hitler and Joseph Stalin.

Prophetic words they were, for since then—

France lies prostrate in the ruins of her greatest military defeat.

Poland has vanished.

Britain is at bay, under the greatest aerial siege of all time and facing her first threatened invasion of any consequence in 874 years.

In all, 10 nations have lost their independence, some their identity.

And the German Fuehrer, architect of a "new Europe," still is busy at his drawing board.

Here's what has happened to date: POLAND—Capitulated Oct. 1, 1939, just one month after Hitler began his invasion. Now divided up between Germany and Russia, whose Red army marched in 17 days after the Nazis.

FINLAND—Signed peace treaty with Russia March 12, after three months and 11 days of fighting, giving Russia Karelian Isthmus, including Viipuri, her second city, and a military base on Hanko Peninsula; Finnish territory incorporated twelfth republic of U. S. S. R.

DENMARK—Invaded and occupied by the Germans in one day, April 9, 1940; King Christian remains in Denmark.

Norway Falls to Nazis
NORWAY—Invaded April 9; abandoned to Germans when Allies withdrew from Narvik, June 9; King Haakon fled to England.

LUXEMBURG—Invaded and occupied in a day, May 10; no organized resistance; Grand Duchess Charlotte fled to Portugal, her husband and children are in the United States.

THE NETHERLANDS—Invaded May 10; capitulated May 14; Queen Wilhelmina fled to England before the surrender.

BELGIUM—Invaded May 10; King Leopold capitulated May 28.

FRANCE—Signed German armistice June 24; government under Marshal Philippe Petain established at Vichy in unoccupied territory; trial of pre-armistick French leaders for "war blame" is under way.

RUMANIA—Ceded Bessarabia and Northern Bucovina to Russia June 27; larger part of Bessarabia incorporated into Moldavian Republic, thirteenth in the U. S. S. R.; Now negotiating with Hungary and Bulgaria, at Hitler's orders, for cession of parts of Transylvania and Dobruja to those countries.

LITHUANIA—Howed to Russian demands incorporated as fourteenth Soviet Republic, Aug. 3.

LATVIA—Incorporated as fifteenth republic in the U. S. S. R., Aug. 5.

ESTONIA—Became sixteenth Soviet Republic, Aug. 6, completing Russia's bloodless conquest of the three Baltic states.

In the Balkans, Allied influence has all but vanished; German, Italian and Russian influence has grown.

Rumania, her boundaries guaranteed by the Allies, plunged to German influence after the fall of France and shaped her government to fit the Nazi pattern.

Turkey likewise lost interest in her engagements with Britain and France and now is courting Russian favor.

Pro-British Greece still loudly proclaims her neutrality and is hoping, like her neighbors, to keep out of the war but a newly-launched Italian press campaign, similar to those of Germany against Czechoslovakia and Poland has put the Greeks on the horns of a dilemma.

Not in the clamor of the crowded street.
Not in the shouts and plaudits of the throng,
But in ourselves are triumph and defeat.

MISS SARA HOLLIS FETED

One of the loveliest of the prenuptial affairs honoring Miss Sara Hollis of Mitchell Dam was the noon breakfast at which Miss Helen Moore and Miss Mary Courtney Jones entertained jointly at the home of the latter on Tuesday morning.

The guests were seated at small tables which were centered with a miniature bride and groom surrounded with rose buds and plumosa fern. The breakfast favors and place cards were in bridal motif. The breakfast menu served in courses carried out the color scheme of white and gold. White roses, phlox and zinnias were used in profusion throughout the apartment which had as its central theme a bride standing before a white flower-decked altar. A unique feature was the clever toasts given by each guest to the bride.

Those present: Sarah Hollis, Deanie Hollis, Jerry Alred, Betty Hollis, Loyall Dowling, Modessa Kirksey, Mildred Johnson, Mrs. Charles Duncan, Ann Callen, Loretta Lord.

MR. AND MRS. CALLEN ENTERTAIN

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Callen entertained at home Monday night with a buffet supper in honor of Miss Sarah Hollis and Mr. Mayhugh Duncan whose wedding took place Tuesday. The guests were invited into the dining room which was decorated in the traditional white. The bride's table was decorated with two wedding bell cakes surrounded with tube roses and silver lace vine. At the top of the bells was the bride's bouquet of bridal roses, gypsophila and tube roses. After supper the party left for Mitchell Dam for the rehearsal. Among the out-of-town guests were Misses Mildred Johnson, Neeska Kirksey, Loretta Lord, Messrs. Mayhugh Duncan, Tommy Donaldson, Earl Duncan and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Duncan.

Lights of New York

by L. L. STEVENSON

Chicanery: Here's the latest racket being worked on Broadway—a revival of an old trick yet one that's proving highly successful. A not too busy drinking place is selected and a cheater comes in as a stranger to a confederate who is already at the bar. The stranger gives a demonstration of sleight-of-hand and then, as a final trick, requests the loan of a five spot from the till. The bill is vanished and slipped to the confederate who immediately buys a drink for himself. By this time, the bartender is a bit worried over the fin that has disappeared. So the dishonest one tells him to look in the register and sure enough, there is the identical five, serial number and all. With that, the confederate and his confederate suddenly remember important engagements and depart on their separate ways only to meet and divide their loot.

C'est la Guerre: During a visit to Bill and Dot down in Washington, Dot's mother, Mrs. Louise Hamer, discovered that grandpa, the nestor and pride of Bill and Dot's turtle collection, was not enjoying himself because his particular delicacy, ant eggs, was not readily obtainable in the national capital. So when she returned to New York, Mrs. Hamer visited a downtown pet store. There she learned that ant eggs at present are indeed scarce because they are imported from Russia and Finland. Conditions overseas being what they are, ant eggs have increased in price from 75 cents to $3 a pound. Fortunately, ant eggs are extremely light, so two packages were sent to Washington and last reports have it that grandpa once again is enjoying the delicacy that appeals to him and thus is able to scorn chopped steak.

Street Scene: Little mothers looking after their charges in the shadows of frowning tenements. . . One of those horse-drawn, hand-operated merry-go-rounds. . . With a tired-looking steed standing patiently. . . While the owner with smiles and gestures invites patrons into the seats. . . The seats are filled and the merry-go-round man starts to crank. . . But only for a moment. . . Eager youngsters spring forward with pleas to be allowed to do his work. . . and while he rests, youth turns the crank. . . and the little mothers, at their charges, gurgles and coo, smile. . . While I, being an old one, am reminded of Tom Sawyer and that job of whitewashing a fence.

Cat Story: Mrs. Lavelle G. Brown of Glendale, Calif., in town with her husband who was here on business, told me of her cat Tony, a short-haired 14-pound regular old tom with a big head, but well beloved nevertheless. One day Mrs. Brown missed Tony and calls, endearing and otherwise, failed to cause him to appear. Fearing that he had been lured away by some siren or a desire for exploration, Mrs. Brown wondered what she would tell her husband whom Tony always greeted with affection. But, as she was preparing dinner, Mrs. Brown opened the refrigerator door and there he was, as if he had been attacked by hunger urge, he had gone inside in search of refreshment, and the door had been closed. But, as defrosting was in process, no harm was done and Tony greeted Mr. Brown as usual.

Swing: The other night at Fiesta Danceteria, one of the swing bands had just left the stand when a bus boy carrying a tray of dishes and silver fell down the flight of stairs connecting the upper and lower dance floors. He was unhurt but there was a terrific clatter of china and knives and forks. Immediately several dozen pairs of jitterbugs got up to dance while a more exuberant swing-o-nut jumped from his chair and shouted, "Boy, what an arrangement!"

Redskins: Harold Lamston, ex-Broadway producer who turned five-and-dime impresario, wanted a pair of Indians in full regalia to symbolize the nickel piece at the opening of a new diner. After several round-the-town calls, he got in contact with Harry Lee, booking agent. First, Lee wanted Lamston to hire the entire Indian tribe that had worked at the World's fair. Finally, working down from a rate of $10 an hour, they came to terms and then Lamston wanted to know if the Indians were the McCoy.

"Sure," declared Lee. "These fellows are C. P. I."

"What's 'C. P. I.?' demanded Lamston.

"I thought you knew," responded Lee. "C. P. I. means 'Certified Public Indians.'"

Sign Grows Too Empty; Repairs Are Ordered

FULLERTON, CALIF.—The city council decided something had to be done about the electric sign that is supposed to say "Welcome to Fullerton." First one letter went out and it read: "We come to Fullerton." Then it became, "We to Fullerton." And finally, "We to Full." Then they ordered repairs.

Diver Describes Wealth Lying on The Ocean Floor

Fabulous Fortunes Awaiting Daring Adventurer With Capital.

MILWAUKEE.—A fabulous fortune lies at the bottom of the ocean awaiting any adventurer with daring and capital enough to get it.

Max Eugene Nohl, deep sea diver and inventor, described the wealth under the seas in sunken ships and other sources.

"In the South Seas," he said, "I can take you up in an airplane and show you 200 wrecked ships lying on the bottom in the clear water in less than an hour."

A six-foot, 10-year-old diver who made the world's deepest dive, 420 feet, intends to investigate these wrecks this summer in a combined salvage and motion picture expedition.

Many of the ships lying on the ocean floor prove disappointing, according to Nohl. Their once valuable cargoes will be ruined by sea water, or after hours of dangerous work the diver will find a safe he laboriously hauled to the surface was ransacked by the crew before abandoning ship.

Certain of Wealth.

But there is the optimistic side of the picture, too, Nohl contends. Some of the cargoes will be intact and some of the safes will contain large sums.

He estimated there are 3,600 sunken ships in the South Seas alone that are worth salvaging.

Another fortune could be made, the youthful adventurer asserted, in diving for sponges—which live on the floor of the ocean.

However, even before beginning to think of cashing in on this tempting wealth, large capital is needed, Nohl said. He pointed out that the necessary diving equipment, salvage ship and provisions for a trained crew, as well as the months of preparation and the unfruitful searches, run into a lot of money.

Another consideration before tackling the job of salvaging a fortune from the sea is the danger involved.

Last summer Nohl salvaged the steamer Tarpon in the South Seas. It proved to be a lucky strike because the ship's safe carried a large pay roll, but it almost cost the young diver's life.

Work 110 Feet Down.

Operations had reached the point where most of the wreckage obstructing the captain's cabin had been cleared away. Nohl was working on the ship in 110 feet of water.

"The crew signaled me that my time was up on the bottom," Nohl said. "But spurred on by the excitement of knowing that our objective was close I decided to stay down another 10 minutes."

"Well, the time stretched into one—two—three hours. Then I started up in the usual way—stopping for 30 minutes at various stages so that I would become accustomed to the changes in pressure gradually."

"At the surface," he continued, "I felt fine except for a slight gnawing in my stomach."

It was the dreadful bends—a reaction accompanied by unbearable pain experienced by divers and others who work under pressure and then return to normal air pressure too quickly.

He was rushed to a hospital, where, after repeated doses of morphine and several days' rest, he was normal again except that his arms remained partly paralyzed. Despite this, he returned to the salvage work, finding that whenever he was diving his arm functioned properly, becoming limp when he returned to the surface.

"It was worth it," Nohl commented, but he would not reveal the amount rescued from the ship's safe.

Shunned by Former Wife, Kills Self With Dynamite

BUTTE, MONT.—Frank Mingus, 32 years old, was killed last night by a dynamite charge. Patrolman Cyril Kohn said Mingus set it off in a downtown hotel after failing to effect a reconciliation with his divorced wife.

Kohn and Mrs. J. R. Martin, 61, mother of Mingus' former wife, were injured.

Kohn went to the hotel after Mrs. Martin and her daughter, Mrs. Lois Mingus, complained that Mingus was molesting them.

Mingus ran into a bathroom. Kohn said he ordered Mingus to come out, and a few seconds later heard an explosion.

Meetings have been planned for all the churches in the Chilton County Association the 5th Sunday in this month. We are not trying to arrange a meeting for a church that doesn't want it, but we thought that all the churches would be willing to cooperate in this plan. If there is a church that for any reason had rather not have the meeting please notify Mr. I. McLeod Thorsby and the service will be called off.

The following services were planned by the Executive committee and a group of pastors.

MISS HOLLIS AND MR. DUNCAN ARE MARRIED

The marriage of Miss Sarah Hollis to Macgough Thomas Duncan took place Tuesday afternoon at 5:30 at a beautiful ceremony in the garden of Mr. and Mrs. John Hollis, parents of the bride, at Mitchell Dam with the Rev. Oscar Davis, of Clanton, officiating.

The improvised altar at the lower end of the garden was a wrought iron fernery filled with urns of white gladioli, asters and tube roses banked with Southern smilax, palms and ferns.

An aisle from the terrace was formed of garlands of smilax, interspersed with garden flowers along which the bridal party approached the altar.

A program of nuptial music was rendered by Miss Beverly Hester, pianist; Sidney L. Gibson, violinist, and Mrs. Stockley Porch vocalist.

Serving as groomsmen were Callen Alfred, Harold Lawrence, William Calton, all of Clanton, and Virgil Newton of Mitchell Dam.

Miss Geraldine Hollis, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Mildred Johnson, of Lincoln; Miss Modesta Kirksey of Aliceville. Miss Betty Hollis, a younger sister of the bride, and Miss Jerry Alfred were junior bridesmaids.

The maid of honor wore a Molyneux model creation of lilac and prairie rose taffeta built over satin foundation. The necklace was fashioned square, the sleeves short and puffed. The bodice of the garment was cut on princess lines and the added charm of the voluminous skirt was pounds of matching net. The bridesmaids' dresses, fashioned on identical lines, were of cornflower blue. They carried large crushed garden hats with long ribbon streamers, filled with blue and purple asters, daisy mums, tube roses and blue cornflower.

The bride entered on the arm of her father, John Hollis, who gave her in marriage. They were met by the bridegroom and his best man, Tommy Donaldson, of Sheffield.

The bride gown was an original Tafel model, developed of white duchess satin. The neckline was of a square design trimmed of real laces. The sleeves were long, ending in points over the hand. The bodice of the garment was closely fitted, shirred on to a princess squire effect. The skirt was extremely full and extended into an elaborate train. The circular veil of bridal illusion fell gracefully from a train made of seed pearls. Her only ornament was an heirloom string of pearls. She carried a bridal bouquet of valley lilies, gardenias and stephanotis tied with white satin ribbon.

Immediately following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. John Hollis entertained with a reception in the garden. The bride's mother received in an Alix model made of mauve faille. She wore a French nosegay. Mrs. Charles Duncan, sister-in-law of the groom, wore blue lace with large picture hat and she wore a corsage of rubrum lilies.

After a wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Duncan will be at home in Leighton, Ala., where they will be members of the high school staff. Mrs. Duncan received her education in Clanton county schools and her B. S. degree from Alabama College, where she was outstanding in all campus activities. Mr. Duncan received his education at Birmingham-Southern and Tennessee State Teachers' College and is doing graduate work at L. S. U.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Roebuck of Flomaton spent Monday with Mr. and Mrs. M. L. White.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. White of Mountain Creek spent Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. M. L. White.

COUNCIL REJECTS REQUEST FOR TWO VOTING PLACES

In anticipation that the Mayor and Councilmen would comply with the request relative to two voting places and an equal number of election officials for the General Municipal Election to be held September 16, 1940 of Clanton, Alabama, C. E. Stapp, James Wade, Otto Jones and John Deramus candidates for Mayor and Councilmen, submitted the following request on September 3, 1940:

We the undersigned candidates for Mayor and Councilmen to be voted upon in the General Municipal Election to be held September 16, 1940, respectfully submit and request that the following qualified voters in the city of Clanton be named and notified to serve as election officials in the General Municipal Election to be held September 16, 1940.

City Hall Box: J. R. Mullins, Manager. N. L. Roberts, Clerk. Hayes Store Box: J. Will Hayes, Manager. Roy Roper, Clerk. Absentee Box: J. Hance Alfred, Earl Parrish.

At the regular Council meeting on September 3, 1940 the council rejected the request for two voting places. Grady Hefflin, and L. E. Diefenderfer voted for compliance with the request while Councilmen H. S. Shaw, J. Watt Moore and T. W. Kemp voted to have only one voting place. The City Clerk will receive and deliver to the election officials Absentee Ballots.

The part of the request relative to election officials was complied with, in that J. R. Mullins, J. W. Hayes and Roy Roper were named as requested by the above candidates. Marion Foshee, Marion Gore and Joe Calloway were named by the Mayor and Council to serve with Mullins, Hayes and Roper.

ALEX ARNOLD CHOSEN TO GIVE BLOOD FOR BOBBY ALEXANDER

Alex Arnold, Junior Littlefield, Alex Hayes, Tom Burdette and L. D. East-erling went to Birmingham Tuesday to offer blood for Bobby Alexander who lies seriously ill in a hospital there. After tests were made Alex Arnold was chosen and returned Wednesday morning for the transfusion. It had not been learned at this writing whether Bobby's condition had improved.

TRIPLE LADIES AID

About thirty members and friends of the Ladies Aid of the Mt. Springs, Eastview and Mt. Creek Congregational churches were the guests of the Mt. Creek Union church Ladies' Aid at their church last Thursday afternoon.

A devotional program by the Union church group was arranged by Mrs. Alma Waiter. From behind the scenes, as a radio program various songs, poems, stories, prayers and talks centered around the idea, "And I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto me." Refreshments were served by the entertaining society and an enjoyable afternoon passed together.

EASTVIEW

The annual meeting of the East-view church for election of pastor for the coming year will be after the morning service next Saturday, Sept. 7th. Rev. Luther Ballou will preach at 11 a. m. Saturday, 11 a. m. Sunday and also 7:30 p. m. Sunday. Sunday School at 10 a. m.

THANKS FROM DR. PARRISH

I wish to thank all of you who have always cooperated so beautifully in putting over this anti-rabies program. For your information I wish to say we have not had one rabid animal in the county nor have we had one person to take the rabies treatment in nearly two years. You will agree with me that we have almost forgot mad dogs, and to forget such a dreaded thing is a great blessing. Now all of you who have not treated your dog please come on and let's do a good job so we may maintain this good record. Sept 1st the extra fee was added according to law. So please have the respect to not ask your veterinarian to be a law violator by trying to get him to do it for the old price which you had nine months to get it done in. Again thanking you in behalf of the state and county department of health and your rabies inspector. I am always for a bigger and better Chilton County. W. L. PARRISH.

HISTORY OF
Chilton County High School was established in 1914, and the building was erected that year at a cost of approximately $18,000. The first session began in January, 1915, with Prof. C. C. Slaton as principal. Some of the assistant teachers during the first few years included: Howard L. Fohsee, Miss Corita Wilson, Miss Hortense Harris, Claude R. Wood, Mrs. Wood, Miss Annie Hall Bibb, Thomas L. Tinsley. Graduates from the high school the first year were: Omond B. Thompson, Willie C. Edwards, Walter E. Martin, A. Dorcas Maddox and Miss Jimmie Morrow. In 1916 the graduates were: Reynolds, Ara Eustace Mullins, Thomas E. Wynn, Oscar W. Jones, Beatie Davis, Wm. Edgar T. Gragg and James Artelt Mullins. The next graduates included Dewey Rockett, Ruben Lewis, Mary Curry, Arden Allen and others. It was largely through the persistent efforts of Pickens that the high school was founded and the school—20 acres of land—was donated by A. M. Gowan. The building was erected by J. Sons. W. T. Bean was Superintendent of Education the high school was founded. Following C. C. Slaton, principals of the school were: Ford McDonald, Prof. Thompson, S. E. Alverman, J. Pickens, T. Calvin Stephens, Elsworth Ellis, L. terson Hicks, the present principal, took charge September, 1936. Before the county high school was established grades in Clanton were taken care of by the Clanton

Vacancies In Marine Corps Open To Ambitious Young Men

Birmingham, Ala., Aug. 1940—The U. S. Marine Corps, rich in tradition and those qualities that go to make a first class military organization, until it attains its authorized strength of 34,000 enlisted men will have an unlimited number of vacancies for ambitious young men who are looking to the future rather than the present. Any young man who sincerely desires to advance towards the top and who applies himself to his work with that end in view will soon realize his ambition if he enlists in the Marine Corps now. Young men who are white, unmarried and without dependents, 18 to 30 years of age, not less than 64 nor more than 74 inches in height, of good moral character, with an eighth grade or above education, and who are in good physical condition are eligible for enlistment in the Marine Corps.

STAPP INSURANCE AGENCY

as previously stated ambitious young men are wanted, and those who can qualify for enlistment should make application to the Marine Corps Recruiting Office, Clark Building, 20th Street and 4th Avenue, North, Birmingham, either in person or by mail. Any Postmaster will be glad to furnish application blanks and instructions in preparing and mailing them.

The Marine Corps not only offers the chance to travel extensively, but also the opportunity to complete an interrupted education. The Marine Corps is known as "the best educated military service;" many Marines obtain responsible and well paying positions after discharge, for which they have prepared themselves while in the service by means of the numerous correspondence courses offered all Marines. These courses are offered free, and include a wide variety of subjects, from diversified farming to ocean navigation. The promise of travel is not an idle one, as Marines are serving their country in Alaska, China, Guam, Hawaii, Panama, the West Indies, the Philippines and the Virgin Islands; aboard all Aircraft carriers, battleships and cruisers in the U. S. Navy; and at all naval stations in the United States. The sea-going soldiers are taught qualities of leadership, perseverance, and discipline that prove invaluable in any line of work. Young men who want to do their part in the preparedness program can do no better, for themselves or their country, than to enlist in the United States Marine Corps.

Alabama Leads With Austrian Pea Orders

Alabama is leading all other states in the Union in obtaining Austrian winter peas under the AAA grant-off-aid.

Latest figures show that Alabama farmers have ordered 11,666,700 pounds with prospects for 15,000,000 pounds ordered before the end of the legume planting season.

Two soil-building payments are available to Alabama farmers who sow Austrian winter peas this fall and turn under a good stand and a good growth or leave them on the land.

The 1940 agricultural conservation program makes $1.50 available to each farmer seeding at least 30 pounds of Austrian winter peas per acre. An additional payment will be available under the 1941 program for turning under a good stand and a good growth secured from this year's seeding.

AAA COMMITTEEMEN

Election of county and community AAA committeemen will be held in Alabama in November prior to the beginning of the new program in December.

War Adds Odd Words to Talk

Language Habits Affected By Conflict, Survey of Speech Reveals.

WASHINGTON.—Bombs and guns of the European war have jolted the language habits of this nation's "man-in-the-street" even though he lives safely 3,000 miles from the front, a survey of popular speech here reveals.

Strange foreign words, and curious English phrases that he never heard until last September already are a part of the average man's speech because he is "bombed" with them daily in his newspaper and in speeches he hears.

"Blitzkrieg"—the German word for lightning war—is one of these. It is on the lips of nearly everyone to describe any swift thrust or surprise victory in sport or business. Even children play at "blitzkrieg."

In Latin-America it is translated "guerra relampago." To the Germans it means the type of thrust made into Poland to smash or paralyze the enemy with an overwhelming force of airplanes, tanks and other swift instruments of destruction.

'Blackout' Is Common.

"Blackout," the word to describe total darkness in cities on defensive against air raids is another popular new word.

"Lebensraum," the German word which denotes the resources and land for which the Reich leaders say they are fighting also has been popularized.

There are few other German phrases in the current war speech, however.

French words are absent because of relative quiet on the Maginot front. Most of the popular words are from the English, either new, or revived from nearly forgotten times.

"Trojan Horse" is one of the last class. It refers to the ancient wars when Greeks captured Troy by secretly infiltrating troops into the city inside a statueque wooden horse which the Trojans supposed was a prize of war.

"Safety zone" which describes the 300-mile wide ocean belt drawn by the American nations around the continent from which they hope to bar any belligerent action, is also new and widely known.

"Combat zone" is another term which has grown out of American reaction to the war. It is purely of United States origin because it refers to the sea zones in Europe from which United States ships are banned in the hope that they will thus avoid being sunk.

'Total War' Introduced.

"Total war," which means a nation employing every agency in its power without restriction, to win a war, also has been popularized recently.

"Leaflet bombs," "war of nerves," "air-raid warning," "all clear," "scuttle," and similar words also have just come into popular use. Some of them are revived after virtual extinction as applied to earlier wars.

Another class of new words describes new war materials such as "magnetic mines," and "balloon barrages," but these are still rather technical and not especially common in use.

"A phrase left from the Russo-Finnish war which still has much popular currency is "ski-patrol," referring to small groups of men on skis who intercepted enemy attacks, usually from ambush. The word is used socially to denote daring action in difficult circumstances.

Ship's 'Bad Luck' Hawk

Placed in London Zoo

LONDON.—The "bad luck" peregrine falcon rescued when the Japanese liner Terukuni Maru was sunk by a mine has been placed in the London zoo. The hawk had alighted hungry and exhausted on the ship as the vessel steamed north toward the English channel. Saki, the steward, fed the hawk and gave her shelter. His shipmates pleaded with him to release her. "She will bring bad luck," they said. So Saki released the hawk, which soared high and vanished. Next day she was back, and Saki would not let her go. When the liner struck the mine Saki took the bird with him into the lifeboat and turned her over to members of the crew of the Beaversford, bound for London.

A Bird in Hand Worth

Federal Man's Attention

NEW ORLEANS, LA. — Vincent Matassa knows now that a bird in the hand means he goes in the cage. Matassa was freed under $500 bond for holding a captive mocking bird. United States Commissioner R. H. Carter Jr. ruled that he violated the migratory bird treaty act by being caught with a feathered friend.

Dogs Once Fair Game in Colonial Massachusetts

BOSTON. — Dogs were banned from Nantucket and Duke counties in Massachusetts 200 years ago. The colonial law ruled that any canines found in those counties might be killed, with no action allowable against the person committing the act.

Bulletin Issued On Southern Oat Varieties

Haygood Paterson, Commissioner of Agriculture, announces the receipt of circular 562 from the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington entitled "Maintaining Identity of Pure Seed and Southern Oat Varieties."

The bulletin describes the seed characters of different varieties of oats most important in agriculture in the South. It states that confusing of different varieties of oats is unnecessary. It also refers to work being done by certain states in their efforts to prevent misrepresentation of varieties and sale of mixed oats as a definite variety. "This reference, in a sense, is a complimentary acknowledgement of the splendid effort and remarkable progress Alabama has made in preventing the sale of low quality oats to farmers in this state," says Haygood Paterson. Crop improvement associations, which the department has so long advocated and which Mr. Paterson urged so strongly in the 1939 Legislature, are cited as one solution to the problem of pure seed oats. Alabama control efforts on the sale of seed have not only resulted in bettering the quality of seed offered for sale in Alabama, but have created a necessity for growers and shippers in other states to exercise greater care in maintaining the purity of their seed to the source.

Mr. Paterson states that he is very much gratified over the work that has been done in Alabama to prevent the sale of inferior seed and points out that "it not only reflects highly on the ability of the trained experts and technicians working in the Department but on the effectiveness and value of seed control work."

The circular may be obtained free by writing your senator or representative in Washington.

Brewing Industry Helps ABC Board

GLACIER PARK, Mont., Sept. 5 — (Special)—Success of the beer industry's "clean up or close up" program, David E. Dunn of Alabama told the annual convention of the National Alcoholic Beverage Control Association here today, is due largely to the full cooperation of state liquor commissions.

Dunn, director of Alabama's $6,500,000 beer industry, said he received 100 per cent cooperation from Alabama's ABC Board in the campaign to improve conditions at his state's 1,891 tail beer outlets.

"Splendid cooperation is also being received from liquor commissions in the 13 other states in which the United Brewers Industrial Foundation is carrying out its self-regulation work," Mr. Dunn said.

"We find everywhere that the ABC Boards welcome our added shoulder to the wheel of control, and the beer industry of Alabama is proud of the Board's praise there that we 'have done a most constructive job.'"

Mr. Dunn chief speaker on today's Chairman Roy Albright, Associate program, said particular tribute to Members William Lawrence and B. B. Burton, and Administrator Wilbur H. Van of Alabama's ABC Board who were present as Alabama's representatives at the convention.

Twelve persons lost their lives in accidents on Labor Day in Alabama, and 24 others were injured.

Spend Million Daily on Navy

Construction Outlay Now Reaches $26,000,000 Every Month.

WASHINGTON.—The United States is spending more than $26,000,000 a month for construction in the unprecedented peacetime drive for "a navy second to none," and in 1941 will be spending at a rate of more than $1,000,000 a day on new warships.

According to official navy department figures, an average of nearly $2,166,667 is being spent each month on machinery and construction costs. Armament, armor and ammunition is costing another $6,000,000 monthly.

Next year these monthly expenditures will be increased to $24,500,000 and $7,083,000, respectively. And when additional shipbuilding facilities are already authorized by congress are completed, this rate will be accelerated further.

Near the close of 1939 the United States had about 80 vessels under construction in government and private yards. Eight of these were battleships and two were aircraft carriers. In addition, 33 destroyers, 16 submarines and smaller numbers of other craft were in various stages of construction.

Regular Costs Not Included.

These expenditures are for new ship construction only, and do not include costs for maintenance of the fleet, its bases and personnel.

According to recent testimony of Secretary of the Navy Charles Edison, there were more than 67,000 civilians employed in government ship yards alone.

Of the battleships under construction, two 35,000-ton vessels, the Washington and North Carolina, costing about $65,000,000 each, are scheduled to be launched this spring.

As the vessels were started in 1937. According to Edison, these ships will be equal or superior to any "contemporary" warcraft in other navies. However, Edison has said that if these ships were to be laid down today, there would be many changes in their design.

Despite the sharp increases in naval costs in recent years for the construction of vessels of this and even greater tonnage, indications are that there will be no slackening of naval expenditures in the near future. Naval officials feel that the United States no longer can depend upon any other nation for support, but must have a fleet capable of resisting any foe or possible combination of enemies.

Stark Presses Building.

In testifying before a congressional committee recently, Chief of Naval Operations Admiral Harold R. Stark said:

"In view of the rapidly changing alignment of European understanding and alliances, and the existence of agreements as to community of interest between nations of Europe and America, it is essential that the United States take immediate action toward a positive assurance for its security, and this without dependence upon assistance from any foreign power.

"I therefore desire to stress again that our approved naval building program should now proceed as rapidly as shipbuilding facilities available permit, and it may even be necessary to augment them."

Army Errs; Invites Two Girls to Join

FORT WORTH, TEXAS.—Jo Martin and Panton Clark weren't surprised when the United States army recently invited them to join the air corps. Others besides army officers, misled by their names, write to the two co-eds under the impression they are young men. "I'm always getting some kind of advertisements for men's clothes," says Miss Clark.

Seek Aztec Wealth In Mystery Pool

Deep Sea Diver May Try for Fabulous Treasure.

WALSBERG, COLO.—A deep sea diver may come to this southern Colorado region thousands of miles from any ocean this summer to use his equipment to look for Aztec treasure.

R. R. Holderman, Walsberg archeologist, revealed he is negotiating with Paul J. Flynn, famous underwater explorer from Duluth, Minn., to probe the mysteries of the "bottomless" pool in Huertano county's Mustang canyon near here.

The archeologist said he had investigated markings on the canyon walls and identified them as having been made by ancient Indian tribes—possibly Aztecs who migrated to this region from Mexico—and that the writings indicated there might be treasure concealed in the canyon.

The Mustang pool—a large natural reservoir pounded into solid rock by the constant hammering of a 60-foot waterfall—has never been reached. The construction of a railroad through this territory years ago, engineers pumped water from the pool for locomotives; however, the hose never reached bottom and the pool was never drained.

Holderman said he believed the Aztecs came to this region following the Spanish invasion of Mexico, and evidence of their camping in Mustang canyon had been found.

"It was a part of their religious practices to make a sacrifice to rain gods by dumping valuables into lakes and pools," the archeologist explained. He added that the Indians also were believed to have used the blind canyon as a corridor for game following prairie round-ups.

Police Solve Mystery of Missing Diapers, Sheets

BERKELEY, CALIF.—Police believed that a baffling diaper, bed sheet and scanty mystery is near solution.

Baffled for weeks over the strange disappearance from clothes lines of assorted garments and bed clothes, authorities finally got a clue.

From Mrs. Anna Friedman came a routine report that a pillow had been stolen from the lounge on her porch.

Patrolman R. V. LaRue was sent to investigate. In a house-to-house canvass he came across a neighbor who reported seeing a dog cowering down the street with the pillow in his mouth.

Unable to identify the dog, police reported the theft to the pound. Where the pillow was found, they hope, will be the scores of the missing sheets, the diapers and the scanties. As one officer pointed out: "It's spring. Maybe he wanted to feather his nest."

PLANE CRASH

25 Persons Including Senator Lundeen Killed

LOVETTSVILLE, Va., Aug. 31.—A Pennsylvania Central air liner crashed and exploded at the foot of the Blue Ridge Mountains near here today, killing 25 persons including Senator Ernest Lundeen (R.-Linn.). and scattering parts of bodies and wreckage more than a quarter of a mile.

It was the worst disaster in the history of American commercial aviation.

U. S. ACQUIRES STRING OF BASES 2,100 MILES LONG

By the agreement the United States will acquire a string of bases reaching approximately 2,100 miles from Newfoundland to the South American continent.

The joint Canadian and United States Defense Board already has viewed prospective bases on Newfoundland's rugged coast. The island is governed by a governor and commission responsible to the British dominions secretary.

The Assembly of Bermuda, an island 600 miles east of the Atlantic coast, recently received a communication from the British government indicating the great sound, a large island protected bay at the western end of the island, would be used as an air base and possibly as a naval base as well.

BOY BURNED BY EXPLOSION OF AUTOMOBILE GAS TANK

Junior Smith, age 9, of Blountville, was burned Sunday afternoon when the gas tank of a junked automobile exploded. He sustained severe burns from the waist up.

It seems that the boy was playing near an old automobile and built a fire near the gas tank. The tank exploded and young Smith was badly burned.—Southern Democrat.

AAA APPLICATIONS

Applications for parity payments are pouring into the Alabama AAA office from county offices. To date applications have been received from 30,000 farmers for nearly $2,000,000. Approximately $8,600,000 will be paid 190,000 farmers before the end of the season.

FUTURE OF FARMERS DIMSAL IF THEY DESERT BEST FRIEND

In a speech before the Democratic State Convention of Iowa, former Governor Nelson G. Kraschel said:

"The termination of President Roosevelt and Henry A. Wallace on the best agricultural platform ever written, establish the political value of the farm program.

"If they are turned down, the farmers never again will have the opportunities the Democratic party offers them now. Agriculture is at the crossroads of the future—on trial for its life, and no excuses for failure to enlist in the cause to preserve farm gains of the last seven years can be accepted."

SPEED ON OPEN HIGHWAYS GREATEST DEATH CAUSE

19,300 of 1939's army of motor vehicle dead met death in rural districts, where drivers can bowl merrily along at fifty or sixty miles per hour with just a fingertip on the wheel and where red lights, traffic officers and congested streets are no more inconvenience than a noisy guilty conscience.

FREEZER-LOCKER SHORT COURSE

The first short course for Alabama freezer-locker plant operators in Auburn, August 27 and 28 was an outstanding success with operators discussing freely their problems.

Monroe Counties will vote on September 3rd on whether or not the county will return to prohibition.

Will Never Surrender

(From The Birmingham News)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—Prime Minister Winston Churchill of Great Britain has pledged that the British Empire will never surrender or scuttle the British fleet in case the British Isles are defeated, the State Department revealed today.

The pledge was made in connection with the leasing of sites for American naval and air bases on British territory in the Western Hemisphere, in return for 50 over-sea American destroyers.

It was made to Secretary of State Hull through the British Embassy on Churchill's behalf.

Britain Declared War Just One Year Ago

Great Britain declared war on Germany one year ago Tuesday. Since that time Germany has overpowered Poland, Norway, Denmark, Holland, Belgium, Luxembourg and France. The show down is now between Britain and Germany—unless the trading of 50 U. S. destroyers to Britain means we are definitely in the war on the side of the British.

Wake Lazy Insides All-Vegetable Way

Thousands turn to this way to get relief when they're lazy indigestion and it has them headachy, bilious, irritable, listless: A quarter to a half-teaspoonful of spicy, aromatic, all-vegetable BLACK-DRAUGHT on your tongue tonight, a drink of water, and there you are! Thus, it usually allows time for a night's rest; acts gently, thoroughly next morning, so relieving constipation's headaches, biliousness, bad breath.

BLACK-DRAUGHT's main ingredient is an "intestinal tonic-laxative," which helps impart tone to lazy bowel muscles. The millions of packages used prove its merit. Economical, too: 25 to 40 doses, 25c.

New Road to Have Penny a Mile Toll

'Dream' Highway Will Cost State $65,000,000.

PITTSBURGH.—Pennsylvania's $65,000,000 "dream" highway really will be something motorists dream about but seldom see, according to W. C. Cline, a tunnel engineer who is helping build the 160-mile road, which will run between Pittsburgh and Harrisburg.

But it will cost money for motorists to use it—only one cent a mile, to be exact. Trucks will pay four cents a mile for use of the all-weather highway.

However, this is no ordinary highway. For example, there will be no steep hills, sharp curves or a speed limit. It will be 78 feet wide—enough for four 12-foot traffic lanes, each separated by a 10-foot wide strip of earth.

There will be no cross roads. Over or under passes will carry intersecting traffic. Vehicles entering the new highway first will be admitted to a "warm-up" stretch paralleling the road before they are routed onto the through traffic lanes.

The maximum altitude of the new road will be 1,300 feet, compared with almost 4,000 feet on the Lincoln highway. Curves are being so constructed that they will hardly be noticeable. The Pennsylvania Turnpike will maintain its own police force on the highway.

The tolls have to be charged to clear a PWA loan to the state. They are expected to pay off the loan in about 15 years. After that the express highway will be turned over to the state.

Pitcairn Lists 200 as Progeny of Mutineers

OAKLAND.—While the government was taking the census in this country, residents of Pitcairn island, founded by the survivors of the mutiny on the Bounty, decided it was an opportune time to take a census of their own.

Pitcairn island is a British possession, but the census enumeration was forwarded to friends in this city who for years have kept up a correspondence with inhabitants of the island.

The census return was signed by Edward Grant and lists the population as it has grown from 1780, the year the Bounty mutineers landed there and founded the colony.

The island then had a population of 21 which consisted of Fletcher Christian, who led the mutiny against Captain Bligh of the Bounty; nine mutineers, five Tahitian men, six Tahitian women and one child. Grant shows the 1940 population to be 200.

The eldest male, Grant found, was Veider Young, 85. Young is patriarch of the second group of the three principal family groups on Pitcairn; his relatives number 56.

There are 66 Christians. Grant reported, and 47 Warrens. The island now has 46 married couples.

Grant's report that his study found that 179 boys had been born there and 162 girls.

Girl, 16, Has Attended 74 Schools in Ten Years

BOSTON.—Miss June Hanke, 16, whose address might be given as "North America," getting her education the hard way.

In the past 10 years she has attended 74 schools in every state and in Canada and Mexico. Miss Hanke is the daughter of a salesman who travels "like a nomad" and settles temporarily wherever prospects look good.

Born in Detroit, she attended six kindergartens in her first year. Her freshman year at high school was spent in 18 schools. Described her "hit and run" education. Miss Hanke is in the same grade as other girls her age.

She estimates that she has traveled 360,000 miles in 10 years.

Russian Literacy Rises To 81% of Population

MOSCOW.—Census figures presented recently reported that 81 per cent of the Soviet population above the age of nine was literate, as contrasted with 51 per cent in 1926. The figures do not include the population of Russian Poland. The census listed 50 nationalities in the Soviet Union, with Russians comprising 99,000,000 of the total of 170,000,000. It reported 28,000,000 Ukrainians, 3,000,000 Jews, 1,500,000 Germans, 600,000 Poles and 400,000 Finns.

Industrial workers were 32 per cent of the population, white-collar workers 17 per cent and collective farmers 45.

Missouri Man Moves House Over Treetops

INDEPENDENCE, MO.—A young orchard stood where his house had to go, so Dave Crick lifted the 160-ton dwelling over the tree-tops.

Crick, a lumber dealer, sold his lot but wanted to move his house to a new site across the way. It couldn't be taken around because of street obstructions.

So the house was raised five feet and made its 600-foot journey over the orchard on timbers.

Mormons' 1947 Fair Marks Era in West

To Celebrate Centennial of Entry Into Utah.

SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH.—Although the 1939's fair and expositions of the world are still not over, a new exposition is being planned for 1947.

It is the Utah centennial exposition.

The exposition, to be held from May 1 to October 15, 1947, will mark the 100th anniversary of the entrance into Salt Lake valley of the group of Mormon pioneers, whom Brigham Young led away from persecutions in the East to form a new home in the western desert.

A 16-member central committee has been appointed by Gov. Henry H. Blood to plan the exposition. The commission's membership includes many of Utah's leading citizens and has for its chairman David O. McKay, second counselor to Heber J. Grant, president of the Latter Day Saints (Mormon) church.

Other states will be invited to participate in the exposition as well as the federal government.

No definite site has been selected for the building, the exposition also is designed, under terms of a 1939 state law, to "portray fittingly the natural resources and scenic wonders of Utah, the prehistoric culture of the West and the development of irrigation, farming, mining, forestry, transportation, culture and the arts."

The anniversary of the entrance of the Mormon pioneers into Salt Lake valley—July 24—is celebrated in Utah even more vigorously than the Fourth of July.

Women's Dress Fashions Blamed for Fire Deaths

NEW YORK.—Women's clothing is to blame for about 1,600 American women burning to death annually.

These victims of feminine dress fashions are listed by the statistical bulletin of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company.

"It would seem by this time," the bulletin states "that people would have learned how to use matches safely and to exercise without endangering their lives and the lives of others."

Yet, in this study, matches and cigarettes hold third place as the cause of setting fatal fires to women's clothing. Sleeves, fur-trimmed coats, and long, flowing skirts, and flammable liquids second.

Chemists have begun to produce fireproofing for flimsy fabrics, and this seems to be the best hope of the future for cutting down the dress fire fatalities.

Robin Caught by String Rescued After 18 Hours

DAVENPORT, IOWA.—After 18 hours of looping the loop a robin was rescued from the top of a 30 foot tree. The bird became entangled in a string used in building a nest. The string knotted around the bird's leg and as it attempted to fly away, it would be swinging around the branch of the tree and the length of the string shortened. Aided by two police officers, a rescuer climbed a ladder and freed the robin.

Hankow Paper Published In Cave to Escape Bombs

CHUNGKING.—Probably one of the world's first newspapers literally to "go underground" to be safe from aerial bombardment, the English-language Hankow Herald here announced that it will suspend publication for two weeks this month while having its machinery installed in a bombproof dugout.

Taking advantage of the winter months, which in Chungking are so perpetually overcast and foggy that newspapers are impossible, the Herald was blasted out a roomy "cave" on the side of one of the hills on which Chungking is situated. In this retreat it will from now on publish its daily edition, secure from worry of destruction by Japanese bombs.

Chairs Back, but Boss Who Banned Them Isn't

TOLA, KAN.—Iolans now probably ever will solve the mystery of a certain office manager who spent years here. He's been transplanted and the office is "back to normal." But the first thing he did when he took over, four years ago, was to banish all the chairs. He placed stools on the desks. He did his work, typewriting, bookkeeping, writing, and all, standing up. He never explained his aversion to chairs.

Mrs. Barach, a Serbian immigrant in 1904, was taught reading and writing by her husband, who died last year.

Gov. Dixon Will Address Junior Bar

Gov. Frank M. Dixon will address the junior bar section of the Alabama State Bar Association at some time during its fall meeting at Shocco Springs, near Talladega, September 7 and 8, Robert K. Ball, junior association president has announced.

Among others, these will also speak: Judge Robert M. Hill, State Pardon and Parole Board; Judge Walter B. Jones, Senior Circuit Judge at Montgomery; Judge J. Russell McElroy of Birmingham; State Supreme Court Justice J. Ed Livingston of Tuscaloosa.

Expected to attend the session are more than 150 Alabama lawyers, many of whom are not members of the junior bar section.

Auburn will open September 9th. Classes for freshmen will begin September 12th.

FRUIT TREES

I will be at the Courthouse in Clanton to take orders for fruit trees every Saturday until Sept. 15. We have a fine stock of all varieties on hand. The Golden Jubilee, the first clear seed peach ripens about June 25, has been tested here—none better.

Eleven hundred acres from which to select. Have been in business 68 years. Our trees cost no more. Write me at Thorsby, Ala.—T. J. Cook, Agent. 35-36-37

Notice To All WPA Project Employees

The Work Projects Administration was established for the purpose of giving employment to persons in need, in order that they might be able to maintain themselves and their families.

Employees who establish credit with local merchants on the basis of employment with the Work Projects Administration have a definite responsibility as substantial citizens to meet their obligations. While it is not the responsibility of the Work Projects Administration to take disciplinary action in cases of non-payment of debts, employees are expected to accept the responsibility of their own obligations and govern themselves in a creditable manner. Abuse of credit privileges extended by merchants will bring unjust criticism on their fellow employees and the Work Projects Administration.

Sincerely Yours,
W. G. HENDERSON,
Work Projects Administrator for Alabama.

Hogs Reach Highest Price For This Year

By Tom McCord, Union Stockyards, Montgomery.

The Chicago hog market touched $7.65 per cwt, the highest price in 1940. The Montgomery hog market touched $6.85 with a few to go over the scales at $7.00, the highest since September 7, last year. Again the top hogs for the year sell in August. History repeats itself. It wouldn't be a bad idea to trip your sales now to have some market hogs to sell next August.

The increasing storage tonnage and mounting surpluses of lard and pork supplies have been the millstone around hog prices for several years. Now the information comes from the Department of Commerce the month of July showed the highest export of lard for that month in six years with 23,388,574 pounds finding a home abroad and out of circulation so far as we in America are concerned. If these exports continue watch the activity in hogs increase and watch the price respond.

The calf run in the Black Belt is building into a heavy and profitable movement. There is a $9.25 top on light calves as compared to $8.25 on the same day last year. The last eight marketing days have been an average of 1,046 head of cattle and calves sold in Montgomery and the market remained steady throughout. The heaviest days actual arrivals were in on the 27th with 1,803 head.

It is impossible to get away from that. If an army moves on its stomach, as the old saying goes, it follows that the stomach is poor support unless regularly fortified by a meat diet. We don't know just how the World's supply of meat is to reach the soldiers' stomachs, in the present war, but we can be certain that, as time passes, all the meat available will be needed, and ways will be found to get it to the fighting men.

No one is in better position to profit than the man who has meat animals to sell.—The Chicago Drovers Journal.

THE kids came over and called for Crackerskull and me to play hide and seek with them this evening. They call for us most every evening to play marbles or ball or something. We have a lot of fun, too. The old boy hollers and yells louder than all the kids put together and most of the neighbors think he's nuttier than a pecan grove. One of the ladies told Clara she thought that whatever it was he used for a brain was getting a little mislaid from his going around without wearing a hat. But that doesn't bother Crackerskull. He thinks neighbors are only a necessary evil, like ants at a picnic, you can't do anything about them. We didn't play hide and seek very long tonight though. The going got too tough and Crackerskull tore his pants on a nail. Both of us fell in an ashbox. I got my head caught in a picket fence and pretty near hung myself.

RAILROADS and 'rithmetic

"Gee, school days are here again! But I guess it's OK—us fellers hafta learn about readin', writin' and 'rithmetic so we'll be ready to run things some day.

"Course, we learn other useful things, too—sometimes things grown-ups don't know. Frinstance: How the railroads help us kids get educated. They haul lots of kids from home to school and back without hurtin' anybody or chargin' very much—but that aint all! They pay a big hunk of the taxes that keep our schools goin'.

"Even the good ole L & N, which runs through our town, pays 4 1/2 million dollars a year in taxes, and almost half of it goes to the schools. That's enough to pay the public cost of sendin' 40,000 kids to school every year.

"Betcha didn't know all that, did ya?"

This young man is right. Some day he will learn there are many other benefits deriving from private operation of the railroads. He will learn, for example, that they are an important arm of our national defense, are substantial employers of labor and purchasers of material, and that they are good and useful neighbors in all that makes for progress and development in the communities they serve.

Plan For Harvesting Lеспедеза Seed

With the approach of fall, farmers with lespeдеза should be making plans to harvest seed for next year's crop, according to County Agent, Pat H. Smith and James H. Wood, Superintendent of the CCC Camp Area near Clanton, Ala.

They recommend a pan attachment to a mower as one method of harvesting seed of Kobe, Tennessee 76, and common lespeдеза. Korean can be harvested with the seed pan attachment but a more successful method is to mow the lespeдеза after it has fully matured, or has reached a brown or chocolate color and then thresh it in an ordinary grain thrasher, they say.

Kobe, Tennessee 76 and common lespeдеза seed should not be harvested until well matured and after frost. It is a good practice to pan seed, and leave practically all the residue on the land for soil improvement and erosion control. With an ordinary stand and average growth, the foregoing varieties should yield from 200 to 300 pounds of seed per acre using the pan method of harvesting. Korean cut and threshed will make still heavier yields.

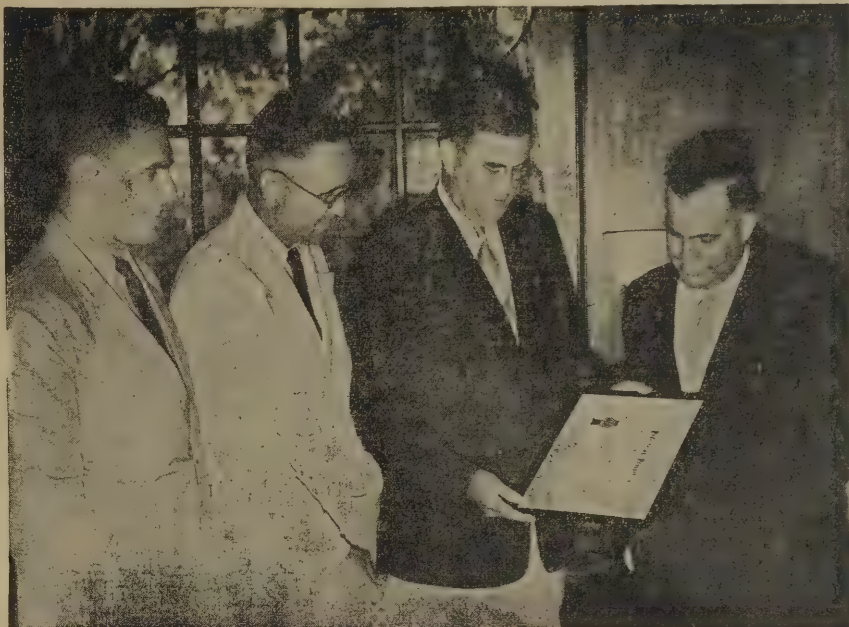

Do not harvest lespeдеза with the expectation of getting a hay crop and also a seed crop, the specialists warn. Seed are too immature when cut in the hay stage. It is a good plan to leave certain fields for seed.

Fields mowed for hay, and which are to be kept in lespeдеза another year, should not be mowed too closely, or too late. Too close cutting will not produce sufficient seed for reseeding. Mow early enough in the season for additional seed to be produced before frost.

ANSWERS TO SOME OF THE QUESTIONS

Many Are Interested In The Provisions Of The Draft Bill

Here are some of the answers to some of the questions being asked about the effect of the conscription bill which will become a law when the president attaches his signature:

Who is liable to the draft under the bill passed by Congress?

All men between 21 and 30, inclusive.

What are they required to do?

On a day to be specified by the president, they must register at a place in their communities, still to be designated.

Will all who register be called?

No.

Who will be called?

That will be determined by a drawing of numbers.

Must all whose numbers are drawn go to military camp?

All except men with dependents and with physical and mental deficiencies. Are conscientious objectors liable to the draft?

Not if they can prove the good faith of their objections, but they are still subject to a year of non-combatant work of national importance under civilian direction.

Are divinity students and clergymen exempt?

Yes.

Who will supervise these things?

Local draft boards, under a national director to be appointed by the president.

How long must the drafted men serve?

Twelve consecutive months.

Are they then free from liability for military service?

No. For two years they are to be members of the armed forces, subject to call in crisis of war.

Is there any way in which that period can be shortened?

Yes. By serving two years in the regular army, after the one year of compulsory training.

Is there any protection for the jobs of the men drafted?

The bill requires their employer to reemploy them when their period of training is over, unless his circumstances have so changed in the meanwhile as to make it impossible.

May a man who is called send a substitute?

No.

How long is conscription to be in force?

Until May 1, 1945.

own personal feelings reflect an inferior judgment on the conscription measure.

Mr. Wheeler has held up the action of other Senators in their work while he constantly reiterated his views on compulsory military training. It is, of course, absolutely right and essential that under this free form of government of ours all men be given the chance to express themselves. But in a time of national emergency like this, Mr. Wheeler did not improve his record by taking up the time of the nation when that time should be devoted to wholehearted work upon measures that should make this nation invincible and invulnerable.

Because, for the last several weeks, the Battle of Britain has been a stalemate and a series of counter-blows, many Americans have done just what they were admonished against—that of forgetting the importance of the events today. They have adopted the feeling that there is no real national emergency, that there is no real danger or threat to our national freedom and liberty.

But throughout the world, we are seeing the ominous hand of Nazi Germany as it casts its shadow into Rumania and causes that nation to cede half of its province of Transylvania to Hungary. We see Italy taking moves that are favorable to its Axis partner. Even Soviet Russia has stopped its onward march.

Though it may be stopped only temporarily, it has stopped. In South and Central America, Nazi spies have been found that are trying to prevent the tranquility of trade between these United States and our neighbors.

Perhaps now in this hour of blows and counter-blows between Great Britain and the Third Reich, we had best realize that maybe this is only the quiet before the blitzkrieg. If we Americans, united and solemnly devoted to our duty, do not now prepare as never before, while there is relative quiet in Europe, we may greatly regret our inauspicious and our procrastination.

Vegetables To Plant September And October

Let's all plant a real fall garden! This is the plea of W. A. Ruffin, extension horticulturist, in reporting that "a lot of turnip patches are being planted this fall."

"Why stop there when most of our most common vegetables do best during cool weather?" he asks.

He then lists the following vegetables that may be planted in September and October.

Stringless and green pod beans; Kentucky Wonder and Alabama No. 1 pole beans; Early Egyptian and Detroit Red beets; Copenhagen Market and Flat Dutch cabbage; Chantenay carrots; New York and Imperial 847; Kale-Siberian lettuce; Privetaker and Shallot onions; Thomas Laxton and Telephone English peas; Icicle, Scarlet Turnip radish; Bloomsdale spinach; and mixed turnips.

"Ground to be planted to vegetables this fall must be well prepared and fertilized," he advises. "Seeding should be done following a good rain. Do not disturb the soil any more than is necessary while planting. Use rake lightly, open furrow one inch deep for beets, carrots, etc. Walk on seed and cover lightly with soil. Beans and other vegetables with large seed should be planted two to four inches deep.

"Plant some seed now; if they fail to come up, plant some more as soon as it rains."

If turnips begin to wilt and die there is a good chance that a small green worm is feeding in the bud. This insect makes a web over the turnip plant but neither the insect nor the web is very noticeable until the turnips begin to die. Do not take a chance. Dust the plants with rotenone-bearing dust every week.

Food-Locker Operators Form Organization

Alabama has a new organization. It is the Alabama Frozen Food Lockers' Association.

Officers are: D. H. James, Enterprise, president, A. F. Norton, Tuscaloosa, vice-president and Eric Alsobrook, Montgomery, secretary-treasurer.

The new organization is a non-profit association and was organized to aid in spreading information and to assist with legislative and regulatory problems pertaining to the frozen food industry.

Pennilessness is not poverty, and ownership is not possession; to be without is not always lack and to reach is not always to attain.

REVIEWS and PREVIEW'S

By Irvin Lande

Having just returned from a two-weeks' vacation in Miami, Florida, it is rather hard to get down to facing the grim realities of the second year of the second world war. It is especially difficult with the salt air of the land by the Atlantic Ocean in one's nostrils, and the sand of Miami Beach still in one's shoes. But all that is irrelevant and immaterial, and we must begin to acknowledge the fact that the American people are, to use a colloquialism, "scarred stiff" over the thought that they might have to fight again to protect those basic liberties for which in the past their forefathers have been willing to fight more than seven wars in defense of.

However, not only are the American people afraid of facing the horrible consequences of today's world conditions, but the entire nation has been unable to make important decisions. And a nation, like an individual, that is unable to make important decisions is unable to grasp the advantages of situations that may turn in its favor, and is therefore unable to assume its role of importance in international affairs. A nation so handicapped must accept the ultimatums imposed upon it by its more determined neighbors.

The reason for such indecision and apprehension is not, I believe, recognized by the people themselves. Their acts, however, betray their good intentions. For instance, we are promised to have an air force second to none. Yet, up to the first of August, not one combat plane has been contracted for out of our emergency funds. The United States Navy demands an enlarged force to make us have a two-ocean navy, but, though the contracts for the ships are signed, construction of plants to provide the essential armor plate for them has been held up because of arguments about profit and costs. And at the same time recognizing the needs for tanks in the modern scheme of mechanized warfare, all plans for heavy tanks are uncompleted. Even throughout the nation, business men and manufacturers are fearing the consequences of government-imposed conscription on the youth and men of the nation. Those men are cognizant of the necessity of training other men for national defense, they are worried about losing some of their most valuable employees. Hence, we can readily comprehend that this nation with the best of intentions, is not exerting its greatest efforts and most united efforts in the most crucial period in all the brilliant history of the American people.

In the Senate, for example, the able and intelligent Congressman from Montana, Burton K. Wheeler, has let his

Briton Is Driven To Kill Daughter By Fear of Nazis

Woman Is Found Guilty of Murder but the Court Holds Her Insane.

LONDON. — Grief stricken, an Englishman looked at a slim, au-burn haired woman who was on trial in London for her life. He sobbed, "She was a lovable mother who idolized our daughter." He wept again when he heard the woman, Mrs. Lily Wright, 38 years old, of Wood Green, England, wife of Stanley Wright, found guilty of the murder of their daughter, Pamela, but the court held Mrs. Wright was insane at the time of the killing.

Defense Attorney Ker Lindsey described the case as one of the saddest stories ever told in court. Prosecutor L. A. Byrne related that a neighbor of the Wrights heard a loud banging on the wall which divides the two houses. On going to the Wrights' house he found Mrs. Wright, wearing a nightdress, struggling with her husband in the hall. Upstairs in a bedroom he found Pamela dead in bed. He also noticed a strong smell of gas.

Mrs. Wright gave evidence declaring that she did not know how the child died. But when she was questioned by the judge she suddenly exclaimed, "Yes, I did it." Then she burst into a fit of weeping and collapsed.

Warders carried her from the dock and then to the cells, where she received medical attention.

Happily Married for Years.

Her husband, who was dressed in black, went into the witness box when the court resumed. He said that he and his wife had been happily married for 15 years.

"Pamela was evacuated about an hour after Mr. Chamberlain's speech on the day war was declared," he said, "and while she was away my wife's behavior became strange, indeed. But when Pamela came back, Lil was not the same woman."

"She remained happy until the schools reopened, and then she seemed to worry what might happen to Pam if there was an air raid."

Mr. Wright stated that his wife told him the special police were following her, and she was anxious about the war. She seemed to tell him that they would suffer at the hands of the Germans in the same way as the Czechs and Poles.

Afraid to Go to Sleep.

On the night before the tragedy Mrs. Wright did not want to go to bed. She said the police or the Nazis were after her, and that if she went to bed they would get her while she was asleep.

"I kissed her good-night . . ." Mr. Wright began. Then he burst into tears.

"We were not churchgoers, but since the war she got a Bible and other religious books," he said later.

Dr. John Matheson, governor and medical officer of Holloway prison, stated that the war had upset Mrs. Wright considerably and had placed on her a strain which might have been too great for her to bear.

Judge Ignores Warning

And Pays Parking Fine

FORT WORTH. — W. H. Gilmartin, corporation court judge, fined himself without a whimper for leaving his automobile in a no-parking zone.

Gilmartin parked in a restricted zone while he attended a boxing program. Officers warned owners of all cars parked in that zone, via the public address system used in the coliseum, to move their cars or pay fines.

The judge either forgot where his automobile was or preferred to pay $1 for the parking privilege. That is the amount that he—and other violators—paid.

Jail Accommodates Hiker

NEW PHILADELPHIA, OHIO. — Charles W. Baker of near-by Dover, Ohio, asked for accommodations at the New Philadelphia hotel one night "so he wouldn't have to make the walk home." He was permitted to sleep in a cell. During the night he rolled off the top of the cell block, fell seven feet to the floor and died of a fractured skull.

35 Glasses Only a Drop

TRUMBULL, CONN. — Alex F. Varanelli, charged with operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor, admitted he drank 35 glasses of beer before his arrest, but insisted that he consumed that amount daily and was not intoxicated. Judge Joseph L. Schwimmer acquitted him.

Boy, 10, Drives Five Years

BRIGHTON, ENG. — A boy who drove away a surgeon's car from outside a Brighton hospital told the police that he had been driving since he was five. He is now 10. "I learned to drive a car by sitting on the front seat of buses while going to school," he said.

Crashes After 40 Years

NEEDHAM, MASS. — After driving an automobile for 40 years, Albert M. Beers, 70 years old, had his first accident. His car was in collision with a truck and overturned, but no one was injured.

Seizes Gold Coins; Victim Can't Squawk

PHILADELPHIA. — Raymond Pandze was robbed of two watches and $795 in gold pieces, but he isn't certain he wants the thief apprehended. Pandze was advised by detectives that if the thief were caught and the gold pieces returned, Pandze might face prosecution by the federal government for hoarding gold.

Meeting Happy for World War Rivals

Once Shot at Each Other on Belgium Fields.

ST. JOHN, N. B. — Across the knee-deep muck of the shell-plowed field in Passchendaele ridge in Belgium, Private A. H. Morrison of the Twenty-sixth battalion, Canadian expeditionary force, and Private Henrik Biermann, 157th regiment of the German army, plugged away at each other with machine gun and rifle.

That was some 22 years ago.

At the closing exercises in the tiny country school at Glen Falls, three miles from this city, Trustee-Secretary A. H. Morrison presented little golden-haired Olga Biermann with first prize for general proficiency in Grade I, while her father, Henrik Biermann, looked proudly on.

"This is one of the results of peace that dictator nations would destroy," was Biermann's comment.

Biermann is one of the colony of Danes who have cleared land in the Glen Falls district.

Morrison is a well-known musician in St. John, organist, pianist, and musical director of the Rotary club.

Both veterans got a real thrill out of the ceremony. The child, innocent of the deeper meaning of the incident, twinkled her deep blue eyes, smiled and accepted the prize. It was a story book.

Sees After Nine Years; Finds World Different

KANKAKEE, ILL. — Nine years of total blindness failed to make Mrs. Schuyler D. Burson of this city forget fashions and styles. Her first words upon walking down a city street after an operation restored her sight were "My Goodness, but skirts are short this year!"

The skirts and wedge shoes worn by women this season left her completely bewildered. Streamlined autos, developed since she became blind, looked "just like bugs" to her, she said. The operation was performed at Menonite hospital in Bloomington early in April.

"My husband looks just as he did nine years ago—just a little fatter," she said. "I wouldn't know my children, though. One of them is 15 years old now and the other is 15. How does it all seem? Why, it's just like going into a different world or being born all over again."

Grocery Bill Settled

After Lapse of 20 Years

SEATTLE, WASH. — When Paul Ringseth closed his general store in the central Alaska mining town of Livengood 22 years ago, he marked off as "total loss" nearly $25,000 in unpaid bills.

But he reckoned without Tony Zuber, a miner, who, with a partner, had a joint debt of $800 on Ringseth's thick ledger.

After years of endeavor, Zuber finally tracked down his benefactor who now operates a Seattle grocery.

"Zuber called me up and said he wanted to pay his share of the joint bill," Ringseth disclosed. "He gave me $320 and I gave him a 'paid in full' receipt. It was as simple as all that."

Fire Travels 750 Miles To Denver to Be Put Out

DENVER. — A fire came 750 miles to be put out in Denver.

Trainmen, noticing smoke eddying from cracks in a Texas & New Orleans boxcar, ripped open the door and found at least half of its load of cotton sacking had been burned.

Assistant Fire Chief Allie Feldman said a cigaret may have been dropped in the car during loading.

South Dakota Pensioner, 73, Becomes a Father

PIERRE, S. D. — State social security department officials are giving special attention to relief needs of one client, a 73-year-old man whose 39-year-old wife just presented him another baby boy. The client has three other children, 12, 10, and 7 years old.

Clipped Agreeably

BERNE, IND. — Fred von Gunten, salesman, concluded an agreement with a local business man here, knowing all the time that he was going to get clipped in the deal. He sold a typewriter to a local barber, and agreed to take payment for the machine in haircuts.

Salesman, 32, Still Active BOSTON. — On his ninth second birthday, Edmund T. Lamb reported for work as a salesman—a career he has followed for 64 years. He still is active.

A MONUMENT TO THE EFFORTS AND ACTIVITIES OF C. FENN JONES

Mayor C. Fenn Jones has worked valiantly, persistently and tenaciously on the job of building Clanton's modern water system. He has worked at the job with just as much interest and determination as he used to go at jobs of his own personal business when he was running the hardware business and putting up buildings of his own in Clanton. The waterworks system of 1939 is a monument to Mr. Jones that will speak out for his civic spirit and community enterprise long after he has ceased to walk the streets of Clanton and to greet his many friends with that characteristic smile of his.

A MESSAGE FROM

To The Citizens of Clanton:

In announcing my candidacy for reelection as Mayor of Clanton, I do so with the full realization of the duties, problems and responsibilities. I became Mayor six years ago, after having been in the hardware business nearly thirty years, coming here in 1902.

I have enjoyed working for Clanton and as I have said many times, the little pay check I receive each month is not the attraction. My purpose for wanting to continue in office is to assist in improving our city and having employment that I enjoy.

With a great deal of pride I bring to your attention by pictures on this page some of the improvements that have been given to Clanton during my administration. Please read the remarks under each picture and you will gain a better knowledge of just what has been accomplished since I was elected Mayor. The City Council, the City Clerk, the City employees and you, the public, deserve the praise for these improvements. I could not have done anything without this support.

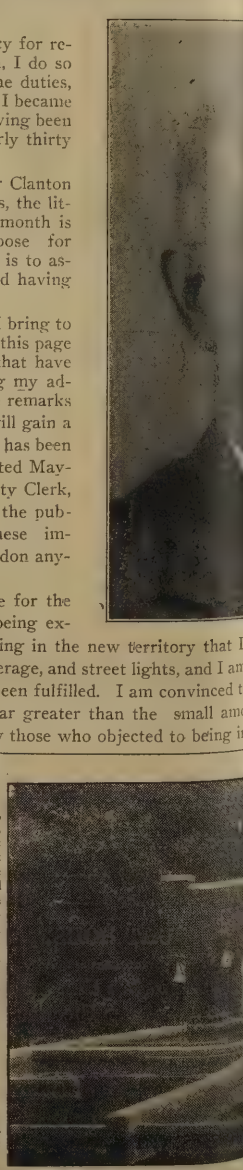

In 1935, I was responsible for the corporate limits of Clanton being extended. I promised those living in the new territory that I would give them water, sanitary sewerage, and street lights, and I am glad to state these promises have been fulfilled. I am convinced that the benefits derived by them is far greater than the small amount of taxes they pay. I hope by now those who objected to being included

SYSTEM PUT INTO OPERATION LAST YEAR

On Monday morning, May 8th, 1939, about 10:45 o'clock, Mr. C. Fenn Jones, Mayor of Clanton, turned an electric switch at the new water works plant in Clanton, which set into motion the array of machinery, appliances and contraptions going to make up the brand new $77,000 water works outfit of the city of Clanton. The period of about four months has been required for the installation of the system which is now bringing in all of Clanton's water from Yellow Leaf Creek, a distance of some four miles from the city.

This basin holds about 30,000 gallons of water, and is automatically filled from the large elevated tank as the water is needed.

ST. MARGRETHEN, SWITZERLAND.—The Swiss army, which has rung thousands of miles of barbed wire along its frontiers to slow up any would-be aggressor, has netted its first invader—a powerful stag. The stag crossed the frontier from the old Austrian province of Vorarlberg, now German, and was found haunted in Switzerland, dragging 10 yards of barbed wire and posts from its antlers. The animal had to be killed. The hunter troops ate venison.

America's Day Of Prayer

"The American heritage of individual freedom and of government deriving its power from the consent of the governed has from the time of the fathers of our Republic been proudly transmitted to each succeeding generation, and to us this generation has fallen the task of preserving it and transmitting it to the future. We are now engaged in a mighty effort to fortify that heritage.

"Mindful of our duties in the family of nations, we have endeavored to prevent the outbreak and the spread of war and we have raised our voices against international injustice. As Americans and as lovers of freedom we are humbly sympathetic with those who are facing tribulation in lands across the seas.

"When every succeeding day brings sad news of suffering and disaster abroad we are especially conscious of the divine power and of our dependence upon God's merciful guidance.

"With this consciousness in our hearts it is seemly that we should, at a time like this, pray to Almighty God for His blessing on our country and for the establishment of a just and permanent peace among all the nations of the world.

"Now, therefore, I, Franklin D. Roosevelt, President of the United States of America, do hereby set aside Sunday, September 8, 1940, as a day of prayer; and I urge the people of the United States, of all creeds and denominations, to pray on that date, in their churches or at their homes, on the high seas or wherever they may be, beseeching the Republic of the United States to bless our country and to bless our people for their heretofore and firm in its defense, and to grant to this land and to the troubled world a righteous, enduring peace.

"In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States of America to be affixed.

"Done, at the City of Washington, this 7th day of August, in the year of our Lord, 1940, and of the independence of the United States of America the 165th."

Signed: FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT

The Great Lakes of Alabama and the Tennessee Valley

Twenty-five years ago the editor of Chilton County News was editing and publishing The Scottsboro Progressive Age and the Jackson County Citizen also of Scottsboro.

During the ten years we lived at Scottsboro we never lost sight of the great advantage that would come from flood control on the French Broad, the Clinch, the Ocoee, the Conocoee and the Tennessee rivers in Tennessee, Western North Carolina and North Georgia, and the development of the potential hydro-electric power in those streams.

For ten years we proclaimed to the world these possibilities. Today, September 2nd, President Roosevelt delivered the following address at the Chickamauga Dam celebration at Chattanooga—last of the great dams to be built in the Tennessee Valley chain. And we realize that another dream of the great Tennessee Valley has come true:

The text of President Roosevelt's address at the Chickamauga Dam celebration today:

When I first passed this place after my election but before my inauguration as president, there flowed here a vagrant stream, sometimes shallow and useless, sometimes turbulent and in flood, always dark with the soil it had washed from the eroding hills. This Chickamauga Dam, the sixth in the series of mammoth structures built by the Tennessee Valley Authority for the people of the United States, is helping to give to all of us human control of the watershed of the Tennessee River in order that it may serve in full the purposes of men.

The chain of man-made inland seas may well be named "The Great Lakes of the South." Through them we are celebrating the opening of a new artery of commerce, new opportunities for recreation, relief from the desolation of floods, and new low-cost energy which has begun to flow to the homes and farms and industries in seven American states.

This national holiday—Labor Day—has been appropriately selected, because in the miracle that man has wrought in these seven years, in heat and in cold, men have drilled and blasted through solid rock, they have poured ton after ton of concrete and they have moved mountains of earth. They have worked with the strength of their hands, and they have operated complicated machinery with every modern skill. Never once, in this, the biggest consolidated construction job ever undertaken by man, has there been a substantial interruption to the continuance of your labors.

Monument To Partnership
This dam, as the dams built in this short space of years, stand as a monument to a productive partnership between management and labor, between citizens of all kinds working together in the public weal. Collective bargaining and efficiency have proceeded hand in hand. It is noteworthy that the splendid new agreement between the Valley Authority begins with the words "the public interest in an undertaking such as the TVA always being paramount."

It is appropriate, therefore, that we recognize this signal achievement on the day when the whole nation pays tribute to labor's contribution to the democracy which we are now preparing to defend. To all of you, therefore, all of you who have contributed to make these structures possible through-out this beautiful valley—I extend the nation's thanks.

The only note of sorrow that can properly be sounded on a great day like this lies in the misplaced emphasis which so many people have put on the objectives of the government in building up this great Tennessee Valley project. It was at a press conference which I held at Warm Springs, Ga., in January, 1933, after visiting the valley with that splendid fighting American, Senator George Norris, of Nebraska, that I put his vision and mine into effect. For many years, in different parts of the nation, I have been interested in what I called the problem of better land use, a problem which necessarily had to include existing facts of harmful land use.

In the watershed of the Tennessee River, therefore, I had come to consider the facts of devastating floods which had existed for many generations in the higher valleys, floods that took great tolls of human lives—floods which threatened the very security of Chattanooga itself and of many other communities on this river, on the Ohio and on the Mississippi.

Fighting Against Nature
I had studied the washing away of the wealth of soil on the main stem of the river, on its many main tributaries, and up in the creeks and hills in the higher valleys. I had seen how commerce impeded by shoals and by winding variable channels. I had understood the waste of potential hydro-electric energy.

I had seen forests denuded or burned—but worst of all, I had seen the splendid people living in parts of seven states fighting against nature instead of with nature.

Being of a practical turn of mind, I asked for figures relating to losses and figured to show the cost of stopping these losses.

My memory is that the engineers told me that from floods alone the average annual damage in the Tennessee Valley was about $25,000,000; that the top soil carried to the sea by annual floods averaged another $25,000,000 worth, that better farming and forestry could produce at least $25,000,000 a year more; and finally that a saving of $25,000,000 could be made by providing for and insuring on cheaper electric rates and a wider distribution of power. In other words, the complete development of the objectives of the Tennessee Valley Authority would save or, in other words, gain for the people of the watershed $100,000,000 a year.

On the other side of the ledger—the cost side—we would have to figure on a total final investment of about a half billion dollars, including, of course, the amortization of the amount spent through a series of years—and including incidentally no watered stock. This total sum of dollars was to be spent for three major benefits. The first related to the control of the water for better navigation, for the building of lakes, for the prevention of erosion and for the development of power.

The second objective we had was the building back of soil fertility through research into phosphate fertilizers, the use of nitrate plant life and the diversification of crops and the reforesting of millions of acres of land. The third objective was to improve the social and economic life of these citizens with their cooperation—to plan with them for a greater diversification of human effort, to make a richer farm life, to add new industries, to give employment and to bring a larger return in cash each year to the average of our families.

Progress Cited

Today we see the progress that we have made, that we are making and that we propose to continue to make. We have come far along the road. In this valley, as in the nation, we do not propose to abandon the goal that is directly before our eyes either by sitting down or by going back.

These splendid changes have not come by compulsion or by thousands of farmers and thousands of townspeople have met together in the common effort. They have debated and discussed. Participating in the processes of their government they have altered the looks of their towns. They have added fertilizer to their soil. They have improved their industries. No farmer was forced to join this conservation movement. No workman was compelled to labor here under onerous conditions, or for less than a rightful wage. No citizen has lost a single one of these human liberties we prize so highly in this democracy. This is a demonstration of what a democracy at work can do, of a people uniting in a war against waste and insecurity.

There were and are those who maintain that the development of this enterprise is not a proper activity of government. As for me, I glory in it as one of the great social and economic achievements of our time.

Today we are facing a time of peril unmatched in the history of the nations of all the world. And because we are undertaking the total defense of our nation, the Tennessee Valley region has assumed, in addition to its own domestic betterment, its share of responsibility for national defense.

Already, and several years ahead of our carefully planned schedule, we are creating new plants which of necessity will be more powerful. I am glad, indeed, that in spite of partisan opposition, the Congress of the United States has overwhelmingly voted the necessary funds. That money is now at work.

Industries Safer In Area

New defense industries are more safe from attack in this region behind the mountains than if they were located on our more exposed borders. It is, therefore, good for our safety to develop further and to use the natural resources and the manpower of this region. In that development, let us always remember that we must and shall retain the great gains that have been made for human social security in recent years. We propose, indeed, not to retain them alone, but to improve and extend them. Most assuredly we are determined neither to repeal them nor to weaken them.

We understand now what we did not understand in 1917 and 1918—that the building up of army and navy equipment and the training of men to use it ought not to result in a waste of our national resources, and at the same time ought not to break down the gains of labor or the maintenance of living wages.

We are seeking the preparedness of America, not against the threat of war or conquest alone, but in order that preparedness be built to assure American peace that rests on the well-being of the American people.

Let us, therefore, today dedicate this dam and these lakes to the benefit of all the people, the prosperity they have justified, the hope they encourage—the total defense of the United States of America.

The Low Down On Mr. Willie and Tammany

As a citizen of the United States Mr. Willie has the inalienable right to belong to any political party of his choosing. But as a candidate for the presidency of these great United States he has no legitimate right to try to deceive the people as to his past political affiliation.

Here is the low down on Mr. Willie's affiliations with New York county's notorious Tammany Hall as given by the Bureau of Publicity of the National Committee: Wendell Willie's great issue of the campaign has already been knocked into a cocked hat and its originator, caught in his own trap, is squirming and spluttering expletives. The power trust lobbyist who was chosen by the Republican national convention to be its candidate for President was going to make "machine politics" and "boss rule" the principal issue in his campaign. When it was disclosed that he was only recently a member of Tammany, the Democratic organization of New York County, which Republicans for generations have pictured as the very emblem of political depravity.

Mr. Willie when it was first brought to his attention, lightly evaded a direct reply. Then when Secretary Ickes brought it forcefully to the notice of the whole country Mr. Willie began to shout "lie" and "falsehood," epithets which were echoed by his faithful newspaper followers.

Unfortunately for Mr. Willie and his defenders, Edward J. Flynn, Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, "had the goods" on this point. He produced for the inspection of the newspaper men photostatic copies of the certificate of election of Mr. Willie and Mrs. Willie as Democratic county committee members in the New York County Democratic organization known to all people as Tammany Hall. Mr. Flynn stated that not only was Mr. Willie a member of the county committee but he was also a dues-paying member of the Tammany displaying club of the Fifteenth Assembly District.

The club, when Mr. Willie joined it, was known as the Osceola Club with John E. Sheehy, protégé of John F. Curry, as the leader. When Mr. Sheehy was defeated for leader by Jeremiah T. Mahoney, the Osceola Club was amalgamated into the Grover Cleveland Democratic Club.

WELL, HERE WE ARE AGAIN, FOLKS!

Mr. Flynn said that Mr. Willie's denial "shows that he is emotionally unstable—he likes to give it but he can't take it."

He listed Mr. Sheehy as Mr. Willie's sponsor in the club, and said that the records of the club showed that Mr. Willie paid his dues in it from 1934 to 1936. On this same question, Mr. Mahoney, the present leader, and the Democratic candidate for mayor in 1937, said that he still considered Mr. Willie a member of the club.

"He hasn't resigned; he is just behind in his dues," Mr. Mahoney declared. "The records show that the last time he paid dues was in May, 1936. In the primary in question I was to clean up Tammany Hall, and I was fighting Sheehy. I won out over Sheehy, and Willie was supporting Sheehy. Willie's a member of Tammany, all right. He can't get out of that. The club is the regular Democratic club, and it's a Tammany club." Records of the Board of Elections, says the New York Times, checked sometime ago, showed that Mr. Willie had remained an enrolled Democrat through the 1938 election, to enroll as a Republican for the first time in 1939.

Nineteen thirty-nine, about a year ago, would be just the time that leaders in high finance and big business were deciding to build up Mr. Willie for the Republican presidential nomination. So Mr. Willie changed his registration.

MORAL ECHOES

REV. D. W. HASKEW, D.D.

When Stanley Baldwin first became prime minister of England and moved into the government building on Downing Street, his wife did not like the looks of the rugs on the floor and requested Parliament for funds with which to buy new rugs. Owing to the National debt Parliament could not provide funds, but told her that she could have the old rugs cleaned. When the men came to remove the rugs for cleaning, they found that beneath several layers of paper and beneath the paper was found beautiful Oriental rugs. During the World War Lloyd George had covered these rugs with a cheaper quality that they might not be ruined by the tread of war. Look deep into your life and see if you have not some noble qualities hidden beneath your present way of living. If so, dig them out and let the best in you be seen and used.

A hard working farmer brought a stalk of corn to the printers office next door to my home. He thought it to be quite unusual in height as it measured more than fifteen feet in length. I looked the stalk over and it was rather tall, but I observed this about the stalk of corn. While it was tall yet it had only one very small shoot on it and this shoot eleven feet above the ground. It reminded me of so many people I see day after day. They make a fine outward appearance and what little they do, they lift very high before the world, but after all the— is nothing much to them. A field of corn like that stalk would have made the appearance of a great production, but there was nothing there but a few blistered "nubbins." As I was also a farmer, I was a few feet for me I had rather be a seven foot stalk of corn with a large ear close to the ground, than be a tall stalk and have no production. Oh! how I would like to make a show.

While sitting in the Cafe I around and saw a woman sitting window sill on the outside. I what seemed to be a dove I painted on the window glass, a bit closer I observed that she wore a dress that had the picture of a mule for its flowering. I thought myself how much more beautiful was for that lady to wear a picture on her dress than it was to carry the mule on the inside dress. However, it is not the thing to see the mule on the inside of a garment rather than on the outside of the garment worn. Can you see the mule in you?

One day I decided to carve of a dog out of a wide cypress in my storage room. After the art was complete and my dog was in white and black spots, I him on my lawn and waited for opinion of other dogs. Along high ground and as he looked to lawn he saw my dog and came the street to greet his comp dogs usually do. He trotted up plant dog and touched its nose and then walked around, in the lead of an inquisitive mind trotted off in seeming disgust about ten feet away, he stopped turning around he looked at dog, and while I did not hear so, but I know that he said, "Do and then trotted away. It looked dog, but the dog was not there men and women who have and the paintings of a sun person, but as we learn more we find that there are no qualities there. If you are a like one.

When I was a boy my father large pair of scales that hung joist of the barn. This pair was the symbol of justice to me came to buy corn. The two scales hung on a corner wood the weight of the corn was determined by the weight used we came into the reality of life that the world is neutral. There is right and wrong. bad, and before we begin visible actions, the scale is on our side. When we do wrong we tip downward, when we do right the scales upward. God has weighing you and He knows your deeds are good or bad.

STATE DEMOS. MAKE PLANS FOR CAMPAIGN

Radio Broadcasts to Be Heard Over State-wide Hook-up By Political Leaders

Mobile, Ala. Sept. 9, 1940. The Members of the State Democratic Executive Committee, and to all members of Each County Democratic Executive Committee. The State Democratic Executive Committee has now completed all arrangements for having a series of radio broadcasts on a State-wide hook-up in behalf of the entire Democratic ticket by Democrats representing a variety of thought within our party. We have arranged for each of these broadcasts to originate at Radio Station WSPA in Montgomery and be broadcast on a State-wide hook-up. It is probably the hour at which we have the largest radio audience. As chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee, I will make most of these talks on the evening of Saturday of this week, September 14, at 6:30 P. M. The following is the program which we have arranged:

Saturday, September 14, at 6:30 P. M. Senator T. McCorvey, Chairman of the Democratic Executive Committee.

Sunday, September 21st at 6:30 P. M. Marion Rushton, Democratic Executive Committee.

Sunday, September 28, at 6:30 P. M. Governor Bibb Graves, Chairman of the Democratic Executive Committee.

Sunday, September 29th, at 6:30 P. M. Mrs. Leonard Thomas, Democratic Executive Committee.

Sunday, October 12th, at 6:30 P. M. H. C. Chauncey Sparks, Runner-up in gubernatorial race.

Sunday, October 19th, at 6:30 P. M. W. L. Lee, one of our Delegates to the Chicago Convention.

Sunday, October 26th, at 6:30 P. M. Mrs. Edwina D. Mitchell, Vice-Chairman, Women's Division of the Democratic Executive Committee.

Sunday, October 28th, at 6:30 P. M. Hon. John H. Bankhead, United States Senator.

Sunday, October 31st, at 6:30 P. M. Hon. Lister Hill, United States Senator.

Sunday, November 2nd, at 6:30 P. M. Hon. Frank M. Dixon, Governor of Alabama.

Sunday, November 4th, at 6:30 P. M. Hon. J. M. Bonner.

Each member of every County Committee will keep a copy of this list, showing the time of each of these talks, and endeavor to get others in his precinct to "listen in" to our programs. I believe this will be effective campaigning. We are also sending a copy of this list to each of the newspapers in the county and hope you will request your papers to give publicity to this list, showing these speaking dates. We are addressing a separate letter to the members of the State Committee and the Chairman of the various County Committees and am forwarding them to them a number of Roosevelt buttons for distribution throughout the counties of the State. The next three or four days I will like for those members of the County Committees who can assist in putting these buttons in their respective precincts to call on their chairman for some of these buttons. All of you will get busy before the 5th of November to get to it that Alabama rolls up the Democratic majority in her history.

Sincerely yours,
W. L. T. McCORVEY,
Chairman, State Democratic Executive Committee of Alabama.

BY ALEXANDER BETTER

R. J. Alexander advises The Clanton News that his son Bobby, who has been in a Birmingham hospital with a broken leg, is improving but will have to stay there for some time. Alexander Business School of Chilton County News Office will reopen next Monday September 17th.

Jones-LeRoy

Mrs. C. P. Jones of Clanton and Mrs. C. P. Jones of Clanton announce the marriage of their daughter Lois Avolin to Ernest LeRoy on Sunday morning, September 16th at 10:00 o'clock. The wedding was quietly solemnized at the home of the bride's parents with Rev. C. W. Williams officiating. The ceremony was held in the presence of a few intimate friends and members of both bride and groom. Mr. LeRoy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy of Clanton and is employed in this city.

GRAND JURY

FIFTY-FIVE TRUE BILLS FOUND 62 CASES CONSIDERED

STATE OF ALABAMA, CHILTON COUNTY.

To Hon. Arthur Glover as Judge of the Circuit Court of Chilton County, Alabama:

We the Grand Jury empaneled for the July term of the Circuit Court after receiving your Honor's most able charge entered upon our investigations of the matters that came before us as Grand Jurors and herewith submit the following report:

During the investigation we have examined 62 cases and have examined 73 witnesses and are returning herewith 55 true bills.

We have examined the fee book of the Probate Judge and find it neatly kept and correct in so far as we were able to ascertain. We have examined the bonds of the various county officials and find that they are ample for the protection of the public and on our examination of the sheriff's accounts with the State for the feeding prisoners we find it being kept in accordance with the law. On our examination of the office of the County Superintendent of Education we find that his books, records and papers are being kept neatly and fully in accordance with the law in so far as we were able to ascertain. We have made a personal inspection of the County Jail and find that the prisoners confined therein are being well fed and cared for with reasonable comfort.

We wish to thank the Sheriff and his deputies for the prompt manners in which they secured witnesses that we needed to complete our labors and for the conveniences given us during our stay as Grand Jurors.

The Grand Jury wishes to especially thank your Honor for the very able charge given us when we were first empaneled. It has been most helpful to us throughout all our investigation.

We have been informed that former Grand Jurors have made recommendations with reference to repairing the plumbing and sanitary connections in the Court house and that nothing has been done by the Commissioners Court to remedy the situation. We find the plumbing and sanitary connections in the Court house in bad condition and in need of repair. Especially is this true as to the men's toilet on the first floor of the Court house. This condition should be remedied as in its present condition it is impossible to keep it clean and sanitary. We recommend to the Commissioners Court that this situation be remedied immediately.

We, having complied to the best of our ability with Your Honor's charge respectfully ask that we now be dismissed until such time as Your Honor may see fit and think proper to have us again convene.

This September 6th, 1940.

Red Cross Meeting At City Hall Fri. Sept. 20

Purpose To Organize For Making Clothes For War Refugees

There will be a meeting of the Production Committee of the American Red Cross of Chilton County at the City Hall on Friday afternoon, September 20th at 3:30 o'clock. The purpose of this committee is making clothes for the war refugees. The United States Government has contributed $2,000,000 worth of goods for this purpose and all who will join this committee are requested to please make arrangements to be present at this meeting.

Mrs. Beatrice Vines, Field worker for the American Red Cross will be in charge.

The United Kingdom now has 3,000,000 soldiers under arms.

CITY PRIMING FOR ELECTION MAYOR'S RACE IN SPOTLIGHT

Mayor And Five Members Of City Council To Be Named At Polls, Monday September 16th

Election of the City of Clanton will go to the polls on next Monday, September 16th, and cast votes in one of the hottest contested City elections ever held in Clanton.

There will be only one voting place and that as before will be at the City Hall. Polls will open at 8:00 o'clock and close at 6:00 P. M.

The candidates in the Mayor's race are C. Fenn Jones, incumbent and C. E. Stapp.

For place number one on the City Council, Jimmie Taylor and James Wade.

For place number two, Grady Hefflin, present councilman, is without opposition.

For place number three, C. O. Jones and J. Watts Moore.

For place number four, John Deramus and T. W. Kemp.

For place number five, L. E. Diefenderfer is without opposition.

Both factions are working hard for their respective candidates and Monday should see the largest vote ever polled in a City election here.

Chilton Students Receive High Average At Teachers College

Students from Chilton County attending Jacksonville State Teachers College this summer who finished with an A or B average were: Cuba Conway, Clanton; Melba Patton, Jemison and Winfred Lecroy, Maplesville.

Dr. C. W. Daugette, president of the College stated, "Every indication points to a larger student body this year than last year and the students have shown a splendid spirit and the outlook is promising."

Chilton County High Ready For Verbera

The Chilton County High football team is hard at work getting in condition for a hard fighting Verbera team, their opponent on Sept. 20. Their first game of the 1940 season.

Coch F. H. Spicer states that the team this year will be heavy enough to compete with the best high schools in the state and he is drilling them hard to get them ready for a hard schedule.

The first game will be played on Clanton's newly lighted field and a large crowd is expected to come out and boost their home team.

WATERWORKS

Water Board Answers Political Whisperings

Clanton, Alabama, September 9th, 1940.

Editor Chilton County News.

Will you please allow us to use your paper to say to the people of Clanton that the report being circulated now that we own the Water System and that it was sold to us by the City Council and Mayor Jones, is ENTIRELY UNTRUE. We do not own any more interest in the Water System than any other citizen owns. The system belongs to all the people of Clanton.

Nearly two years ago Mayor Jones asked us to serve as a "Water Board" in order to comply with a law that was passed on March 2nd, 1937, making it possible for cities and towns to borrow money with which to build water systems, and pledge a portion of the money received from the sale of water to pay back the money borrowed.

Had it not been for this law which was passed by the Legislature of 1936-1937, Clanton could not have built our present water system, and could not have received from the government of the United States about $35,000.00 which helped to complete our splendid water system we all should be very proud of.

A portion of this money will be returned each year, and when it is all paid, the "Water Board," and all contracts and conditions connected with the borrowing of this money by the city will be ended.

We do not receive any pay at all. We pay our water bill each month just as all other citizens do. All we have done in the past, and all we do now, is to sign a paper or report occasionally.

This report that is being used at this time is a great injustice to the City Council and Mayor Jones.

Respectfully,
C. O. Jones

Chilton County Live Stock Show Set For October 11 And 12

At a meeting of the officers and directors of the Chilton County Fair Association held early in August it was decided because of crop conditions and general world conditions that it would not be advisable to try to hold the regular agriculture fair this fall. The officers and directors did vote to sponsor a real educational live stock show to be held just before or just after the Birmingham fair. This was done because of the increasing interest in live stock in Chilton County.

Mr. Charlie Breedlove, assistant county agent, advised Doctor Parrish, President of the Fair Association and C. E. Stapp Secretary and Treasurer that prospects are good for having a large number of Dairy and Beef animals at the show.

Arrangements are being made for some very interesting demonstrations of breeding, showing the value of good breeding in both Dairy cattle and Beef cattle.

A premium list that competition will be between pure bred Jerseys, grade dairy cattle and Pure with Colt (by side).

Everyone desiring to enter Jersey or grade dairy cattle for competition in the show October 11-12 should contact Charlie Breedlove, Assistant County Agent.

Premium List for Chilton County Livestock Show, Oct. 11-12, 1940.

Jersey-Purebred
Junior Heifer, 1st prize $7.50; 2nd prize $5.00; 3rd prize $2.50; 4th prize $1.00; 5th prize $1.00.
Senior Heifer, 1st prize $7.50; 2nd prize $5.00; 3rd prize $2.50; 4th prize $1.00; 5th prize $1.00.
Jr. Yearling Heifer, 1st prize $7.50; 2nd prize $5.00; 3rd prize $2.50; 4th prize $1.00; 5th prize $1.00.

Legion Meeting Friday Night

State Commander and State Adjutant Will Be Guests

Cohen E. Stapp, Commander of Clanton Post American Legion, announced Tuesday that all is in readiness for the meeting Friday night, Sept. 13, when the State Commander and the State Adjutant will be guests of the local post.

Mr. Stapp is anxious to especially have a large membership present at this meeting and all members are urged to be there. The meeting will be held at the Court house at 7:30 p. m.

T. P. Parrish Died

T. P. Parrish, age 78, died last Thursday evening Sept. 5, at the home of his son, W. S. Parrish, following a lingering illness.

He was married to Louise Elizabeth Gudgeon, October 1885 who preceded him in death nine years. He was a lifelong resident of Chilton County and had many friends and acquaintances. He was a member of the Baptist Church.

Due to his impaired health he was inactive for the last several years, although his speech was impeded some twelve years ago, he showed a spirit of cheerfulness and appreciation. He was very patient through it all.

Funeral services were conducted Friday p. m. at 4 o'clock at Samaria Baptist church by Rev. Grady Williams. Interment followed in the adjoining cemetery with Spigener in charge.

The songs, "The Lily of the Valley" and "Lead Kindly Light" were sung by Mrs. Lorraine Porth, Mrs. A. B. Stanley, O. L. Devaughn and Percy Pitts with Mrs. Buford from Verbena at the piano.

He is survived by three sons, two daughters, six grandchildren, three sisters and one brother.

Palbearers were David Vines and employees at Mitchell Dam who ministered to him in his last days.

W. P. Gordon Speaks Here Saturday

W. P. Gordon, will speak at the Chilton County Court House on Saturday morning, Sept. 14th, at 10:00 o'clock a. m. His subject will be on Old-Age Pensions. He is public or cordially invited.

HOME GUARD

Men Physically Fit 18 To 60 Is Suggested

Gov. Frank M. Dixon has approved organization-plans for a Home Guard, to be summoned to service when the National Guard is transferred from the State.

The Home Guard is open to physically-fit men between the ages of 18 and 60, but will be composed largely of American Legionnaires, around which organization the new force will be built.

The Governor has authority to draft any man between the ages of 18 and 45 "anytime he sees fit"; but personnel is expected to be recruited on a volunteer basis.

George Cleere, Montgomery, State Legion Commander will be Commanding Colonel of the Home Guard. Approximately 3,000 officers and enlisted men are contemplated.

Legion Area Commanders will serve as Lieutenant Colonels; District Commanders as Majors, and Post Commanders as Captains. Appointments are subject to the Governor's approval. Officership in the organization is not limited to American Legionnaires.

The Federal Government is expected to furnish arms and equipment just as it does in the case of the National Guard. A draft of the Home Guard plans has gone to the War Department for suggested changes and approval. Drills will be held on regular Legion meetings nights.

The 1939 Legislature reenacted into effect an old draft law, empowering the Governor to call civilians into military service. Since the State militia, under law, is composed of the National Guard, the Naval Militia and the unorganized militia—and civilians are regarded as "unorganized militia"—legal authority holds that the Governor has authority to call out civilians to active military duty.

UNITY S. S. CONVENTION MET AT CLANTON BAPTIST

The regular monthly meeting of the Unity Association Sunday School Convention met at Clanton Baptist church the first Sunday in September, Prof. J. D. Griffin, superintendent, in charge. The opening song was directed by T. E. Wyatt, and devotional was conducted by Prof. H. A. Harris.

Reports were heard from schools having training courses, four such reports being made.

The principal speaker for the afternoon was Rev. Paul Oden, who made an inspirational address on "Ambassadors For Jesus Christ." The address was splendid indeed and enjoyed by all.

The roll call revealed that there were eight of the sixteen officers of the convention present. There was a total of thirty-seven present for the program. A collection of $1.84 was taken.

It was decided that the October meeting be held at Bethel next first Sunday. After a few remarks by the superintendent, Rev. Paul Oden sang a solo, "When They Ring The Golden Bells," and the gathering adjourned.

The following churches were represented: Maplesville, Milton, Evergreen, Bethel, Clanton, Samaria. There were five visitors.

Lake Culp Reported Much Improved

Lake Culp, who has been seriously ill in a Montgomery Hospital was reported Tuesday afternoon as being much improved.

When the call came to Clanton for someone to come to Montgomery for bloodtests, that they might give their blood to save Lake, more than twenty boys reported at the hospital. Only one, however, has been used to date.

MILLIONS OF BOMBS DROP ON LONDON

German Air Forces Pound Heart Of British Capital

German air forces have been engaged since last Saturday in unleashing millions of pounds of various types of bombs and explosives on England. Much of it on London, the world's largest city. Death and destruction, fire and devastation has been carried to the very heart of this great city. And the end is not yet.

The British are fighting back with everything they have, and carrying loads of bombs to enemy positions—even to Berlin—leaving death and destruction where they go.

What the outcome will be, no one knows. It is a life and death struggle between the world's two most powerful military machines. Regardless of which side wins—both sides lose. The unpredictable amount of property, goods, foods, feed and life's necessities cannot be easily or hurriedly replaced. It is going to take years of toil and self denial.

Want and misery is sure to follow where bombs are still raining from the skies in Europe.

Training For New Chevrolet Models

Chevrolet dealers' service managers and mechanics from coast to coast have embarked on their yearly period of training in the servicing of the new year's models, soon to be announced. By mid-September, more than 25,000 service men will have been trained—in groups of 12—in factory practice and procedure as worked out for the new 1941 Chevrolets.

C. E. STAPP Makes Final Statement On Mayoralty Campaign

TO THE EDITOR:

As I stated in your paper two weeks ago, I am not seeking the office of Mayor of Clanton as an OPPONENT of Mr. Jones, but at the request of the many people of the City who say they want a change of administration.

I wish to publicly state that I have always been of the opinion that employees of any unit of government who are giving satisfactory service should not be let out just because of a change of administration. On the other hand, I feel that employees who are not giving satisfactory service should be replaced and that as employees become unsatisfactory they should be let out of the service just as any good business man would let an unsatisfactory employee go. I have made no promises relative to the personnel of the employee's of the City should I be elected.

As previously stated, if the majority of the people do want a change even though they think Mr. Jones has made a good Mayor, I will ask. For regular meetings of the Council and that prompt action be given requests made by the citizens of the city; That a thorough analysis of the financial condition of the city be made and the public informed and kept informed, and that a plan be made for a "bigger and more beautiful city of happier people."

I believe that by careful planning and budgeting, the streets can be kept worked, kept clean and better lighted, that the streets can be designated by neat signs and the houses numbered; that plans can be worked out for the proper care of the cemetery.

The children and young people are a big responsibility not only of their parents but of all the people. I believe that with the cooperation of the citizens who are interested in our young people, we can have nine months of school, and that we can work some plan for a recreational center where the children and young people can have wholesome recreation.

I have heard many complaints about our water and insurance rates. I do not know what can be done about our water rates, but I will ask that the Council carefully consider the matter of water rates, and if any when the financial condition of the Water Works Department permits I will favor reduced rates.

Realizing that many people do not like to be asked for whom they will vote, I have not made a house to house canvass, but I wish to state that I will appreciate the influence and vote of all who want a change of administration. If I am elected I will do my best for a progressive administration. If Mr. Jones is elected he and his administration will have my full support on all progressive undertakings.

—C. E. STAPP.

Open Letter To Mayor Jones
Hon. C. Fenn Jones, Mayor of Clanton.

Dear Mr. Jones:
An election for Mayor and council to govern Clanton for the next four years will be held next Monday, the 16th. It is of the greatest importance to every law abiding citizen that we elect the best officials possible, and that we have a fair and honest election. This is not meant as a last minute statement, but is made at the first possible time in the columns of the papers. We learned from information that can not be doubted, viz: Members of the present city council, that on Tuesday night, September 3rd, the city council duly and regularly selected certain citizens of Clanton as officials to conduct the election next Monday. In violation of the action of the city council Mr. Marion Gore has been substituted and made one of the number of election officials. We think that you ought to tell the people of Clanton why this was done, and by what authority it was done.

We think we have said enough to show any citizen of Clanton who is acquainted with current events, the way the wind is blowing in this election.

Twins, Separated 20 Years, Similar Odd Case Offers Scientists Interesting Study.

WASHINGTON.—Lois Bailey has spent her life in large cities. Louise Bailey has lived in a small town. Yet these identical twins, co-eds at Baylor University in Waco, Texas, are so much alike that they are offering science a rare opportunity to compare the relative importance of heredity and environment.

And the verdict seems to be that it's about even—seven—I e., you can take your choice, but you can't tell Lois and Louise apart.

A study of the twins is reported in the Journal of Heredity by Dr. Horatio Hackett Newman, University of Chicago's celebrated zoologist authority on twins, and Dr. Iva C. Gardner of Baylor University.

These are a few of the girls' striking similarities:

They look alike. Ask them a question and almost invariably they will answer in unison, in nearly the same words, and in the same tone of voice. Tell them a joke and they'll laugh in the same pitch.

Even the scales can't tell them apart. Fingerprint experts can, but the difference is so slight that it's difficult. They're the same height.

Their hair is the same shade. The twins, now 20 years old, were separated eight days after birth because of the death of their mother. Lois was taken from one city to another by her foster father, a traveling certified public accountant. Louise lived with an uncle, principally in McGregor, a small town in Texas. They were reunited about a year ago.

Authorities felt that Lois, educated in metropolitan schools, should excel Louise in mental tests. But she didn't. Dr. Newman found, except in arithmetic calculations.

Canadian Blind For 22 Years, Amazed by Sight

VANCOUVER, B. C.—After 22 years of blindness the veil of darkness has been cast away from the eyes of William Hunter, 68-year-old news agent, by the magic of a surgeon's scalpel.

For the first time "since the mist came over my eyes in 1918," the one-time soldier can see again.

"It was a miracle," he exclaimed happily, telling of the operation that restored his sight.

"I walked to the hospital window, not daring to hope for too much. But I looked out and for the first time in 22 years saw green grass. It was wonderful. I think I cried again."

Now the days are a series of astounding discoveries: That the cars are shaped differently than he remembers; men wear strangely cut suits; the new buildings don't have curves and domes.

THIS WEEK IN THORSBY

MRS. WEBB PARRISH, Correspondent

CONGREGATIONAL NOTES

The congregation greeted the pastor Sunday morning at the first service after his return from vacation. The Junior Choir presented a splendid program. Members of the choir conducted the entire service. The benediction. Mrs. T. T. Webb and the Juniors have our thanks for the fine service.

Meeting of the Study and Recreation group was held on Monday night.

Services will be held on next Sunday School at 9:45.

Worship and sermon at 11:00 a.m. The second study of one of our great sayings "I am the Light of the World."

Endeavor prayer meeting and evening service at 7:30. Sermons, "The Passing and the Eternal Welcome" to all to worship.

THORSBY INSTITUTE NEWS

will reopen Wednesday at 10 a.m. A large attendance is expected at which everyone is invited.

Lois Leech, Matron at Thorsby Institute, spent part of the summer through the West with her sister, Miss Alice Leech, who is Dean of Teachers' College in Springfield, Dakota. Some of the way mountains 14,000 feet high.

Ruth Ford, English and Spanish at Thorsby Institute, with sister, Miss Myrtle Ford who is a nurse, also toured the West.

August. E. Jenkins and Miss Helen E. Jenkins, principal of Thorsby Institute, most of the summer in New England, making their headquarters at New Bedford, Massachusetts. Cheshire, at New Bedford, was noted for its cheese and Thomas Jefferson's administration. Very large cheese was sent to the people of Cheshire.

Ruth Sullivan, who has been a teacher and office secretary at Thorsby Institute for some time, is back at Thorsby helping at school for a week until school work is running order.

BAPTIST NEWS

Services Sunday and Sunday at the usual time.

Prayer service Wednesday at the Congregational church.

W. M. S. will meet at the church Tuesday afternoon at 2:30. All are urged to be present.

Service is invited to the Deep Concert to be at New Salem Baptist Church next Friday (13) night.

Misses Mildred Sims, Dixie Johnson, Mary Ceravolo, Mrs. W. E. Sprayberry, Birmingham and Mrs. James McMichael, Marion Junction, sister of the bride, were bridesmaids. They wore gowns in pastel shades of marquisette fashioned with sweetheart neck lines, their full skirts forming a slight train, and they carried bouquets of gladioli tied with contrasting ribbon.

Mrs. John S. Lynn, of Washington, sister of the bride was matron of honor. She wore blue marquisette and lace and carried pink asters.

Shirley Anne Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Johnson, Birmingham, was flower girl and wore a gown of white marquisette fashioned similar to those of the bridesmaids.

Ralph Scott, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Scott, Birmingham and nephew of the bride, was ringbearer.

Attending the bridegroom as best man was Lowell Bonds, while the ushers were Williams E. Sprayberry, John Salser, Trenton Benson, cousin of the bridegroom, and Raymond and Ennis Benson, brothers of the bridegroom.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Robert Minor and Miss Mary Sue Porter, Thorsby assisted in serving.

For traveling Mrs. Benson wore a tailored suit of wine crepe trimmed with blue satin. Her accessories were of wine and she wore a corsage of white rosebuds.

Mr. John S. Lynn of Louisville, Roy Connatser of Atlanta, Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Scott and Mr. and Mrs. James McMichael of Camden were here for the week end to attend the Connatser-Benson wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. McFarland and little daughter of Talladega visited Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Harper over the week end.

Messrs. Lance Franklin and Carl Foss, of Birmingham were recent visitors here.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Rogers of Bessemer visited Mrs. Bertha Wilson Sunday afternoon.

Friday and Saturday will be opening days for the Dunlap Brothers store. They will carry a complete line of fancy groceries, fresh meats, fruit and vegetables. They invite everyone to visit them in their new place Friday and Saturday. Free drinks—watch for their ad.

Big Time At Thorsby City Park. This coming Saturday night, Sept. 14, we will have those boxing matches again, also buck dancing, pretty girl cake and lots of home made ice cream and plenty of cold drinks. We are really going to have lots of fun Saturday night. Bring lots of pocket change along with you for this show is being put on for the P-T. A. and they really need the money. So be sure and come. We hope to have lots of good music.

Games were played during the afternoon and delicious cakes and punch was served to several little friends.

Mrs. Russell Ray and little son Robert Earl left last Friday night for Detroit—where they will make their home.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Tach and daughter Cecilia Jo of Birmingham visited relatives here last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Each and baby and Dr. and Mrs. H. G. Franklin and little daughter were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Grady Tapscott last Thursday.

Miss Hilma Collins is spending a few days in Birmingham with friends and relatives.

Mrs. Charles Cocker and little daughter Luida Seale, spent last week in Wilsonville.

Mr. and Mrs. Harve Wilson have moved back here from Atlanta, Ga.

Mrs. T. E. Barkham and children, Peggy, Ed and Jane and Mrs. Ralph Parker and children Donald and Ralph, of Birmingham spent the day with Mrs. Alpha Brown and the Bentley's at the Lake Sunday.

Mr. Bill Mayhugh left Sunday morning for a visit with his mother and other relatives in San Antonio Texas.

Mrs. Sam O'Conner and children and Mrs. Annie Wyatt spent a few days last week in Clanton.

Billy Ward who has been visiting in Oklahoma returned home last Wednesday.

Robert Ward left last Wednesday for Norfolk, Va., after spending three weeks here with his parents.

Mr. Sam O'Conner who is working in Birmingham was home last Wednesday and Thursday.

Mr. Sam Collins of Clanton is visiting Mrs. Susie Benson and other relatives.

BAPTIST SOCIAL. The Baptist Social will be held Thursday at the home of Mrs. Leonard Lowery. Everyone invited.

Workmen Shatter All Records For Unit Construction. Buildings are rising at Montgomery's National Defense Housing Project in West End in record-shattering time. Workers are swarming over the project—the first of its kind in the nation—to complete it by Dec. 3.

The $7,500,000 job resembles a beehive, with buildings going up in faster time than did the army camps in the last World War, competent observers say.

More than 420 family units in 4-6 family buildings are under construction.

With the smoothness of assembly-line technique, these permanent-type homes of brick, concrete and terra-cotta tile are being built under contract by the Blair Construction Company. Work started Aug. 5.

The Montgomery Housing Authority is sponsoring the project, borrowing funds from the Federal government on a 60-year basis.

The complete housing project will house enlisted personnel from adjoining Maxwell Field.

The site of the national defense project stretches from the Montala Mills building to Maxwell Field.

Paved streets will be laid out and by Spring the lots will be landscaped and planted.

Ex-Governor Bibb Graves is chairman of the Montgomery Housing Authority, with Charles Rogers as director. Pitt Tyson Manor is information director.—Alabama Journal

Family and Dog End 6,000-Mile Hunt for a Job. NEWARK, N. J.—Alfred Lombardo found a job after some 6,000 miles of transcontinental drifting, but the chance hung in the balance for an instant recently while Lieut. Thomas J. Owens sized up Rags, a small black dog of engaging appearance combining some of the less congruous features of the cocker and the scottie.

Mr. Lombardo, who is about 25 years old, turned up at police headquarters a little before midnight with his wife, their son, Alfred Jr., 11 months old, and Rags. They were sodden and exhausted. Even the indomitable Rags sank to the floor with a sigh.

"Can you put us up for the night?" asked Mr. Lombardo. "We've no place to go, and we're afraid the baby might catch cold."

"We can take care of you all right," said Lieutenant Owens, "but we can't take in the dog. There's a rule against it."

House Me, House My Dog. The couple turned toward the door and Rags got up expectantly. "Thanks just the same," said Mr. Lombardo. "We've run into that rule before, but Rags is one of the family. We've had him longer than we've had the baby."

Lieutenant Owens looked at the dog, which had given himself a good shake and was standing cheerfully at the door, his tail wagging. "Hold on," he said. "I'll see what I can do."

At last, words, Rags subsided and promptly went to sleep. The lieutenant telephoned to the Salvation Army and then to the Police Precinct. Meantime a policeman brought in some sandwiches, coffee and milk. By the time the family had eaten, quarters were ready for them. The Salvation Army would take Mrs. Lombardo and the baby and give them clean dry clothes. The First Precinct would waive the regulations and give Mr. Lombardo and Rags a cell.

Eighteen-Month Odyssey. Mr. Lombardo said he and his wife and the dog had set out from Buffalo by car 18 months ago to find work on the Pacific coast. He never found a job that lasted more than a few days, he said, and the arrival of the baby complicated things. They had only a little money left when they started East and at Cleveland they hitch-hiked from there to Brooklyn, where Mr. Lombardo's sister lives, but she was in little better circumstances than they, so they started West again, reaching Newark in the afternoon. They plodded through the rain for hours, hunting work until the business places closed and then merely waiting aimlessly to keep from freezing.

Archie Goodman, proprietor of the Rex Used Car company, heard of the case and telephoned that he could give Mr. Lombardo a job as handy man at his car at $2 a day and would find living quarters for the family in Irvington. The Lombardos were back at police headquarters when the message came and Mr. and Mrs. Lombardo, fed and dry, danced a jig at the news, Rags watching them with a puzzled air.

'Perfect Crime' Student. Flops on a Burglary Job. LOS ANGELES.—A bank clerk, quoted by officers as saying he took up burglary for a thrill and in the hope of committing a perfect crime, was held in jail on a burglary charge.

Found hiding near the scene of an attempted burglary, Gerald MacMartin, 27 years old, was arrested after he had fled under fire of Deputies Allen Dismaukes and Bert Duesler. They quoted him: "I have a good job in a downtown bank, but I am an inveterate reader of detective fiction. I studied the operations of fictional criminals and my ambition was to become a good-enough burglar to carry out a perfect crime."

Author, Blind Six Years, Suddenly Regains Vision. LONDON.—Blind for six years, entirely without hope and then suddenly given her full sight, was the adventure of Miss Constance Smedley, author and playwright. "I still can't believe I am on earth," she said.

She was surprised and delighted to find that her face did not look any older than when she lost her sight six years ago. This she attributes to the effects of blindness during the first shock, gave her an "inner vision" and alleviated worry and fear.

Parrot's Sneez Warns Gov. Cooper of a Fire. SHELBYVILLE, TENN.—Laura, the parrot, sneezed. The sneeze awakened Gov. Prentice Cooper just in time to discover a fire and save his farm home. The governor said his pet's ka'choing awakened him. He found her eyeing a wisp of smoke curling up through the floor. Axes were used to trace the smoke back to its source, and the blaze was extinguished after minor damage.

Eighteen-Month Odyssey. Mr. Lombardo said he and his wife and the dog had set out from Buffalo by car 18 months ago to find work on the Pacific coast. He never found a job that lasted more than a few days, he said, and the arrival of the baby complicated things. They had only a little money left when they started East and at Cleveland they hitch-hiked from there to Brooklyn, where Mr. Lombardo's sister lives, but she was in little better circumstances than they, so they started West again, reaching Newark in the afternoon. They plodded through the rain for hours, hunting work until the business places closed and then merely waiting aimlessly to keep from freezing.

Archie Goodman, proprietor of the Rex Used Car company, heard of the case and telephoned that he could give Mr. Lombardo a job as handy man at his car at $2 a day and would find living quarters for the family in Irvington. The Lombardos were back at police headquarters when the message came and Mr. and Mrs. Lombardo, fed and dry, danced a jig at the news, Rags watching them with a puzzled air.

CLANTON NEEDS: A RECREATIONAL CENTER—A CHILLING PLANT—STOCK YARD—CANNING PLANT—SYRUP PROCESSING PLANT—KNITTING MILL

Mark Remarks:

Work, we are told, is soon to begin on streamlining Seventh street through Clanton. This is to be part of the U. S. 31 improvement. From twelve to fifteen passenger buses passes over this street each day, and effort is being made by Mayor C. Fenn Jones to have the Greyhound Lines erect a modern drive-in bus station at some convenient point on this street. This is for the public good, and every civic body in Clanton and Chilton County should get back of the proposition.

According to Mr. Willkie it is perfectly all right to compel men to give a year of their lives in the armed forces for the protection of property rights. But when it is suggested that industry be compelled to operate in defense of the public weal, he says that is "un-American and a step toward dictatorship." He thus places property not only above human liberties but above human life itself.

It is going to be real embarrassing for we American red necks and hillbillies, if and when Hitler forces Churchill to pick up his kings and queens, dukes and duchesses, lords and ladies, and all the rest of the foolish mess called royalty, and dumps them here in America. However, we have quite a few snobs who will entertain "them royalty."

In preparing for a full and complete defense it becomes necessary for a democracy to conscript men, money and machinery. If government conscripts one of these without the other two it gives to part of its citizens an undue economic advantage over others, and thereby ceases to be a democracy.

Money and machinery want an army of a million men to protect money and machinery, while money and machinery are engaged in making millions— and money and machinery don't give a hang how many Britishers or others Hitler kills, or how. If you don't believe it ask Candidate Willkie.

"Britain has spent two billion in U. S. Since War begun." Headline in Alabama daily. Now, we wonder who got that money!

Why worry? There are going to be more Roosevelts than there are Willkies when voting time comes.

The Why of Land Monopoly

It is frequently asserted that industrial depressions are due to land monopoly. While this is true, it is only a part of the story. A seeker for the truth of the matter would quite naturally want to know what is land monopoly. The answer to the latter is the answer to the former of course.

Since the value of that part of its service for which government fails to collect attaches to the legal title to land and is subject to speculation. Were government to collect in full for the value of its service, land would cease to be subject to speculation, hence no one would care to hold title to land for any purpose other than use. With the monopoly bar to its use broken, land would be available to whoever cared to use it in the production of wealth thus automatically doing away with the cause of industrial depression. Failure on the part of government to collect in full for its services is the true cause of land monopoly that in turn is responsible for most of the evils not the least confronting the nation.—Cause and Effect.

"What's Ahead?" for Business, for Government, for America?

Nationally known authorities on economics, military political and international affairs will present a symposium of expert opinion on "What's Ahead" at an open forum and discussion which will feature the annual statewide meeting of the Associated Industries of Alabama to be held in Birmingham, October 18th, it was announced by J. Handy Wright, executive vice-president.

Beginning at 11 A.M. with the opening address, and extending through luncheon and the afternoon, general public discussions will be held on different aspects of the subject. Experts will review and appraise developments from four different standpoints, viz., what's ahead for business, what's ahead in a military way, what's ahead in government and what's ahead for America from the international standpoint. Each of the experts will handle his specialty in a general manner and then participate in a public discussion with both the other experts and members of the audience. The day's program will conclude with the annual dinner at which a speaker of national prominence will discuss America's future from the long range viewpoint.

This year's meeting of the Associated Industries is expected to bring to Birmingham an even larger number of business leaders than the 500 who attended the Association's sessions here last Fall. In addition to nationally prominent business executives, economists, military and news commentators, whose knowledge of national and industrial affairs, have caused them to be chosen to conduct the afternoon forum, several other distinguished figures in the field of business will deliver addresses at the morning, luncheon and dinner sessions. Many members are expected to remain in Birmingham for the Alabama-Tennessee football game which will be played the following afternoon.

For several weeks numerous committees of the Associated Industries have been at work perfecting details of the program, which will be announced in the near future.

Commenting on the meeting, President Stockham said:

"Uppermost in the mind of every citizen in this critical and uncertain hour is the question 'What's Ahead' for America?"

"Because of the uncertainties of the future, our country is now engaged in a great program of preparedness. Those same uncertainties make it desirable that every forward looking individual prepare himself better to meet the problems of the future, by gaining better understanding of the many complex factors in the national and international picture."

"Seldom has such an opportunity been provided for first-hand discussion of these vitally important questions as that afforded by the visit here of the country's recognized authorities in the fields of business, political and international affairs, who will be the guests of our Association at its annual meeting."

"We expect a large number of the state's business men will avail themselves of this opportunity to prepare for 'What's Ahead.'"

MORAL ECHOES

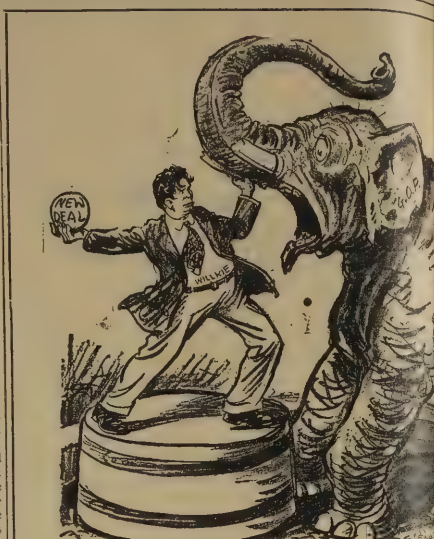

REV. D. W. HASKEW, D.D.

Many years ago an enterprising farmer decided to improve his seed corn. He selected a few mature grains and planted them. The first year the corn did not produce so well. Each year he would go through his harvest and select a few of the ears of corn, and in seven years he had improved his harvest to where he was getting more than double what he had made per acre before. It took close selection and close attention to improve his corn. In like manner, when we decide to make a worth while person out of ourselves, we have got to select our habits with care, and we must guard our virtues with all diligence. Leave off your mistakes and faults of last year and each year make yourself a better man, a better woman. Remember, an improved human life is a blessing to the world.

I had cause to visit the Apartment of a young couple. Before knocking on the door I glanced to the floor and there I saw six beer bottles sitting on the outside. They had been emptied by the two occupants of the apartment and had been placed out there for the bottle man to collect. I knew that the young couple was not financially able to afford such extravagance, and this added to the moral weakness in evidence, made my heart sick. They may have thought that they were seeking happiness, but happiness was not on that road. You never find a white dove in a gopher hole that is filled with muck. O How some young couples need to learn the way to real happiness. The beer drinkers of today will be the whiskey drinkers ten years from today. Young folk, beware.

There are two kinds of happiness. One is pig happiness, the other is Christian happiness. Call your hog up to the back fence and pour over to him corn and swill, and watch him satisfy his physical. Then look at him as he wallows in the mire. That is hog happiness. The flesh is satisfied and the physical is at ease. Too many people today are in search of happiness by the way of flesh. Flesh satisfaction is pig happiness. Christian happiness is born of good habits and clean living. There is a happiness that comes from high ideals and unselfish service. There is a happiness that comes from God's abiding presence and power that fills our spirits. This happiness is Christian. Which do you have, pig happiness, or Christian happiness?

A lady told me that she could not be happy because she had too many troubles. Mr. Pollock said that when he was a young man that he thought himself to have more troubles than any one. He worried and fretted about many things. One day he decided to count his troubles for a year. That he might not make a mistake he secured an empty cigar box and when he met a trouble, he dropped a marble into the box. When the year was over he counted his marbles and there were 52 of them. He found himself wondering what trouble each marble represented. He could not remember a one of them. "Well" said Mr. Pollock, "If I can not remember my troubles for a year, I will just not allow myself to have any next year." That is the truth with us. We fret and work over many things and yet we fail to remember them for a year. Why not stop worrying and be happy.

One of those exacting wives stood watching her husband off to his office. She saw that his serge suit was shiny and she said, "Fred, why can't you treat yourself to a new suit?" The man of fifty replied, "Mary, it is this way. At thirty five you induced me to load myself down with insurance for you and the children, and now I have got to keep it up, or we lose everything." We all admit that a reasonable amount of insurance is sensible and right, but many a man has loaded himself down with too much. His insurance is digging his grave. He works himself ragged that he may leave a rich widow when he is gone. It can be said that some rich widows act very unwise, after the husband who made her rich is gone. Let all sane women use their good sense in keeping their husbands from loading themselves down with insurance that will destroy their happiness. That husband of yours lives longer if you will let him with you what he makes. Let him a new suit occasionally.

STATE OF ALABAMA A PROCLAMATION BY THE GOVERNOR

WHEREAS, the Legislature of Alabama, at the regular Session 1939, ordered an election to be held by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama upon a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, which said amendment is herein set out, and ordered that said election be held at the General Election to be held in Alabama in November, 1940; and

WHEREAS, the First Tuesday after the First Monday in November, 1940, which is the 5th day of November, is the time for holding the General Election in 1940; and

WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with the proposed amendment, is required by the provisions of the Act submitting said Amendment, to be given by a proclamation of the Governor to be published in each County in the State of Alabama once a week for eight successive weeks immediately preceding the said 5th day of November, 1940;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Frank M. Dixon, as Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that on Tuesday, the 5th day of November, 1940, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama, in the manner and form provided by law upon the following amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, as follows:

"The Legislature of Alabama may hereafter, from time to time, by general or local laws fix, alter, and regulate the fees, commissions, allowances and salaries to be charged or received by the Sheriff of Mobile County, and including the right to place said officer on a salary basis and provide that the fees, fines and forfeitures received or collected by said officer be paid into the treasury of Mobile County, Alabama, and to fix and provide the amount and method of compensation of such officer. All Acts of the Regular Session of the Legislature of 1939 and 1939-40 heretofore passed and applicable, or purporting to be applicable to said Mobile County, and fixing, or purporting to fix the basis of compensation and compensation of said officer, or placing said officer on a salary basis, are hereby ratified and confirmed."

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday, the 5th day of November, 1940, upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, be given by publishing the same once a week for eight successive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 5th day of November, 1940, in each County in the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said County.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and have caused the Great Seal of the State to be affixed by the Secretary of State, at the Capitol in the City of Montgomery, on this 12th day of August, 1940.

FRANK M. DIXON,
Governor.

GRAIN LOSS Control Methods For Rodents And Weevils

Now is the time for farmers to guard against rat and weevil infestation in their cribs, advises W. A. Ruffin, extension entomologist.

Before farmers put new corn in their cribs, they should take special precaution against the 20 per cent loss in stored grain annually by insects and animals.

First, in boll weevil and rat treatment, the crib should be thoroughly cleaned before the new corn is stored.

Best control of the rat is prevention—making the crib ratproof. If rats cannot enter the crib through holes, they cannot harm the grain. The second best remedy, and that which is recommended for cribs which cannot be made rat-proof, is treatment—poisoning the rats with red squill, a vegetable poison harmful to rodents but harmless to farm animals and human beings. Red squill is deadly to rats because they cannot regurgitate their food. It should be used during cool weather.

Most effective control for weevils is sealing the crib and pouring carbon disulfide (high life) at the rate of a gallon on 250 bushels of corn on top of the pile of grain to be treated. The crib should be closed and left intact for two or three days. The carbon disulfide should be used when the temperature of the air is 70 degrees F. in the crib so that there will be sufficient temperature for the liquid to evaporate.

Be sure to keep fire away, says Mr. Ruffin, as carbon disulfide is highly inflammable.

CLARA has been going to cooking school the last couple of months, and this afternoon she tried to make her first cake. If she doesn't do any better at school than she does at home, she's never going to pass. Boy! That cake looked good while she was mixing it up. Clara shagged me in the parlor where she caught me eating the brown sugar, and so when she went to answer the telephone I dropped a couple of cigar butts in the batter for a little flavor. Clara wouldn't be such a bad baker if her memory wasn't shorter than a guinea pig's tail. Last week she made a lemon pie and forgot the lemons, and she forgot to put the baking powder in today's cake. That cake looked like a frosted phonograph record. Tonight at supper Kraft-Facts drew the lucky number and found the cigar butts in his piece of cake. So we had bananas and cream for dessert instead.

Proposes National Guard for Alaska Defense Need Explained by Army Chief of Staff.

WASHINGTON—Enlistment of a National Guard in Alaska is planned by the army as part of the new defense program for that area. Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff, told senators about this when he won a $12,000,000 appropriation for defense in that area. The testimony has just been made public.

"We are anxious to create a National Guard in Alaska," the general said, adding that the federal government probably would provide armories and other equipment usually provided by the states.

Pointing out that half of the 80,000 persons in Alaska were Eskimos, Aleuts and Indians, Senator Thomas (D., Okla.) asked whether they would make "good soldiers."

General Marshall explained that the army expected "much more response from citizens than would be expected in this country, with almost 'every able bodied man from 18 to 45 years' joining the National Guard."

He said that guard units probably would be established at Seward, Anchorage, Fairbanks, Ketchikan, and Kodiak, with an R. T. C. unit of the University of Alaska at Fairbanks.

"It is very important to us to have a unit in Alaska," he explained, "as such a unit constitutes a definite national defense asset, at a place and a time when it might be needed very much."

Marshall also told senators about fortified areas, air bases and submarine bases being established by Russia on the coast opposite Alaska.

Telephone Line Urges

Patrons to Listen In SPRING HILL, KAN.—L. H. Snyder, who has been in the telephone business most of his 61 years, sees no harm in party-line subscribers listening in on their neighbors' conversations. In fact, he encourages it.

He owns the Mijo Telephone company, a partnership between Johnson and northern Miami counties, which has more than 200 subscribers sharing 24 party lines.

He calls listening in "rubbering" and believes it is all right. "For instance," he said, "somebody is sick and a doctor is called. The neighbors get a first-hand report on the sick person's condition and are ready to offer aid."

"Maybe a couple of women are planning a neighborhood entertainment—the women listening in can offer suggestions and can save a lot of individual calling."

All the Mijo subscribers lift their receivers when the bell rings four long. They know that Snyder or one of his three operators is on the other end with a "flash."

Whenever a neighbor's house is afire, a child is sick or a car is mired on the country road, Snyder's service goes into operation. He calls all the near-by subscribers and informs them of the emergency. Action on his "tip" he leaves to them to organize.

CARD OF THANKS

The death angel visited our home last Friday night and carried our dear father and brother away.

Those who survive to mourn are two sons, two sisters two brothers and wife.

We wish to thank all who rendered any service of any kind to him during his sickness and death, the names and deeds are too numerous to list.

The Nummy Family.

Monroe County Returns

To Prohibition

MONROEVILLE, Sept. 4—Monroe County today had apparently returned to prohibition.

With only 10 small boxes missing out of 31, the vote to retain legalized liquor was 1079 and for the dry law 1299. Liquor stores had operated in the county since Alabama adopted the state store plan three years ago.

BEEF CATTLE

Sales To Be Held At Selma, Montgomery Demopolis and Epes

Quality beef cattle from Alabama's Black Belt ranglands will go on parade before cattlemen from at least six Southern states when the second annual Southern Cattlemen's Tour is held Sept. 23-26. Sleek feeders and stockers will be viewed by some 200 visitors in the lush pastures of the Black Belt and in the sales pens of four communities included in the tour.

Luther Fuller, Birmingham, agricultural committee chairman of the State Chamber of Commerce and farm products marketing director of the Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railway Company, said here today that arrangements have been made for taking care of about twice as many visitors as took part in last year's tour. The event this year is being expanded by addition of sales at Montgomery, Selma, Demopolis and Epes.

Cattle growers throughout the Black Belt are offering their choice feeders and stockers for appraisal of committees set up in the various communities. Fuller said, and only the best of those offered will be accepted for the sales. Visiting cattlemen thus will be given an opportunity of bidding on the best beef cattle Alabama produces.

Entertainment for the visiting cattlemen includes a barbecue each day in each of the towns where sales are to be held. Mornings will be devoted to herds and pastures and the daily sales will follow the noon barbecues.

The annual Cattlemen's Tour is sponsored by the Alabama Extension Service, the State Department of Agriculture, the Alabama Bankers Association, the Alabama State Chamber of Commerce and the Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railway Company. Local Chambers of Commerce also are cooperating in their respective communities.

8 GOVERNORS

Have Accepted Invitation Of Gov. Dixon

Eight Southern States governors have accepted Alabama's Chief Executive Frank M. Dixon's invitation to join him on a three-day Gulf-Mobile Bay yacht cruise beginning Sept. 15, to discuss probable defense centers in Southern States inland areas, the Governor has announced.

The Alabama Governor also announced that a member of the National Defense Advisory Commission, perhaps William S. Knudsen, will be invited to the party.

Gov. E. D. Rivers of Georgia, chairman of the Southern Governors Conference, was asked by Gov. Dixon to add the inland-defense subject to the discussion-program in view of the fact it is the well-known desire of the War Department to remove armament plants and other kindred establishments from zones liable to any future enemy attack. The Georgia Chief Executive has complied with the request.

The long-sought freight rate parity between Eastern and Southern points will be further discussed at the cruise-conference, it was added.

Eight Southern governors have accepted the invitation. Their wives were invited also.

Plans for the gathering at Mobile include the procuring of five yachts for the Chief-Executives and their guests and another for the press, the Governor said.

Mornings will be devoted to fishing from the yachts. Afternoon business meetings will be held Monday and Tuesday, Sept. 16-17, on Dauphin Island.

The Coast Guard Cutter "Tanapa," one of that service's largest vessels is expected to be available Tuesday night for a dinner dance for Governor Dixon and his visitors.

SINGING AT NEW SALEM

Sunday afternoon is the regular singing at New Salem. All quartets and singers are invited to come and help us out. —Doc. Harris Chairman.

PEAS AND VETCH

A Car of peas and vetch will arrive this week. These will be sold outright on Government checks.

It has been reported in various parts of the County that there is no Vetch available this year. This is a false rumor. We have plenty of Vetch for the trade, at the right price.

BIBB GRAVES

Why School People Are Crazy About Him

A well known Birmingham industrialist asked a prominent educator: "Why are you school people so crazy about Bibb Graves?" The reply was something like this: "It is a simple matter of arithmetic and school people have usually studied some mathematics. When Bibb Graves became governor in 1927 the state was appropriating $4,000,000 a year to schools. Graves gave the schools another $4,000,000, so that they were receiving $8,000,000 a year when he went out of office. When he came back in 1935 he added another $4,000,000 a year so that they were put on a $12,000,000 a year basis. He did more for the schools in a practical way than all other governors put together since 1900. Why shouldn't school people be his friend?" —Alabama Journal

SOCIALISTS

Want Nominees To Be On Alabama Ballots

Secretary of State John Brandon has notified officials of the Socialist party that the names of their candidates for president and vice president cannot be placed on Alabama's election ballots until the party furnishes a certified list of presidential electors.

Norman Thomas, of New York, is the Socialist nominee for president and Maynard Kreuger, of Chicago, the nominee for vice president.

Brandon said he had received a letter from Travers Clement, national secretary of the Socialist party, requesting that Thomas and Kreuger be listed on Alabama's general election ballot. Brandon explained, however that under Alabama law the names of candidates do not appear on Alabama ballots, that instead a party's nominee for president electors appeared. The electors may be chosen by primary, convention, caucus or mass meeting.

A Couple's Fate: If Native Poland Rises, They Lose

European War Gives Boracas Family Respite From Deportation.

CHICAGO.—Stanislaw Boraca and his wife, Agnes, natives of the Polish corridor who entered this country illegally 12 years ago and have been deported, have won a temporary victory in their fight to remain in this country.

Their case, involving numerous legal tangles, has been closed for the present, but they have been left with a high stake in the outcome of the European war.

The deportation order states that the two must be returned to Poland. But the part of Poland they came from no longer exists except as part of the German reich. As long as this continues, the order cannot be fulfilled, according to Roy D. Keen Jr., assistant United States attorney, and no attempt will be made to enforce it.

Must Return if It's Restored.

End of the war and possible restoration of a Polish state; it was explained, would clear the way for deporting the couple. Meanwhile the Boracas are powerless to improve their status. Having violated the immigration laws, they are ineligible for citizenship.

Boraca came here from Canada in 1928, two years after emigrating from Poland. He believed himself to be a citizen by virtue of his marriage in British Columbia to Agnes Skukula, who told him she was born in this country.

Actually Mrs. Boraca, as she admitted later, was also of Polish birth and the couple would have to go back to Poland. This finding was reversed by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals which held that deportation to Poland at that time would be "inhuman and shocking to the senses."

"If deported at all, these people should be deported to Canada," the court's opinion stated. Amend Original Ruling. William J. Campbell, United States district attorney, replied that this decision deprived the secretary of labor of certain discretionary powers allowed under immigration law. He applied for a rehearing, contending that the court had gone beyond the record in the case in taking cognizance of present conditions in Europe.

The circuit court denied a rehearing but amended its former ruling by admitting that the Boracas could be ordered back to Poland if Canada refused to receive them. The new ruling, according to Campbell, was sufficient to clear up the confusion arising from the first opinion. Canadian officials, meanwhile, refused to admit the Boracas, leaving as the only alternative deportation to Poland whenever that country exists once more.

Boraca is an interior decorator and a bartender, 40 years old. His wife is 35. They are parents of an American-born son, Arthur, nine years old.

Religious Fervor Brings Long Prison Sentence

MONTGOMERY, ALA.—Sam Hines' religious fervor has put him behind bars for another 17 years and 101 days.

Hines recently invaded a rural Negro Baptist church near Montgomery and took over the pulpit from the right occupant at point of a pistol—then launched into a heated sermon. Meantime, the deposed preacher went to the sheriff. Hines was arrested and sentenced to 101 days for use of a deadly weapon.

He was fingerprinted and it was discovered Hines had escaped from Kilby prison here back in 1918 after serving three years of a 20-year term for assault on murder.

Cripple Finally Exhausts

Federal Agents' Patience ST. LOUIS.—More than 30 times federal agents raided the home of Sylvester Gaston and in 16 of the raids illicit liquor was found. Gaston, 40-year-old crippled Negro, escaped prosecution because federal authorities pitied him.

Gaston troubled internal revenue agents once too often, however, and Federal Judge John Collett sentenced him to two years in prison. While Gaston was in court hearing sentence pronounced, police raided his home again and found more liquor.

'Dead' Three Times, but He Is Very Much Alive

FORT WAYNE, IND.—Lindley Baldwin has "died" three times, but he's still very much alive at the age of 78 years. When 15 was reported to be dead of typhoid fever but he returned to consciousness after health.

A year later he "drowned" but was jugged back to life as his "body" was brought back to town slung over a horse. Not long ago a trainwreck victim was identified as him, but it turned out to be his cousin.

Mrs. Evelyn Wigley Dies In Hospital

Mrs. Evelyn Wigley, 24, passed away early Tuesday morning at South Highland Infirmary in Birmingham, where she had lain on the brink of death for more than a week.

Mrs. Wigley was wounded in a shooting affray which took place in a Gadsden hotel more than a week ago. She was severely wounded and State Highway patrolman P. G. Wigley was killed in what preliminary police investigation called murder and suicide.

She was removed to a Birmingham hospital and an unsuccessful attempt was made to remove the bullet from her neck where it had lodged.

Mrs. Wigley is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Maddox of Clanton. She is survived by her parents and two brothers J. C. Maddox and A. D. Maddox, of Clanton.

She will be buried Thursday. Time had not been announced. Spigener Funeral Home will be in charge.

Navajos Drop Tomahawks

For Modern Can Openers GALLUP, N. M.—A sign of civilization's encroachment upon the vast Navajo Indian reservation of New Mexico and Arizona is the growing pile of tin cans near John Navajo's hogans. Indian traders report the Navajo squaws are as expert with a can opener as many white women.

Aside from meat and corn, the Navajo grows very little that he doesn't eat in his diet. He raises some goats, but even much of his milk comes from cans.

A typical Navajo meal consists of coffee, mutton stew with canned tomatoes, and wheat flour bread baked in a sort of "hoecake." Canned fruit is popular, but the head of the list of good things to eat Navajo places watermelon and soda pop.

Life Expectancy Found

Increased to 62 Years

CAMBRIDGE, MASS.—The life expectancy of man has increased to 62 years through public health programs, says Prof. Murray P. Howard of Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

He predicts that during the next generation smallpox, typhoid and diphtheria will be exterminated, tuberculosis will decrease 75 percent and infant mortality will be cut in half.

Killed by Own Auto

Three-Legged Dog Saves

Master From Angry Bull

GREENFIELD, MO.—A three-legged dog is a hero on the Carl Guenther dairy farm.

A bull attacked the 68-year-old dairyman, knocking him down, breaking a leg and inflicting other injuries. The dog, hearing Guenther's cries for help, happily hopped to the rescue and drove the animal away from the prostrate man.

FARM DEBT

Settle Problem Now, FSA Supervisor Says

Reminding that it is a lot easier to settle debt problems now than after foreclosure proceedings have been started, Marvin Durbin, Farm Security Administration Supervisor, announced that the Chilton County farm debt adjustment committee will meet at any time they can be of service at the FSA office in Clanton, Alabama.

"Many farmers are far enough along with their work to figure pretty well what their income will be," Mr. Durbin said. "Those who anticipate possible losing their land, livestock, or equipment by foreclosure should come to the committee now while there is yet time to help them."

The farm debt adjustment committee, composed of local people, helps debt-distressed farmers by working out a voluntary agreement with their creditors providing for a "fair, orderly repayment schedule that is within the farmer's ability to pay."

"Many mortgage-holders and other creditors have realized almost the face value of the debt by granting some concessions in principal and interest," the supervisor added, "where otherwise they would have sustained a big loss."

EROSION

SCS Searching For New Erosion Control Plants

Over 80 million plants are now growing on more than 500 acres of nursery land in the Southeast for erosion control purposes, reports O. C. Medlock, Alabama coordinator of the Soil Conservation Service.

The greatest number of these plants is kudzu. Second largest in number is tree seedlings. In all, a total of 39 different erosion control plants are in quantity production.

Besides that, more than 600 varieties of plants with erosion-control possibilities are being tried. Of these about 300 have been collected in the Southeastern states. The others were sent from other sections of the country to be tried out under Southeastern conditions.

Observational nurseries are located at Thorby, Ala. and Chapel Hill, N. C. When a promising plant is discovered seed are sent to these nurseries. There a small planting is made for observation.

If the seed comes up and the plant thrives, seed are collected and sent to other nurseries in other sections of the United States for observation under different conditions. After the plant shows promise as a soil-conserving plant, workers all over the Southeast are supplied with seed for actual field trials.

Thirteen new plants, valuable for erosion control, have been discovered in this way. These include four clovers, or lespedezas, five shrubs, two grasses, one wild bean, and a wild pea.

Oats Make Excellent Feed For Dairy Cows

F. W. Burns, extension dairyman, is urging Alabama farmers to plant at least one acre of oats per cow to furnish early spring grazing and for grain production.

"We find that 15 bushels of corn from an acre will furnish 677 pounds of total digestible nutrients compared with 686 pounds from an acre yielding 30 bushels of oats, a slight advantage for oats over corn," he says. "When cut in the dough stage for hay, oats compare favorably with legume hay."

Scelma's fifth annual horse show will be held at Rowell Field October 3rd.

The heaviest earthquake ever recorded in the United States was in Charleston, S. C., August 31, 1886.

Farm Prices Down

According to the Alabama Co-operative Crop Reporting Service, Alabama farm prices were "generally down" during the month of August.

Every county in the state is now getting approximately $100,000 a year in gasoline tax money.

Highway Accident Rate Hits Peak on Weekends

SO YOU'RE LEAVING TONIGHT FOR A WEEK-END TRIP? GOODBYE, OLD PAL!

Sunday is the most dangerous day of the week on which to drive and the hours from 6 p.m. to midnight are the most perilous hours of each day. These conclusions are drawn from an analysis of America's highway accident record for 1939, just published in "Smash Hits of the Year," the tenth annual booklet issued in the interests of street and highway safety by The Travelers Insurance Company.

Next to Sunday, Saturday is the most hazardous day to venture out on the highways. Fewest accidents happen on Wednesday. An unexplainable fact revealed by the figures is that although there are more persons killed on Sundays, there are more injuries on Saturdays.

Fatal accidents increase sharply each day after 4 p.m. and rise to a peak between seven and eight in the evening. They taper off then, but jump sharply again at about midnight—the hour when parties break up.

The high point for injuries is

19.3% SATURDAY
21.6% SUNDAY
14.1% FRIDAY
12.1% MONDAY
10.5% THURSDAY
10.5% TUESDAY
10.5% WEDNESDAY

DAILY DISTRIBUTION OF FATAL ACCIDENTS

39.7% 6 P.M. TO MIDNIGHT
19.1% MIDNIGHT TO 6 A.M.
15.1% 6 A.M. TO NOON
26.1% NOON TO 6 P.M.

HOURLY DISTRIBUTION OF FATAL ACCIDENTS

reached daily between four and six p.m., indicating that dusk, darkness and fatigue are strong factors in bringing the accident curve to its peak toward the close of the day.

War Rewrites Navy Strategy

Hit-Run Type Reaches High Development, Say U. S. Experts.

WASHINGTON.—Naval lessons of the European war will lead inevitably to modifications in many aspects of general strategy at sea, experts agree here.

These same lessons also will be reflected in changes in construction. Secretary of the Navy Charles Edison made the first pronouncement on this aspect recently when he declared large warships would require strengthening of their superstructure for protection against large bombs.

As for strategy, the hit-and-run type which has been brought to its highest development in the Scandinavian conflict, has emphasized the importance of certain classes of warcraft.

Experts said that the European war will have only limited application to United States naval strategy, because of the vastly different problems involved. The United States fleet patrols an entire ocean, the Pacific, and guards only one enclosed naval area, the Caribbean.

U. S. Objectives Stated.

The main problem of the United States navy is to prevent any possible enemy from approaching the continental limits of the nation, and to intercept and destroy its foe, which must approach by sea before it draws near the mainland.

For this reason, Oahu, most strategic island of the Hawaiian group, has been converted into an impenetrable fortress, and Pearl harbor, 3,000 miles out in the Pacific, has been made into the most powerful naval base in the entire ocean.

But in the comparatively new defense areas of Alaska and the Caribbean there are problems which resemble those encountered in the European war.

There are narrow sea passages which can be mined, harbors which can be stealthily approached and landings which can be attempted secretly.

The experiences in Norway, in the Baltic, and in North sea offer reference to possible hostilities in the Caribbean and in Alaskan waters, experts said.

Stealthy blows by small naval and aviation units have featured the European war at this time, naval observers pointed out. Submarines, small torpedo motorboats, aircraft and destroyers have carried a major part of the offensive effort.

Larger Craft in Reserve.

Large ships of the line have entered hostilities only rarely, although they have figured "in being" as a threat to smaller naval units.

The use of the battleship to bombard coastal positions is possible only when one side has a preponderance in capital vessels, as has Britain; the super dreadnoughts, moreover, are seldom used against well-fortified areas because coastal guns have an insurmountable advantage over even the largest guns on a battleship.

The United States fleet has never been conceived as an instrument of attack against coastal cities, but even in its patrolling of the open seas it faces the same type of threat which has been directed against the British navy—attack from air, sea and underwater by comparatively low-cost but hard-hitting weapons of stealth.

To meet this threat destroyers are being developed in new formations, and anti-aircraft defense has been increasingly emphasized.

False Teeth in Bass
TEMPLE, TEXAS.—Freaks of nature, such as rabbits with deer horns, often are created by taxidermists, but Jack Keith recently displayed a new idea. He had false teeth fitted in the wide-open mouth of a 10-pound black bass, which he had caught and had mounted. An accompanying sign said: "If I'd kept my mouth shut, I wouldn't be here."

'Corpse' That Came To Life a Problem

Refusal to Pay Extra Fare Case for Courts.

SALONIKA, GREECE.—The Salonika courts have been asked to decide how much Demetrius Halkias should pay for transportation of his "corpse" to his home.

As set forth in legal briefs, the case is as follows: Halkias, taken ill at the village of Hierissos with a disease which the local physician could not diagnose, was advised to go to the Salonika municipal hospital.

He went to the hospital with his son, but an entry fever, signed by the mayor of Salonika, was required. While the son sought the mayor, the father rested in a hotel lobby. When the son finally returned Halkias had collapsed, and persons at the hotel thought he was dead.

The hotel keeper demanded that the body be removed. The son purchased a cheap coffin and promised the Salonika-Hierissos bus driver 2,380 drachmas ($17) to transport the coffin. The regular fare is only 100 drachmas.

Halfway home, Halkias stirred in his coffin and sat up the rest of the trip. Back at Hierissos, the bus driver demanded 2,380 drachmas. Halkias refused, insisting he owed only the regular bus fare.

"If you can prove that I'm not alive," he said, "I shall willingly pay you as a corpse; otherwise, not a drachma more than usual."

The courts will decide.

Girl Takes Up New Kind Of Job; Makes Saddles

SANTA FE, N. M.—Terry Myrick, a daily girl, is as busy about the saddle leather under him as Casey Jones was with his whistle.

Even the saddle's creaks have to be in tune. And dudes imitate the cowboys.

Now, at 19, Terry turns out saddles for dude ranchers as well as the boys who make their living producing little dogs along the range. She's no dude herself, but can ride even this salty mustang with the best of them.

Terry says she's not sorry she chose her occupation, even if it is an unusual one for a woman. She now rates as an expert.

Portrait's Eyes on Bill Betray Counterfeiters

TOLEDO, OHIO.—Look to the eyes of the portrait on a bill if you would detect counterfeit money, urges Ira L. Brought, a secret service agent of the federal government.

"The eyes should have a lifelike effect," Brought said in a speech before the American Institute of Banking. "Counterfeiters usually cannot obtain this effect."

Brought said that there are only about 35 good portrait engravers in the United States and that it takes about three months to engrave a good portrait.

"Other things to notice when detecting counterfeit money," he said, "are the sharp details such as each hair, threads in the coat, and fine screening about the head. These never are well done in counterfeiters."

Walks 38 Miles, but She Doesn't Find Plumber

PHILADELPHIA.—Mrs. Michaelina Karpinski, 70 years old, left her washing machine running and went to find a plumber near by. She walked 38 miles before she discovered she was going the wrong way—and she never did find the plumber.

She was found on railroad tracks at Coatesville, Chester county. Her clothes were muddy and her shoes were worn out.

She said she became lost near her home, and, knowing the Pennsylvania railroad tracks led past her house, she mounted the embankment and started walking.

Optical Illusion Causes General Alarm of Fire

KEENE, N. H.—The fire department answered a general alarm, but found only an optical illusion and an embarrassed patrolman, Fred J. Bergeron.

Bergeron thought he saw smoke and flames pouring from a second-story window in a business district block. Investigation showed that the illusion was caused by reflection of a swaying red advertising sign and steam escaping from a room where workmen were removing wallpaper.

FARMERS OF ALABAMA ARE REMINDED

Nov. 30 Closing Date On 1940 AAA Practices

Farmers of Alabama are reminded by A. W. Jones, Alabama AAA administrator, that November 30 is the closing date for carrying out soil-building practices under the 1940 AAA Farm Program.

This means, Jones explained, that farmers participating in the AAA program, must complete soil-building practices by Nov. 30 if they expect to receive credit on this year's program.

Farmers of Alabama continued this year to carry out a broad program of soil-improving practices, and by so doing made a substantial contribution to the Nation's agricultural preparedness Jones said.

"We are vitally concerned today with strengthening the defense of our Nation," he stated. "In this regard, we are fortunate in that we have an abundance of food and fiber now, and our farms are capable of producing plenty for future use. The AAA Conservation Program has given us the opportunity to overhaul and improve our 'farm factories' until now they are able to supply any anticipated requirements."

Among the most important soil-improving practices which Alabama farmers may carry out now are planting winter legumes, applying phosphate and lime, and terracing their land.

Dear Editor:

I would like to say just a few words this week about our church last Saturday night and Sunday. It was our regular preaching days. Brother Burrell, our pastor was there and his brother with him and also Rev. Hughes and daughter. We are always glad to have good people like these with us. We have known him around fifty years. Our church is getting along nicely. We had a good revival this summer with about 18 additions.

Our Sunday School and B. Y. P. U. and prayer meeting is getting along fine. We have good attendances and are still growing. Everybody is in good spirits. We want all you good christian people to pray for us that we might do a great work and that our church might grow and prosper and that we might lead souls to be saved. We invite everybody to come and be with us. We will give you a hearty welcome any time. Pray for us.

Farmers Urged Not To Over-Cut Timber

Increased demand for lumber and higher stumpage prices are causing many Alabama farmers to make the mistake of cutting their forest areas clean.

It is highly advisable for farmers with equipment and labor to harvest and market their timber on a selective basis," advises Paul G. Millsaps, assistant extension forester.

The following practices are recommended for farmers without equipment and labor: First, with a white band of paint, mark all defected, diseased, insect infested or crowded trees to be cut. Scale each one and tally. Second, specify the amount to be sold and request sealed bids from several buyers. Third, draw up a timber sale contract covering the date of payment, protection to the remaining stand, method the timber will be scaled and just what will and will not be cut. Contract forms may be secured either from the local county agent or the Extension Forester's office in Auburn.

Maner Assumes Post With Housing Group

Pitt Tyson Maner, secretary to Bibb Graves during his last term as governor, went to work Tuesday as information director for the Montgomery Housing Authority, of which Graves is chairman.

The authority is handling projects involving expenditures of $2,500,000, a large portion of which is for housing soldiers in establishment of the south-east air base here.

Maner obtained six months leave from Alabama Secretary of State John Brandon, with whom he had served as chief clerk. Brandon appointed Mrs. Agnes Baggett, a worker in the secretary of state's office for 12 years, to serve as secretary.

Charles Rogers is executive director of the Montgomery Housing Authority.—Alabama Journal.

PASURES

Farmers Advised Plant White Clover Patches

White Dutch Clover, one of the most valuable pasture plants in Alabama, now has a future on almost every Alabama farm if farmers get to work right away and plant small seed patches.

This is reported by J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist, in advising that experiment stations and demonstrators have found that Alabama farmers can easily produce White Clover seed.

It is vital, he said, that farmers raise their own seed because Europe's clover seed, upon which the U. S. has been largely dependent, is now cut off from this country.

Soils for White Clover seed production should be carefully prepared and generally fertilized with phosphate. Planting should be made between September 1 and October 15.

This spring Alabama farmers saved 50,000 pounds of White Dutch clover seed.

Meeting the Challenge of the Times..

As our nation looks to its defenses, speed is the order of the day. And vital to the quickened tempo of industry and national activity is the country's telephone service. From sea to sea, in every corner of the land, it must function smoothly, quickly, regardless of the added burden it is called upon to bear.

In the nine southern states served by Southern Bell, more than twenty-one thousand skilled telephone workers, with years of experience in meeting emergencies, are keenly conscious of the important part they play in the national defense program. They accept this new and challenging responsibility with full confidence, for they are prepared—organized, trained, and equipped—to meet the test of the times.

Southern Bell and the entire Bell System are in high gear. They are meeting the nation's needs today. They are ready to meet those of tomorrow.—Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company, Incorporated.

Lid's Off on Luxury in Plymouth for 1941

Here's the new Plymouth for 1941—"glamour car" from stem to stern, with numerous engineering advancements that contribute to new performance, impressive new luxury and driving ease. The car's nimbleness in traffic is achieved by new "high-torque" engine performance, stepped up in power and torque. Driving effort is greatly reduced by new Powermatic shifting and a new "get-away" gear in second speed that cuts down driving motions. "Fashion-tone" Interior is Plymouth's "inside" story for '41, bringing new luxury and charm beyond anything formerly expected in a low price motor car. Smart new 2-tone body colors are available on Special Deluxe sedans. Number One safety contribution this year is a new "Safety Rim" wheel design that reduces hazard of blowout or puncture by holding a flat tire securely on the rim. Even at high speeds, completely flat tire gives the driving effect of 10 lbs. pressure on standard type wheels. This is the 1941 Plymouth Special Deluxe Four-door Sedan.

NATIONAL FARM LOAN ASSOCIATION

Interesting 2-Day Conference Held In Montgomery

O. O. Calfee of Clanton and Wm. R. Clements of Jenison Directors of the Chilton County National Farm Loan Association attended a two-day conference of South Alabama associations last Wednesday and Thursday in Montgomery. Also in attendance at the meeting were D. W. Waite Secretary-Treasurer and Miss Dolly Bell Harris Office assistant of the association.

The meeting was addressed by John L. Ryan, Senior Vice-President of the Federal Land Bank who reviewed general economic conditions as they affect agriculture and he reported on the condition of the Federal Land Bank. "There has been a continued improvement in the condition of outstanding loans," Mr. Ryan said. "In spite of unsatisfactory conditions borrowers have been making a determined effort to take care of their obligations to the Bank with the result that the loans are in better condition today than they have been in eight years.

"Real estate is no longer the problem it was a few years ago. The Bank now owns less than 300 farms in Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama, the three states which it serves, and we have reason to believe that we will be able to dispose of these few properties in a very short time.

"Loans have increased during the past eight months. Since January 1, we have made more new loans than during any entire year since 1934 and our busiest season is just beginning. In view of unsettled conditions and poor crops in some sections, many farmers will probably require the assistance of land mortgage credit. The Federal Land Bank will be prepared to render such service when called upon.

L. C. Pigford, Vice-President of the Bank, spoke on loan servicing and the policy of the Bank in handling the annual installment collection for the 1940 season.

"In those areas which are suffering from crop losses," Mr. Pigford said,

REVIEWS and PREVIEWS

By Irvin Lande

The American people, united and strong, raised their voices in prayer last Sunday, September 8. They answered the appeal by President Roosevelt to beseech "the Ruler of the Universe to bless our Republic, to make us reverently grateful for our heritage and firm in its defense, and to grant to this land and to the troubled world a righteous, enduring peace."

Since war broke out in Europe a little over a year ago, American churches and synagogues have been hoping for some things which the President epitomized so well. The American people have been granted for their heritage, and they are trying to defend it. They also have been asking, with humility, for a just and lasting peace, and for victory of the forces of democracy and justice over the forces of dictatorship and tyranny. Those men and women who prayed last Sunday, their prayers were not their first. It was just the first united expression of their effort.

That Sunday of prayer is by far not the end of their prayers, either. It is not a climax. That request of a day of worship is just the first move to make Americans conscious of the innate satisfaction, the ultimate good, and the true necessity of prayer in these troubled times. From now on, we shall, perhaps, realize even more fully the desirability of prayer in our daily life as an intrinsic part of our national defense.

Even last year, President Roosevelt stated that the greatest need in America today is a return to religion. Even the great movement of moral re-arming was begun. Leading commentators, such as David Lawrence, preached the ideal that America, to become the great nation prepared that she wants to become, must be prepared at heart. Leading magazines hoped that here in the United States the church would not play a secondary role to the state. For these men knew that once the state controlled the church, then our free form of government must perish.

And now, as we are embarking on the greatest adventure in our history, we realize as we have never realized before that we must become full of the great thing which will lead us to victory—character. We also realize that, only through religion shall we achieve that durability of character.

For, today, as we look back and as we look ahead, we know that we must become a citadel of peace for all humanity. We realize that it is we who shall be responsible for a new age of peace, international good will, and human brotherhood. We have failed before in trying to establish peace. We have let the League of Nations fail because we were afraid of the consequences which might have come from entering it. We were afraid because we needed that moral courage which comes from that greatest of all institutions, religion. Today we know that our greatest ambition, our highest ideal, is to help establish peace for all times, whether we do it through a League of Nations, a United States of Europe, permanent disarmament, or merely through educating all men in the folly of war. Whether we do it through any of those channels or not is unimportant. The important thing is that we must do it.

We must do it because we owe it to our fellow man to do it. We have obligations to all of humanity. Our nation is composed of people and descendants of people from all other nations. We have taken the best brains of the world to make this country industrially strong and agriculturally independent. We have assimilated Albert Einstein and Thomas Mann from Germany, Alexander Hamilton from the West Indies, Louis Agassiz from Switzerland, Ernestine Schumann-Heink from Bohemia, James J. Hill from Canada, and Michael I. Pupin from Serbia, to mention a few. We have inherited the culture of ancient Rome and Greece. We have taken the folk lore of the Balkans. We have seized the science of all nations. We have augmented the art of Paris and the rest of Europe. We have used the design of the Orient. In other words, we have an obligation to fulfill that will require the best efforts of all of us.

We could ignore our duty. We could go on selfishly, individually. But that is not part of the American way, the American spirit, and we Americans today will be the first to say so. So, therefore, let us begin to reassure ourselves of our tasks, and let us prepare to proceed to fulfill them. Let us take the words of President Roosevelt as the opening declaration of our intentions.

HARP AND HARMONY SINGING CONVENTION

Through the gracious hospitality of Cedar Grove Church the Chilton County Harp and Harmony Singing Convention held their regular fall session there on Sunday, Sept. 1st. The convention was called to order by the County Chairman, Mr. Marvin Jackson, who directed an opening song after which prayer was offered by Bro. Will Cox who is always an inspiration at a sacred song service.

A program committee for the day was appointed, the results of which gave everyone an enjoyable time all throughout the day.

The convention was favored by representatives from other counties which we were exceedingly glad to have. We wish at this time to thank each visitor and member for their loyal support at this convention as we thank the membership of Cedar Grove church for the invitation to meet in their church and the bountiful dinner which was spread for all at the noon hour.

Directors for the morning were J. H. Williams, W. L. Jackson, Z. T. Parker, J. N. Scott, Mrs. Eva Culver, A. A. Jackson, all Chilton County and J. C. Deason of Centerville, Ala.

The afternoon directors were V. A. Steward, Virgil Smith, and C. T. Ragland, all of Bibb County, Thomas Jackson, Mrs. Ruth Henley, Marlow Williams, Rev. Suowden Hayes, J. Lawrence Hayes, John Hayes, G. B. Williams, Ellis Shirley, and Joe Jackson of Chilton County, John Esque and G. H. Thompson, of Autauga County and Jack Langston of Selma.

Should any church group want the Convention to meet with them for a day of sacred harp and Christian harmony songs, you can make your appointment through Bro. Will Cox, Ira S. Crowe, or Joe Jackson all of Clanton.

The secretary wishes to apologize for being a week late with the minutes but I was too slow for the press last week.

PATES CHAPEL

As we come to the close of another week we were very proud of our Sunday School Sunday. It was almost a perfect attendance of only two absent. As it seems our folks have wakened up and see that it takes good attendance to make a good Sunday School and church. Bro. Nix delivered a wonderful sermon Saturday night, Sunday night and every Second Sunday night, Sunday and Sunday night. We are all so glad to see the ones who have been sick able to be back at church. We are also proud to see our old faithful ones who have always been faithful and still faithful who they are able to, like aunt Sallie Hay. Folks if more of our young folks and older ones too, was as faithful to come as she was it would be a better church.

The W. M. S. will observe the day of prayer for State Missions at the home of Mrs. H. W. Reinhardt, Thursday beginning at 10:00 a. m. You are cordially invited to attend these services.

CONGREGATIONAL NOTES
A crowded house greeted the Junior Choir as they, by request of many people, repeated the Musical program presented the week before. Every part was well taken and every number well rendered. Our hearty thanks to all who participated.

The Recreational Group will meet on Thursday evening at 7:00 in the Baptist Church. A half hour of Bible study, a period of play directed by Phares Raybon and "Eats" to close with. This is designed to be strictly a Community enterprise and we welcome all young people who are not otherwise engaged on that evening.

Plans for our Shelter House in the park are taking shape and we hope to be able to report definite plans in the near future. This too, is not a church project but one in which the entire community is concerned.

All services next Sunday: Sunday School 9:45. Morning worship 11:00. Sermon theme, the third in a series on Great Statements of Jesus "I am the Way, the Truth and the Life." Christian Endeavor prayer meeting at 5:45 and evening service at 7:30. Sermon theme "The passing and the abiding."

A cordial welcome to all.
The State Missions program will be held at the home of Mrs. W. H. Reinhardt, Thursday, Sept. 19, 1940. We are expecting a large attendance.

The Executive Board meeting of the W. M. U. of Chilton Association will meet at Clanton Baptist Church Saturday, Sept. 21, at 2 p. m.

THORSBY INSTITUTE NEWS

School at the Institute got under way with its regular opening chapel program held in the auditorium Wednesday, September 11, at 10 o'clock. Following a few words of welcome by Miss Jenkins, the principal, the Doxology was sung by the congregation. Rev. J. B. Gonzales led the opening prayer after scriptural reading by Rev. M. I. McLeod. Rev. F. P. Ensminger of Birmingham welcomed the students and teachers on behalf of the board of trustees. Miss Elsie Tinker, instructor of music and a graduate of the Oberlin Conservatory of Music, played "Etude in C. Sharp Minor" by Chopin after which Frances Wood, a senior from Clanton, responded to the welcome speaking for the students and extending a welcome to the new students. Miss Laverne Jones, instructor of English and speech, read "ane Jones" by Ben King. Mr. R. H. Maddox as an alumnus spoke of the memories of Thorsby Institute, and Mr. J. E. Campbell expressed the views of a faculty member returning to work. After the introduction of the teacher, the congregation sang "America" and the meeting was dismissed by the benediction given by Rev. Gonzales.

Regular classes began work on Thursday with a larger enrollment than usual on hand. The first Saturday session was held last week.

On Friday night, September 20, at 7:30 in the Helen Jenkins Hall of Thorsby Institute the annual reception of the Ladies Guild will be given. To it are invited the trustees, faculty, pupils, their parents, and any others who are interested in the school. There will be a program followed by games and refreshments.

Mrs. Bertha Glasston, a graduate of Asbury College, Wilmore, Ky., and mother of Miss Elizabeth Glasston who taught Commercial work at Thorsby a few years ago, came to Thorsby Saturday night. She comes as a volunteer worker and will help with study halls and assist with dormitory duties.

The desk for the library for which the Senior class of 1940 gave twenty-five dollars at Commencement has recently been placed in the library and is very much admired. It meets a real need in helping to lighten the work of the librarian.

The Junior Choir of the Thorsby Congregational Church gave a splendid program Sunday night at the church. This included sacred songs, scripture, prayer, and an appropriate talk. Mrs. T. E. Campbell had charge of this choir during the summer and has done remarkably well with them.

Grandmother Primm returned home Saturday after spending five weeks in Weogufka with her son J. A. Primm. Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth O'Barr recently visited her parents Mr. and Mrs. Fred Howard. Mrs. O'Barr and the children will remain here for a while.

The following people recently spent a week at Panama Beach, Fla. They were all guests of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Peterson of Thorsby while there. Mrs. W. P. Hiller, Indianapolis, Ind., Mr. Herman Vandermoort, Ft. Wayne, Ind., Mr. and Mrs. Walter Peterson, Ft. Wayne, Ind. Mr. and Mrs. N. L. Self, Birmingham, Ala. The Baptist W. M. S. met last Monday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock for a mission Program meeting. Circle 3, Mrs. Horace Popwell presiding, in charge of the program. The program opened by those present singing "To the Jew First." A very lovely W. M. U. Hymn. Mrs. Houston Owens gave the devotional taking her scripture reading from Hebrews. Mrs. Ben Downs, Jr., gave the program. The hymn "The Jew First" was sung by Misses Aileen Popwell and Annie Laurie Bryson accompanied at the organ by Miss Theima White, who sang the hymn "Does Jesus Care?" Others on the program were a group of visitors from the colored church, who sang the spiritual "Lead Away," and Mrs. Rhussus Perry told us about the work her people are doing in the colored churches. Next Thursday September 19 has been set aside for a day of prayer for the missions. The program will be at the church at 1:30 and will last until 3:30. Everyone is urged to attend this meeting. The circles will meet next week at the following homes: Circle One Mrs. Earl Grey. Circle Two, Mrs. W. H. Spicer. Circle Four, Mrs. J. Lee Smith. Circle Five, Mrs. Loren Smith. Circle Six, Mrs. J. P. Hayes. The Homemakers Class will hold its regular business and social meeting Friday, Sept. 19, at 3:30 at the home of Mrs. Parker Taylor. The officers for the coming year will be installed at this meeting and all members are requested to be present. Come and bring some one with you. The Henley Harmony Boys will be heard at the Court House on Thursday night of this week at 7:30 o'clock. Be sure and hear them. Mr. Herbert Wright and son of Miami, Fla., visited relatives in Clanton last week and Miss Francis Bean returned with them and will attend school there this year. Mrs. O. A. Davis attended the Executive Board Meeting of the Alabama W. M. U. held in Montgomery last Thursday and Friday. Mrs. Watts Moore and Joe motored to Brantley last week to take Miss Helen Moore back. She will teach there again this fall. Mrs. A. N. Minor is back home after a trip to Shreveport, La. Clanton is glad to welcome Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Williams, who have just moved here. Miss Ethel Mae Jones visited in Birmingham last Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Mitchell of Verbena announce the engagement of their daughter, Lillian Serena to Charles Foshee, of Billingsley, formerly of Clanton. The wedding will be in early fall. Mrs. Clyde Jones and little grandson Jimmie are visiting Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Chism in Prattville this week. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bryson will have as their guests Sunday, her two sisters and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Downing, Mr. and Mrs. Grady Bannister and Mrs. C. J. Porter all of Aniston. Miss Annie Pearl Honeycutt and Bucky Armstrong, Miss Elizabeth Bryson and Charles Honeycutt were married last Saturday evening at the Baptist pastorial with Rev. O. A. Davis reading the marriage vows. Both couples will be at home to friends in their home on the airport road. Mr. and Mrs. Hance Alred, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Walker, and Judge and Mrs. J. Lee Smith were among those who attended the funeral of Senator Bankhead. Mrs. Melvin Mims visited her sister who is in the hospital in Montgomery, last Sunday. Mrs. Jimmie Bell and Mrs. Charles Wade visited in Birmingham Tuesday. Mr. W. J. Fiquette visited her daughter, Mrs. W. P. Towns in Birmingham last Wednesday.

Clanton Y. W. A. Held Meeting

The Y. W. A. of the Clanton Baptist church met at the home of Misses Margaret and Janie Beth Johnson Monday evening at 7:30. The meeting was opened by the president reading the Y. W. A. watchword (Dan. 12:3) for the devotional. Those taking part on the special program for State Missions were Misses Inez Bishop, Aileen Popwell, Annie Laurie Bryson and Bertelle Holmes. After the program delightful refreshments were served to the following: Mrs. O. A. Davis, Mrs. W. J. Billingsley, Mrs. W. L. Smith, Mrs. A. D. Cotney, Misses Martha Massey, Inez Bishop, Adel Scott, Gladys Samson, Theima White, Sylvia Miller, Elizabeth Lawrence, Hazel Gray, Katherine Hoover, Bertelle Holmes, Aileen Popwell, Elizabeth Armstrong, Annie Laurie Bryson, Mary Carr Arnold, and the hostesses Janie Beth and Margaret Johnson.

In the passing of George B. Ward, former mayor and capitalist, Birmingham lost one of its most colorful figures.

One trouble with the world just now is that we are using too much science, and so-called science, and too little horse sense.

Wonder how big the federal postal deficit would become if the advertising pan-handlers were to suddenly cease sending out "news releases."

That was Old Boreas tapping at your window the past few nights just to remind you that there is neither coal of kindling in the wood house.

Is this a new American industry? The Germans say the British are dropping bags of "Colorado potato bugs" on their potato fields.

Tip to daily news headlines writers: Newspaper hearers are supposed to be written to inform and not deceive.

No. no, no. That vote on the draft had nothing in the world to do with beer.

"Country before Party" is the slogan on stationary being sent out from Wilkie's Washington headquarters. If Wilkie and the Wilkieites really meant that, instead of trying to strangle the defense program, they would be helping Roosevelt and the Congress (including many Republican statesmen) fight the great danger now confronting THIS COUNTRY, and which threatens to become the greatest conflagration the world has ever seen.

How Fearful Is The Gift Of Genius If It Be Abused

A newspaper editorial written in 1854 but so applicable to present world conditions that it could have come today from the typewriter keys, was found recently in "State Department of Archives and History" files by Miss Frances Hails, Archivists.

The editorial appeared more than 86 years ago in the Jacksonville "Republican" of Jacksonville, Ala., at that time edited, printed and published by J. F. Grant.

Miss Hails, running through old files of the Republican a few days ago, found the writup in the July 26, 1854 edition. Remarkably that the writer's comments of the "Napoleonic" might easily be applied to the 20th century oppressor, she had a number of copies made of Mr. Grant's editorial.

Text of the editorial follows:

THE FOUR MASTER SPIRITS
"Happening to cast my eyes over the portraits in a gallery of paintings, I remarked that they were so arranged as to give four personages—Alexander, Hannibal, Caesar and Bonaparte—the most conspicuous places. I had seen the same before, but never did a similar train of reflections arise in my bosom as when my mind hastily glanced over their several histories."

Alexander having climbed the dizzy heights of ambition, and with his temples bound with the chaplets dipped in the blood of countless nations, looked down upon a conquered world, and wept that there was not another to conquer, set a city on fire, and died in a disgraceful scene of debauch.

Hannibal, after having, to the astonishment and consternation of Rome, passed the Alps—and having put to flight the armies of this "mistress of the world," and stripped three bushels of gold from the fingers of her slaughterers, and made her very foundations quake—returned to this country to be defamed, to be driven in exile, and to die at last by poison administered by his own hand, unlamented and unwept, in a foreign clime.

Cesar, after having taken eight hundred cities, and dyed his garments in the blood of his fellow men, after having pursued to death the only rival he had on earth was assassination by those he considered his nearest friends, and at the very point in which he had gained the highest object of his ambition.

Bonaparte, whose mandate kings and priests obeyed, after having filled the earth with the terror of his name—after having deluged Europe with tears and blood, and clothed the world in sackcloth—closed his eyes in lonely banishment, almost exiled from the world; yet, where he could sometimes see his country's banner waving over the deep, but which would not or could not bring him aid.

"Thus, these four men, who, from the peculiar situation of their portraits seemed to stand as the representatives of all those whom the world calls 'great'—those four who made the earth tremble to its centre—severally died—one by intoxication, the second by suicide, the third by assassination and the last in lonely exile.

"How vain is the greatness of this world! How fearful is the gift of genius if it be abused! The wisest that is now living, would not rather die the death of the humble, righteous man, than that of Alexander, or Hannibal, or Caesar, or Napoleon."

Berlin To Bagdad

Many will recall the Berlin to Bagdad railway controversy before and at the time of the outbreak of the First World War. Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany had projected this railway which would have penetrated the very heart of Britain's Near East trade territory. This writer has always believed that this railway project had more to do with the break between Britain and Germany than anything else.

The following interesting news item appeared in Friday's Age-Herald, and from the looks of things in Europe today, the ex-klaxse may live to see trains running between Berlin and Bagdad.

BAGDAD—With the Bagdad Railway completed a new way about the world is opened up. When peace comes to Europe one can enter a train at Calais, France, and leave it at Istanbul, Turkey, to be ferried across the Bosphorus to Scutari, where the Bagdad Express will be waiting to steam across Asia Minor and down the valley of the Tigris.

It will be a road of 1,000 wonders taking the traveler to Bagdad, City of the Arabian nights. From there the way to India is by rail and water. The railway was begun by the Kaiser of Germany and finished by British Engineers with rolling stock and rails fashioned by British workmen.

"No duty has ever come to me in my life, even that in the service of my country, which has so appealed to my sense of social obligation, patriotism and love of mankind as this—my obligation to say and do what I can for the preservation of public utilities privately owned."

—Wendell Wilkie in speech before Economic Club of New York and Harvard Business School Club, January 21, 1935.
"Unfortunately, the Congress has granted to the public preferential rights to power generated from navigable streams. Such power should be a common heritage. The Government, having made this power available, should have an indisputable right to control its utilization and distribution."

Senator Charles L. McNary, candidate for Vice President on ticket headed by Mr. Wilkie, in acceptance speech.

THIS IS MY HOME TOWN AND I AM PART OF IT; IT DESERVES MY BEST

My town is the place where my home is founded: where my vote is cast; where my children are educated; where my neighbors dwell and where my life is chiefly lived. It is the home spot for me.

My home has the right to my civic loyalty. It supports me, and I support it. My town wants my citizenship, not my partisanship; my friendliness, not my dissension; my sympathy, not my criticism; my intelligence, not my indifference; my town supplies me with protection, trade, friends, education, schools, churches, and the right to free, normal citizenship.

It has something that is better than others: the best things I should try to make better: the worst things I should try to suppress. Take it all in all, it is my town, and is entitled to the best there is in me.—Oklahoma Municipal Review.

MORAL ECHOES

REV. D. W. HASKEW, D.D.

Many years ago I was the third man in the taking of honey from the bees. I blew the smoke, one of the other men took the honey and the third man took the honey out of the gum. The man working on the top was nervous and touchy. He moved quickly and beat the air furiously at every bee that came near. The bees made a specialty of him and he got many a sting. The man working in the hive moved slowly and never irritated the bees, and all day he did not get a sting. If you want to get along well with bees do not slash at them, but treat them kindly and they will no more sting you than they would sting a block of wood when they light on it. Our troubles in life compass us about like bees. If we fret and fume when they are about, we will get the sting and miss the honey. If we make it a rule to live in quietness and confidence, we shall taste the sweetness of life and miss the sting.

One day I was in the court room and a witness was on the stand. She was a timid soul and hesitated in her testimony, as if she were afraid to tell all that she knew. The presiding judge said to her—"My good woman, tell all you know, and remember that the power of the United States is behind you to protect you. You need not be afraid to speak out." Are you a Christian? If so, you know something about the saving grace of God and all of the power of God is about you to protect and to make you to be witnesses of His. Do not hesitate to speak out.

There is a Jewish legend that on the night when Moses was to lead the children of Israel out of Egypt, that there was a maiden girl who was very ill in her father's home. On her sick bed she could not sleep and she called her father to her bedside saying, "Father is the blood on the door post?" He replied that he had ordered it sprinkled there. The girl was not satisfied and she slipped from her bed to investigate. On looking she saw that the duty had been neglected and there was no blood on the door post. Her father knowing the danger that awaited his home, rushed out to slay the lamb due to sprinkle the blood on the post of his home. The death angel came over that night and seeing the blood, the home was not touched. The legend may not be true, but it stressed a very weighty matter in home life. Has the blood of God's slain lamb been applied to your home? This matter is too important to be neglected. Arise now and see.

The time is coming when the shed blood of the Lamb of God will be the only badge of honor that will protect us. Many are wearing the badge of the square and compass, some are putting their hope in the Woodman's ax, while many are putting much stress on the hand clasp. Fraternism is good in its place, but their eternal safety goes to a farther end than the compass, the ax and the clasp of the hand. God says, "When I see the blood, I will pass over you." The safety of every man is dependent on the application of the blood to the heart.

When Queen Victoria was loved so deeply by every English citizen, a little admittance to the palace that he might see the queen. The sentinel on guard stopped him at the gate, demanding what he wanted. He replied, "Sir, I want to see the queen." He was told in no mistaken words that he could not see the queen. He was leaving in tears just as the Prince of Wales came up. The young prince wanted to know why the boy was crying. He was told that he wanted to see the queen. Immediately he called to the boy, "Come here my lad, I will take you to see the queen." And he did. On hearing the story of the little lad, the queen showered him with her love and blessings. As the Prince of Wales presented that little boy to the queen, so Christ presents us to His Father. Surely, we are going to see the King someday and then we shall be satisfied.

The annual meeting of the Alabama Beekeepers Association will be held at the Thomas Jefferson Hotel in Birmingham, October 2 and 3.

REVIEWS and PREVIEW

By Irvin Lande

President Roosevelt recently declared that he did not think that we, the American people, would have to relinquish any of the social gains that we have made in order to carry on our national defense program. The President stated later, however, that he did not mean that we would not have to make some sacrifices and suffer some hardships.

The social gains of the United States have been enormous, compared to the other countries of the world. We have achieved the highest standard of living of any country in the world. We have managed through various agencies to keep the culture of the United States still intact. For instance, through the Works Progress Administration, unemployed artists and musicians have been able to carry on their work. Among our social gains are institutions which care for the old, the sick, and the needy. We have developed shorter hours and more pay, thus providing for the happiness, efficiency, and production of our present day industries. The Social Security Administration, and other agencies have provided for those who cannot provide for themselves. Moreover, we have developed our national resources and we have tried to conserve those which we are not able to develop. Our educational system has been vastly improved. In general, nearly every institution that concerns itself with the public welfare has been developed and today stands strong in the defense of democracy.

But, in time of war or danger of war, there is a tendency to underestimate social gains with the urgency of the crisis. We sometimes try to lower the standard of living. We forget art and music, because we consider them unimportant. In labor and in industry, there is a desire to increase hours and to lower pay. And moreover, there is an indifference to conservation of national resources.

Germany and Italy, as well as the other totalitarian countries, have no social improvements. They do not want them, for the principle of dictatorship demands the regimentation and subjugation of the people.

But American people have, fortunately, realized that to better carry on the program of national preparedness, they should keep all the good improvements in living together that they have made. Some of those improvements must, of necessity, be temporarily suspended, but those instances will be few and far between.

Today, the resources of the United States and the people of the United States are united in their desires to carry on a tremendous job of preparedness. We are preparing to defend this nation against aggressive forces which seek to destroy life, liberty, and freedom. Those aggressive forces are also seeking to reduce the life of the individual to that of merely a cog in a machine to reduce and eventually throw away the proposition that all men are entitled to the right to make a living. They would not give a just compensation for work, nor would they grant short hours of labor. In other words, every thing in the way of social gains is detrimental to the totalitarian state. To us, we hold them as the only way of living. Therefore, we should not abolish them, but we should hold them up to ourselves as a symbol of democracy and as a symbol of that which we are preparing to defend.

The resources of the United States are sufficient to allow us to both carry on our defense program and to still keep our basic liberties and internal economic, social and political improvements. The surplus supplies of our country will feed our trainees in the conscription program which was approved and signed by President Roosevelt Monday. Congress and the amendment to the conscription bill which provides for government seizure of obstinate and essential industries, will prevent exploitation of labor. Government trade regulations will prevent useless and unreasonable rise in commodities. And throughout other channels, we can recognize the fact that our government has, indeed, done a good job of both preparing this nation and of keeping us substantially strong in our improvements of the past several decades. But we must remember that our job has just begun, and that we have probably even greater tasks confronting us in the future.

However, we are off to a good start to carry on our defense preparedness with a great degree of normalcy, and there will be no cause for excitement or frenzy in the months to come. Moreover, we shall be able to watch the events in Europe with a calm and assured attitude. We shall be able to watch those events, while knowing that no matter what the outcome is, we are ready for any eventualities.

THE GOOD OLD DAYS

Children seem to have more confidence in their teachers than they did many years ago. They used to be a teacher asking a little boy to bring a ten-inch board to school with them. No, we wouldn't have brought such a thing to a teacher when we were growing up.—Fort Payne Journal.

EATING OUT OF HIS HAND

Voice of the Press

Big Noise Sept. 27th

Editor Joe Jones, of The Covington News, Andalusia, comments on the fact that Auburn expects 4,200 students this year. He says: "If these 4,200 students were placed in one big pile, can you imagine the noise they would make?" If Joe will go to Montgomery on the night of September 27th, he will find the forty-two hundred in one pile—on the wooden bleachers at Cranton Bowl—and the noise they will make will be something awful—especially as heard by the members of the Howard Bulldog team—Greenville Advocate.

Pulling Together

Not being quite as old as some of the older citizens of the town, but too old at that, we can remember way back when the citizens did not pull together as they are doing now. At that time, which we hope never comes again, we could see that Luverne would never grow or amount to much with such a spirit existing. Others saw it, but it seems that they could not see it strong enough until later years. When they did see the "Mules" were hitched up together ever since. We see the results of pulling together and we trust that the chain never breaks.—Luverne Journal.

And Bibb Keeps On Keeping On

A few weeks ago Alabama editors went on a tour they called "See Alabama First." They saw some of it and were greatly enlightened. We have counties in Alabama and we just wonder how many editors can write the names of every county without error for help. If you can name a county that is excellent. And this is a good school teachers, judges, and others might play. As a student here's a little hint, in one of the states they will never be without out no matter how bad the war gets. Fort Payne Journal.

Anticipation

An exchange says: "Ashley, a lady who the happy gleam in her eyes. She grinned and said: 'See! I've been intending to marry for two choices—marry me or go to Dixie and I think it's going to be me.' Dixie Gerard Journal.

Death comes in cycles, but Peejay Ringen evidently doesn't believe that. He goes out to meet death on a cycle daily and night at the Alabama State Fair, Sept. 30-Oct. 5, almost reaches a clasp clasp vantage point with the Grim Reaper, then dodges, dodges the cycle and continues a dive from the skies into four feet of water. Peejay Ringen is doubtless the greatest dare-devil ever brought to a fair in the South, and is also probably the highest priced. It costs a small fortune to book his act. He dashes down ramp from mid-air, the top of that ramp being almost as high as a skyscraper. After a whirling glide in his challenge of the laws of gravity he shoots off into space, drops the trusty bike, somersaults through the ether and finally plunges into four feet of water on the ground. His appearance at the Alabama State Fair will mark his only one in the South this year, which, by the way, is his first visit to Dixie.

LEGAL NOTICES

STATE OF ALABAMA
A PROCLAMATION
BY THE GOVERNOR

WHEREAS, the Legislature of Alabama, at the Regular Session 1939, ordered an election to be held by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama upon a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, which said amendment is herein set out, and ordered that said election be held at the General Election to be held in Alabama on November 1940; and

WHEREAS, the First Tuesday after the First Monday in November, 1940, which is the 5th day of November, is the time for holding the General Election in 1940; and

WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with the proposed amendment, required by the provisions of the Act submitting said Amendment, to be given by a proclamation of the Governor to be published in each County in the State of Alabama once a week for eight successive weeks immediately preceding the said 5th day of November, 1940;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Frank M. Dixon, as Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that on Tuesday, the 5th day of November, 1940, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama, in the manner and form provided by law, upon the following amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, as follows:

"The Legislature of Alabama may hereafter, from time to time, by general or local laws fix, alter, and regulate the fees, commissions, allowances and salaries to be charged or received by the Sheriff of Mobile County, and including the right to place said officer on a salary basis and provide that the fees, fines and forfeitures received or collected by said officer be paid into the treasury of Mobile County, Alabama, and to fix and provide the amount and method of compensation of such officer. All Acts of the Regular Session of the Legislature of 1939 and 1939-40, heretofore passed and applicable, or purporting to be applicable to said Mobile County, and fixing, or purporting to fix the basis of compensation and compensation of said officer, or placing said officer on a salary basis, are hereby ratified and confirmed."

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday, the 5th day of November, 1940, upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, be given by publishing the same once a week for eight successive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 5th day of November, 1940, in each County in the State of Alabama in a newspaper published said County.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and have caused the Great Seal of the State of Alabama to be affixed by the Secretary of State, at the City of Montgomery, on this the 12th day of August, 1940.

FRANK M. DIXON,
Governor.

JOHN BRANDON,
Secretary of State.

Old Age Most Prevalent In Canada and Ireland

LONDON. — Unofficial statistics compiled here indicate that those living in Canada and Ireland seem to have the best chance of passing the 90-year mark.

Claude Baker Gabb of London for 25 years has meticulously kept a record of the deaths of persons 90 years of age, and Gabb's statistics are quoted all over the world.

"I tabulate the deaths in a little black book every day," he said, "with such details as are given in the Times. At the beginning of each year, I get a column of space to devote in the newspaper for my digest."

"I find old age very prevalent in Canada and Ireland. It is astonishing what a lot of 'over nineties' have been living in those countries."

Missionary Kills Giant Crocodile; Saves Natives

CAPTOWN, SOUTH AFRICA.—The Rev. A. J. Rousseau of the Burger Mission station, who won distinction by being one of the party that captured Winston Churchill during the South African war, relieved the natives of a serious menace by shooting a giant crocodile in the Oliphant river recently. Near the spot two native women and many sheep and goats had been killed by the beast, according to a Burger report.

Welder Escapes Injury Because Things Blow Up

KNOXVILLE, TENN. — Lloyd Roach, 42, is glad things blow up instead of down.

When a large gasoline truck exploded, Roach lay directly beneath it, where he had been welding the undercarriage.

The explosion sent the tank of the truck zooming many feet into the air. Roach crawled out without a scratch.

WE'RE having quite a few relatives over for dinner tomorrow: Clara's Aunt Lucy is coming and so is Scramble-brains' Uncle Oglethorpe and Cousin Bromo. In fact, Uncle Oglethorpe thought that the invitation was for last Thursday, and he's been here ever since. It's really refreshing to meet a guy as ignorant as he is. Uncle caught a cold back in 1919, and ever since he's been trying to get rid of it by drinking Keogh's Kidney Dew. Boy! That stuff is so strong that when he opens a bottle it straightens out the cork screw. Scramble-brain took a big jolt last night when he dipped last night a headache, and I guess the Old Boy thought he swallowed a mouth full of razor blades. His eyes stuck out so far they looked like peeled grapes, and four of his innards melted.

American Soldier Dons Uniform to Avenge Brother

Again Seeks Active Duty in Europe With French Foreign Legion.

PARIS.—To avenge the death of a beloved brother, an American soldier of fortune, whose daring career has made him famous in the figure, again is in the uniform of the French Foreign Legion.

He is Paul Ayres Rockwell of Asheville, N. C., World war hero, flyer, writer, French army captain, holder of the Croix de Guerre and a member of the Legion of Honor.

Now, at 51, he has resumed his rank of captain, becoming the first American to join an active combat unit in this war.

Rockwell enlisted April 4. His bristling mustache now is gray, but he still has a trim military figure.

Despite the neutrality law the move does not jeopardize Rockwell's citizenship because members of the Foreign Legion do not have to take an oath of allegiance to France—an oath forbidden by United States laws.

Even when he returned to the United States, Rockwell kept his connection with the French army as a captain in the reserves, thus paving the way for rejoining the fighting forces.

"I am insisting on active duty," Rockwell said firmly in answer to queries on his plans.

Tight-lipped, Rockwell does not enlarge on his reasons for rushing again into war at his age.

But French veterans who knew him 25 years ago as a dandy member of the famed Lafayette Escadrille are sure the real answer lies in a burning desire to take vengeance for the death of his aviator brother, Kiffin.

Kiffin and Paul Rockwell, they recall, were deeply devoted. They enlisted together in 1914. Paul went into the trenches, Kiffin joined the air corps and became a member of the Lafayette Escadrille.

Paul was wounded after eight months of trench warfare, doctors tried to make him quit active service.

John Escadrille.

Instead, he joined the Escadrille, flying and fighting beside his brother. And though in 1918 he became engaged to beautiful Mlle. Jeanne Leygues, heiress daughter of Georges Leygues, former French minister, Paul postponed the marriage to remain with Kiffin.

Then, in November, 1918, Kiffin fell in flames to his death, shot down in a "dog-fight" with Germans over Alsace.

In mourning, Paul was married quietly to Mlle. Leygues in Paris the following month.

A writer, with a newspaper background obtained in Atlanta, Ga., and on the Paris staff of an American newspaper, Rockwell was transferred in 1917 to the French G. H. Q. as an official war correspondent. He remained there until 1919.

A daughter, Francoise, was born of Rockwell's marriage to Mlle. Leygues but the union ended in 1923 when Mrs. Rockwell obtained a divorce.

Rockwell, meanwhile, was again off to the wars, his love of fighting and adventure renewed by the campaign against the Riffs in Morocco. He went to Africa, captain of a French aviation unit and in 1925 his work as a bomber threw him into the Croix de Guerre. Grateful official made him a chevalier in the Legion of Honor.

Now Husband and Wife

DETROIT.—Mr. and Mrs. John Schurman have discovered that they have rubbed elbows three years before they met and fell in love.

With the opening of the 1940 baseball season, a local newspaper published a picture taken at the first game 33 years ago.

Schurman, who recalled the photograph and had vainly looked for it in the paper the day after it was taken, recognized his picture. Then he discovered that the woman standing next to him, wearing a panache hat and blowing on a tin horn, was the woman he met three years later and married.

According to the Business Research Bureau of the University of Alabama, Alabama industry reached the highest level in July since 1927.

Vegetable Laxative Has Important Points

Most people want a laxative to do three things: (1) act promptly, (2) act thoroughly, (3) act gently.

Here's one that usually fills all three requirements when the easy directions are followed. It's an all-vegetable product whose principal ingredient has medical recognition as an "intestinal tonic-laxative."

That's the ingredient which enables BLACK-DRAUGHT to help you lay down your muscles. It is the main reason for the satisfying relief from constipation that generally follows next morning when BLACK-DRAUGHT is taken at bedtime. The millions of packages used are proof of its merit.

ALABAMA TIN

Prospecting In Clay Co. Now Going On

While fear of a tin shortage in the United States, due to the curtailment of imports, has been expressed, it may be that our neighbor county Clay will come to the rescue if the shortage materializes.

According to the Ashland Progress, Bates Whitley of Birmingham, has secured an option on 80 acres of land near that town on which he is prospecting for tin. A force of laborers is excavating and taking samples from a vein of tin that is said to exist there, and tests are reported to have been satisfactory.

According to the Progress a tin mine was operated in the same locality about 50 years ago. The Progress also states that the Washington government is interested in the operations that are now going on near Ashland.

Prospecting for tin in Clay County is a reminder that during the World War there was a big boom in graphite mining over there when millions of dollars were expended in the operations, but the industry soon disappeared after the war was over. Clay County has also had gold mining booms but none of them ever panned out very profitable.

There is no question about the existence of valuable mineral deposits in Clay County, but the cost of development has always stood in the way of making them profitable. Improved methods and modern machinery may some day overcome these difficulties.—The Talladega Daily Home.

Toll Bridge Stops Military Advance

There's more than one way to stop an army, as the Maryland National Guard has found to its inconvenience.

With 300 trucks the Maryland guard started out to summer maneuvers in New York State. When the motorized troops came to a toll bridge over the Susquehanna River, they were stopped and informed that they could not pass without paying. No money had been authorized for payment of tolls, so the troops were re-routed to avoid the bridge.

Alabama farmers can save from four to five million dollars annually by raising their own work stock.

LIBERTY HILL NEWS

Our singing society met Sunday afternoon with a large crowd of both singers and listeners present. There were several visitors out whom we invite back every third Sunday afternoon.

Our chairman for the coming year is Leonard Culp and the Secretary, Willie Meard Littlejohn.

The singing was called to order with Leonard Culp leading the opening song, followed with a prayer by Mr. Dave Melton. The directors for the afternoon were: Leonard Culp, Hiram Littlejohn, Dave Melton, W. M. Gilliland, Sam Henley, Clint Billingsley, Margaret Lowery and George Chambers. The Liberty Hill Quartet rendered several songs which were enjoyed by all. Pianists for the afternoon were: Mrs. Earl Lowery, Miss Olene Mims and Mrs. Zelma Littlejohn. Rev. Lloyd Smith led the closing prayer.

There will be a singing at the church next Saturday night, September 21. Everybody come and bring your books.

85 Per Cent Of Farm Families Own Motor Vehicles, Study Shows

Importance of the automobile to farm families is revealed in a recent study of 17,000 selected farms by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The survey indicates that 85 per cent of farm families own motor vehicles.

Highest ratio of ownership was found in central and southern California, where 97 out of every 100 farm families owned motor vehicles. Kansas and North Dakota rank next with automobile ownership in 96 per cent of farm families. Michigan, Wisconsin, Illinois and Iowa follow with 94 per cent; Oregon and Washington, 92 per cent; New Jersey, 88 per cent; Pennsylvania and Ohio 85 per cent. In the South the percentage is smaller.

Used car purchases exceeded two to one new car acquisitions in farm families, the study also showed. Average price paid for new cars was $739, compared with an average purchase price of $263 for the used cars bought.

Alabama's 1940 corn crop is estimated at 43,025,000 bushels.

PAY HIKES

$60,000 For State Highway Department Employees

Pay increases will go soon to State Highway Department employees in a State-Government effort to stem increasing numbers of resignations by workers obtaining higher-salaried positions elsewhere, Personnel Director I. J. Browder has announced.

He explained that the State Personnel Board has approved $60,000 yearly increase in the Highway Department payroll, the added pay to affect approximately 500 employees.

"The Highway Department... in the last few weeks has lost more than 80 men who resigned to accept positions with better pay," Director Browder said. "Sixty-five declined to accept provisional appointments because of our low pay scales. We figured we had to do something because the Department was being deprived of some of its most valued employees."

No hope was held by Director Browder and Mr. Sherlock of the situation taking care of itself, they said, because of the large number of men going into work related to the national defense program.

More responsibility was forecast for Highway Director Sherlock under the rearmament program. "For example," said Mr. Browder, "he is being called upon to strengthen bridges and widen roads to make them conform to the standards of military highways. He obviously requires for this undertaking his best talent."

Unfinished Story: A friend of this department happened to come up to the sea lion pool in Central park just as a gust of wind whisked from a woman's head one of those funny little hats. As the owner shrieked, the hat sailed out over the pool and finally did a nose dive. No sooner did it strike the surface of the water than it bobbed up again. A nose of one of the five sea lions that make their home there was the propelling power. A shake of a sleek head settled the hat to exactly the right position and then the sea lion, a good actor, swam around and around as if enjoying the cheers and laughter. Finally, still wearing the hat, it climbed upon the little stone stage where the sea lions sun themselves and for some minutes posed as if looking into a mirror. Whether the woman recovered her hat cannot be stated because when my friend left, the sea lion was still posing.

Midtown: John Kieran, who seems to know all the answers, looking into a bookstore window at an encyclopedia looking right back at him. . . . Frankie Masters putting some coins into a Babies Milk fund collection. . . . and finding that the pretty girl who stopped him is from his home town, Robinson, Ill. . . . Jess Johnson throwing darts at balloons in a penny arcade. . . . John Bates, radio producer, carrying a load of farming equipment and seed catalogues to his car. . . . William Hargrave, baritone, strolling along looking in windows and singing, of all things, "Shoot the Sherbert to Me, Herbert!" . . . Ezra Stone, walking across the street reading a manuscript. . . . and the taxi driver who almost hit him, recognizes him and shouts, "Do you want to do your next broadcast from a hospital?"

Equipment: Recently I heard Dr. Karl T. Compton, president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, tell this story: An American woman in India, finding it necessary to have her house rewired, employed a native workman. Time after time, he came to her asking for instructions. Finally becoming tired of his questions, the American told the Indian to go ahead and "just use common sense."

"Madam," returned the Indian, "common sense is a rare gift of God. All I have is technical education."

Agricultural: Spencer Hare vouches for this one: A mail-order house recently received this letter from an upstate farmer: "I have read that if you paper your hen-house with bright-colored wallpaper the chickens will lay more eggs. I am enclosing $1.50. Please send me two rolls of your very brightest wallpaper." The company immediately sent this reply: "Dear sir: If you will look on page 227 of our full-color illustrated catalogue, you will see that our wallpaper is $1 a roll. Please remit an additional 50 cents." The farmer's reply was brief and to the point: "If I had your catalogue, I wouldn't need your wallpaper."

Street Scene: Two buxom housewives, market bags in their hands exchanging a bit of gossip before climbing the stairs to their flats. . . . A young policeman, evidently on his way to the station house to report for duty, stopping to inspect his reflection in a glass door. . . . A mail carrier, having removed the letters from a corner box, slipping into a hallway and rubbing his feet. . . . A man with a swollen jaw and eyes indicating a sleepless night, taking one glance at a dentist's sign, then walking away rapidly. . . . A youngster offering a milkwagon horse a bite of his apple. . . . and letting out a yell when the impolite animal takes it all in one gulp.

Snappy: This exchange of repartee occurred at a dinner the other evening: "You can't make a silk purse out of a sow's ear," declared General Hugh S. Johnson. "A good chemist can," returned Charles F. Ketterling. (Bell Syndicate—WNU Service.)

HELENA, MONT.—Up to the time he was elected mayor of Helena, John Joseph Haytin was known simply as Jack. After the ballots were counted and Haytin was proclaimed the winner, folks began calling him John. He was referred to in print as John J., and some people even addressed him as Mr. Haytin. "Shucks," Haytin told a reporter, "nobody ever called me all those names before. Please put a piece in the paper that my name's still Jack."

Eggs Between Sheets, And Family Row's On
SALEM, MASS.—When a husband slipped into bed and found his wife had spread eggs between the sheets, a riotous family argument resulted. Patrolman Broderick reported that each party made charges of flat-iron hurling and that the wife showed him her bed with the legs sawed off so she was sleeping almost on the floor.

She Upset Wedding So He Killed Her

Farm Hand Admits Murder Of School Teacher.

LAFAYETTE, IND. — A farm hand who has confessed the murder of his well-to-do employer, Miss Georgia Miller, 62 years old, a retired school teacher, admitted he killed the woman because she objected to his contemplated marriage. The farm hand, Clair Mitchell, 25, beat Miss Miller to death with a stove poker in the home on her 400 acre farm 19 miles southwest of Lafayette on March 7. After the slaying, according to his confession, he attended a movie at nearby Wingate, returned to the house, and set it afire in an effort to conceal his crime.

He nearly succeeded in his plan, for until recently it had been believed that the wife had accidentally burned to death. However, Mitchell was trapped when authorities learned he had made a remark about the burning of the home several hours before the fire occurred.

In a rambling statement to Prosecutor George E. Weigle and Sheriff F. Earl Stutz of Tippecanoe county and State Police Detective Harvey L. Hire, Mitchell said he plotted the slaying of the former teacher shortly after she opposed his plans to marry Mrs. Isabelle Ollar, 19, a divorcee. Mitchell said he had hoped to take his bride to live in the tenant house on Miss Miller's farm but Miss Miller objected to the idea. Mrs. Ollar is held as a material witness.

Mitchell told authorities he had stolen grain from Miss Miller's farm prior to the slaying and sold it to raise money with which to buy furniture for his new home. He said he had hoped to be made manager of the farm after the woman's death. "I don't know why I killed her," Mitchell said in his statement. "She was as good to me as my own mother."

When Cow Wants Drink, She Goes and Pumps It

CONNEAUT, OHIO.—Ona, a practical minded Jersey, "uses her head" when she's thirsty, by pumping her own drinking water.

With expert nods of the head, Ona can supply water not only for herself but enough for the herd and to flood the barn.

Stationed next to the pump, Ona, with the blunt end of her nose, can raise the pump handle and bring it down under her throat. Using these motions she has filled her bucket and repeated the process until she was full.

Then she remembers her mates, and begins to run the bucket over so the excess will run down their troughs. This not only waters the rest of the stock but floods the barn.

Records of Town Kept For 61 Years as Hobby

DUBLIN, OHIO.—Almost everyone nowadays holds a record of some kind, including Fay Eberly of Dublin. Eberly started keeping a record of births, deaths and marriages in this little town when he was 12 years old in 1878. He has also branched out, recording items of near-by villages, in his old, cover-bound ledger.

His record book is frequently consulted by children of former Dublin residents.

"It's just a hobby of mine," he says. "I get lots of fun looking the records over."

Thieves in Final Insult Take Chief's Revolver

WAHOO, NEB. — Police Chief Percy Blair thinks it was downright impudent. While he was waiting at the city hall, where his wife was attending a lodge meeting, burglars drove up to his house in an automobile, took wearing apparel valued at $150 and $13 in cash.

The chief was off duty, so he left his revolver at home. The burglars got that, too.

This Couple Really Sails Into 'Sea of Matrimony'

KINGSTON, PA. — A Kingston couple can say they actually sailed into the "sea of matrimony." Carried to St. Hedwig's church by boat, Vito Wikowski and Jessie Kasak were married while flood waters rose steadily outside. Then they left by boat for a wedding reception at the bride's home.

Jemison F. H. A. Holds First Meeting

The Jemison Chapter of FHA had its first meeting in the Home Economics Department on September 4, 1940. The meeting was called to order by the president, Helen Hubbard. The opening ceremony was given and new business was discussed. This included election of a reporter, appointing committees for the year, and starting a club project for the year. The meeting was then adjourned.

The FHA girls have made an excellent start for this school. They have planned many things to do, and by the cooperation of all club members they hope to have a successful club year at Jemison.

Stegall Advises Use Of Gold In Exchange

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Sept. 12—(AP)—The United States can and should use "the evident advantages of gold and dollar exchange over strict barter" as an inducement for closer cooperation of the Americas in opposition to totalitarian theories, said Representative Henry B. Stegall (D., Ala.) in an address here today.

Stegall, author of the recently passed Stegall bill setting up an import-export loan fund for South American trade, spoke at the annual meeting of the National Coffee Association.

"The United States cannot expect financial and economic sacrifices from our neighbors," Stegall said, "in return for the mere ideal of democracy. We of the United States must tender something more valuable than the totalitarian powers can offer."—Age-Herald

Cherokee Students Have Farm Program

Boys of Gaylesville High School in Cherokee County, in the vocational classes practice what is preached.

The boys have classes on horticulture, farm management, animal husbandry, poultry management, field crops and fertilizers.

After classes the boys carry out supervised projects and put into practice the information they receive in classes.

The program for one class calls for planting two acres of corn, one-half acre of peanuts, the care and raising of one good brood sow and work on home and garden improvements.

One-seventh of the passenger automobiles and one-quarter of the trucks on 3,000 key farms are 10 or more years old, according to a survey made by two agencies of the Federal Government.

REYNOLDS & REYNOLDS

Attorneys at Law
Office Opposite Courthouse

William B. Bankhead

Tuesday afternoon I stood at a vantage point amongst the vast throng (estimated at 50,000) surrounding the Methodist church at Jasper, Ala., and beheld what I believe to be the greatest truly democratic gathering ever assembled, paying silent, reverent tribute, in final obsequy to the once gentle loving spirit known as William Bankhead.

From the highest democratic official in the world to the lowly street sweeper, the rich and the poor, the strong and the weak, the intellectual and the unlettered—all on a common level, mourning the loss of a common friend.

Thus was the mortal remains of this mild-mannered, soft-spoken lovable son of the hills, returned to the soil from whence he came.

A FRIEND IS GONE

(Birmingham Age-Herald)
What endures the great or the humble to their fellows is not genius or charm, or brilliance. It is when men sense a spirit of fellowship in another, whoever he may be, in high place or low, that they are bound to him.

It was William B. Bankhead's humanity that was primarily responsible for the deep sadness that pervades his neighbors and his innumerable friends throughout the state and country, on this day of farewell.

Speaker Bankhead was exceptional among men in many ways. His intellect was clear and deep. His capacity for leadership was remarkable. His eloquence was commanding. His devotion, his loyalty, his understanding fired the warm glow of his personality. But beneath all these qualities there was the genuine humanity that was at the heart of his being. That was what men loved best about him. They loved this spirit because, of course, it is essentially, love itself.

"And though I have the gift of prophecy, and understand all mysteries and all knowledge; and though I have faith, so that I could remove mountains, and have not charity, I am nothing."

Will Bankhead, having charity in his soul, was a fellow wayfarer throughout a world of mystery and pain, to whom he crossed his path, whether on his own town street or the great avenues of the capital. Come, let us travel along together and be friends, his spirit said.

And thousands went along with him, the stronger for his counsel and help, the happier for his presence.

Great leaders sometimes can depart as a whole mainly a sense of impersonal loss. But Will Bankhead leaves not only a widespread realization of great loss to the nation, but a deeper more intimate and moving sadness that a friend has gone—a strong, true and tender friend.

No man, great or humble, can receive a greater tribute.

Practical Home And Farm Management Stressed By Durbin

"Growth in knowledge and the use of practical home and farm management practices in my opinion are the most important services that have been made available to rehabilitation farm families in Chilton County," said Marvin Durbin, County Supervisor when visiting this office today. "Placing our families in touch with better agricultural methods, as well as guidance in home-making and proved operations to provide better living is more important than the loans we make," Mr. Durbin continued.

"With the assistance of Mrs. Thea D. Cotney, the rehabilitation home supervisor, in many cases our farm wives have surprised their menfolk and deserve much praise for their part in this uphill fight to better living from farm laborers.

"Many of our wives have been taken from the field altogether as they continue to prove their labors are worth more in the home than in the field. The careful planning of additional income activities, and sound management practices, together with preservation of products from garden and field, canning of fruits and of meats enabled most families to lay by a reserve of food that has been found to be the best possible insurance against crop failures. Regardless of what happens, these families will have plenty to eat. The saving in cash outlay for food supplies means that when crops are turned into cash the money can go for things to better living conditions and to pay off obligations and buy wanted and necessary items.

"Chilton County farm families keep records just the same as business houses do. The inventory, budget, and farm plan is set out in these records, and rehabilitation families know what they want to do and what is best for them to do—how much food is needed, how many head of livestock to be fed, how many chickens and how much feed will be required, hogs required or meat to the family and hogs to be raised for sale. Other requirements also of good farm management and husbandry are carefully worked out with the assistance of the rehabilitation supervisors.

"The increase in net worth of most of our families indicate the sound-rehabilitation supworness of the farm and home plans worked out by each family with the aid of Mr. Durbin.

ALPINE

Come one and all, big or small, old or young to the big church supper at Mr. Charlie Johnson, 2 miles east of Plantersville, Ala. on the Stanton school bus route, at 7:00 o'clock. Ice cream, cake and all kind of sandwiches will be served for the benefit of Alpine church.

INFANT DIES

Glendor, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Woodroe Rockett, died at an early hour Wednesday morning. She was buried at Chestnut Creek Wednesday afternoon, Martin in charge.

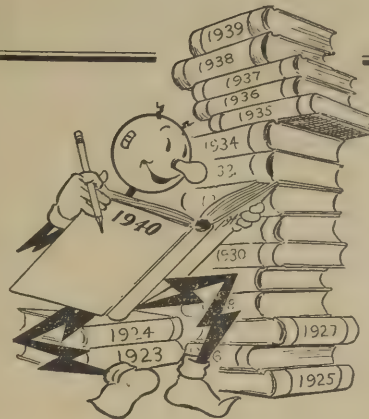

A New National Guard Arsenal

A new National Guard Arsenal, to replace the Kilby Warehouse which burned several months ago, is expected to be constructed soon, according to State Military Department officials. The new warehouse will be located near Kilby Prison, four miles from Montgomery on the Wetumpka highway—site of the burned building. Steel, concrete and brick will be the materials used; and the building will be two stories high. Cost of the structure is expected to be about $32,000.

Mrs. Lincoln Burkhalter who was operated on in Wetumpka hospital is back at home and doing fine. We wish to thank each and every one for the help and kindness that was shown during her sickness.—Lincoln Burkhalter.

Dr. Cecil Gaston, one of Alabama's most widely known surgeons, died at his home in Birmingham Thursday.

YOU CAN LEARN A LOT IN 17 YEARS

ALABAMA Power Company built the first experimental rural electric line in Alabama in 1923—seventeen years ago. Since then, it has extended electric service to 70,000 rural families.

To supply dependable rural electric service requires meeting special conditions—we've learned a lot about building rural lines since that first one 17 years ago. And rural residents have learned much about the convenience and economy of electric service.

Our rural engineers will discuss with individuals or groups of rural residents the many economical uses to which electricity may be put on the farm.

Isabella News

The Isabella Community Fair gates will open at Isabella High School gymnasium Saturday afternoon Sept. 21 instead of Friday night Sept. 20, as previously announced. The Fair committee decided not to open on Friday night because several of the county high schools play football that night.

Isabella will play New Cedron in a baseball game beginning at 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The exhibits will be open at this time for those who do not care to watch the baseball game.

Beginning at 7:30 Saturday night there will be a program lasting for about an hour and a half. The program consists of music furnished by a string band, a speech by an outstanding agricultural leader, and boxing furnished by local talent.

Admission will be 5c and 10c. One admission price entitles you to see the booths and exhibits, the baseball game and the program both afternoon and night.

Let's all go out to Isabella Saturday afternoon and night, Sept. 21 and have a good time. Sandwiches, hot-dogs, cold drinks, and other refreshments will be on sale.

Colored people may view the exhibits between 12:30 p. m. and 1:30 p. m. Saturday for the regular admission price.

Mass Funeral Held For Four Children Killed In Cave-In

GREENVILLE.—A joint funeral was held at the Liberty Methodist Church near Greenville today for the four children who lost their lives Saturday in a gravel pit cave-in at Montgomery. The Rev. Ralph Mullins officiated.

The four were smothered as a bank gave way while they were digging a "cave" at a gravel pit near Montgomery Saturday afternoon.

Among the mourners was a playmate, William Morrison, 10, who narrowly escaped a like fate.

The victims were three children of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Armstrong—Dorothy May 9; Lurline 8, and Joe Winford, 11—and 'George Armstrong Rowell, 6 their first cousin. The Armstrong family recently had moved to Montgomery to take up temporary residence.—Alabama Journal.

Winter Cover Crops

It costs just as much to do without cover crops as it does to plant them, according to County Agent, Mr. Pat H. Smith and Mr. James H. Wood, Superintendent of the Soil Conservation Service in the CCC Camp Area near Clanton, Alabama.

Elaborating on that statement, the specialists state that an acre of bare sloping land will lose more than enough soil and plant food during a winter and early spring to pay for the small amount of seed needed to plant a winter cover crop.

Small grains are used extensively as winter cover to prevent erosion and the leaching of plant food. These crops may be plowed under as green manure, harvested for hay or grain, or used for temporary grazing. They may also be used as a nurse crop for annual lespedeza which is sown on the small grain in early spring and which, after the grain is harvested, furnishes much needed protection to the land during the summer months. The lespedeza may also be used for hay, seed production or soil building.

At large an acreage of winter legumes, such as vetch, crimson clover, and Austrian peas should be planted, as can be properly handled in the spring by the available power on the farm. In addition to furnishing cover during the winter they store up nitrogen in the soil and increase the yield of the crop that follows.

Winter cover crops fit well in a rotation, provide for alternate deep and shallow rooted crops," Mr. Wood says. "They also increase the organic matter content of the soil, tend to keep the ground temperature fairly even, and increase the capacity of the soil to absorb water."

ROADWORK

$197,000,000 Ready For Strategic Highway Improvement

John M. Carmody, federal works administrator, has announced in Washington plans to construct 3,100 miles of access roads at military reservations and to improve 75,000 miles of strategic highways as part of the defense program.

The roads administration has on hand $197,000,000 which can be spent for this purpose. The total cost of the program will be nearly twice that figure, however, as the states will be required to match the greater part of the federal expenditures.

The administrator did not announce the location of any of the roads nor the dates of completion. He said a survey now was being completed of highways needed for defense purposes and added that these would be given priority in construction.

The administrator also announced allocation of $34,063,000 of federal aid highway funds for the 1942 and 1943 fiscal years. Of the total, $19,500,000 for grade crossing elimination need not be matched by the states. The other funds must be matched by the states. The administrator said the access roads would be constructed as rapidly as needed and where only of military value would be paid for by the federal government. While if they have other value, the states will be expected to share the expense.

Carmody said a survey of bridges on the 75,000 miles of strategic highways showed that of 16,000 such structures only about 10 per cent were available to accommodate the heaviest army equipment. Approximately 14,000 miles at least, he said, needs to be strengthened by reducing curves, eliminating bad grades, widening shoulders and improving roadbeds.

Among the 1942-1943 allocations which Carmody said would be available to the states by December, regular federal aid, funds for secondary or feeder roads, and funds for grade crossings respectively, were:
Alabama's share, $2,070,000, $302,000, $393,000.

DEMOCRATIC CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE

Democratic Campaign Is To Be Waged From Now Till Election Day

A called meeting of the Chilton County Democratic Executive Committee August 27th, when all the democratic nominees were present, Cohen was unanimously selected as chairman of the Campaign Committee. N. L. (Buck) Roberts and Eustace were named co-chairmen. Meetings are being made for an election campaign from now until election Tuesday, November 5th.

Meetings are to be held throughout the county, when the necessity for winning the democratic party on the job is this, perhaps the most critical in American history, will be discussed.

EVERY REPUBLICAN RECEIVES ASSIGNMENT OF POWER PIPE

Be Last Shipment Received Under Present Administration

Clanton received 1,500 feet of ten sanitary sewer the first of this for extending the sewer line in the sewer section of the city. In connection with Mayor Jones in regards to project he said: "We have received from the government this week of ten inch sanitary sewer which will complete the main outfall line to a certain point in the sewer section. This shipment of pipe, action by the government is at Clanton will receive during my administration. Arrangements with the government for any further extension of sanitary sewer lines, and the sewer of the water mains, will have made by the new administration. It is a very much needed improvement to the negro section, and I hope the new administration will complete project."

RECRUITING

Another Chance To Get In The U. S. Marine Corp

A communication received today from Captain D. A. Holladay, the officer in charge of the United States Marine Corps recruiting in Alabama, stressed the fact that young men within the age group 21 to 35 will be required to register for military training on October 16th. He said, "The conscription bill provides that young men between the ages of 21 and 35 will be required to register for military training, and those called will be deprived of their opportunity to choose the branch of military service in which they would rather serve. Therefore all those who would rather enlist in the U. S. Marine Corps should submit their application for enlistment as soon as possible. The Marine Corps has been authorized another increase in strength, and this increase will be met in a very short time. The Southern recruiting division alone is enlisting more than 1000 men per month. Young men living in Alabama who desire to serve their country in the ranks of the Marine Corps should write to or call at the Marine Corps recruiting station in Birmingham immediately. By applying now they may be sure of being accepted and enlisted before all the vacancies are filled, and before they are required to register for service in the Army, provided they are qualified for enlistment. Many of the young men now enlisting in the Marines frankly state that they are doing so because they prefer enlisting now in the service of their choice, rather than wait for induction into the Army."

Captain Holladay said that the present recruiting drive was started in June to build the Corps up to strength of 34,000 enlisted men, and that the goal of 34,000 will be reached by the end of September; however, intensive recruiting will remain in effect until the new goal of 38,000 has been reached which will probably be by the end of October. He went on to describe the many benefits to be derived from the service in the Marine Corps, laying particular emphasis on the opportunity to get a better education or to learn a trade, the many promotions that will be made as a result of the expansion of the Corps, and the fact that the pay of the four lower ranks of the Marine Corps from Private to Sergeant, will be raised.

BOBBY ALEXANDER ABLE TO COME HOME

Little Bobby Alexander, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Alexander, who has been very sick in a Birmingham hospital for the past several weeks will be home next Saturday. This is good news to his many friends who have anxiously awaited news of Bobby's recovery.

A PROCLAMATION BY THE GOVERNOR

WHEREAS, The newspapers of this State and Nation typify the freedom of press and speech which, with religious liberty, constitute the most sacred and cherished rights of the free people of the United States, the world's greatest and mightiest democracy, and

WHEREAS, The priceless privilege reserved for and conferred upon them by the framers of our constitution, has been safeguarded and defended so valiantly and so well against attack and encroachment through the years by those whose care and keeping it was entrusted, and

WHEREAS, The newspapers of America perform the indispensable and vitally important service of keeping the people informed of events at home and abroad that vitally affect their lives and fortunes and, at the same time, provide an ideal public forum for discussion by all citizens of their common problems, and

WHEREAS, These newspapers have given freely and generously of their space and the time of their editors, publishers and staffs to the promotion of every cause and movement for the advance of security, comfort and happiness of the people, militantly championing and fighting for their rights and against any and all threats against their freedom, and

WHEREAS, Hereinfore, the priceless service they have done and are doing, has all too often been regarded as a matter of course, looked upon with indifference or thoughtlessly ignored—all too seldom rewarded with written or spoken word or other expression of gratitude or appreciation.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Frank M. Dixon, as Governor of the State of Alabama do hereby declare the period from October 1 to October 9, 1940 as Newspaper Appreciation Week in Alabama, and call upon all citizens during that week, to hold meetings for discussions and adoption of appropriate resolutions or other communications or by letter or personal calls at the offices of their newspapers to express their appreciation of services already given and their confidence in the continuation of this great, unselfish and inspired work on behalf of the people of Alabama and the rest of our beloved country.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State to be affixed by the Secretary of State at the Capital in the City of Montgomery, on this 13th day of September, 1940.

ATTEST:
John Bonner
Secretary of State.

GOVERNOR.

Aaron Parker

From Mayor Jones

Editor Chilton County News:

It is useless for me to say that I was disappointed at the results of the municipal election on September 16th in which I was defeated in my race for re-election as mayor of Clanton. I would have liked very much to carry on to completion the program which I had planned for Clanton, but let me say that the wishes of the people are mine also. I worked diligently for six years, sparing no efforts for what I construed the good for Clanton, always protecting its interests financially and otherwise just as I would have my own business. I did not play politics, which probably accounts for my not being re-elected in the recent election. But I have no regrets at the service I rendered. I would do the same if I had it to go over with. I am proud of what Clanton has done during my administration.

Let me say that in the future I shall always be willing and glad to assist the city officials in any way that I can in any movement that tends toward the substantial betterment of our community. As a private citizen I shall at all times lend the newly elected officials whatever assistance and co-operation I can toward the betterment of our city. I am proud of Clanton and join its other citizens in the satisfaction that we are on a sound financial basis, and that we are growing at a rate unsurpassed by any other city of our size in Alabama.

It is my full desire that we may continue along the road of substantial progress and general community betterment. Sincerely—C. Fenn Jones.

NEW 1941 TAGS READY FOR SALE

Due And Delinquent On November 15th

The new 1941 automobile tags are at the Probate Office and will go on sale the first day of October. Bright yellow with black numbers is the color scheme this year making a very attractive combination.

A ruling by the Attorney General's Office at Montgomery make automobile licenses due and delinquent on the 15th day of November, and a penalty must be paid after that date. Should you buy a new car after Oct. 1, you must buy a 1940 tag for the remaining month and a half before buying your 1941 tag.

Tags and their classes for Chilton County are:
A 2101-2225; B 19701-20300; C 92501-94000; D 12301-12360; H 11901-12540; HZ 11851-12250; H3 220-221.

PROTECTION

Federal Insurance For Those Entering Defense Service

"Workers and their dependents may rest assured that they will not lose any accrued or future benefits under Federal Old-Age and Survivors Insurance as the result of military service," declared Mr. Martin C. Polmar, manager of the Social Security Board's office.

The President, in a recent message to Congress, stated that the social gains of recent years including insurance and other benefit rights must be preserved unimpaired. The national guard legislation recently passed contains provisions evidencing this policy in connection with benefit rights of workers who are called into active service. The President recommended early consideration and enactment of necessary legislation incident to preserving insurance protection under the Social Security Act, the Railroad Retirement Act and the Railroad Unemployment Insurance program.

The Senate wrote into the excess tax bill on September 18th an amendment giving the President broad authority to establish allowances for dependents and make modifications in the Social Security regulations for the benefit of those entering military service. The bill now goes to the Senate and House conferees for final determination before being sent to the White House for the President's signature.

Calling All Methodists

Remember next Sunday is the Fifth Sunday, the day we make our contribution to the Children's Home at Selma. These children belong to Methodists and it is Methodist's duty and privilege to care for them in every way. Such care includes offerings, and we could not render a greater service to the work of our church than to make a large offering next Sunday at the church school for the Children's Home. There is nothing more appealing than an innocent child. What he needs is a chance to make good.

Next Sunday is Promotion Day. Let all members attend.

Let us remember our duties.
Sunday School, 9:45. Morning Service 11:00; evening worship at 7:30.

PLATE SUPPER

There will be a Plate Supper at Pleasant Grove Church, Route 6 Clanton Saturday, September 28, 7:30 p.m. This is being given for the benefit of the church. The plates will cost 15c each or two for 25c.

There will be a musical entertainment after the supper. The public is cordially invited.

Bowen McMillan, Escambia county convict serving a ten year sentence in Kilby prison for manslaughter hanged himself in his cell Sunday.

LARGE CROWD ATTENDS FIRST NIGHT GAME

One Thousand See Chilton County High Win Over Verbena

The old football spirit was really in the air last Friday night when fans from all over the County turned out to see Clanton play Verbena the first game of the season and also the first night game ever played here.

One thousand spectators gathered to witness one of the most evenly matched teams we have seen in a long time fight for the coveted touchdown and the score goal that would put them right in the lead and incidentally make them winner in this the first game of the season.

Clanton in the fourth quarter. Clanton County Football carried the ball across the goal line for the only score of the game. Chilton County, failed on the try for extra point.

The home team to Verbena on the night of the game was a hard fought battle that was much heavier and should have been easily a large score. However, Clanton County High has some fine material and when warmed up for should produce a team all will be proud to see.

Entertainment Galore In City This Week

The old saying "When It Rains It Pours" certainly must be right when we take stock of the entertainment we have here this week.

First on our must list of course is the Clanton-Selma Football game at Selma Friday night. This will be one of the best if not the best game played this season.

Then all week in the field just north of the City water works, we have Great Lakes Exposition Shows. This is the largest Carnival ever to play in Clanton and is sponsored by the Kiwanis Club.

Milt Tolbert Tent Show will play Clanton Friday night of this week. The tent will be placed behind Clanton Motors on 6th Street. Now we believe there is entertainment here to please the most fastidious and of course we have the two Wadesonian Theatres with us always.

Bible Class And Choir Improving

The Choir and Men's Bible Class of the Clanton Methodist church have pepped up considerably since vacation season ended. The choir has improved so much that the pastor, Rev. J. L. Daniel, complimented it at the Sunday morning service. The Men's Bible class has fitted up an apartment on the ground floor for old and young men. A doorway has been made flush with the sidewalk on the north side of the church so that the assembly room can be reached without going through the main auditorium of the church. All adult males are invited to join this class each Sunday morning in an hour's worship, study and fellowship.

MRS. BANKHEAD DECLINES

Mrs. Florence Bankhead issued a statement that she would decline the nomination to succeed her illustrious husband as congressman from the Seventh Alabama District, if it were offered her.

Gaston E. Jones Dies In Philippines

Private 1st Class, Gaston E. Jones, Quartermaster Corp Commanding General, Philippine Islands, died September 16th after an operation and will be sent home for burial. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Jones of near Cooper, Ala. He had served two years at Ft. Benning, Ga. before being transferred to the Islands where he had been stationed for three years. J. Mel Martin has been notified to receive the body here but the date of arrival has not been learned. Those wanting particulars may keep in touch with Martin and Sons.

FOOTBALL - Canton vs. Selma - Friday Night at Selma

Isabella High School

Isabella High School opened with a bang this year. We have several new students that we are proud to welcome to Isabella. Our enrollment is much larger than that of last year.

Mr. McPherson is with us again after an absence of three years. We are glad to have him back as coach. We are looking forward to doing big things in athletics this year.

Mr. Bookholdt has been with us during the first month, in the absence of Mr. Matthews. We have learned to like Mr. Bookholdt and hate to see him leave us.

We are glad to report that our principal, Mr. Matthews, is able to be at home again, after a three month's stay in the hospital. We hope that he will be able to assume his duties at school.

The Isabella Community Fair was held in the gym Saturday and Sunday night. It proved to be a very successful event. We had a large crowd. Many received prizes on their fruit, vegetables, and etc. We hope that everyone will cooperate in helping Isabella have a "bigger and better" fair next year.

The English department of Isabella has added fifty new books to its library this year. These books were carefully selected for both junior and senior high school pupils. We hope to add several more books during this year.

Mary Ann Oden, Ruby Mae Mizzell and Dorothy Oden were selected for cheer leaders this year. Judging from the noise they made at West Blocton, Friday night, it seems that they are going to do their part in winning the games for Isabella's football team.

Isabella won its first football game over West Blocton with a score of 14 to 13. Come on Isabella we are expecting great things this year.

MT. CARMEL

Not many were present at Sunday School Sunday on account of the burial of Mrs. Lucy Dunlap who was a relative to a majority of our members.

B. Y. P. U. was well attended Sunday night and the lesson on "Alcohol a Destroyer of Values" was very interesting with all members discussing the various topics. We are going to South America next Sun. night. Discussing "Rich Gems" for our Master's Crown. If you would like to go, we invite you to be at the church promptly at 7:00 o'clock.

Brother Paul Oden will preach at the eleven o'clock hour next Sunday, also we hope he will bring his pictures and show them either Saturday night or Sunday night. Be sure to come.

A good many went to hear Bro. Rube Bearden preach last Thursday night. It is hoped that Bro. Bearden will preach again at Mt. Carmel soon.

The Community Fair held at Isabella last Saturday was greatly enjoyed by those attending. It was a success.

Mr. H. S. Sewell and mother, Mrs. S. C. Sewell spent Sunday with Mr. Denson Sewell of Shoultz, who is at home from Veteran hospital in N. C., where he has been for the past four months.

Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Sewell, Mrs. H. V. Sewell and baby spent the latter part of last week in Bessemer.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Liveak were visitors here Sunday morning.

Mr. David Vines visited his sister Mrs. Cleve Mims here Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Carr, Mr. Lussie Burnette and baby Annette of Montgomery visited their grandmother here recently.

Robert G. Marlow

Mr. Robert G. Marlow, age 73, died in a local hospital early Sunday morning. He was buried Sunday afternoon at Sunshine church. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Sam Connell. He is survived by his wife and several sons and daughters. Mell Martin and Sons in charge.

Brush Arbor Meeting Sunday Sept. 30th

All-day services will be held at the brush arbor at the home of Mr. Jim Mims, near Cooper, Sunday September 30th.

An invitation is extended to all. A hearty welcome awaits you. Come and bring well-filled baskets and enjoy the services and fellowship of the day. Jesse Mitchell in charge.

CARD OF THANKS

It being impossible for us to see every one personally we take this means to express our deep appreciation to each and every one who has helped us in any way. We thank you for what money you gave and for picking our cotton and especially do we thank Mr. John Hays for making up the money for the hospital bill. May God bestow his richest blessings upon every one of you who is our prayer.

—The Davis Family.

HOBOS WHO DIE

Of the total number of persons who lost their lives while trespassing on railroad property in 1939, twenty-two per cent were hobos or tramps, and sixty-five per cent were adults, who, for the most part, were taking "short cuts" across railroad right-of-way.

L. & N. Taxes

In the past five years, 1935-1939, inclusive, the Louisville & Nashville Railroad has paid in taxes of all kinds a total of $34,063,419, or $6,568,000 more than was paid out in dividends to stockholders during the same period.

Laborer 'Gets Air'

Bounces on Airplane
LONDON.—A six-foot laborer, working on a Scottish airfield, accidentally stepped into the slipstream from an airplane. He was blown through the air into another plane which was turning over. A spade he was carrying struck a third plane. The six-foot laborer was only slightly injured in this extraordinary series of mishaps.

Reports 18-Hour Revival of Life

British Medical Body Is Told Of Rare Case.

READING, ENGLAND.—In a remarkable case reported to the British Medical association by Dr. Gordon L. Bohn, a dead man's body really was revived and lived again, but his brain was dead forever.

During a surgical operation the heart of a 72-year-old patient gave out and he apparently died. Using the opening already made into the body, the surgeon tried the procedure usual under these circumstances, reached into the chest, and rhythmically squeezed the motionless heart. A few irregular beats followed, but did not continue and hope was abandoned.

Merely as an experiment, an assistant continued squeezing the heart rhythmically for 29 more minutes. Meanwhile another assistant used the anesthetic apparatus to fill the "dead" man's lungs rhythmically with fresh oxygen. The combination evidently provided the heart itself with oxygen.

After 29 minutes, heart beats began again naturally. Some hours later, natural breathing also began. The "dead" man's body obviously had revived, but tests showed that the 29 minutes without fresh, oxygenated blood had killed forever all the higher centers of the brain. Consciousness never was restored. Only the lowest and most primitive reflexes, such as breathing and the heart beat, recovered. Eighteen hours after the operation, the revived body "died" a second time.

Colonists Back in 1640

Hit by Crop Control
ST. MARY'S CITY, MD.—There's apparently nothing new under the farmer's sun. Come corn planting time, an ever normal granary program in Maryland will be 300 years old.

It was in the spring of 1640—two and a half centuries before Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace was born—that the Maryland provincial government first got into the managed economy business.

Southern Maryland farmers descended from the colonial yeomen would scratch their heads in bewilderment if they could see great-grand-pappy's records. They get benefits for soil conservation and crop control, but grand-pappy got jailed if he didn't plant corn and more corn.

Research into records of the provincial council which met here in 1640 disclosed a statute which required planting two acres of corn for every laborer employed in tobacco culture.

Footnotes explained the 1640 "farm relief program" was necessary because farmers had "gone crazy" seeking to satisfy the growing tobacco fad in Europe. The Jamestown, Va., colony was threatened with starvation because so little acreage was devoted to food crops, and the Maryland provincial council ordered the maize planting to prevent a repetition in St. Mary's county.

Transplanted Eye Proves

Successful, Report Shows
NEW YORK.—The first successful transplantation of eyes was shown to the American Medical association.

The eyes are only those of salamanders, lizard-like animals, but the results are amazing. The same eye has been transplanted in succession to three different blind salamanders, and has given sight to each.

The work was shown by L. S. Stone and Frederick A. Wies, of Yale university school of medicine. The purpose is not yet to learn whether humans ever can have borrowed eyes, but to learn more of the structure of eyes.

Severed Arm of Octopus

Proves Heroism of Youth
PORT ANGELES, WASH.—Thirteen-year-old Douglas Burgess has proof he saved the life of his friend, 12-year-old Howard Huffman, who was attacked by an octopus.

Douglas kept part of the devil-fish's tentacle that he cut off with his pocket knife as the octopus was trying to drag Howard into the water from a rock.

Douglas held his chum by the leg as he slashed more than two feet off the octopus' arm with his knife.

Happy Days for Dogs
BUTTE, MONT.—Butte dogs face the happiest summer they have had in years. Police Chief William H. Breen said there was insufficient money in the proper fund to employ dog catchers for the next few months.

LOCAL BOYS ANSWER CALL TO COLORS

Just to prove to Uncle Sam that Clanton and Chilton County doesn't grow any slackers when he calls for assistance, here are a few of the boys who have gone to Montgomery and enlisted within the past few days.

Alex Hayes, in the Aviation Corps. L. D. Easterling, in the Aviation as a machinist.

Morris Johnson, in the Regular Army. Bob Sumner, in the Regular Army. Charlie White, in the Regular Army. T. J. Raspberry, Ramond Sammons, Thorsby, Air Corps, Maxwell Field.

Four young men of and near Clanton were enlisted in the U. S. Navy last Monday, Sept. 23.

The recruits were Earl W. Clenner, Rt. 1, Maplesville; Morgan C. Collins, of Clanton; Shades Y. Dorminey, Jr., Route 2, Jemison, and Howard L. Penton, Route 3, Clanton.

These men were sent to the Naval Training Station at Norfolk, Va., for an eight week's period of training before being assigned to ships or schools. They have gone to Montgomery and Birmingham and registered within the past few days.

CARD OF THANKS

Please allow us space enough in your paper to express our sincere thanks and very deep appreciation to our many friends and neighbors for their help since the recent burnout of our home. The Lord only knows how we appreciate the help of every one. I just pray that the Lord will restore every four fold back for everything thing given.

We especially wish to thank the two little Smith boys for their bravery in trying to save the furniture while the house was burning. We won't ever forget their skillful service and also do we thank Mr. Hill for his faithful service.

—Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Franklin.

POPAR SPRINGS

Rev. Burrell filled his regular appointment Saturday night and Sunday morning, delivering two wonderful sermons. Our Sunday School and B. Y. P. U. seems to be growing. We urge all old folks to come out and be with us in the B. Y. P. U. Prayer meeting.

Rev. Hughes will preach here Sunday morning. Everybody meet him here. There will be a singing at the church Thursday night, Sept. 26, beginning at 7:00 o'clock. All singers have a special invitation.

CARD OF THANKS

Allow us a small space to thank our friends for all they have done for us in our heart-breaking sorrow in the death of our mother, Mrs. Lucy Dunlap. Mr. and Mrs. White, you did make her look like an angel. The preachers rendered such sweet words. You could say the singers and the pianist the sweetest of playing and singing. The Doctor did his best in easing her pain. The Flower girls carried the flowers so sweetly. The pallbearers who bore her precious body, you who brought your cars also those who came and stayed with us through the long hours of night and those who brought the flowers and so many nice things to eat. We thank you all and trust that we can pay your service to do for you, what you did for us. When you have your row God bless you all.

Announcing the big NEW FORD 1941 FORD

In some years, some cars take a big jump ahead. The Ford does that for 1941.

It has jumped ahead in size. It's the biggest Ford we've ever built, inside and out. It's wider. It has a longer wheelbase. Its seating room is wider by as much as 7 inches. It has new wide doors and semi-concealed running boards.

You'll notice also a new beauty, achieved by a skilful blending of mass with longer flowing lines. Larger windshield and windows give better vision all around.

One of its biggest advantages is the new soft ride.

New, slower-action springs give a slow, gentle, gliding movement. A newly designed stabilizer helps absorb road shocks, and maintains balance on sharp curves and in cross winds.

More rapid acceleration to match its familiar speed and power makes this new Ford an even livelier car to drive.

These are only a few of this new car's outstanding features. It represents all the rich experience gained in building more than 28 million motor cars.

Any Ford dealer can give you many good reasons for making this your 1941 car.

Officer Is Man Of 1,000 Faces'; Uses No Make-Up

Actually, He Says, He Just Changes Suits, and There You Are.

LOS ANGELES. — A flophouse man today, a playboy in a tuxedo tomorrow—that's Tom Carr, the man with 1,000 faces.

In a land where hundreds make a living by pretending before movie-camera cameras, Carr acts, too, but for a critical, sharply hostile audience—for men and women who violate the vice laws.

Carr is young looking, but a veteran member of the police department vice squad. He won his post through a long apprenticeship in law enforcement on nearby Santa Monica's police force, as a movie studio detective and as an operative of prohibition days.

Never Uses Makeup.

"Shucks," says the genial, ruddy-cheeked Carr, "that '1,000-faces' thing is just a name reporters hung on me. I never have used any make-up, facial makeup. I've been around here so many years people know me as well as I usually look, but I can still fool them easily enough simply by wearing different clothes."

Carr says that he generally carries Officer E. F. "Fat" Kessler, and "Jack's" disguises work as well as mine do."

The other night Carr and Kessler "sopped and fished" and visited swanky Hollywood night club.

"The singer there knows me well, I put on glasses, the lights know me, the crowd was big and the cigarette smoke was thick, so she didn't recognize me."

Carr and Kessler closed down the place, and arrested the owner and a waiter for selling drinks after closed hours.

The next night found them in a 400-high-class Main street section with gasoline station coveralls and smudgy faces. Occasionally Carr grows a mustache, or dons dark glasses or a slough-brimmed hat, but he depends usually on his name, be it that of a milk wagon driver, a flashily dressed bookie or needy tramp.

"And the best way to act, in almost any kind of clothes, to throw people off their guard," says Carr, "is to look half-stiff. Nobody gets suspicious of a semi-drunk."

Vary Their Styles.

"Of course, we wear different outfits when looking for various types criminals. When we look over message payor we space up, wear a flower in our lapel, sprinkle some perfume and prance in—get a tumble right away."

For months, says Carr, he and Kessler have been trying to "catch" notorious procurer who deals only in navy men or Orientals. Finally the officers put on double-breasted blue uniforms similar to those navy officers, and were admitted the place without question.

They arrested the procurer and several sailors, and the latter simply complained about "misuse" of a naval uniform.

"But we had them there," says Carr.

The gold buttons down the coats and the initials L. A. P. D. for Los Angeles Police department, the buttons on the sleeves were up, the down and instead of the spread insignia our coats bore hunched, culled owls.

"They shut up good when we showed them the labels under the insignia. They read, in good, legible letters, 'Abyssinia National Guard.'"

Kind Gardener Works By Knots on Strings

HUNTINGTON, IND.—The mystery of a night-weeding gardener solved here when neighbors discovered that the man, Rondell M. Nebeker, was blind.

Nebeker first attracted attention when several passers-by noted him working among the peas and onions at night, unaided even by moonlight. He told them simply he was as good as another to see.

Nebeker devised a system that lets him through the garden plot all alone. Plant rows are marked with knotted strings. Ropes, stakes, and boards give him distance between rows.

When it comes to weeding he does an occasional slip, but the rest on the whole are good.

Killing Snake Disturbs Public Address System

PORT WORTH.—Achilles, a sulky chicken snake, certainly gummed the works.

The chilling crawled into the public address system at Forest Park zoo and nothing can entice him to the out.

Harry Jackson, head of the reptile exhibit, was not worried at first, although Achilles didn't do the system good.

When several days passed and still the snake could not come out. His keeper tried to lure him out with bits of fancy delicacies, but to avail.

Now two weeks have passed and snake still holds forth. It can't be long.

CIRCLE NO ONE HELD METTING

Circle No. One met at the home of Mrs. J. S. Thomas. After discussing all business the devotional was read by Mrs. Farley.

Mrs. R. L. Bryson discussed the first chapter of "Stewardship in the Life of Women," which was "The Woman with a Little Room."

Refreshments were served to sixteen members.

CIRCLE FOUR MEETS

Mrs. J. Lee Smith was hostess to her circle of the Baptist W. M. S. on Monday afternoon. The meeting was begun with singing "How Firm a Foundation." The devotional was conducted by Mrs. Willie Bann, followed with prayer by Mrs. O. A. Dawsey. After a brief business meeting a chapter in the mission study book was taught by Mrs. O. A. Davis. The meeting was adjourned by repeating Mizpah.

Refreshments were served to Messrs. E. R. Boman, A. W. Denny, W. C. Golden, A. N. Minor, J. W. Curlee, Grady Harris, L. A. Calloway, Willie Bean, O. A. Davis, D. A. Wingard and the hostess.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. E. R. Boman.

MISS LOUDELIA CLACKLER WEDS MR. LOVINGOOD

In a simple and impressive ceremony September 5 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Lovingood, Miss Loudelia Clackler became the bride of Glode C. Lovingood. The pastor of the First Baptist church of Murphy officiated using the ring ceremony. Only a few close friends and relatives attended the service.

The bride wore a prairie rose dress with many accessories and her corsage was of tube roses. She is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Clackler of Murphy, N. C. and Clanton, Alabama. Mrs. Lovingood has recently been employed in Washington, D. C.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Lovingood of Murphy. He is a graduate of Western Carolina Teachers College at Culloway, N. C. For the past three years he has been teaching the seventh grade at Francisco in Stokes County, N. C. At present he is employed as teacher of the fifth grade at White Plains in Surry County, N. C.

The couple are making their home in White Plains, N. C.

Tuesday Oct. 1st Is P-T. A. Day at Clanton Grammar School

Don't Forget that Tuesday, Oct. 1, is P-T. A. day at Clanton Grammar School. Be sure and come and bring someone with you. The program committee has planned a very interesting program and they are planning to have at least one father to take part on every program this year. In this way they hope to create more interest among the children's parents. After all this is a parent-teacher association. The main theme of the P-T. A. this year is to establish better relationship between school, home and community. Following is the program planned for next meeting:

Devotional—Miss Ousley.
Group singing led by Mr. Porch.
Talk on "Causes of Absences from school and what they mean to our school"—by Miss McKee.
Panel discussion on "Know Your School better."

Mrs. Reed Mullins, Mr. Earl Parrish, Dr. W. L. Parrish, Mrs. R. M. Tucker, Mrs. Thera Martin, Miss Willie Murrell.

Be sure and come

Mrs. J. P. Hayes was hostess on Monday afternoon to Circle 6 for their Mission Study Program. Only a small number of the membership was present, but those who were enjoyed very much the first chapter in the mission book "Stewardship in the Life of Women," given by Mrs. Frank Scott. Everyone who reads this book will surely get a great lesson from it.

Little Ann and O. K. Fiquette visited their grandparents Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Yarbrough in Prattville last week end.

Mrs. W. C. Golden, Mrs. Jimmie Bell, Mrs. Horace Popwell and Little Louise Golden went shopping in Birmingham last Tuesday.

Miss Grace McKelvey, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Cecil Ramsey, returned to her home in Huntsville Tuesday.

Mrs. Dan Wait spent last Sunday in Birmingham.

Friends of Mrs. J. Q. Wade, will be glad to learn that she is much better after her recent illness.

The following delegates from Clanton attended the Fall District Convention of the Pilots held in Montgomery last Saturday and Sunday: Mrs. Laura Little, Mrs. Lillian Simpson and Mrs. "Chick" Fiquette.

Mrs. Geo. Fallin of Montgomery is visiting friends in Clanton.

Mr. "Chubby" Reese of Birmingham, visited friends here last week end.

Mrs. Willie Phillips Jones has just returned from a recent visit in Montgomery and Lafayette.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Burgess and children are visiting relatives in North Alabama.

Mrs. W. I. Mullins, Miss Betty Mullins, Mrs. Luther Jackson and Mrs. John Deramus spent last Friday in Montgomery.

Homemakers Class

The Homemakers class were guests last Friday of Mrs. Parker Taylor. There were fifteen members present including the teacher, Mrs. O. A. Davis. Business was discussed, some plans made and discussed as to cleaning up our class room. It was the intentions of the president, Mrs. M. L. Tucker, to have the installation of the new officers but due to the fact that they were not all present that part of the program was postponed until Sunday, Sept. 29th. The program also included group singing and a very interesting contest. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess.

FOOD HANDLING ESTABLISHMENTS MUST HAVE PERMITS

All operators of food handling establishments which include restaurants, soda fountains, hamburger stands, sandwich shops, candy manufacturers were reminded today that it will be necessary to obtain a permit from the local Health Department prior to October 1, 1940 for operation of any food handling establishment during the license year of 1941. Whether or not these permits are issued depends on the satisfactory compliance with the standards set up as to equipment and physical condition of the establishment.

Every food handling establishment in Clanton County has been inspected by Fred H. Buckalew, Sanitation officer, and notified as to the various improvements needed to comply with the regulations. All food establishments operators attention is brought to Section 1146 Code of Alabama 1923 which says "It is unlawful for the city or county to issue privilege licenses for the operation of food establishments unless the applicant presents a permit issued by the County Health Officer."

Willkieism

What the Republican party is trying to do right now, is to confuse the public mind, and lead it to believe that capitalism is democracy.

This is clearly shown in the following four-point program offered by Mr. Willkie in his speech at Los Angeles last week.

Here are the four points:
"The rules under which business is conducted must be clear and must be stable."

"Government policies affecting business should be consistent."

"Government competition with business must be kept within well-defined limits. It must not stop the flow of capital into new productive enterprise."

"Business must be given a chance to make a profit."

Thus the former Holding Company manipulator puts business (capitalism) above every other consideration. And if this country should be so unfortunate as to elect him president, there isn't a shadow of doubt but that capitalism and not democracy would become the ruling government in this great land.

Everyone knows that prosperous business is essential to our present mode of American life; and that democracy has made American business what it is. Everyone also knows that to place America's democratic machinery in exclusive control of business (capitalism) that it would at once become an autocracy, controlled and governed by plutocrats, and the result would be serfdom for the masses.

A Highway Sure To Be On The "Must List"

Last week's issue of the Prattville Progress, in the following splendid argument as to why the Tuscaloosa-Montgomery Highway should be placed on the "must list", overlooked one very important point—that of the great bridge across the Mississippi at Greenville, just recently opened to traffic. As a defense measure the Tuscaloosa-Montgomery Highway is one of the most important links in this central east-to-west continental artery.

Says Prattville Progress:
The Progress had hoped that ere this time, plans for completion of the Montgomery-Tuscaloosa highway would have been completed with construction work going forward on the grass left uncut. We had hoped that authorities of the counties traversed by this highway would be able to get together and assure completion of this project. So far as we know, however, the Highway Commission and county authorities are marking time. We believe that this highway is the most important road project in the entire State, that it should be placed on the "must list" by the present administration, and that steps should be taken at once by the State Highway Department to assure its completion.

Viewing this project from a selfish standpoint, our citizens could watch procrastination of road building authorities in reference to this highway with little interest. The benefits to be derived by Prattville from construction of this highway were assured with completion of Autauga's portion and the feeder roads which enabled the people of Northwest Autauga to reach their county seat over modern highways. The need for this highway, however, is so great as to dwarf the benefits derived from its construction by any one town or county.

Press reports from Washington tell us that the Army and Navy will direct nearly all of next year's $275,000,000 of national defense expenditures of federal-aid highway work. In the interim the road money will be on highways and bridges certified by the War and Navy departments as of strategic importance. There are around 2000 structurally weak bridges which must be strengthened to support heavy mechanized army equipment now being manufactured and on order for defense. Widening of old roads, building approach roads, elimination of grades etc., will require vast expenditures.

However, completion of the Montgomery-Tuscaloosa Highway could easily be certified as of strategic military importance. Not only would this road connect two active air training centers, but it would make available a much needed route from the western border of Alabama to our Capital City, and thereby relieve congested traffic conditions on the Montgomery-Birmingham highway.

"HE'S RUNNIN', AIN'T HE?"
An old Negro Mammy asked if she thought the President would be re-elected, replied "He's runnin', ain't he?"

PRESIDENT CANNOT COME

President Roosevelt has notified Gov. Dixon that he would be unable to attend the Veterans Hospital dedication at Montgomery this Fall, due to pressure on his time.

THE PEOPLE SAY

WILL SUPPORT THE TICKET

To The Editor of the Chilton County News:

Will you kindly give me space in your paper to express my feelings in regard to the coming election which is just around the corner.

No one has asked me to write this letter but just felt so impressed I can not refrain from doing so.

First I will say that it is a privilege we Americans have and enjoy in going to the polls and voting our convictions.

I would like to say a few words to people of common means as this is the class I am in. There ever was a time when we should think we have been our friend it is in the coming election. I believe we have at the head of our government a man or a group of men who have proven by their work that they were trying to help the common people for the past seven years and eight months.

There is no need of me enumerating the things that have been done to help us, unless you ask me to do so. But one thing these great statesmen have done I would like to mention is the National Youth Administration better known as the N. Y. A. assistance which enables that boy or girl of yours who has thrilling ambitions for a college education to secure part time work to help them continue their course. I am personally acquainted with several boys who could not have gone to college if they had not secured this aid. I am speaking from my heart; for one of these boys is mine, now at A. P. I.

Thank God for a man of vision in high places who wants to serve the masses of his people.

These favors and many more have been brought about through a democratic administration.

Think, common man, who is your friend?

Now as to our county officials, they are clean, honest men renominated by the democratic party. These men have proven their ability heretofore to manage our county affairs. I intend to support them wholeheartedly.

Thanking you for this space,
Oscar Davidson,
Maplesville, Ala., Rt. 1

A GOOD SPORTSMAN

Last Friday night we had our first football game of the season.

To me football is a great game. I do not think the game of FOOTBALL is ANCE to the player, but I do think the game is a great aid to a real education.

All of us love to win. Some are good losers, and some are poor losers. In the game team work, interference and genuine courage are real parts of education and of life. It takes courage to stand defeat. "Defeat often builds character better than victory." A man can be a "man" without being either a "tough" or a "cheat" or "immoral character." A man can be strong and upstanding without lowering the finest conception of character.

Football is not a contest of brute strength, but of skill and ability to do something to one person who does not anticipate and who has not the ability to stop. Football calls for lots of intellectual power. The game teaches one to face situations and make decisions. The game develops one's ability to act instantly in the execution of movement.

A Good Sportsman is COURTEOUS; On the field he does not jeer at errors, he does not cheer at the opponent's penalty; he treats them as guests, not as enemies. In SCHOOL he is considerate of the faculty, of fellow students, and of visitors. In LIFE he is respectful to elders and superiors as he would be treated.

A Good Sportsman is MODEST; On the field he works for the good of the team rather than for individual honors; he will even sacrifice his own prestige for his team; he is a gracious winner. In school he does not become conceited over his success, neither does he feel himself superior to his classmates. In LIFE he does not "blow" about what he is going to do; he does not "boast" about what he has done.

A Good Sportsman is GENEROUS; On the field he applauds a good play of his opponents; he gives the other fellow the benefit of the doubt. In SCHOOL he does not "knock" other schools or individuals; he appreciates another's merit. In LIFE he does not ridicule a man who is "down" but encourages him. He is not afraid to think for himself and to voice his opinion straight, forwardly and clearly.

A Good Sportsman is GAME; On the field he plays hard; he fights even though he may already be defeated; he accepts adverse decisions; he is a good loser. In SCHOOL he does his work and keeps on working in the face of almost certain failure. He has "the VIM" to think straight, the PLUCK to act straight. In LIFE he does his part however hard it may be; he accepts reverses with a smile and tries again.

A Good Sportsman is OBEDIENT; On the field he observes the rules of the game. In School he observes all of the regulations. In LIFE he respects the civil laws and the demands of the community.

A Good Sportsman is FAIR; On the field he competes in a clean, hard-fought but friendly way; he helps an injured opponent, he has no ill-will. In school he does not waste his time not that of the faculty; he does not copy his classmates work; he does not receive aid from any source on his examinations. In Life he sees impartially both sides of a question; he uses no underhanded methods; he is not influenced by money; he is not partial in administering justice.

C. E. STAPP.

MORAL ECHOES

REV. D. W. HASKEW, D.D.

At some expense and effort I bought cement and built a nice little birdbath for the back yard. The birds of all colors found their watering place and they came from far and near to drink. One morning I was under the pecan tree doing a job of work and the birds gathered above my head and set up a chatter. I could not understand their language, but I knew that they were saying all kinds of things about me. I had gone to the trouble and expense of fitting up the watering place and day after day I was going there and filling it with fresh water, but still they had no confidence in me. Up there among the limbs they were crying out their indignation against me. I walked out from under the tree saying to myself, "You birds are just like human beings, the more is done for you by a benevolent heart, the louder you cry out against the one who thinks of you." Those birds may have I never knew of some government organization. The voice of man today says give and get out of the way and let us have a chance to gobble and go.

Late one afternoon we sat on the front porch. The sun was shining in the west, but over in the east a thunder cloud was hanging above the earth. A little girl of seven happened to see the bright rainbow that circled the dark cloud. She was amazed and cried out, "Oh Mother, what is that beautiful thing that I see hanging on the cloud?" She was told that it was God's rainbow. Then I was asked to tell her the story. After the story of the rainbow had been told I asked the child if that was the first time she had ever seen a rainbow. Imagine my surprise when the child replied, "Doctor, I never know of God had a rainbow and that is the first one I ever saw. I am going to look at all of them." Some parents must be very negligent in the training of their children. A child should be trained from early childhood to see God's rainbows, and other beatitudes of God that fill the world about us.

We have perfected flowers, fruits and animals by and through our knowledge of science. A vase of beautiful roses speaks of the wonderful culture through which the rose specie has passed. A basket of fine apples, a thoroughbred Kentucky horse, tells the same story. We apply our scientific knowledge to the growth and development of things about us, but we are neglecting to apply simple scientific knowledge and principles to the full flowering of ourselves. Vast potentialities lie dormant within us. How rapidly we would grow into a more beautiful character if we would only develop ourselves through discipline.

I attended a banquet at a well known West Florida hotel. About one hundred young people took their places in the banquet hall. They came from the many churches in that locality and a finer group of young people rarely ever gathered for fellowship and fun. It was a formal affair. They had a good time. Not a cigarette was smoked around the banquet table. There was plenty of fun but it was clean and wholesome. All present felt that it was just not the place for things that we all know to be lacking in decency and fine living. And yet, there are some people who will tell us that the church is not educating today. When our churches can produce a group of young people who have noble ideals and who respect them in a social function, the church is worth while.

437 head of calves sold at Monroeville last week, brought Monroe County farmers $7,502.00.

It now looks as if all have appropriated by Congress for river improvement and flood during this session is gone.

Fuzzless Peaches Are Next In Line

Blackburg, Va.—After all these years, the peach is getting a shave. The "barber" is Dr. Fred W. Hofmann, director of horticulture research at the Virginia Agriculture Experiment Station, who announced today the development of a fuzzless peach.

The new peach is not only as smooth and waxy as a plum, but also as large as standard varieties and just as delicious.

It is highly resistant to brown rot, a destructive peach disease, and has a higher degree of frost resistance than the Elberta. Any standard variety can be made fuzzless by the breeding process.

The fuzzless peach, the fruit of nearly 40 years research by Dr. Hofmann, will be distributed soon among orchardists for planting, but probably will reach the consumer for three to six years.

Dr. Hofmann has a patent on the peach, which he began developing in 1912 when he crossed standard varieties with a fuzzless type found among some Greensboro seedlings in Nebraska.

University of Alabama has enrolled for the present term more than 4800 students.

The first oyster and seafood truck of the season came through Clanton last week-end.

Girls Are Advised To Build-Up For Relief

Lack of knowledge causes many a weak, undernourished girl a lot of suffering!

Many others, however, know how the headaches, nervousness, cramp-like pain of functional dysmenorrhea due to malnutrition are helped by the proper use of CARDUI.

Some take it a few days before and during "the time," to help ease periodic distress. But CARDUI's principal use is to help increase appetite; stimulate the flow of gastric juices; to aid digestion, assist in building up physical resistance and thus help reduce periodic distress. Women have used CARDUI for over 50 years.

STATE OF ALABAMA A PROCLAMATION BY THE GOVERNOR

WHEREAS, the Legislature of Alabama, at the Regular Session 1939, ordered an election to be held by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama upon a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, which said amendment is herein set out, and ordered that said election be held at the General Election to be held in Alabama in November 1940; and

WHEREAS, the First Tuesday after the First Monday in November, 1940, which is the 5th day of November, is the time for holding the General Election in 1940; and

WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with the proposed amendment, is required by the provisions of the Act submitting said Amendment, to be given by a proclamation of the Governor to be published in each County in the State of Alabama once a week for eight successive weeks immediately preceding the said 5th day of November, 1940;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Frank M. Dixon, as Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that on Tuesday, the 5th day of November, 1940, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama, in the manner and form provided by law, upon the following amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, as follows:

"The Legislature of Alabama may hereafter, from time to time, by general or local laws fix, alter, and regulate the fees, commissions, allowances and salaries to be charged or received by the Sheriff of Mobile County, and including the right to place said officer on a salary basis and provide that the fees, fines and forfeitures received or collected by said officer be paid into the treasury of Mobile County, Alabama, and to fix and provide the amount and method of compensation of such officer. All Acts of the Regular Session of the Legislature of 1939 and 1939-40 heretofore passed and applicable, or purporting to be applicable to said Mobile County, and fixing, or purporting to fix the basis of compensation and compensation of said officer, or placing said officer on a salary basis, are hereby ratified and confirmed."

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday, the 5th day of November, 1940, upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, be given by publishing the same once a week for eight successive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 5th day of November, 1940, in each County in the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said County.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and have caused the Great Seal of the State to be affixed by the Secretary of State, at the Capitol in the City of Montgomery, on this the 12th day of August, 1940.

FRANK M. DIXON,
Governor.

Attest:
JOHN BRANDON,
Secretary of State.

IN EMERGENCIES

It pays to have a telephone

Do you and your family live in fear of emergencies... wondering what you would do, for instance, if a doctor were needed immediately or a fire broke out. A telephone would help to relieve all such fears. With a telephone in your home you have the comforting knowledge that help is within reach of your voice day or night. Although you live miles from town, you are never isolated when you have a telephone.

The added protection that a telephone affords your family by far outweighs the small amount saved by trying to get along without one.

Why wait longer now that you can have a telephone on your farm for so little.

 These statistics are obtained from the records of the County Health Department and are published for the purpose of promoting better registration of births and deaths. Filing of a certificate for births and deaths with local registrars is made compulsory by the State Vital Statistics law. Responsibility for filing birth certificates within five days after the birth rests on the physician or midwife in attendance; undertakers or persons in charge of burials are required by law to obtain a burial permit before the body is interred. Such permits are obtainable only on the presentation of a completed death certificate to the registrar in the beat in which the death occurred.
 Anyone having knowledge of births or deaths occurring during August and not included in the above list should report this matter to the County Health Office immediately.
CARD OF THANKS
 We wish to thank our many friends for the words of sympathy and deeds of love shown us during our recent bereavement. We especially thank undertakers Spigener and Martin, also Mr. Blair and Mr. Wingard who gave their life blood to try to save our boy, also all the others donors who offered the same. We remember with thoughtful hearts, Mrs. Henley, The C. C. H. S., Mr. Jerome Gray and The Methodist Church of Clanton. We also appreciate the beautiful floral offerings. Our friends are too numerous to mention, but we pray God's richest blessings will be with you all forever.

REPUBLICAN COMPETITION IN THE SIXTH DISTRICT

T. E. WYATT

Folks with short memories might be led into the serious error of hazarding the remark that Publisher T. E. Wyatt of The Union-Banner at Clanton, over in Chilton County, is the first Republican candidate for Congress from the Sixth District in half a century. It is true that the Sixth District, as now constituted, has never presented a serious Republican congressional candidate. In fact not since 1914 has any Republican polled more than 43 votes against a Democratic congressional nominee in this district.

But there was a time when Republican congressional aspirants in this district were not regarded as political strangers. Prior to 1916, when Congressman William B. (Buck) Oliver swept without opposition into his second term in the House of Representatives, there were Republicans on the ticket in just about every general election.

Such stalwarts as John Hollis Bankhead, the elder, for 20 years congressman from this district and Richmond Pearson Hobson, the naval hero from Greensboro, always met with competition from the other major party.

The elder Bankhead usually was opposed by some Republican whose ambitions were inspired by the fairly numerous vote of that party in the Walker County section, which was then included in the Sixth District.

When Bankhead ran in 1902 the district included Fayette, Green, Hale, Lamar, Marion, Pickens, Sumter, Tuscaloosa and Walker Counties. In that year he received 7,481 votes in the general election, while 2,798 went to W. B. Ford, Republican, and P. L. Croker, received three, all in Pickens County.

Only in Fayette, Marion and Walker did Ford poll as many as 500 votes. A similar condition continued in 1904 when Bankhead piled up more than 10,000 votes to 2,718 for S. R. Crumpton. When Hobson took over the reins from Bankhead in 1906, as the latter ascended to the Senate, a single vote went against the Greensboro orator when Pickens County cast one for I. Greene.

Republican competition returned in 1908 when Hobson recorded 9,211 and Henry T. Nations polled 2,593. Again in 1910 Hobson was opposed, that time by Andrew Mitchell, and the score was 9,296 to 2,014. In 1912, Hobson's last congressional race, he defeated Charles P. Lunstford, 10,065 to 2,210.

"Buck" Oliver entered as the district's Democratic defender in 1914 after a hectic primary battle with the late William B. Bankhead, who was recently buried at Jasper with tributes from the nation. Oliver faced republican opposition that year from Samuel E. Stoddard, but snowed under his foe, 8,539 to 2,178.

In 1916 the Sixth District had a new boundary, including Bibb, Greene, Hale Perry, Sumter and Tuscaloosa Counties. This district then became a veritable stronghold for the Democratic Party in Alabama. Congressman Oliver was unopposed in five successive general elections until 1926, when C. M. Ayres, Tuscaloosa architect, was a Republican candidate. The 1926 ballot showed Oliver, 3,984 to 43 votes for Ayres. Except when important amendments or other factors entered the campaign, there was exceedingly mild interest on the part of the electorate.

Mr. Oliver was unopposed in 1928, 1930, 1932 and 1934. By 1932 the district had been reapportioned anew with Clanton and Shelby Counties added. It is sufficient at times to provide a county Republican government. Shelby also has more Republican votes than a majority of the Alabama counties.

Congressman Pete B. Jarman, who succeeded Oliver in 1936, had no competition from the other party in his first two general election races. It was in Chilton County that a host of Republicans participated in the Democratic second primary, according to a public charge made by Mr. Jarman after his re-nomination last June. Whether these Republicans feel bound by the pledge on the Democratic runoff ballot in the election remains to be seen a month and one-half hence. As for the rest of the Sixth District, the top-heavy Democratic majority and a record that runs back to the memory of man, would seem to indicate that Mr. Jarman may still be elected as representative-designate from the Sixth District, regardless of the volatility of Mr. Wyatt, revealed yesterday. —Tuscaloosa News.

Build Observatory To Study Eclipses

To Be Located in Colorado
Rocky Mountains.

CAMBRIDGE, MASS. — The world's largest astronomical observatory will be built by Harvard university this summer in the Colorado Rocky mountains for the study of the sun.

The station will be equipped with a coronagraph—a new instrument that creates artificial solar eclipses and makes possible regular observations of the corona and other phenomena usually only visible during the eclipse.

Only three other coronagraphs exist and none is in the Western hemisphere. High altitude, clear skies and freedom from dust are necessary for the best operation of the instrument, so Prof. Donald H. Henzel of Harvard observatory spent all last summer looking for a suitable location.

He finally selected a piece of land owned by the Climax Molybdenum company. The observatory will be 11,318 feet high and will be situated at Fremont pass, Clinch, Colo.

Dr. Henzel believes the use of the coronagraph to study sun spots, solar prominences and the corona will lead to greater knowledge of the physical conditions of the sun and the relationships between the earth and its star neighbor.

The new Harvard instrument is based on the invention of Dr. Bernard Lyot, a French astronomer. It is a special type telescope fitted with screens to create an eclipse by masking out the bright solar image.

The equipment also will include a powerful spectrograph for the study of the corona's spectrum. Studies of the motions of solar prominences will be made with motion pictures. Movies also will be made of the corona, giving scientists their first record of how the light structure changes.

Ghost's Revenge Becomes

The Policeman's Dilemma

HOPKINSVILLE, KY.—Hopkinsville police believe their patrol car is marked. Four times in three years and twice since August a driverless automobile has slid down the Main street hill and whammed into the patrol. The police car, in each case, was parked in front of headquarters. Although at each time other automobiles were parked near by, the patrol car was the only one hit by the driverless car.

Too Much Zeal

MAYFIELD, KY.—A county constable spied the name, John Doe, on a slate of jail prisoners. He got busy at once. He hurried to the county judge's office and gathered all the dust-covered warrants issued against "John Doe." Back he went to the jail. There the jailer explained about "Doe's" identity.

War Halts Importation

Of Dolls From Europe

FORT WORTH, TEXAS.—E. L. Leininger has a special reason for disliking the men who cause wars in Europe. It stops the flow of dolls and doll parts to this country from abroad.

"American-made dolls are better," said Leininger, "but many dolls are repaired and handed down from generation to generation. Most dolls originally sold in America came from Germany or other European countries and the owners want to keep them intact for years to come."

But wars halt that. Prices on imported doll parts already are up 50 per cent.

Leininger has repaired almost every kind of doll in the 25 years that he has operated a "doll hospital" here.

Auction Selling Brings

More for Stock in Texas

CENTER, TEXAS.—The chant of the cattle auctioneer is luring prosperity to east Texas ranchmen and farmers.

The auction system is relatively new in this area, but already brings top prices for live stock.

Operators of the auction barns make their money through a small fee for handling the stock, usually 75 cents a head for cattle, 25 cents for hogs and goats. Auctioneers collect their pay from the barn operators.

Stockmen and farmers generally refuse to sell cattle directly from their pastures. They prefer to let competitive bidding hike the price.

German Lad Enlists in

Royal Ordnance Corps

LONDON.—Ernst Seligman, an 18-year-old German, changed his name to Ernest Seligman and gave his age as 23, and managed to enlist in the royal army ordnance corps. Not only so, but he also managed to get promotion to the rank of lance-corporal before he was discovered and arrested for a breach of the aliens order.

He said that when enlisting he gave his age as 23 because they wanted to put him in the Scots Guards and he wanted to be in another regiment.

Hobo Mission Is Odd Nucleus for All Walks of Life

Once Important Personages Numbered Among Guests Of Tramp Haven.

ENNIS, TEXAS. — Two tattered "knights of the road" stood deep in argument in the "jungles" of a small Texas town. One was a veteran. Deep lines, like rings in wood, told of the years he followed the hardy gurdy.

The other was a young man. Neither blade nor broken glass, often used by transients as a razor, had touched his light, smooth skin. His eyes were fair and he wore the clothes of a newcomer to the game.

The elder man raised his voice: "Oh, so ya think yer too good to sleep in a flop joint like this one, huh, bo? Well, let me tell you something, bud. This here's a place what's got class."

Ex-Governor Once Guest.

"Yeah. I wouldn't putcha on a wrong steer. Why, an ex-governor once stayed there. I remember once I dropped in and who was one of my 'sulte-mates' but a playn' player. A German he was and claimed he had pounded the piano for all them crowned kings and queens of Europe."

"Sure enuf, bud, this place is all right. Poor guys and rich guys alike have eased their dogs into Herb Justman's mission here in Ennis." The younger man, convinced, picked up his roll and followed the old campaigner. He found Herb Justman waiting at the door always ready to give a hand to an out-of-pocket bo. Yes, he's been host to ex-governors. German piano players, blind men, deaf mutes, children and octogenarians alike.

Indian Had Big Roll.

Among his visitors for the last 18 months was an elderly Ute Indian, who looked the part of being down and out, all right, but paid his fare the next morning from a roll of bills which "must have contained $1,200."

Not nearly as large a sum, but just as plentiful in bulk, was that carried by a 75-year-old pencil salesman. The salesman carried his entire fortune, $41.30 in nickels and dimes.

Names Kept Secret.

Justman, who manages the mission but never divulges the names of his guests, said his guest list included:

A produce man who at one time had been head of his own company, which had a fleet of 15 trucks hauling produce.

Three doctors, among them one who had been known as one of the most prominent surgeons in New York.

Seven newspaper men, one of whom had been the head of several publications.

The German piano player and the ex-governor.

A former police chief of Oklahoma City, who told Justman that he had shot Tulsa Jack, notorious Southwestern outlaw.

One of the guests was the son of one of the wealthiest families in Dallas.

Justman's guests often flock to the mission by the family. The largest family group consisted of a mother and her eight children—all girls. However, the youngest came alone. He was a 13-year-old lad from the East who had no family connections whatever, Justman said.

Speeder Escapes Fine,

Fared Spies' Pursuit

DETROIT.—Traffic Judge George T. Murphy has given tacit approval to people who hurry in belief they're safeguarding United States secrets.

James Gordon, an engineer who said he had access to navy blueprints, was taken into court on a charge of reckless driving, as was John Chisholm. Gordon explained he speeded when Chisholm's car chased his, fearing spies were after him. Chisholm said he was only angry because Gordon tooted his horn in traffic.

Judge Murphy found Gordon innocent, but said Chisholm must pay a $50 fine or serve 10 days in jail.

City Mileage for Cyclist

Is 43,800 for 40 Years

OGDEN, UTAH.—Joseph W. Willett of Ogden has just finished bicycling 43,800 miles—all within the city limits.

For 40 years Willett has pedaled his way around the city an average of about three miles a day.

"I don't cover much territory, but I get all over town and that's all I want to do," Willett said. He wore out two bicycles in the first 23 years, but the last 17 years of wheeling have been covered on the same machine.

Gold From Germany—

In Refugee's False Teeth

BALTIMORE, MD.—For the first time in months, the commerce department's weekly report listed gold imports from Germany "unrefined bullion" worth $40.

Story behind the news: A German refugee entered Baltimore with the gold in spare false teeth. He was separated from the spares and given a $40 check.

Steals Car to Get

Cake, Is Arrested

FALLS CITY, NEB. — Ralph Beachy blames his taste for grandma's spiced cakes for getting him into trouble. The 18-year-old Kansas City youth, arrested on an auto theft charge, explained to officers he didn't mean to steal a car—he just wanted to steal a cake.

Ape Colony Like Modern Business

Group Has a President and Vice President.

HUMACAO, PUERTO RICO.—The monkeys that are most like men under an economic system much similar to modern business corporations run by human beings. They are headed by a president. In the president's absence his job is taken over by a first vice president.

This evidence that our business system may have its start back in the treetsops ages ago was revealed on Monkey island, which lies a quarter mile out in the Atlantic ocean from this little town on Puerto Rico's eastern coast. Dr. C. R. Carpenter, famous primatologist, who has been living among and studying the world's only eugenic monkey colony.

These monkeys are the Rhesus type. Because they are the most like men, they are preferred for scientific experiments. All pure specimens, they were brought to the island by the School of Tropical Medicine of San Juan in conjunction with Columbia university, and are maintained under controlled conditions intended to keep them free of disease.

The biggest herd in the colony is headed, Dr. Carpenter discovered, by a husky male known as "No. 160." All the other monkeys toe the line when he is around. He gets first chance at whatever food is available. Wherever "160" goes another big male, known as "174," goes along. Now "174" always keeps an eye on "160." Whatever "160" indicates is the thing to do "174" does. Consequently, the doctor said, he was not surprised when he learned that "174" was the first vice president of "160's" firm. This was proved by locking up "160" and seeing who would take his place at the head of the herd. And "174" did, and was accepted without a sign of dissatisfaction.

Kills Self With Dynamite

After Quarrel With Wife

BOULDER, COLO.—George Schmitz, 22 years old, blew himself to bits with six sticks of dynamite as the climax of a domestic quarrel. His 17-year-old wife, her parents and two policemen watched the suicide. One policeman lost his right hand in the blast, which wrecked the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Smith, parents of Schmitz's wife, and damaged a nearby church and residence. Physicians said the Patrolman Frank Devoss, 25, might die of his injuries. Patrolman Myron Tegarden, 41, was injured slightly and Mrs. Schmitz and her parents were shaken, police said.

The young couple have been living in Denver but came here recently after a quarrel, according to police. Attempts at reconciliation had failed and Schmitz came to the Smith home armed with the six sticks of dynamite and a battery and switch. Schmitz threatened to blow up the entire family, the police report said. While his wife argued with him, her father called police and the two patrolmen responded. They joined members of the family in trying to disarm Schmitz, but he finally shouted, "I'll blow you all up," and exploded the dynamite.

Iowan Falls Ten Floors;

Lives to Tell About It

DES MOINES.—Keith Bown of Charlton, Iowa, who tumbled 130 feet from an eleventh floor hotel window to the hood of a parked automobile in the street below and lived to tell about it, has been dismissed from the hospital.

Physicians said he still had a fractured leg and an arm in casts, but in a few weeks will be "as good as ever." Bown fell on May 11.

Doctors said Bown's brain concussion that resulted from a small fracture had "entirely cleared up."

Surgeons Shift Heart

Of 7-Week-Old Infant

ANN ARBOR, MICH.—University hospital surgeons said today that a 10-week-old infant whose heart was moved from the right to the left side was recovering and gaining weight normally.

The delicate operation was performed three weeks ago, surgeons said, on Elneda Baumann, the daughter of Theodore R. Baumann of Hope, Mich. The child was under an anesthetic for more than an hour.

Surgeons said a misplacement of the intestines, due to an opening at birth in the upper part of the diaphragm, collapsed the infant's left lung and pushed the heart to the right side.

Improving Health Of Low-Income Families

Improving the health of low-income families is one of the objectives of the Farm Security Administration in its rehabilitation program which this year includes 317 families in Chilton County.

In this connection Marvin Durbin, county supervisor for the FSA, reports that 242 sanitary toilets were built on farms occupied by these families during 1940. All FSA families now have a sanitary privy.

"The importance of a safe water supply and effective screening cannot be stressed too much," said Mr. Durbin. "Good water is essential to health and, along with screening, is a basic step in our fight against typhoid, dysentery, malaria, and other diseases born by water and insects. Such diseases, by their prevalence and long duration, have greatly reduced the ability of a large percentage of our rural families to make a living."

In this county last year 20 wells used by rehabilitation families were dug or repaired, with the new wells being located after consideration of distance from the house and barn lot, so they will be convenient and reduce labor, and with respect to drainage so the water will not become contaminated."

Mr. Durbin also pointed out that keeping the premises clean was emphasized as a factor in protecting the health of the family, as well as adding to the attractiveness of the surroundings. This has been followed up in many instances by planting of flowers, shrubs and grass about the house, and others who have not yet improved their places in this manner plan to do so.

In connection with the sanitation activities of the FSA, which are carried out in general cooperation with the local county health unit, borrowers are shown the best methods of handling milk and other foods so the health of the family may be safeguarded.

L. & N. Business Barometer

Total cars handled by the L. & N. Railroad in August 1940 registered 80.8 per cent of normal on its Business Barometer, a gain of 52 points over the same month last year, according to the September 1940 issue of the L. & N. Employees' Magazine. It was also a fraction gain over the month of July, 1940 (80.3 per cent).

Total cars handled in the first eight months of this year registered 82.3 per cent of normal on the Business Barometer—a gain of 12.6 points over the same period in 1939 (69.7 per cent).

326,000 Alabamians Within Draft Ages

Washington.—A state-by-state estimate of the number of men of draft age was issued by the Census Bureau showing a total of 16,400,000 nation.

New York, of course, led with 1,835,000 men of 21 and over. Other states in order included Pennsylvania, 1,590,000; Illinois, 1,080,000; Florida, 964,000; and Ohio, 879,000. These estimates were not completed 1940 census figures, but preliminary total tabulations of state and upon 1930 figures, corrections made for deaths and migrations.

Estimates by states showed Alabama, 326,000; Arkansas, 239,000; Georgia, 317,000; Louisiana, 296,000; Mississippi, 255,000; North Carolina, 403,000; South Carolina, 194,000; Tennessee, 338,000; Virginia, 340,000.

Persistence and Patience Works Miracle for Girl

Kept in Dark Room by Mute Mother; Educators Do Great Job.

COLUMBUS, OHIO. — "Look-look! Watch me skate!" commanded a chubby figure in a green cotton frock and a wee, man tailored jacket that its owner proudly calls "my little tweed coat"—just before she swished down the entrance drive to the hospital.

And her visitors did watch the spring sprite on skates—marveling at the miracle that time, patience, persistence and understanding guidance have wrought. For the tiny girl was Annabelle Barton, eight years old, of Mount Vernon, Ohio, patient in Children's hospital at Columbus, Ohio, who 17 months before had never uttered more than five syllables—had never ventured from the dark room wherein she and her mute mother made their home—had never taken more than a few steps on her piteously barrel-bowed legs.

Trudging up the slope she came on her rollers, the successful results of two corrective operations quite apparent in her sturdy legs.

Trusting and Social.

"Stay and watch me skate," she begged, tossing her fair hair out of her blue-gray eyes that clouded with concern when she noticed that we were sitting on the cold cement, waiting for her to reach the end of her climb. "You'll catch cold," she warned. "You'd better get up."

Annabelle, the hospital's most obedient boarder, is the pet of the staff. And, as a return compliment for the attention that she attracts, Annabelle has decided to become a nurse.

"When I grow up," she repeated with emphasis, "that's what I'll be—a nurse."

Annabelle delights in singing or whistling nursery rhymes and hymns, encircling the playroom rug innumerable times to the strains of martial music and practicing the piano.

In the beginning, of course, it was a constant drumming of words and their relations to objects into her untuned ears by the kind Mrs. K. Mason and Dr. G. Oscar Russell, both of Ohio State university's speech department, in an effort to ascertain whether she could hear, whether she could talk.

Then when inquisitive Annabelle reached the "what is it and why" stage her learning became as thrilling to hospital staff members as baby's first sentences are to his parents.

Educators Take Hold.

What stimulated the metamorphosis of Annabelle? you may ask. The answer lies with a group of intelligent, sympathetic educators from Ohio State university, including Miss Mason, Dr. Russell, Dr. Francis N. Maxfield of the psychology department and several student teachers, as well as the hospital attaches.

"Almost everybody around here has taught Annabelle something," surmised Miss Janson.

At the present Annabelle is wrinkling her brow over the three rudiments of elementary education—"readin', 'ritin', and 'rithmetic."

She is busy, too, acquiring the little niceties and courtesies of conventional living that she hitherto had ignored.

Annabelle has made remarkable progress in this rehabilitation program. Her mental age lingers but one-half year under normal level and her associates consider that but little short of phenomenal.

Crack Jokes on Knuckles, And Take the Rap for It

TUJUANA, MEXICO.—It cost two Los Angeles deaf-mutes $50 each to "crack jokes on the knuckles" before Francisco Dominguez, chief of the federal traffic police.

The youths were arrested on a reckless driving charge. They engaged in animated finger talk before Dominguez.

Said one: "These cops are dumb. We won't have to pay any money."

"So?" said Dominguez, "cracking jokes on the knuckles, eh? That will cost you $50 each."

The chief, it seems, knows the language of mutes.

Stolen Dollar Returned After 14 Years' Lapse

SPokane.—Fourteen years ago a boy stole $1 from the Sunday school funds of the Westminster Congregational church.

Early this year the boy's Sunday school teacher, J. S. Buchholz, reported the youth—since grown into a man—had returned the $1 because the theft preyed upon his conscience. With it was a quarter he had stolen from Buchholz himself.

Buchholz kept the quarter and turned the $1 over to the church's missionary fund.

Just Dazed

PHILADELPHIA.—Mrs. Wilberta Henry's automobile stalled, so she asked her husband to give it a push. Henry pushed. The car went forward, shot across the street, knocked a parked automobile onto the sidewalk and sheared the steps off a state liquor store. Mrs. Henry was unhurt, just dazed.

CUTTING FIREWOOD

"Laying-by" time is a good time for "laying-in" a supply of winter firewood on the farm, according to County Agent, Mr. Pat H. Smith and James H. Wood, Superintendent of the CCC Camp Area near Clanton, Ala.

It was pointed out that since there are not so many things to do on a farm between laying-by time and harvest time, farm labor can often be fruitfully employed in cutting firewood and girdling worthless hardwoods too large or too limby to be used for firewood.

However, they point out that it is not desirable to cut pines. The main danger of working in pine stands at this time of the year is the possibility of creating an infestation of pine beetles.

When it is necessary to cut stovewood or cordwood it is recommended that all pine brush and slashings be removed from the stand. Otherwise, beetles will be attracted by the scent of resin and will lagr move from the dying branches to the living trees, where they are likely to destroy the entire remaining stand.

A good way to use the brush is on gullied places as a mulch. There it will dry and cease to be a hazard to the living trees.

REVIEWS and PREVIEWS

By Irvin Lande

There has been some concern among national leaders over the American tendency to emotionalism. There also has been much apprehension concerning American loss of moral courage. These leaders are, it seems, afraid that the American people will not be willing to defend this country if they have to.

The pictures, both visual and verbal emanating from Poland, Holland, Belgium, Norway, and France, after the fall of those countries, have been horrible consequences. We are training inspire one to hate war with all one's heart. Yet, we Americans, today, are coming face-to-face with the same horrible consequences. We are training American youth in the art of warfare, we are proposing to commandeer industry, and we are rebuilding the implements of war of this country.

Only recently, a British refugee ship carrying civil refugees from Britain was torpedoed and sunk six hundred miles out on the storm-tossed Atlantic ocean. The loss of life mounted to 293 with 83 children included. The Berlin authorities said that the story was merely a "tear jerker" aimed at bringing the United States into the war.

A story of that type has both the possibilities of creating heated anger or total fear. The former is usually created first; the latter last. Organizations throughout the United States since the outbreak of the war in Europe have been trying to cause anti-war feeling. And now these organizations which were so potent before actual American safety was involved are now trying to assure all possible aid to Britain to prevent American blood being spilled on the ravages of war.

Thus, we can see quite well that the question is not one of attempting to go into war of our own volition, but that the question is one of accepting either full and uncompromising submission to totalitarian authority and becoming enslaved and subjugated, or rather facing the horrors of war and emerging free men again.

Those national leaders are afraid that the American people, totally against war that has no purpose, will become indifferent to the national defense program, and will forget their responsibility in these trying times.

Let us look back into the past for a minute. There is an old saying that if one ignores the lessons of the past, he will be doomed to repeat them. Therefore, for our guidance, let us see how much matters were dispensed with in the history of our world, whether that history be relatively current or anticipated.

We need not go far in our own history to see whether in the past our forefathers were willing to sacrifice their lives and their petty pleasures in the interest of freedom or not. We can find evidence of that in every war in which Americans fought. The Civil War of 1861, the Spanish-American, the Mexican, the War for Independence, were all fought to preserve high ideals of life and liberty. But let us look for a moment at some other country—another land which had to make the same decisions.

The example of such a country is, undoubtedly, the ill-fated nation of France. The French people were democratic, cultured, and didn't care who knew it. But they had the unfortunate experience of not being interested in their government. They thought that they were safe behind the Maginot Line, just as Americans are wont to think that we are safe behind the Atlantic Ocean. The French people left their destiny up to their leaders who, being more interested in themselves than in their country, betrayed them for favors from Berlin. On the battle fields, the French were ill-equipped and thus were easily routed. France was morally weak, materially deficient. The French people had neither the courage nor the strength to stand up against the troubles of their day. That is something hard to say about one of the greatest nations in the world, but it is true, and we must admit it. Now France is ruled from Berlin. All the nation's people are enslaved and hungry. Their freedom is gone; their justice is gone; and moreover, their hope is gone.

We Americans are rapidly approaching that stage where we must decide once and for all if we will submit to it if we shall fight back heroically and oppression without raising a hand, or victoriously. Unfortunately, we know that we shall have to make that decision. But we can almost be sure that the American people will accept those colossal words of Patric Henry, that they will be willing to sacrifice all in the defense of their honor, their freedom, and their way of life.

The Junior G. A. met with Warren Wingard last Thursday. We sang some songs. Warren Wingard gave the devotional. The program was then started by Sara Alice Rasberry. Those who attended were: Sara Alice Rasberry, Frances Simpson, Marilyn Bean, Sally Gowan, Martha Wingard, Gwendolyn Atkinson, Bobbie Bryson, Dalene King, and Mary Lee Gray.

The next meeting will be with Dalene King Thursday, Sept. 26 at 3:30.

Sardis Singing Date

Changed To Second Sunday

The singing society has changed their singing evening from the second Sunday to the first Sunday evening. Bro. Weaver will be with us everybody remember the date and come.

Bro. B. Lawrence will be with us next Sunday at eleven o'clock so everybody be on time for Sunday School. Come and hear the message he has for us.

Remember the first Sunday is our regular preaching day. There will be preaching on the first Saturday night also. Bro. Weaver is our pastor for another year.

We still have B. Y. P. U. every Sunday night. We need the interest of all the young people. We invite all who will to come out and join us.

No Tokens; Goody, Goody, Listen To This

From the Age-Herald:

Manufacturers are not able to furnish Alabama with tax tokens at the present time because so much aluminum, the metal from which they are made, is being used in the nation defense program, according to information received here Thursday.

J. W. Tipton, comptroller of Louis Pizitz Dry Goods Company, said he was told by D. N. Hamilton, chief of the tobacco tax division of Alabama, that manufacturers did not know when they could furnish more tokens, due to the vast consumption of aluminum in the defense program. Tipton has charge here of distributing the tokens in the district.

FOLKS and THINGS ABOUT TOWN

Mayor-Elect, Cohen E. Stapp, and four councilmen will take their oaths on the City Council on the 7th of October, which is next Monday. Three new members of the governing body are: James Wade, John Jones and Otto Jones. The two members who had no opposition were Gaddy Heflin and L. E. Diefenbach. Much is expected of our new Mayor and Councilmen and the News the best to them.

As well as paths plays its part in the scheme of things, even in Court. A few days ago a negro girl appeared before the office of the Circuit Clerk asking that a warrant be sworn for her husband, who had badly beaten her up the night before. The usual questions followed and the answers were given by the officer. The time the husband was put in the jail and remained for several months until bond was made. The following morning after his release the girl appeared at the office again asking the clerk if the "papers" be for her. When questioned as to how long she and her husband stayed separated, the answer was "they stayed separated as long as in jail."

Full Term of Circuit Court really got on some business the past two weeks. Nine cases were not-prosecuted, both appealed; eight convicted and accepted sentences, and who were convicted, "paid off."

It is believed it or not today (Thursday) New Year. Another year has passed and Rosh Hoshanah (New Year) is here again. It is a day of feasting and the local owned stores are closed today. Lemon, Parisian, The Dollar and Levine's. Next week comes Kippur, Day of Atonement. This day of fasting. The date, Saturday, October 12th.

Many stayed away from the carnivals in crowds. We wonder really was the weather, or are not getting wise to the fact that they have got up the necks and the community and give anything in return for them.

Clanton County Hi vs. Maplesville. The football schedule for the Friday night at the New Light. Old Jimmie Bell down the line tore got the wise idea of tore out lineup cards each week greatly assist in keeping up with boys and men. Jimmy should get a vote of thanks for contributing any card each week. Ask for it.

Don't be long now. Wednesday, October 16, is registration day. Draft Registration Boards, Advisory Medical Boards Appeal Boards will be named and the machine- fast getting into motion to handle twelve million who are expected to register that day. I'm just until they make a mistake in too many Boards and call one a Service Board. That's the want to serve on.

Willkie's Campaign For President Gets Off To Poor Start In Clanton

In spite of much balladry and baloney, Willkie's "Caravan of Democracy" played to practically empty stands at the Clanton County High School Football Field last Saturday afternoon.

The crowd that was there showed little enthusiasm and the crowd that was not there plainly showed that the office of the President of these United States is far to dignified and important in these perilous times to pay any attention to a "sideshow."

If Willkie expects to carry Alabama or any other State in the Union, Saturday meeting here showed that he will certainly have to change his tactics.

The meeting started off with a "bang" but the bang was the small fire crackers that they threw into the air to let the populace know that they were in town and the curtain was about to go up.

We are far from being an authority on politics but from where we are standing it looks like Mr. Willkie is playing in a league a little out of his class.

The meeting started off with a "bang" but the bang was the small fire crackers that they threw into the air to let the populace know that they were in town and the curtain was about to go up.

DIXON NAMES DRAFT BOARDS FOR COUNTIES

Probate Judges, Sheriffs And Circuit Clerks Of 67 Counties Named

The second of Clanton's two Draft Boards were named Tuesday by Gov. Dixon. Members of this Board are Frank Callon, Joe Callaway and Loren Smith, all of Clanton.

All young men whose ages are within the bracket of 21 to 35 years will be called on to register on Wednesday, October 16th.

Places of registration will be at the various voting places over the County and election officials will serve.

If you are not a qualified voter then you will register in the precinct in which you live.

Following is a letter naming the Clanton County Board that will be in charge of registration in this County:

Dear Sir: As you already know, in consequence of the enactment of the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940, the President has issued a proclamation, designating the 16th day of October, 1940, as Registration Day, for the inauguration of the Selective Service System, by which additional members of the armed forces of the nation will be provided. On that date, all male residents of the United States of the ages of 21 through 35, inclusive, have been directed to present themselves for registration at the polling places at which they vote, or would vote if voters.

The National Selective Service Regulations, and the State plan, provide that this important duty of registration, which is the basis of the successful functioning of the Selective Service plan, shall be performed by the personnel of the election organization of the State. The Probate Judge, the Sheriff, and the Clerk of the Circuit Court of your County, are, therefore, hereby appointed as a board to take charge of the registration in your County for Selective Service, pursuant to detailed instructions contained herein, or furnished later.

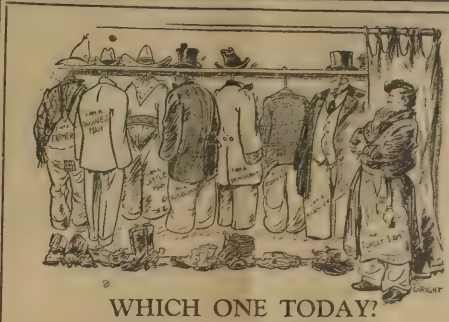

General Ben M. Smith has been designated by me as State Director for the Selective Service System in Alabama, with State Headquarters at 300 Dexter Avenue, Montgomery, Alabama, and you will receive detailed information and instructions from the headquarters from time to time, as to the manner of conducting the registration.

I know that I can depend on your earnest and full cooperation in this great undertaking to the end that we may have a complete registration in Alabama in this important step towards improving our National Defense.

Yours very sincerely, Frank M. Dixon, Governor

DEEP SOUTH AT THORSBY. The Deep South quartet of Birmingham will be in concert here on Friday night Oct. 11 at 8:00 o'clock.

They are all single and within the Draft age limit. So come on out and hear them as we never know when one or all may be called to the colors, and may be your last opportunity to hear and see them in person. This concert is sponsored by the P.-T. A. and will be held at the Thorsby Jr. High School. We especially invite other communities and all candidates to cooperate and be here that night. They will have an entirely different program from any they've put on in the county.

APPLICATIONS FOR CPT COURSE ENCOURAGED

Clanton Urged To Be Prepared When Units Are Awarded

Chairman of the Clanton Airport Committee, Dr. V. J. Gragg, is in receipt of the following letter from Asa Rountree, Jr., State Director of Airport Development:

Dear Doctor Gragg: Although the Civil Aeronautics Administration has not yet announced the award of flight units to the Clanton Airport, I feel that Clanton is well prepared to receive them.

In order for Clanton to be prepared when allocating the units, I would like to suggest that the airport committee begin taking action on the CAA has not yet released conditions for the non-aviation phase of the program but I am advised that they will be the same as those for the aviation phase. The maximum for a non-aviation unit is 10 to 26.

It will require a ground school of 10 to 26 to secure 10 flight scholarships. This is the maximum for a non-aviation unit. Eight scholarships will be awarded on the basis of competitive written examinations at the close of the ground school courses. The ten highest will be awarded the scholarships.

The CAA will pay the full cost of flight training for each trainee. Just as soon as further details are received I will immediately advise you. Meanwhile, let me again urge you to proceed with registrations so as to be ready to operate the CPT Program when it is awarded Clanton.

Yours sincerely, Asa Rountree, Jr., State Director of Airport Development.

Prospective students and others interested in this subject should see or communicate with Dr. Gragg at once.

Rally Day At Clanton Methodist Church Sunday

To rally means to recover strength or vigor and to improve in value. Next Sunday, October 6, 1940, is Rally Day for Methodism. The Clanton Methodist Church officials wish and pray for a record attendance and a real and lasting rallying for our church. May each and every member also pray.

There will be a special Rally Day program at 9:45 Sunday morning in the Clanton Methodist church auditorium, after which the different classes will go to their respective class rooms. This program will take the place of the individual class devotions. The program is as follows:

- Hymn No. 162—Marching With the Heroes.
- Scripture—Mrs. George Farr.
- Prayer—Rev. J. L. Daniel.
- Selection by the Quartet.
- Talk—Mr. Stapp.
- Selection by Junior Choir.
- Closing Hymn, No. 85—Onward Christian Soldiers (2 stanzas).
- Morning worship service 11:00.
- Evening worship service 7:30 p. m.
- Preaching by pastor at both services.
- Young Peoples Division will meet at 6:45 p. m.

CLANTON MEETS MAPLESVILLE FRIDAY NIGHT

Pet Parade Between Halves Will Feature Grid Contest

The second game of Clanton Trier under the home light will take place Friday night Oct. 4 at 7:30 o'clock. Maplesville High School will offer the opposition and a good game is assured. These two teams always play a good game regardless of what other games and scores have been.

A special feature of the foot ball game Friday night is to be a pet parade between the halves. Any boy or girl wishing to enter a cat, dog, pony, horse, calf or any other pet in this parade will be admitted to the foot ball game free. A committee of judges will decide which of these pets make the best appearance. The contestants will be judged on beauty, cleverness in presentation costume, and ornaments.

Three prizes will be given $3.00, $2.00 and $1.00 for winners.

Clanton County to be in Soil Conservation District. An attempt is being made to have Clanton County included in the National Soil Conservation District. At Clanton, the State Soil Conservation Committee is in session now, and it is expected that the district will be established.

In an attempt to have all the landowners in Clanton County, the State Soil Conservation Committee is holding a series of meetings. The purpose of these meetings is to have the landowners sign a petition to have the district established.

Landowners will decide whether or not they want the district established. The proposed National Soil Conservation District is being established.

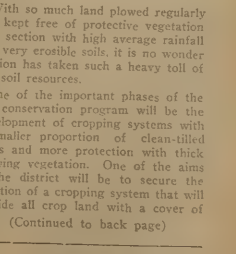

If this district is established, it will be the first in Alabama. The district will be established in Clanton County.

One of the major causes of erosion in Alabama is the cropping system so generally practiced. Cotton, corn and other clean-tilled row crops, all of which are conducive to erosion, take up over three-fourths of our total crop land.

With so much land plowed regularly and kept free of protective vegetation in a section with high average rainfall and very erodible soil, it is no wonder erosion has taken such a heavy toll of our soil resources.

One of the important phases of the soil conservation program will be the development of cropping systems with a smaller proportion of clean-tilled crops and more protection with thick growing vegetation. One of the aims in the district will be to see the adoption of a cropping system that will provide all crop land with a cover of

SPEND THE DAY PARTY

On last Tuesday morning the telephone operator was kept busy by Circle No. 3. I mean by those who had cars. They were calling all members to be ready to go out to Mrs. P. T. Hinkle, for an old-fashioned spend-the-day. By eleven o'clock you could have seen different ones going in with covered dishes. At noon 18 members were present. Mr. and Mrs. Davis, Mrs. J. P. Hayes and Mrs. Billmeyer visiting. All were seated in the living room and Bro. Davis asked God's blessings on the food and all present. Then Mrs. W. H. Foshee led the way into the kitchen, dinner was served buffet style. We seated around the dining table and card tables that were set up for the occasion. For a time all was quiet. Now you've guessed why. We had chicken pie, boiled ham, fried chicken, salad, cake and pie, we were just too busy to talk. After dinner each took their chair out to the spacious front porch and everybody talked. (At once) Really we had a wonderful time. I hope the same ones are in the same circle together next year.

Letters To The Editor

To The Editor:

About a month ago the County Democratic Nominees and representatives of the State and National Nominees, unanimously elected me to serve as Chairman of the democratic Campaign Committee in Chilton County for the November election.

Recently I called a meeting of the County Democratic Nominees, and the representatives of the State and National Nominees and suggested that some one else serve as chairman. After much deliberation, I told those in attendance at the meeting that I would accept the Chairmanship for the campaign in November, provided I had the assurance that I might direct the policies of the campaign.

It is my desire to see a clean campaign conducted, and I assure every citizen of Chilton County that I will do my best to direct a clean campaign, and a clean election in November.

I appeal to both Democrats and Republicans for their aid in seeing that we have a clean campaign, and clean election officials named for the November election.—C. E. Stapp

City Of Thorsby Begins Rat Campaign

In a meeting with the Mayor and Council of Thorsby, Alabama, Thursday night, September 26 approval was given for a rat control campaign in Thorsby. This is to be a WPA Project supervised by the County Health Department and the only cost to the City being the purchase of bait and poison not to exceed $50.00. Traps will be loaned to the City to carry on the campaign.

The value of the project according to Dr. Andrew Pericola, of the State Health Department, in economic benefit alone would justify the project. One rat alone costs the community $2.50 per year.

As there is an added danger of Typhus Fever which is only transmitted by the rat flea this project is a benefit to community health.

Horse Trailing Is Easy,

He Says, and Proves It
OKLAHOMA CITY, OKLA.—Feature of many western stories has been the superhuman ability of a "natural born" woodsman to trail a horse. But E. G. Cooper, deputy sheriff, doesn't think it's such a difficult task.

Called to solve a horse thief case at the farm of Ray Hanson, he discovered tracks leading from the Hanson pasture to a nearby road. He followed them six miles and learned the horse thief had transferred the horse to a truck.

From a farmer he obtained a good description of the truck. It was a simple job of detective work to find the truck and arrest the man who had rented it for the horse hauling job.

Horse trailing is difficult only when the horse crosses a concrete road or comes to an intersection, said Cooper.

Block of Stamps Prized

Because of Many Errors
PORTLAND, MAINE.—A $2 purchase has brought John R. Cameron a small fortune in stamps.

Already he has been offered several hundred dollars for the sheet of John Adams two-cent stamps that has "everything wrong with it."

The sheet lacks mucilage and varies in color. The sheet looks as though the printer had pasted the last end of one roll to the start of another, with one row of stamps under the overlapping paper.

Woman Returning To China Recounts Narrow Escape

Faces Firing Squad Three Times, Is Kidnaped And Bombed.

PASADENA. — Mrs. John Kilen, missionary in China for 15 years, who faced a Chinese firing squad three times in two weeks, was kidnaped for 23 days, and was bombed and machine-gunned for two years, is going back to China. Mrs. Kilen admits that she is going back because she has become accustomed to danger but she believes she is needed in China, the drone of an airplane and her hands clutch nervously.

It took her 25 days to reach Shanghai from Tsaoayang, which is a missionary district, to sail for furlough at home.

"The first two days of the journey," she said, "were in mule-hauled wheelbarrows. Then came a flat, springless cart that carried 300 miles from our Lushan mission. The rest of the trip was in train and boat, which was a faster."

Kidnaped by Bandits.
Mrs. Kilen was kidnaped by Yang Ren, a Chinese chief who led Tsaoayang with an army of 100 looters.

As she and a newly married American couple tried to escape the young man, who was also a missionary, was shot down and his wife was wounded.

When the bandits tried to drag the wounded woman away, Mrs. Kilen offered to go in her place. She taken without even being given a chance to administer to the wounded man.

an. She was put on a horse and rode with a bandit for 23 days. Sometimes she had no food or water. For two days had nothing to drink. The American legation sought the Chinese government's aid in finding her. Marshal Wu Pei Fu's soldiers were sent for her. Heing her for the army attack bandits. He decided to shoot her, she was taken before a firing squad.

Talks Way Out of Death.
Asking that she might be allowed to write a letter to her daughter in the United States before she was asked by the bandits she would say in her letter.

"All I was shot by bandits she replied.

They thought it over and do not to shoot her just then. more times during the day, how she was placed before the firing squad, but each time she was to give them serious food reflection, and finally they decided to let her go. She was taken to Marshal Wu Pei Fu's camp.

For the past two years she been under almost constant bombing and machine-gunning from planes at Tsaoayang.

"For the entire past year," said, "the city of some 25,000 inhabitants has been on the battle Chinese have dug furrows all around and plowed up China slow the Japanese military attachments, which made my future from there none too speedy.

Despite the constant bombing Tsaoayang for the two years, Kilen never left the city but stayed.

Porky Takes It On The Lamb, but Not For Long

DRAPER, VA.—"Porky" who whose pet by the McGee family when she was a lamb settled for life with other sheep her life down to a ewe's responsibilities.

Placed in pasture with sheep, Porky would always run to the house for a frolic with children and the puppy. One day, then another, took her to the fields in the hope of making her own kind, and still wouldn't stay put.

Finally the owner took her mountain pasture where there no children or puppies to bother her. There she found some she liked. The farmer said when Porky had a lamb, but his consternation when he returned the house for some cow's "Twins," he explained.

A few minutes later he was cried. "Porky has triplets."

Work, Even to Sky

LACKAWANNA, N. Y.—Nand Catuzza may be the dog catcher of this city, but his report, filed recently, that he isn't particular as to his quarry has four feet.

His report credits him with "lecting" 207 cats, one goat, pigs, one fox, nine skunks, weasels, in addition to 423 dogs.

Boy Aims at 'Big Hawk' And Kills Golden Eagle

BELOIT, KAN.—Bob Fuller, hunting with his 22 rifle, said what he thought was a large hawk sitting in a tree. Fuller took aim and fired. A bird fell from the tree and he found he had killed, not a hawk, a golden eagle with a wing of seven feet.

Weren't you thrilled by the description of your wedding that your local Newspaper published?

No event in a woman's life is quite so important as her wedding.

Her local Newspaper recognizes this fact, and never fails to report the event accurately and fully.

Which shows—as one of many instances—how closely the local Newspaper comes in personal touch, and almost daily or weekly enters, with its chronicles, the life of every man, woman and child in the community in which it circulates.

Your Newspaper announces your arrival into the world, your graduation from high school and college, your engagement, your marriage, your entry into business, all your notable achievements, and, finally, it publishes only kindly things in your obituary.

Your Newspaper helps individuals to develop their instincts for leadership, for creative work in the arts and letters, for humanitarian service, by giving them a medium for expression, by reporting the things they do.

The Newspaper is tremendously important personally to every American citizen. It enriches his life, makes his daily experience fuller and more complete.

Without any Newspaper, his existence would be dull indeed.

Five Murder of A Whistling Swan
Mystery Cleared Up After Two-Year Probe.

WASHINGTON.—Government records usually are dry tomes, but records of the biological survey tell the story of the murder of the whistling swan that tumbled their agents for years.

The whistling swan had been shot on the edge of a marsh near Monroeville. Living near the marsh were two men—Albert ("Peanut") Dutton and Henry ("Mud") Dutton, whom officers suspected.

Effort to pin something on two men was stymied. If the men were guilty of killing the swan, they now appeared to be innocent from punishment.

The immunity of Lazette and Dutton appeared to be perpetual. Blood between them and two others was too far and the feud was to the attention of officers.

The feud was climaxed, when Sid and Charles Duvall, the two others, turned state's evidence and delivered to survey agents. Agents charging that Lazette and Dutton had killed the swan on the night of April 10, 1939, near the Duttons.

With that evidence in their hands, agents took the accused men into custody and arraigned them before U. S. Commissioner Stanley at Detroit last October 5. Both were not guilty at that time, but they changed his plea to guilty days later.

Weird Fight of Blind Ants and Negroes Is Told Insect Army Acts as Unit; Crave Raw Flesh, Dead or Alive.

WASHINGTON.—A weird, fierce battle in the sultry blackness of a night between an army of 100,000 of big, black ants and a heroic squad of Negro boys, some of whom were painfully injured, is described by Dr. William M. Mann, director of the National Zoological park of the Smithsonian institution, in a program just received here from Liberia.

Dr. Mann is leading the Smithsonian-Firestone expedition into the Liberian back country, in search of rare animals, birds and reptiles for the national collection.

The battle in the forest depths might well be a preliminary to an eventual life-and-death struggle between man and insect for mastery of the planet, as predicted by some philosophers. The expedition had fixed its camp for the night, Dr. Mann says.

Ants Strike in Formation.
Almost without warning out of the blackness came the invaders. There were myriads of individuals in the advancing columns, black as the night itself. They came in regiment-like formation after regiment of black-uniformed troops, but their alignment and discipline was far nearer perfection than ever is attained by any army of men.

The sentries knew the nature of the attack. Such assaults are not uncommon in the Liberian back country and man has, as a rule, one perfect defense against them. He can run away from the slow-moving, precisely controlled column. Such a force will occasionally descend upon a house and is sometimes welcomed. The human occupants can leave while the ants drive over the mice, rats, lizards and other pests. Finally the invading ants can be destroyed with boiling water.

But no such way was open to Dr. Mann's sentries. The camp was of a type that must not be abandoned. They stood their ground. The fierce, biting and stinging insects swarmed all over them, up the legs of their trousers, under their shirts, over their faces. They came in seemingly unending files. While details of the struggle are lacking in Dr. Mann's brief cable, he says that some of the boys were very badly bitten and stung.

Huns of Insect World.
It was an army of driver ants, similar in many respects to the legionary ants of South America, but even more vicious. They are, say Smithsonian entomologists, the Huns of the insect world. Very little is actually known about them. An army consists of hundreds of thousands of individuals. Among them are some of the largest of all ants. The males are approximately two inches in length and the queens slightly less. They, however, are harmless. The fighters are the workers, ranging from the vicious, flesh-tearing soldiers nearly an inch in length to less vicious and smaller forms with all sorts of duties.

An attack by one of these armies seems to be directed by an uncanny intelligence. So far as known, there is no single directing brain. The whole army moves as if it were a single organism, every movement apparently perfectly co-ordinated. They have an insatiable appetite for raw flesh, living or dead. They cannot endure, so far as is known, the rays of the sun. Hence their operations are always in darkness, or on very cloudy days.

Thorsby, Ala.—The Eleventh Annual meeting of the Alabama Conference of the Congregational Christian Churches of Thorsby Institute, Thorsby, Alabama, of which the Reverend John B. Gonzales is pastor, on October 11-12, 1940.

The Registration will begin at 11:00 o'clock Friday morning. At noon there will be lunch served in the Fellowship hall. At 1:00 o'clock the opening devotions will be led by Dr. A. V. Dyer, pastor of the Pilgrim Congregational Church, Birmingham, Alabama. After a business session there will be a Forum on "The Problems of the Local Church" conducted by the retiring moderator, W. A. Redfield, Dean of Southern Union College, Wadley, Ala. At the same time there will be a meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society under the charge of Mrs. F. P. Tatum. Also at the same time, Miss Marguerite Davidson will have charge of the Pilgrim Fellowship. At 5:30 o'clock in Thorsby Institute Dining hall, a fellowship supper will be served. At which time the Reverend Douglas Horton, D. D. will speak. The Principal address will be given by Reverend Douglas Horton at 8:30 o'clock. Dr. Horton holds the most important position in the Congregational denomination. He and his wife have recently completed a tour of the world and he has written many articles about this tour emphasizing particularly the missionary work being done.

Saturday morning the session will begin at 8:30. Along with the scheduled program, there will be a pastor's conference. Reverend L. L. Stanley, former pastor of the Thorsby Congregational Church and now located at Loretto, Alabama, will lead the discussion on "What to Do and How to Do It." At the same time a Woman's Meeting will be held and then at 10:30 Dr. Howell D. Davies of Chicago, Ill., will give an address on "Stewardship." At 11:15 Reverend C. D. Hunt will give the Conference sermon. In the afternoon, Professor W. C. Edge will speak on "Educational Program in The Local Church." Miss Anna Campbell will speak on "Young People's Activities." The Junior choir of Thorsby, Alabama, will sing in the afternoon session and there will be various addresses and reports. Two offerings will be taken, one to aid in the necessary Conference expenses and the other for Ministerial Relief.

Bear Story From Down Thomasville Way

Thomasville (Clark County)—The news item Wiley Bagley goes to investigate pig squealing he's going to take a gun with him. Bagley was logging in the woods near McIver when he heard a pig squealing nearby. The people in that community had been missing their pigs for some time, and Bagley thought this was his opportunity to find out who the thief was. He made his way through the woods as quickly as he could and almost ran into the pig pen, a big black bear. The animal was carrying the pig in his arms, taking bites from it as he walked along. Bagley was genuinely frightened, fearing that bruin would prefer him to the pig. But the bear was frightened too, and ran off through the underbrush.

Graves Accuses GOP of Burlesque Tactics

Declares Democratic Party Serves Best Interests Of State, Nation And Mankind

Former Gov. Bibb Graves, in an address particularly praising the New Deal, declared Saturday night it was "to the best interest of our state and nation and to the best interest of all mankind" for Alabamians to support the Roosevelt-Wallace ticket in the Nov. 5 general election.

COL. BIBB GRAVES
Delivers ringing radio address, defending the New Deal, Saturday evening.

He spoke on a statewide radio hook-up under auspices of the State Democratic executive committee.

"In this campaign," he said, "the open party is using more dollars than sense," adding that in his opinion the Republicans were "trying to make the campaign a burlesque, with some kind of traveling street fair."

"A fundamental difference between our two political parties," he continued, "is shown by the difference in their practices toward agriculture and toward labor."

"Democracy cultivates and nourishes the roots. Republicanism lavishes its attention upon the blossoms. Democracy knows that in things that are living the sap rises from the roots and gives life and vigor, growth and fruit to the whole organism. Republicanism tries to put so much prosperity at the top that there will be some left over to trickle down...."

"I am appealing to the men and women of Alabama to support more Democratic ticket in our coming election, because I believe it is to our best interest to the best interest of our State and Nation and to the best interest of all mankind...."

"We know that the one way in which we can be of real force in our home governments is in an through the Democratic Party. So let's keep on keeping on in our place on the team, playing the game."

Sure To Win

"We know that our Democratic nominees for presidential electors will win and will cast Alabama's total vote for Roosevelt and Wallace. So let's not try to do an impossible thing ourselves nor lead others up a blind alley by trying to stop that which we know is coming."

"Surely it is to the best interest of the whole of Alabama that pur party continue in power in our Nation. We should remember that during the whole of this Roosevelt administration Alabama has been in fact as well as in name one of the sisterhood of States, a real member of the family with a seat at the first table."

"During four of those seven years I kept up the fight directly affecting our State and know that over and over guaranteed loans to such things as housing authorities there came out of our national treasury into Alabama some four hundred and eight millions of dollars, and that in the other three years of this seven we have received our generous share. These hundreds of millions have permeated our whole economic life, with both immediate and lasting benefits to all."

"They have made Alabama's cash registers ring sweet music to our business men."

"They relieved the suffering part of our people and at the same time saved the morale of the unemployed by giving them work to do, and their works will live after them. We have these works of all kinds and they are everywhere—buildings for our State, for our counties for hospitals and the insane, asylum-buildings for our grammar schools and high schools, our colleges and institutions of higher learning and armories for our National Guard. Let's not forget that but for the New Deal administration these things could not be."

Seven-Year Record

"During these seven years in which we have been really a part of the Nation, with the help of the Nation Alabama has made real progress in meeting its transportation problems. Look at our public roads, our free bridges and our enlarged port facilities and know that they could not have been but for the New Deal."

"Remember that it is in this administration that we have won our great victories in freight rate equalization."

"Government-made freight rate handicaps were keeping us an impoverished province for the economic benefit of the favored section. It was at the hands of an Interstate Commerce Commission the majority of which had been appointed by our President, that we are now getting justice for ourselves and for all."

"Remember that when we started this fight Alabama's industrial section was running at the lowest percentage of production of any iron and steel district in the whole country and that now the Birmingham district is producing at the highest percentage of all. The Pittsburgh plus handicap to Alabama could not last three months after our freight rate victory...."

"There would have been no industrial water for the Birmingham district but for the New Deal. Alabama owes all of these things to this national administration, and we should realize that in these as in all things our President is making our nation one united whole.

"During the New Deal there has been a marvelous growth in rural electrification...."

"Our banks are sound and prosperous and our depositors have been made secure by the New Deal."

"The great reduction in interest rates is a direct result of the New Deal."

"CCC camps are conserving our young manhood...."

"The National Youth Administration is developing the talents of worthy unfortunates...."

"The New Deal's aid to public health is better fitting all for the battles of life, whether in peace or war."

Foreclosures Held Off

"The New Deal has withheld the auctioneer's hammer from our homes both in city and country, through home loans and farm loans. It is making tenant farmers farm owners...."

"The New Deal is not suppressing or supplanting business but promoting it and protecting it from destructive monopoly...."

"The thinking business man realizes that here only is the profit motive maintained in the economic life of all, here in the land of the New Deal."

"The New Deal has secured to labor collective bargaining, representation by those of its own choosing, unemployment and old age insurance, reduction in child labor, effective public employment service, a floor for wages and a youth-aid scheme, and with all higher wages and better living conditions...."

"In Alabama the New Deal's greatest aid has come to agriculture...."

"The dollar value of Alabama's agricultural products was 88 per cent greater last year than seven years ago, its purchasing value was some 70 odd per cent greater. With flood control, forest care, soil erosion and soil building, crop diversification, agricultural experiments and agents, we are saving the land. Home economic agents are giving to rural life the full benefits of science and art as applied by our home makers...."

"When the New Deal began our national defenses were weaker in every way than they had been since the first world war, but in its first six years practically all these defenses had been almost doubled...."

"I don't argue, but I assert, that our international affairs are safest in the trained and trusted hands of Roosevelt and Hull...."

"We know Franklin D. Roosevelt. We know that he is the ablest and most devoted champion of free government by free people that there is today."

WHAT WE DON'T LIKE ABOUT WILLKIE

In another paragraph we have referred to some of the actions taken by Candidate Willkie that we approve. May we say that we think he gave us an index to his real philosophy when he came out in most vehement protest against the proposal to draft industry after giving approval to the proposal to draft men for our national defense. When any man places his love of money above his concern for his fellowman—that is the dollar above the man—then there is something wrong inside that man. We say conscript the man-power and thus place the responsibility alike on all classes. But we say also, if industry refuses to do its part so that our men may have the necessary equipment with which to fight this possible war of defense, then we say make it lawful to draft industry. Total defense means total cooperation and if any of these birds think they should make a profit while our sons and brothers give their life's blood, then we say teach them a lesson in cooperation by applying the draft to them.—The Andalusia Star.

Willkie Caravan of Democracy—Bloody! **

The tide of the "snow dodgers" now turns to the south. **

Walter Winchell and Wendell Willkie talk more and say less than any other two men in America. **

Just when we were fixing to come out strong for our fellow townsman for Congress he ups and quits the race. **

None of the boys who started it will be strong for our fellow townsman and the bombs are striking. **

Pessimism is getting ripe and possum and taters ain't far away. **

At long last the ups and downs are to be made easier for our older folks who visit the State Capitol. Contracts have been let to install two elevators. Thanks to whoever thanks are due. **

We believe that Gen. Hugh Johnson, former "Blue Eagle" mogul, has the biggest belly-ache of any person in the world. **

What the anti-third termers seem not to be able to remember, is that Thomas Jefferson died more than a hundred years ago, and wouldn't recognize the Government of the United States in action, as such, if he were to suddenly appear upon the scene. People who are living in the atmosphere of the days of Thomas Jefferson are just as out-of-date as the covered wagon and the ox cart. **

Our note: While we Americans are sending every type of munition to England to help her whip her enemies, she has cancelled her orders for American cotton and is getting her supplies from Africa, while Southern cotton farmers suffer. **

MORAL ECHOES

REV. D. W. HASKEW, D.D.

Not long ago the teller of a city bank cashed a large check and in counting out the change he gave one hundred dollars too much. The next morning the man receiving the money walked into the bank and asked, "How did you account for the money I received last night?" "Bad," replied the teller. "We were one hundred dollars short. The man plunked the money down saying, 'Here is your money, you gave it to me by mistake.' The teller seemed greatly surprised and commended the man's honesty. 'Why, there is no credit due me,' insisted the man, 'it is just a case of common honesty.' That may be true," remarked the teller. "But most men would have kept the money and said nothing about it." If you want to know whether you are honest, or dishonest, look at yourself under a like test. **

In Springfield, Ohio a man was attracted to his door by the crying of children. On looking out he saw Abraham Lincoln passing with two of his children in his arms, and each one was crying lustily. The man in the door shouted loud enough for Lincoln to hear above the yells of the kids—"Why Mr. Lincoln, what is the matter with the boys?" "Oh," said Lincoln, "just what is the matter with the whole world. I have two wheat and corn and the boys want wheat." It is the undue emphasis on the wants of No one, that causes trouble in homes, in schools, in towns, in nations and among nations. **

The other day I dug up two beautiful Cedar trees on a vacant lot next to my home. It was rather interesting to listen to the remarks the boys made by the passerby. One would say, "Doctor, just do not understand how you could dig up those beautiful trees." The next one coming along would remark, "Your place will look a lot more attractive with those trees not there to shut off the flowers and grounds." All day long I had to listen to remarks pro and con. On looking at it is not very hard to get a following, and to also meet the opposition, it matters not what a fellow is doing. Just to be honest, in my own heart I was saying, "Yes and No" to the felling of those beautiful trees. Our minds are biased by the way we look at things. I have long since decided that a fellow had better go on and do what he thinks to be right and let the world—"Say its say." **

While digging up those Cedar trees my colored helper was doing all the work. I stood around and had my say. Dozens of other men and women would stop and do nothing but comment and make suggestions to me and to the other chopping and digging. Not one ever turned a shovel of dirt, or cut a root.

It was free advice and free criticism. After all, that is a picture of the way the world wags today. There a few men going about their tasks in a knowing way. Some furnish brain and some furnish brawn. The rest of the world is milling by, commenting and criticizing and that is the full story of their gun. About all that is ever heard from many a person is how and what other people should be doing. The worth while citizen is that man who joins in with the progressive and helps to make his town better and more beautiful.

One day a traveler stopped in a western city, and while sitting in his car a well dressed cow boy rushed up to his car and looking at him in the open window said, "Mr. do you want to fight?" The man looked into his eyes as he caught his breath, thinking that his time had come. For a moment he gazed into that face and then smiling said, "No my boy and neither do you want to fight." Both men laughed and a friendly conversation followed. The traveler thought that he had a good joke and on arriving in the next town he saw a burly cow boy standing on the street corner and he stopped his car and jumped out and ran up to the fellow saying, "Say bud, do you want to fight?" The traveler found himself getting up about fifteen feet away, wondering why the fellow could not see the joke. A man's countenance carries more than he imagines. A hard face invites hard blows. **

MAY RUN ON A "LIFELINE PLANK"

We are thinking about running for governor of Alabama with just one plank in our platform. If elected we promise to have the State Highway Department paint a "life line" down the middle of every paved road in the state within 48 hours after taking office—or change highway departments. Bet we would get the vote of every man who drives a car in Alabama after nightfall. —Crittend Adv.

Such a platform would undoubtedly get votes, but it would be a great deal more effective if accompanied by a pledge to make every motorist stay on his side of the promised lines.—Selma Times Journal.

LIKE A ROMAN CANDLE

REPUBLICAN PARTY IS SOUTH'S ENEMY

Alabama needs the Democratic party in its business. Let us not scuttle it because some worthy citizens are pouting with Mr. Roosevelt.

Persons who call themselves "Willkie Democrats" are behind the times. Mr. Willkie was a Democrat, but he is a Republican now. He drafted the Republican Party and put it behind his candidacy for president. By that feat he became a working Republican.

If elected, Mr. Willkie will not be a Republican president and not a Democratic president. He will be a liberal, generous, high-minded Republican, to be sure—but he will be a Republican, just the same!

If that Man (FDR) has not been the best friend that Alabama ever had in the White House, we will post a pack in the shape of a quarter cigar as a reward for the name of any other president who has done half as much for this state. Gallus-thumbing, chest-expanding Democrats who are urging their fellow Alabamians to beat a Democrat with a Republican know not what they say.

Mr. Willkie is a man of fine personal qualities, but there must have been something distasteful to him in the long history of the Republican party or he would not have fought it with his brains and money until well after 1932. In 1932 he gave $200 to the Roosevelt campaign chest.

The Advertiser, which has been Democratic since it was founded in 1828, has remanded Mr. Willkie and all Southern Democrats who are fascinated by his blandishments and are grateful to him for having sacked the Republican party in a political coup that is unparalleled in American history that historically and presently the Republican party is the only enemy that the South ever had?—The Montgomery Advertiser.

REVIEWS and PRELIMINARIES

By Irvin Lande

For the first time, since the invasion of Norway and the fall of France, have we noticed that the totalitarian powers are showing signs of weakening. We may have roamed before in the reverie of wishful thinking that they were becoming less confident of their own victory, but this is the first time that we have caught glimpses of their real disbelief in their own success.

Through the early stages of their rule Hitler and Mussolini have existed through the early stages of their rule by putting up a tremendous bluff. They claimed superiority in airplanes, naval vessels, and equipped men, before, but all the time they knew that they had no such superiority. Hitler bluffed the British by claiming that "Mein Kampf" was the story of his intentions and his battle, revealed his every future action and movement. In it, he insisted that he was preparing an army and a navy for action against Soviet Russia. All the time, though, he was becoming an ally of Russia, and was preparing his army and navy against the British and the French. Hitler made his own people read "Mein Kampf," and the British people as well as the American and the French people, followed suit. But the truth is that Hitler's own sub-leaders have not read it. All during the perilous winter of last year, Hitler threatened to storm the Maginot Line. He did the very opposite—he invaded France through Belgium and Holland. Hitler and Mussolini threatened trouble in the Balkans, trying to make the British and the French feel secure. But the Axis defeated France, and is trying to conquer Great Britain.

Now, again we are seeing that the totalitarian states are producing their own reverses. This time, though, they are revealing that they are actually becoming fearful that the British will get it, if they have not already received, the power to destroy the Fascist rule in Europe. And furthermore, these new acts are developed with the intention of both satisfying the German people and of confusing and subjugating the American people.

Hitler's latest move is a treaty uniting Germany, Italy, and Japan have become allies. This Triple Alliance, as is called, is intended to bring mutual protection from and for the countries involved. It states, in substance, that if anyone of these powers were attacked by an enemy not within the European War, that the other two powers would come to the aid of the power in distress.

That Alliance has the purpose of stopping American aid to Great Britain, for, the German newspapers point out, America is not at present involved in the war, but if we give, further aid to Britain, it might be interpreted as an act of war, and hence, Germany, Japan, and Italy would be at war against us.

That is the first sign of German weakening. It is a well-known fact that the invasion of England might not come until the spring of next year, and the German leaders are afraid that the United States might supply Britain with such a vast number of airplanes, guns, and other armaments that the English might obtain a superiority over them.

Furthermore, the treaty of the Triple Alliance has the purpose of convincing American opinion and German opinion that the United States might become involved in a war with Japan. Hence, we could give no aid to Great Britain because we need all our equipment in our own fight. It seems obvious, that Hitler and his Nazis do not realize that we can see where their intentions to muddle our course and destiny. The American people, their leaders realize, however, we give all possible aid to Britain that the Allies will win, then they will not be able to stand up, then the combination of the American English navies; whereas in the past, the American navy was unable to defend itself against the Japanese, the Philippines, and the East Indies.

But the Nazis have widely and continuously preached that the treaty of the three powers is the one thing which makes the master of the world. They are trying their best to convince our people with their own words, that the treaty of the three powers is the one thing which makes the master of the world. They are trying their best to convince our people with their own words, that the treaty of the three powers is the one thing which makes the master of the world.

There also has been some German plans to cut Switzerland out of the picture, giving a part to Germany, a part to Italy, and a part to France. Such a move would give greater evidence that the Triple Alliance is disintegrating under its own weight.

With the long, hard winter on an English, and a large part of London's population homeless, because of loss of homes from air situation is, nevertheless, more cheerful for the hopes of a drastic victory.

We are not expecting a German invasion now of Britain, and we are expecting a strong move by Germany against America prestige in the victories of the totalitarian states have come by doing the United States. So, therefore, when we are asked to neglect important details because of the seemingly unimportance of them, we should remember that France was defeated because she neglected to prepare during those long, inactive months the first year of the second world war.

STATE OF ALABAMA A PROCLAMATION BY THE GOVERNOR

WHEREAS, the Legislature of Alabama, at the regular Session 1939, ordered an election to be held by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama upon a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, which said amendment is herein set out, and ordered that said election be held at the General Election to be held in Alabama in November, 1940; and

WHEREAS, the First Tuesday after the First Monday in November, 1940, which is the 5th day of November, is the time for holding the General Election in 1940; and

WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with the proposed amendment required by the provisions of the Act submitting said Amendment, to be given by a proclamation of the Governor to be published in each County in the State of Alabama once a week for eight consecutive weeks immediately preceding the said 5th day of November, 1940.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Frank M. Dixon, as Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that on Tuesday, the 5th day of November, 1940, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama, in the manner and form provided by law, upon the following amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, as follows:

"The Legislature of Alabama may hereafter, from time to time, by general or local laws, fix, alter, and regulate the fees, commissions, allowances and salaries to be charged or received by the Sheriff of Mobile County, and including the right to place said officer on a salary basis and provide that the fees, fines and forfeitures received or collected by said officer be paid into the treasury of Mobile County, Alabama, and to fix and provide the amount and method of compensation of such officer. All Acts of the Regular Session of the Legislature of 1939 and 1939-40 heretofore passed and applicable, or purporting to be applicable to said Mobile County, and fixing or purporting to fix the basis of compensation and compensation of said officer, or placing said officer on a salary basis, are hereby ratified and confirmed."

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday, the 5th day of November, 1940, upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, be given by publishing the same once a week for eight successive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 5th day of November, 1940, in each County in the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said County.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and have caused the Great Seal of the State to be affixed by the Secretary of State, at the Capitol in the City of Montgomery, on this 12th day of August, 1940.

FRANK M. DIXON, Governor.
 Attest: JOHN BRANDON, Secretary of State.

During August tuberculosis cases were reported to the State Health Department at the rate of nine a day.

Vegetable Laxative Makes Happy Friends

Here's a laxative that usually acts thoroughly as harsher ones but is a gentle persuader for intestines when used this way: A quarter to a half-teaspoon of spicy, aromatic BLACK-DRAUGHT on your tongue tonight; a drink of water. There's usually time for a good night's rest, with a gentle, thorough action next morning relieving constipation's headaches, biliousness, sour stomach, bad breath.

BLACK-DRAUGHT is a splendid combination of vegetable ingredients, chief of which is an "intestinal tonic-laxative" that helps impart tone to lazy bowel muscles. It's economical. 25 to 40 doses: 25c.

Best Ways Save Sweet Potato Crop Outlined

Late harvesting, rough handling and poor storage make about one-half of Alabama's 8,000,000-bushel crop of sweet potatoes unfit for human and livestock food each year.

"This is a tremendous loss that may, in the main, be prevented," says Lyle Brown, extension horticulturist. To enable the farmer to have sweet potatoes for eating all the year, the Department of Horticulture of the Alabama Experiment Station recommends the following:

Dig the main crop in the fall before frost while the weather is still warm and the soil dry.

Handle potatoes in padded containers to prevent bruising and skinning. Cut out all broken, bruised, cracked and very large potatoes, use these as soon as a possible. Destroy unsound potatoes.

Where storage houses are not available, store small and medium-sized potatoes at once in a bank. Cool nights down to 40 degrees may ruin many exposed potatoes, even when the days are warm. Furnish shelter and protection from surface water.

Ventilators are very important. Screen to keep out rats and mice and stop ventilators with straw when cold weather arrives.

Locate the entrance to banks on the south side. Keep this well covered with straw during cold or wet weather. Build banks in new place each year, preferably on rolling land natural drainage is good.

F. S. A. Aids 317 Needy Families

Careful planning, budgeting and record-keeping are fundamental factors in the rehabilitation program of the Farm Security Administration, according to Marvin Durbin, FSA supervisor for Chilton County, said that needy farm families were assisted this year with moderate loans and supervision will be continued.

Farm and home plans are worked out with them by the rehabilitation supervisor and home management supervisor represent adoption of sound general principles to the particular conditions faced by each family. When a family applies for aid an analysis is made of its needs, along with a study to determine what is needed by the way of more or better land, improved farming practices, tools, livestock and other essentials of helping them become self-supporting and self-reliant.

Means of meeting these needs to the best advantage are worked upon and put into effect, generally providing as far as possible, for a year's supply of vegetables, fruit, meat, poultry, milk eggs and other food stuffs for the family and adequate pasture, forage and crops sufficient to meet the needs of the family and repay the Farm Security Administration loan and other obligations.

Record books provided each of the low-income families offer an effective means of taking guesswork out of farming. Pages are designated for a detailed inventory of farm and household possessions at the start of the year, with space for listing money received and spent, as well as various other information concerning the operation of a farm on a business-like basis. At the end of the year facts and figures set forth in these books provide a basis for revising plans for the new year.

Chester the Pup

By GEORGE O'HALLORAN

OLD man Murphy came over and complained to Clara this morning about MacTavish and me digging up his garden. That old water buffalo is always kicking about something. Last week he raised the chickens because I chewed up a shirt he had hanging on the line. How the heck was I supposed to know it was a shirt. It looked like an old fur sack and had more holes in it than a fishing net. That guy is getting crankier every day and more near sighted too. I remember this spring he saw a bloke in his garden and when he tried to chase him out, the fellow wouldn't budge. So Murphy called the squad car and when the cops arrived they discovered the big fumble wit had been arguing with the scarecrow.

BOYKIN NAMES ASSISTANTS

Prominent Alabamians To Aid In Drive For Funds

Thirty prominent Alabamians have been named by Judge Matt Boykin, Mobile, State finance director of the Democratic Party, as vice-chairmen of the current campaign funds-raising drive.

Boykin listed the vice-chairmen as: Gov. Frank Dixon, R. T. Goodwin, Jr., Bibb Graves, John P. Kohn, Jr., William A. Gunter, Robert R. Moore, and R. F. Hudson, Montgomery. Roy Johnson, William S. Pritchard, E. R. Mathews, W. O. Hare, John C. Persons and Victor Hanson, Birmingham.

Joe Norton, N. E. Stallworth, Forner J. Gale, James A. Crane and R. D. Chandler, Mobile.

Chauncey Sparks, Eufaula; George Johnson, Athens; W. D. Partlow, Jr., and James J. Wilkerson, Birmingham; Coma Garrett, Grove Hill; Thomas E. Buntin, Dothan; Charles E. Carmichael, Tusculum; A. H. Elliott, Brewton; Harry Hodges, Fayette; Edmond W. Pettus, Selma; Adolph Reich, Gadsden; Hardy Riddle, Talladega.

The State director also appointed a group of special representatives to aid district and county chairmen in organization and solicitation problems. They are: E. T. (Shorty) Millapp, of Monroeville; Charlie Duke, Gadsden; R. L. Johnson, Thomsville; W. C. Holmes, Foley; Rufus Betton, Dufus; Matt Murphy and Horace Wilkerson, Birmingham; Cyrus B. Brown, R. J. Doody and Charles Brockway, Mobile.

The Democrats of Alabama contributed $78,000 to the party's campaign fund in 1936, and Boykin and his committee are out to better that figure this year.

IN MEMORY OF LAKE DEVAUGHN CULP

On Sunday September 15, 1940 the pain wracked body and the kind loving spirit of Lake Devaughn Culp were separated by death. Lake was taken sick August 27 and was carried to a Birmingham specialist August 30. He was then treated in the local hospital here until September 1 when he was removed to St. Margaret's Hospital in Montgomery. He was operated on for mastoid gland infection on September 7. Lake gave his heart to the Lord and of 8 years. He has always been a good quiet boy. By his loving, kind, quiet life he won for himself a host of friends, both young and old. He has been a Birmingham News boy for several years and has been employed by the postoffice at Clanton for about a year. He was also employed by The Union-Banner, and was ready to enter his eleventh year in school. Lake was 17 years of age last July 31.

We can't understand why our precious boy was taken from us, but we know that God knew, and we are willing for his will to be done, we are only asking for strength from Jesus to tide us over this terrible hour. We are looking forward toward a brighter day when all tears will be wiped away. When we can see Jesus face to face, and we will know then even as we are known.

Lake's body was laid to rest in the family cemetery of Mt. Nebo Church Monday September 16. Rev. Daniel, Rev. Hardin and Rev. Davis officiating. A quartet composed of Mr. Gene Wyatt, Mrs. Porch, Mr. L. Dewey Hughes, and Mr. Chester Miss furnished the singing with Mrs. Williams at the piano.

Flower girls were Misses Pearl Henley, Frances Smith, Mary Ruth Snider and Aileen Popwell. They were assisted by Bobby Atchison.

Active pallbearers were: Hubert Blair, Flem Higgins, Jr., Aubrey Teel, Lamar Powell, Wade Cooper, Harold Culp, Buford Armstrong and Ed Boman. Honorary pall bearers were a host of his boy friends all of their names are not available. Speigner was in charge.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

The week of October 6th has been designated as "Fire Prevention Week" by President Roosevelt. Camp SCS-7, is proud of the record of Chilton County during the recent drought, when not one fire was reported.

Everybody should celebrate not only the week of October 6th, but every week on the calendar by being careful with fire. Take precautions with fire both in the home, and forests.

Fire is an agent of Soil Erosion, and a very destructive one at least. Nature will heal eroded spots in our woodland if fire is kept out. Wildlife will thrive and income will increase from more and better products.

Just as an example not so long ago the SCS Nursery needed a quantity of leaf mold. Now as much forest as Chilton County has any one could expect to find leaf mold plentiful, but such was not the case, fire had destroyed the leaves and straw on many places, and this valuable natural plant stimulant was very hard to locate.

COTTON GINNING REPORT

According to the Census Bureau 997 bales of cotton were ginned in Chilton County from this year's crop up to September 16th.

She's Grandma and Bride at Same Time
ROCHESTER, IND.—In 19 months, Mrs. Edward Altum of near Monterey became a bride, mother, mother-in-law and grandmother. She married Altum in September, 1938. Subsequently two sons and a daughter by a former marriage were wed. All three couples had children. Mrs. Altum gave birth to a daughter.

Master Stricken; Horses Save Him

Taken Home Unconscious From Heart Attack.

COPPOCK, ENGLAND.—The people of this village wondered at a strange procession that passed by the other day.

Two old chestnut mares, well known to everyone, plodded toward the farmhouse of Frederick Ford hard by the centuries-old parish church. Spot led the way. On the back of her companion, Blossom, sprawled forward on her neck, lay Mr. Ford, his arms pending.

The villagers did not know what to make of it, for Farmer Ford was a highly respected magistrate and a member of the local education authority and they remained from questioning him. He could not have answered them, for he had been stricken with a heart attack while riding home from his fields and was unconscious.

The horses brought him across fields, through the village street, along the main London road with its three lines of traffic, and then crossed the road down the lane to Mr. Ford's door, where his wife discovered his condition.

After their master had been lifted down the mares walked on into the stable, where they waited patiently to be unharnessed.

"There is no doubt my husband owes his life to them," Mrs. Ford said later.

Girl Must Pay With Life If She Sees Bareheaded Boy

CAMBRIDGE, MASS.—The queer life of the Solomon Island Negroes is described by a youthful Harvard anthropologist and a white who spent two years in the village of Siwai on the Pacific island of Bougainville.

Dr. Douglas L. Oliver of Harvard's university museum, visited the island to solve a "puzzling ethnic black spot." The natives are black skinned, and on surrounding islands are natives of lighter skins, straighter profiles and less hairy bodies.

Members of the Siwai tribe formerly were head hunters, but that practice lapsed in 1920 when the island came under British mandate. Since then, Dr. Oliver reports, the natives have relied upon sorcery to vanquish their enemies.

A tribesman, Dr. Oliver says, will invoke an evil demon against his enemy by hiding a lock of the foe's hair or a fingernail or a piece of food in a jungle spot of evil reputation. To avenge the death of one believed killed by sorcery, a piece of wood is placed in the hand and mouth of the dead man and then buried in an "evil" spot. The sorcerer, the tribesmen believe, then is caused to waste away.

Adult male natives wear cone-shaped hats of palm leaves, usually in sets of five-four small hats telescoped inside a larger one. In one section boys are given basket-shaped hats and are not allowed to remove them in the presence of women until they are married. "Failure to avoid this tabu," Oliver said, "involves the penalty of death for girls who may see the boys."

Peace Use Is Dominant For Explosive Agents

CAMBRIDGE, MASS.—Despite the European war, 95 per cent of the world's explosive agents are being used for peaceful purposes, according to Prof. Tenney L. Davis of Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

He told members of the Boylston Chemical club that the discovery and use of gunpowder in mining, excavation and engineering had a greater effect on the development of civilization than the discovery of America.

To demonstrate that explosives are "benevolent" if properly used, Davis placed different powders in the back of his hand and exploded them without harming himself.

Rabbit Rides Into Town

In Style—on Locomotive
TULSA, OKLA.—It nearly killed him, but Peter Rabbit came to town in style, riding on a locomotive cow-catcher. He revved soon enough to hop off at Union station, darted through a crowd, up a stairway and out to the street. But there a policeman and a taxi driver caught him. Peter Rabbit went on his first cab ride—and his last.

Thief Steals Five Hats

And Coat From Church
PUEBLO, COLO.—A thief broke into the cloakroom of a church and stole five hats and an overcoat while members were attending a meeting in the basement. The speaker of the evening was among those who lost hats.

Governor Issues Proclamation Relative To Conscription Act

Proclamation Sets Forth Rules To Govern Registration---Oct. 16th

A PROCLAMATION BY THE GOVERNOR

WHEREAS, the Congress has enacted and the President has approved the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940, which declared that it is imperative to increase and train the personnel of the armed forces of the United States and that in a free society the obligations and privileges of military training and service should be shared generally in accordance with a fair and just system of selective military service; AND WHEREAS, the President of the United States under authority of the aforesaid Act, has on the 16th day of September, 1940, issued his proclamation in which he proclaimed in part as follows:

"1. The first registration under the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940 shall take place on Wednesday, the sixteenth day of October, 1940, between the hours of 7 a. m. and 9 p. m.

"2. Every male person (other than persons excepted by Section 5 (a) of the aforesaid Act) who is a citizen of the United States or an alien residing in the United States and who, on the registration date fixed herein has attained the thirty-first anniversary of the day of his birth and has not attained the thirty-sixth anniversary of the day of his birth, is required to register himself and submit to registration at the duly designated place of registration within the precinct, district, or registration area in which he has his permanent home or in which he may happen to be on that date.

"3. Every such person who is not within the continental United States on the registration date fixed herein shall within five days after his return to the continental United States present himself for and submit to registration. Regulations will be prescribed hereafter providing for special registration of those who on account of sickness or other causes beyond their control are unable to present themselves for registration at the designated places of registration on the registration date fixed herein.

"4. The times and places for registration in Alaska, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico will be fixed in subsequent proclamations.

"5. I call upon the Governors of the several States and the Board of Commissioners of the District of Columbia to provide suitable and sufficient places of registration within their respective jurisdictions and to provide suitable and necessary registration boards to effect such registration.

"6. I further call upon all officers and agents of the United States and all officers and agents of the several States and the District of Columbia, and subdivisions thereof to do and perform all acts and services necessary to accomplish effective and complete registration; and I especially call upon all local election officials and other patriotic citizens to offer their services as members of the boards of registration.

"7. In order that there may be full cooperation in carrying into effect the purpose of said Act, I urge all employers, and government agencies of all kinds—Federal, State and Local—to give those under their charge sufficient time off in which to fulfill the obligation of registration incumbent on them under the said Act."

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Frank M. Dixon, Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby proclaim as follows:

1. The sixteenth day of October, 1940 shall be REGISTRATION DAY in the State of Alabama, and on said day every male person in the State of Alabama shall submit himself to registration in the manner and as provided by the aforesaid Act of Congress and the aforesaid Proclamation of the President by said Act and Proclamation to be of the United States who is required registered on that said date.

2. Every man who is required to register on said date shall present himself for and submit to registration at the duly designated place of registration within the precinct, district, or registration area in which he has his permanent home or in which he may happen to be on that date. "Regardless of any special circumstances, every man who is subject to registration is personally charged with the duty of presenting himself before the proper officials for that purpose, and attention is particularly called to the fact that the aforesaid Act of the Congress provides a penalty for failure of any person to register who is required to do so.

3. The precinct judge or sheriff, and the circuit clerk in each county is hereby designated as a board to arrange for, and handle all matters pertaining to the conducting of the said registration in their respective counties, pursuant to and in accordance with instructions furnished them by me and the State Headquarters of the Selective Service System, and in conformity with Selective Service Regulations, Volume 2, "REGISTRATION," approved by the President, September 23, 1940.

4. I hereby call upon every good citizen in Alabama to give his wholehearted cooperation to the compliance to all of the provisions of said Selective Training and Service Act of 1940, and the said Proclamation of the President. It is particularly urged that all employers cooperate in affording their employees reasonable time and opportunity for submitting themselves for the required registration.

5. I hereby call upon all newspapers, radio stations, public officials and private citizens to assist in distributing as widely as possible information as to the date of the said registration, as to who is required to submit to said registration, and as to the purpose thereof, so that there may be as complete a registration as possible in the State of Alabama.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and have caused the Great Seal of the State to be affixed by the Secretary of State at the Capitol in the City of Montgomery, on this twenty-fifth day of September, 1940.

FRANK M. DIXON, Governor.

Entirety of Indian as a Race Is Seen on Wane

ORLANDO, FLA.—F. B. (Flying Cloud) Zahn, graduate of the Carlisle Indian school and nationally known interpreter, believes that the full-blooded Indian will be extinct within five years.

Zahn said that Indians rapidly are being absorbed by the white race through intermarriage.

"They have not long to live as a racial entity," he predicted. "The time will shortly come when the Indians will be nothing but a memory."

Zahn says that actually the Indian is not a "red man" but a "copper man" whose origin had been established as Mongolian.

"Dress an Indian like a Chinese or Japanese and you would swear he is an Oriental," he said. "Dress a Chinese in Indian garments and you will take him for an Indian."

He believes that the American Indian came to this hemisphere thousands of years ago from Asia when Alaska and the continent of Asia were linked.

Italians Rebuild Castles Of Old Ethiopian Chiefs

GONDAR, ETHIOPIA.—The Italian government is restoring the castles of ancient Ethiopian rulers. Reconstruction of many of the so-called Portuguese castles, built by half-castes from Goa for the emperors who reigned between 1832 and the middle of the Eighteenth century is expected to help make Gondar, a beautiful Lake Tana, a tourist center.

The largest, the Castle of Fasildas, is the headquarters of the Italian governor of Asmara. Another has been made into a residence for the viceroy of Ethiopia, the Duke d'Aosta.

Italian Asserts Planets Verify Bible on Flood

ROME.—The flood actually took place in the time of Noah, according to Prof. Raffaele Bendandi. He bases his opinion on the movements of four new planets he has discovered beyond Neptune. "These bodies regulate our entire solar system," he said. "It is their huge power of attraction which causes all geological movements and earthquakes. I have reached the conclusion, supported by scientific proof, that the deluge actually occurred in 2887 B. C., as stated in the Bible."

Louisville & Nashville Railroad

By W. T. Boles
 (In Birmingham News)

The Louisville & Nashville Railroad, one of the larger systems in the South which serves a large part of Alabama, made its first entry into the state in 1871, when it began operating its line between Nashville and Decatur. A little more than a year later, Oct. 1, 1872, it completed and put in operation its line from Decatur to Montgomery.

Promoters of the South & North Alabama Railroad, that portion of the present L. & N. system between Decatur and Montgomery, ran out of money with a large portion of the road not completed, and the L. & N. took a lease on it with an agreement to complete it. Gradually the L. & N. leased or built new lines in the state that extended its service into almost every section. In 1880 it leased the Mobile & Montgomery Railroad and the New Orleans & Mobile, thereby giving it a through line from Louisville, Ky., to New Orleans, and traversing Alabama from the Tennessee state line to the Mississippi state line southwest of Mobile.

Among the railroads subsequently built or leased were the present Alabama Mineral branch extending from Birmingham to Atlanta and Gadsden, Anniston and Calera; lines to Blocton and Tuscaloosa; the line from Columbia, Tenn., to Florence, Ala., the line from Georgia to Graceland, Fla., the line from Selma to Flomaton and Pensacola and from Selma to Myrtlewood and several shorter lines.

The second railroad to touch the immediate Birmingham district, the L. & N., has been one of the important factors in the development of the district, as it has in the sections of the state served by it.

Fiddler's Convention

The P. T. A. of Billingsley School is sponsoring a Fiddler's Convention Friday night Oct. 11, 1940. Three cash prizes will be awarded the best fiddlers and many other attractive prizes for the others. Everyone is invited.

SINGING AT FRIENDSHIP

There will be a singing at Friendship church Thursday night beginning at 7:30 o'clock. Everyone is invited.

P. T. A. TO HAVE MEETING

The P. T. A. of Chilton County High School will meet Tuesday, Oct. 8, at 3:15. We are urging every parent to be there.

The teachers have kindly consented to arrange our program. You who attended last year know what splendid programs we are to have.

Let's make our P. T. A. grow, and in that way show our appreciation to our teachers for the fine work they are doing with our children.

TRUCKS AVAILABLE FOR HOME GUARD

Montgomery, Ala.—Alabama's Home Guard will use State Highway Department trucks and automobiles as needed, Adj. Gen. Ben M. Smith has revealed.

The Home Guard, formed under the American Legion as a basic organization, will take the place of the National Guard on Nov. 25, when most Alabama Guardsmen will begin a year's active duty at Camp Blanding, Fla.

Since no provision exists for Home Guard transportation facilities, Highway Director Chris J. Sherlock's Department will furnish the vehicles.

Director Sherlock has given Gen. Smith a list showing the exact location of State Highway shops over Alabama and the number of trucks and cars available at each.

JUSTICES GET ROBES

Montgomery, Ala.—The Alabama Supreme Court will don long, black judicial robes on opening of the Fall term, Oct. 1, to be worn during formal court proceedings.

This will be the first time in history that Alabama jurists will wear the proverbial robes. A tailor has already taken the measurements of the seven justices. The robes will arrive before the opening of the session, he promised.

The Court of Appeals may also adopt the traditional high court attire.

EXTENSION WORKERS

Program planning conferences of extension workers will be held in Decatur, Huntsville, Birmingham, Auburn and Montgomery October 6-25. The 1941 extension program of work will be formulated at these conferences.

150,376 MATTRESSES

Alabama farm women have made 150,376 mattresses under the 1939-40 program. The 1940-41 program will start within the next few weeks.

Beauty Reaches All-Time High in New '41 Chevrolet

Completely new styling joins with numerous mechanical improvements to make the new 1941 Chevrolet, now on display at all dealers, a worthy successor to the cars which have earned first place in public favor year after year. The greater size and roominess of the new models, as well as their sleek new beauty, are apparent in the Special De Luxe Sport Sedan, shown above.

One of the major changes is substitution of concealed safety-steps (4) for the running boards of other years, an improvement adding to the car's beauty without sacrifice of the safety and convenience which running boards provide. At (5) is the six-cylinder Chevrolet valve-in-head engine for 1941, in which many refinements have been made. Horsepower is increased from 85 to 90 without affecting economy; and cooling, lubrication and carburetor are all improved. In circle is the new switch which reverses the ignition current polarity each time the starter is operated, indefinitely prolonging the life of distributor points.

Everglades May Conceal Remnant Of Savage Tribe

Aged Seminoles Tell of a People Who Dwell in Primitive Savagery.

ST. AUGUSTINE, FLA.—Deep in the marshy fastnesses of the Florida Everglades the remnants of some savage and forgotten Indian tribe still dwell in primitive savagery, Seminole chiefs here told Dr. Vernon Lammie, archeologist, who is excavating Timucuan mounds near here.

They are not Seminoles, and are regarded as taboo by that nation. No Seminole will go within a quarter of a mile of the two hummocks where the strange tribe dwells, Chief Josie Jumper told Lammie. Josie, whose great-grandfather, Chief Johnny Jumper, was imprisoned by federal troops when he came to Fort Marion under a flag of truce 100 years ago—one of the incidents that led the Seminoles to retreat into the impenetrable "Glades and refuse to sign a peace treaty with the whites," is assisting Lammie with the excavations.

Primitive Weapons Found.

It was after seeing skeletons, pottery and primitive weapons of the fierce Timucuan that Josie revealed the presence of the mysterious tribe, and advanced the theory that they might be Timucuan. It was the warlike Timucuan hordes that repulsed Ponce de Leon when he attempted to land at Charlotte harbor on the lower west Florida coast in 1513. There a Timucuan arrow struck down the gallant Ponce and later caused his death.

Again in 1528, when the red-bearded, one-eyed conquistador, Pampilio de Narvaez, landed a small army near Tampa bay and attempted a northward march through mid-Florida, the Timucuan warriors so harried his ranks that he was forced to retreat to the seacoast. On the coast his men built small boats and put to sea to escape the Timucuan. But the white men, and the sea was mightier still, and only four men out of the entire army lived to see Spain again.

Yielded Before De Soto.

Twelve years later, the Timucuan braves again attempted to drive out the Spanish invader, but the steel-clad troops of Hernando de Soto were too much for them. De Soto marched through their lands and to his death on the banks of the Mississippi three years later.

But the white man's guns and the white man's diseases brought down to the once mighty Indian nation. A few survivors were rounded up in the early 1800s and sold as slaves to Cuban planters. That's what history says. But Josie Jumper says, "Me don't think so. Maybe all gone, but bad men still in two hummocks in Everglades. They not Seminole—no clothes." (Seminoles are inordinately proud of their daintily and varicolored robes, and never appear without them.) "Seminoles see their fires, but no go near. Bad men. White man never see."

Only the old men of the Seminole nation have ever actually seen the mystery Indians close up.

Grizzly Bear as Thief

Merely Timid Animal

CRANBROOK, B. C.—A grizzly bear in the big timber is a fierce beast, but when caught stealing fruit, berries, its first instinct is to flee, according to William Stork, White Swan Lake trapper, who surprised one in his pantry.

Returning to his cabin after dark, he noticed the kitchen door open and the front door ajar. He approached cautiously with a flashlight in his hand.

Entering the front door he suddenly switched on his light and found himself facing a full-grown grizzly bear.

The bear whirled around and leaped through the nearest window, shattering glass on all sides, and fled with the window frame around its neck.

No Time for Studio Fire

Either, It Would Appear

HOLLYWOOD.—The fire alarm bursts forth with all its fearsome clangor.

"Cut!" shouts Director William Wellby to Rosalind Russell and James Stewart, who are busy in a scene for "No Time for Comedy."

Screaming sirens from the outside add to the din. Warner Bros. burst into the stage.

There's a sudden lull. The fire that can't find a fire.

A sand bag up in the flies had burst, its contents striking the bell and setting off the alarm.

Everybody goes back to work. The fun is all over.

Prisoner Says Sentence

'Is Best Thing for Her'

LUDINGMONT, MICH.—Herman Shoenbeck proved himself an unusually grateful prisoner when Circuit Judge Max E. Neal sentenced him to a term of from six months to four years for felonious assault.

"Thank you very much, your honor," Shoenbeck said after hearing the sentence, the minimum for his offense. "This is the best thing that ever happened to me."

Squirrel Plays Havoc

When Caught in Cabin

BOONER SPRINGS, KAN.—Merrill Hoyt called in carpenters and painters to repair the damage done by a squirrel which found its way into Hoyt's lake-cabin and apparently couldn't find the way out. The squirrel had gnawed at window casements until eight windows had to be replaced entirely.

Slave-Trader Type Of Ship Revived

Nothing Like It Launched in About a Century.

GLOUCESTER, MASS.—Admirably fashioned for high adventure, the topsail schooner Caribbean is tugging impatiently at her moorings, waiting for riggers to finish the intricate web of cordage and wire rope that will support her canvas and spars, before she is off wherever whim of the Caribbean has been launched in about a century, since abolition eliminated slave running and such speedy vessels as the Baltimore clipper, type, after which she was modeled, no longer could find profitable commerce.

Caribee was built for Ernest N. May of Wilmington, Del., by William A. Robinson, whose obsessing passion is to preserve for practical purposes some of the best types of the sailing ship era.

May was planning a world cruise when the Caribee's keel was laid, but the war has postponed that. Now he is chartering courses in waters as yet free of mines and submarines.

Caribee's two masts have a pronounced rake aft. On the foremast she will carry yards for a square topsail. A long bowsprit and jib boom sails. She is 92 feet overall, 23 feet beam and draws 10 feet, and below deck are accommodations for a dozen persons, plus five or six hands in the fo'castle. A high, windward poop suggests the stern of a Spanish galleon.

Robinson has excellent reason for his faith in wooden sailing vessels. A few years ago he circled the globe alone in the ketch Svamp. Upon his return he established a ship yard on the Ipswich river, where Caribee recently was launched and where he previously built two other reminders of the glorious age of sail—one a topsail schooner and the other modeled after a fast pilot boat.

Theft of Dead Cat Has

Crime Can't Pay Ail

DENVER.—A Denver woman's cat died and health authorities told her to bring the body to their office for disposal.

She laid the cat carefully in the fanciest cardboard box she could find, tied flowers to it and started out. En route she stopped at a store and when she returned to her car she saw a woman tampering with the lock. She watched while the woman opened the door and stole the decorative box. Without opening it, she took the package into the rest room of a nearby department store. The lady who owned it trailed her but waited outside the door. Fifteen minutes elapsed. When the woman failed to reappear in that time a mafra was called.

They found the thief in a dead faint. The dead cat was on her lap.

A Hare Raiser Teaches

Them to Run for Lives

ABILENE, KAN.—George Kibler teaches wild Kansas jackrabbits to run for their lives.

The jackrabbits are trained by Kibler to act as quarry for hounds in the National Coursing association's races.

Twice a day Kibler drives the wild jackrabbits through the racing course, teaching them to run from chutes directly to the escapes at the far end of the park and to slip under them.

Rabbits cost from 75 cents to $1 each and each one that fails to elude the hounds goes down in the loss column of the association's books.

Passenger Loses Seat,

Is Run Over by Auto

MOBILE, ALA.—Here's a man who was run over by the car in which he was riding.

President Williams, 50-year-old Negro landscape worker, was a passenger in an automobile going out of Mobile. The motor skidded into a ditch. As it struck, the impact caused the door to open and threw Williams out into the ravine.

Meantime, the auto continued its wild careening and finally rolled over. Williams' legs as he lay helpless in the ditch. He was not seriously injured.

Fire Chief's Daughter

Turns in Alarm at Last

LONGMONT, COLO.—Ruth Ann Campbell was the fire chief's daughter. She never had had the thrill of turning in a fire alarm. When Ruth Ann stepped into a friend's home and discovered it was full of smoke, she sent for the fire ladders. They found a pan had boiled dry on the stove.

Build Best Air Force in Year

Aircraft Manufacturers Say They Are Prepared To Do the Job.

LOS ANGELES.—Leaders in the aircraft manufacturing industry say that they can make the United States the world's largest air power within a year.

The prediction followed President Roosevelt's appeal to congress for funds with which to make this country capable of building 50,000 military and naval planes annually, more than the combined total of all belligerents in the war. If the President's request is granted, the United States will become the aviation capital of the world with millions of dollars and thousands of employees pouring into the industry.

The vastly stepped-up production facilities resulting from increasing purchases of planes by Great Britain and France since the start of the war would be the basis for the new production program.

Expansion 'Simple.'

"The United States rearmament program started last year and quantity orders from the allies during the last several months have developed our manufacturing capacity and so changed manufacturing technique that further expansion is relatively simple," John H. Jouett, president of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce of America, said in New York.

Jouett said the 45 plane manufacturing plants in the United States could produce the 50,000 planes by:

1. Tripling floor space in all plants.
2. Doubling the area of aircraft engine manufacturing plants.
3. Tripling the number of employees, now estimated at 100,000 for the branches of the industry.
4. Operating all plants on a 24-hour basis.

Leaders Support Plan.

Various persons in aviation circles agreed that mass production of airplanes, already accomplished in Germany, would result. Because the same type, they said, the same tools and dies could be used over a long period of time.

Sixty-five per cent of the nation's airplane production is in southern California where the industry's leaders wholeheartedly supported the President's proposal.

In support of their prediction that they could produce the 50,000 planes within a year, aviation industry leaders in southern California pointed to this record for last month alone:

Backlog—$300,000,000, up more than $400,000,000 from April 1. Employees—33,030, up more than 3,600 from April 1. Monthly payroll—$4,400,000, up more than $252,000 from April 1. April production—$9,000,000, up more than $715,000 from previous month production.

Douglas, Vultee, Lockheed, North American, Consolidated and Boeing aircraft companies were ready to put the program into effect.

"We can do it," Donald W. Douglas, president of Douglas Aircraft, largest plant in the United States, predicted.

Drowns in Vain Effort

To Save His Fishing Pal

MUSKOGON, MICH.—Cecil Venne, 15 years old, small for his age and a weak swimmer, did not hesitate when his friend and fishing companion, Clarence Van Orman Jr., 11, fell from a dock into 30 feet of water in Muskegon lake. He jumped in to save him.

Both boys were drowned. The body of another youth, Charles W. Richards, 15, also was found in Muskegon lake. Two weeks ago he and William Morgan, about 15, went fishing in a homemade boat and were lost. The Morgan boy's body was found a week ago.

Pet Kitten Goes to Fire,

Prisoner Within Hose

SASKATOON, SASK.—Spunky, six-week-old pet kitten at a Saskatoon fire hall, took a snooze—and consequently was in a fire hose. Spunky had crawled into a 4½-inch suction hose, prepared for a night's rest, when a fireman unknowingly imprisoned her when he screwed a metal cap on the end of the hose.

The alarm rang. The truck carrying Spunky's "bedroom" raced to the fire. It was there that a fireman noticed the kitten's head sticking out of the hose.

Presidential Proclamation Sets Forth Provisions of Draft Act

BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES

A PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS the Congress has enacted and I have this day approved the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940, which declares that it is imperative to increase and train the personnel of the armed forces of the United States and that in a free society the obligations and privileges of military training and service should be shared generally in accordance with a fair and just system of selective compulsory military training and service; and

WHEREAS the said Act contains, in part, the following provisions:

"SEC. 2. Except as otherwise provided in this Act, it shall be the duty of every male citizen of the United States, and of every male alien residing in the United States, who, on the day or days fixed for the first or any subsequent registration, is between the ages of twenty-one and thirty-six, to present himself for and submit to registration at such time or times and place or places, and in such manner and in such age group or groups, as shall be determined by rules and regulations prescribed hereunder.

"SEC. 5. (a) Commissioned officers, warrant officers, pay clerks, and enlisted men of the Regular Army, the Navy, the Marine Corps, the Coast Guard, the Coast and Geodetic Survey, the Public Health Service, the federally recognized active National Guard, the Officers' Reserve Corps, the Regular Army Reserve, the Enlisted Reserve Corps, the Naval Reserve, and the Marine Corps; cadets, United States Military Academy; cadets, United States Naval Academy; men who have been accepted for admittance (commencing with the academic year next succeeding such acceptance) to the United States Military Academy as cadets, to the United States Naval Academy as midshipmen, or to the United States Coast Guard Academy as cadets, but only during the continuance of such acceptance; cadets of the advanced course, senior division, Reserve Officers' Training Corps or Naval Reserve Officers' Training Corps; and diplomatic representatives, technical attaches of foreign embassies and legations, consuls, vice consuls, and consular agents of foreign countries, residing in the United States, who are not citizens of the United States, and who have not declared their intention to become citizens of the United States, shall not be required to be registered under Section 2 and shall be relieved from liability for training and service under section 3 (b)."

"SEC. 10 (a) The President is authorized—

- (1) to prescribe the necessary rules and regulations to carry out the provisions of this Act.
- (4) to utilize the services of any or all departments and any and all officers or agents of the United States and to accept the services of all officers and agents of the several States, Territories, and the District of Columbia and subdivisions thereof in the execution of this Act;

"SEC. 14 (a) Every person shall be deemed to have notice of the requirements of this Act upon publication by the President of a proclamation or other public notice fixing a time for any registration under section 2."

NOW THEREFORE, I, FRANKLIN

D. ROOSEVELT, President of the United States of America, under and by the virtue of the authority vested in me by the aforesaid Selective Training and Service Act of 1940, do proclaim the following:

1. The first registration under the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940 shall take place on Wednesday, the sixteenth day of October, 1940, between the hours of 7 a. m. and 9 p. m.

2. Every male person (other than persons excepted by Section 5 (a) of the aforesaid Act) who is a citizen of the United States or an alien residing in the United States and who, on the registration date fixed herein, has attained the twenty-first anniversary of the day of his birth and has not attained the thirty-sixth anniversary of the day of his birth, is required to present himself for and submit to registration within the continental United States on the registration date fixed herein and shall on that date present himself and submit to registration at the duly designated place of registration within the precinct, district, or registration area in which he has his permanent home or in which he has his permanent home on that date. Every such person who is not within the continental United States on the registration date fixed herein shall within five days after his return to the continental United States present himself for and submit to registration hereafter providing for special registration of those who on account of sickness or other causes beyond their control are unable to present themselves for registration at the designated places of registration on the registration date fixed herein.

3. Every person subject to registration is required to familiarize himself with the rules and regulations governing registration and to comply therewith.

4. The times and places for registration in Alaska, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico will be fixed in subsequent proclamations.

5. I call upon the Governors of the several States and the Board of Commissioners of the District of Columbia to provide suitable and sufficient places of registration within their respective jurisdictions and to provide suitable and necessary registration boards to effect such registration.

6. I further call upon all officers and agents of the United States and all officers and agents of the several States, Territories, and the District of Columbia and subdivisions thereof to do and perform all acts and services necessary to accomplish effective and complete registration; and I especially call upon all local election officials and other patriotic citizens to offer their services as members of the boards of registration.

7. In order that there may be full cooperation in carrying into effect the purposes of said Act, I urge all employers, and government agencies of all kinds—Federal, State and local—to give those under their charge sufficient time off in which to fulfill the obligation of registration incumbent on them under the said Act.

America stands at the cross roads of its destiny. Time and distance have been shortened. A few weeks have seen great nations fall. We cannot remain indifferent to the philosophy of force now rampant in the world. The terrible fate of nations whose weakness invited attack is too well known to us all.

We must and will marshal our great potential strength to fend off war from our shores. We must and will prevent our land from becoming a victim of aggression.

Our decision has been made. It is in that spirit that the people of our country are assuming the burdens that now become necessary. Others of service have flooded in from patriotic citizens in every part of the nation, who ask only what they can do to help. Now there is both the opportunity and the need for many thousands to assist in listing the names and addresses of the millions who will enroll on registration day at school houses, polling places, and town halls.

The Congress has debated without partisanship and has now enacted a law establishing a selective method of augmenting our armed forces. The method is fair, it is sure, it is democratic—it is the will of our people.

After thoughtful deliberation, and as the first step, our young men will come from the factories and the fields, the cities and the towns, to enroll their names on registration day.

On that eventful day my generation will salute their generation. May we all renew within our hearts that conception of liberty and that way of life which we have all inherited. May we all strengthen our resolve to hold high the torch of freedom in this darkening world so that our children and their children may not be robbed of their rightful inheritance.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed. DONE at the City of Washington, this sixteenth day of September in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and United States of America the one hundred, and of the Independence of the United States the sixty-sixth.

FARMERS SHOULD FREE GRAIN OF WEEVILS

By P. H. Smith
How much more feed would I have this year if all my grain was free of weevils? This is a very good question for every farmer to be asking himself at this time of year. If the correct answer is given, treating grains and particularly corn for weevil control will be done on every farm.

Taking care of feed is almost as important as producing food. Since there is a possibility of a feed shortage in Chilton County this year a few suggestions on treating corn for weevil control is given in an effort to help save all corn produced this year.

The following was prepared by W. A. Ruffin, Extension Entomologist:
Weevils and other insects found in corn cribs destroy 20 per cent of the value of all corn produced in Alabama. This loss can be prevented by a little work and an expenditure of approximately 2c per bushel of corn.

Carbon disulphide (high life) is the cheapest and most effective fumigant to use in the control of insects in stored corn. This gas is very inflammable.

Keep Away From Fire

There are several practices that should be followed in the control of corn weevils. Corn should be harvested as soon as it is dry. The longer the crop is left in the field the more weevils will be found in the corn. The crib or bin should be cleaned thoroughly before the new crop is stored. All old corn, shucks etc., should be removed, sweep walls and floor, remove and burn the sweepings. This will destroy many adult weevils.

It should be kept in mind while selecting seed corn, in the field, that a good tight fitting shuck will help keep out weevils.

In order to get good results from fumigating corn, the crib must be sealed. In building a new crib tongue and groove material should be used on the floor and walls. Old cribs may be sealed with "tar paper," building paper, pasteboard boxes cut up and tacked over cracks, or "daubing" the cracks with wet clay. This should be done before the corn is put in the crib.

The corn must be allowed to dry two or three weeks after it is put in the crib before it is fumigated. In fact, where few weevils are found in the corn when harvested fumigation may be delayed until Spring.

Carbon disulphide must be used during hot weather (70° F.). One gallon is sufficient to treat 250 bushels of corn. Pour the liquid on top of the pile of corn, close all doors and windows, and do not disturb for two days. After two or three days air the crib thoroughly and the job is finished. Keep fire away from this crib.

PLAN OAT CROP NOW

It is now time to begin making plans for a crop of oats to help prevent a shortage of feed this coming year. In making these plans be sure to include treating oats for smut.

Oat smut is a disease that is carried from one crop of oats to the next crop on the seed oats. This is the disease that causes the grain head to turn black at harvest time. Upon close examination the head is found to be very small, very black, grains of smut rather than an oat grain. If the smutty head is disturbed the smut grains will fly into the air like dust. It is these very small smut grains that carry the disease from one crop to another.

With care before the oats are planted, this disease may be controlled. For this reason, it is suggested that only seed oats that have been treated for smut be planted this fall.

An ordinary fly sprayer may be used for treating oats for smut. Use 40 per cent formaldehyde as a spray. It requires about one pint of 40 per cent formaldehyde to treat 50 bushels of oats. Mix the formaldehyde with an equal amount of water in the sprayer.

Pile oats on a clean floor, canvas, or in a tight wagon body.
Shovel oats from one pile to another, giving one good squirt of the formaldehyde water solution to each shovel full of oats as they are moved. This should cause the oats to be just damp with the spray.

Round up the treated oats in a pile and cover with sacks that have been sprayed inside and out. Leave covered for about five hours or over night. In this way the formaldehyde will become a gas. This gas is very poisonous to the smut grain. It will penetrate the entire pile of oats and kill the smut.

Farmers Are Advised Save Lespedeza Seed

J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist, is advising farmers that now is the time to save seed of annual lespedeza. "For varieties, such as common, Tennessee 76 and Kobe, use a simple homemade pan or the cutter bar of mowing machine. Plans for making the pan may be obtained from county agents.

Korean is usually cut with a mowing machine and later threshed.

Farmers Told How To Kill Peach Borers

Peach tree borers may be controlled by using parathion on trees four years old or older or ethylene dichloride on both young and old trees, announces W. A. Ruffin, extension entomologist.

"Experiments show that in North Alabama, trees should be treated early in October and in South Alabama October 15 to 30", he says.
Farmers interested in treating peach trees with either of these materials may obtain full instruction from their county agent.

thick growing crops at least half of the time.

Permanent hay crops will be advised in preference to those requiring annual preparation of the soil, such as soy beans, cowpeas, etc. The use of more small grain as a substitute for some of the corn and a greater use of perennial legume hay instead of corn fodder will be encouraged.

The practice of rotating crops, especially rotating clean tilled crops with thick growing crops, will also be encouraged. Suitable rotations will be planned for individual farms so as to provide ample feed for the farm livestock, as well as to give maximum protection with thick-growing crops. In doing this, the maximum use will be made of both winter and summer legumes, oats etc.

Diverting the steep slopes from cultivated crops to permanent thick growing vegetation, such as lespedeza sericea and kudzu, will also be emphasized: The with pine.

badly eroded areas will be reforested. Another important phase of the program will be that of permanent pasture development. On the majority of farms, there are areas of bottom land now wooded or grown up in elders, willows, etc., which if cleared, would make excellent pasture land. Wherever possible, farmers will be encouraged to take eroded hill land out of pasture and clear up, fertilize and seed to pasture the more suitable bottom land.

Since more than two-thirds of the total area of the proposed district is woodland, farm forestry will certainly receive no little emphasis. A program of woods fire prevention, timber land improvement and reforestation will be developed and carried to landowners and assistance given in carrying them out.

It is now being realized that the most sensible approach to the erosion control problem is through that of wise use of the land. Wise land use simply involves using every acre of land on the farm for the crop for which it is best adapted in keeping with the needs of the farm.

Mt. Carmel

Bro. Paul Oden brought a wonderful missionary sermon last Sunday and we greatly appreciated it. Also we were glad of the goodly number present.
We were happy to see Mr. D. H. Atkins and family back at church Sunday, as we have been missing their presence and their help these several weeks they have been away.

Mrs. Ben Higgins and children and Mrs. Alfred Penton of Clanton were visitors at this place Saturday afternoon.

Also we were glad to see J. C. Scott back at Church Sunday as he is our song leader. Hope he can come regularly now as his ice business won't be so rushing since cooler weather is here.

Bro. Paul and Mr. Raymond Oden of Shobles were the Sunday dinner guests of Mr. Silas Oden.

Grandmother Sewell is on our sick list this week, having suffered a fall on Monday of this week. But not badly hurt we hope.

Mrs. Fred Oden and daughter of Isabella spent Sunday with Mrs. Jack Le-nor.

"Cotting picking" is still in full swing around here, and everybody wishing it was done.

Yes, we were glad to have Mr. Theb Kendrick back Sunday. Been missing him in B. A. U. All of you members hurry back, and visitors always find a welcome at Mt. Carmel.

AUSTRIAN PEAS ARE NOW BEING DISTRIBUTED HERE

Austrian peas are now being distributed to Chilton County farmers under the Grant-Aid features of the 1941 AAA program.

The Chilton County Agricultural Conservation Association received 300,000 pounds of peas several weeks ago to be distributed among Chilton County producers. These peas seed may be obtained by making application for them at the AAA office in Clanton. Under the present arrangements, producers may actually get the peas as soon as he has made application for them.

To date, applications have been made for several thousand pounds of these seed. Producers who are interested may receive peas by calling by the AAA office in Clanton.

New steam generating plant being built at Mobile, Ala., the first 40,000-kilowatt unit of which is scheduled for completion early in 1941.

WE'RE GOING TO BE PROUD OF IT

WE'RE going to be mighty proud of this new steam generating plant which, early in 1941, will start turning out still more kilowatt hours for Alabamians to use.

We'll be proud because—even under the adverse conditions which have existed during the past decade—we have been able to sell electricity so cheaply that Alabamians could increase their use of electric service tremendously.

Proud, too, because the new plant will do its part in supplying electric service to industries utilized for national defense. . .

Proud, because the industrial development in South Alabama helping balance agriculture with industry (in which we were glad to assist), has developed to the extent where it contributes to the need for additional power facilities. . .

Proud, because the new plant will have installed in it the latest, efficient electric generating equipment; and because the building will be architecturally beautiful—an asset to the appearance of the community in which it is located.

When it is completed, we hope it will be possible for you to visit it.

FUND ALLOTTED FARM SECURITY ADMINISTRATION

Meetings Will Be Held To Explain Program's Purpose

Marvin Durbin, County RR Supervisor, Farm Security Administration, announced that which to have five year Rehabilitation loans to farmers in Chilton County to finance their 1941 crops. These loans include the payment of old debts, purchase of livestock, equipment, feed, seed, fertilizer, household goods, etc. These loans are repayable over a period of five years at 5 per cent interest. Applications are now available and can be obtained from the FSA office which is now located upstairs over the Chilton County News.

Mr. Durbin also stated that in order for the farmers in this county to have a better understanding of this program that his personnel is holding a series of meetings over the county to explain the purpose of this program to all farmers who are interested in obtaining a Government loan to finance their 1941 crops. The first of these meetings will be held at the Enterprise Schoolhouse next Friday morning, October 11, at 10:00 a. m. All farmers who are now receiving Rehabilitation loans and all farmers who will need Rehabilitation loans to finance their 1941 crops who live in or near the Enterprise and Verbena communities should come to this meeting and hear this program discussed. Mr. Durbin also stated that the wives of the FSA borrowers and the wives of other farmers who are interested in this loan for next year to come with their husbands to this meeting.

The places and time of the next meeting will be announced within the near future.

CHILTON CO. STOCK SHOW STARTS FRIDAY

To Be Held In Livestock Barn At Airport

Some of the best dairy cattle, mares, and colts in Chilton County will be assembled Friday, October 11, in Clanton at the airport in the livestock barn for the 1940 Chilton County Livestock Show. This show is being sponsored by the 1940 Chilton County Livestock Show. This event will bring together a good number of the fine dairy heifers, cows, and bulls to compete for cash prizes which are being offered for the best animals in the different classes. Competition for prizes will also occur in the mare and colt classes.

In addition to the showing of animals there will be several demonstrations on feeding dairy cattle, on results of breeding to purebred bulls, and a demonstration on the production of clean milk by two 4-H Club boys.

All animals to be shown will be in Clanton by 10 o'clock Friday morning and will remain until 3:00 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The animals will be on exhibit Friday and will be judged Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock. The demonstration on the production of clean milk on the farm will be given by two 4-H Club boys just before the judging of the livestock.

This show will be of interest to all members of the farm family and to all persons interested in livestock.

NOTICE TO AFL MEMBERS

There will be a meeting Saturday night at 7:00 o'clock of Local 2286 AFL at the home of E. T. Weldon in North Clanton. All members are urged to attend.

At a called meeting of the Council Monday, a committee consisting of Grady Heflin, Otto Jones and James Wade was named to check the financial condition of the city and give to the public an understandable report of their findings.

Mayor Stapp advised that as soon as this financial picture can be given to the public, that the citizens of the town will be asked to seriously consider, in view of the financial condition, suggestions as to what the Mayor and Council may do during the next year or two for the general progress and development of the town. He asks that you withhold your suggestion until you get a true picture of the city's financial condition, and then with the financial condition in mind, make your suggestions in writing to the Mayor and Council. Mr. Stapp feels that such suggestions will be of valuable help in planning a program of work for the town.

The Council voted unanimously for Victor Heard for City Clerk; L. F. Gerald Sr., City Attorney and J. A. Nivens Chief of police.

Regular meetings were set for 7:00 o'clock the first and third Tuesday nights in each month.

Mr. Stapp and the Council are anxious that every citizen feel free to meet with the Council on the regular meeting nights and present any problems that should have attention.

Mr. Stapp plans try to be in the Mayor's office from 10 to 12 a. m. each day. When he is not at the Mayor's office you can get in touch with him at his Insurance office, telephone No. 269.

DEMOCRATIC SHIP WEIGHS ANCHOR FOR SAILING

Thos. J. Arledge, Says He Is Fully Behind The Party

Editor Chilton News:

Democracy and Americanism are synonymous terms. The Democratic Party stands for the principles and ideals that we have learned to love under the name of Americanism. We the people have made some errors in the selection of our leaders, some of which strayed away from the principles and ideals so essential to the good of the Party, for the maintenance and preservation of our Democratic type of government. These errors have been few and far between and they have through the promise of right to vote, been promptly detected and corrected.

Throughout the history of our nation since the founding of these United States of America, the Democratic Party has been the staunch supporter of the masses, the common people. It has stood for the maintenance of liberties so clearly given to us by our Constitution. It has favored the protection of the poor and downtrodden and enabled us all to hold our heads high, and it has maintained and sustained our freedom of action and the right to live, act, think and move as truly free men; with the right to vote and aid the selection and election of those who are to minister the affairs of our government.

Just a few weeks from now the people of this country will go to the polls (continued to Back Page)

1917 DRAFT LIST

Events of recent days concerning the Draft have no doubt brought to the memory of many the days of 1917. The News was given a copy last week of the old Clanton List of June 1917 which contains a list of all who registered for military service on June 5th of that year.

Chilton County registered then 1669 names with Clanton producing 360 of the total.

What will be the total this time? officials estimate that the district in which Clanton is located will produce about 1700 with the county at large running over 3,000.

And how many will see active service? In this old list are the names of many who were called to active service and saw active service overseas.

Deep South Quartet At Thorsby Oct. 11

The Deep South Quartet, radio artists of Birmingham will be in concert here Friday Night Oct. 11 beginning at 8:00 o'clock. This concert is sponsored by the P.T. A. and the proceeds to be used for the school. In a recent concert they held in Birmingham over three thousand were there and one at Crampton Bowl in Montgomery five thousand attended. This concert will be one of the best they have ever put on anywhere and a larger crowd than has ever attended a concert here is expected. So come early and get a seat. A Chilton County boy, H. L. Collins is their anchor man and around him the Deep South is built. His father, the late A. A. Collins was one of the best bass singers to be found anywhere and he bids to surpass him. All candidates and other communities are especially invited. Your satisfaction is guaranteed. They will be here rain or shine.

He's Prepared to do his Part!

The thought of preparedness is not new to Bell Telephone workers. In fact, the South's and the nation's vast telephone system is what it is today mainly because preparedness is one of the fundamental principles of the Bell System's policy.

Telephone people are constantly at war with the elements, fire, flood and hurricane. They are prepared in advance to meet the emergency whenever and wherever danger strikes.

Rapidly changing industrial demands—shifting populations—quick expansions in some places and contractions at others—ever-changing problems of supply and demand, are conditions under which all telephone people are accustomed to working.

Years of experience in anticipating, planning for and meeting these exacting demands strengthen the confidence of telephone workers in their ability to provide for the needs of the South and the nation under any conditions that may arise.

CARD OF THANKS

Dear Editor:
Please allow us a small space in your paper to offer our sincere thanks. We first thank God that our boys are back home doing very well. Next we thank Dr. Moore, Dr. Lawrence and nurse, also Mr. Mell Martin and Sons for their kindness shown us.

Next we want to thank our many friends who lent us a helping hand in any way to help us. We want to thank Dr. Taylor and nurse of Prattville for their kindness. Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Davis and family.

TEN RULES FOR HUNTERS

Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 9—"It is better to walk home without game than to be carried home without life," says the Alabama Wildlife Federation in its appeal to Alabama hunters to use care during the 1940-41 hunting season. Seven dead and 19 injured was the toll exacted in 1939-40 by carelessness. This was a decrease from the previous year.

"How to come home alive" during the season on dove and squirrel which opened October 1 north of U. S. highway 80 and opossum, raccoon and rabbit all over the state is explained as follows:

1. Treat every gun with the respect of a loaded gun; take no chances.
2. Do not carry a loaded gun into your automobile, camp or home; carry only empty guns, taken down or with the action open.
3. Be sure your gun barrel and action are free from obstructions and your shot has an open road from firing point to muzzle.
4. Do not use your gun as a leaning post; muzzle upward, it may go off and your head with it; muzzle downward, it may get a plug of dirt in the muzzle and explode when shot.
5. Keep your gun pointed away from other persons; carrying it so you can control direction of the muzzle no matter what happens.
6. Never climb a fence, bank or tree with a loaded gun; always unload it before laying the gun down.
7. Be sure your target before you shoot; that known spot in the bushes may be some kiddie's Daddy like yourself.
8. Never shoot at a flat, hard surface or the surface of water; the shot may ricochet and wound someone.
9. Do not shoot across or within 100 yards of a public road; it is against state law and mighty dangerous.
10. Do not mix gunpowder and alcohol; both are dangerous behind a trigger.
11. Use commonsense at all times in handling a gun; it's much smarter to be safe than sorry.

EASTVIEW

Two delegations of Eastview church people are planning to attend the annual state conference of the Congregational church Thorsby Friday and Saturday of this week. Mr. and Mrs. Perry Smith plan to take one group and Rev. and Mrs. Luther Ballou the other.

Owing to the annual conference, only the Sunday morning and Sunday night services will be held this week-end at the Eastview Church. The regular Saturday meeting is postponed to the following Saturday. Sunday School will be at 10 a. m. Oct. 13th, followed by church services at 11 a. m. The sermon subject will be "Am I my brother's Keeper?" At 7 p. m., Rev. Luther Ballou will preach on the subject "Let There Be Light." The service which it had been planned to hold at 7 p. m. Saturday night with Dr. Douglas Horton of the New York office of the Congregational Christian headquarters as the guest speaker, will not be held owing to the inability of Mr. Horton to be present at that time.

The meeting of the Ladies Aid of the Eastview Church planned for Saturday will be postponed until before the Saturday church services, Oct. 19th.

BIG SHOW HEADS TOWARD US WITH NEW SPECTACLES
Ringlings Import Europe's Best For New 1940 Performances

The Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus, with the world's largest big top in solid blue, improved air conditioning, a new opening spectacle, "The Return of Marco Polo," created and costumed in France by Max Weldy, and an all-new performance, star studied by a tremendous array of new European features, will exhibit in Montgomery, Tuesday, Oct. 15.

Foremost among the impressive im- portations is the great Alfred Court, Europe's most famous trainer, with his three famed mixed groups of perform- ing wild animals—Polar bears, Himal-ayan bears, Bengal Tigers, lions, black and spotted leopards, Siberian snow leopards, black and spotted panthers, cougars, pumas, jaguars and Great Dane dogs, all working together in breath-taking violation of jungle law. Never before has a trainer accomplished this startling mixing of so many species of natural enemies. This is Court's first American appearance.

The leading horsemen of Europe— Hans Strassburger, Vas Concelos and Los Aserveras—with their renowned troupes of dressage and liberty steeds bring the Big Show's horse display to a new high.

IN MEMORY

On Saturday, Oct. 5, the pain- wrecked body and the kind loving spirit of Mrs. John Moore were sepa- rated by death. She was taken sick two weeks ago last Friday.

Mother gave her heart to the Lord and united with the church some years ago. She would have been sixty-three years old the tenth of October.

We can't understand why our pre- cious mother was taken from us, but we know that God knows and we are willing for his will to be done. We are only asking for strength from Jes- us to tide us over this terrible hour. We are looking forward to the day when we can see Jesus our mother, brother and dear little son.

Funeral services were held from the Pleasant Grove Baptist church. Inter- ment was in the Pleasant Grove cem- etery.

She is survived by her husband, Mr. John Moore, seven children, Ezra and Crit of Maplesville, Anglis and Jack of Tennessee, Mrs. J. M. Rhinehart of Tennessee, Mrs. Bessie Mae Camp- bell of Lawley and Otis of Fort Ben- ning, Ga. Six grandchildren, Marie and Jo Anne, Denny Johnny and Nel- ma Moore Donald Campbell.

Democracy Must Not Only Be Preserved; It Must Be Fulfilled!

Mrs. Lennard Thomas, Democratic National Committee-Woman, Delivers Radio Address Saturday Oct. 5th

The past two administrations have a record of no accomplishments and I feel they nor Mr. Roosevelt need no defense. This is no ordinary campaign. It is not only a question of preserving democracy but of fulfilling democracy. We Americans must devote ourselves to building our Nation from within. If we spend billions for defense equipment, we need thousands of well trained men to know how to use this equipment. We must be strong physically to be strong economically. The deep down hopes of our people is for National Security and Unity. All other issues are secondary. In our democratic government of the two party system we know that majority rule is the lifeblood of democracy. When the ballots of free voters are counted the losers fall in line and follow their commander-in-chief, Republican or Democrat. I was born a Democrat, but that isn't why I am speaking now in the interest of the Democratic party and its campaign. I am here because I believe in the past 7 and one-half years of progress, and I wish to stress that I believe in the spirit of enlightened progress which our President has led us forward with. Since time immemorial the Republicans represent the wealth of our land. The Democratic party is the people's party. Now Mr. Willkie was a democrat once, a Tammany democrat, but he saw the GOLD in the Republican party and immediately was re-incarnated a republican. Now that isn't a campaign issue because once a republican, fourteen years ago, I believe, he saw the GOOD in the democratic party and since that time has grown in wisdom and service until the highest tribute our President could bestow upon him was to choose him as his running mate in 1940. Mr. Wallace is a brilliant man with real integrity. He is high-minded, trustworthy and deeply religious. He is not a politician or even a Statesman of the old type; he is a spiritual leader on fire for God. In the early days of Triple A legislation Mr. Wallace as Secretary of Agriculture has succeeded in soil conservation and the protection of consumers through the storage of food and feed against possibilities of scarcity until we now have the greatest reserve supply of food and fibre in history.

I believe every fairminded man without regard to party affiliation will admit that no period of seven and one-half years in American history has seen any man or group of men try more earnestly or faithfully to understand and solve the problems that beset the American people. When the bitterness, narrowness and prejudice of this era have passed away and the impartial rock headed historian shall write the story of this period he will accord Franklin Delano Roosevelt one of the highest places in American Statesmanship. Mr. Roosevelt has proved himself an American above a partisan when he appointed to his cabinet republicans because of their ability to aid in the National Defense program.

Wendell Willkie is running for President on a ticket to serve himself. He has no use for Roosevelt and precious little for the G. O. P. and their eminent leaders. Criticism and fault finding come easy to those who have no record to defend and no policy to advocate. Willkie has criticized but never served only to run over the country opposing T. V. A. Roosevelt and his policies. The 1940 democratic platform is tried and true. Mr. Roosevelt's greatest attribute to me is that he is a Christian. I sincerely believe the world needs to become more God-conscious, and we in America today should bow our knees in humility to God and with our President pray for National Unity, a Christian civilization, and pray to preserve our American way of life with no master but God. Speaker Will Bankhead believed that applied religion was the only hope of solving the World's problems. So do I believe.

The Democratic party faced the responsibility of restoring a badly shattered economic system while at the same time keeping the peace in one of the most crucial periods in world's history. True, we have by no means solved all the problems. Of course we have a huge Federal debt; that is the price we paid for averting chaos, but remember that these enormous sums have been expended without a single scandal. An improvement in the national budget total $18,223,000, these nearly offset the expenditure debt.

The vital issue of the 1940 campaign is, whether we shall continue the policies that have made this country of ours the envy of all the rest of the world or whether we are to revert to the type of government which had resulted in huge fortunes for a few and led to poverty for the many.

Have mistakes been made during the terrific crusade that has come to be known as the New Deal? Certainly. Have the general objectives of this country been realized? Certainly, they have. You have only to compare the true facts and fundamental statistics of the state of the nation today with what it was the day that Roosevelt came to the White House to know that this is true. This is the measure by which the administration must be judged. A shoe salesman stated to me that the month Roosevelt took office as President his check was $33.00, for the month of August 1940 his check was $617.00 plus expenses.

Last year the people of this country received 30 billion dollars more income than they received in 1932. The National income for the past month this year was two billion dollars greater than for the same period in 1939.

Recall that for the first time in history we are representing slaves with decent homes and they in turn are paying increased dividends back to the government.

There are many people who say they do not like the third term. They claim it is breaking a great American Tradition, but America needs a future more than a past; the answers of yesterday are inadequate for today. It would be folly for us, because of such a meaningless taboo as the third term to forego the advantages of Roosevelt's leadership during the next four years. Some say George Washington knew two terms were enough. Let us follow the advice of George Washington and not discuss the third term said QUOTE:

"Under an extended view of this part of the subject I can see no propriety in precluding ourselves from the services of any man, who on some great emergency shall be deemed universally more capable of serving the public."

UNQUOTE. No political expedient or habit is worthy of being called a great American tradition until the American people have passed judgement upon it at the polls. And not once have the American people been called upon to say whether any president has been so valuable to the Nation that his services are needed for a term beyond eight years.

I can find no reason why any Alabamian or Southerner would want to vote other than the democratic ticket when the fact is proven that the present Democratic administration has done more for the South and Alabama than all administrations put together for fifty years. Think of the Alabama men that have risen to National prominence these past seven years.

The woman knows and has given her faith to Roosevelt for he has been the man to raise woman to a new dignity in America. The 1940 Democratic platform reads: QUOTE: "The right to work for compensation in both public and private employment is an inalienable privilege of women as well as men without distinction as to marital status."

UNQUOTE. The republican party dealt a terrific blow to five and one-half million wage earning women by accepting the plank known as the "Equal Rights Amendment". The democrats would not accept it because it was exposed as destructive and will bring about serious inequalities.

The nomination of a utility executive by the Republican party as its presidential candidate raises squarely the basic issue of an old question. Whether the nation's water power and other natural resources shall be used for the people or for the selfish interest of a few? You answer this question with your vote.

Mr. Willkie known as the challenger wants to debate with words with our president, the Champion as Willkie dubbed him. Mr. Roosevelt answered his challenge with work and service.

Win votes with facts. When you joke about the W. P. A. just stop laughing long enough to view a few of their many achievements. More than 477,000 miles of roads built and improved, hundreds of docks, airports and landing fields. Through the guidance of Miss Mary Webb, Director of projects you can visualize and realize far better than I can tell you how W. P. A. has been a sturdy guardian of happiness and livelihood in various jobs in bettering the State and Nation. The 1,000,000 boys in the C. C. C. camps off the streets, have been trained and they have added millions to National wealth through service rendered in preserving natural resources. The feeder roads which carried the farmer from his home to the highway have been rebuilt by W. P. A., saving the farmer many broken down axels and bogged down vehicles.

program for the best navy in the world but actually sunk fine battleships. Although the present administration program of social reform gets top building Roosevelt's work in building the fleet is one of his greatest contributions to the Nation's welfare. The republican predecessors in the White House considered it safe to starve the navy in the interests of economy and it was reduced to a minimum figure. Our army and navy is larger today than it has been in twenty years. The fair minded republicans on the naval committees of Congress admit that because of Roosevelt's wise foresight a program of rebuilding started seven years ago has given the United States the strongest fleet in the world. Mr. Roosevelt wanted to install military training in C. C. C. camps and if you remember he was drowned. In the early days of the Chamberlain appeasement Mr. Roosevelt predicted the war and urged the building up of National Defense. He was fought by formidable Republican opposition. Now these same Republicans accuse the Roosevelt administration of not providing for the common defense, but the world knows better. In Willkie's acceptance speech he boasted to the nation and to the world he revealed himself to the people in his real color when he said, QUOTE: "President Roosevelt has secretly meddled in the affairs of Europe, and he has even unscrupulously encouraged other countries more help than we are able to give."

UNQUOTE. This was the beginning of Willkie's downfall.

Think of the many homes and farms saved through F. H. A. and U. S. L. C. And the safe banks. Not one depositor has lost a penny since the Federal Insurance Deposit Act.

Labor and unemployment. An age old problem. President William Green of the A. F. L. told the Democratic National Convention in Chicago that the Roosevelt administration has done everything in their power to solve the unemployment problems. I believe the members of the C. I. O. are loyal to for they know Roosevelt gave the American worker the key to greater freedom of opportunity when Willkie gave them brass knuckles and tear gas bombs. Willkie's record proves he has been an enemy to organized labor.

The National wage and hour bill was created to give more people work. It has reduced hours and increased pay for more than a million workers.

On the fifth anniversary of social security law 50 million workers were eligible to be self-insured and no longer have to face an uncertain future and uncertain help, of relatives.

By the good neighbor policy we have won the friendship and trust of the countries in South America and the competent, diplomatic Cordell Hull completed the recent defense agreements in Havana and within the past few weeks our President and the Prime Minister of Canada have established a permanent joint board of defense for these two countries. These are important factors in the defense of the United States.

Big business claim they can't make any more money. Procter and Gamble, soap manufacturers made a net profit of 28 million dollars in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1940. The highest profit in 103 years. The small independent store owner will tell you the parity checks, social security checks, old age pension checks, etc. from the Government have enabled them to stay in business.

Our agriculture plank is a continuation of what is best for the farmers of the nation and was written by Senator John Bankhead and Henry Wallace. The parity plan which has been the source of the greatest help to our Southern farmer and a continuation of the soil-conservation program are to be carried on. The Republicans left out the parity in their 1940 agriculture plank. The total 1940 parity checks for Montgomery County alone total $105,000.

We have our splendid Farm Security program with all of its benefits. And our Rural Electric outlay. The common man standard of living has been raised. And I believe in it.

Have you ever thought what is the real Geography? It is more than land. Geography, yes, more than history too. More than great names or living legends. If you would find the real individual in a great land. Measure yourself and see how sincere, unselfish, patriotic, strong, futile, pessimistic, weak or confused are you. For in your heart is the real America, a land which you yourself are making. Do you tear down your America with destructive, untrue criticism. This isn't the way to build a bigger and greater America.

Alabamians! Stand up and fight idly but in your respective counties get busy and tell the world that you as an American citizen are proud of the progress your democratic party has made, and that you stand ready to see that our progress is not molested by the enemy. Let's use our education not to get rich but to enrich America. Our greatest strength is that we are still building our country. Our problems are our greatest opportunities. Valuable beyond all wealth, politics, cross purposes, Republicans or democrats is

WHEREAS, the Legislature of Alabama, at the Regular Session 1939, ordered an election to be held by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama upon a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, which said amendment is herein set out, and ordered that said election be held on the 5th day of the next General Election in Alabama more than three months after the adjournment of the Legislature at which the election was ordered; and

WHEREAS, the First Tuesday after the First Monday in November, 1940, which is the 5th day of November, is the time for holding the next General Election in Alabama more than three months after the adjournment of the Legislature; and

WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with the proposed amendment is required by law, and by the provisions of the Act submitting the Amendment, to be given by a proclamation of the Governor to be published in each County in the State of Alabama once a week for four successive weeks immediately preceding the said 5th day of November:

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Frank M. Dixon, as Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that on Tuesday, the 5th day of November, 1940, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama, in the manner and form provided by law, upon the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901:

"Each municipal corporation in this State whose annual ad valorem tax rate is otherwise limited by the Constitution of this State to a rate not less than one per centum (1%) of the value of the property situated therein as assessed for state taxation during the preceding year shall have, in addition to the power to levy and collect such ad valorem tax each year at the rate authorized immediately prior to the adoption of this amendment, the further power to levy and collect each year an additional tax or taxes to such extent that the total ad valorem tax rate of such municipal corporation shall not exceed one per centum (1%) in any one year on the property situated therein based on the valuation of such property as assessed for state taxation during the preceding year; provided, that before any such additional tax may be so levied and collected a majority of the qualified electors of any such municipal corporation voting at an election called for that purpose shall vote in favor of the levy thereof; provided, further, that the total ad valorem tax or taxes to be levied and collected by any such municipal corporation shall not exceed one per centum (1%) in any one year; and provided further, that the adoption of this amendment shall in no wise affect, limit, modify, abridge or impair the power, authority or right of any such municipal corporation to levy and collect the special school taxes now or hereafter vested or conferred, upon them, or any of them, under the Constitution or any amendment thereto; which said special school taxes shall be in excess of said one per centum (1%) herein provided for. Each election held under the provision hereof shall be ordered, held, canvassed and may be contested in the same manner as is or may be provided by the law applicable to municipal corporations for elections to authorize the issuance of municipal bonds.

The ballots used in such election shall specify the purpose for which the proposed additional rate of taxation shall be authorized and shall contain the words "For _____ % additional rate of taxation;" and "Against _____ % additional rate of taxation;" the additional rate of taxation proposed to be shown in the blank space provided therefor. The voter shall record his choice, whether for or against the additional rate shown, by placing a cross mark before or after the words expressing his choice. The proceeds of any such additional tax so authorized at any such election shall be used only for the purpose for which the same shall be authorized at such election. Elections to authorize the levy of such additional tax may be held as often as ordered by the governing body of the municipality, but when a proposition is submitted to the electors to levy such additional tax for a specific purpose and such proposition is defeated then no second election for the same purpose shall be held in one year thereafter.

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday, the 5th day of November, 1940, upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of Alabama of 1901, be given by publishing the same once a week for four successive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 5th day of November, 1940, in each County in the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said County.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and have caused the Great Seal of the State to be affixed by the Secretary of State, at the Capitol in the City of Montgomery, on this 12th day of September, 1940.

STATE OF ALABAMA A PROCLAMATION BY THE GOVERNOR

WHEREAS, the Legislature of Alabama, at the Regular Session 1939, ordered an election to be held by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama upon a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, which said amendment is herein set out, and ordered that said election be held at the General Election held after the expiration of three months from and after the final adjournment of the Legislature at which the election was ordered; and

WHEREAS, the First Tuesday after the First Monday in November, 1940, which is the 5th day of November, is the time for holding the next General Election in Alabama more than three months from and after the final adjournment of the Legislature; and

WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with the proposed amendment is required by law, and by the provisions of the Act submitting the Amendment, to be given by a proclamation of the Governor to be published in each County in the State of Alabama once a week for four successive weeks immediately preceding the said 5th day of November:

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Frank M. Dixon, as Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that on Tuesday the 5th day of November, 1940, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama, in the manner and form provided by law, upon the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901:

"The salaries of the following named County officers of Dallas County, Alabama, but subject to the provisions of Section 281 of the Constitution of Alabama, are fixed as follows: Judge of Probate, $6,000.00 per annum net; Tax Assessor, $2,000.00 per annum net; Tax Collector, $5,000.00 per annum net; Sheriff, $4,800.00 per annum net; Circuit Clerk, $2,400.00 per annum net; Register in Chancery, $1,200.00 per annum net; provided, that if the same person holds the offices of Circuit Clerk and Register in Chancery, the salary for both offices shall be $3,000.00 per annum net; members of the body governing said body exclusive of the Judge of Probate, $600.00 each per annum net. The above named officers are hereby required to collect all charges of court, fees, commissions, allowances, percentages, salaries or other compensation provided by law, other than the salaries herein fixed, and to cover the same into the county treasury. This shall include the allowances or amounts received by the Sheriff for feeding prisoners from both the State and Federal Government, and the county governing body of Dallas County, Alabama, shall pay the expenses incurred in feeding such prisoners out of the county treasury, but nothing herein shall be construed as interfering with the allowances or amounts provided by law for guards at the county jail or bailiffs for courts, or preventing the county governing body of Dallas County, Alabama, from making such allowances to the Sheriff and his deputies for transportation on official business, including the purchase of automobiles for such use, as it may deem necessary from time to time. The salaries of the above named county officers of Dallas County, Alabama, shall be paid out of the county treasury in equal monthly installments. The employees of said office shall be selected by the respective officers, and allowances for their compensation shall be as follows: 1. Office of Judge of Probate—$6,500.00 per annum. 2. Office of Tax Assessor—$3,000.00 per annum. 3. Office of Tax Collector—$2,000.00 per annum. 4. Office of Sheriff—$4,500.00 per annum. 5. Office of Circuit Clerk—$1,350.00 per annum. 6. Office of Register in Chancery—None. The county governing body shall have the same authority in regard to the employment of persons for the county, and the fixing of their compensation, other than the employees in the above named offices, as provided by law. The salaries of the employees in the above enumerated offices shall be paid out of the county treasury in equal monthly installments; provided, however, that no payment of compensation for any such employee shall be made until the employee has actually rendered the service for which the payment is to be made. The Legislature of Alabama is hereby authorized and empowered, from time to time, by general or local laws, to fix, regulate and alter the employment and compensation of the employees in said offices, including the number and the method and basis of their compensation. The Legislature of Alabama is hereby authorized and empowered, from time to time, by general or local laws, but subject to the provisions of Section 281 of the Constitution of Alabama, to fix, regulate and alter the charges of court, fees, commissions, allowances, percentages, salaries or other compensation received by any officer of Dallas County, Alabama, other than the Judge of Probate, Tax Assessor, Tax Collector, Sheriff, Circuit Clerk and Register in Chancery, including the method and basis of their compensation."

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday, the 5th day of November, 1940, upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, be given by publishing the same once a week for four successive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 5th day of November, 1940, in each County in the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said County.

STATE OF ALABAMA A PROCLAMATION BY THE GOVERNOR

WHEREAS, the Legislature of Alabama, at the Regular Session 1939, ordered an election to be held by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama upon a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, which said amendment is herein set out, and ordered that said election be held at the General Election next succeeding the session of the Legislature at which the election was ordered; and

WHEREAS, the First Tuesday after the First Monday in November, 1940, which is the 5th day of November, is the time for holding the General Election in 1940; and

WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with the proposed amendment is required by law, and by the provisions of the Act submitting said amendment, to be given by a proclamation of the Governor to be published in each County in the State of Alabama once a week for four successive weeks immediately preceding the said 5th day of November:

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Frank M. Dixon, as Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that on Tuesday, the 5th day of November, 1940, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama, in the manner and form provided by law, upon the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901:

"The State of Alabama is hereby authorized to issue not exceeding $5,000,000 aggregate principal amount of bonds for the purpose of paying or redeeming prior to maturity, the bonds of the Alabama State Bridge Corporation and the bonds of the Alabama Bridge Authority, Incorporated, which were outstanding on July 1, 1939. Said bonds shall be general obligations of the State of Alabama, to the prompt payment of which the full faith and credit and taxing power of the State are hereby irrevocably pledged, and all of said bonds, together with any other bonds of the State providing for a pledge of said gasoline excise tax which has been authorized by constitutional amendment ratified on the same day as this amendment is ratified shall be additionally secured, without priority of time bond over another set of bonds of the proceeds of the gasoline excise tax, authorized to be pledged to the highway bonds provided for in the amendment to the constitution known as Article XX-A, subject, however, to the prior pledge of said gasoline tax to said highway bonds. The bonds hereby authorized shall bear interest at not exceeding three per centum (3%) per annum, payable semi-annually, and shall be sold at not less than the par value thereof. Said bonds and the interest thereon shall be forever exempt from taxes of every kind. Said bonds shall be issued at such time or times in such denominations and series and shall mature at such times, not later, however, than fifteen (15) years from the date of issuance, and shall have such other terms and conditions as may be provided by law. In addition to temporary loans authorized by Section 213 of the constitution, as amended, the Governor without further authority is hereby authorized to issue and sell at advertised public sale during any fiscal year, notes evidencing temporary loans for the purpose of providing funds for the payment of appropriations at the time or times when the funds appropriated are needed. The loans here authorized shall, however, be made only in anticipation of the collection of taxes payable during such fiscal year, and the total amount of such loans at any time outstanding shall never exceed thirty per centum (30%) of the estimated amount of uncollected taxes for such fiscal year. The uncollected taxes for such fiscal year shall be estimated by deducting the taxes thus far collected and by deducting the state and local interest thereon maturing during that fiscal year from the annual average of the total taxes of the State collected during the preceding three fiscal years as certified by the State Treasurer. Such temporary loans may be evidenced by a negotiable promissory note or notes of the State and shall be due and payable within the fiscal year in which negotiated and may be renewed or extended but shall not be renewed or extended beyond that fiscal year. Both the principal and interest on said note or notes shall be payable from and secured by a lien upon the taxes in anticipation of the collection of which they shall have been issued and shall also be general obligations of the State of Alabama and the full faith and credit and taxing power of the State are hereby irrevocably pledged to the payment thereof. Said notes and the interest thereon shall be forever exempt from taxes of every kind. The State shall not, directly or indirectly, absolutely or contingently, contract or incur any indebtedness or other obligation except as provided in this Constitution, and no department, board, bureau, commission, agency, institution or office of the State and no public corporation or authority shall ever, directly or indirectly, absolutely or contingently, incur any debt or other obligation payable from or secured by a pledge of any appropriation or of any State funds or any other funds, revenue or income over which the State has any control or issue any warrant or order thereon until such funds, revenues or income have been appropriated and collected or anticipated by temporary loans as herein above provided. Any such debt or obligation of the State and any such debt or other obligation or order of any such department, board, bureau, commission, agency, institution, office, public corporation or authority, shall be void and unenforceable if the State has no funds, revenue or income over which the State has any control shall ever be appropriated or used, directly or indirectly, to pay the principal thereof. Any appropriation for any such purpose shall be void."

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday, the 5th day of November, 1940, upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, be given by publishing the same once a week for four consecutive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 5th day of November, 1940, in each County in the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said County.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and have caused the Great Seal of the State to be affixed by the Secretary of State, at the Capitol in the City of Montgomery, on this 12th day of September, 1940.

MORAL ECHOES

REV. D. W. HASKEW, D.D.

One day I saw a group of six negro men hammering away on a railroad track. They were pounding spikes on one of the sections of the great L & N System. They know but little about the road on which they spent their energy and time, and yet they seemed satisfied and happy. They knew but little about the operation of the trains and the importance of the traffic. They knew themselves to be just a part of a great system, and they were trying to do in an efficient way their work. As workers in the kingdom of God, we do not have to understand everything that God is doing. We have to do our small part to do our aim should be to do well all that is required of us. God knows all the system through and through and he requires of us fidelity where we serve.

In the past I have received many letters of commendation for things that I have written. Along with them came letters of indignation. The most of the letters of a derogatory nature came from people who were indignant because I had said we are generally responsible for our state and for what happens to us. Most of them want to blame the other fellow for their hard luck. They do not want to admit that they have indignation because they overate. They hate for people to think that they have want because they are lazy. Of course they are not to blame for not having a job. It matters not about efficiency and dependability. They are crabbed and cross and wonder why they have so few friends. Some may want to write me a "scorch" about this, but that does not do away with the fact that we reap what we sow. It is up to you to get the knees out of your pad and the bumps out of your road, if you expect smooth traveling.

Men were at work in a large auto factory. Each group had to produce just one part of the machines. One day these men complained that they were required to produce just one part of the machine and that they knew nothing of how the car looked when it was ready for service. Immediately the boss arranged for all of his men to make a tour of the factory and they saw men at work making the separate parts put together. At the end of the journey they saw the machine ready for the road. In this way we are working on just one part of God's program. His plan reaches through the ages. Some day we will be permitted to see the completed plan of God, and then we will be able to understand the part we had to play in the program. Our daily tasks are important for they are just a part of a great whole.

In one of the State Asylums a physician was treating a patient that was gloomy and sad. On his visits the doctor would sit down and exercise his power of wit to cheer up the gloomy man. The crazy man would listen to him for a few minutes with open mouth and with a wondering gaze and then he would say, "Doc, you are interfering with me. If you excuse yourself I will begin my task of sadness and gloom." After saying this, if the doctor would not go, the patient, would stalk out of the room and begin his lamentations. It seemed that nothing could be done with some folks who worry. Some are like the crazy man, they are

Alabama Lays Plans For The Defense

Montgomery, Ala.—A plan of defense for Alabama in case of attack has been worked out by Adj. Gen. Ben M. Smith, under the direction of the U. S. War Department.

Called "the white war plan"—the method constitutes a system of self-protection for Alabama in case no outside help is available or adequate.

The Adjutant-General explained that, in army parlance, the term—"white war plan"—concerns domestic defense, the "crimson plan"—the repelling of attack by another nation, or nations, upon America.

In case of attack upon America defense of Alabama would be placed in the hands of the Home Guard. The Home Guard, now being organized, is composed of approximately 3,000 American Legionnaires and volunteers. It is to go into operation when the National Guard is called from the State.

Approximately two-thirds of Alabama's National Guard forces will go to Camp Blanding, Florida, next month. Remaining units are expected to be mobilized soon thereafter, Gen. Smith said. He expressed his belief, also, that Alabama is the first State in the Nation to complete detailed defense plans. These defense plans are designed to effect five major results:

"1. Adequate reinforcements to the State peace officers in case of a domestic disturbance of a major character (strikes, for example).

"2. Immediate relief to districts within the State which have been devastated by the elements (rain, winds).

"3. The safeguarding and protection of vital installations (a radio station, for example) within the State in case of emergency.

"4. Instructing the population relative to airplane attacks, the organization and establishment of aircraft warning systems.

"5. A force acting alone or in cooperation with Federal forces to repel invasion."

A bill, pending in Congress, calls for guns, uniforms and pay for State Home Guard units. The Alabama Military Department is working earnestly over M-day plans for this State's organization, Gen. Smith said.

The State has been divided into 12 defense areas. Home Guard troops would be drilled in protecting each area. In case of a mobilization order, each group of the Home Guard would present itself at previously designated point.

The State Highway Department, according to present plan, would transport the troops. Present size of the Highway Department truck fleet would assure immediate transportation of 9,000 troops to any point over the State, the Adjutant-General said. The plan would not go into effect, however, until Federal Troops in the State were removed.

In case of disturbance the system would work in this manner: Local peace officers, the Highway Patrol and industrial guards would bear the first shock of trouble. If the situation should prove beyond the scope of these forces, then the Home Guard would be mobilized.

Since Gen. Smith considers intelligence service operations as being a duty of federal and local officials, no provision is made in his plans for a secret service organization. Some vital phases of the plan were not revealed to newsmen.

The 12 areas into which Alabama is divided under the plan for protection are:

No. 1 Tennessee Valley Area—dams, electric generating plants, transmission lines, powder mills.

No. 2 Birmingham District—regarded as most vital of the seven—ore mines, and similar industries, powder mills, rail center.

No. 3 Mobile district—docks, rail road shops, aluminum ore smelting plants.

No. 4 Guntersville Dam—hydro-electric plant, head dam of Tennessee River.

No. 5 Gadsden Area—steel and shell plants, textile mills, auto tire plant.

No. 6 Lindale Area—textile plants with a history of labor unrest.

No. 7 Martin Lake Area—Martin and Tallapoosa Dams, hydro-electric plants.

No. 8 Coosa River Area—Lay, Mitchell and Jordan Dams, hydro-electric plants.

No. 9 Russell County Area—Chattahoochee River, bridges, rail and road route to and from Fort Benning's gas line to Fort Benning.

No. 10 Chattahoochee rail and foot bridges, alternate route to Fort Benning.

No. 11 Dothan Area—two bridges Chattahoochee River, alternate routes to Fort Benning and direct route to Florida.

No. 12 Cochran Bridge—main southern route to and from southwest; route of troops and 8th and 9th district into Mobile.

If your boy is in the navy, army or air corps, send him Chilton County News. He will appreciate it.

far behind with their job of worrying and they resent being disturbed in their daily job. When people worry, it's rather a crazy stunt that they are pulling. If you can help it, why worry? If you cannot help it why worry.

REVIEWS and PREVIEWS

By Irvin Lande

The Idiot; hard winter is approaching in Europe, and the American people are soon to be confronted with the most perplexing question and problem of their entire history.

In Germany, the grain reserves of the Third Reich fell short of annual consumption by about 24,000,000 tons. The winter of 1939 resulted in the loss of the reserves of vegetables. The livestock of Denmark is being rapidly consumed, without sight of being replenished. Norway, before war, had a deficit of over 50 per cent in self-sufficiency. Holland 33 per cent short of being able to feed herself, ruined many of her crops when she flooded the country in self-defense. Belgium's fields and crops are unlikely to be productive after divisions of tanks have rolled across them. France defeated and hungry, will not be able to supply itself with nearly the amount of food she needs. Spain is just now recovering from her own Civil War and her food supplies are limited. Italy is blockaded and cannot expect to get enough food from the 20 per cent of cultivated land that she has. Poland's kams have suffered from late frosts, severe spring floods, and a serious lack of man power because of mobilization. Hungary went on rations. Greece, Turkey, Rumania and Bulgaria are barely able to support themselves. Yugoslavia has no grain for export. And Russia is facing the most serious food crisis since the winter of 1932-33.

The plain facts are that Europe is facing famine this winter.

And we, in the United States, have immense surpluses of food for export. This food is ready to be shipped to Europe to alleviate the suffering that is eminent. Yet the food has not been sent, and will not be sent.

It is entirely obvious that Germany would want the United States, through the Red Cross and other organizations, to ship stores of precious food to Europe. Hitler wants us to feed the Continent. And all humanitarian instincts of the American people tell them to dig deep into their pocketbooks and to ship the grain and vegetables to Europe.

Yet the American people realize that it is not that easy. If we send aid to Britain to win the war against Hitler, why send foodstuffs to Germany to feed the men who are working in the factories to turn out implements of war against the British? Why send aid to Britain? Why send aid to Britain and then turn around and indirectly send aid to Germany.

It is becoming more and more obvious that Great Britain will win the war only through one or all of three ways. The first is by a Russian-Balkan explosion which is unlikely; the second by American intervention which we hope against; and the third by a famine, causing a collapse of Germany, which is possible if we do not send aid to Germany.

Pressure is already being brought to bear on us not to send aid to Britain, and to send foodstuffs to Europe. Germany is quietly hopeful that the American heart will give aid to the hundreds of thousands who are suffering in Europe. And yet we realize if we do give supplies to Hitler, whether they go to the army or not, we will be helping him win the war against democracy.

First of all, however, let us consider the possibilities of Britain allowing American ships through the blockade. Britain would probably resist at first, but fearful of stirring up animosity among Americans, she would later allow our ships to carry aid to the Continent.

Furthermore, she would be afraid that the people of Europe would lose faith in Britain if she presented us from carrying food to millions of people who are faced with starvation.

Therefore, the question is not one of whether or not Britain will let American ships through the blockade, but it is a question of whether or not the American people will see fit to send such aid to the cause she is fighting against.

The issues are rather clear-cut. If we do not send aid to the starving millions of Europe, our conscience will bother us, and probably those same thousands upon thousands will lose confidence in the fight the British are making because they will fear that democracy is not worth while if it does not allow food to be given to those who need it.

On the other hand, we know that we shall be aiding our enemies. We know Hitler will be giving Hitler the power to go ahead in his invasion of Britain; whereas, if we did not give aid to him, he might be torn between internal revolution which Americans hope for, and external invasion which the British are planning.

Those are the issues. Before many weeks are out, our decision will go down into the history books of the world. It is the hardest decision we have yet had to make. We can only trust that we shall make the correct one.

Concrete Paving Is Economy Paving

Anyway you look at it, the section of U. S. 31 through Chilton County—now being rebuilt should be paved with concrete.

We know it's too late to do anything about getting concrete, but for the record, here are a few points the Highway Department seems determined to overlook.

U. S. 31 is one of the most heavily traveled highways in the state. It is a national defense highway linking the important industrial center of Birmingham, with military establishments at Montgomery.

Time after time, in county after county, low type bituminous surfaces such as the one being put down on U. S. 31 have failed under traffic and weather conditions.

Even when they have not failed, the cost of keeping them in a passable condition has been three times the upkeep cost of concrete.

Can't the Highway Department see that every mile of black top put down increases the amount that must be spent for upkeep and repairs - in double proportion because of Federal Aid - the amount left for new construction?

John C. Curry, State Tax Commissioner announced that state revenue collections increased during the fiscal year ended Sept. 30th, $3,257,203, setting a new high record of $33,303,648.

to vote, not only for local and state officers, but to name a new President, to fill the highest office in our national Government. There are a lot of things to consider in this, and we the people must do a lot of thinking. The world is at war, the most destructive ever known in the history of all nations. Should we choose a new organization to take over the reins of our government at this period and remove those from office who have already gained full knowledge of conditions, and who have already set in motion such measures deemed so necessary and essential to the protection and preservation of our country? No, it is not wise to make the change at this time. We need those now in power to remain at their posts and carry out the plans which have been promulgated and now developing at a rapid and satisfactory pace.

Under these circumstances and after full consideration of the risks involved, I want all my friends in Chilton County to know that I am fully behind the Democratic Party and all candidates on the Democratic Ticket.

REUNION AT FLINT HILL

On the fourth Sunday in this month, October there will be a reunion of parents, teachers and pupils of the once Flint Hill School eight miles northwest of Rockford. Many of the people who once lived in Bentleyville, Thompsonville and Bell Rattle moved to Chilton County. They and their families are cordially invited to attend this reunion. Two ministers who grew up in this vicinity, Emory Corley and Butler Miller will preach on that day.

Let all of our Chilton County, Coosa and Elmore friends go back once more to "Old Flint Hill", drink of the pure water that flows from the foot of the hill, shake hands with each other, and hear two eminent divines who are products of a community from which so many noted men of our great state have come.

All of us are going to carry lunch to help feed the large crowd that will be in attendance, since the population there now is sparse.

Respectfully,
A. R. Jones.

STATE OF ALABAMA A PROCLAMATION BY THE GOVERNOR

WHEREAS, the Legislature of Alabama, at the Regular Session 1939, ordered an election to be held by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama upon a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, which said amendment is herein set out, and ordered that said election be held at the General Election to be held in Alabama in November 1940; and

WHEREAS, the First Tuesday after the First Monday in November, 1940, which is the 5th day of November, is the time for holding the General Election in 1940; and

WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with the proposed amendment, is required by the provisions of the Act submitting said Amendment, to be given by a proclamation of the Governor to be published in each County in the State of Alabama once a week for eight successive weeks immediately preceding the said 5th day of November, 1940;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Frank M. Dixon, as Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that on Tuesday, the 5th day of November, 1940, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama, in the manner and form provided by law, upon the following amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, as follows:

"The Legislature, of Alabama may hereafter, from time to time, by general or local laws fix, alter, and regulate the fees, commissions, allowances and salaries to be charged or received by the Sheriff of Mobile County, and including the right to place said officer on a salary basis and provide that the fees, fines and forfeitures received or collected by said officer be paid into the treasury of Mobile County, Alabama, and to fix and provide the amount and method of compensation of such officer. All Acts of the Regular Session of the Legislature of 1939 and 1939-40 heretofore passed and applicable, or purporting to be applicable to said Mobile County, and fixing, or purporting to fix the basis of compensation and compensation of said officer, or placing said officer on a salary basis, are hereby ratified and confirmed."

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday, the 5th day of November, 1940, upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, be given by publishing the same once a week for eight successive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 5th day of November, 1940, in each County in the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said County.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and have caused the Great Seal of the State to be affixed by the Secretary of State, at the Capital in the City of Montgomery, on this 12th day of August, 1940.

FRANK M. DIXON,
Governor.

communities of Clanton, Jimson, Verbena, Thorsby and Maplesville. Part three consists of suggestions by the author for learning more about other natural communities in the state and is entitled "Why Not Learn More About The Communities of Your County?"

The study is illustrated with pen and ink drawings by Miss Marjorie Plank, of Gadsden, and by maps and photographs. The book carries an introduction by Donald Comer, chairman for Alabama in the Southwide Campaign for Balanced Prosperity, 1940-50; and a foreword by President A. F. Harman of Alabama College.

In the publication Dr. Sanders examines the significance of determining the natural communities in the work of the business man, minister, farm worker, educator and editor, explaining, to watch for CCC enrollees working which grow up around a church or school or a crossroad store and grist mill combine to make up a larger community where leadership and social participation are important factors. In his introduction Mr. Comer says of this study: "If we are to have vision, if we are to progress, if we are to want something better for tomorrow, it is worthwhile to have a definite starting time and place, and in this inventory of Chilton County we are well on the way."

Hill To Speak For Roosevelt

The Democratic National Executive Committee has selected Senator Lister Hill to represent the party in a debate with Senator Robert A. Taft, of Ohio, in Columbus, Ohio, Oct. 21.

Senator Hill, who enjoys the distinction of being the only man in American history ever to place a president in nomination for a third term, will speak for a half-hour in support of President Roosevelt's reelection.

CLANTON LIONS TO SPONSOR PLAYGROUND

Grammar School Sorely In Need Of Playground For Children

The Clanton Lions Club at their regular bi-monthly meeting last Wednesday night voted unanimously that they would sponsor a playground for the children at the Clanton Grammar School.

Lion President Grady Heflin stated that he would also urge the Mayor and City Council to aid in the project. A committee was appointed by the president to work out plans to be discussed at the next meeting which will be Wednesday, October 23.

It was also reported by the Lion Secretary, Fred Bucklew, that fifteen pairs of glasses had been bought to date for children with poor eyesight whose parents were unable to do so. This is a major objective of every Lion Club. Let all members remember that the next meeting night is Wednesday, October 23, at 7:30 and be present for this meeting. Much good can be accomplished within the next few months if all members will back the officers in sponsoring and working out objectives for the remaining months of 1940.

Register For Full Course CPT Training

All young men and women between the ages of 19 and 26 inclusive who desire to learn to fly under the Civilian Pilot Training Program should register at once. Tentative requirements are: Above mentioned age limits, ability to pass a physical examination, equal to commercial pilot's requirements, citizen of the U. S., read, write and understand the English language and pass competitive examination from ground school course which gives 72 hours instruction. Those passing above requirements will be awarded flight scholarships consisting of a minimum of 8 hours dual flight instruction and 35 hours solo flying. At end of flight training, examination will be given for private pilot's license.

Total cost to students will be a minimum of $15.00 and a maximum of $25.00, which covers physical examinations, insurance, and miscellaneous items. The total cost of the flight training will be paid by the government. All students completing courses will be fully qualified and capable of piloting aircraft of 1-15 rating anywhere in the U. S. All training will be under strict government supervision by CAA inspectors; the Civilian Training program having established an unprecedented safety record for training of pilots.

Ground school will be held at convenient location in Clanton at nights. Flight training will be given students at hours most convenient for them for minimum loss of time from jobs, at Gragg Field, Clanton, Ala.

Contact Dr. V. J. Gragg or Chas. Wade at Gragg Field, Clanton, Ala., for registration, or Leo Thompson.

Coosa County Court Convenes October 28

Full term of Coosa Circuit Court will convene Oct. 28, Judge W. W. Wallace, Columbiana, will preside. The Grand Jury will be organized the first day and civil cases will be taken up the first week. The second week will be devoted to the trial of criminal cases.

the other day. Charlie is in sort of a fix. He is trying to choose between Chilton County and Baldwin County. Looks as if Baldwin is winning for he says he is having to spend most of his time down there where he has extensive farming interests. Charlie says that he is having to keep his nose to the Baldwin grindstone and that must be the reason we don't see as much of him around as heretofore.

THE WHOLE TRUTH

Judge J. Lee Smith Replies To Chairman Billingsley And Secretary Wyatt

TREASURER'S STATEMENT SHOWS BALANCE OF $65,848.88

Mr. W. J. Billingsley, Chairman, Mr. T. E. Wyatt, Secretary, Republican Campaign Committee of Chilton County, Clanton, Alabama:

Sirs:

I have read the article appearing in the Union-Banner of October 10, 1940, in which you ask me for certain information.

On October 9, 1940 you were given, upon your request, a financial statement of the condition of Chilton County by Mr. J. E. Easterling, the County Treasurer, and the statement as given to you by Mr. Easterling on said date is as follows:

| "Union-Banner" | |
|--|-------------|
| Clanton, Ala. | |
| Gentlemen: | |
| In reply to your request for a statement as to the financial status of Chilton County as of October 9, 1940. | |
| General Fund | $859.31 |
| Special Gasoline Fund | 37,553.52 |
| Fiduciary Fund | 1,049.56 |
| Fine & Forfeiture Fund | 228.57 |
| Gasoline Fund | 7,662.58 |
| Land Redemption Fund | 364.56 |
| Road & Bridge Fund | 375.52 |
| Sinking Fund | 3,975.90 |
| Sales Tax | 2,406.12 |
| Public Welfare Fund | 564.98 |
| Time Deposit | 10,809.16 |
| Total | $65,848.88 |

Yours very truly,
J. E. EASTERLING, County Treasurer."

Why didn't you publish this statement as it was given to you, showing that there was $65,848.88 in the Treasury. Now Mr. Billingsley and Mr. Wyatt, you know that you left out the above statement in order to mislead the tax payers and voters of Chilton County. Now, Mr. Chairman and Mr. Secretary, you made the statement that the Commissioners in Districts Three and Four paid 64c per foot for grader blades, when the Commissioners in District One and Two paid only 48c per foot for the same blades.

I wish to call your attention to the fact that Mr. Cobb and Mr. Davis and also Mr. Ousley have bought, from time to time from Joe Money Machinery Company, Birmingham, Alabama, and paid 55c for grader blades and 10c for bolts making a total of 65c, and I will be glad to show this to any person who will call in the Probate Office, and one of these invoices are still unpaid that Mr. Cobb, Mr. Davis and Mr. Ousley purchased. There are three invoices for blades, one shipped to Mr. J. E. Cobb, one to Mr. A. J. Davis and one to Mr. R. L. Ousley, on file in the Probate Office and each Commissioner has approved for payment, as well as many other invoices already paid. Now, please explain just why you want to misrepresent this to the tax payers and voters of Chilton County.

In answer to your paragraph in regard to paying the Gore Plumbing Company, $1,036.13, when you state that on previous years, which I have not checked, the expenses was something like $250.00. In answer to this, I will say that the Grand Jury of our County in their report suggested that the plumbing condition in the court house was in bad shape and should be repaired. Men confined in the jail, from time to time, have torn up the plumbing and it would be necessary to repair it and the Sheriff employed the plumber to repair same. This is generally known by the people of the county and also known by you.

As to the tire and tube you mentioned bought for $89.00, if you will give me the approximate date of purchase (Continued To Back Page)

Chilton County's Financial Condition

Few, in fact very few, counties in Alabama can show as clean financial bill of health as Chilton.

Chilton, thanks to its Probate Judge and Board of County Commissioners, have kept the tax payers and public in general, informed twice a year, through an itemized financial statement, showing where each and every dollar of the tax payers' money is spent and what for.

The last semi-annual statement got more favorable comment from the state press than we have ever seen accorded to any other county on the manner in which the public is kept informed as to the county's financial condition.

Thanks to the Probate Judge and Court of County Commissioners (through diligent guarding of the county's credit) any Chilton county warrant issued for any purchase or other obligation, can be cashed within five minutes at 100 cents on the dollar in real money. My, how many other counties in the State would like to be able to make such a statement.

A question has been raised as to the present financial condition of the county. Judge J. Lee Smith promptly answers the question by forwarding "The Whole Truth" on page one of this issue of Chilton County News. The balance in Chilton County's treasury on October 9th, 1940 was $65,848.88.

Now there isn't a taxpayer in Chilton County, or the State of Alabama, who does not know that the State and County fiscal year ends with September 30th of each year, and that the cash balance is the lowest at that period, and increases as taxes are collected.

Several years of this writer's life has been spent in collecting taxes and public revenues, and he knows, as every business man in the State knows, that there are influential looking and long-haired men for the day when their fingers may find an opportunity to reach into Chilton County's treasury and begin to take out of it dividends because of the County's unstable financial condition. Taxpayers, the three men who stand today between you and such a condition are J. Lee Smith, J. Monroe Parrish and R. L. Ousley. They have been tried and found true. Hold fast to that which is good.

Bankhead And Hill On Farm Bureau Program

Howard Gray, president, Alabama Farm Bureau Federation, announced today that both Senator John H. Bankhead and Senator Lister Hill accepted invitations to speak to the 19th annual meeting of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation. The meeting will be held at the Tutwiler Hotel, Birmingham, Alabama, October 27-29.

Senator Bankhead will speak on "National Legislation for Agriculture." Senator Hill's subject will be "The Farmer and The National Defense."

Others who have accepted invitations to address the meeting said Gray, are President Edward A. O'Neal of the American Farm Bureau Federation; Governor Frank M. Dixon; Congressman John Sparkman; Extension Director P. O. Davis; Donald Comer, prominent Alabama industrialist; Mrs. Raymond Sayre, director, Associated Women of the American Farm Bureau Federation; and others.

The President's Dinner on Sunday night, October 27, will mark the beginning of the annual meeting. The dinner will be attended by the convention voting delegates as well as a number of outstanding industrial leaders. One of the highlights of the meeting will be the official convention banquet on the night of October 28.

Registration will begin on Sunday afternoon, said President Gray, and will continue through Monday morning.

Councillors: Mrs. W. W. Wingard and Miss Martha Jule Blackshear; Intermediate Councillors: Mrs. Maurice Hodgson and Mrs. Clinton Arnold; Senior advisor, the Pastor.

FOLKS and THINGS ABOUT TOWN

Franklin dropped by to see us Friday night while we were pounding old typewriter, and let me tell you we enjoyed his visit immensely. He is attending Auburn now and I believe Bonnie and other boys will have been here to talk with him. He helped "the force" move the post from the old building next to Martin & Sons Funeral Home four years ago and of course remembered all the old names and faces with the News when he came. He said he was the "devil" and told the interesting tales of happenings at that time. He named the "force" at that time and I believe they were Ewart Corley, Bonnie Hand, John Dwyer, Vernie Teel and himself.

Our hats are off to Messrs. (and I mean messrs.) Duffey and Free, owners and operators of the Radio Service Company for the man in which they are handling the speaker system at the football game—Lawrence and Guy are doing a good job of announcing the games. We think that the football fans of our town and vicinity should give a riot of thanks to these two civic minded young men.

We also want to give three cheers to Frank Cox for a fine game of football last Friday night against Ma. Frank played a jam up game looks as though he will develop into all threat before the season is over.

Recent reports show that there were 1400 bales of cotton ginned in this county this year as of October first, a decline of 297 bales compared the 1939 crop.

Our good friends, Bee and Ralph, did not let last Saturday night night to start with—Congratulate Ralph. And to you Mrs. Bryan. Ralph is like all other men and pretty sure that he will be—I just feel like congratulating you now, and no fooling, the best of things—always to you both, Mr. Mrs. Ralph Bryan. By the way, get to add—May all of your troubles be insignificant.

May's Long Story—Pee Wee and went squirrel hunting—Pee Wee "Jelly" got lost—that was about 10 o'clock in the morning—it started about twelve o'clock—Pee Wee "Jelly" came out of the woods at three o'clock that afternoon—hungry—tired—and also very in case you don't know, Charlie in this drama. They are Leroy and Jelly Bean. Time, last Place: Mulberry Swamp.

Joe Cleecker, who is behind the again at Calloway's Drug Store, that he will be glad to have his friends come to see him. There has been out of the city for some time that thinks at this time that he will put for a while. And take it from me does mix a "mean" coke.

Samson Hunter of the Week goes to James Arnold. Sunday night hepped up down town and showed the Rattle Snake, at least four feet and six or eight inches in circumference. Let's see, it had ten rattles and buttons as we remember. Now Daniel Boone brings into the office a Wildcat, not a full grown but approximately two feet from stern, which is no kitten in case you see said "cat" in the woods with moon. James says tomorrow he's to bring us a bear.

Pilot Club Meeting

The Clanton Pilot Club met on last Wednesday night, Oct. 9 in the dining room of the Methodist Church, with Circles one and two serving. An interesting Founders day program was enjoyed, and several new members were initiated. Delilah Grant was in charge of the program.

A profitable garage sale was conducted with Mattie Jo Barber as auctioneer. Plans were perfected for the Club to sponsor a refreshment stand at the live-stock show the last of the week, results of this undertaking were satisfactory. The Club very gladly gave one gallon of cod liver oil to be used for underprivileged babies in the County. Nineteen members were present, including two very new members, Irma Jackson and Flora Harris. On the 23rd of this month the club will observe their annual boost's night. A splendid program is being prepared.

There will be a District W. M. U. meeting at the First Baptist church of Clanton on November 8.

Chilton High Meets Sylacauga Fri. 7:30

The Chilton High Tigers have three victories in foot ball safely salted away against one defeat for this season, but come Friday evening of this week and all past achievements are cast into the discard. The mighty Sylacauga High team is coming to town. Last year they succeeded in holding Sylacauga to a tie score until the last two minutes of the game when Sylacauga got away for a touchdown winning the game 19 to 13.

Coach Spicer is working hard with his team, and is making no predictions as to how the game will turn out. Those people who attend this game are assured that they are in for a hard fought game and it is not impossible for Clanton to ease in the winner.

This is the last game in Clanton until Nov. 8 as the Chilton boys play in Centerville and Wetumpka before returning home to meet Holtville Nov. 8. Clanton line-up: Collins, L. E.; Williams, L. T.; Headley, L. G. Jones, C. Mizell, R. G.; Smith, R. T.; Johnson, R. E.; Thomas, G. B. McClain, L. H.; Sides, R. H.; Cost, F. B. Sylacauga line-up: Barry B.; Summers, B.; Campbell, E. E.; Right, E.; Wheeler, C.; Erwin, T.; Compton, T.; Campbell, G.

OUSLEY FURNISHES TRUE FIGURES ON MONEY SPENT FOR BLADES

Declares That Charges Made In Last Week's Union-Banner Are Erroneous And Cites Figures Below

Clanton, Ala., Oct. 10, 1940. To Mr. W. J. Billingsley, Chairman, and Mr. T. E. Wyatt, Secretary, Republican Campaign Committee of Chilton County:

Intem: In your article appearing in the October 10th issue of the Union-Banner headed HOW IS OUR TAX MONEY BEING SPENT? I wish to clarify that part of your article pertaining to the Commissioner of the Third District.

In the fifth paragraph of your article you state that the Commissioner of the Third District is spending 16c per foot more for grader blades than are the Commissioners in the First and Second District. The following is an invoice showing that Commission-er A. J. Davis bought from the Joe Money Machinery Company, Birmingham, Alabama on July 25, 1940 twelve sets of grader blades at 55c per foot. Joe Money Machinery Company, July 25, 1940.

1 1/2" x 6" Grader Blades, price 55c-$79.00.

On the same day August 21, 1940 Mr. Joe Cobb bought grader blades from Joe Money Machinery Company, AND THERE IS AN INVOICE IN THE COMMISSIONERS COURT SHOWING THIS STATEMENT TO BE CORRECT that Mr. Cobb, also, paid the same price for his grader blades that Mr. Davis and myself paid for our grader blades. This matter of record and cannot be denied. I have no criticism to make regarding the purchase of grader blades by the two Republican Commissioners, we are all buying them from the company and at the same price, above two invoices show this to be true and I request that you put this letter in the Union-Banner. You have accused me of wrongdoing without having first checked the records of the Commissioners Court, as a matter of fact if you had checked the records of the Commissioners Court you would have discovered that Mr. Cobb, Mr. Davis and myself have been buying grader blades from same Company and at the same price. Yours very truly, R. L. OUSLEY, Commissioner Third District.

STATE OF ALABAMA
A PROCLAMATION
BY THE
GOVERNOR

WHEREAS, the Legislature of Alabama, at the Regular Session 1939, ordered an election to be held by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama upon a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, which said amendment is herein set out, and ordered that said election be held the day of the next General Election in Alabama more than three months after the adjournment of the Legislature at which the election was ordered; and

WHEREAS, the First Tuesday after the First Monday in November, 1940, which is the 5th day of November, is the time for holding the next General Election in Alabama more than three months after the adjournment of the Legislature; and

WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with the proposed amendment is required by law and by the provisions of the Act submitting the Amendment, to be given by a proclamation of the Governor to be published in each County in the State of Alabama once a week for four successive weeks immediately preceding the said 5th day of November;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Frank M. Dixon, as Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that on Tuesday, the 5th day of November, 1940, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama, in the manner and form provided by law, upon the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901:

"Each municipal corporation in this State whose annual ad valorem tax rate is otherwise limited by the Constitution of any amendment thereto to less than one per centum (1%) of the value of the property situated therein as assessed for state taxation during the preceding year shall have, in addition to the power to levy and collect such ad valorem tax each year at the rate authorized immediately prior to the adoption of this amendment, the further power to levy and collect each year an additional tax or taxes to such extent that the total ad valorem tax rate of such municipal corporation shall not exceed one per centum (1%) in any one year on the property situated therein based on the valuation of such property as assessed for state taxation during the preceding year; provided, that before any such additional tax may be so levied and collected a majority of the qualified electors of any such municipal corporation voting at an election called for that purpose shall vote in favor of the levy thereof; provided, further, that the total ad valorem tax or taxes to be levied and collected by any such municipal corporation shall not exceed one per centum (1%) in any one year; and provided further, that the adoption of this amendment shall in no wise affect, limit, modify, abridge or impair the power, authority or right of any such municipal corporation to levy and collect the special school taxes now or hereafter levied or conferred upon them, or any of them, under the Constitution or any amendment thereto, which said special school taxes shall be in excess of one per centum (1%) herein provided for. Each election held under the provision hereof shall be ordered, held, canvassed and may be contested in the same manner as is or may be provided by the law applicable to municipal corporations for elections to authorize the issuance of municipal bonds.

The ballots used in such election shall specify the purpose for which the proposed amendment is submitted and shall be authorized and shall contain the words "For _____ additional rate of taxation;" and "Against _____ additional rate of taxation;" the additional rate of taxation proposed to be shown in the blank space provided therefor. The voter shall record his choice, whether for or against the additional rate shown, by placing a cross mark before or after the words expressing his choice. The proceeds of any such additional tax so authorized at any such election shall be used only for the purpose for which the same shall be authorized at such election. Elections to authorize the levy of such additional tax may be held as often as ordered by the governing body of the municipality, but when a proposition is submitted to the electors to levy such additional tax for a specific purpose and such proposition is defeated then no second election for the same purpose shall be held in one year thereafter."

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday, the 5th day of November, 1940, upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, be given by publishing the same once a week for four successive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 5th day of November, 1940, in each County in the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said County.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and have caused the Great Seal of the State to be affixed by the Secretary of State, at the Capitol in the City of Montgomery, on this 12th day of September, 1940.

STATE OF ALABAMA
A PROCLAMATION
BY THE GOVERNOR

WHEREAS, the Legislature of Alabama, at the Regular Session 1939, ordered an election to be held by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama upon a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, which said amendment is herein set out, and ordered that said election be held at the General Election held after the expiration of three months from and after the final adjournment of the Legislature at which the election was ordered; and

WHEREAS, the First Tuesday after the First Monday in November, 1940, which is the 5th day of November, is the time for holding the next General Election in Alabama more than three months from and after the final adjournment of the Legislature; and

WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with the proposed amendment is required by law and by the provisions of the Act submitting the Amendment, to be given by a proclamation of the Governor to be published in each County in the State of Alabama once a week for four successive weeks immediately preceding the said 5th day of November;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Frank M. Dixon, as Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that on Tuesday the 5th day of November, 1940, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama, in the manner and form provided by law, upon the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901:

"The salaries of the following named County officers of Dallas County, Alabama, but subject to the provisions of Section 281 of the Constitution of Alabama, are fixed as follows: Judge of Probate, $5,000.00 per annum net; Tax Assessor, $5,000.00 per annum net; Tax Collector, $5,000.00 per annum net; Sheriff, $4,800.00 per annum net; Circuit Clerk, $2,400.00 per annum net; Register in Chancery, $1,800.00 per annum net; provided, that if the same person holds the offices of Circuit Clerk and Register in Chancery, the salary for both offices shall be $3,000.00 per annum net; members of the county governing body exclusive of the Judge of Probate, $600.00 per annum net. The above named officers are hereby required to collect all charges of court, fees, allowances, salaries or other compensation provided by law, other than the salaries herein fixed, and to cover the same into the county treasury. This shall include the allowances or amounts received by the Sheriff for feeding prisoners from both the State and Federal Government, and the county governing body of Dallas County, Alabama, shall pay the expenses incurred in feeding such prisoners out of the county treasury, but nothing herein shall be construed as interfering with the allowances or amounts provided by law for guards at the county jail or bailiffs for courts, or preventing the county governing body of Dallas County, Alabama, from making such allowances to the Sheriff and his deputies for transportation on official business, including the purchase of automobiles for such use as it may deem necessary from time to time. The salaries of the above named county officers of Dallas County, Alabama, shall be paid out of the county treasury in equal monthly installments. The employees of said office shall be selected by the respective officers, and allowances for their compensation shall be as follows: 1. Office of Judge of Probate—$5,000.00 per annum. 2. Office of Tax Assessor—$3,600.00 per annum. 3. Office of Tax Collector—$2,600.00 per annum. 4. Office of Sheriff—$4,800.00 per annum. 5. Office of Circuit Clerk—$2,400.00 per annum. 6. Office of Register in Chancery—None. The county governing body shall have the same authority in regard to the employment of persons for the county, and the fixing of their compensation, other than the employees in the above named offices, as provided by law. The salaries of the employees in the above enumerated offices shall be paid out of the county treasury in equal monthly installments; provided, however, that no payment of compensation for any such employee shall be made until the employee has actually rendered the service for which the payment is to be made. The Legislature of Alabama is hereby authorized and empowered, from time to time, by general or local laws, to fix, regulate and alter the employment and compensation of the employees in said offices, including the number and the method and basis of their compensation. The Legislature of Alabama is hereby authorized and empowered, from time to time, by general or local laws, but subject to the provisions of Section 281 of the Constitution of Alabama, to fix, regulate and alter the charges of court, fees, commissions, allowances, percentages, salaries or other compensation received by any officer of Dallas County, Alabama, other than the Judge of Probate, Tax Assessor, Tax Collector, Sheriff, Circuit Clerk and Register in Chancery, including the method and basis of their compensation."

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday, the 5th day of November, 1940, upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, be given by publishing the same once a week for four successive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 5th day of November, 1940, in each County in the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said County.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and have caused the Great Seal of the State to be affixed by the Secretary of State, at the Capitol in the City of Montgomery, on this 12th day of September, 1940.

STATE OF ALABAMA
A PROCLAMATION
BY THE GOVERNOR

WHEREAS, the Legislature of Alabama, at the Regular Session 1939, ordered an election to be held by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama upon a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, which said amendment is herein set out, and ordered that said election be held at the General Election next succeeding the session of the Legislature at which the election was ordered; and

WHEREAS, the First Tuesday after the First Monday in November, 1940, which is the 5th day of November, is the time for holding the next General Election in Alabama more than three months after the adjournment of the Legislature; and

WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with the proposed amendment is required by law and by the provisions of the Act submitting said amendment, to be given by a proclamation of the Governor to be published in each County in the State of Alabama once a week for four successive weeks immediately preceding the said 5th day of November;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Frank M. Dixon, as Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that on Tuesday, the 5th day of November, 1940, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama, in the manner and form provided by law, upon the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901:

"The State of Alabama is hereby authorized to issue not exceeding $5,000,000 aggregate principal amount of bonds for the purpose of paying or retiring prior to maturity, the bonds of the Alabama State Bridge Corporation and the bonds of the Alabama Bridge Authority, Incorporated, which were outstanding on July 1, 1939. Said bonds shall be general obligations of the State of Alabama, to the prompt payment of the principal of and interest on which the full faith and credit and taxing power of the State are hereby irrevocably pledged, and all said bonds, together with any other bonds of the State providing for a pledge of said gasoline excise tax which may be authorized by constitutional amendment ratified on the same day as this amendment is ratified shall be additionally secured, without priority of one bond over another, by a pledge of the proceeds of the gasoline excise tax authorized to be pledged to the highway bonds provided for in the amendment to the constitution known as Article XX-A, subject to the payment of the prior pledge of said gasoline tax to said highway bonds. The bonds hereby authorized shall bear interest at not exceeding three per centum (3%) per annum, payable annually, and shall be sold at not less than the par value thereof. Said bonds and the interest thereon shall be forever exempt from taxes of every kind. Said bonds shall be issued at such time or times in such denominations and series and shall mature at such times, not later, however, than fifteen (15) years from the date of issuance, and shall have such other terms and conditions as may be provided by law. In addition to temporary loans authorized by Section 213 of the Constitution, as amended, the Governor without further authority is hereby authorized to issue and sell at advertised public sale during any fiscal year, notes evidencing temporary loans for the purpose of providing funds for the payment of appropriations at the time or times when the funds appropriated are needed. The loans here authorized shall, however, be made only in anticipation of the collection of taxes payable during such fiscal year, and the total amount of such loans at any one time shall never exceed thirty per centum (30%) of the estimated amount of uncollected taxes for such fiscal year. The uncollected taxes in such fiscal year shall be estimated by deducting the taxes thus far collected and by deducting the taxes pledged for bonds and interest thereon maturing during that fiscal year from the annual average of the total taxes of the State collected during the preceding three fiscal years as certified by the State Treasurer. Such temporary loans may be evidenced kind, by the promissory note or notes of the State and shall be due and payable within the fiscal year in which negotiated and may be renewed or extended, but shall not be repaid until the fiscal year beyond that fiscal year. Both the principal of and interest on said note or notes shall be payable from and secured by a lien upon the collection of which they shall have been issued and shall also be general obligations of the State of Alabama; and the full faith and credit of the State are hereby irrevocably pledged to the payment thereof. Said notes and the interest thereon shall be forever exempt from taxes of every kind, but shall not be directly or indirectly, absolutely or contingently, contract or incur any indebtedness or other obligation, except as provided in this Constitution, nor to department, board, bureau, commission, agency, institution or office of the State and no public corporation or authority shall ever, directly or indirectly, absolutely or contingently, incur any debt or other obligation payable from or secured by a pledge of any appropriation or any State funds or any other funds, revenue or income over which the State has any control or issue any warrant or order thereon until such funds, revenues, or income shall have been appropriated and collected, or untaxed by temporary loans as herein above provided. Any such debt or obligation of the State and any such debt or obligation or warrant or order of any such department, board, bureau, commission, agency, institution, office, public corporation or authority, shall be void and unenforceable; and no State funds and no funds, revenue or income over which the State has any control shall ever be appropriated or used, directly or indirectly, to pay the principal thereof or the interest thereon. Any appropriation for any such purpose shall be void."

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday, the 5th day of November, 1940, upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, be given by publishing the same once a week for four successive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 5th day of November, 1940, in each County in the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said County.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and have caused the Great Seal of the State to be affixed by the Secretary of State, at the Capitol in the City of Montgomery, on this 12th day of September, 1940.

FRANK M. DIXON, Governor.

Need Laxative? Take All-Vegetable One

Don't let impatience lead you into harsh measures for the relief of constipation!

There's no use, for a little spicy, all-vegetable BLACK-DRAUGHT, taken by simple directions, will gently persuade your bowels.

Taken at bedtime, it generally allows time for a good night's rest. Morning usually brings peaceful, satisfying relief from constipation and its symptoms such as headaches, biliousness, sour stomach, no appetite or energy.

BLACK-DRAUGHT's main ingredient is an "intestinal active" which helps tone intestinal muscles. 25 to 40 doses, only 25c.

MRS. WEBB PARRISH, Correspondent

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Johnson of Ypsilanti, Michigan visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Howard last Sunday. Mr. Johnson will be remembered by Thorsby old-settlers as the son of Mr. and Mrs. Nels Johnson who built the Bosworth house. This he said was the first house built in Thorsby in 1895. The Johnson family was the first to settle here and Carl Johnson was the first child born in the new Thorsby in 1896. They took pictures of his old home and of the Swedish church, which his father built.

Thorsby Institute News
Thorsby Institute has its first term examinations on Thursday and Friday of this week, October 17-18. Examinations will be held every six weeks.
The Glee Club of Thorsby Institute made its first appearance at Chapel on Tuesday morning, October 8. The Quartet, which consists of Frances Weed, Ruby Raybon, Kathryn Pratt, and Annette Merchant, also sang several numbers.

Dr. Douglas Horton of New York spoke at the Institute Chapel on Friday. He brought out the points of Leadership, Marksmanship, and Statesmanship as important factors in the development of young people.

Thanksgiving will be observed on November 21 by Thorsby Institute instead of November 28 as scheduled in the catalogue because the Governor of Alabama has set aside that day for the state celebration.

The chapel program of Thorsby Institute on Monday, October 14, consisted of a talk given by Warren Benson on the "Advantages of Bookkeeping."

On Friday night, October 18, a unit of the Ladies Guild, an organization of Thorsby that raises money for the Thorsby Institute will have an oyster supper at the Thorsby Institute Dining Hall from 5:30 until 7:40. Everyone is invited. 30c for one, 50c for a married couple.

France Is Ninth Nation to Fall

Succumbs to Might of Nazi Army After 8 Others Had Given Up.

WASHINGTON. — France is the ninth nation to succumb to the might of Germany in little more than two years.

The great Nazi offensive which culminated in the surrender was launched the day after the Germans completed their mop-up of Flanders with the capture of Dunkirk.

Nine days later Adolf Hitler's iron legions marched into Paris and the swastika banners were unfurled over the Palace of Versailles. Within another two days the Germans had outfanked the famed Maginot line and the French were forced to abandon the $500,000,000 system of fortifications in which they had placed their supreme trust. The withdrawal was the beginning of the end for the armies of France.

The train of events which led up to the outbreak of war last September began a shot. On Sept. 1, 1939, when German troops marched into Austria without opposition.

In March, 1939, Hitler, defying threats of British and French resistance, took over Czechoslovakia without firing a shot. On Sept. 1, 1939, he ordered his armies into Poland, again defying Britain and France, who proclaimed a state of war with Germany two days later.

The Germans required less than a month to overrun Poland. Warsaw fell on September 28 after a terrific siege that reduced the city to ruins.

Invade Norway April 9.

On April 9, after a winter of comparative inactivity, the Germans invaded Norway and Denmark, meeting no resistance in the latter country. On May 10, they invaded the Netherlands, Belgium, and Luxembourg.

Holland capitulated in four days, and Belgium gave up the struggle 14 days later, on May 28, paving the way for the final defeat of the allied armies in Flanders and the pulverizing German march on Paris.

The Germans, with their Nazi blitzkrieg methods accomplished the downfall of France amazed military experts, who before the war had rated the French army as the best in the world.

Most observers believe the French made their gravest mistake in imposing too great confidence in the defensive strength of the Maginot line and in failing to adapt their strategy to the German methods of lightning warfare.

The maximum strength of the French army at the outset of the war was estimated at 6,000,000 men, including the air force. The latter was acknowledged to be far inferior numerically to the German air arm, which generally was considered the most powerful in the world.

69 Millions in Empire.
France has an unestimated number of troops under arms in the Near East and in its African possessions.

Whether they will continue to fight and what will become of French territories overseas is a matter of speculation.

France itself has an area of 212,659 square miles and a population of 42,000,000. Its colonial empire embraces 4,613,315 square miles and a population of 89,076,627.

These possessions include: In Asia: Syria, French India, and French Indo-China.

In Africa: Morocco, Algeria, Tunisia, French West Africa, Togoland, Cameroon, French Equatorial Africa, Madagascar, Comoros, and Somaliland.

In the Americas: St. Pierre and Miquelon islands; Guadelupe, Martinique and French Guiana.

In Oceania: New Caledonia and Tahiti.

Find Most Powerful Germ Killer in Garden Soil

PHILADELPHIA.—You can go out in your back yard and dig up material for the most powerful germ-killer known to science, according to a Franklin Institute micro-biologist.

The new drug was described as a gray, powdered substance derived from harmless vegetable micro-organisms found in the ordinary garden soil. But it can kill hosts of virulent, disease-causing bacteria, such as pneumococcus, staphylococcus, streptococcus, and anthrax. Dr. J. C. Hoogerheide, of the institute revealed.

Dr. Hoogerheide isolated the drug, known only as HI, after three years' work in the institute's biochemical research foundation.

Institute spokesmen stressed the fact that HI has not been tried internally on human patients pending further research. One physician reported, however, that he used solutions of the new drug to clear up infected wounds and treat cases of gangrene.

Tunnel Sunk as Gamble for Gold Of Cripple Creek

Many Believe That Under Water Is Deposit of Fabulous Wealth.

DENVER. — The newest large-scale gamble in the West—where the pioneers made it fashionable to risk anything from their luggage to their life on the turn of a card—involves pouring $200,000 down a dry hole beneath a gold camp and hoping water will come out.

The costly hole is to be a tunnel, biggest privately financed project of its kind, which will pass deep beneath the water-filled mines of Cripple Creek, historic gold camp southwest of Denver, which yielded $18,000,000 worth of ore yearly in the heyday of the 1890s.

Officials of the Golden Cycle corporation, mining firm which is financing the tunnel project, don't think it's much of a gamble. Neither do the people of Cripple Creek, who saw their boom town die and razed most of their buildings to deep mines when water choked the deep mines.

More Millions Vanished.

They believe that under the water lies a wide gold deposit of fabulous wealth. The tunnel—which will be 9 feet wide, 8 feet high and 32,000 feet long—is designed to drain the water from the mines in a radius of 30 square miles. Golden Cycle officials believe that the drained mines will be productive for another 20 years and that additional millions of dollars of gold will be added to the $450,000,000 already taken from Cripple Creek.

Trained crews are working day and night to drive the deep-drainage tunnels, named Carlton tunnel in honor of the brothers who founded the Golden Cycle firm, through six miles of mountain by next summer.

Drilling was started on July 18, 1939. Driving through solid rock at some points at an average speed of 55 feet an hour, the tunnel has reached the 15,208-foot mark on June 1. Officials said the half-way mark in the six-mile-long tunnel should be passed by July 4. At the present rate of drilling, they said, the tunnel would be finished by the summer of 1941, a full year ahead of schedule.

Precedent for Belief.

The Golden Cycle firm has a precedent for its belief that the tunnel will drain the mines and once more start a flow of yellow ore from Cripple Creek. A smaller tunnel, started in 1907 and finished to a length of 24,255 feet 11 years later, completely drained the Cripple Creek crater for 5,700 feet below the deepest mine shaft. The tunnel—called the Roosevelt bore—reopened the field for 10 years before water again flooded the diggings. The Carlton tunnel will be 1,100 feet below the older bore.

Miners in the Cripple Creek area long have believed that veins in the region converge in a great yellow mass at the throat of the extinct volcano on which the gold field stands. They hope the tunnel may permeate deep enough to reach the volcano throat.

Water expected to flow from the new tunnel when it is completed will be an important addition to Colorado irrigation, officials said. Flow through the tunnel will drain into the Arkansas river valley, Colorado's "vegetable bowl."

Woman a Prison Refused Permitted to Serve Term

MANILA.—After four vain attempts a Filipino woman finally was permitted to enter Bilibid prison to begin a two-year sentence after she properly identified herself to the satisfaction of prison officials.

Sentenced in Camarines Sur province, the woman voluntarily came to Manila and surrendered at the prison but was four times turned away because she could not identify herself as the person described in the commitment papers she carried. Located at a Manila warehouse, she, the induced prison authorities to let her begin her sentence.

Isabella News

Isabella school is planning to add a new attraction to her schedule this week. Miss Green, a new member of the grammar school faculty, is planning to organize a Glee Club, composed of twelve high school girls and twelve high school boys. We hope the pupils and teachers will cooperate with Miss Green.

The Senior class met last Thursday and selected their rings and invitations for this year. We hope everyone will have their rings by Christmas.

The biggest game of the season was played Friday night on the Clanton ball field. Although Clanton won, we feel proud of our boys because of their honesty and fair playing. Keep your heads up boys its not the one who wins the game that always counts, but the sportsmanship you show during the game will go a long ways.

TIMBER IS A CROP LIKE CORN

Timber is a crop just like cotton or corn and farmers should not overlook the farm woodland when making their farm plans, says Rufus Page, Jr., extension forester.

A farmer who manages his woodland and protects it from fire may harvest regular crops of sawlogs, poles, pilings, staves, fire wood, pulpwood, and fuel wood from the inferior trees which he cuts to improve the stand. He should sell by board feet rather than for a lump sum and he should select and mark the trees to be cut. When farm woodlands receive the serious attention of every owner they will show good returns for the attention, he says.

Camera Rivalled By Unusual Eyes

'I Could Tell at a Glance,' Meant by This Man.

ELKHORN, WIS.—Harold Gruenwald, 39 years old, means it when he says, "I could tell at a glance."

He is gifted with what can best be described as a "photographic eye."

His eyes take in as many as 20 to 25 letters at a glance and his mind retains the image so that he can quickly give the middle letter of each word or the total of letters in each word.

With amazing speed he can total the number of letters in a line of type after only a cursory glance, or enumerate the alternate letters and then go back and pick up those he missed.

His vision also is sharper than ordinary in that he can read the letters on a distant billboard when the billboard itself is just discernable to others.

Gruenwald says he first noticed his unusual ability when he was about nine years old. He makes no attempt to explain it, but asserts: "When I was a boy I was ill a year and read a lot. Numbers began associating themselves with words at that time. But it can't be just memory work, because I can give you the numbers of letters in a book of scientific words that are strange to me as easily as with more common words."

Gruenwald's seven-year-old daughter, Jane, shows signs of developing the same ability, he says.

So far, the man with the "camera eye" uses his gift only for amusement, but he hopes some day to find a practical purpose for his faculty.

1940 Call for Red Cross Recruits

The 1940 Poster of The American Red Cross sounds the call to the nation to serve humanity within the ranks of this army of mercy.

KEEPING step with the boys called to the colors in America's new defense army and navy, will be the American Red Cross, fulfilling its mission of service to the men in the line and to their loved ones at home.

Chairman Norman H. Davis announced in Washington. "Several thousand Red Cross nurses already have been called to the colors," Mr. Davis said. "And Red Cross said directors, and thousands of Red Cross workers in chapters throughout the nation, are ready to help America's soldiers and sailors with personal problems, just as in the 1917-18 World War period."

"Every patriotic man and woman in the United States, who wants to do his or her share in upholding the national defense of our nation, can do so by sharing in the vitally important work of the Red Cross. Join as a member of the local chapter during the roll call, November 11 to 30, and through your support you will strengthen the Red Cross army of mercy.

"Recruits are needed not alone as members, but also as volunteer workers in the Red Cross chapters." Red Cross work will continue undiminished in its usual domestic program of relief in disaster; community public health nursing; safety education and promotion of the Junior Red Cross. An individual membership in Red Cross chapters, but in the nation Relief to war victims in Europe is financed by the $20,000,000 war relief contributed by the public during the summer of 1940.

Heaviest Drinkers Between 20 and 30

Research Foundation
Result of Survey.

CHICAGO. — Excessive drinking, especially among persons between 20 and 30 years old, has increased greatly in the last three years, according to Charles R. Jones, executive vice president of the American Business Men's Research foundation.

"A survey reveals that in the younger age group two out of five men and one out of 12 women drink in such amounts as to constitute in many cases sub-standard risks for life insurance companies," Jones said.

Jones said the foundation was conducting an analysis of the experiences of insurance companies as concerns drinking habits. "Drinking habits, we have found, are responsible for one of the most difficult situations ever to arise in the life insurance business," he said.

"Many directors and underwriters are advising us that they are forced either to decline outright or to accept only at special high rates, more applicants for life insurance for excessive drinking habits than for any other cause," Jones said.

One company reported that for each 1,000 applications rejected 24 indulged excessively in liquor. "With high blood pressure and serious heart ailments, both frequently the results of drinking, they are responsible for more rejections than for all other causes combined," Jones said.

Scientists Dig Up Bones Of Mastodon of Legend

TUCSON, ARIZ.—Scientists of the University of Arizona are uncovering bones of a giant mastodon discovered by the Papago Indians in southern Arizona.

Dr. Emil S. Haury, head of the anthropology department of the university, said the exact site of the discovery was being kept secret until the skeleton could be removed.

The bones were partly exposed by erosion. The Indians believe that long ago the mastodon threatened to eat alive the entire tribe of Papagos but was killed by a tribal god, Etol.

According to the Indians, Etol allowed himself to be swallowed by the monster and then cut its heart out.

What's in a Name? Ten Days for Him

OMAHA, NEB.—Edgar Stevens has an answer to what's in a name—in his case 10 days in jail. Arraigned before Judge Palmer on vagrancy charges, Stevens explained that as Kansas court judge in the county jail he was known as "Suspended Sentence Stevens." "They call me 'Ten-Day Palmer,'" the judge said.

Village Owes Existence To a Strange Mistake

BEULAH, MICH.—This town of 350 population is built on a "mistake."

It was here in 1873 that Archibald Jones, an Illinois business man, discovered he should not have tampered with nature. He had planned a canal connecting Crystal lake with Betsie river to open new territory for the Michigan lumbering industry; but instead he created a flood that killed one man, swept away live stock and lowered the Crystal lake level to 15 feet. He had neglected to learn that the lake elevation was higher than the river's.

The roar of a torrent let loose when the last of the canal was cut through was heard five miles away. For two weeks the lake water surged through swamps over an area nine miles long and three miles wide, and when the flood subsided Crystal lake had no timber along its shore but a vast expanse of sand and dried mud.

Settlers, however, dammed the canal cut 30 years later, built a beach and railway along the sandy beach and founded Beulah in a valley once submerged in water.

Blackboard Maps Used To Meet Quick Changes

LORAIN, OHIO.—Lorain public school authorities believe they have found the answer to the puzzling program of what to do about classroom maps of Europe when national boundaries change or disappear almost weekly.

Sets of "waxable blackboard" maps have been installed. Boundaries are colored in washable crayon and the maps covered with a glassy transparent material to prevent smudging.

So no matter what happens in Europe overnight, the Lorain geography class maps will be up-to-date, teachers say.

To Mark Discovery Of Soil Chemistry

100th Anniversary of First Advance in Farming.

CHICAGO.—A milestone in agricultural history will be observed this year with the 100th anniversary of the discovery of modern soil chemistry and the principles of plant feeding.

Justus von Liebig, according to a bulletin issued here by the Middle West Soil Improvement committee. "Tolling with crude implements in his makeshift laboratory at Glessen, Germany, in 1840," says the bulletin, "Liebig pioneered the way for an epochal advancement in farming methods. His experiments proved that plants get carbon, hydrogen and oxygen from the air, while they must depend on the soil for nitrogen, phosphoric acid, potash and other elements."

"He learned that while the supply of elements from the air is inexhaustible, the plant food resources of the soil are limited and must be replenished if fertility is to be maintained. He analyzed the ashes of various crops and discovered what elements they remove from the soil, and their growth, and the superintending tical manures—the forerunners of modern, commercial fertilizers—containing essential mineral substances, and carried out extensive experiments on a 10-acre plot near his laboratory."

"Before Liebig's discovery, the science of agronomy was still in the dark ages. On the basis of the facts he established, the modern fertilizer industry came into existence. In this country the production of mixed fertilizer first began in 1850. Ten years later, production amounted to about 20,000 tons. Today farmers in the United States use nearly 8,000,000 tons of fertilizer annually."

"Knowledge of the soil and its needs has grown tremendously since Liebig's time. Today modern facilities make it possible for agronomists at state agricultural colleges, and in the United States use modern tests of a farmer's soil which reveal its requirements of nitrogen, phosphoric acid and potash. On the basis of such information he can select the fertilizer which best suits to his land and the particular crops he intends to grow."

Old Time Prospectors Disappear From Montana

HELENA, MONT.—The thousands of prospectors who swarmed over western Montana in the days of Alder and Last Chance Gulch have few modern counterparts, according to a local newspaper.

"Like everything else, gold mining has gone streamlined. With it went most of the old-timers, experts with gold pan, pick and shovel."

Since 1927, only 301 permits good for exploring ground and taking assay samples, have been issued by the board. Of the total, 112 were issued for prospecting in Lewis and Clark county where Last Chance Gulch attracted thousands of gold seekers in the last century.

Although providing only for prospecting, the permits give holders preference in mining leases should they strike "gold."

Married in Wheelchairs
GLENDALE, CALIF.—Romance hurdled a major obstacle as Miss Louise Lorene Jones, 23, and Walter E. Ulrich, 33, both permanent invalids, were married in a wheelchair ceremony.

License for Contraption Baffles Highway Bureau

CHARLESTON, W. VA.—The state road commission will have no more sleep over the classification of Robert Duke's "whatchamacallit"—the contraption he drives daily between Bakerston and Shepherdstown, where the reason (or reasons) the commission was baffled:

The frame took shape out of old iron girders salvaged from the Harper's Ferry bridge after it crashed in a flood in 1928. The contraption was once part of a radio wind charger, and a cream separator gave up the drive chain tightener. The motor was discarded from a motorcycle, and the integral part of a vacuum cleaner.

So the commission pondered, the commission puzzled, and finally the commission said a motorcycle license would suffice.

Legislative Mace

The famous mace in the house of representatives was probably last used during the sixty-fifth or War congress, when heated words passed between Representative Tom Hefflin of Alabama and Representative Patrick Daniel Norton of North Dakota. Norton approached Hefflin aggressively, but before any damage could be done the sergeant at arms came between them with the mace. Mr. Hefflin figured in another incident with Representative John L. Burnett of his own state when the same hectic scene took place. Hefflin, a leading advocate of war with Germany, had made some remarks which were construed as casting aspersions upon the patriotism of members opposed to the passage of a resolution which took America into the World War, whereupon Mr. Burnett inquired why his colleague did not go to war himself. The mace was required to restore order.

"Hunters Be Careful"

This is an appeal to hunters in Chilton County to be careful when hunting, to watch to CCC enrollees working wooded areas. Practically all of the men at Camp SC-7 are engaged in clearing pasture at this season and it is obvious that they are sometimes scattered over several acres.

New these pastures are usually in bottom land that happens to be a favorite hiding place for wildlife particularly opossums and squirrels and adds to the hazards caused by careless men and boys with guns.

Signs are placed in the vicinity of crews working in these areas, but it is entirely possible for a hunter to enter the work section or adjacent fields and forests without seeing them, so be careful as possible.

The work the men are doing tends to increase wildlife which is a part of the Program. A few less animals killed now, will make better hunting in the future, and we are proud of our safety record, help us to maintain it.

Mt. Carmel

Our S. S. crowd was rather small last Sunday. Come on folks let's not dishearten our new, superintendant. Next Sunday is preaching day.

Mr. and Mrs. Reclus ones and Mr. Clifton Davenport of Enley spent Saturday and Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Davenport.

"Ma" Seywell is real glad to get her purse back that she lost during the revival here.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Foshee visited the latter's parents near Stanton Sunday.

Mrs. J. C. Scott and Mrs. Luther Leach spent Sunday with their sister at Pates Chapel.

Mrs. Mary Davenport, spent Friday night in Clanton last week. On last Saturday afternoon, little Betty Jean Oden entertained some of her friends at a party. The occasion being her seventh birthday. Games and contests were enjoyed until a late hour after which the candles on the cake were lighted and refreshments were served to those present.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Bowden of Birmingham stopped for a short while with relatives Sunday evening.

Mrs. Salls Oden spent last Friday with Mrs. Barney Mizelle at Isabella.

69 School Fires During Past Year

A total of 69 school house fires caused damages of $304,224 in the year ending Sept. 30, Dr. A. H. Collins, state superintendent of schools, reported today in urging city and county superintendents to conduct immediate, thorough investigations to locate possible fire hazards.

Thirty-three buildings were destroyed, while the remaining 36 were only partially burned. Collins wrote, adding that in three instances the loss exceeded $30,000 and that only 75 per cent of losses were covered by insurance.

Alabama Is Getting Big Share Of Defense Contracts

Defense contract outlay for Alabama shows:

$7,966,000—National defense construction contracts to Sept. 15, allocated by site of project to Alabama, according to the monthly review bulletin, Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta.

$1,169,000—National defense textile contracts to Sept. 15.

$15,000,000—Reynolds Metal Company aluminum plant, Sheffield. This represents the authorized R. F. C. loan. The project complete is expected to cost considerably more, millions of dollars.

$6,000,000—Gadsden Shell Loading Plant. The government has not yet definitely announced plans for this plant, but congressional sources regarded as a certainty that it would be built.

$32,400,000—Gulf Shipbuilding Corporation, Mobile, navy contracts to build four destroyers.

$700,000—Air Corps housing Montgomery.

$175,000—Army housing, Ft. McClellan.

Explosion At Maxwell Field

James Ray Lord, 21, of 109 Floyd Street, civilian employee at the Maxwell Field Post Exchange, was injured fatally at 7:12 a. m. Monday, and about 12 other persons narrowly escaped serious injury when the building was rocked by an explosion tentatively attributed to accumulated gas.

New Salem

We are proud to say that we have one of the best Sunday Schools that we have had in a long time. Last Sunday the number enrolled was 91, our goal is 100. We are hoping that next Sunday there will be 99 new members added to our Sunday School. The teachers and students both are taking more interest in our Lord's work than they have in a long time. Sunday School will begin next Sunday at 9:00 A. M. We urge everyone that will come to Sunday School next Sunday and please be on time.

Next Sunday afternoon is our regular Singing school. All singers and listeners that like to hear good singing come to New Salem at 1:30 P. M. Be sure to bring your new song books.

Passenger Cars Involved In 4 Out of 5 Accidents

Chester the Pup

By GEORGE O'HALLORAN

MACTAVISH and I like to hunt gophers in the empty lot, and sometimes Harold, the airedale from down the block, comes over and joins us. Harold is a nice guy and all that but when it comes to hunting, he doesn't know from zero. Yet to hear him talk you'd think he was one of the bloodhounds that chased Eliza across the ice. Why that undersized timber wolf couldn't track a Swiss cheese across a pool table without getting lost in one of the side pockets. We hardly ever catch anything we chase, but yesterday Harold discovered a porcupine and we not only chased him, but we caught him. Of all the things to catch, porcupines are one of the things you shouldn't. My nose is swollen up bigger than a muskmelon and it's so tender that throbs when even a shadow falls on it.

Lights of New York
by L. L. STEVENSON

America: One of this department's most efficient and valued scouts dropped into Henry Rocano's, Conn., and in the course of a friendly conversation casually inquired if he'd had any demand for rifles or shotguns on the part of customers who wished to be ready in case any German parachute troops landed in their vicinity. Rocano replied that an aged and quite wealthy woman who lives in the neighborhood had bought a rifle and a large supply of ammunition because of the possibility that Nazis might land in Connecticut. He didn't want to give her name because it might embarrass her but added that if any one did pick up a beating matter on her part, they would meet with a warm reception. Somehow the vision of a gray-headed woman on guard gives one a warm and comforting feeling about America.

Fame: Nineteen-year-old Carol Bruce, who until the debut of the new musical comedy hit, "Louisiana Purchase," was merely an obscure struggling young singer, now finds herself the center of attention of velvet-voiced vendors who besiege her with wares and suggestions as to how she should dress and make up in a befitting manner on her new importance. Here are some samples of advice she has received from those who would part her from her money:

Don't be prosaic. Try a panther lap robe for afternoon motoring, a laprobe of silver foxes for evening. This is the season for whopping big jewels. Six bracelets on a wrist, a pin as big as a powder puff, an emerald necklace with a clasp the size of a doorknob.

For afternoon wear, one pink, one blue glove. And so on and on and on. Street Scene: An old man with a long white beard peacefully slumbering on a Central Park West bench. . . A ragged colored man going along slowly and stopping to swiftly retrieve a cigar butt of considerable length. . . Ragamuffins scouling the park rocks like young goats. . . A pretty nursemaid pushing a perambulator with her eyes apparently demurely on the sidewalk. . . Yet taking notice of a big truck driver who is waiting for the light to change. . . An enormously fat woman with one of those tin-cup size has perched jauntily over her left ear a bicycle zig-zagging through the traffic. . . A vendor of ice cream stopping to ring his bell. . . and the sleeper jumping to his feet and scuttling away muttering.

Ethics: Now that gofers are out in full force, a New Yorker who spent several months in the Florida winter belt recalled an incident of the styling of the hair of the caddies are all colored. While playing with his daughter one afternoon, he knocked the ball into the rough. As he approached it, he noticed that the caddy was using it up. Somewhat sharply, he ordered him not to do that as it was against the rules. The caddy looked at him amazed and replied, "Well, mister, I've been a caddy for this club two or three years and some of the members like to have their ball set up and some don't but mostly they do." And that, the New Yorker holds, is a tip-off on honesty.

Advice: Sometime ago, in this space a cure for tired feet was mentioned. J. A. Baror of Harrisville, Mich., holds that I should have advised that when drying the feet, they shouldn't be sawed with the towel but dried by standing on it else there might be "needle corns" which feel like a red-hot needle being driven into the sole of the foot. As for "needle corns," he says to draw about three inches of cold water, not ice water, into the tub and soak the feet for 20 minutes. Then stand on the bath in this club two or three years and some of the members like to have their ball set up and some don't but mostly they do." And that, the New Yorker holds, is a tip-off on honesty.

Panhandling: Noted a panhandler at work. His clothes indicated that he had slept in a park all night and his step was unsteady. But seemingly he was a shrewd judge of human nature as almost every man he tackled, instead of shaking his head, dug into his pocket. After plying his trade vigorously for possibly a half hour, the moocher walked away rapidly and, screened from the view of the club two or three years and some of the members like to have their ball set up and some don't but mostly they do." And that, the New Yorker holds, is a tip-off on honesty.

End Piece: The other afternoon at a bridge club, a gentleman who wished to open a fresh pack of cigarettes drew from his pocket a small pair of scissors and carefully cut the cellophane wrapper instead of vainly scratching. He always carried scissors, he explained, and that led May to remark that after all, he might be a merchant tailor. (Oak Syndicate—WNU Service.)

Glass Eye Explodes

U. S. '39 Income
Seventy Billions
Increase of $5,400,000,000
Over 1938 Total and 75% Over 1932.

WASHINGTON.—The national income in the United States for 1939, according to a commerce department statement, totaled nearly $70,000,000,000, an increase of $5,400,000,000, or 8.5 per cent, over the 1938 total and nearly 75 per cent over that for 1932.

Since the 1939 production of goods and services was valued at prices considerably less than in 1932, when the peak income of $82,900,000,000 was achieved, it was asserted that the "real" national income, the quantity of goods and services produced, in 1939 was at least equal to and probably exceeded the previous all-time high.

Accelerated expansion in business activity after the outbreak of the war in September was in large measure responsible for the rise. It brought the "real" national income in 1939 to a point from a third to a half above that of 1932.

Cost of Living.

The dollar income in 1939 was 16 per cent lower than in 1932, but prices showed even larger declines over the 10-year period. The cost of living of urban wage-earners was 17.4 per cent less than in 1929, while wholesale prices in 1939 were down slightly more than 19 per cent.

The flow of income during the first half of 1939 was only moderately above the rate prevailing in 1938, but the increased physical output and higher prices as a result of the war brought the flow of national income by the end of the year to a rate which annually would be in excess of $75,000,000,000.

Manufacturing, construction work done under contract in mining and agriculture, industries which generally contribute about a third of the national income, accounted for more than 80 per cent of the income decline in 1938 and two-thirds of the increase in 1939.

The manufacturing and contract construction industries increased by about 25 per cent last year. Mining showed a gain of 15 per cent and transportation increased 13 per cent.

Others Increased.

All other groups increased, from less than 1 per cent in the case of government to 7 per cent for the communications industry. The moderate expansion in regular government activities was offset by a drop of nearly $300,000,000 in post-project wages.

In 1938, total income disbursed by all producing units in the United States was nearly $1,500,000,000 more than the national income, indicating that part of the income distributed came from existing receipts of business enterprises, rather than exclusively from current production. In 1939, on the other hand, the national income exceeded income disbursed by about $750,000,000, and the national income increased $5,800,000,000 in 1939, while income distributed rose $3,600,000,000.

Disbursements for the services of employees increased from $43,400,000 in 1938 to $46,800,000 in 1939. Exclusive of work project wages, this total rose $2,800,000,000, or 6.5 per cent. Dividends increased about one-sixth in 1939, where industrial payments declined slightly.

Average earnings per full-time worker were higher than in any year since 1931.

FOOD LOCKERS

(From the Des Moines, Iowa Locker Patron)

Alabama is known variously as the "Cotton" State, the "Lizard" State, and the "Yellowhammer" State. Every fall it is known for having a mighty good football team at its State University. Alabama is also rapidly taking its place as an important locker state, according to Eric Alsbrook of the State Department of Agriculture.

Mr. Alsbrook's recent booklet, issued after a trip that brought him into contact with a great many locker plant operators and state and college officials in the midwest's locker state, is a convincing and interesting outline of why locker plants so far established in Alabama have done well and why many more should be built in this state.

"Alabama there are several reasons for establishing plants throughout the state," says Mr. Alsbrook in his booklet. Our loss from spoilage of pork and pork products each year is of sufficient value to build a complete storage system for the state. We buy from outside the state more than $200,000,000 worth of meat products each year. This is about $300,000 for each county in the state. Yet, we ship out thousands of hogs and cattle each year. We must do more processing in the state. The average consumption of beef in Alabama is less than five pounds per capita while that in the New England States is more than 30 pounds per person.

"The beef consumption on the farms of Alabama is distressingly low because there is no means of keeping it from spoiling. The consumption of fresh pork is confined to a few weeks during 'Hog Killing' weather.

"When we get a complete system of refrigeration in Alabama that twenty million dollar debt will disappear and our consumption of beef will be on a par with that of the nation.

"The Locker Storage System is one of the most important developments that has come to the Alabama farmer in a generation. If properly used it will improve the health conditions, raise the standard of living and increase the farm income."

Mr. Alsbrook presents some good suggestions to those interested in the building of new locker plants in this state. He points out that in this state where pork curing is a big business a locker plant can be profitably operated with less lockers rented than in the northwestern states.

In conclusion his book says, "The locker plant is here to stay. It is going to spread to every trade center in Alabama. It probably means more in added employment of live stock and community life. It means that everything that has happened in a generation.

"Through the combined efforts of the State Department of Agriculture, the Extension Service and the State Chamber of Commerce we should have a system of refrigeration in Alabama that would totally destroy the nightmare of seeing twenty millions of dollars go out of Alabama each year for meat and meat products.

"Alabama has made wonderful strides all in the building of locker plants during the past year. In fact, more plants have been built there in the process of construction during the past 12 months in Alabama than in all the rest of the southeastern states combined."

What Mr. Alsbrook says of his state is equally true of many other southern states. It is true that many southern farm and business leaders are seriously eyeing the locker industry as a solution to their regional problems.

The first locker plant in Alabama was started in June of 1939. There are now 24 plants in operation in Alabama.

STATE OF ALABAMA

A PROCLAMATION

BY THE GOVERNOR

WHEREAS, the Legislature of Alabama, at the Regular Session, 1939, ordered an election to be held by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama upon a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, which said amendment is herein set out, and ordered that said election be held at the General Election to be held in Alabama in November 1940; and

WHEREAS, the First Tuesday after the First Monday in November, 1940, which is the 5th day of November, is the time for holding the General Election in 1940; and

WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with the proposed amendment, is required by the provisions of the Act submitting said Amendment, to be given by a proclamation of the Governor to be published in each County in the State of Alabama once a week for eight successive weeks immediately preceding the said 5th day of November, 1940;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Frank M. Dixon, as Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that on Tuesday, the 5th day of November, 1940, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama, in the manner and form provided by law, upon the following amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, as follows:

"The Legislature of Alabama may hereafter, from time to time, by general or local laws fix, alter, and regulate the fees, commissions, allowances and salaries to be charged or received by the several polling places within the State of Alabama, in the manner and form provided by law, upon the following amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, as follows: 'Further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday, the 5th day of November, 1940, upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, be given by publishing the same once a week for eight successive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 5th day of November, 1940, in each County in the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said County.'

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and have caused the Great Seal of the State to be affixed by the Secretary of State, at the City of Montgomery, on this 12th day of August, 1940.

FRANK M. DIXON,
Governor.

FOUR RULES APPLY IN CREAM SAVING

Sale of cream by farmers is rapidly increasing in Alabama and bringing about additional income on many farms. However, F. W. Burns, extension dairyman, warns that unless four main objectives are kept in mind there will be little, if any, profit.

These four objectives, or rules, are: (1) produce clean milk, (2) keep milk utensils clean, (3) keep cream cool and (4) deliver cream as often as possible.

Mr. Burns says it is easy to produce clean cream if the milking is done in a clean shed and in clean buckets. Cows should be cleaned before milking and sanitary strainer pads which can be destroyed after one using are advisable.

"Most folks, by improper washing, fail to keep their utensils clean," he says. "The best methods is to first use cold water to wash containers after they are used. This washes the fresh milk off. If hot water is used, as is too often the case, the milk sticks to the container instead of coming off.

After the cold rinse, the containers should be thoroughly washed in lukewarm water with washing powder. After this washing, the utensils are rinsed in warm water, and finally sterilized in boiling water."

In regard to the cream, the specialist advises keeping it cool at all times by use of a refrigerator or cold water. It should not be stored where there are bad odors or be delivered once every four days or oftener. Most creameries will pay two to three cents more for fresh cream than for stale cream.

SEED GROWING NEEDED AS RESULT OF WAR

Seed production, as a new source of income, has been suggested to farmers by R. M. Evans, administrator of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, Washington. Certain foreign sources of seed—notably Italy—have been cut off by the war in Europe and imports are now greatly restricted. Principally involved are such soil-conserving types of seed as orchard grass, white clover, crimson clover, and cabbage, radish, carrots, spinach and cauliflower seed.

Before the World War the U. S. imported virtually all of its sugar beet seed from Germany, but research and adaptation have since made this country self-sufficient in this field.

Time For Cover Crops Says Durbin

Now is the time of year for landlords to be thinking about who will farm their land during 1941, according to Marvin Durbin, Supervisor for the Farm Security Administration in Chilton County.

"There are a number of reasons why a tenant, if he has been satisfactory, should be told at this time he may continue on the farm another year or even longer," Mr. Durbin said. "Not the least reason is that if the tenant knows he will farm the same place next year it is likely that he will plan for cover crops, or make other constructive plans for the next year, in time then to be effective."

Because of the excessive cost of annual moving to both tenants and landowners, Supervisor Durbin said, many landowners in Chilton County are giving borrowers of the Farm Security Administration leases of from three to five years.

A check of the 316 families of the county on the FSA program reveals that 106 of them have leases of from three to five years or written leases with renewal clauses. These leases are helping the tenants save as much as $50 a year each in moving costs and are providing for more stable type of land-use which benefits the land lord as well as the tenant. "Owners ought to be interested enough to see that fertility is conserved and that land doesn't erode," said Mr. Durbin.

"Surveys have shown," he continued, that owners who give long term leases have their farms in better shape and that the improvements are in good condition. We have learned that if a family knows in August or September that they will be on the farm the next year or two they will immediately take an interest in improving the house and barn and use better farming methods. "All FSA borrowers used approved farming methods under the guidance of the county supervisor. Tenants who move each year usually mine the soil and leave it poorer than before. A short term lease doesn't encourage a tenant to build up land from which he receives sharply-limited profit."

Supervisor Durbin said that he will be glad to explain the FSA's flexible farm lease to owners who are interested. In addition to suggesting early fall action on leasing matters, he urged families who are eligible for rehabilitation loans to make their applications now so that work of making farm and home plans and other details may be worked out in time to begin farming early.

NOTICE!

We have been requested to announce by Marvin Durbin, County Supervisor, Farm Security Administration, that they have moved their office and are now located upstairs over the Chilton County News.

"THE WHOLE TRUTH"

chase, I will check the record and see if you misrepresented this statement.

I note that you state:

"During one of the past six months there was spent in District Four of Chilton County, in which Mr. J. Monroe Parrish is Commissioner an amount of $496.20 more than the total sum of what the other three commissioners combined spent. In another month of this year Mr. Parrish spent $1,195.23 more than the other three commissioners put together. In another month this same figure was $615.02; another, $259.41; and still another, $253.39. Practically all of this was for day labor."

"For these five months Mr. Parrish spent over and above the combined spending of Messrs. Ousley, Cobb and Davis, the sum of $2,818.24. We would like to know why it is that District Four is entitled to so much more than the other three Districts put together, and for what purpose all of this money was spent in District Four."

Now, Mr. Billingsley and Mr. Wyatt, inasmuch as you want the people to know the facts in this matter, and we have sufficient time to make an audit, I will pay for the audit if you will join me in calling upon the State Board of Public Accountants to send a man here and make an audit and obtain the truth, so the people may know, as I say there is not a word of truth in this statement.

In answering the paragraph in regard to the purchases for the lumber and other materials, I will state that Mr. Cobb buys lumber and materials for District One; Mr. Davis buys lumber and materials for District Two; Mr. Ousley buys lumber and materials for District Three and Mr. Parrish buys lumber and materials for District Four. These purchases by each of these Commissioners are approved by the Commissioner's Court at their regular meetings and paid for out of the County Treasury.

In closing I would like to know whether or not it is the intention of the Chairman and Secretary of the Republican Campaign Committee to further misrepresent and mislead the voters of the County as to the affairs of the County. The citizens of the County are entitled to know the true state of affairs and it now appears that they cannot depend on you for this information.

Yours very truly,
J. LEE SMITH, Judge of Probate.

REVIEWS and PREVIEWS

By Irvin Lande

The presidential campaign of 1940 is going into its final month and the people of the United States have already decided who is to be our next President.

Mr. Roosevelt, the Democratic candidate, has spoken at the dedications of the Chickamauga Dam and the Smoky Mountains Park, at the University of Pennsylvania where he received a LL.D. degree, at the Washington, D. C., convention of the Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen, and Helpers, and at various other places and occasions. Throughout his speeches and press conferences, Mr. Roosevelt defended his record of the last seven and one-half years and he stated that a dictatorship was impossible in a country where free elections were held. Mr. Roosevelt also has visited many munitions plants for inspection tours, and has constantly been able to stay in the public eye without going away from his duties as President of the United States.

Mr. Willkie, the Republican standard-bearer, has conducted extensive tours throughout the nation. He visited the various sections of the country and expressed his views. He has criticized the present Administration for the way it has conducted itself, but he, too, advocated aid to Britain, economic aid to China, and a strong national defense program, but stated that if elected, he would improve it still further. But Mr. Willkie's strongest argument as he has extensively travelled about the nation, has been to speak against the idea of an indispensable man and against the Third Term.

Meanwhile, the Vice-Presidential Candidates, Henry Wallace and Charles McNary, have begun stout campaigns. Wallace has praised President's record, has talked about international affairs, and has charged the Republican party with being the party of appeasement. McNary, at Salem, Oregon, dealt with domestic issues, approved aid for farmers and governmental projects, but suggested that the Government should buy out all the private power companies with which the Government has competed.

And the Third Party vote of this year is likely to be the smallest in our history. The large third party vote of the 1936 election was represented by the vote for Representative William Lemke, of North Dakota, who ran on the ticket of the Union Party. This year, however, the Union Party is not entered in the race this November. But this year, Roger Babson will run on the Prohibition party platform, and John W. Aiken will run on the Socialist-Labor party platform. And Norman Thomas, the Socialist candidate, and Earl Browder, the demagogue of the Communist party will also run in order to register their protest vote. Thomas and Browder, whose total votes have always been small, will probably receive the smallest total in their entire history this year. It is estimated that the two dissenters will not go over 250,000 votes between them. This is it that Americans are now showing that they are getting annoyed with the nuisance of radicals who do a lot of talking about nothing. Americans are beginning to show less and less interest in those opprobrious elements which have taken advantage of the Democratic system of free speech and life in order to try to destroy that system which gives them a chance to express their views. This year, more Americans will cast their vote where their vote will mean something.

And as the third party vote has already been counted out, we must look to the narrowing campaign of Willkie and Roosevelt, the two important figures in the American political scene.

Mr. Roosevelt is now ahead, according to various polls of public opinion. These polls give the President a great majority over Willkie, and indicate that the election will probably be a greater landslide than were the elections of 1936 and 1938.

But why has Mr. Willkie, rated a better than equal chance of victory after his nomination, fallen so low in the estimation of the American voting public? There are two logical and true answers to that question. The first is that foreign affairs have become critical and Americans are determined to leave Mr. Roosevelt in charge of the affairs of this nation. The other answer lies in the kind of campaign that Wendell L. Willkie has conducted.

When the Republican leader was nominated, he was advised not to let his campaign fall into one of mud-slinging and verbal untruths. The managers of his fight for victory told him to hold himself high in dignity and, if there was any smearing of Democratic candidates, leave that work to the sub-leaders of the party.

But Mr. Willkie was drawn into a smear campaign that has lowered him in the opinion of the great majority of Americans. When Henry Wallace, the Democratic Vice-Presidential candidate let loose a verbal barrage at Willkie, the Republican leader started swinging words with him. Wallace, Willkie, and McNary began a campaign of mud-slinging and smearing, that has left President Roosevelt the only candidate who still has the appearance of dignity and self respect. Whether the attempt to lower Mr. Roosevelt was a Democratic trick or a Republican mistake, President Roosevelt today seems assured of re-election.

It will be hard for the winning candidate to unite the nation after this election, for the race has been fast and furious, and the defeated will find it hard to bring themselves to the realization that we must be united now for our mutual security.

But one of the most encouraging signs of the re-awakening of the democratic spirit in America is that many more Americans are expected to vote this year, and no matter for whom they vote, our future as a nation of destiny will be unmistakably obvious and undeniably assured.

FOLKS and THINGS ABOUT TOWN

You know Reese Mullins, the little fellow with the big voice at the Post Office. Well, Reese has an automatic stake in the fire went out in the early morning but Reese being asleep failed to get the stake out to stake. There, the next evening we saw Reese going home, and according to statement he had about two hours of undisturbed sleep. He had a robot to do the night before while he slept.

We guess everyone knows all about this time but we are compelled to mention a few of the comical incidents at the Sylacauga-Clanton football game last Friday night. George McCall got all excited and let go with right to the face of a supposedly Sylacauga and it turned out to be a hometown boy. . . J. E. Easterling, a man running out with a chair cut loose with a haymaker upsetting the belligerent. . . of course the fellow could have been trying to get inside seat. . . It is told on Millard Manchester that some one found him on the ground pounding a football head and he declares he thought a man's head was in it. . . Alex Arnold signed a score list all next day that was a man's face ran into. . . Marlon Sims was willing but two hundred yards of Highway Patrolman kept him cool. . . Things just happened so that that little of what really happened come to light we'll keep you apprised as we hear, but as stories of it. . . Anyhow they grow better with age.

"Chick" has a brand, spanking new Case. He's also got it filled with half dozen different kinds of temptingly looking Sea Foods—but enough of that free advertising—what we had in mind when we mentioned "Chick" was a method of selling his Christmas Cakes. Just like a Car, or furniture or anything like that—you run your Christmas Cake on the installment plan. They give you a little when you "sign up" and pay your twenty-five cents down—then each week you go back and take twenty cents. This of course last for ten weeks. Now we've heard of buying things on installment, but buying a cake—that's the height of something or other.

Clanton plays Centerville this Friday Centerville. Let's hope that nothing happens to mar the fun of the game after all its supposed to be played the pleasure we get out of it. . . of the C. boys from G. S. S. play some brand of football that they played in the second quarter they lost the ill-fated game. . . they can't see. Heroes of the game were too numerous to mention and if we tried, would just list the Roster of players.

Samuel Jackson Lawrence has been calling a call to the U. S. Navy for some time. Now in case you don't know Samuel Jackson, you have noticed in the local Postal Employees, didn't either. A letter came addressed to Lawrence above Mr. Lawrence, informing him to report to the Navy Recruiting Station at Birmingham on the day of October. No one knows the address the letter lay in the office awaiting someone to call for it. Somehow, we don't know the exact date, about the 13th of the month (alias Samuel Jackson) found out the letter was there and went after it. And to make a long story short, it came to Uncle Sam, with the of our postmaster and was told to get on the 23rd instead of 14th.

Mr. Zora Guy Smith, who has been elected with the County Agent's office and the Farm Bureau for the past ten years resigned her position last week. Mrs. Smith wants all of the farmers of the County with whom she has come in contact and worked to know that she appreciates the station that they have given her. At this time, Mrs. Smith has been elected as Clerk to Registration Board of Chilton County.

Pro-thousand-nine-hundred and ten men between the ages of twenty-one and thirty-six registered in Chilton County last Wednesday. Of the very small percentage of that number will ever see service in the United States Army. But the way of America showed their willingness to step to the front when their duty called was inspiring.

So, what's my number?

High School P-T. A. To Sponsor Party Halloween Night

The Chilton County High School Parent-Teachers Association will sponsor a Halloween party at the high school on the night of Oct. 31, at 7:30. Everybody is invited and urged to come out and enjoy a big time as a regular Carnival atmosphere will prevail throughout the evening and a big program has been planned by the local P-T. A.

Just to list a few of the entertaining features of the party: A Cake race; Jitterbug Contest; House of Horror; Fortune Telling Booth; Bingo Games; Bowling and Punch and Judy Show.

Don't forget the time, Thursday night October 31, at 7:30 o'clock at the Chilton County High School. The admission will be 10 cents.

SYLACAUGA'S COACH STARTS ROUGH HOUSE

Second Warning for Slugging Starts Fight With Referee

The best and hardest fought game of the season came to a quick end last Friday night when Coach Zeke Kimbrough, Coach of the Sylacauga eleven, refused to let his men continue to play after he and Referee Horton Walker came to blows over a slugging penalty.

The slugging penalty was imposed on Sylacauga at the start of the second half after Referee Walker had warned number 33 jersey to stop slugging, or he would be put out of the game. When the officials sent the Sylacauga player to the bench, he refused to go. Sylacauga's Coach rushed onto the field and cursed Referee Walker, who promptly struck him with his fist. Immediately fans from both sides of the field came over the fences and for a while it looked like there would be a free-for-all. Walker gave the Sylacauga team two minutes to replace the man sent off the field, or forfeit the game and the Coach refused to let his team continue play, thus forfeiting the game.

Up to the time of the trouble, which was clearly caused by lack of sportsmanship in the Sylacauga coach, it was Clanton's game although the score at the half was 7 and 7. Chilton County High played practically the entire first half in Sylacauga territory.

The four Highway Patrolmen who were there must be given credit for a fine performance of duty in stopping what promised to be a very bad situation.

RED CROSS NOW GIVING WAR AID

Dates For Annual Red Cross Roll Call Are November 11th To 30th

Amid the unparalleled dismay and turmoil of the present world order, there is mercifully present on every field of suffering and need an un-failing symbol of goodwill, love and help, the International Red Cross. Releases from the International Red Cross office in Geneva, reveal large contributions in cash and supplies given to relieve war victims in Poland, Finland, China, Belgium, Holland, Luxembourg, France, and England. Many of the nations invaded have contributed to the international fund also.

The American Red Cross has responded to the appeals for war-relief by oversubscribing the $20,000,000 goal by nearly a million dollars, according to National Headquarters reports last September.

The largest number of volunteers ever to take part in an American Red Cross Roll Call drive will appeal to the nation November 11 when the organization seeks membership support for its program of year-round services. This appeal will be carried by nearly 600,000 volunteers in more than 10,000 communities. No quota for this year's membership has been set, since the American Red Cross will this year need the support every adult American able to help. Every American should wear a Red Cross membership button this year. The strength of the Red Cross is in its membership. The dates for the Roll Call are November 11 to 30.

The cost of operating an automobile has decreased 50 per cent since 1926.

All Executive Officers were present: V. J. Elmore, President; O. M. Webb, vice-president and Personnel Director; G. F. Parr, Secretary; W. I. Smith, Purchasing Agent; W. A. Willis, Jr., Controller; E. N. Hester, Superintendent; C. O. Hester, Buyer; John W. Flowers, Jr., Manager of Real Estate; R. H. Trivison, Architect; C. A. McSpadden, Construction Supt.

This managers' meeting is held every year by the Elmore Company for the purpose of getting together the store managers and executives of the company in order that they may discuss their problems with reference to merchandising and operating their chain of stores as well as making plans for opening additional units and continuing the expansion of the company. This year most of the managers visited the new warehouse now under construction at 10 South 14th Street, Birmingham, Alabama, on Sunday afternoon. The entire expense of the meeting is paid by the company. This will probably be the last time Clanton will be host to the Elmore store managers as the new warehouse and executive office in Birmingham is scheduled to be completed around February 1st, at which time the warehouse and executive office will be moved to Birmingham, Ala.

The total number of 56 men had lunch together at the Exchange hotel both days.

Automobile travel today costs the motorist no more per mile than tire expense alone 35 years ago.

Mayor Asks Help of Public In Program of Law Enforcement

Before and since my election to the office as Mayor of Clanton, I have heard much mention of law violations in Clanton. The Council and I are anxious to have a good administration. We want to improve the general appearance of Clanton and we want to help make Clanton a better place in which to live. As fast as possible we want to make improvements.

We feel that the cooperation of the law enforcing group and the citizenship of the county we can, in a large measure prevent much of the Law Violation in Clanton. We are having a meeting this week of the Law enforcing group operating in the County.

We take this means of asking the people of the County for their help in presenting evidences of violation of the Prohibition Laws, Traffic laws and other laws made for the purpose of protecting all the people.

We do not believe in "first offense" penalties. We do not want the money nor the labor of the law violator, but we feel that if the friends and relatives of law violators can't prevail upon them to properly conduct themselves, then it is the duty of the law enforcing group to bring them up for an accounting. We wish this notice to serve as a warning and the equivalent of a first offense penalty.

Again we say that we do not want the money nor the labor of the unfortunate brought before us for law violation in the town of Clanton, but after the publishing of this notice, law violators brought before me, as Mayor of Clanton will receive maximum fines and punishment, and fines will have to be paid immediately or labor sentence started.

No one is more sympathetic with the unfortunate than I am, and I ask the cooperation of the entire citizenship of Chilton County.

—Signed
C. E. STAPP,
Mayor of Clanton.

Local CCC Camp Has Best Safety Record For State

Camp Ala. SCS, Clanton, Ala., has the best safety record for the State of Alabama and the Southeastern Region Soil Conservation Service. This record has been made possible through the cooperation of every man connected with the service and is a record to be proud of, and one not often reached. Following is a copy of the telegram to the Project Supt., informing him of the record.

Mr. James H. Wood, Supt. Camp Ala. SCS-7, Clanton, Ala.

"Congratulations to you and to the entire Clanton Camp organization for the best safety record for the 15th camp period in the State of Alabama and in the Southeastern region Soil Conservation Service. Trophy to be awarded your camp on Oct. 24."

A. C. ALLNUT,
Assistant Chief Regional CCC Operations.

NATION WIDE LOTTERY FOR 800,000 MEN

Drawing Will Take Place In Washington On October 29

WASHINGTON. At noon Oct. 29, Secretary of War Stimson will draw the first number in a nation-wide lottery in which nearly 17,000,000 young men hold tickets—800,000 of them good for a year's service in the army.

Plans for the lottery were completed Monday at a conference of Dr. Clarence Dykstra, director of selective service, and President Roosevelt. At first Dykstra said that the president would draw the first number, but later it was announced that Mr. Roosevelt desired this honor to go to Stimson.

The president will attend the historic ceremony, to be held in the Interdepartment Auditorium, and will make an address to last about 10 minutes.

Within three weeks after Stimson lifts the first big number capsule from a big goldfish bowl the initial contingent of 30,000 drafters will be on their way to training camps.

Men will be called to training—800,000 by next June 15—in the order in which their numbers are drawn from the bowl unless the volunteer waiting to be called or unless they are deferred from service.

After Secretary Stimson draws the first 1940 number at the Interdepartment Auditorium, subsequent capsules will be picked out by other high-ranking government officials before the drawing settles down to its tedious routine.

Dykstra estimated it could be done in 12 hours.

Tentative quota of trainees Alabama will be expected to contribute to the army by November 18 and July 1st, 1941, is 13,711. Maximum of white and Negro men can be requisitioned are: White 4,654, Negroes 2,302. Chilton County registered 2,914.

Anyone within the draft age limit, who for any cause failed to register on October 16th, may go to his local board and make up his registration by October 29th without penalty.

Board number One, composed of beats 3, 4, 6, 7, 8, and 15 is located in the Peoples Savings Bank of Clanton, Ala. Board number Two, composed of beats 1, 2, 5, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14 and 16 is located in the Chilton County News Building.

Miss Virginia Ware, clerk of local board number one, located at the Peoples Savings Bank will accept registrants for both boards.

Brother Of Mrs. W. C. Golden Dies In Accident

Will Rhodes, oldest brother of Mrs. W. C. Golden was instantly killed in an automobile accident last Monday evening at Ethel, Mississippi. Dr. and Mrs. Golden had just returned from a visit with Dr. Golden's people at Walnut Grove, Miss., when they received a telegram telling them of the death. The telegram did not give details of the accident.

No. One Registrants

Isaac Preston Easterling, Clanton Route 1, was the first one to register with Chilton County Local Board No. 1, and Robert Tyler Cochran, Mountain Creek, route 1, was first to register with Board No. 2.

EDITORIAL

Proof of the Pudding!

Chilton County Bonds Bringing Premiums Of $17.00 On The Hundred

Last week we wrote a short editorial on the financial condition of Chilton County.

The present condition of the County Treasury speaks for itself. But if any further proof were needed, here it is: Chilton County bonds today are worth $17.00 and interest on each one hundred dollar par value bond.

What is a Chilton County Bond? Simply speaking a Chilton County Bond is the County's note issued by the County for money borrowed. Briefly when Chilton County Bonds were issued, the following procedure was taken: The county desired to borrow money and the officials contacted a number of Bond Brokers agreeing to sell them (the brokers) certain Chilton County Bonds, bearing certain rates, drawing a fixed interest and due and payable at a certain future date. In the case of outstanding Chilton County Bonds, the interest rate was fixed at 5 per cent. The bond broker bought the bonds and he in turn sold them far and wide, some are here in Alabama, some here some there. The holder of the bonds collects his interest twice each year and his bond will be paid when due.

Now one important question is, what does the investment market think of Chilton County Bonds at this time? Well, the best answer to that question is what are the bonds bringing on the open market. This paper does not pretend to know market values however, we would like to call your attention to an advertisement in this issue in which a Bond Buyer offers to pay $17.00 for each bond offered. This means that if you own a $100.00 Chilton County Bond you can cash it now for $172.00 and interest.

This is a bona-fide offer and if you own any Chilton County Bonds you can bring them to this office and we will guarantee to cash them at $17.00 for the above price, there is no limit to the number of bonds this party will buy, he will take $1,000.00 or $40,000.00. These figures go further toward reflecting the sound financial condition of Chilton County than mere words.

FRUIT OF THE LOOM SHIRTS

fit you!

Not only when you stand like this — but also when you stand naturally.

Old-fashioned shirts were cut square across the shoulders and — naturally — "bunched up" under the arms across the bosom when you stood your arms.

FIGURIZED shirts, because of their exclusive sleeve-shoulder-and-bosom construction, never bunch, bunch, or bunch — and you stand naturally — and you stand naturally.

Democracy and Self Defense

We are all in the army now, for the duration of whatever it takes. We were opposed to the conscription, but our delegated representatives at the seat of government, decided otherwise, so now we are for it. That is what we pay the president, senators, and congressmen to stay in Washington—to seek the truth and learn what is best for the nation as a whole, then provide ways and means whereby the fullest accomplishment may be achieved.

Regardless of political affiliation, it is the duty of every man and woman in the United States to aid in every conceivable way possible, this great undertaking.

That is not only self defense—it is pure democracy.

SURE...everybody notices the ONE black sheep!

That's one of the reasons why the Brewing Industry is co-operating with the legal authorities to eliminate ALL black sheep from Beer Retailing.

COMPARATIVELY few Alabama retail beer dealers disobey the law or operate undesirable outlets. But the beer industry wants beer sold in Alabama only under clean, wholesome conditions in orderly operated places—the way the great majority of dealers now operate.

Our goal is to eliminate ALL objectionable outlets. Backed by Alabama's aggressive ABC Board, our "clean up or close up" campaign is obtaining results. The public can help by patronizing only reputable dealers, and by reporting any disorderly outlets to this Committee.

Letters To The Editor

ENDORSES DEMOCRATS
Monday, Oct. 21, 1940.
Editor Chilton County News:

Will you please give me space again in your paper to say a few words to the voters of Chilton County. It seems in election years that people generally center their thoughts on the ones holding or seeking the highest places, so here in Chilton County our thought center on Judge Smith and his opponent, Mr. Bean. As far as I can ascertain Judge Smith has conducted the county affairs in a directly business like manner and this county is in good financial shape and that is what we want. He is entitled to your vote again for the office he now holds.

I hold no political or county job, but I am stating my plain convictions. Judge Smith may have made some mistakes, but who hasn't and if you put Mr. Bean there he will make them also. Judge Smith can give every body a job and Mr. Bean won't either. He won't carry on the affairs of the county any better. Judge Smith has not broken the awful tradition that you hear so much about these days over the radio and read about in the newspapers.

Just to tell the truth these traditions were broken in 1932 when bankers, merchants and farmers went down on their knees and asked God to send them help in the form of leadership in Washington to break the tradition of Wall Street. God heard their prayers and gave us Franklin D. Roosevelt, and now they cry dictator.

Now, Farmers do not let one lead you back to where the iron heel of Wall Street will set its foot on your neck again, this administration is the only one that has ever recognized you. I am sure that every body who has heard the third term so long as Roosevelt recognizes the God that you and I love, in almost every speech he makes.

Go to the polls on Nov. 5 and vote for the ones who want to help all of the Americans and not just a favored few.

You will find largely that Judge Smith is sympathetic to the most of these benefits you receive. Hadn't you rather have one who feels that way?

Let's vote for him.
OSCAR E. DAVENPORT.
Mapleview, Ala., Rt. 1.

QUESTION REYNOLDS

Dear Editor:

With your permission I would like to ask Judge Reynolds a few questions through your paper.

The first question I would like to know is that the Republican Campaign Committee in 1934 has their whole campaign on your administration while you were Judge of Probate, and was it not a fact that the bitter background and were hardly seen out in public during that campaign, has as the Republican officers not in they took charge of the Republican administration.

The second question I would like to ask Judge Reynolds is this: Didn't these same leaders of the Republican party say in 1940 that they were going to nominate the Republican officers and stay the farthest away from your doorsteps, and were you notified by some of the candidates that they had been told to stay away from your office and is it not a fact that every effort was made by the Republicans to nominate only their crowd that had torn up the Republican party?

Wasn't Mr. Deavough one of the leaders in 1934 that said they didn't want the Reynolds crowd to vote for their ticket, together with the other leaders of the Republican ticket?

Judge, I want to ask you another question: Did Mr. Zeb Mims and you stay in your office and ask you if you were going to oppose Raymond A. Han for Judge of the Inferior Law Court and did you not tell him that you were going to oppose him, but that you were going to vote for him and do all you could to help him be elected and just before the election didn't Mr. Zeb Mims tell you that he appreciated what you had done for Raymond, but he didn't want you to make any public statement or write any letter that might offend some of the bitter Republicans, but after his statement isn't it not a fact that you helped Raymond A. Han by helping him to get the vote to the election that had no way to travel.

We know that you have always been ready to help the people of Chilton County and the farmers of this county will never forget your efforts one year ago even though you were not in office when you started a movement to get relief for the farmers who had failed to make a crop. The people of this county would be glad to hear you make a speech at the Court House Saturday evening, November 2, 1940.

Respectfully,
L. F. LITTLEFIELD.

MORAL ECHOES

REV. D. W. HASKEW, D.D.

An English officer spread his tent one night while on his travels through India and the next morning on awakening he discovered that his body was almost covered by leeches that had found their way to his cot during the night. He was about to tear them off with his fingers when his native servant stopped him, and told him that such action would mean his death, as part of the animal would be left in his flesh and he would die with blood poison. The servant then prepared a bath into which the officer plunged and the parasites dropped off and left him uninjured. Do you want to know the only cure for sin? Doubtless the paradise of this world has fastened itself on your life heart more than one time. If sin is snatched out by the will power alone, the poison is still in the heart. "The blood of Jesus Christ His Son cleanseth us from all sin." The blood of Christ washes away all poison of guilt.

I was spending the night at a country home and the next morning I heard the dogs of the place barking furiously a few hundred yards away. I made inquiry as to the dogs and the farmer told me that he had set them after some cows that were threatening to jump over into his corn field. Those dogs were not barking at the cows, but they were barking and circling the cattle so as to drive them away. When a sheep strays from the flock the shepherd sets his dog after him, not to devour the sheep, but to bring it back to the fold. I sometimes wonder if

WHEREAS, the Legislature of Alabama, at the regular Session 1939, ordered an election to be held by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama upon a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, which said amendment is herein set out, and ordered that said election be held at the General Election to be held in Alabama in November 1940; and

WHEREAS, the First Tuesday after the First Monday in November, 1940, which is the 5th day of November, is the time for holding the General Election in 1940; and

WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with the proposed amendment, is required by the provisions of the Act submitting said Amendment, to be given by a proclamation of the Governor to be published in each county, and the State of Alabama once a week for eight successive weeks immediately preceding the said 5th day of November, 1940;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Frank M. Dixon, as Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that on Tuesday, the 5th day of November, 1940, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama, in the manner and form provided by law, upon the following amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, as follows:

"The Legislature of Alabama may hereafter, from time to time, by general or local laws, fix, alter, and regulate the fees, commissions, allowances and salaries to be charged or received by the Sheriff of Mobile County, and including the right to place said officer on a salary basis and provide that fees, fines and forfeitures received or collected by said officer be paid into the treasury of Mobile County, Alabama, and to fix and provide the amount and method of compensation of such officer. All Acts of the Regular Session of the Legislature of 1939 and 1939-40 heretofore passed and approved, or purporting to be applicable to said Mobile County, and fixing, or purporting to fix the basis of compensation and compensation of said officer, or placing said officer on a salary basis, are hereby ratified and confirmed."

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday, the 5th day of November, 1940, upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama, shall be given by publishing the same once a week for eight successive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 5th day of November, 1940, in each County in the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said County.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and have caused the Great Seal of the State to be affixed by the Secretary of State, at the Capitol in the City of Montgomery, on this 12th day of August, 1940.

FRANK M. DIXON,
Governor.

Attest:
JOHN BRANDON,
Secretary of State.

Desperate Effort To Keep The Pump Going

God does not sometimes allow the dogs of affliction to get after us when we are inclined toward temptation, or when we wander away from the path of right. It may be that the barking of affliction are felt and heard that we may be brought back to the fold.

While strolling along the creek bank with a friend, we came to an old oak tree prostrate on the ground. Its body looked sound, and from all appearances that tree should have stood for a century more. We walked around the root of the tree and looked closely, we discovered that the tap root had decayed and the tree had gone down. The heart and the foundation had been decaying for many years. As we stood there looking at that tree that we had not expected to find prostrate, I said to my companion, "This is a very suggestive lesson to you and me. When sin eats out the heart and destroys our character, our foundation is gone and we will go down." Better beware of secret sins. They destroy the soul.

In Alabama an old negro preacher was holding a revival meeting and as he called mourners to the altar, he observed that one of his deacons came down very much agitated. The minister knew that this deacon had backslided and so he called upon him to lead the prayer. The penitent deacon at the altar prayed thus, "Lord I am a suffering sinner. I am just out of the briar patch and am suffering from scratches all over my body. Lord in fairness to you I will say that I did not get these scratches in your pasture, but I jumped over the fence and got them in the devil's pasture. I am sorry that I jumped over the fence and will never do it again if you, dear Lord, will just heal me now." No man ever gets his heart torn by sin as long as he lives in God's pasture. An honest confession is good for the soul.

Mr. Spurgeon tells us of a soldier in the army of Antiquus who had a painful disease that he thought was going to bring about his death. In the conflicts of the battlefield this soldier was always in the thickest of the fight and his bravery reached the ears of the king. Inquiry was made concerning this man and the king found out that he had this disease. The king's physician was sent to treat him and soon he was a well man. Then the king put him back in the army, but alas, this soldier was no longer the brave daring man that he once was. He said that he had health and life was too sweet now for him to take any risks. How many times God has done marvelous things for men and women. He has cured them of diseases. He has blessed them in a thousand ways, and yet they turn their backs upon Him when life becomes sweet. The more God blesses us the braver we should be.

The Campaign Issue

Presidential Candidate Willkie has reduced the campaign issue to just the Human Rights vs. Property Rights. Franklin D. Roosevelt places human rights above property rights; Wendell L. Willkie places property rights above human rights. Be your own judge as to which is right.

The RIGHT WAY TO MAKE A LONG DISTANCE CALL

When placing out-of-town calls you will always get good service, but you will get the QUICKEST service if you do it this way...

In the case of a Person-to-Person call,* first give the Long Distance Operator the name of the place you are calling, including the state, and then the name of the person you wish to reach and the telephone number if you know it. If you do not know the telephone number, give the person's address. Give your own telephone number when the operator asks for it. Your information given in this order enables the operator immediately to start making the connection.

When placing a Station-to-Station call,* make this clear by first saying, "Station-to-Station." Then give the name of the place, the state and the telephone number. If you do not know the telephone number, give the operator the name and address under which the telephone is listed.

Give your own telephone number when the operator asks for it.

*A Person-to-Person call is one where you ask to be connected with a particular person at a distant telephone. Training of a Person-to-Person call does not begin until the person you want is on the telephone.

*A Station-to-Station call is one where you merely ask to be connected with a distant telephone. The charges on a station-to-station call begin when the distant telephone answers. This service costs considerably less than Person-to-Person service.

STATE OF ALABAMA A PROCLAMATION BY THE GOVERNOR

WHEREAS, the Legislature of Alabama, at the Regular Session 1939, ordered an election to be held by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama upon a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, which said amendment is herein set out, and ordered that said election be held the day of the next General Election in Alabama more than three months after the adjournment of the Legislature at which the election was ordered; and

WHEREAS, the First Tuesday after the First Monday in November, 1940, which is the 5th day of November, is the time for holding the next General Election in Alabama more than three months after the adjournment of the Legislature; and

WHEREAS, notice of this election, together with the proposed amendment is required by law, and by the provisions of the Act submitting the Amendment, to be given by a proclamation of the Governor to be published in each County in the State of Alabama once a week for four successive weeks immediately preceding the said 5th day of November;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Frank M. Dixon, as Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that on Tuesday, the 5th day of November, 1940, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama, in the manner and form provided by law, upon the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901:

"Each municipal corporation in this State whose annual ad valorem tax rate is otherwise limited by the Constitution of any amendment thereto to less than one per centum (1%) of the value of the property situated therein as assessed for state taxation during the preceding year shall have, in addition to the power to levy and collect such ad valorem tax each year at the rate authorized immediately prior to the adoption of this amendment, the further power to levy and collect each year an additional tax or taxes to such extent that the total ad valorem tax rate of such municipal corporation shall not exceed one per centum (1%) in any one year on the property situated therein based on the valuation of such property as assessed for state taxation during the preceding year; provided, that before any such additional tax may be so levied and collected a majority of the qualified electors of any such municipal corporation voting at an election called for that purpose shall vote in favor of the levy thereof; provided, further, that the total ad valorem tax or taxes to be levied and collected by any such municipal corporation shall not exceed one per centum (1%) in any one year; and provided further, that the adoption of this amendment shall in no wise affect, limit, modify, abridge or impair the power, authority or right of any such municipal corporation to levy and collect the special school taxes now or hereafter vested or conferred upon them, or any of them, under the Constitution, or any amendment thereto, which said special school taxes shall be in excess of said one per centum (1%) herein provided for. Each election held under the provision hereof shall be ordered, held, canvassed and may be contested in the same manner as is or may be provided by the law applicable to municipal corporations for elections to authorize the issuance of municipal bonds.

The ballots used in such election shall specify the purpose for which the proposed additional rate of taxation shall be authorized and shall contain the words "For a _____ % additional rate of taxation; and 'Against _____ % additional rate of taxation proposed to be shown in the blank space provided therefor. The voter shall mark his choice, whether for or against the additional rate shown, by placing a cross mark before or after the words expressing his choice. The proceeds of any such additional tax so authorized at any such election shall be used only for the purpose for which the same shall be authorized at such election. Elections to authorize the levy of such additional tax may be held as often as ordered by the governing body of the municipality, but when a proposition is submitted to the electors to levy such additional tax for a specific purpose and such proposition is defeated then no second election for the same purpose shall be held in one year thereafter.

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday, the 5th day of November, 1940, upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, be given by publishing the same once a week for four successive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 5th day of November, 1940, in each County in the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said County.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and have caused the Great Seal of the State to be affixed by the Secretary of State, at the Capitol in the City of Montgomery, on this 12th day of September, 1940.

We had a good prayer service Saturday night, but there was not as many there as usual.

Our Sunday School and B. Y. P. U. was good. We have set the time to start our B. Y. P. U. at 6:30.

Next Saturday night and Sunday night is our regular preaching time, since our pastor is going to serve us half time. Remember the dates, the fourth and second.

Next Saturday we are going to have a working at the church for the purpose of wiring and cleaning the cemetery. Everybody who can, come early and bring tools to work with.

WASTE LAND FOR WILDLIFE

Like manufacturers who convert waste by-products into salable merchandise, farmers in Chilton County can convert waste spots on their farms into useful areas for wildlife, according to County Agent Pat H. Smith, and James H. Wood, Superintendent of the Soil Conservation Service, CCC Camp area near Clanton, Alabama.

Field woodland borders, rough corners, and other unproductive or unutilized land can be planted with vegetation that will help to produce a crop of wildlife. At the same time, the service and the development of shrubs in these places will not only create wildlife habitats but will help to reduce erosion.

Border strips planted around woodlands help wildlife by providing cover and food. At the same time, they are practically worthless for growing field crops to produce something useful, the specialists point out.

Strip cropping, although primarily aimed at erosion control and crop production, makes large amounts of land available to wildlife. Strip crops also provide travel lanes and escape covers for wildlife to use adjacent to cover.

Wildlife depends to a large extent on food and cover, both of which are

The above named officers are hereby required to collect all charges of court, fees, commissions, allowances, or other compensation provided by law, other than the salaries herein fixed, and to cover the same into the county treasury. This shall include the allowances or amounts received by the Sheriff for feeding prisoners from both the State and Federal Government, and the county governing body of Dallas County, Alabama, shall pay the expenses incurred in feeding such prisoners out of the county treasury, but nothing herein shall be construed as interfering with the allowances or amounts provided by law for guards at the county jail or bailiffs for courts, or preventing the county governing body of Dallas County, Ala-

Beer Leader To Report Program

Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 23—David E. Dunn, director of Alabama's $6,500,000 beer industry, left today for St. Louis, Missouri, where he will report marked progress in the "clean up or close up" campaign to the fourth annual convention of the United Brewers Industrial Foundation.

The Foundation, sponsoring similar programs in 13 other states, launched its national self-regulation program here in March, 1939 with the formation of the covers and Alabama Beer Distributors Committee.

Mr. Dunn said that the Committee's own investigators, in a cooperative drive with the Alabama Alcoholic Control Board, had checked on the conduct of more than 10,000 retail beer outlets since the program was launched 20 months ago. Drastic action was taken against 41 who refused to heed warnings that conditions must be improved.

On the eve of his departure for St. Louis, Director Dunn met yesterday afternoon with retail beer dealers of Dallas County and urged them to operate clean, inviting places in a manner that would meet public approval.

"You owe it to the public, yourselves and the beer industry to operate your establishments in an orderly manner," Director Dunn told the retailers. "We have no place today for law-violating retailers who infringe on your rights when they flaunt the law. Everyone must obey the rules or get out of the game."

The Selma meeting was the twelfth in Director Dunn's statewide tour to contact Alabama's 1,691 retailers and stress strict observance of the ABC laws.

provided by vegetation. Since vegetation is nature's own tool for controlling erosion, erosion control measures may be adapted to give wildlife many of the requirements necessary to insure satisfactory survival and increase.

Alabama, from making such allowances to the Sheriff and his deputies for transportation on official business, including the purchase of automobiles for the use of the above named officers, as it may deem necessary from time to time. The salaries of the above named County officers of Dallas County, Alabama, shall be paid out of the county treasury in equal monthly installments. The employees of said office shall be selected by the respective official bodies or allowances for their compensation shall be as follows: 1. Office of Judge of Probate—$8,000.00 per annum. 2. Office of Tax Assessor—$5,000.00 per annum. 3. Office of Tax Collector—$5,000.00 per annum. 4. Office of Sheriff—$4,800.00 per annum. 5. Office of Circuit Clerk—$1,200.00 per annum. 6. Office of Register in Chancery—$1,200.00 per annum. The county governing body shall have the same authority in regard to the employment of persons for the county, and the fixing of their compensation, other than the employees of the above named offices, as provided by law. The salaries of the employees in the above enumerated offices shall be paid out of the county treasury in equal monthly installments; provided, however, that no payment of compensation for any such employee shall be made until the employee has actually rendered the service for which the payment is to be made. The Legislature of Alabama is hereby authorized and empowered, from time to time, by general or local laws, to fix, regulate and alter the employment and compensation of the employees in said offices, including the number and the method and basis of their compensation. The Legislature of Alabama is hereby authorized and empowered, from time to time, by general or local laws, but subject to the provisions of Section 281 of the Constitution of Alabama, to fix, regulate and alter the charges in courts, fees, commissions, allowances, percentages, salaries or other compensation received by any officer of Dallas County, Alabama, other than the Judge of Probate, Tax Assessor, Tax Collector, Sheriff, Circuit Clerk and Register in Chancery, including the method and basis of their compensation."

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday, the 5th day of November, 1940, upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, be given by publishing the same once a week for four successive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 5th day of November, 1940, in each County in the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said County.

WHEREAS, the Legislature of Alabama, at the Regular Session 1939, ordered an election to be held by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama upon a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, which said amendment is herein set out, and ordered that said election be held at the General Election of the Legislature at which the election was ordered; and

WHEREAS, the First Tuesday after the First Monday in November, 1940, which is the 5th day of November, is the time for holding the General Election in 1940; and

WHEREAS, notice of this election, together with the proposed amendment is required by law, and by the provisions of the Act submitting said amendment, to be given by a proclamation of the Governor to be published in each County in the State of Alabama once a week for four successive weeks immediately preceding the said 5th day of November;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Frank M. Dixon, as Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that on Tuesday, the 5th day of November, 1940, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama, in the manner and form provided by law, upon the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901:

"The State of Alabama is hereby authorized to issue not exceeding $5,000,000 aggregate principal amount of bonds for the purpose of paying or retiring prior to maturity, the bonds of the Alabama State Bridge Corporation and the bonds of the Alabama Bridge Authority, Incorporated, which were outstanding on July 1, 1939. Said bonds shall be general obligations of the State of Alabama, to the prompt payment of the principal and interest on which the full faith and credit and taxing power of the State are hereby irrevocably pledged, and all of said bonds, together with any other bonds of the State provided for by a pledge of said gasoline excise tax which may be authorized by constitutional amendment ratified on the same day as this amendment is ratified shall be added to the bonds secured without priority of one bond over another, by a pledge of the proceeds of the gasoline excise tax, authorized to be pledged to the highway fund provided for in the amendment to the constitution known as Article XX-A, subject, however, to the prior pledge of said gasoline tax to said highway bonds. The bonds hereby authorized shall bear interest at not exceeding three per centum (3%) per annum, payable semi-annually, and shall be sold at not less than the par value thereof. Said bonds shall be sold at public sale, and the interest thereon shall be forever exempt from taxes of every kind. Said bonds shall be issued at such time or times in such denominations and shall mature at such times, not later, however, than fifteen (15) years from the date of issuance, and shall have such other terms and conditions as may be provided by law. In addition to temporary loans authorized by Section 213 of the Constitution, as amended, the Governor without further authority is hereby authorized to issue and sell at public sale, at such times during any fiscal year, notes evidencing temporary loans for the purpose of providing funds for the payment of appropriations at the time or times when the funds appropriated are needed. The loans here authorized shall, however, be made only in anticipation of the receipt of taxes payable during such fiscal year, and the total amount of such loans at any time outstanding shall never exceed thirty per centum (30%) of the estimated amount of uncollected taxes for such fiscal year. The uncollected taxes for such fiscal year shall be estimated by deducting the taxes thus far collected and by deducting the taxes payable for bonds and interest thereon maturing during that fiscal year from the annual average of the total taxes of the State collected during the preceding three fiscal years as certified by the State Treasurer. Such temporary loans may be evidenced by a negotiable promissory note or notes of the State and shall be due and payable within the fiscal year in which negotiated and may be renewed or extended but shall not be renewed or extended beyond that fiscal year. Both the principal and interest on said note or notes shall be payable from and secured by a lien upon the taxes in anticipation of the collection of which they shall have been issued and shall also be general obligations of the State of Alabama; and the full faith and credit and taxing power of the State are hereby irrevocably pledged to the payment of the principal and the interest thereon shall be forever exempt from taxes of every kind. The State shall not, directly or indirectly, absolutely or contingently, contract or incur any indebtedness or other obligation except as provided in this Constitution, and no department, board, bureau, commission, agency, institution, office, public corporation or authority shall be authorized to incur any debt or obligation, directly or indirectly, absolutely or contingently, incur any debt or other obligation payable from or secured by a pledge of the appropriation or any State funds or any other funds, revenue or income over which the State has any control or issue any warrant or order or incur any such funds, revenues or income shall have been appropriated and collected or anticipated by temporary loans as herein above provided. Any such debt or obligation of the State and any such debt or obligation or warrant or order of any such department, board, bureau, commission, agency, institution, office, public corporation or authority shall be void and unenforceable; and no State funds and no funds, revenue or income over which the State has any control shall ever be appropriated or used, directly or indirectly, to pay the principal thereof or the interest thereon. Any appropriation for any such purpose shall be void."

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday, the 5th day of November, 1940, upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, be given by publishing the same once a week for four successive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 5th day of November, 1940, in each County in the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said County.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and have caused the Great Seal of the State to be affixed by the Secretary of State, at the Capitol in the City of Montgomery, on this 12th day of September, 1940.

PREPAREDNESS
F.S.A. Borrowers Urged To Produce Food For Their Tables

Farm Security Administration borrowers in Chilton County are laying special emphasis on the production of food for their table, feed for their livestock and proper crop diversification.

The 1940 plans for farm and home operations, Marvin Durbin, county supervisor for this federal agency said here this week.

"The farmers who come to us for rehabilitation loans, Mr. Durbin said, "are realizing that production of their own feed and food is an important factor in the successful operation of any farm."

He said tremendous strides have been made also in crop diversification which means that a similar gain has been made in the adoption of soil conserving practices because the two go hand in hand.

Bigger and more properly planned gardens are growing this year on the farms of FSA borrowers, according to Thea D. Conney, Home Management Supervisor. Not only will these gardens help keep down living costs, but they will result in better diets and improved health for the families.

Mrs. Conney said 316 FSA borrower-families in Chilton county produced 79 per cent of their living at home last year and they plan this year to produce 85 per cent of their living at home.

PREPAREDNESS
F.S.A. Borrowers Urged To Produce Food For Their Tables

Farm Security Administration borrowers in Chilton County are laying special emphasis on the production of food for their table, feed for their livestock and proper crop diversification.

The 1940 plans for farm and home operations, Marvin Durbin, county supervisor for this federal agency said here this week.

"The farmers who come to us for rehabilitation loans, Mr. Durbin said, "are realizing that production of their own feed and food is an important factor in the successful operation of any farm."

He said tremendous strides have been made also in crop diversification which means that a similar gain has been made in the adoption of soil conserving practices because the two go hand in hand.

Bigger and more properly planned gardens are growing this year on the farms of FSA borrowers, according to Thea D. Conney, Home Management Supervisor. Not only will these gardens help keep down living costs, but they will result in better diets and improved health for the families.

Mrs. Conney said 316 FSA borrower-families in Chilton county produced 79 per cent of their living at home last year and they plan this year to produce 85 per cent of their living at home.

Mrs. W. L. Tinker of Hudson, Ohio, will speak at the Ladies Guild on Thursday afternoon, Oct. 24, in the dining hall of Thorsby Institute. Everyone is invited to attend this meeting.
Mrs. W. L. Tinker and Mrs. Albert Skeel of Hudson, Ohio are visiting here in Thorsby for a week or so.
The first program of the Helen Keller Literary Society will be presented next Friday, October 25, in the auditorium of Thorsby Institute. Everyone is invited.

The goal, then, in every farm plan will be to utilize and devote every acre to that crop for which it is best adapted in keeping with the needs of the farm and its owner.
It has been found that the soil conservation payment, set up for each farm cooperating in the AAA program, will, if intelligently used over a five-year period, cover the cost of seeds, fertilizer, etc., needed in carrying out a complete soil conservation program on the average farm. In developing farm plans in the district, this payment will be utilized to the fullest extent.
The soil conservation districts are proving to be a medium through which all agencies and organizations can cooperate with landowners in conserving our greatest and most valuable natural resource—the soil.

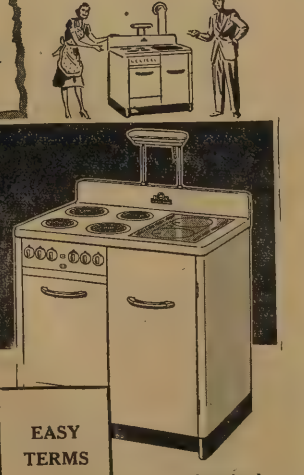

Soil Conservation For Erosion Control
(By S. R. Doughty)
Extension Soil Conservation Society and farmer have a mutual interest in the land. They share the responsibility of its productivity. In the past, however, society and the farmer have been unable to enter fully and freely into such a partnership. The mechanism for doing so has been lacking. Now, however, Alabama and a large majority of the other states have enacted state soil conservation district laws which provide the machinery for the farmer and society to cooperate in controlling soil erosion.
The basic principle underlying this law (Act No. 147, approved March 18, 1939), is that of placing the responsibility of formulating and carrying out an erosion control program squarely upon the shoulders of local land owners. Moreover, it requires that the initiative for the program must come from local people and arise from local needs. No soil conservation district can be formed unless the people want it, and then not unless they register this want first by petition and later by a favorable vote in a referendum. Once a district is formed, control of its affairs rests in the hands of local people.
The purpose of the law, then, broadly speaking, is to provide a mechanism to help landowners to cooperate in dealing with a problem that affects them all and must be met by community action.
During the past year and a half, eight soil conservation districts were organized and are now functioning in a splendid manner; they are the Piedmont, Central Alabama, Tombigbee-Warrior, Black Belt, Coosa River, Conecuh River, and Wiregrass Districts. The landowners of Chilton County will help decide, in a referendum to be held on October 26, 1940, whether or not the proposed North Central Soil Conservation District is created. If this district is voted in, many landowners are asking what the program will be. Briefly, here it is: As soon as a program and work plan for the district has been developed and approved by the Secretary of Agriculture, each county in the district will become a "work unit" and trained soil conservation workers will be assigned to each unit to assist landowners in working out a five-year land use plan and cropping program designed to control erosion and to conserve soil and water. The soil conservation practices included in the farm plan will be those now recommended by the Experiment Station, Extension Service and Soil Conservation Service.
Since it has been determined that the best approach to the problems of soil conservation on every farm is through that of wise use of the land, the farm land will include a land use program involving every acre of the entire farm.

ALLEN TERRY DEAD
Allen Terry, colored, who resided on the place of Oliver Smith, died last Saturday night and was buried Sunday at Maplesville. Allen was well known around Chilton for his immense size. He was six feet, four inches tall and weighed over three hundred pounds.

CROP ROTATION
Crops that farmers plant within the next 15 to 30 days will largely determine the rotations they will carry out during the next year, according to County Agent Pat H. Smith and James H. Wood, Superintendent of the Soil Conservation Service in the CCC camp area near Clanton, Alabama.
One of the most important crops from the standpoint of establishing a rotation is small grain. A very good rotation in which small grain forms the foundation crop is a three-year rotation consisting of small grain, lespedeza, and cotton or corn.
In this rotation, the grain is planted in the Fall. The following Spring lespedeza is sown on the grain to provide nitrogen to the land and to provide summer cover after the grain has been harvested. In September, the lespedeza is harvested for seed and small grain is drilled in the lespedeza stubble. The lespedeza is harvested for hay the second Fall and the following Spring the lespedeza stubble is turned under and cotton or corn planted.
In establishing a crop rotation, results for the first year may not be very striking. But over a period of years, returns from the land will be increased, physical condition of the soil will be improved, and there will be less erosion and better crops.

REVIEWS and PREVIEWS

By Irvin Lande

It took Adolf Hitler seven years to build Germany into the great war machine that she is now today. It took Great Britain five years to wake up from her insouciance to Hitler, and it took her two years to prepare to, at least, defend her islands. France never woke up, and never prepared. Holland and Belgium were easily subdued because they did not have the time to build up their armaments. Yet, had the British and the French and the Dutch and the other Allies had the armies and the armaments that Hitler had, and provided they had that same will to win they still would not probably be able to produce victory from defeat, peace from tyranny. The Kaiser in the first World War thought that by having the best army in the world, he was invincible. He was wrong. Hitler knew that. Hitler learned from the past failures the essential fact that, to win a war without exhausting the country to defeat itself, he must cause industry and labor and agriculture to unite behind the soldier in the field. In other words, totalitarian soldiers must have a totalitarian government and a totalitarian government must have a totalitarian economy.

While Hitler united his armed force, he united his labor and industry and agriculture. Thus, when the war broke out, what he lacked in equipment he made up by the integration of industry. Because he did not have the gold which to buy guns and planes, he forgot about gold as a medium of exchange and replaced money with labor; he replaced stocks and bonds with government-controlled industry; and he replaced food stamps and appropriations with agricultural systems that produced food to be shipped direct to the men on the battlefields.

Until only too recently, did Great Britain realize the fact that her own industries would not produce necessary and essential armaments of their own volition. The British did not realize that to have a victorious Royal Air Force, a victorious Royal Navy, and a victorious British Expeditionary Force that they would have to have more than merely a superior and better-equipped navy and army. Until two years ago, they had forgotten that they must have a victorious industry, labor under a government head which would act in the interests of the public welfare in the prosecution of the war.

But the British did wake up, and we hope that they did wake up in time. But the important question for us Americans, as we contemplate the thought of a British defeat and a combined German-Japanese attack on our interests, is whether or not we have learned the lesson of the past and have integrated our resources in the defense of this nation.

Let us look for a moment to the Board which is supposed to be the most important piece of machinery in our defense program—the National Defense Advisory Commission, appointed by President Roosevelt on May 28. This Commission consists of six men and one woman and it was assigned the tremendous task of directing and coordinating all the defense efforts of this nation. The most important division of this Board is the Production Division, headed by William S. Knudson, president of General Motors. Mr. Knudson must see to it that our industries produce airplanes, tanks, guns, ammunition, and every kind of equipment for our army and our navy. The army's needs are tremendous; likewise are the navy's needs. Mr. Knudson's job is not so largely concerned with the building of planes and the like, because once the planes begin to be produced they can regulate themselves, but his job is to make sure that the factories have the right kind of and the necessary tools with which to build these important armaments. Machine tools are Mr. Knudson's chief worry, followed by the letting of contracts and the problem of what is to be built when and where and why.

The second division is that headed by Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., of the United States Steel Corporation. His task is to complete our supply of strategic war materials such as manganese, rubber, tin, nickel, chromite, tungsten, antimony, and mercury. The third division is that led by Mr. Sidney Hillman, president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers. He must look after labor, providing for skilled workers, for training of new workers, for prevention of strikes, and for greater cooperation between the Congress for Industrial Organization and the American Federation of Labor.

Mr. Ralph Budd, president of a great railway system, must coordinate our transportation policy so that materials may be furnished where and when needed, and also transport soldiers. The fifth great division is the prices division, under the supervision of Mr. Leon Henderson of the Securities and Exchange Commission. He will set prices and prevent profiteering. Another division is for the farmers, headed by Mr. Charles C. Davis, a member of the Federal Reserve Board. He will attempt to look after the farmers' interests. The seventh division is the Consumer's Division which will look after the consumers' interests as it works to prevent high price increases from day to day. Furthermore, this division will look after the health of the nation. Miss Harriet Elliott, Dean of Women of the University of North Carolina, has this job.

And under these seven main classifications are Mr. Charles F. Palmer co-ordinator, whose job is to plan and build defense housing through private and public agencies. Donald Nelson will supervise all national defense purchases, and Nelson Rockefeller will endeavor to improve commercial and cultural relations with the other American republics.

Those ten persons will have one of the greatest tasks ever presented to any single group of great men and women. It will be interesting to watch their work as they will accept it and try to build this nation into, in one or two years, an organized economy which took Hitler seven years to produce and to achieve.

Their success will be in great measure, the success of the nation as a whole. All the members are well qualified and through the cooperation of the rest of the nation, they will be successful, for they dare not fail.

FIRST in war, FIRST in peace

THIS Railroad, the Old Reliable, is glad of the privilege of contributing its share of service to National Defense and Commerce. It is but one unit of the great railroad systems which absolutely come first when sufficiency and dependability in transportation must be relied upon.

In these days when newspaper headlines daily treat of new things and transitions, the huge, indispensable and reliable service of the railroad should not go unappreciated. Ever working, all the day and night through the long years, they are the main reliance of business in times of peace and a bulwark of strength to the Nation when war threatens.

On the basis of its contribution to the public welfare, through service, payrolls, purchases and taxes, the L. & N. asks fair treatment in legislative halls and your patronage.

FOLKS and THINGS ABOUT TOWN

A few of the names appearing on the list were interesting and some very old. Here are a few we will pass along now: Carnon Patrick Rachels, June Sparky, Arlie Sparks, Jesse James Crew, Brewster, Lonnie Sails, Pink, Perle Gore, Ermon Peoples, Oscar Mink, Gus Burns, Frank Sunday, Elgie Ellison, Absee Yarn, Solomon Harris Prince Albert, King Christian, Zad A. Agge, and everybody as you can see was presented. We find four Woodrow Wilson registered, one Benjamin Franklin and one of Lee Smith. Honors the shortest name will have to be divided between No. 715 registered by No. 1 and 362 and 679 registered by No. 2. Each with seven letters. Now take the longest name on the list: honors will again have to be divided. On list No. 1 it will go to No. 1 (I'll tell you this time) Elvin Charles Williams Averette, containing 28 letters, and on list No. 2 we find one from Columbus Middlebrooks, Jr. No. 1 contains exactly the same number.

We were called upon last week to make up the serial number of a dark-skinned Senegambian and when we saw his skin, we mean just that. That boy is BLACK. Upon asking him, he responded "George Washington Adams, boss". Well, we spent a good ten minutes hunting George Washington. To be frank with you, the last I heard of George was the time he told his dad he cut down the tree, that's another tale. Anyway, our search was rewarded with a letter. Then up spoke George (George Washington Adams, not George Washington, in case you are confused), and he told us to go home. He said that he didn't and asked his name. When he replied, "Julius Caesar", I'll bet it to you readers, isn't that a little too much. If it took me ten minutes to find George Washington figure for yourself how long would have been hunting Julius Caesar. Here John, you take the list.

Our deepest sympathy goes out to Howard Thomas who was so badly hurt Saturday night in an automobile accident on the Maplesville highway. A few days ago Howard lost all his household furniture, all of his things, everything, when his home was destroyed by fire. Now this is his writing we don't know just how he or his wife are hurt, but how heroically. Howard and the Mrs. are fine people and deserve better than it seems.

T. King, manager down at Elmore's, doing something new in window display. We don't know ourselves really what it is going to be so at the moment we can't tell you anything about it—but keep an eye on it. J. T. promises to lift the lid Friday night and take a peek.

You haven't seen the Bobcat over Burwood Broadway's Grocery, or one of the few in the county who has since about a week ago when the Bobcat was put in a cage out front it seems most of the county plus all travelers who pass have stopped to take a look-see.

...and departing, leave behind us prints on the sands of time." We perse, didn't say that—must have been Longfellow, but anyway it gets the mood to tell you about that owned by T. W. Bryan. As far as we have ascertained it is 152 years old and has quite a history behind it. It was as far back as we can be traced, was killed at Richmond Va., 1862. He was Lieutenant John Bryan. The watch was made in Liverpool, England by M. J. Tobias. The strap that killed Lieutenant Bryan broke the watch and the scar on his back can be plainly seen. It was to his home and lay unfixed for years—that is until just recently Mr. Bryan had it repaired by L. Hughes, local jeweler. The watch has stayed with it—one for winding and for setting it. Lieutenant Crosby a grandfather of Mrs. Bryan.

...but boy makes good—Mr. and Mrs. Buckleby announce the birth of a son. They have named him Hal Cray-Mother, Father and son are doing well. Hal was born Monday night and weighed in at 6 and three-quarter pounds—most as much as his dad. Congratulations Fred and the Mrs. we hope him to be a good Lion.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Thomas Seriously Injured In Wreck

Howard Thomas, wife and two small children were in a bad automobile accident Saturday night when a truck, a buggy and Thomas' car piled up on the Maplesville Highway about three miles from Clanton.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas were seriously injured but the two small children escaped with minor bruises.

According to best information the truck and truck were going toward Maplesville and as they reached the crest of the hill the truck, which was driven by a negro man, started to pass the buggy. Just as it pulled out into the other lane of traffic Mr. Thomas came over the hill and was too close to the truck to stop. The truck swung back to the right to miss the Thomas car and wrecked the buggy injuring the old negro driving it. Howard Thomas then cut to his right but caught the trailer behind the truck and ran off the road turning over several times.

The car was a complete wreck and it is a wonder any of them were alive. Spigner and Martin ambulances answered the call and brought the injured to the Central Alabama Hospital. The extent of their injuries have not been determined, however it is thought Mrs. Thomas has a broken back.

S. M. PATE NAMED

S. M. Pate of Thorsby has been named Advisor to the registrant for Chilton County according to a statement by Arnie Wyatt Tuesday. P. T. A. Halloween Party Tonight At High School

Plans for the High School P. T. A. Halloween Party are ready and everybody is primed for a large evening at the High School tonight (Thursday) There will be Bingo, House of Horrors, Cake Walk and Jitterbug Contest and numerous other things for the entertainment of the guests.

The cake at the door will be one dime and the proceeds will go in the treasury of the P. T. A. for general use in buying things for the school. Come out and enjoy the evening—it will be worth the little it costs you.

Mr. W. H. Pentomas, 84, died at his home near Phenixville, in Coosa County last Wednesday. He was the father of Mr. John Thomas of Clanton.

JUDGE SMITH ADDRESSES VOTERS TO THE VOTERS OF CHILTON COUNTY:

As the campaign is drawing to a close, I want to take this opportunity to express my appreciation for the wonderful cooperation and support I have received from my friends. Due to the duties of the office it has been impossible for me to see all the voters.

You know my past record as a citizen, business man and as a public servant. I am a staunch believer in good roads, schools and an active supporter of Old Age Pension. I have spent most of my life in business and in private affairs.

It has been my pleasure to serve you almost one term as your Probate Judge and I am asking you to re-elect me for a second term solely on my record. If you will look into my record you will agree with me that I am entitled to a second term. I have practiced and stood for honesty and economy in County government, and the records will bear me out in this statement. I make you the same promise I made to you six years ago, and that is, so long as I am your Probate Judge I will not put Chilton County in debt or permit it to be done, if it is within my power to prevent it.

I have made an effort to conduct the affairs of the office in an open and fair manner with all the people of the County. I have given of my time and attention to any and all requests for aid and assistance to the people. I have not ignored one group and favored another group. I have made every effort to show to all of the people that I wanted to be a Probate Judge for every citizen in our County.

As you people know there has been false rumors circulated in the County and I want to say this to you in my last appeal, do not pay any attention to any last minute false rumors you may hear, and if you want to know anything about the Probate Office, come to me and I will take all the time necessary to explain the matter to you.

I had rather present to you a good record than campaign promises. Let's all work for a great victory on November 5th.

Yours very truly,

J. LEE SMITH

LETTER FROM J. C. PATTILLO

Editor Chilton County News:

Please allow me a little space in your paper to say to the citizens of Chilton County that I regret that it has been impossible for me to call on all of them. I was busy in the court for two weeks and with organization of the Selective Service registration one week and there are certain duties in my office every day that require my personal attention. I am getting out and visiting as many of the people as I possibly can but to those whom I fail to see, I wish to say that I will appreciate their support and influence in my behalf. I promise to all that if elected I will continue to discharge the duties of the office to the very best of my ability and to be courteous, kind and accommodating to every one who may have any business with the office and who may at any time need any assistance in any manner or capacity that is in my power to render.

Thanking you, one and all for any support you may give me on election day, November 5th, I am,

Very truly,

J. C. PATTILLO.

TO THE VOTERS OF CHILTON COUNTY

I am taking this opportunity of asking those of you I did not see in my campaign, and I want you to know that I will appreciate your vote and influence in my behalf in the general election on November 5th. I have seen as many of you personally as possible, but as you know, it is impossible to see all the voters of Chilton County.

I am asking for your support solely on my record, as I have handled your money for the past four years and I am glad to say that I can account for every penny of the County's money during the past four years, and if reelected I shall strive to continue serving the people as I have in the past.

I wish to thank my friends and opponent, Mr. Reese Baker, for the clean campaign he has conducted.

I wish to thank my friends for their many encouraging words during my campaign.

Again asking you for your full support and influence in my behalf next Tuesday, November 5th, I am

Yours for the continued progress of our County,

J. E. EASTERLING,

Candidate for re-election as County Treasurer.

(Paid Pol. Adv. by J. E. Easterling)

Campaign Committee Asks Public's Help In Keeping Election Clean

The Democratic Campaign Committee is putting on a hard fight for a clean and honorable election November 5. We ask for your support and cooperation in curbing any corrupt practice you may observe between now and including the day of the election.

Senator John H. Bankhead is going to speak at the Court-house in Clanton Saturday, November 2 at 2 p. m. He will speak in behalf of the Democratic Party and we believe he can do us lots of good. It is up to you to get the people who NEED TO HEAR HIM, to this meeting. There are those in every community who need to hear a good "rousing" speech on the ideals and objectives of the Democratic Party. We are counting on you to get them to the meeting. Senator Bankhead will be the only speaker on the program.

We urge you to do what you can to advertise Senator Bankhead's speech and to get as large attendance as possible. Yours for a successful vote November 5.

Democratic Campaign Committee

By: C. E. STAPP.

SENATOR JOHN H. BANKHEAD

Senator John H. Bankhead will speak at the Court-house Saturday Nov. 2, at 2:00 P. M. in behalf of the Democratic Party.

President Roosevelt

Will speak Saturday, November 2, from 8 to 9 p. m. from Public Auditorium, Cleveland, Ohio, over entire NBC red network and CBS network.

Monday, November 4th, Election Eve, the Democratic National Committee has engaged the period from 9:00 to 10:00 P. M. Mutual Network, and the Democratic National Committee has also engaged the period from 10:00 P. M. of Monday, November 4th, to 11:00 P. M. over the N. B. C. Red Network, and over the Mutual and Columbia Networks. President Roosevelt will talk sometime between 10:00 P. M. and 11:00 P. M. Central Standard Time.

November 13 Set For Red Cross Roll Call

The Annual Red Cross Roll Call Day for membership in Chilton County this year is Wednesday, November 13, states Cohen Stapp, Red Cross Chairman for the County. Committees for every community in the county are now in process of formation, and a full announcement of names of committees and workers will be carried on the front page of this paper next week. Chairman Stapp urges that all persons named respond readily and with determination to do their best work on Red Cross Roll Call Day.

All county committees are advised to meet early and plan definitely for their observance of Roll Call Day. In peace and war, the Red Cross has not failed to aid all communities, and workers see to it that no one, able to give, shall fail the Red Cross. An adequate number of workers is secured, so that no person will have more than 15 people to see.

In Clanton, all the workers for Roll Call Day are to meet at 7:45 a. m., on the morning of November 13, for breakfast and final instructions. The Publicity Chairman suggests that other communities do likewise.

Every able American citizen wants to wear a Red Cross membership button this year. Give each person a chance to contribute his dollar.

Children can become members of the Junior Red Cross by giving five cents along with all the other children in school classes, and thus secure a Red Cross sticker for the room window. To secure this sticker, however, the class or school must co-operate in 100 per cent giving. This offers an opportunity for children to help and by doing so to become members of the Junior Red Cross.

SINGING AT ENTERPRISE

Enterprise Singing Society meets on its regular afternoon singing, (last Sunday) at 2:00 o'clock. Everybody invited. Singers come and bring your books and enjoy 2 or 3 hours singing with us.

Lowe's Store Entered By Burglars

What Postmaster Lowe terms as the most persistent burglars he has ever heard of entered his store in So. Clanton last Saturday night. First the intruders tried the back door and pried off the lock but couldn't enter. Then they tried the front door and the case might have been, tried going under the store and coming up through the floor. Using a brace and bit they first bored into a keg of nails and then into the metal display case. Giving this up as a bad job they went to the front of the building and knocked out the windows and entered through them, this set off the burglar alarm and the culprits ran. Mr. Lowe is offering $25.00 reward for conviction of the parties responsible.

Voters Cannot Withdraw Ballot After It Has Been Deposited With Proper Officials.

We understand that there has been some discussion of the question as to whether or not a voter who has cast an absentee ballot would have the legal right to withdraw his ballot, after the same has been delivered to the sheriff or to the officials of the absentee ballot box on election day.

The Attorney General of Alabama, in an opinion dated May 3, 1940, which opinion may be found in the Quarterly Report of the Attorney General, Volume 19, for the period April 1, 1940 to June 30, 1940, definitely decides this question. The two questions decided were that a voter may not withdraw his absentee ballot after the same has been delivered to the Chairman of the Democratic Executive Committee and that a voter may not withdraw his absentee ballot after said ballot has been delivered by said Chairman to the officials of the absentee ballot box. The Attorney General argued and decided that from a study of the Alabama law of Alabama, that there was no authority for said voter to withdraw his ballot. Argued the Attorney General:

It might be argued that a qualified elector who is actually present in the county of his residence on the day of the election, and who has forwarded an absentee ballot to the proper authority, would be casting an illegal ballot, if such absentee ballot was delivered by the authority to whom the same was returned to the election officials of the absentee box, and the same was counted by them.

And as an answer to this contention he cites the case of Wood v. State, ex rel Lee, 126 S. W. (2d) 4 (Texas) which involved a construction of the voting statutes of the State of Texas. (Continued to Back Page)

Second Notice To Those Interested In Flight Training Sponsored by Kiwanis Club

If you are interested in the Non-College Citizens Pilot Training Course, we have the regulation application blanks for same.

You may fill out these blanks at my office or see Messrs. Leo Thompson or Charles Wade at their place of business, or Mr. Evans at the High School. These blanks are to be filled in triplicate and we will be glad to assist you in any way we can, but come at once if you are interested as orders may be from Washington to start the school any day. Then you might be too late.

Respectfully,
V. J. Gragg,
Coordinator, Civil Pilot Training.

J. Mell Martin Returns

J. Mell Martin, who has been in San Francisco, California for the past week attending the National Rural Association Convention has returned home. Mr. Martin was secretary to the organization for more than twelve years and was awarded this trip in recognition of his long service to the Association.

FARMERS MEETING

There will be a meeting of the Isabella Farmers Cooperative, Wednesday night, November 6, at 7:00 o'clock. The meeting is changed to Wednesday because of election on Tuesday. Everyone is cordially invited to attend. Mr. J. H. Camp.

First Two Numbers Called In Lottery Nos. 158 and 192

The first number called in the National Lottery, Tuesday, November 5, was 158. This number in Board No. 1 list was held by Dave Cleveland, colored, Maplesville, Alabama. 158 on Board No. 2 list was held by Theodore Wilson Meherd of Clanton Rt. 2.

The second number, 192, was Board No. 1 Wilford Wilson, Clanton Rt. 2 and Emmett Cleveland Kimbrel of Jemison on Board No. 2.

A friend of two-thirds of a century, Jimmie Mize of Maplesville, brought us the finest bunch of turnips Wednesday we have seen this Fall.

Judge L. H. Reynolds To Speak Saturday

So many friends of Judge L. H. Reynolds, who is perhaps more familiar with Chilton County politics than any other man, have asked him to speak Saturday afternoon at the Courthouse, that he has consented to make a few remarks at the time Senator John H. Bankhead is to speak.

Pilots Have Annual Bosses Night

Last Wednesday night members of the Clanton Pilot Club entertained their bosses with a Halloween party at the Methodist Church. The entire basement was decorated in Halloween style. The tables in the dining room were very pretty with candles placed in apples for the holders, this being the only lights burning. A huge pumpkin was in the center of the table where the President of the Club, Laura Little, presided.

A very elaborate Halloween program was presented by Lois Foshee and Ethel Mae Jones, assisted by Olive Fiquette, Laura Little, Delilah Grant, Mattie Jo Barber, Helen Breedlove and Ruth Sessions.

There was fifty two people who enjoyed this delightful occasion including Pilot Members and their guests.

NOTE: Pastor Oscar A. Davis will be in Decatur, preaching in the South-side Baptist Church revival, Rev. J. A. Chambers, pastor, November 3 through 10. He will also remain in Decatur attending upon the Alabama Baptist State Convention which meets in that city November 12-14.

"MEET THE YOUNG PEOPLE" PROGRAM AT BAPTIST CHURCH

Dr. Harwell Davis, President of Howard College Birmingham, will be the speaker on the morning of November 10. (See note at top of page.)

A Gentle Laxative Good For Children

Most any child who takes this tasty laxative once will welcome it the next time he's constipated and it has him headachy, cross, listless, with bad breath, coated tongue or little appetite.

Syrup of Black-Draught is a tasty liquid companion to the famous BLACK-DRAUGHT. The principal ingredient is the same in both products; helps impart tone to lazy bowel muscles.

The Syrup's flavor appeals to most children, and, given by the simple directions its action is usually gentle, but thorough. Remember Syrup of Black-Draught next time. Two sizes: 60c and 25c.

FROM COMMISSIONER J. MONROE PARRISH

October 29, 1940.

I want to take this method of thanking the people for their cooperation in the campaign that is now coming to a close.

There has been much said through our local papers and otherwise regarding my work as County Commissioner. I want to make this statement to the voters and taxpayers of our County, there has not been one dime of your money spent except where the county and the people of the county received the benefits, and any statement by anyone to the contrary is made without any foundation of truth.

I have tried at all times to be considerate and helpful to the people, I have had the pleasure to serve. Your troubles are my troubles, and your wants are my wants, and I know, and I believe you will agree with me, that I have been as liberal with our people as the financial condition of our County would permit. I have never at any time turned down an appeal to me for help without thorough consideration, and have never with hatred or malice tried to mistreat any of my fellow men.

With this appeal to you and with the promise to do the best I can during my next term, I am asking your support and influence on November 5. Thanking you, I am,

Sincerely your friend,

J. MONROE PARRISH.

POLITICS IN CHILTON COUNTY

October 29, 1940.

Dear Editor:

I feel it my duty to express myself upon the political situation in Chilton County. In doing so I would like to state that I have in the past voted a republican ticket. I thought it was best to do so. However, several year ago the leaders of the supposedly leaders in the Republican Party in Chilton County got off on the wrong track, they did not play the game fair.

I have noticed since we have had Democratic officials in Chilton County that we are in a position to receive more consideration from our State and National Government. Our Circuit Judge is a Democrat, our Circuit Solicitor is a Democrat, our Congressman is a Democrat, the two United States Senators from Alabama are Democrats and our Governor is a Democrat, and I have come to the conclusion that it is best for the people in Chilton County to vote the Democratic ticket.

I for one, do not like the way Mr. W. J. Billingsley and Mr. Gene Wyatt are trying to mislead the voters of Chilton County in regard to the financial condition of Chilton County. The financial condition of Chilton County, is in my opinion good, as the statement from the County Treasurer shows that the County has more than $65,000.00 on hand. The only way to do anything is to tell the truth about it and not by trying to mislead the people in order to get them to vote.

I for one, will vote the Democratic ticket on November 5th, and I am asking my friends to do the same thing. I am,

Very truly yours,

FONZA S. HEADLEY.

(Paid Pol. adv. by Fonza Headley)

AN OPEN LETTER

October 29, 1940.

Dear Editor:

Please give me space in your valuable paper to say a few words to those who have heretofore voted a Republican ticket.

I have in the years that have past and gone voted a Republican ticket in Chilton County, feeling all the time that it was best for our County government. I have thought the matter over carefully and have noticed the administration of the Democrat County officials and it is my opinion the time has come for a change.

I have read the articles appearing in the Union-Banner and read other articles in the same paper trying to express the opposition, and it appears to me Mr. Billingsley and Mr. Gene Wyatt has mis-stated and mis-quoted the financial condition of our County. As I read the articles they were trying to show that Chilton County only had $850.00, when as a matter of fact there was over $65,000.00 in the County Treasurer.

I for one, am through with this kind of politics and am going to vote a straight Democratic ticket on November 5th, and I ask my Republican friends to go with me. I am,

Sincerely your friend,

L. P. CAGLE

Before me, Ruth G. Kelley, a Notary Public in and for said County and State aforesaid, personally appeared Melvin Easterling, who after being first duly sworn, deposes and says as follows:

That G. N. Easterling and Johnnie Easterling gave me a Poll Tax Receipt No. 40 for the years 1938-39, and carried me down to the Union-Banner office and Gene Wyatt filled out a request and sent me to Sheriff W. G. Culp's office for an Absentee Ballot. Then we went to the Tax Collector's office where Mrs. Gene Robinson marked the ballot for me and I carried it back to the Sheriff's office and left it. It has been made known to me that Sheriff W. G. Culp destroyed my ballot without my knowledge or consent.

MELVIN EASTERLING.

Stapp Writes About Cemetery

To the editor—Will you please be so kind as to publish the following letter: TO ALL WHO OWN LOTS IN THE CLANTON CEMETERY:

About two months ago we promised the citizens of Clanton that, if elected, we would try to work out some plan for cleaning and beautifying the Clanton cemetery.

In order that we may get to this project, we think it necessary that we for your cooperation now.

Before we can properly organize this project, we think it necessary that we have the statement below, addressed to Mayor and Council, signed and placed in our files. If you favor granting this authority to the City, please clip the statement from the paper, sign and mail to C. E. Stapp, Mayor of Clanton. Also ask your friends who have lots in the cemetery to do the same.

Yours for a more beautiful city of Clanton.

Mayor and Council of Clanton.

THE LEADER CELEBRATES ITS 21st ANNIVERSARY

The Leader, one of Clanton's oldest and most reliable dry goods stores, is celebrating its twenty-first anniversary this month. In special observance of this occasion, The Leader is putting on the greatest sale in its history. For the past twenty-one years, bargain galore have always featured these birthday sales, but this one surpasses all the rest in low prices. The sale opened last Friday, October 18, and Mrs. Lande wishes to thank her many friends for the many compliments which she received on this occasion. She also wishes to state that she appreciates greatly the flowers which she received in connection with the sale. All are invited to attend the sale during the next few weeks while the low prices prevail.

STATE OF ALABAMA
A PROCLAMATION
BY THE GOVERNOR

WHEREAS, the Legislature of Alabama, at the Regular Session 1939, ordered an election to be held by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama upon a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, which said amendment is herein set out, and ordered that said election be held on the 5th day of the next General Election in Alabama more than three months after the adjournment of the Legislature at which the election was ordered; and

WHEREAS, the First Tuesday after the First Monday in November, 1940, which is the 5th day of November, is the time for holding the next General Election in Alabama more than three months after the adjournment of the Legislature; and

WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with the proposed amendment is required by law, and by the provisions of the Act submitting the Amendment, to be given by a proclamation of the Governor to be published in each County in the State of Alabama once a week for four successive weeks immediately preceding the said 5th day of November:

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Frank M. Dixon, as Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that on Tuesday, the 5th day of November, 1940, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama, in the manner and form provided by law, upon the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901:

"Each municipal corporation in this State whose annual ad valorem tax rate is otherwise limited by the Constitution of any amendment thereto to less than one per centum (1%) of the value of the property situated therein as assessed for state taxation during the preceding year shall have, in addition to the power to levy and collect such ad valorem tax each year at the rate authorized immediately prior to the adoption of this amendment, the further power to levy and collect each year an additional tax or taxes to such extent that the total ad valorem tax rate of such municipal corporation shall not exceed one per centum (1%) in any one year on the property situated therein based on the valuation of such property as assessed for state taxation during the preceding year; provided, that before any such additional tax may be so levied and collected a majority of the qualified electors of any such municipal corporation voting at an election called for that purpose shall vote in favor of the levy thereof; provided, further, that the total ad valorem tax or taxes to be levied and collected by any such municipal corporation shall not exceed one per centum (1%) in any one year; and provided further, that the adoption of this amendment shall in no wise affect, limit, modify, abridge or impair the power, authority or right of any such municipal corporation to levy and collect the special school taxes now or hereafter vested or conferred upon them, or any of them, under the Constitution or any amendment thereto, which said special school taxes shall be in excess of said one per centum (1%) herein provided for. Each election held under the provision hereof shall be ordered, held, canvassed and may be contested in the same manner as is or may be provided by the law applicable to municipal corporations for elections to authorize the issuance of municipal bonds. The ballots used in such election shall specify the purpose for which the proposed additional rate of taxation shall be authorized and shall contain the words 'For _____ % additional rate of taxation;' and 'Against _____ % additional rate of taxation;' the additional rate of taxation proposed to be shown in the blank space provided therefor. The voter shall record his choice, whether for or against the additional rate shown, by placing a cross mark before or after the words expressing his choice. The proceeds of any such additional tax may be authorized at any such election shall be used only for the purpose for which the same shall be authorized at such election. Elections to authorize the levy of such additional tax may be held as often as ordered by the governing body of the municipality, but when a proposition is submitted to the electors to levy such additional tax for a specific purpose and such proposition is defeated then no second election for the same purpose shall be held in one year thereafter."

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday, the 5th day of November, 1940, upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, be given by publishing the same once a week for four successive weeks immediately preceding Tuesday the 5th day of November, 1940, in each County in the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said County.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and have caused the Great Seal of the State to be affixed by the Secretary of State, at the Capitol in the City of Montgomery, on this 12th day of September, 1940.

(Too Late For Last Week's Paper)

The health in our community is good at present, as far as I know. And everybody is busy gathering their crops.

The old time singing was good only there wasn't as large a crowd as we would have liked for it to have been. It was because there were two more singings at different places. They have set the third Sunday in October for their Old Time Annual Singing at the church. So please keep this in mind and be ready to attend if it is the Lord's will, because it brings back memory to our older folks of the days gone by.

Mr. Bernie Blow and family were visitors in our community Sunday night and Sunday.

Our B. Y. P. U. was not as large as it should have been Sunday night. I do not know why. Folks, are we going to let our B. Y. P. U. down? If not, please come and let's build it back up to its standard. I know you young folks and old too like the work you come on and let's go. We had some new ones last night that have been coming in good while. Come back next Sunday night and bring somebody with you. God has put us on an equal gift of time. Each one of us has sixty seconds to the minute, sixty minutes to the hour and twenty-four hours to the day. Every hour to us is an investment. It does not belong to us it belongs to God, who has just spared us a few years.

Am going to use his time altogether for worldly things or am I going to use some of his time to please and honor him? And make life rich and fruitful and please him here. You know He will reward us at the end. Let's ask ourselves how shall I use my time so as to prove myself a good steward and let my light shine for my children and others to see and follow. You know He says in Mark 10:23 to 31, If a man leaves all for his sake he shall receive a hundredfold. But we do not have to leave all this to do his work. We have plenty of work around home we can do. Can't we just spare Him a few hours Sunday and Sunday night. Are we going to sit back and let our time fly away with no work at all?

Next Sunday night is our regular preaching night. I would like to correct a mistake I made in last week's report about the marriage of Richard Hayes and Minnie Lee Bolton. It was Gladys Mae Bolton and Richard Hayes. They have my greatest apologies for this mistake.

"The salaries of the following named County officers of Dallas County, Alabama, but subject to the provisions of Section 281 of the Constitution of Alabama, are fixed as follows: Judge of Probate, $6,000.00 per annum net; Tax Assessor, $5,000.00 per annum net; Tax Collector, $5,000.00 per annum net; Sheriff, $4,800.00 per annum net; Circuit Clerk, $2,400.00 per annum net; Register in Chancery, $1,200.00 per annum net; provided, that if the same person holds the offices of Circuit Clerk and Register in Chancery, the salary for both offices shall be $3,000.00 per annum net; members of the county governing body, exclusive of the Judge of Probate, $600.00 each per annum net. The above named officers are hereby required to collect all charges of court fees, commissions, allowances, percentages, salaries or other compensation provided by law, other than the salaries herein fixed, and to cover the same into the county treasury. This shall include the allowances or amounts received by the Sheriff for feeding prisoners from both the State and Federal Government, and the county governing body of Dallas County, Alabama, shall pay the expenses incurred in feeding such prisoners out of the county treasury, but nothing herein shall be construed as interfering with the allowances or amounts provided by law for guards at the county jail or for guards for courts, or providing the county governing body of Dallas County, Alabama, from making such allowance to the Sheriff and his deputies for transportation on official business, including the purchase of automobiles for such use, as it may deem necessary from time to time. The salaries of the above named county officers of Dallas County, Alabama, shall be paid out of the county treasury in equal monthly installments. The employees of said office shall be selected by the respective officers, and allowances for their compensation shall be as follows: 1. Office of Judge of Probate—$5,500.00 per annum. 2. Office of Tax Assessor—$3,800.00 per annum. 3. Office of Tax Collector—$2,800.00 per annum. 4. Office of Sheriff—$4,500.00 per annum. 5. Office of Circuit Clerk—$1,500.00 per annum. 6. Office of Register in Chancery—None. The county governing body shall have the same authority in regard to the employment of persons for the purpose of the fixing of their compensation, other than the employees in the above named offices, as provided by law. The salaries of the employees in the above enumerated offices shall be paid out of the county treasury in equal monthly installments; provided, however, that no payment of compensation for any such employee shall be made until the employee has rendered the service for which the payment is to be made. The Legislature of Alabama is hereby authorized and empowered, from time to time, by general or local laws, to fix, regulate and alter the employment and compensation of the employees in said offices, including the number and the method and basis of their compensation. The Legislature of Alabama is hereby authorized and empowered, from time to time, by general or local laws, to fix, regulate and alter the charges of court fees, commissions, allowances, percentages, salaries or other compensation received by any officer of Dallas County, Alabama, other than the Judge of Probate, Tax Assessor, Tax Collector, Sheriff, Circuit Clerk and Register in Chancery, including the method and basis of their compensation."

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Frank M. Dixon, as Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that on Tuesday, the 5th day of November, 1940, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama, in the manner and form provided by law, upon the following proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901:

"The State of Alabama is hereby authorized to issue not exceeding $5,000,000 aggregate principal amount of bonds for the purpose of paying or retiring prior to maturity, the bonds of the Alabama State Bridge Corporation and the bonds of the Alabama Bridge Authority, Incorporated, which were outstanding on July 1, 1939. Said bonds shall be general obligations of the State of Alabama, to the prompt payment of the principal of and interest on which the full faith and credit and taxing power of the State are hereby irrevocably pledged, and all of said bonds, together with any other bonds of the State providing for a pledge of said gasoline excise tax which may be authorized by constitutional amendment ratified on the same day as this amendment is ratified shall be additionally secured, without prior notice of one bond over another, by a pledge of the proceeds of the gasoline excise tax, authorized to be pledged to the highway bonds provided for in the amendment to the constitution known as Article XX-A, subject, however, to the prior pledge of said gasoline tax to said highway bonds. The bonds hereby authorized shall bear interest at not exceeding three per centum (3%) per annum, payable semi-annually, and shall be sold at not less than the par value thereof. Said bonds shall be forever exempt from taxes of every kind. Said bonds shall be issued at such time or times in such denominations and series and shall mature at such times, not later, however, than fifteen (15) years from the date of issuance, and shall have such other terms and conditions as may be provided by law. In addition to temporary loans authorized by Section 213 of the Constitution, as amended, the Governor without further authority is hereby authorized to issue and sell at advertised public sale during any fiscal year, notes evidencing temporary loans for the purpose of providing funds for the payment of appropriations at the time or times when the funds appropriated are needed. The loans here authorized shall, however, be made only in anticipation of the collection of taxes payable during such fiscal year, and the total amount of such loans at any time outstanding shall never exceed thirty per centum (30%) of the estimated amount of uncollected taxes for such fiscal year. The uncollected taxes for such fiscal year shall be estimated by deducting the taxes thus far collected and by deducting the taxes pledged for bonds and notes then maturing during that fiscal year from the annual average of the total taxes of the State collected during the preceding three fiscal years as certified by the State Treasurer. Such temporary loans may be evidenced by a negotiable promissory note or notes of the State and shall be due and payable within the fiscal year in which negotiated and may be renewed or extended but shall not be renewed or extended beyond that fiscal year. Both the principal of and interest on said note or notes shall be payable from and secured by a lien upon the taxes in anticipation of the collection of which they shall have been issued and shall also be general obligations of the State of Alabama; and the full faith and credit and taxing power of the State are hereby irrevocably pledged to the payment thereof. Said notes and the interest thereon shall be forever exempt from taxes of every kind. The State shall not, directly or indirectly, absolutely or contingently, contract or incur any indebtedness or other obligation except as provided in this Constitution, and no department, board, bureau, commission, agency, institution or office of the State and no public corporation or authority shall ever, directly or indirectly, absolutely or contingently, incur any debt or other obligation payable from or secured by a pledge of any State funds or any other funds, revenue or income over which the State has any control or issue any warrant or order thereon until such funds, revenues, or income shall have been appropriated and collected or anticipated by temporary loans as herein above provided. Any such debt or obligation of the State and any public corporation or authority shall ever, directly or indirectly, incur any debt or other obligation payable from or secured by a pledge of any State funds or any other funds, revenue or income over which the State has any control shall ever be appropriated or used, directly or indirectly, to pay the principal thereof or the interest thereon. Any appropriation for any such purpose shall be void."

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday, the 5th day of November, 1940, upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, be given by publishing the same once a week for four consecutive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 5th day of November, 1940, in each County in the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said County.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and have caused the Great Seal of the State to be affixed by the Secretary of State, at the Capitol in the City of Montgomery, on this 12th day of September, 1940.

Said bonds shall be forever exempt from taxes of every kind. Said bonds shall be issued at such time or times in such denominations and series and shall mature at such times, not later, however, than fifteen (15) years from the date of issuance, and shall have such other terms and conditions as may be provided by law. In addition to temporary loans authorized by Section 213 of the Constitution, as amended, the Governor without further authority is hereby authorized to issue and sell at advertised public sale during any fiscal year, notes evidencing temporary loans for the purpose of providing funds for the payment of appropriations at the time or times when the funds appropriated are needed. The loans here authorized shall, however, be made only in anticipation of the collection of taxes payable during such fiscal year, and the total amount of such loans at any time outstanding shall never exceed thirty per centum (30%) of the estimated amount of uncollected taxes for such fiscal year. The uncollected taxes for such fiscal year shall be estimated by deducting the taxes thus far collected and by deducting the taxes pledged for bonds and notes then maturing during that fiscal year from the annual average of the total taxes of the State collected during the preceding three fiscal years as certified by the State Treasurer. Such temporary loans may be evidenced by a negotiable promissory note or notes of the State and shall be due and payable within the fiscal year in which negotiated and may be renewed or extended but shall not be renewed or extended beyond that fiscal year. Both the principal of and interest on said note or notes shall be payable from and secured by a lien upon the taxes in anticipation of the collection of which they shall have been issued and shall also be general obligations of the State of Alabama; and the full faith and credit and taxing power of the State are hereby irrevocably pledged to the payment thereof. Said notes and the interest thereon shall be forever exempt from taxes of every kind. The State shall not, directly or indirectly, absolutely or contingently, contract or incur any indebtedness or other obligation except as provided in this Constitution, and no department, board, bureau, commission, agency, institution or office of the State and no public corporation or authority shall ever, directly or indirectly, absolutely or contingently, incur any debt or other obligation payable from or secured by a pledge of any State funds or any other funds, revenue or income over which the State has any control or issue any warrant or order thereon until such funds, revenues, or income shall have been appropriated and collected or anticipated by temporary loans as herein above provided. Any such debt or obligation of the State and any public corporation or authority shall ever, directly or indirectly, incur any debt or other obligation payable from or secured by a pledge of any State funds or any other funds, revenue or income over which the State has any control shall ever be appropriated or used, directly or indirectly, to pay the principal thereof or the interest thereon. Any appropriation for any such purpose shall be void."

I further direct and proclaim that notice of this election upon Tuesday, the 5th day of November, 1940, upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, be given by publishing the same once a week for four consecutive weeks next preceding Tuesday the 5th day of November, 1940, in each County in the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said County.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and have caused the Great Seal of the State to be affixed by the Secretary of State, at the Capitol in the City of Montgomery, on this 12th day of September, 1940.

FRANK M. DIXON,
Governor.

REVIEWS and PREVIEWS

By Irvin Lande

After raids and counter raids on Great Britain, and retaliatory action on Germany, the war has spread its active battlefields, through the invasion of Greece by Italy. It has been in this story that has taken place in every country that has been invaded by the totalitarian aggressors. Italy claimed that Greek soldiers had invaded Albania and had waged war with the soldiers of the new Italian ruled little nation of Albania. The Italians sent an ultimatum to the Greeks telling them that the people of Italy could not tolerate the action of the Greek nation. The Italian government said that Greece was leaning too near to the British and, therefore, the Italians must take them over in self-defense.

Immediately Great Britain seized the strategic islands of Crete and a small island off Corfu. In Yugoslavia, the Premier called an emergency cabinet meeting, and all Yugoslav troops marched through the streets of Belgrade toward the railroad station. In Sofia high officials expressed the belief that Bulgaria would not capitalize on Greece's plight to prevent her part of Grecian Thrace. In Belgrade, too, there were reports that Turkey had declared war on Italy. In Athens, crowds roved the streets waving Greek, British and Turkish flags, and shouting, "Down with Italy!"

And so, the war has reached out its tentacles hand in hand and has covered another section of the world. Now we can be fairly sure that the action this winter will take place in the Balkans, and the invasion of Britain will be withheld until next Spring. Nevertheless, it is altogether possible that Hitler might now attack Britain because he might think that now Britain is concentrating her fleet in the Mediterranean, her islands will be left rather defenseless.

The demands that were stated in the ultimatum by the Italians were that (1) Greece should yield some territory to Albania, (2) free passage for Italian troops, and (3) possible bases for attacks on British interests in the Mediterranean.

By Greece's holding out, she has done a great favor to Great Britain, for the British Empire's vital interests in the Mediterranean are absolutely protected by Greece's previous role of a buffer state between Italy and the other Balkan spheres which were under British control.

Now, for the first time since the defeat of France, we are able to see any real, tangible reasons for the actions of the Rome-Berlin Axis. When Mussolini attacked Albania, no one could see the real primary reason for that attack. Italy had virtual control of Albania, both politically and economically. Even so, such a victorious nation as Italy could not gain any real benefits in men and products from the African kingdom. Now, however, we can see more clearly, Mussolini took over Albania so that in the future he could manufacture some reason for an attack on Greece, when the right time would come for that attack. Likewise, Ethiopia is now serving as a valuable base for refueling and repair of Italian planes in their bombing missions of Egypt and the Near East.

The fact that the Fascist states plan so far ahead should cause us to survey the actions of Italy now. It has been proved by military authorities that a base for one naval vessel in a strategic position is more valuable than ten naval vessels without a strategic base.

It is very likely that Italy will defeat Greece before Turkey and Great Britain can render sufficient assistance to ward off defeat. Greece has an air force of only about 125 planes and an army of about 100,000 men. Therefore the superior Italian forces should win easily. With the defeat of Greece, Italy would be in a very striking distance of the Suez Canal and other vital British points. This move to take Greece might be the first move in a vast series of operations against the British throughout the world.

Sooner or later Turkey, Yugoslavia, and the Balkan states will be involved in the conflict. The victory will decide on whose side Russia tends to favor. And it must be remembered that Greece has a treaty with Turkey, Turkey a pact with Russia, and Great Britain has a treaty with Turkey. Indirectly, all these states are lined up against the Fascist threats. Whether these treaties are so much paper or are tangible proof of the way the wind will blow in the future is not for us to forecast.

However, with the agreement of Marshall Henry Perrin of France, to collaborate with Germany in establishing a new order in Europe, and this new order leaves Russia out, we may expect Russia to move one way or the other before a very long passage of time goes by.

Britain is now facing the tremendous task of keeping Japan in check in the Pacific, and of carrying the air war to the Germans. For the United States, this can mean but one thing: We must speed up aid to Britain and we must iron out difficulties in our own national defense program. We should do this thing sensibly with the spirit of a nation that acts like a nation upon whose shoulders rests the future of the democratic way of life. That way is the way without muddling and falsifications of fact, even though the tendency may be toward optimism. It is not in any way possible, for this is an election year.

CHICKEN PLATE SUPPER AT MT. PLEASANT

Mt Pleasant will feature free entertainment for all who attend the plate supper on Friday night, November 1. There will be stunts, skits and songs. Miss McKee will be present with her fiddle to strike up tunes for those who like fiddling.

Plates will be piled high with chicken, salad, cakes and other delicious foods. The plate and drink will be only twenty-five cents.

Gains will go to the P.-T. A.

Verbena News

At the last meeting of the P.-T. A. Miss Velma Patterson, one of our own graduates and outstanding Home Economic teacher, and Mr. Walsh, teacher of Vocational Agriculture of Elba, Ala. High School, made a talk on vocational work for our children.

They also showed an interesting picture of farm work being carried on under the supervision of a farm agent.

The young people of Verbena Methodist Church gave Anna Pearl Downs a surprise birthday party for her seventeenth birthday Friday night.

Our new grammar school has been completed and we are very proud of it. We moved during the week-end. The high school building has new lighting fixtures, and new glass doors.

The lunch room was also moved. The old school to the new one which makes it much more convenient than before.

A number of our teachers attended an art meeting held in Clanton Saturday morning.

Mrs. DeRamus, history teacher, went to a curriculum meeting held in Montevallo Monday.

The seniors have received their class rings, which they are very proud of.

November 9th Verbena football team plays Maplesville in Clanton.

The Methodists held their fourth Quarterly Conference Sunday night at the church. A sandwich supper was held at 6:00 o'clock. Immediately afterwards Dr. Andrews, the District Superintendent, delivered the sermon then the business meeting was held.

Maggie Pearl Dennis, a member of the senior class, recently had an operation for appendicitis.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvion Champion and family from Los Angeles, are visiting his mother and friends in Verbena.

Thomas W. Martin Sends Check For This Amount To State Tax Officials.

Thomas W. Martin, president of Alabama Power Company, forwarded a check to the tax officials at Montgomery for the sum of $347,263.68 in payment of the company's hydro-electric kilowatt-hour tax. This amount goes toward the special Educational Trust Fund of Alabama and will be devoted to educational purposes. Each of Alabama's 67 counties participates and 13 counties will receive over Five Thousand dollars each for High Schools and elementary schools, based on the 1939 disbursements of the State Board of Education.

The higher institutions of learning in the state will participate in the fund as follows: Alabama Polytechnic Institute $30,370.35; University of Alabama $17,353.40; Alabama College $9,085.42; State Teachers Colleges at Florence, Jacksonville, Livingston, Troy, Montgomery and Daphne will receive a total of $17,201.00; A. & M. Institute $721.00; Alabama School of Trades $1,442.00.

President Martin in commenting on this payment called attention to the fact that it represented only a part of Alabama Power Company taxes for 1940; total taxes for 1940 being estimated at approximately $3,500,000. He further stated: "Over one million dollars of the total amount of taxes paid to the state of Alabama by the company goes directly into specific school funds. This is equivalent to approximately $65.00 for each school teacher in the state and represents over 8 per cent of their total average annual salary."

LIFE OF CHRIST TO BE SHOWN

Rev. Charles P. Hagger will show the picture of "The Life of Christ" at Friendship church Sunday night, November 3, at seven o'clock. Everyone is invited to come out and see this picture.

Archer's Chapel

(Too Late For Last Week's Paper)
The members of Archer's Chapel at the quarterly conference last Saturday night voted unanimously to become a Congregational church. Up to then the church had been Methodist Protestant.

When various Methodist churches of the nation united recently, Archer's Chapel had voted not to enter the union. The Alabama Congregational-Christian Conference at its annual meeting in Thorsby a week ago had voted to extend fellowship to Archer's Chapel, should they vote to become a Congregational church.

The following officers were elected: Clerk, Mrs. J. D. Porter; Deacon and Conferees, Mrs. Frank Cook, Mrs. Lloyd Ray, Rev. Luther Ballou, who has been pastor of the church for the last nine months, was unanimously re-elected for the coming year.

During the Sunday School period before the church service last Sunday, the following teachers and officers were elected: superintendent, Mrs. Frank Lloyd; assistant, Mrs. Frank Cook; secretary, Mrs. Ruby Huckabee; ass't., Lloyd Ray; adult class teacher, David Harbut; ass't., Mrs. Frank Cook; primary teacher, Mrs. Ruby Huckabee; ass't., Mrs. Lloyd Ray. At Rev. Ballou will be unable to meet his regular appointment to conduct services at Archer's Chapel next Sunday, the next preaching service will be the third Sunday in November. Sunday School will continue every Sunday at the usual time.

Dam Imperils Traces of Race

Rising Waters in Oklahoma Project Blot Out Old Civilization.

GROVE, OKLA.—A page from the unwritten history of a cultured Indian race, which flourished when Europe was plunging into the Dark Ages, will be blotted out by imponded waters above Grand River dam.

Anthropologists, who have pieced together part of the history of this vanished people, are racing with the rising waters of the completed power dam to salvage what they can.

To the excavations near this northeastern Oklahoma town have been sent 79 WPA workers and two supervisors to unearth the traces of Indian villages and cliff dwellings that lie in the path of the gawling waters.

One project near Tahlequah, which is outside the dam basin, has been shut down temporarily to furnish the needed experienced workmen.

Depending upon the amount of rainfall, supervisors calculate they have only from three to six months of grace.

Had Advanced Culture

Already the spade has turned up enough evidence in eastern Oklahoma to convince anthropologists that these mound-builders—who peopled the Mississippi valley from 800 to 1,200 years ago—boasted a culture superior to most North American tribes that the white man found.

Dr. Forrest E. Clements, associate professor of anthropology at the University of Oklahoma, who directs the work, says that art designs on engraved shell and repousse copper gorgets are reminiscent of some phases of Central American art.

Trade relations definitely existed between these prehistoric tribes extending clear to the Gulf of Mexico.

The head on one of the ceremonial pipes bears a striking resemblance to some of the giant stone heads recently unearthed in Central America and has a similar headress, roughly resembling a football helmet.

Feathers Were Woven.

Apparently, this ingenious race could make cloth from nearly anything. The weavers warped and woofed with feathers, with fibers, and with tanned rawhide. They dyed their cloth with yellows, blacks and reds.

They also were handy metal and stone workers. They hammered out copper and covered ornaments with it. A tribal priest's mask, made of cedar, was sheathed with thin, beaten copper.

They decorated themselves with stone, copper-covered ear spools and hung strands of pearls about their necks. Many pearls, deteriorated by time, have been found.

"For a living this sedentary race cultivated maize, beans and flinted the hard red soil of earth was added to the mound about 800 years ago, Dr. Clements says.

This date was tentatively established by Dr. Paul B. Sears, former University of Oklahoma professor of botany, on the basis of pollen counts in the earth from which the mound was made.

The filling of the Grand River dam will not end eastern Oklahoma explorations, for there are many sites outside the area yet to be explored.

Town Loses Water Tank

So Post Office Is Closed

CAMAS, IDAHO.—Uncle Sam has closed the post office in this one-time roaring, wide-open city of the West. The reason is that where at one time Camas boasted of 11 saloons, four hotels, a main street and thousands of population, it now has only four families.

The straw that broke the ghost town's back was when the Union Pacific tore down its water tank, the last evidence that a railroad had once been there.

Model 'City' Constructed

To House Feeble-Minded

SOUTHURY, CONN.—Connecticut is putting the finishing touches to a new model state institution for the feeble-minded which will be a city in itself, raising its own crops, manufacturing its electricity and piping its own water.

The institution, when completed this fall, will house 1,500 persons and a staff of 300. There will be 70 buildings on 1,200 acres.

Tangled Family Ties

Now Tangled Further

WHITEHALL, WIS.—The relationships of the Holmen family are now slightly confused. Harry M. Holmen, 55 years old, married his widowed stepmother, Mrs. Agnes E. Holmen, 58. They were attended by the son and daughter-in-law of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Kerwin Holmen, who were the half-brother and sister-in-law of the groom. It is reliably reported that this makes the groom's laborer his stepson and his sister-in-law his daughter-in-law.

JITTERBUG STUFF

New York, Oct. 20.—(Gladwin Hill In Birmingham Age-Herald)—Men have sold ice boxes to Eskimos, judges have fined themselves and trucks have been whaled with their own rear ends, but what ought to stand for some time as the wackiest item on record cropped up in the cavalcade of cockeyed occurrences last week.

Authorities in Brownsville Tex., discovered a man inexplicably agitating the Rio Grande River by rushing in front of him a washtub containing—four parrots.

Tie that one if you can.

If you can't, here are some comparable curdainties to sharpen up on—A Greenville, S. C., man applying for a marriage license, couldn't remember the girl's name. A Kankakee, Ill., woman received a letter mailed five years ago, 55 miles away. . . . And an Anson, Tex., woman lassoed a hawk.

While a Spokane, Wash., cop was hunting for a stolen car, his own was stolen. . . . And a Portland, Ore., police officer, after a very unsatisfactory radio conversation with cruising car No. 11, discovered he was talking to cruising car No. 11 in Fort Worth, Tex.

A "possum hound" in Talborton, Ga., with a broken leg was taken to a hospital in a wheelbarrow, and freed four "possums" without even standing up. . . . The East Greenbush, N. Y., education board, after pondering hundreds of suggestions for a name for a school, finally decided on: "East Greenbush Central School."

A 74-year-old Jefferson Va., man married a 16-year-old girl. . . . A Chillicothe, Ohio, man's garage was moved down for the third time by motorists mistaking his driveway for a street. . . . And the first pair of horn-rimmed glasses Harold Lloyd wore in the movies in 1916 were mysteriously mailed back to him from Lisbon, Portugal.

Draft Doings. . . . The first man in line for registration in Chicago was George Washington. . . . An 84-year-old Buffalo, N. Y., man tried to register on the ground he had been too young for the Civil War and too old for all the wars since. . . . And in Marquette, Ohio, a 31-year-old woman insisted on registering.

In Elgin, Ill., a bull charged into a windmill and knocked it down. . . . An eagle dive-bombed an automobile in Albuquerque, N. M. . . . And in Oakland, Calif., a steamroller collided with a locomotive.

HALLOWEEN PARTY AT JEMISON HIGH TONIGHT

The P.-T. A. at Jemison High School is sponsoring a Halloween party in the school auditorium, Thursday evening, October 31, today.

The entertainment for the evening begins at 7:00. Two one-act plays will be produced for which the admission will be ten cents. One of these plays will be given by members of the senior class and the other by children from the fifth grade.

The remainder of the time will be devoted to a contest. The "House of Horrors" playing "Bingo", eating ice cream, candy, peanuts and other things. The fortune teller will be present to give everyone an idea of the future; the children will be especially pleased with the fish pond.

One of the most important events on the program will be the contest for the "Halloween Queen", or most popular girl contest. Girls will be nominated from both elementary and high school groups and votes during the evening will cost one cent each. The winner will be announced before the party ends. The lucky girl will be given a prize.

This party promises a delightful entertainment to both the young and old.

G-Men on Trail Of 5th Column

General Intelligence Unit Is Operating Against Subversive Forces.

WASHINGTON.—The Federal Bureau of Investigation is operating against subversive forces in the United States under near-war-time authority granted by President Roosevelt.

The Chief Executive followed up his proclamation of a national emergency last fall with an order designating the FBI as the clearing house for information concerning espionage, sabotage, subversive activities, and violations of the neutrality laws.

G-men ordinarily are constrained in their investigations to actual violations of federal law, but the additional authority permits them to place under surveillance persons suspected of subversive activity.

J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the bureau, has established a general intelligence division within the FBI to direct its far-flung activities to preserve the national defense against foreign agents.

Special Inquiries Made.

He pointed out that the FBI has conducted special investigations of persons reported as being active in any subversive activity or in movements detrimental to the internal security.

In that connection, he added, the FBI has established a general index, arranged alphabetically and geographically, so that in the event of any greater emergency "in the United States, federal agents will be able to locate immediately persons who may need to be the subject of further investigation."

Without the presidential authority, the FBI could have extended its jurisdiction to maintain surveillance over persons suspected of subversive activities.

Hoover made this clear in a departmental memorandum in 1924, after he had been asked by another bureau to investigate alleged subversive activities of suspected persons.

"In this connection," he wrote, "it is, of course, to be remembered that the activities of communists and other ultra-radicals have not up to the present time constituted a violation of the federal statutes and, consequently, the department of justice, theoretically, has no right to investigate such activities, as there has been no violation of federal laws."

List Has 2,500 Names.

Although there have been charges that Hoover is establishing a national police, the file of subversive forces contains only about 2,500 names.

During a single year, G-men touched approximately 60,000 persons in their investigations. This group comprises only .00004 of one per cent of the population.

FBI investigations during the same year, resulted in 6,102 convictions—or one conviction for every 12 persons investigated. Considering the fact that G-men must investigate groundless accusations and malicious charges along with bona fide complaints, Attorney General Robert H. Jackson did not feel that "the bureau has been throwing its net very far from the mark."

Opera Tenor Fails to Win This Blond's Heart

PUEBLO, COLO.—They say that John Carter, dark, handsome and romantic Metropolitan opera tenor, sets women's hearts aflutter. But he failed with one Pueblo blonde.

"Oh come," said Carter in his most persuasive manner as he tried to get the blonde to sit on a grassy knoll and pose with him for a picture. "Don't you want to talk to me? Won't you take my hand? Won't you have your picture taken?"

"No, I won't," said the young lady. "Leave me alone. Boo-hoo-hoo."

So Carter posed with an unprosperous harp.

And the three-year-old blonde nestled in her mother's arms.

Old Man River Keeps Tentacles on Trumpeter

NEW ORLEANS.—Old Man River has Tony Catalano in his grip. Tony, who has directed dance bands on the Mississippi river excursion boats every season since 1908, has turned down offer after offer to play his trumpet in "name" bands.

"There's just something about the river," is his only comment every time Catalano turns down a proposal that he leave his excursion boat and go with some traveling band.

Every Year Mrs. Adam Takes a 42-Mile Hike

TUJUNGA, CALIF.—Once every year Mrs. George Adam, 66 years old, walks from her home here to Los Angeles Exposition park to see the flowers. The round trip is about 42 miles and she does it in one day. What delights Mrs. Adam is that 20 years ago doctors considered her seriously crippled with arthritis and other ailments. "I fooled 'em," she says.

Eastview News

The Women's Society of the Eastview church will meet at the parsonage for dinner as guest of Mrs. Ballou the Saturday before the second Sunday in November to make plans for the new year. The regular monthly meeting will be held at that time.

All who would like to help in the final picking of the Lenten Altar at the church early Wednesday morning, Oct. 30th, Thank you.

Rev. Charles Taylor preached to an appreciative congregation at Eastview Sunday. Rev. Edward Wilkins of Eastview was the guest speaker. On the first Sunday of November, Rev. L. Gray of the Beth-Salem community will preach for us.

At the Sunday School last Sunday Glennis Rushing was unanimously elected superintendent, and Myrtle Nelson, secretary. The teachers will be at their regular meeting. The election of Mr. Rushing followed the resignation of Frank Nelson recently as superintendent. Mr. Nelson had faithfully served as superintendent for about ten years, and had also been superintendent for two or three years of the joint Sunday Baptist-Congregational Sunday School which had been held before the Congregational school had been organized separately.

RESOLUTION IN DEATH OF MRS. JOHN MOORE, LAWLEY, ALA.

Whereas on the 5 day of Oct., 1940 Our Heavenly Father saw fit to remove from our midst, Mrs. John Moore a dearly beloved member of the Shouts Home Demonstration Club to be with home prepared for all of God's children.

Therefore, be it resolved, 1st. That in the going of this loyal and faithful member, our club has lost one of its most beloved and useful members.

2nd. She was ever zealous of the work which was shown in her ready and willingness to lend a helping hand in administering to any call or work to be done in the club.

3rd. Her beautiful life and influence among us will continue to live, and be a sweet memory in our club.

4th. That we extend to her husband and children our sincere sympathy and that the blessings of our Heavenly Father be with each one through this life and prepare them all to enjoy a sweet reunion with her in a heavenly home.

Be it further resolved that a copy of these resolutions be placed upon the minutes, one to the family and one to Chilton County News.

Respectfully submitted,

LESPEDERA SERICIA

FIELD BORDERS

Lespedera sericia planted on field borders adjacent to woodland, and in gullies and galled spots will transform these areas into useful, productive land, according to County Agent, Pat H.

Smith and James H. Wood, Supertendent of the Soil Conservation Service in the CCC Camp Area near Clanton,

Alabama.

An excellent way to get sericia established on such areas is to mulch with sericia stems from which the seed has not been harvested. Plow or disk the area about the time the sericia ma-

tures and spread the sericia stems with the seed attached to the soil.

By next Spring the seed will have germinated nicely under the protection afforded by the sericia mulch.

This method of treatment is particularly desirable for field borders near woods, the specialists say. The sericia acts as a barrier to the danger of the encroachment of trees and shrubs into the cultivated field. Besides this, it provides a convenient row, stops erosion, and furnishes valuable food and cover for quail and other desirable birds.

Field borders should not be applied to the mulch too heavily. When about 50 per cent of the ground can be seen through the mulch, the mulching will probably give best results.

Farmers who do not have sericia may disk or plow these areas now and mulch with pine boughs. Next Spring the seed will be necessary merely to broadcast spartafield sericia seed over the mulch of pine boughs.

Scarlet Fever Warning

Parents are warned by the Chilton County Health Department of the presence of scarlet fever in this vicinity. Dr. Crowell states that in the past few weeks there have been 10 cases of scarlet fever around Clanton.

These cases have been quarantined and the children removed from school. To prevent further spread of this disease, it is necessary to have full cooperation of the parents in this county. Scarlet Fever cases are quarantined so that the disease will not be spread throughout the community. Any violation of the quarantine or failure to follow the Health Department to use such measures.

LETTER FROM H. J. MIMS

Editor, Chilton County News: I would say a good word for J. Monroe Parrish who is a candidate to succeed himself as County Commissioner. Mr. Parrish, during his term of office has been diligent in looking after the roads in our community and I think we all should cast a vote for him next Tuesday.

Very truly yours, H. J. Mims

Soil Improvement A Necessity

"The rehabilitation of soil in this county calls for soil improvement and better tenure arrangements this year," states Marvin Durbin county rehabilitation supervisor. "Longer leases are necessary to make real headway in rebuilding soils to produce abundant yields."

"The old system of leasing a farm for one year or for a cropping season has been determined one of the principal contributing causes to the plight of many farm families and the present condition of lands."

"Efforts have been made to aid families who rent lands to secure leases for at least three years, and where possible for five years, so that a soil-building program can be included in the farm plans for next season and subsequent years."

Written leases will be required detailing the agreement between tenant and landlord and both will be adequately protected by definite provisions of the leases. By soil-building practices the tenant will see improved yields come from his labors and the landlord will have his land improved for future advantage," continued Mr. Durbin.

Farm plans this year will include a livestock program where proper leases are secured and a start will be made in pasture development.

Approximately 317 families in this county were aided last year and most of them will farm again with the assistance of the habilitation program. Many of these families made a real jump upward toward security and many more are well on the way with ample food and feed reserves, good work stock, tools, livestock and their equipment almost paid for.

Applications are now being received in the local office for group service loans to buy sires, harvesting or farming equipment. These loans are made to finance purchase of needed services or equipment in any community where fees charged for use of same may repay purchase loans.

DRAFTEES

Approximately one in Every 25 Who Registered Oct. 16 Will Be In The Service Before June, 1941.

Approximately 13,711 Alabama men will be drafted into the Army before June, 1941. Washington officials have announced.

That figure is Alabama's tentative quota, assigned to the State as a result of the registration on Oct. 16 of all men between the ages of 21 and 35, inclusive.

Approximately one-half of that number will be called by March and the remainder before June, selective service officials say. Of the number in Alabama to go into service before March, 4,654 will be white men and 2,362 colored. The second call will result, of course, in about the same proportions.

About one man in 25 who registered in the State on Oct. 16, will be in service before June, according to an estimate by Col. C. O. Jarrell, Assistant State Selective Service Director, in Montgomery. County quotas have not been leased yet in all cases.

In the Fourth Corps Area, which includes Alabama, approximately 100,515 men will be called during the next fiscal year, according to latest military estimates.

Floyd News Last Saturday night we had a good prayer service with a large crowd. A wonderful message.

Our Sunday School was good with good attendance.

We had a good B. T. U. last Sunday night. After B. T. U. Bro. Leonard preached to us in Bro. Wilson's place. He preached a wonderful sermon and there was a large crowd. Bro. Hand has just been preaching two months and two weeks last Sunday night. Let us pray that Bro. Hand will make a success in preaching the gospel.

Next Sunday night Bro. Floyd Smith from Clanton will preach for us. Everybody come and hear him. We are proud that we have our church wired and ready for lights. Everybody is welcome to come to Floyd.

F.H.A. DISTRICT MEETING

(Too Late For Last Week's Paper)

The regular meeting of the District F. H. A. (Future Homemakers of Alabama) was held in Jonestown, Wednesday, October 19, 1940 at one o'clock. The meeting was called to order by Helen Hubbard, followed by the singing of the "Coat of Arms" of the F.H.A. A talk followed, about the spinning wheel by Mildred Ellison. Then Lounell Dorney talked about the story and Esie Lloyd Robinson about the log cabin.

Since the president had moved to Florida, a new president was elected. The nominating committee was Betty Lee Tucker, Mary Thomas Cost, and Frances Smith. This committee nominated Doris Jean Smith, Mildred Ellison and Lorneal Dorney, all of Jonestown. These candidates were voted on and Doris Jean Smith was duly elected to the office of president for the remainder of this year.

The chairman of the Program Committee was Lucile Rasberry, chairman of the Social Committee was Louise Cooper, and chairman of the Refreshment Committee was Marie Guy.

ALABAMA CAN AFFORD CONCRETE ROADS

ROAD TINKERING IS COSTLY... MAKE THE MAINTENANCE DOLLAR DO FULL DUTY

To get the most out of surface maintenance funds pavements must be of concrete.

This statement is proved by actual cost figures from the twenty-one states which publish comparable records.

And here's what they show! Surface maintenance costs for concrete average only $97.99 per mile per year. For the next lowest paving material the cost is almost double that of concrete. And for all surfaces other than concrete, the cost averages 3 1/4 times as great—although concrete in general carries the heaviest amount of traffic.

Concrete Costs Least Concrete gives the greatest load-carrying capacity per dollar of cost. It is the safest road—non-skid, highly visible. And it saves large sums on maintenance. All good reasons why your new roads should be concrete.

Concrete is the Real Low-Cost Road and ALABAMA NEEDS CONCRETE ROADS... Pave the Roads that Carry the Loads and save excessive maintenance and reconstruction costs.

PORTLAND CEMENT ASSOCIATION

504 Watts Bldg., Birmingham, Ala.

Maple Springs

(Too Late For Last Week's Paper) We are very proud to report the good work our church is doing. Everybody enjoyed the association at Maple. We feel like everybody received a wonderful blessing from the sermon and the good talks that were delivered.

Brother Gray delivered two wonderful messages Sunday. We had a good present service and a teachers and officers meeting Sunday night. If we will work hard enough and pray in earnest and with faith we surely can overcome our little problems that come up from time to time.

The adult class will visit Brother Enoch Wilson Sunday evening. He has been unable to attend church of any kind for a long time. We know Mr. Wilson loves the Lord and is looking forward to the Christian people to bring the gospel of the Lord to him.

Sunday School at 10:00 o'clock. Prayer service Sunday night after which Rev. Emmett Wilson will preach for us.

and which were in all material respects very similar to Alabama law and this case held:
"If a person bona fide applied for, received and deposited an absentee ballot with the proper election officials, and circumstances later developed whereby he was present in the county of his residence on election day, nevertheless, such absentee ballot should be counted as a legal ballot, the court concluding that to hold otherwise would render the absentee voting statutes of that state unworkable."

While this request for an opinion from the Attorney General was to an absentee ballot in a Primary Election, yet the Attorney General held further that the law in respect to general elections was the same and that in a general election an absentee voter, who has cast his ballot and deposited it with the proper person or officials designated by law to retain said ballot could not later withdraw the same and furthermore that even though an absentee voter may be present in the county on the day of the election that he would have no legal right to withdraw his ballot from the absentee ballot box officials.

All Candidates For Re-election Go In By Large Margin

The Democratic Party in Chilton County was easily victorious Tuesday night in the hottest political fight in the history of the County. Not a single Republican office seeker was elected and all save one of the Democrats were seeking their second term in office. Elsewhere on this page is a tabulated chart giving results by boxes.

RAFFLE SPONSOR

RAFFLE TUESDAY

NOVEMBER 12TH

Prizes To Be Given To Holders Of The Lucky Numbers

More than thirty prizes will be given away at the Lion Raffle to be held at the New Wadeson Theatre the 12th day of November. Everything from a Brand New radio to a pack of safety pins will be found in the draw at Mullins and Scott, however, all of the prizes given by the Chilton Lions will be valued at well over three dollars. In the assortment prizes will be found: Table lamps, a basket of groceries, two five-dollar savings accounts, a beautiful silver scarf, a large life size gold picture that you will appreciate just as much as to mention.

The purpose of the raffle is to raise money to purchase glasses for those who cannot afford to buy their children's glasses and thereby are neglected in their school work. All cases are carefully studied by a committee carefully to see if anything is done and all cases deserving. Lions wish no help at this year bought more than fifteen pairs of glasses and had a number of children's eyes examined. Womanless Wedding

High School Nov. 14

The Clanton Kiwanis Club will put a Womanless Wedding at the High School Gymnasium on Thursday night, November 14th, beginning at 7:30 o'clock. The entire cast will be members of the Club, and all members will have part. Just feature if you can Mr. T. Williams and Dr. V. J. Gragg as sisters of the bride, John Page as the parson, Rev. Oscar A. Davis singing "I Love You Truly," and all the peculiar inequalities.

There will be maids, the maid of honor, grandmas, aunts, and all the rest of the family. A small admission will be charged. The complete cast will be published next week, as well as other interesting details. Look for it.

Mrs. J. H. Williams, Mrs. J. V. Apperson and Mr. W. C. Roper were married to Shreveport, La., last week to their brother, Mr. Archie M. Roper of Dallas, Texas. He was in an automobile accident in Shreveport.

SECOND AVENUE SOON TO BE PAVED TO SELMA HIGHWAY

According to a statement issued yesterday morning by Mayor C. E. Stapp as the balance can be collected from property owners on Second Avenue. City will start laying Black Top on putting in gutters. This is a long time awaited, and badly needed. Will be another step forward in the making of a bigger and better Clanton.

TO THE PEOPLE OF CHILTON COUNTY:

My heart is overflowing with gratitude and thankfulness for the splendid endorsement you gave me in the election on last Tuesday. I wish I could shake hands with every one of you and tell you how much I do appreciate what you have done for me.

I hope and pray that, now after the election is over and the people have spoken their will, we may forget all bitterness, strife, recrimination and antagonism and unite with one common purpose of the upbuilding of our County in all of its communities, both economically and socially.

I have no ill feeling toward any one whatsoever, and am ready, willing and anxious to be of service to everyone in any way that it may be my privilege to serve.

With love and gratitude to everyone, I am,

Your obedient servant,
J. C. Pattillo

Democracy, Virile and Unafraid, Marches On

(Editorial)

The real democracy of the world went to the polls, nearly sixty million strong, Tuesday and challenged unmistakably, in their own way, the totalitarian ideas and trends now prevalent in the Old World, by overwhelmingly endorsing both the domestic and foreign policy of our great democratic leaders—Franklin D. Roosevelt and Henry Wallace.

Hitler, Mussolini, Stalin and Co., and all their like, both at home and abroad, know that they are face to face with a force far more powerful than all the awful engines of war, and that is the will and determination of a free people to live their own lives in their own way, without interference from any source.

Today, as never before, the people of the United States stand squarely behind our president in the great fight that is being made for freedom and right.

Here in Chilton County was held one of the quietest and most orderly elections that has been experienced in many years. The result speaks for itself. Every County official who offered for reelection was given a substantial endorsement. Chilton County's financial status will continue to rate among those at the top in the State. Its bonds (if any) will continue to bring the highest premium. Its tax payers, and all others interested, will continue to be informed regularly of just how and where every dollar of their tax money is spent.

Franklin D. Roosevelt and Henry A. Wallace have been elected president and vice-president overwhelming by the voters of the United States. Roosevelt to a third term and Wallace promoted from Secretary of Agriculture to the vice-presidency.

Early in the counting of votes Tuesday night the democrats took the lead in most of the doubtful states, and the republicans were never able to overcome this lead.

There will be a democratic increase in both the Senate and House of Representatives.

The vote for president will go well over 400 electoral votes.

C. C. H. S. Defeats Wetumpka In Hard Fought Game

Cox Chalks Up First Marker Going Over From 5 Yard Line

Chilton County High School Football Team met and defeated a strong Wetumpka eleven last Friday night on the Wetumpka field. The score was 13 to 6. Wetumpka drew first blood late in the first quarter on a pass after which they failed to kick the extra point.

Chilton County High scored in the second quarter after a sustained drive. Cox going over from the five yard line and Collins converting the extra point. The half ended with the score: Clanton 7; Wetumpka 6.

In the third quarter Sides kicked from the Clanton twenty to the Wetumpka goal line where Cooper downed the ball. On an attempted punt, Cost broke through and knocked it down, Cooper recovered on Wetumpka's ten yard line. Two plays later M. L. on threw a pass to Collins across the goal line. Cooper and Headley were the outstanding line-men and the entire team played jam-up football.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Steadily Improving

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Thomas, who were recently injured when their car was in a collision with a truck and a bus on the Maplesville highway, are improving satisfactorily, word received the News office late Tuesday. Mr. Thomas is in the Central Alabama Hospital here but it was found necessary to transfer Mrs. Thomas to Montgomery due to the seriousness of her injuries. The friends of both will be glad to know that they are getting along nicely.

REVIEWS and PREVIEWS

By Irvin Lande

Within the past few weeks, probably because of the increasing intensity of the campaign to elect the President of the United States, and to elect various other public officials, there has been the most undesired and selfish increase of name calling and accusations. Mr. Willie has been called a "Fifth Columnist" and an appeaser; Mr. Roosevelt has been called a "Fifth Columnist" and a war-monger. Alfred Smith, the erstwhile Democratic candidate, in recent weeks has accused his former party of everything malevolent. And some certain Democratic sub-leaders have re-written his words and fired them back to him and to other Republican leaders.

It seems that a great many politicians have not realized that this is not just another election, but an election which should have been conducted in the most dignified and respected manner. As a result of their verbal animosity, this nation is now more divided than ever before in its history, and at a time when we should be more united than ever before in our history. This has been one of the most hotly contested elections in all American free elections, and it came at a most crucial time. But this election has done more than decide who will become leader of the people. It has shown which leaders have such magnanimity that they put their country first before their political positions, and it has shown which leaders have not first thought of their country and have allowed themselves to be led into the belief that this nation must necessarily survive in the future because it has survived in the past.

One of the most striking examples of how men will go for their own personal gain at the sake of national unity is a small booklet entitled "The Fifth Column in Washington". This booklet accuses even such very important men in our national defense as Attorney General Robert Jackson and Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes. It even hints that our greatest "Fifth Columnist" is the President. This propaganda has but one purpose it causes hatred to arise between classes. And, the publishers of the booklet, to make their argument more impressive to the reader, offer to pay $1,000 to the American Red Cross if any of the Fifth Columnists that are named in the booklet will appear before the Dies Committee and are able to disprove the charges that are made against them. Of course, no public officials will lower themselves to accept such a challenge, but nevertheless, the booklets have a great deal of influence among those who are easily swayed. A booklet named "The Fifth Column in Washington" is a booklet, written along the same lines as the other especially intended for the Southern States, and entitled, "The Fifth Column in the South".

But even those who outwardly make such untrue claims and those who publicly call other leaders names are not to be worried over as much as we should be concerned with the true enemies of democracy. The Communists and the Socialists who orate anytime that they see a soap-box are not the real dangers to American liberty. The Fifth Column that we have to fear and to eradicate is found among our fellow citizens. There are spies in our tool and armament factories, our airplane factories, in our National Guard. They know our military establishments, and they get information from our various departments which is used against us. Some of them are spies and saboteurs admitted by some slip of our immigration laws. Some of them are native Americans.

Among those who act unwittingly as Fifth Columnists are the pacifists, the isolationists, the anti-British, the socialists dreaming of the social millennium, the appeasers, and the compromisers. Among those who unintentionally act as enemies of democracy are those who praise Hitler, those who say that democracy is decadent and ineffective, and those who try to say that the troubles of the rest of the world do not affect us. These people may not be trying to cause fear in the future of the American way of life, but they are among those who are encouraging a Hitler victory of that way of life.

One of the most brilliant writings on the American position in a world at war is a booklet, "America's Eleventh Hour," written by two outstanding American professors, Karl Lowenstein and Lawrence B. Packard, both of Amherst College in Massachusetts. Speaking of the Fifth Column, they say:

"We have no laws to deal with them; they are free to speak and to act under our democratic tenets, which will be destroyed to the root once the totalitarian dictators they favor have come

Weather Forecasts A Week in Advance

Long-Range Service for U. S. Will Start Soon.

WASHINGTON.—The U. S. weather bureau is all set to start forecasting weather a week in advance under a system developed by American meteorologists.

The start of long-range forecasts on a nation-wide scale is scheduled to be made within a few weeks, in collaboration with the Massachusetts Institute of Technology at Cambridge, Mass.

Weather data from all parts of the nation will be gathered by the weather bureau and charted for Dr. H. C. Willette of M. I. T. He will prepare the forecasts in collaboration with weather bureau meteorologists.

These forecasts will be sent twice a week—each for seven days in advance—to weather bureau stations throughout the country. Local forecasters will check the forecasts and make any necessary changes for local conditions before issuing them. "The value of such long-range forecasts to agriculture, aviation and other industries will be tremendous, probably running into millions of dollars a year," F. W. Reichelderfer, chief of the weather bureau, said.

Preparations for the forecast service began six years ago at the urging of Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace. Larry Gage of the weather bureau was sent to Germany to study advanced methods there, and Dr. Carl G. Rossby, an outstanding Norwegian authority, was brought here to direct the work.

President Roosevelt detailed Reichelderfer to his present post from the navy, where he had an outstanding record as a meteorologist. At the time, Mr. Roosevelt requested that long-range forecasts be developed as rapidly as possible.

Census Reveals Indian

Population Is Growing
PHOENIX, ARIZ.—If the 1940 census shows nothing else, it'll prove beyond a doubt that the American Indian is not a vanishing race.

Preliminary returns of census workers at Indian reservations show that there are some 51,730 Indians living in the state—an increase of 12,233 over the 1930 count.

The greatest gain, according to D. Kelley Turner, census enumerator, was registered on the huge Navajo and Hopi reservations in the north-eastern corner of the state. The Indian population on those two reservations was 22,900, Turner said, representing an increase of more than 8,500 during the last 10 years.

The smallest reservation in the state, that inhabited by the Yavapai Indians, had a population of 100. The most inaccessible reservation was the Havasupai, in Havasu canyon, an offshoot of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado.

There were only 164 Indians on the Havasupai reservation, but because of their shyness it took the enumerator four days to complete the count.

Here's the Way They Play Hide-Seek in Carlsbad, N. M.

CARLSBAD, N. M.—Deputy Sheriff Bill High has a game he plays with a Carlsbad Negro named Jimmie, who has a weakness for strong drink.

"Hella, Mistah High," says a voice on the telephone to Bill. "This is Jimmie and I's drunk again. Will you come get me and put me to jail?"

"Sure will Jimmie," says Deputy Bill. "Be right over. Where are you?"

While Bill is en route, Jimmie changes his mind. He tries to hide. But his condition makes it an easy game of fox-and-geese.

"Ready to go, Jimmie?" asks Bill when he catches up.

"Yessuh, Mistah High, yessuh. But you all sure got here in a pow'ful hurry."

into power in this country. You should be aware where they stand and for what you stand."

In truth, the future of the American way of life, as it struggles with those who unintentionally are destroying it by preaching the failure of the democratic process, will be the success of those who earnestly believe in democracy and are able to take the mantle of leadership from those who doubt our future. Democracy is not a failure. If there is any failure to it, it has been in the peoples' inability to cope with the problems that have arisen under it. But America can, and will, realize in the next few years what it must do to bring all back to a belief in democracy, and at the same time it is bringing those back to that belief, America will be building new leaders who shall be able to lead this country to new eras of peace and prosperity.

MORAL ECHOES

REV. D. W. HASKEW, D.D.

While riding down stream in a boat with a friend I observed that the water did not bubble or foam about the boat. The boat drifted with the water and the way was easy. It met no opposition. When we turned the boat around and started pulling up stream, then the water boiled at the bow and seemed to speak in opposition to our travel. So long as a man chooses to drift with the stream, he meets with little opposition, but the very moment when he decides to turn around and face the currents of the world, he meets with opposition. It is a fact that when we decide to pull ourselves to a higher life, we must overcome opposition and must pull against the currents of the world.

And it came to pass that a mountaineer looked for the first time into a mirror. He had not seen himself before and when the mirror gave back to him a picture of himself, he became angry with the mirror and battered it into pieces. As the glass shattered he shouted, "I am not that ugly and you must not tell me that I am." It also came to pass that a writer wrote a "Moral Echo", picturing how many a young couple is living today and a certain young man saw himself in the mirror and like the mountaineer, he became angry with the mirror and wanted to strike him cold. How foolish it is for anyone to become angry with a truth, when the truth shows him up to be just as he is. If the mirror shows the unshaven and unclean condition of the person, the best thing to do is to clean up. Truth, like a mirror, tells no tales.

There are two reasons why America is the most criminal country in the world. The first is that our country does not render unto Caesar the things that belong to Caesar. We have pushed the religion of the Lord Jesus Christ aside. We are making our own ideals and measuring out our own standards of life. A second cause that contributes to our criminality is that we do not value human life as we should. Under a fit of anger or under the spell of indifference to the rights of other people we take from them the thing that we can not give. Today we are on the brink of moral bankruptcy. Our condition is not one of pride, but we are killing, stealing and cheating right on every day. We had better pay attention to the enforcement of our laws.

A beautiful story that comes to us out of the East, tells of a king who came to the throne while quite a young man. This young king had a golden bell lifted high in a belfry and promised his subjects that when the king was happy, with his own hands he would ring the bell. The months and years passed and not a sound from the golden bell. When the king was old and gray and was upon his death bed, his subjects gathered about him and wept. For the first time the king knew that he was loved by those who lived under his rule and he was happy. They extended the bell rope to his bed and for the first time his subjects heard the sound that said that the king was happy. The king had lost many years of happiness because he did not know that he was loved by those over whom he had ruled. No man can have supreme happiness unless he knows that God loves him. Do not miss this happiness that is for you.

Those were the days when the tavern was famous for its broiled steaks and tankards of ale, while sturdy patriots gathered in its upper rooms to smoke long churchwarden pipes and to discuss the rising tide of public opinion which eventually rolled into the overwhelming flood of the Revolution. Sailing vessels on the Delaware River pointed their jibbooms straight at the captain stood on deck, with his eye fixed upon his watch. Every moment he saw that his ship was drawing nearer the rock and certain destruction. No one even dared to ask, "Is there any hope?" While the crew and passengers gave up in despair, the old captain watched and waited. With a flashing eye he looked out over the sea and then shouted "Thank God we are saved, the tide has changed." Hear me, there are men and women who are slowly, certainly drifting toward the rocks of ruin, and they only hope is for the tide of life to turn. With some it is almost too late. The crisis hour is near. Change the way of living and then you can live.

MARINE CORPS CELEBRATES 165th ANNIVERSARY

Thumbing their way through their logbook to the date of their origin, the U. S. Marines will turn back its fading pages to the year 1775, when they passed their 165th milestone on November 10. Dimming records reveal that the Continental Marines gathered in old Tun Tavern in Philadelphia when they rallied their members to fight for the freedom of the colonies. From this quaint hostelry, now no longer a landmark, the Marines sallied forth with rattlesnakes painted on their drums and with high hopes in their hearts to win recruits for the "Cause".

Those were the days when the tavern was famous for its broiled steaks and tankards of ale, while sturdy patriots gathered in its upper rooms to smoke long churchwarden pipes and to discuss the rising tide of public opinion which eventually rolled into the overwhelming flood of the Revolution. Sailing vessels on the Delaware River pointed their jibbooms straight at the tavern, while occasionally a stagecoach clattered over the cobbles to drop patrons at its doors.

It was an ideal spot to enlist men "able to serve to advantage by sea when required." This was one of the stipulations made by the Continental Congress in 1775 when it authorized the formation of two battalions of Marines on the day they observe as their birthday.

All during the Revolution they performed loyal service on both land and sea. With the struggle for independence only a memory, the Corps was permanently organized in 1798 to follow in succeeding years the illustrious example set by its forebears.

Stirring chapters of the Marines' logbook reveal that they were abroad Old Ironsides in her days of glory, helped to sweep piracy from the seas at home or abroad, mounted Old Glory for the first time on the battlements of a Tripoli fortress, carried their banners to the uttermost ends of the earth, and fought in all the big and the wars of our country.

Scores of countries have witnessed the prowess of the globe-trotting soldiers who on nearly 200 occasions have landed on errands for Uncle Sam. They have performed every task, chasing seal poachers in the Bering Sea to fighting our Nation's enemies or guarding Americans in distant lands. It is a far cry from the cranks and floating fortresses of steel which guard our shores against the assault of some possible enemy, for the Marines have come a long way in the intervening years.

Yet no Marine could turn the pages of the Corps' well-filled logbook without a quickening pulse and a felt response to the words of the soldiers' hymn, "We are proud to claim the title of United States Marine".

Farm and AAA News

From the County Agent

By P. H. Smith, County Agent

Wood fires should be considered as a real enemy No. 1 to Chilton County farmers who own wood land. Wood is not only a source of income, but it is also a source of many thousands of dollars annually and does not contribute even a little toward the well-being of a community. These were brought to the attention of many Chilton County farmers last week who saw several pictures on forest fires that were shown all over the county. In cooperation with Mr. Brooks Tolson, State Forester and the Alabama Department of Forestry a sound motion picture truck was scheduled in Chilton County for the entire week. There were 14 meetings held with a total attendance of 2,004. A sound motion picture was shown at each of the meetings. The theme of the meetings were "stop forest fires".

In the fall of the year there are many seedlings in the woods that will grow into trees if they are allowed to

ALABAMA CAN AFFORD CONCRETE ROADS

CONCRETE

SAFE AND SAVING

DOLLARS WASTED ON UPKEEP CAN'T BUY NEW ROADS

INFERIOR roads seem cheap and easy to build. They stretch a paving fund so that it covers a lot of territory. But after a year or two, the trouble begins! Maintenance costs go up and up.

That's why it's wise—and economical—to build concrete roads. Concrete lasts! It requires almost no upkeep.

Concrete's smooth, non-skid surface is safe and satisfactory to drive on. It speeds up traffic; reduces accidents; you save in gas, tires and repairs.

Quicksilver Mine Will Be Reopened

Leap in Price of Chemical Renewes Activity.

SAN FRANCISCO.—With war demands having advanced the price of mercury from $50 to $172 a flask, the world-famous New Almaden quicksilver mine of Santa Clara county are to be worked over by a new $500,000 corporation.

The New Almaden is the oldest quicksilver mine in the United States and has an important place in mining books and history.

During the period of 1846-1926, it is credited with having produced from $65,000,000 to $75,000,000 worth of quicksilver.

But from a mining community of 13,000 men, the heyday of the seventies it has dwindled to an almost uninhabited region, where a few people work sporadically at extracting quicksilver, and where tourists occasionally pause to have a glimpse at the spot that once figured so remarkably in the mining days of early California.

The entire property has been leased for a long period by Fritz Eugene Newbold, Philadelphia broker for its owners, William and Mary Sexton, also of Philadelphia, and a corporation is being organized to work the lease.

It is believed the new mining operations will center about Mine Hill in the middle of the area, and under which there are more than 100 tunnels and shafts dug during the past 90 years.

It is not expected that much new quicksilver will be discovered, but the rich cinnabar soil and rock will be worked over again by new and more modern processes to extract quicksilver that escaped the older processes; material that was even discarded in the old days, as well as free quicksilver that was lost years ago when it fell off the wagons and miners did not stop to pick it up. Much quicksilver also is to be regained from the old dumps.

A flask of quicksilver contains 76 pounds, and while the present price of $172 a flask is one of the highest ever reached in the history of mining, the new corporation is confident that even higher prices will prevail.

War Pigeon Strays From Duty Only to Lay an Egg

LONDON.—War or no war, Jenny, a royal air force carrier pigeon, has been true to her sex.

And in being so Jenny has proved that the old adage "it is impossible for two things properly at once" is entirely wrong.

For Jenny, while on duty with an R. A. F. pilot in a Lockheed Hudson bomber from a British station flying far out over the North sea, allowed her mind to stray momentarily from her work and laid an egg.

Jenny had accompanied the pilot on a hazardous patrol flight, and the first indication the airman had of the "event" was the excited fluttering in the pigeon basket at his side.

He peered into the basket and smiled when he saw the cause of the commotion.

When the bomber returned to the airfield the pilot brought his machine down as cautiously as if a wheel of his undercarriage had been shot away.

Jenny is one of the many homing pigeons loaned by British fanciers to the R. A. F. for the duration of the war. Some of the birds are worth over $300 each.

They are used to carry messages back to airbases if the plane's radio breaks down. Each bomber carries two birds for the purpose.

Yaqui Indians Studied For Racial Background

TUCSON, ARIZ.—A racial study of the Yaqui Indians, once one of the most feared tribes of the Southwest, is being made by Dr. Edward H. Spicer of the University of Arizona.

Spicer said he would study the 3,000 fugitive Indians who drifted into Arizona from Mexico in an attempt to discover their relationship with other tribes of Indians and with the Mexicans.

Spicer said he wanted to find out how the Indians had adapted themselves to American culture, what political beliefs they had, and the degree of change they had undergone since the old days when they were a warlike tribe.

Barbed Wire Defense of Swiss Snare a Stag

ST. MARGRETHEN, SWITZERLAND.—The Swiss army, which has strung thousands of miles of barbed wire along its frontiers to show up any would-be aggressor, netted its first invader—a powerful stag.

The stag crossed the frontier from the old Austrian province of Vorarlberg, now German, and was found exhausted in Switzerland, dragging 300 yards of barbed wire and posts from its antlers.

The animal had to be killed. Frontier troops ate venison.

4-H Club Boys Are Feeding Calves For Stock Show and Sale

By C. L. Breedlove, Asst. Co. Agent

Valuable experience in feeding livestock is being gained by thirteen Chilton County 4-H Club boys who are feeding out baby beef calves which will be shown and sold at the Montgomery Fat Stock Show in Montgomery next April, states C. L. Breedlove, Assistant County Agent.

This marks the third year that the baby beef calf project has been going on in Chilton County. In 1939 three calves from this county were shown in Montgomery. Seven calves were shown in 1940 and the project is being continued next April. The boys growing out beef calves last year were John Schumacher, Clanton, Ala., Rt. 2, Thomas Patterson, Clanton, Rt. 2, Earl Holley, Clanton, Ala., Rt. 4, James Messer, Verbena, Ala., Ellis Jones, Clanton, Ala., Rt. 5, Hollis Williams, Mobileville, Ala., Rt. 2, and Joe Shoults, Lawley, Ala., Rt. 1.

The purpose of this project is to give 4-H boys experience in feeding livestock to use surplus home grown feeds, and to make a profit on feeding the animals.

The 4-H boys feeding calves this year are: Douglas Wells, Clanton, Ala., R-2, Winston Lockhart, Clanton, Ala., R-4, G. L. Daniel, Jr., Clanton, Ala., Rueben and Johnnie Clecker, Verbena, Ala., R-1, Felix Earl Nelson, Verbena, Ala., R-2, Murray Bean, Clanton, Ala., R-1, Hoy Thrash, Clanton, Ala., R-2, Claude Wood, Jr., Clanton, Ala., R-2, Dennis, Clanton, Ala., R-2, J. B. Coe, Jr., Clanton, Ala., R-4, and Bart and Milton McPherson, Clanton, Ala., R-3.

More boys wanted to feed out calves, but additional animals of good quality could not be obtained due to the great demand in other counties over the state for similar calves.

Fourteen Hundred 4-H Boys and Girls Start New Year

By C. L. Breedlove, Asst. Co. Agent

Fourteen hundred 4-H Club boys and girls in Chilton County will begin a new year in 4-H Club work this month according to C. L. Breedlove, Assistant County Agent and Miss Mattie Jo Barber, Home Demonstration Agent. Mr. Breedlove has charge of boys 4-H Club work and Miss Barber the girls 4-H Club work in the County.

These boys and girls will turn in project reports on the work they have done during the past year and will begin making plans for projects and other 4-H for the coming year. Boys carry such projects as livestock, poultry, field crops, and orchards, while girls have projects relating to homemaking, clothing, and cooking. All 4-H boys and girls who turn in a project report to the assistant county agent or home demonstration agent will receive a 4-H Club certificate as a reward for their good work.

At their regular monthly meetings this year the 4-H girls in the county will have clothing and handicraft as their major project and will take up such projects as livestock, poultry, field crops, and orchards, while girls have projects relating to homemaking, clothing, and cooking. All 4-H boys and girls who turn in a project report to the assistant county agent or home demonstration agent will receive a 4-H Club certificate as a reward for their good work.

November: Improving the Production of the Fat-Tailed Turkey. December: Building a Swine Farming House and Preparing Mineral Mixtures for Hogs. January: A small Poultry Project for 4-H Club boys. February: Germination Tests for Grain. March: Turning Winter Legumes. April: Discussion of Local Club Accomplishments.

Trained Men Needed

An appeal to all Alabama workers who have been trained in occupations essential to national defense to register their qualifications with the nearest office of the Alabama Employment Service has been issued by Judge John D. Petree, Director of Industrial Relations, and C. F. Anderson, Director of the Employment Service, a division of the Department of Industrial Relations.

"Build-Up" Relief Explained to Women

A simple method has saved many women a lot of suffering! It is based on the fact that headaches, nervousness, cramp-like pain are often symptoms of functional dysmenorrhea due to malnutrition. Help for this condition so often follows the use of CARDUI, because it usually increases the appetite and the flow of gastric juice; thus aids digestion and helps build physical resistance. Usual result is less periodic distress.

Many who take CARDUI a few days before and during "the time" have found this helps ease periodic discomfort. Women have used CARDUI for more than 60 years!

U. S. SAFETY A Year in the Army or Navy Is Worth More to A Young Man Than 10 Years of Athletic Training.

That a potential army of millions is necessary for the United States, if the country is to be safe—was the opinion expressed last week by Judge Rufus E. Foster of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, whose home is in New Orleans.

Judge Foster was the principal speaker at an unveiling ceremony of a "Hiker" memorial to Spanish-American war veterans which has been placed in the new Memorial Building, located near the state capitol, in Montgomery.

"A year in the Army or Navy is worth more to a young man than 10 years of athletic training," the judge asserted. "We know that the United States must have a potential army of millions if it is to be safe. For in the past we have been lightly regarded as a military power."

Also participating in the unveiling ceremony were: Miss Margaret Hudson, Greensboro, sister to Admiral Richmond Pearson Hobson, hero of the "Merrimac" sinking in Santiago harbor in 1898; Miss Annie Wheeler, daughter of Gen. Joe Wheeler, another famous Alabamian who distinguished himself in the Spanish-American war, as well as in the War Between the States; Judge Leon McCord, also of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals; Mrs. Marie Bankhead Owens, Director of the State Archives and History and History Department; J. Miller Bonner, legal advisor to Gov. Frank M. Dixon; E. P. Cobb, Birmingham, Commander of the State organization, Spanish-American War Veterans; and J. A. Holmes, Birmingham, Past Commander.

EASTVIEW

Rev. A. C. McMin of Cane Creek will conduct services at the Eastview church next Saturday, Nov. 9th at 7:00 p. m. and next Sunday November 10th at 11 a. m. Sunday School will be at 10 a. m. Sunday. Let us give Bro. McMin a hearty welcome as he preaches to us at these two services.

Owing to having the service Saturday night, the regular Saturday morning meeting is being postponed one week, as will be the regular meeting of the Women's Society, followed by the dinner to the women at the parsonage to be given by Mrs. Ballou. Rev. Luther Ballou will therefore conduct services this month the third Sunday week-end, instead of the second Saturday week-end. There will be a short conference following the Saturday morning service, Nov. 16th.

The Young People's Fellowship met at the parsonage Wednesday, Oct. 30th for their regular meeting. Following the devotional services the following officers were elected: President Flora Smith; vice-president, Margaret Rushing; Secretary, Margaret Patterson; Treasurer, Junior Moore. The next meeting will be at the parsonage, Friday, November 15th. After the business session was over, the group enjoyed together a Halloween party with all the fun that goes with it. Refreshments were served.

Rev. Luther Ballou has just been notified that he has received a unanimous call to the pastorate of Bethel Congregational Church in Millerville, Ala. Mr. Ballou has just recently been called back for another year to the pastorates of the Eastview and Archer's Chapel Congregational churches. He likewise conducts services in the Lightwood district in Elmore County and in a community near Wade. He is pastor of the Union Congregational Church of Mt. Creek.

MRS. IDA JANE MATTHEWS

Mrs. Ida Jane Matthews, age 69, died at the residence in Jewett Oct. 27. Funeral services were held Monday at 3:00 p. m. at Oak Grove church, conducted by Rev. J. N. Green. Interment was in church cemetery. She is survived by 5 sons, C. C. and J. L. I. V. Matthews of Jewett; J. M. of Birmingham, O. C. of Mt. Dora, Fla.; three daughters Mrs. Calvin Bice Jewett, Mrs. Houston Porter Jewett, Mrs. O. L. Glascock Chatterbox, Tenn.; One brother, W. J. Nettleton, Jewett, Ala.; Two sisters, Miss Alpha Hawkins, Jewett, Mrs. Carls Webb, Jewett, Ala.; Thirty-four grandchildren; Five great grandchildren.

Funeralbearers: Paul Wilson, Carl Wilton, Ralph Glascock, Alvin Northcutt, Linton Northcutt and Mack Holman. Spigner Funeral Home in charge.

New Home Demonstration Club Organized

By Mattie Jo Barber, Home Demonstration Agent

A new Home Demonstration Club was organized in the Mars Hill Community and the following officers were elected:

President Mrs. A. J. Leach, Vice-President Mrs. Effie Childers, Secretary Mrs. Lizzie Gothard, County Co. Representative Mrs. C. W. Scott, Leaders Mrs. Howard Roper and Mrs. W. P. Cofer.

This brings the number of clubs organized to a total of 17 in the county with 475 enrolled in women's clubs. The charter members of the club are as follows:

Mrs. W. P. Cofer, Mrs. Effie Childers, Mrs. Duke Cofer, Mrs. T. C. Cofer, Mrs. L. C. Childers, Mrs. Gene Cofer, Mrs. Lizzie Gothard, Mr. H. G. Gothard, Mrs. Goldie Gothard, Mrs. O. J. Leach, Mrs. R. P. Langston, Mrs. Wilma Poe, Mrs. Howard Roper, Mrs. A. J. Scott and Miss Leafie Smith.

Mrs. James Parrish of Birmingham is visiting friends and relatives here this week.

Mrs. Welton Nelson of Wetumpka is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Jones.

Mrs. Earl Parrish, Mrs. Cecil Ramsey and Miss Grace McKelvey of Hantsville spent Wednesday in Montgomery.

Mrs. Willard Rice of Opelika, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Harris and friends.

A most glorious time was had by all who attended the Halloween Party given at the High School last Thursday night. Games, races and contest were enjoyed by all those who participated and of course lots and lots of candy, popcorn, hot dogs, and cold drinks and very lovely home made cakes were sold. Then there were the side shows and fishing for the little fish. This affair was a huge success and everyone taking part should be congratulated.

In spite of the rainy afternoon on Tuesday there was a splendid attendance at the Grammar School P.T.A. with ninety parents and teachers present. Mrs. O. A. Davis gave the devotion followed by a business session conducted by the president, Mrs. Mark E. Tucker. Miss Mary Bratton, program chairman, had prepared a most interesting program which included a very interesting talk on "Democracy in the Schools", by Mr. Hicks, a duet by Messrs L. J. Stewart and Charles Wade, and several choruses by a group from the fifth grade. Mrs. Thomas' room won the half holiday for having the largest number of representatives present and the meeting adjourned for a lovely social hour prepared by the social committee.

Mrs. Leslie Lowery spent last week end visiting in Thorsby.

Mr. and Mrs. Bonnie Hand of Lafayette were visitors in Clanton last week end.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Gore and Mrs. J. F. Easterling spent last Saturday in Montgomery.

Mrs. U. L. Hayes and little daughter of Thorsby are visiting Mrs. Leslie Lowery this week.

Miss Doris Newell of Birmingham spent last week end at home and Miss Aileen Popwell went home with her for a week's visit.

Mrs. Horace Popwell, Mrs. W. C. Golden, Mrs. Arthur Bazzel, Mrs. Richardson, Mrs. C. J. Porter and Mrs. R. L. Bryson spent Tuesday in Birmingham.

Mr. and Mrs. "Chick" Fiquette and children visited Mrs. H. R. Faulk at Robinson Springs, last Sunday and Little Ann remained for a weeks visit.

Dr. and Mrs. W. C. Golden had as their guest last Sunday, Mrs. Golden's brother, Mr. Elmer Rhodes.

Mrs. John D. Armstrong and Mrs. M. R. Lancaster spent Wednesday in Birmingham.

Mrs. W. E. Golden and daughter, Beverly, of Montgomery, were visitors of Mrs. P. A. Taylor last week.

Ira Smith and O. M. Webb made a business trip to Mississippi last week.

Friends of Mrs. Minnie Branch will be very glad to know that she is much better after a very serious illness.

Plans For White Christmas Announced

Sunday afternoon, December 22, at 5 o'clock, the White Christmas Program will be given at the Clanton Methodist Church and at this time the annual offering for our Children's Home and will be appreciated. Begin now to plan and gather your offering for these children for whom we feel responsible, for whom we are responsible, and whom we must love if they will not be loved. A truck will be furnished for the delivery of our White Christmas offerings to this worthy Methodist's heart strings.

Please, everyone who is called on to take part on this program, accept this call to serve the Master.

Fall Season Gives Zest To Motoring

A tang in the air, gorgeous fall coloring, and pumpkins in the cornfield are all symbols of one of the best seasons of the year for Saturday or weekend motor trips. Here the Richards family, with Hallowe'en just around the corner, have driven their new Chevrolet to the country, and son Jimmy is inspecting Billy Smith's handiwork in jack-o'-lantern making.

The Story In Brief

Installment I

In his immortal Christmas Carol, Charles Dickens tells the story of a miserly old man who was made to repent by being shown himself as others saw him.

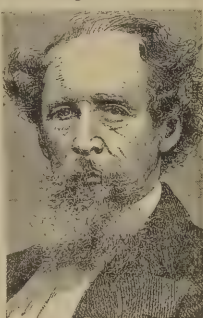

Selfish old Scrooge made a typical error one evening when he told his good-natured nephew that Christmas was just "humbug." A committee seeking Christmas donations was not surprised when he refused their request, explaining that he was paying taxes to support the needy in poorhouses, jails and workhouses, and that if any starved, there was "surplus population" anyhow.

On Christmas eve, just seven years after his partner, Marley, had died, he saw Marley's ghost. Wearing chains cast by his own uncharitable deeds, Marley warned Scrooge against his meanness. He told Scrooge that he, too, would have chains that were even thicker than those which held him. Marley told Scrooge that he would be visited by three spirits.

The first spirit, the Ghost of Christmas Past, arrived on the stroke of one to show Scrooge his former self.

Installment II

Together they watched the miser while he was yet a boy, standing alone in front of his school on Christmas eve. Old friends he had known during his apprenticeship were seen dancing and having a good time. He himself was amongst them. Scrooge was shown how easy it was to make others happy by spending just a little money.

The spirit then brought forth the vision of his former sweetheart who had left him for a kinder man. He gazed when he saw her husband come home on Christmas eve, bringing presents for their happy children. Exhausted by this vision, old Scrooge fell back onto his bed, asleep.

Installment III

The Ghost of Christmas Present, the second spirit, came to Scrooge the following night to take him to the home of his poor clerk, Cratchit. The young Cratchit children came bursting into the room just when Christmas dinner was ready to serve. But Bob Cratchit, his clerk, was late because he had to stay at the office to finish some work. The spirit told Scrooge that crippled Tiny Tim would die unless shadows cast by the past were changed by the future.

Installment IV

He then led Scrooge to the home of his niece and nephew where a number of guests were assembled. Even in their games they referred to Scrooge as a petty, pitiable, disagreeable soul. The second spirit disappeared after it had shown Scrooge two half-starved children, the victims of poverty.

Scrooge was a changed man the next night when he welcomed the third spirit, the Ghost of the Future. Peering into the future he saw a group joking over his death, and others looking over the earthly goods he had left behind. Only two persons were emotional over his death: debtors who had lost a merciless creditor. And they were not sad over it, to put it mildly.

Installment V

The scene was changed again, and the spirit showed Scrooge the home of Tiny Tim in a death scene that was bound to take place if no change for the better came. The family was sitting together, reading the Bible, and grieving. The spirit carried the old miser to a churchyard where he showed the old man his grave. "Wait, give me a chance to change myself," Scrooge cried. The spirit dwindled away.

Awakening happy for the first time, Scrooge looked out the window that Christmas morning. Completely changed by his experience, he determined to share the Christmas spirit with his friends and neighbors. Scrooge found that that day when he shared Christmas joy with others was the happiest of his life.

Don't Miss a chapter of this Christmas Classic. It will run serially in the Columns of the News beginning next week.

November 14th. Remember to watch your paper next week for the first installment.

FOLKS and THINGS ABOUT TOWN

Last week Mayor Stapp sent out a call to those citizens of Clanton who had lots in the City Cemetery and also those who were interested in beautifying it to get in touch with him or a member of the City Council and make a contribution for the upkeep or to let them know just how you felt that the local cemetery should be taken care of. The response to this call was very disheartening. Few if any answered. Now what is the reason the people of Clanton haven't enough civic pride to want to keep their cemetery clean. The weeds have grown up again. The general appearance is ragged and unkempt looking. Get in touch with your City Fathers today and let them know how you feel about your cemetery and what you think is the best way in which to insure its being taken care of in the future. Some few lots down there are looked after nicely, but the percentage is so small that the neglected ones ruin the looks of those cared for.

Our good friends, Bonnie and Pearl Hand of LaFayette dropped in to see us the past week-end and we enjoyed the visit immensely, needless to say. Bonnie, who as you know, is Editor of the LaFayette Sun is very optimistic over Fall and Winter business conditions in Chambers County . . . both Bonnie and Pearl are doing fine and looking fine.

We're compelled to throw a bouquet to Julian Evans for the fine job he is doing in "putting over" the Lion Raffle to be held at the New Wadsworth Theatre on the night of Nov. 12. . . . Julian is working day and night to make it a huge success and when the undertaking is finished, Julian will deserve a large hunk of the credit for a swell job.

Guess all have noticed what a difference our two new buildings are going to make in the appearance of our city . . . we're referring to the New Bank Building and the New B. B. Station. One doesn't realize how untidy an old building appears until some architect and builders get busy, then presto, in no time we've two modern buildings, practically finished, that would be a credit to any city.

Whew, thank goodness that's over. . . . we mean the election. Now maybe folks can get down to business again. First this Summer it was the European war talk . . . then our own registration and draft . . . then this recent election, boy, it's been a nerve racking Summer and Fall. But, anyway it's only a little better than two weeks until Thanksgiving and not much longer 'til Christmas, so let's see if we can't make up for last time by having a big Thanksgiving and Christmas day season and think of our lot instead of our troubles.

Charlie and Minnie Wade took last week-end for Alliance, Ohio, flew back in a new plane Sunday morning—that is they arrived here last day morning. Minnie will take the train before train time and told her that Charlie called her exactly ten minutes before train time and told her to get ready that she was going. She didn't know then whether she was walking or flying but she made it in time. Charlie, air enthusiast that he is, says that it took 26 hours to make the trip going and 8 hours and 40 minutes to return. The cost, Charlie says, was $27.60 and $6.28 return. Including that new plane they brought back a beat.

FIRST TURKEY CARNIVAL QUEEN SELECTED TO REIGN DURING COMING SHOW AT UNIONTOWN

QUEEN OF UNIONTOWN'S TURKEY CARNIVAL, to be held November 11, will be Miss Martha Brown, above, daughter of Mrs. S. L. Coleman, who was selected from a field of 11 lovely candidates, Friday night.

In a contest held at Uniontown, Miss Martha Brown, popular member of the younger set of this section, was selected as Queen of the Turkey Carnival which will be held by the Uniontown Exchange Club on November 11.

Miss Brown, who is the daughter of Mrs. S. L. Coleman, had taken over the responsibilities which will be a part of the game celebration planned to focus national attention on Uniontown as a turkey-producing center.

Miss Jewel Telverson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. S. Ackerson of Uniontown, and Miss Dewey Mims Camen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Cameron of Falmouth, were selected as maids of honor to the Queen, whose Court will include Queens from 15 towns throughout Central Pennsylvania.

The contest to select the Uniontown Queen was sponsored by the Parent-Teacher Association of Uniontown, and other contestants besides Miss Brown and her rivals were: Misses Evelyn Wynn, Jane Martin, Emerson, Nancy, LeVere, Frances Wilcox, Alice Moskale, Fern-a Woodfin, Estelle McKee and Mari Ware.

Judges were: Mrs. Harrison Carter, Judge W. R. Rountree and M. Alton Smith, of Selma, the contestants appearing before the trio whose task of selection was difficult.

The program included musical entertainment by Miss J. G. James and Mrs. C. W. Starnes.

MEETING DEFENSE COMMUNICATION NEEDS TODAY AND TOMORROW

To be prepared for emergencies of whatever magnitude or urgency is a requirement to which telephone company workers are accustomed.

The National Defense Program is a new emergency to be met. New switchboards are being installed, several thousand miles of telephone lines have been strung and large scale telephone engineering projects are under way to serve the fifty newly approved and existing army and navy posts and air bases located in the territory served by this Company.

Long distance communication facilities are also being expanded and new circuits have been established to assure ample long distance telephone service between these military bases and all parts of the nation.

Southern Bell and the entire Bell System are in high gear, meeting the nation's present defense needs and prepared to adequately meet those of tomorrow.

Sugar Story: Several months ago, a middle-aged woman of ample means who makes her home in a mid-town hotel, began having her breakfast served in her room. As she is on a diet, the menu is unvaried and the cost low. The other morning instead of paying the waiter as usual, she handed him a big bag of sugar. "This is for my breakfast," she declared. "Five full pounds. I had the drugstore downstairs weigh it." After some protest, the waiter took the bag and the check to the cashier. Opening it, the cashier found each lump in an intact wrapper which was stamped with the name of the hotel. It was finally decided to let the matter pass. The next morning, however, there was no sugar on the woman's tray. Rising in wrath, she demanded her just due. "Don't think," she stormed, "just because my foot doctor won't let me have sugar you can cheat me." His guest is always right each morning now she has sugar.

Street Scene: Bronx housewives on camp chairs outside apartment buildings. Mothers giving a rocking effect to perambulators by means of a foot. Youngsters now and then coming up for maternal attention. Such as having a nose blown. Knitting needles clicking steadily. Gossip being exchanged about happenings in the block. A scissoring grinder going along with his little bell tinkling merrily. A milkman making collections, the change being given in the form of a nickel. A vacant lot turned into a diamond. With a hot ball game at a tense moment. Rooters cheering wildly for their favorites. Surrounding buildings through back the din. The smack of a bat followed by a glass crash. Players and rooters vanishing seemingly in the twinkling of an eye.

Language: Magda Tagliacozzi, red-headed, whirlwind French concert pianist, who shortly after her arrival in America last December announced that she thought Gotham's taxi drivers the most charming in the world. She has been spending the months learning their lingo. After a sight-seeing trip with a party of friends through Harlem the other evening, she stepped into a cab and in her usual accent said to the driver, "Hotel St. Moritz-and take through the orchard, please." Her companions, knowing full well that Manhattan has no orchards, looked at her as if she had actually gone wacky. But Magda sat impassive until the cab rolled into Central park. Then she proclaimed: "My friends, this is the orchard."

Sympathy: New York has become tree conscious within the last year. It all started with the planting of elms in front of Rockefeller Center followed by a tree gift to St. Patrick's cathedral, just across Fifth Avenue. Mayor LaGuardia recently noted that trees have been planted on two sides of block long London Terrace while trees line both sides of 106th street from river to river. There are also trees on Sixty-second Avenue. Trees, of course, add to the beauty of the city. But to me, a tree springing up from a sidewalk in the midst of steel and concrete is like an animal in a zoo or a wild bird in a cage.

Honesty: The taxi driver who took me home last night announced his belief in Santa Claus during a traffic light stop. It seems that earlier in the evening, a fare whom he had left at an uptown apartment house, had given him a ten in mistake for a one dollar bill. He needed the money because of family illness, but when he discovered the error, his conscience got busy. So he went back and tried to straighten it out. And the fare, evidently thinking he was attempting some kind of a game had bawled him out for disturbing him and ordered him to be on his way.

Inns: Hotels entertain about 10,000,000 guests at conventions each year. Most hotel rooms have about 60 articles for the use and comfort of the guest. A medium-sized hotel has a switchboard capable of serving a town of 5,000. Hotels buy 17,000,000 towels, napkins, 5,760,000 sheets and 800,000 blankets annually.

End Piece: Bill Hargreave told me of the struggling comedian who hit his sponsor for a raise. "I really deserve a boost," complained the comic. "What you're paying me is only chicken feed." "I know," responded the sponsor. "But that's because of the eggs you've laid."

Prizes Awarded In Recent County Livestock Show

By C. L. Breedlove, Asst. Co. Agent

A good group of dairy animals and mares and colts were brought to Clanton on October 11 and 12 by Chilton County Livestock Show held at the Airport Livestock barn. This show was sponsored by the Chilton County Fair Association. Officers of this organization expressed their satisfaction over the good exhibits of farm animals at the show.

Top honors in the Jersey dairy cattle class went to the animals of O. H. Lawrence, Billingsley, Ala. Rt. 1, and R. C. Cofer, Jemison, Ala. Rt. 2. Mr. Lawrence had the grand champion bull and R. C. Cofer had the grand champion in the cow and heifer class.

Persons showing prize winners are listed below by classes:

Purebred Jersey Cattle:

Junior heifers: 1st Frank Parrish, 2nd R. C. Cofer.

Senior heifers: 1st Junior Scott, 2nd Norman Harris, 3rd Hoover Moatts.

Junior yearling heifers: 1st R. C. Cofer, 2nd Frank Parrish, 3rd Dewey Parrish.

Second yearling heifers: 1st Junior Scott, 2nd Junior Scott.

Cows 2 years old and over: 1st R. C. Cofer, 2nd Junior Scott, 3rd Ed Minor. Grand Champion: R. C. Cofer. Reserve Champion: Junior Scott.

Grade Dairy Cattle:

Senior heifers: 1st O. H. Lawrence. Cow 2 yrs. old and over: 1st M. R. Oates.

Purebred Jersey Bulls:

Under one year of age: 1st Ed Minor. Over one year of age: 1st O. H. Lawrence, 2nd A. D. Headley, 3rd Ed Minor, 4th Charles Popwell, 5th M. R. Oates.

Grand Champion Bull: O. H. Lawrence.

Reserve Champion Bull: Ed Minor.

Mare and Colts:

Mare and Horse colts: 1st L. H. Reynolds, 2nd Frank Parrish, 3rd G. M. Baker.

Mare and Mule colts: 1st R. M. Foster, 2nd Hoover Moatts.

Horse Colts One to Two years old: 1st Gordon Powell, 2nd William Popwell.

Mule Colts one to two years old: 1st Al Holley.

Bred Mares: 1st L. H. Reynolds, 2nd Luther Little.

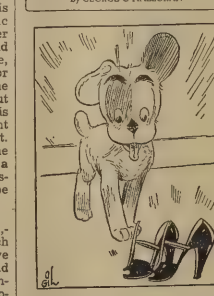

A fine exhibit of purebred Guernsey cattle was shown by R. M. Foster, Clanton, Ala. Rt. 4. These animals were on exhibit only and did not compete for prizes.

Dr. W. L. Parrish, Clanton, furnished four beef cows for the beef animal exhibit. This exhibit showed an interesting increase in beef type results from breeding common cows to purebred beefs.

The difference in a common cow, one-half beef type, three-fourths beef type seven-eighths beef type, and fifteen-sixteenths beef type were shown. All the beef cows in the exhibit were descendants of the common cow and resulted from breeding the common cow and her successive offspring to purebred beefs.

An expression of appreciation is deserved by Dr. Jimmy Bell of Bell Hardware Company and Mr. B. N. Studdard, Agent for Gulf Gasoline. Mr. Bell gave a good horse collar to the winner in the best mare and colt class and Mr. Studdard furnished Gulf Livestock spray for all the animals at the show.

Chester the Pup

By GEORGE O'HALLORAN

CLARA bought a new pair of shoes yesterday and I thought she got cheated. They didn't have any toes in them but it seems to be anything for style. She wore them last night when she went to a dinner dance with Spatter-puss. It looked kind of funny to be all dressed up and have your toes sticking out of your shoes. But the funniest thing was she had her toenails painted red to match couple of cranberries peeking out of a venetian blind. They must have had a pretty good time at the dance. I heard her telling Charlene this morning that she didn't miss a dance. The one she missed was her feet pretty near killed her. She thinks that everybody in the ball room must have stepped on her toes at least once.

Chart Changes In Heat of Sun

Scientists Make Analysis of Data Gathered Over 15-Year Period

WASHINGTON.—Seven radiation pulsations of the sun have been confirmed by Harvard university mathematicians, who have completed a rigid mathematical analysis of data gathered by the Smithsonian institution over 15 years.

Measurements with delicate instruments on cloudless mountain tops scattered over the earth for the last 20 years have shown that the solar heat received at the outer edge of the earth's atmosphere varies from day to day. The sun, upon whose radiation all life depends, is a variable star.

The increases and decreases, however, were interwoven into an almost inextricable pattern. Sometimes the peaks of two or more coincided and sometimes several depressions came together. Several years ago Dr. Charles G. Abbot, secretary of the Smithsonian institution, found, by splitting up the total curve of the sun's radiation, that it consisted of 12 subperiodic pulsations, all of which had a least common denominator of approximately 23 years. That is, every 23 years the star went through a complete pulsation cycle.

Some Statistical Illusions.

The analysis, however, was extremely difficult. Some of the radiation differences, in so far as they could be detected by any instruments 90,000 miles away, were very minute. All the complex facts passed through the earth's atmosphere on solar radiation had to be discounted. There was at least a possibility that some of the apparent pulsations were statistical illusions, difficult to recognize.

Dr. Theodore E. Sterne of Harvard university undertook, with the aid of his graduate students, to analyze the data by a different, more laborious method. A mathematical procedure. A mathematician familiar with the pitfalls of statistical illusion, Dr. Sterne approached the problem with an objectively skeptical attitude. Only one of the 12 periodicities proposed by Dr. Abbot were susceptible to the method of analysis used by the Harvard mathematicians. Out of these 10, his work shows seven are certainly real and must be considered probably as actual happenings on the sun, although the mathematics merely shows that they exist and offers no explanation of them.

The 'Real' Periodicities.

The Smithsonian observations show that during the periods of 8 1/2, 11, 21, 25, 39 1/2, 46 and 68 months must be considered as actualities.

That is, every 9 1/2 months the sun's heat, for some unknown cause, seems to rise to a certain peak and then decline. Every 11 months there is a similar rise and decline. The same is true for the other five. Each period may have a different solar cause. If they all started at the beginning—and presumably they did in the beginning—they all would approximately coincide at the end of 23 years. Their complex combinations would bring into the record many times the increase in the sun's heat with associated declines.

This period of 23 years is about double the period of the sunspot cycle, when titanic whirlwinds in the solar atmosphere go through a maximum and minimum in frequency.

These solar periodicities, Dr. Abbot believes, are a major element in the earth's weather, although the relationship is very complicated. The independent confirmation of seven of them affords a substantial basis for further studies in this field.

Boy Scout, 14, Sets Up Home Weather Bureau

CANAAN, CONN.—Roger Keener, a 14-year-old Boy Scout, has set up his own weather bureau in his home, and his predictions are surprisingly accurate.

The youth has necessary instruments to record wind velocity and direction, humidity, barometric pressure and the variety and amount of precipitation, among other things.

Roger said, "It was through Scouting work that I first became really interested in weather, and I hope to go on with the study, perhaps making it my profession."

Old Timers of Wyoming Exercise Fishing Rights

CHEYENNE, WYO.—Wyoming is a state of pioneer residents who believe in taking advantage of its fishing facilities, the game and fish department has decided.

Officials said they received an average of 50 applications daily for pioneer hunting and fishing licenses issued free to persons past 65 who have lived continuously in the state for 20 years.

F. S. A Warns Against Fire Carelessness

"When trees burn, money burns," This is the way the Farm Security Administration is spreading among its borrowers in Chilton County.

"Farmers who start forest fires are actually striking a match to one of his community's most profitable industries," Marvin Durbin, FSA farm supervisor pointing out the danger to the ending of payrolls, the loss of a chance at part-time employment, the loss of soil protection and cover for game—all caused by fires—make every farmer suffer, whether he is a direct owner of timber land or not.

Every year American farmers give one hundred twenty-seven and a half million dollars to the flames. How much of this loss falls on southern farmers can be measured from the fact that almost one-fourth of the nation's timber lands, almost a third of its lumber production, and a large part of its naval stores production (1925-35) is in four southeastern States: Florida, Georgia, S. Carolina and Alabama.

"However little or much of the loss falls on Chilton County folks directly," Mr. Durbin said, "one can easily see that deliberate and careful planning for fire protection is as much a necessity for profitable farming as soil building or the selection of good seed. Three simple rules to follow are:

1. Don't burn off woods and fields indiscriminately.
2. Don't use gasoline or kerosene as kindling.
3. Keep a supply of water, or dirt, or sand handy as good fire insurance.

"Eighty-five per cent of farm fires are preventable, recent surveys have shown. The careless packing of hay, failure to repair faulty flues, the use of kerosene and gasoline as kindling are responsible for a large number of such preventable blazes.

"More often in this section, forest fires result from the common and lamented practice of 'burning off' open woods and fields. While the burning does keep down larger shrubs and tall grasses, allowing a fresh crop of tender shoots to grow, the benefits are only temporary. The burning of forest floors damages standing trees, cutting their value both for turpentine and lumber, as well as firewoods. While the burning of open fields is a necessary procedure, regular burning of open fields rots the soil of natural fertilizer supplied by rotting vegetation. It kills sturdy weeds and small seedlings whose roots help to prevent erosion. Burning off a field each will cause its erosion almost as quickly as will careless plowing and cropping.

In one hour fire can leave only a chimney standing to mark the site of a farm home it took many years of digging the earth to pay for. Realizing that home, the beginning of security on the farm, cannot so easily be destroyed, Mr. Durbin says his associates are teaching FSA borrowers the dangers of indiscriminate use of fire. Regular check-up inspections of houses and barns are made to see that all kerosene, oil and fuel are stored properly. And before winter sets in, each borrower is expected to investigate his flues and chimneys. If these are found in no fit shape for freezing weather's roaring fires, the repair is listed on farm and home plans as a "must do job."

Quotas For Army Are Announced

The United States Army Recruiting Office, Birmingham, Ala. announces the allotment of large quota for enlistment in the Regular Army.

- Allotment as follows:
- 200 - 2nd Infantry, Fort McClellan, Ala. (Aniston, Ala.)
 - 4 - GHQ Air Corps Det., MacDill Field, Fla. (Tampa, Fla.)
 - 26 - Air Corps Base Detachment, Ft. Benning, Ga. (Columbus, Ga.)
 - 500 - Infantry, 2nd Armored Division, Ft. Benning, Ga.
 - 250 - Field Artillery, 2nd Armored Division, Ft. Benning, Ga.
 - 4 - Field Artillery, 1st Observation Battalion, Ft. Bragg, N. C.

Applicants between the ages of 18 and 35, single and without dependents, of good character and physical condition, desiring enlistment are urged to contact the United States Army Recruiting Office, Post Office Building, Birmingham, Ala.

All applicants applying for enlistment who are in the draft age, are required to present their registration cards. Instructions have been issued that no man in the draft age be enlisted who has not registered.

Recruiting for the Regular Army is now going on just as it was prior to registration day.

President To Get Largest Turkey

Uniontown, Ala.—Monarch of all the turkeys now strutting in this Cranekneck Section of Alabama will grace the table of President Franklin D. Roosevelt on Thanksgiving Day. One of the high-lights of Uniontown's first annual Turkey Carnival next Monday will be a Turkey show, in which 15,000 or more birds are expected to compete for the honor of becoming the President's Thanksgiving dinner.

In a section of the state where from 10 to 600 birds are found on each farm, an imposing array of contestants is expected to take part in the various events, according to M. M. Paschall, general chairman of the Carnival. The turkey judged to be largest and finest will be sent to President Roosevelt in time for Thanksgiving.

Terrace Maintenance

Terraces, like anything that man builds, require maintenance according to Mr. James H. Wood, Superintendent of the Soil Conservation Service in the CCC Camp Area near Clanton, Alabama.

"Terraces add to the value of land just so long as they are kept in good working order," Mr. Wood points out. "It is important to keep weeds and silt out of a terrace channel. Such material accumulating in a channel often causes the terrace to break."

"A good time to check up on terraces is right after crop harvest, when equipment and labor is not needed for other work on the farm. By proper plowing methods weeds and silt will be removed from terrace channels which will allow the terraces to function better during winter months."

"When breaks occur in terraces it is important to repair them as soon as possible. A shovelful of soil may be sufficient to repair a break when it has just occurred. When it gets unrepaired until spring or until several rains have fallen, it will probably require much more work to make the necessary repairs. Damage to the land below the terrace will also be greater."

"Terrace maintenance requirements, unless a soil-building system of land treatment, including cover crops and crop rotations, is followed," Mr. Wood added.

Charter Oak to Live in Seedling

Historical Tree Enacted an Revolution.

HARTFORD, CONN. — History books alone will not perpetuate the memory of a famous tree that changed the course of American history.

A scion of the mighty oak will endure for generations to come—a material monument recalling the early struggles the colonists to break English domination in the New World.

This living memory is a seedling of the great Charter Oak tree—now growing at Thompsonville, and planted by the Daughters of the American Revolution.

The Charter Oak, a sturdy monarch which enjoyed its prime before the discovery of the North American continent, was felled during a violent storm 84 years ago. The part it played in history was more widely heralded than famous battles that gained eventual liberty during the momentous years of the colonial uprising.

The great spreading tree enacted its historical role as a protector of the Connecticut charter on October 31, 1687.

Granted by Charles II.

The charter, which gave the colony self-rule, was granted by King Charles II in 1662. It later was to form the basis of the Connecticut constitution, establishing the world's first democracy. The Connecticut constitution in turn was the inspiration for the Constitution of the United States.

Envious of this document of partial independence was Sir Edmund Andros, an appointee of the duke of York as governor of New York and "regions between the Connecticut and Delaware rivers."

Andros had several controversies with colonial authorities before the Charter Oak episode. He repeatedly had been denied recognition as governor of Connecticut. But in 1688, he obtained an appointment from the king as governor of New England and immediately demanded the Connecticut charter.

Governor Treat and the legislature refused to relinquish it.

On the eventful day on October the following year, Andros, his council and 60 soldiers appeared at the general assembly meeting place. Dusk was falling as he stormed into the room and served two writs of quo warranto on the governor and insisted the charter be produced.

Some Trickery.

Governor Treat and the legislators were greatly disturbed. They stalled for time but Andros was impatient as the precious charter appeared within his grasp. Finally it was brought out and laid on a table. Andros eyed it greedily as the governor made a final plea for its preservation.

Suddenly the candles were extinguished and the room plunged into darkness. There was a commotion in the hall and Andros furiously demanded the tapers be relighted. When they were, after a cautious delay, the charter had disappeared.

Andros was explosive in his denunciation of the colonists. Defeated, however, he marched away—without the charter.

What he did not know was that when the lights went out Capt. Joseph Wadsworth whisked the document from the table and fled the meeting house. Captain Wadsworth, pressed for time, recalled a hollow oak tree on the farm of former Gov. George Wyllys, near by. He stuffed the charter into the opening and hurried back to the meeting house before the candles were relighted.

The charter remained in the oak until Andros left the colony and all danger of its loss had passed. From that day on the tree became known as the Charter Oak tree and it was carefully preserved until it was destroyed early in the morning of August 21, 1858.

550,000 Acres of Land Sought for Military Use

WASHINGTON. — Secretary of War Harry Woodring has asked Congress for authority to purchase 550,000 acres of land to be used for the expanded military program. He said that these added facilities would constitute a "most valuable asset" to mobilization and expansion purposes.

Among the purchases, the total cost of which was estimated at $3,500,000, were Camp Custer, Mich., 1,612 acres for added training facilities; Savannah, Ga., 525,000 acres for anti-aircraft training; Fort Sil, Okla., 13,738 acres for training facilities; Salt Lake basin, Utah, 3,000 acres for general depot.

Cupid Plays Tag With Young Autoist

ROANOKE, VA. — A young man had two city tags for the same car and wanted a refund on one of them. He had told his girl he didn't have money to buy his auto tag. The young lady, cognizant of his approaching birthday, bought the tag as a present. In the meantime the young man had raised the money and bought one. The council voted to refund the money—to the young lady.

Mexico Stirred By Spy Plots

Military, Diplomatic and Commercial Observers Watch Situation.

MEXICO CITY. — Indications of increased foreign espionage and propaganda in Mexico are apparent to observers, but there is no definite pattern to either activity yet.

Intensification of spy work is regarded as a natural consequence of the European war. Gossip, which goes hand-in-hand with espionage, has spread in extravagant fashion and is concerned with rumors of plots and counter plots to incite Mexican revolution.

There is persistent talk that trouble in Mexico would be linked with the European war. Conservative military, diplomatic and commercial observers are watching the situation closely on the theory that where there is so much smoke there may be a little fire.

An inspired revolt, according to various rumors, might have any of the following motives:

1. Screening of a move by Germany to gain a foothold in Latin America.
2. Diverting United States attention from Europe to forestall possible intervention on the side of the allies.
3. Giving the United States an excuse to increase its military and gain control of internal affairs.
4. Starting an "imperialistic" war in Latin America.

Fantastic as any of these maneuvers may appear, they are all being rumored as "possibilities."

Espionage Facts Elusive.

The word "espionage" instantly conjures up a melodramatic picture of powerful but phantom radio stations, of mysterious airplane flights by night, and secret arms caches in the jungles. Rumor says these activities do exist in Mexico, but nothing has been proved.

As soon as war started in Europe, foreign agents filtered into Mexico in increasing numbers. The country's proximity to the United States and the Panama canal make it a strategic base for operations.

Many informed observers agree that foreign radio stations do operate secretly in Mexico, clearing information for agents in the United States and Latin America to their home bases. For three years rumors have persisted of a huge arms cache somewhere in the vast forests of the state of Chiapas, which borders Guatemala coffee plantations. Nothing has been proved, however.

Anti-Allies Posters.

Evidence regarding propaganda is more tangible. It appeared in anti-Allied form in the capital suddenly. Handbills and posters were seen on the streets. They called England "a hungry monster"; inferred Roosevelt was attempting to drag Latin America along with the United States into the war, and warned Mexico to stay neutral and above all to beware of the allied cause. Great Britain also has been assailed in connection with its dispute in connection with possession of British Honduras, which borders on Mexico.

The source of this propaganda is not known.

The unverified picture of foreign operations in Mexico is joined like a jigsaw puzzle with the republic's current presidential campaign, which is growing more heated with the approach of the July 7 elections. Administration forces backing Gen. Manuel Avila Camacho to succeed President Lazaro Cardenas accuse Gen. Juan Andre Almazan of planning to start a revolution if he is defeated. Avila Camacho forces are confident he will lose the election.

Angler Ties Up Trout

Just to Catch Whitefish

GREAT FALLS, MONT. — W. A. Hill says the prize alibi during his years as deputy game warden is this one:

Coming upon a fisherman casting in a stream where trout angling was forbidden, but whitefish were legal catch, Hill noticed a number of live trout in the water tied with a string through their gills.

"Whose trout are these?" he belowed the warden.

"They belong to the state of Montana," the angler replied.

"Why are they tied?" Hill demanded.

"Those danged trout were taking my bait so fast I couldn't catch any whitefish, so I just tied 'em up until I got through fishing," the intrepid fisherman explained.

Novel Milk Marketing Works to Perfection

FREEPORT, MICH. — Mrs. Maud Rogers here has a novel method of selling milk to neighbors. She leaves her refrigerator and house door unlocked, and neighbors come and go as they please to get their milk, leaving the money in a box or paying later.

In nine years she has been selling milk this way, Mrs. Rogers says she has had the price of one bottle nor has milk been stolen.

A Christmas Carol
By Charles Dickens

Read the story of Scrooge, "a squeezing, wrenching, clutching, covetous old sinner."

"Christmas comes but once a year," said the clerk when he asked for the day off.

"A poor excuse for picking a man's pocket every 25th of December," retorted tight-fisted Scrooge.

But Scrooge changed . . . and that very night! The story of how old Scrooge learned to keep Christmas has come ringing down through the years. It has helped millions to spiritual enrichment and to a greater enjoyment of Christmas.

Don't miss this magnificent Yuletide story. If you have already read it you will want to read it again. It helps you catch the Christmas spirit.

Read It Serially in the Chilton County News beginning next week, Nov. 14.

Electricity Has Made Poultry Raising Highly Profitable for Modern Farmer

Ed Zirkel is seen feeding the battery hens

POULTRY raising is "big business" on the modern, scientifically operated farm.

The part electricity plays in making possible the income of more than a billion dollars a year the American farmer receives from eggs and chickens is practically demonstrated in the poultry section of the Electrified Farm at the New York World's Fair.

In this exhibit of the electric light and power companies at the Fair, the most up-to-date equipment for the modern, efficiently operated poultry farm is shown in actual use.

Larry Eller, formerly with the New York State Egg Laying Contest at Farmingdale, Long Island, is in charge of the poultry exhibit. He finds that city visitors are as much interested in the way eggs and chickens are produced on a mass production scale as are the Fair visitors from farming communities.

Visitors see the complete poultry farm cycle—from the egg in the incubator to the preparation of poultry for market.

The incubator, electrically operated, has a capacity of nearly 5,000 eggs and is designed for taking off a twice-a-week hatch.

After the chicks are hatched they go from the incubator to the brooder. The part electricity plays in raising them is shown—the electric canopy, or Hover, with, ultra violet lamp, to keep the young chicks healthy, and a battery brooder.

Children particularly are thrilled at the sight of newly-hatched chicks and about 700 chicks are constantly on hand.

Another feature of the exhibit is a battery laying unit, or cage, accommodating 48 hens. This method of keeping poultry allows the farmer more hens on a minimum floor space. A modern floor plan for keeping laying hens in healthful surroundings is also shown.

Eggs are weighed and inspected on a combination scale and candler of 2000-eggs-per-hour capacity before being packed for market.

Of special interest to the farmer, raising poultry for the best markets is the electric scalding and waxing. An electric thermostat controls the semi-scalding water and wax to the exact temperature required. By this method even the smallest pin feathers are removed.

The Electrified Farm is a practical demonstration of electricity's many uses on a modern farm.

A dollar rolled into my room and sat down on the table, rubbing its silver face.
"Well," he said wearily, "I've had a busy year. I'm glad you didn't put me in the bank."
"Do you know," he continued, "that in this country there are over 50,000 ex-service men in hospitals served by the Red Cross? In Government hospitals, hundreds are suffering and dying of tuberculosis contracted through the war. Men lie year after year in plaster casts because of a bit of shrapnel in their spines. In psychiatric hospitals some of the boys sent across in 1917 scream and rave behind bars until death."
"Millions of my dollar friends went to help the ex-service men last year. Through the Veterans Bureau we have helped back to a normal life thousands of ex-soldiers thrown out of work because of disability. These men represent a million dependent women and children."
"The war is not over by any means. In the hospitals and sanatoriums it is still being fought."
He paused a minute to stroke the E. Pluribus Dium on his brow, then went on pensively.
"Yes, I have seen some strange things since you sent me away last year. I have seen great disasters in the United States. I have stood with doctors and Red Cross nurses in cities laid waste by wind or earthquake. I have heard the cries of the dying mingle with those of the living for the dead. I have been with the Red Cross nurse in the little towns in the mountains and far remote places where she did everything from bathing the baby to burying the dead."...

I then suggested a vacation for the silver dollar. Either in a safe-deposit vault or in a baby's bank. The dollar hesitated so long I could see the eagle's feathers quivering.
"If it is all the same to you, I would rather keep on working. Helping soldiers and feeding babies is much more in my line."

This unusual story was sent to the Red Cross at Spartanburg, S. C., by an ex-soldier. Unsigned, it was dedicated to the A. R. C.—Red Cross Courier.

Twins Develop Parallel Views in School Essays

SEATTLE.—Two 17-year-old high school twins furnished Seattle educators with an intriguing example of parallel mentalities.
Frank Kerry, high school senior, wrote on the topic "What Democracy Means to Me" and won $500 and a trip to New York in a nation-wide contest.

Nancy, his sister, learned of his success. Without telling Frank, she wrote on "Advantage of Democracy" and was Seattle's first-prize winner in another national essay competition.

Without comparing notes, their compositions showed similar trends in thought and conclusions. Throughout the school they have been in the same classes and their school grades have been virtually identical.

The boys plans to enter art school when he is graduated, while Nancy wants to study for a stage career.

Canadian 'Over There' By Sheer Determination

LONDON.—One of the most popular members of the Canadian forces in England is 5-foot-2 Private D. Baddie, one of the few bantams in the C. E. F.

Determined to enlist, he hitchhiked to the nearest recruiting station, 230 miles off in the Grand Prairie.

The recruiting officer turned him down, so Baddie started for Edmonton, 350 miles away.

Edmonton was so impressed by his achievement that he was passed for the army.

Grave Digger Missing, So Vicar Takes Spade

CHELMARSH, ENGLAND.—There is at least one vicar in the country who appreciates that the grave digger has a tough job.

He is the Rev. J. Basil Gower-Jones who, with a funeral service to conduct in three hours and no grave or grave digger, took off his coat and did the job himself.

He then went home, changed and returned to conduct the ceremony.
"I never worked so hard in my life," said the vicar. "The last foot of a bed of clay as hard as a rock and I had to use my pick and then shovel it out. It was back-breaking work."

FOLKS and THINGS ABOUT TOWN

Clanton is in the red this week—but it is not in MUD. With weeks of dry weather, we don't understand why the Alabama State Highway Department neglect in finishing this highway before the winter rains—the main artery through Alabama—North to South.

Next Thursday, November 21st is Thanksgiving and all of the stores in the city will be closed in observance of the day. Most of the boys are looking for a football game to go to as the only chance of the year for most of them to get away. Why can't Clanton have one right here on our home town? It would bring a good crowd to the athletic association and the school could well use the cash.

Thompson is about ready to move into his new home down on East Avenue. It is a beautiful home and the wife and the wife are really proud of it and should be. But for delay in the windows that were sent wrong by Mr. and Mrs. Thompson would be "at home."

It was the year 1876, on a farm near Clanton, Mr. D. W. Wilkins contracted with a negro for the cutting of several cords of wood to be burned into charcoal. At that time charcoal burning in Clanton County as a means for making a little extra money was practiced generally. As the story goes, Wilkins promised the old negro one cent a cord for the wood. One while down where the negroes were cutting Mr. Wilkins discovered "old John" was paying the other negroes that he had working for him one cent a cord—exactly what he had been expected to make a profit of the cutting if he paid the boys the same that he was getting old John replied, "But Mr. Wilkins, I've got the contract."

Confidentially, the Road building between Birmingham and Montgomery and the Sheriff's administration is a very messy, and that's putting it mildly.

Something that we have witnessed in a time gives us more pleasure than report the success of the Clanton boys in their effort in raising money for the blind and near blind of Clanton County. More than two hundred dollars was realized from the raffle and everybody went away satisfied. So they are due credit for the success of the objective that we won't attempt to tell them, let's just give three cheers for Clanton Lions Club.

Don Kemp, better known as "Bull," has built the City Grill into one of the best eating establishments in town. "Bulldog" is a likeable fellow when it comes to making a fellow feel at home he has the "knack" of doing just that. In the near future the City Grill is coming out with some pretty folders for the tourists who come down U. S. 31 on their way to Gulf—but we guess that will have wait till tourists start coming back from Clanton on their way South.

J. E. Easterling, present County Treasurer and recently reelected for a year term says that it is a darn easier work to keep the County's books than it is to get votes. J. E. says it is like being on vacation after past few weeks of strenuous campaigning.

F. Seals, of Maplesville Route 1, writes to the News office a tripping—a beautiful purple-top weighing six and a quarter pounds. We would have very much to have kept this sample for a while and let us all see just the kind of turkeys were grown on Maplesville, Rt. 1—but honest, it would have waited any way so we just let it go.

Mar Latham, of Maplesville, was awarded in the U. S. Navy as an apprentice seaman at Birmingham last month along with over 500 other young of Alabama and nearby areas who in their naval careers in October. He is now in training at Norfolk Va.

Educational Meetings

A series of educational meetings are being held throughout the State, relative to the soil conservation program. The concluding district meeting will be held at Clanton, Monday and Tuesday, December 2-3. Counties to be represented at the Clanton meeting include Blount, Cullman, Chilton, Blount, Blount and Shelby, while those to be represented at Demopolis are Blount, Hale, Sumter, Perry and Ma-

Clanton Ties Holtville
In Fast Game, 6-6

Clanton Tigers met a strong Holtville team last Friday night at the local field and came out with a 6-6 tie. Holtville showed a fine offensive team but lacked the spark needed to put over the touchdown, while Clanton played one of the best defensive games of the season. Holtville played deep in C. C. H. S. territory all evening and but for the late line defensive work the score might have been one-sided with Clanton on the short end. Holt of Holtville played a brilliant game of football for the visitors and Cost and Cooper set the pace for the Tigers.

Friday night November 15th, Clanton County High will play Montevallo here and one of the best games this season is expected. The Tigers to date have won five games, lost two and tied one.

Dr. Marcus Skinner Of Selma
To Be In Charge

On Friday November 15th, the Annual District Crippled Children's Clinic will be held in the Vocational Building of the Chilton County High School. Dr. Marcus Skinner, of Selma, will be there to examine and recommend treatment for children under the care of the State Crippled Children's Clinic for the Counties of Chilton, Bibb and Coosa Counties. The Crippled Children's service is eager to reach and serve all underprivileged crippled children brought to the attention of the service. Any crippled child not previously known to the Service may be referred to this clinic for an examination and those children already under care are urged to come in to this clinic for checking and re-examination.

The Clinic is being sponsored by the Missionary Circles of the Clanton Baptist Church, who will provide lunches for the children attending. The Civic Club, Lions, Kiwanis, Pilots and the Music Study Clubs are also aiding in this work.

Interested citizens are especially invited to visit the Clinic and get a first hand picture of what goes with the money that is donated for this work. Those who do attend Friday will be more than glad to give, and give graciously when asked next year to buy Easter Seals. The quotas raised by the communities are matched by the State in this work.

More than ninety children are expected to attend the Clinic this year.

Rush On At License Office

To date in Chilton County this year the Probate office has issued more than seventeen hundred and fifty 1941 automobile license plates.

The deadline this year for buying your plates without penalty is November 15th. After that date there will be fifteen per cent plus Citation fee added to the cost of your tag. The last minute rush is hard on the Clerks in the Probate office but see if you cannot prevent extra costs by getting your tags before Friday night.

O. E. S. TO MEET

Clanton Chapter No. 271, O. E. S. will meet Thursday night Nov. 14, 7:30 o'clock. All members are urged to be present. Members of other chapters invited.

PREACHING AT MULBERRY

Rev. Charles Haggard will preach at Mulberry next Sunday, Nov. 17 at 11 o'clock, and show the picture, "Life of Christ" that night.

NATIONAL RED CROSS ROLL CALL FOR CLANTON & CHILTON COUNTY

Enthusiastic Workers Attend Breakfast At Dixie Cafe;
Chairman Stapp Makes Plea For Cooperation

Wednesday morning at 7:45 those chosen to lead the 1940 Chilton County Red Cross Roll Call met at breakfast at the Dixie Cafe. More than forty-five workers attended and a lively meeting was held. Cohen E. Stapp, 1940 Chairman, made a plea to all workers to give of their best to make this a banner year for Chilton County. Quoting Chairman Stapp: "In our effort to respond to the National Red Cross Roll Call for 1940 membership, we have set today, November 15th, for the workers to call on every adult person in Clanton."

"We feel sure that you realize the importance of everyone responding to this call. In order to save the volunteer workers as much time as possible, please have your dollar or more ready when you are called upon. If for any reason you will be away from your home or place of business, please leave your membership with someone to be given to the worker. Please give us your full cooperation."

For the two coming Saturdays, Nov. 16th and 23rd, there will be booths in town with young lady attendants selling Red Cross Buttons. If you were missed Wednesday when the workers made their rounds, leave your donations or yearly membership with one of the young ladies. They will see that it gets to its proper place.

Chairman Stapp is predicting the largest membership for Chilton County in years and Chilton County will not let him down.

|-------------|------------|-----------|
| 1850 | 119 | 94 |
| 1232 | 79 | 63 |

CLANTON LIONS
CHARITY RAFFLE
BIG SUCCESS

More Than $150 Raised For Aid To Those Poor In Need of Glasses

Clanton Lions Raffle and Contest to name Queen of Clanton Lion Club came to a brilliant climax with the crowning of Miss Mary Neil Smith, Queen, at the New Wadeson Theatre Tuesday night. She is the daughter of Mrs. Ed Wagner and the late Harrison Smith. Miss Smith, who won the honor of Queen sold more than 600 tickets for the benefit of the fund of the Lions with which they purchase glasses for the underprivileged who cannot afford to buy their own.

Tena Wyatt ran second in the sale of tickets and those who helped with the sale follows: Ruth Jones, Lan Bryson, Kathleen Armstrong, Bess Hayes, Betty Boo Holis, Pearl Henley, Sara Nell Sessions and Jerry Alred. All were on the stage Tuesday night when the drawing took place and the awards were made.

Deep appreciation and special thanks from the Lions Club go to those who worked so unselfishly and gave of their money and services to make this a success. First the Committee: Ed Mullins chairman, L. H. Lane and Julian Evans who worked tirelessly. Mrs. Grady Heflin, Mrs. Earl Ellis, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Wade, Mr. John Page, Mrs. Odis Robinson and Miss Sylvia Miller of Clanton Blossom Shop, Mr. S. E. Scott, Mrs. Sadie Lande and Irvin Lande for his valuable help on the posters.

Nolan To Serve
As Army Chaplain

The Rev. A. T. Nolan, pastor of the Plantersville Methodist Church, has been accepted by the War Department as a chaplain at Camp Blanding Fla., and will leave by Nov. 25 to assume his new duties. Prior to that he will attend the annual conference of the Methodist church at Panama City, Fla., opening Nov. 18.

For some time past he has served as pastor of the Plantersville circuit and has been a strong factor in the work of the church in this section. Mrs. Nolan will go from Plantersville to Cordale, Ga., her childhood home, where she and the Nolan children will spend the time until Mr. Nolan is settled.

Thanksgiving To Be Observed Here
Thursday Nov. 21

Clanton, like the rest of Alabama and the United States will observe Thanksgiving on the 21st day of November this year, according to Mayor Cohen E. Stapp.

Banks, Groceries, Dry Goods Houses, etc., will all be closed for the occasion.

PLANE CRASH
Three Fliers Killed Sunday
In Crack-up Near Centerville

CENTERVILLE.—Crashing into the side of a mountain after they were unable to land their plane on the field, three army fliers were killed near here late Sunday afternoon.

The men were identified by army fliers from Maxwell Field as Lieut. Benjamin F. Avery, Lieut. R. R. Wilson, pilot of the plane and Pvt. G. A. Gatlin, of Maxwell Field.

The trio had taken off from Clanton Field, Atlanta, and were en route to Maxwell Field at the time of the crash. They were well off their route at the time of the crash. N. B. Poe, salesman, was the first to arrive at the wrecked plane and pulled the bodies of the fliers from the burning wreckage.

Delie Simpson, director of public relations, of Selma, went to the wreck scene, which is located in a remote section and more than a mile removed from the nearest road. He said Ed Wilson had attempted to flash his landing lights but due to the heavy fog had crashed into the hillside. The nose of the plane was buried deep in the ground.

The fliers had circled the field several times and were attempting to come back when the crash came.

The sound of the explosion as the gasoline tanks caught fire and burned could be heard several miles.

LADIES GUILD TO HAVE CHRISTMAS BAZAAR

On Saturday, December 7, the Ladies Guild of Thorsby will hold the annual Christmas Bazaar in the building which the post office occupied until recently.

There will be many articles for sale. Dinner will be served at a reasonable price. The proceeds will be for the benefit of Thorsby Institute. Further details will be given later.

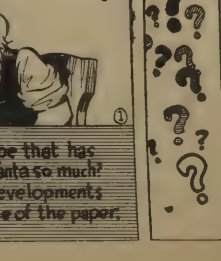

Read the marvelous story of the Three Spirits that took old Scrooge back through the years to other and happier Christmases, before care and avarice had marked him for their own.

A Christmas Carol, so deep with human sympathy and understanding, so warm with the glow of Christmas, will add wonderfully to this glorious season. Have you read it? Then you'll want to read it again. Ask every member of your family will want to read it, too. Don't miss it!

THORSBY INSTITUTE

Miss Elsie Tinker, music teacher of Thorsby Institute and a graduate of Oberlin College Conservatory, was invited to play on November 6 at a recital in Sylacauga. There was a joint music club at Sylacauga on the 6th meeting of the Clanton and Sylacauga

She played brilliantly Chopin's Etude in C. Sharp Opus 25 No. 7. She also played with great appreciation the Fauré in E. Major by Liszt. Among others who took part in this recital were two graduates of Thorsby Institute. Both of whom are now living in Clanton. Mrs. Lois Thompson Mims and Miss Kathryn Foss Ellis. They sang a duet "Beautiful Dreamer" by Foster. Mrs. Ellis also sang "My Old Kentucky Home" and "I Heard A Far-off Praying." Mrs. Mims sang "Tea Time With The Light Brown Hair" and "A Birthday."

On Friday night, December 6, at 7:30 in the dining hall of Thorsby Institute there will be a music recital. The public is invited.

The Christian Endeavor of the Congregational Christian Church sponsored a social at the Dining Hall of Thorsby Institute, Saturday night, November 9. The program opened with the showing of a collection of beautiful colored pictures by Mrs. Albert Skell of Hudson, Ohio. They were pictures of the Great Smokies, the Blue Ridge mountains, and Williamsburg, Virginia. Games were played and at the close of the social hour refreshments were served. About fifty guests were present. It was a delightful occasion.

The Christian Endeavor met Sunday night November 10, 1940. Mr. Leonard Bosworth lead. The topic "Was The Sacrifice Wasted?" was discussed. The scripture was read by Miss Jones. The meeting was held in the form of an open discussion. It was an Armistice Day program.

The program for the Christian Endeavor next Sunday night will be given by the Missionary Committee and will be a Missionary program. Everyone is invited to attend this meeting.

Herbert Lowery of Atlanta, Ga., and Gresham Lowery of Memphis, Tenn., returned to their jobs Monday. Having been called home on account of the serious illness and death of their father, Rev. W. P. Lowery.

Mrs. and Mrs. Tommie Thompson of Lay Dam were Sunday guests of Prof. and Mrs. Maddox.

Messrs. Charlie S. Howard, Lloyd Howard and Thomas Phalin were in Mobile for several days this week.

Mrs. J. A. Culver of Birmingham spent several days recently here with her mother, Mrs. Matha Burnett.

Lee Pate who is a mechanic in the training camp of the U. S. army was a recent visitor here.

Mrs. Law of Hanover Circle of Birmingham was a recent visitor of Mrs. H. L. Walker.

We extend our deepest sympathy to Mrs. W. P. Lowery and family. Rev. Lowery was one of Chilton County's most loved ministers. The great host of people who attended the funeral and the beautiful floral offerings paid tribute to his life lived here.

Mrs. Dewey Robinson of Birmingham visited her parents here last week. Mr. and Mrs. Howard Garrison, of Jackson, Miss., are spending a while here with Mrs. W. P. Lowery.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Rheinhardt of Birmingham were week end visitors here.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Robinson were home the week end from Dadeville and had as their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Goodgame and Mr. and Mrs. Keith Litz of Selma and Mrs. Johnson of Mountain Creek.

THE FAMOUS TOPPERWEINS

WORLD'S GREATEST SHOOTING TEAM HERE MON. NOV. 18TH

TO SHOW AT AIRPORT

The Topperweins are bringing their display of WINCHESTER guns to Clanton for another of their widely famous exhibitions on Monday Nov. 18th. Best of all, this exhibition is absolutely FREE—without charge for admission to all who are interested in seeing what can be accomplished with modern firearms and ammunition in the hands of experts.

These gun wizards put on a program full of variety from the opening gun until the last shot is fired. They shoot at all kinds of objects from every imaginable position—with rifle, pistol and shotgun.

Clay pigeons—wooden blocks—composition balls—metal discs—marbles, etc., even apples—real hen eggs—all are shattered with different types of guns. Sometimes two—three—four and even five targets or objects are in the air at the same time only to be broken before they fall back to mother earth.

It has always been a debatable question as to which of the Topperweins is the better shot, Mr. and Mrs. While both do the most remarkable shooting stunts, each has a few tough ones which the other hesitates to try, so it's up to you to come and figure this out yourself.

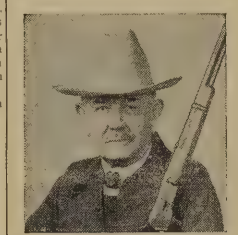

Ad. Topperwein has been shooting for many years and continues to improve as he leaves the years behind him. With fourteen world records to his credit, the most famous and that which stands out above all others in the history of shooting is the one he shot for ten consecutive days, eight hours a day at 2-1/4 inch wood blocks which were tossed into the air by an assistant. During this remarkable test of shooting skill and endurance, Topperwein shot at a total of 72,500 wood blocks and missed but nine. Out of the first 50,000 targets he missed but four. This record included several long runs, the longest being 14,500 without a miss—the longest run in the history of shooting—a world record both in number of targets shot at and targets broken.

In compiling this record that will probably never be equalled, Topperwein used three 22 Winchester automatic rifles which he loaded himself. So remarkable was this shooting considered that it appropriately found a place in the famous and reliable Ripley's "Believe It or Not" series.

One of his most spectacular features is the shooting of various pictures or cartoons. Shooting a number of rapid-fire shots at a sheet of tin or paper set out in front of him on an easel, Topperwein draws the outlines of people, animals, Uncle Sam, or any of the familiar cartoon characters—firing rapidly with his Winchester. He uses no pencil outlines or drawings—just shoots a lot of holes in the target and quickly draws with bullets a striking likeness of the character he has in mind. This feature, as well as many others in his program, is original. He was the first shooter to conceive the idea of drawing cartoons with bullets.

Mrs. Topperwein embarked on her shooting career shortly after marriage. Today, she is recognized as the greatest all-around woman shot in the world. She is also one of the few shooters who has mastered all kinds of firearms, shooting rifle, pistol, and shotgun equally well.

Mrs. Topperwein was the first woman in the United States to qualify as a National Marksman with the military rifle. She was the first woman in the world to break 100 straight targets at trapshooting with a shotgun. This she has accomplished nearly 200 different times. She has broken 200 straight or better fourteen different times and her longest straight run is 367, making her record even more remarkable.

At aerial targets, with the rifle, Mrs. Topperwein has scored 1460 without a miss on 2-1/4 inch wood blocks. As a pistol and revolver shooter, she also holds many records. Shooting in various positions at small objects and targets, she has scored 497,500 from 25 yards in 50 shots with a .38 caliber revolver.

Mrs. Topperwein has shot in every state in the Union during her professional career and has defeated both amateur and professional trapshooters—shooting side by side in championship tournament competition.

To give some idea of her extraordinary shooting ability and endurance, Mrs. Topperwein shooting in Montgomery, Ala., fired at 2,000 targets (regulation trap), breaking 195,200 in 5 hours and 20 minutes. This is the world's record both for score and number of targets shot in one day by either man or woman with a shotgun. In training with her husband in exhibitions, Mrs. Topperwein practically duplicates the various shots in Mr. Topperwein's big bag of tricks. At some points, she even excels him. At every performance they seem to "compete against each other by springing some new surprises."

Remember this thrilling exhibition is FREE. Come out and enjoy the fun. Bring your family and friends. You'll go away with something to talk about a long time afterward. The Topperweins will be glad to discuss your shooting problems at the conclusion

Mrs. Charley Williams of Birmingham came down Sunday to visit her mother, Mrs. Hustleman.

Mrs. P. T. Hinkle was hostess to the Study club on the afternoon of Nov. 11, with eighteen members present. After a short business session a very interesting program, on Latin America was enjoyed. Mrs. M. L. White's paper, dealing with San Martin's liberator of the South and Mrs. Hugh Jones' paper on Bolivia liberator of the North. Delicious refreshments carried out in the club colors of green and white was enjoyed by all.

Clanton has a new citizen, small but very important, he arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Wood. Weight 10 pounds and his name is Horace Denison.

Statewide W. M. U. members who were here for the meeting last week and their hostesses were: Miss Eva Berry and Mrs. L. M. Smith with Mrs. John T. Ellis; Miss Juliette Mather and Miss Clarabel Isdell with Mrs. O. A. Davis; Mrs. Ida Stallworth with Mrs. Renfro Mullins; Mrs. T. M. Maynard with Mrs. T. B. Deramus; Mrs. R. S. Marshall with Mrs. J. E. Gowan and Miss Florence Thomasson with Mrs. Charlie Cox.

Mrs. Walter Kelley Gillispie, of Thorsby, visited her mother, Mrs. W. B. Corley, last Monday.

THANKS VOTERS

Candidates Express Appreciation For Their Election

Editor Chilton County News:

Please thank me in your paper to the voters of Chilton County, who have again honored me with the highest office within their gift. To those who saw fit to support my opponent, I hold no ill will, but will at all times serve all the people in the most impartial manner. May I ask all the Democrats and Republicans to assist the officials who have elected in making this a most successful administration.

I want the people of Chilton County to feel that this is their office, and I invite you to advise and consult with me regarding County affairs, so that the taxpayers may get a dollars worth for every dollar spent.

Again thanking you for the honor you have conferred upon me, I am, Yours very truly,
J. LEE SMITH.

MR. PARRISH WRITES VOTERS

To the Voters and Taxpayers of Chilton County:

I want to express to you my deep appreciation for the support you gave me in the general election on November 5, 1940. Words are not able to express my appreciation of your support.

I want to say to this all of you, that I am going to make every effort to give you my very best service. I will appreciate you coming to me and discuss your matters with me and I will not intentionally disregard or cast aside any suggestions from my people. The election is over and gone and whatever may have been said or done during the campaign, let it be now closed and let us all join together in every effort to do our best for Chilton County.

Thanking you again, I am,
Sincerely your friend,
J. MONROE PARRISH.

COMMISSIONER OUSLEY THANKS VOTERS

Editor Chilton County News:

I wish to thank the voters of this County for their vote of confidence in returning me for four more years as your Commissioner. I will do my best to at all times merit this confidence.

R. L. OUSLEY.

J. E. EASTERLING THANKS VOTERS

To the Voters of Chilton County:

I am very grateful to all of you for the splendid vote you gave me on Nov. 5th, also, for the many new acquaintances and friends I made during my campaign.

Now that the election is over, let us all unite in our efforts to have a better community and county in which to live.

Again I wish to thank my friend and opponent Mr. Reece Baker, for the clean and honorable campaign he conducted, also, his friends that were against me in this election, anytime I can do any of you a favor, do not hesitate to call on me.

Yours for a more progressive and better county, and with kindest personal regards for all, I am,
Yours sincerely,
J. E. EASTERLING.

J. P. PAYNE THANKS VOTERS

To my friends and voters:

In going into another term as member of your School Board, I want to express to you my gratitude of appreciation of confidence you have placed in me to be a part of the School System of Chilton County, and I am pledging myself to you to do for the Schools what I can to the very best of my ability.

Thanking you again for your fine support, I am,
Yours truly,
J. P. PAYNE.

THANKS TO THE VOTERS

I wish to express my sincere thanks and appreciation to my friends and voters for any assistance you gave me in being elected as a member of the county board of Education.

In return for same I'll promise my full support and co-operation to our County Superintendent, Board of Education, Teachers and parents for better schools.

I hold no enmity toward any one for the way they voted and am willing to accept any helpful suggestions to improve our schools conditions.

Yours for better Education,
B. F. BOOCKHOLDT.

NEW BEAUTY SHOPPE IN CLANTON POPULAR

Mrs. Plier's Beauty Shoppe, not exactly new in Clanton as Mrs. Plier was here in 1931 and successfully operated a Beauty Shoppe under the same name, is again getting her share of the business here. With years of experience behind her Mrs. Plier is the only local State Board Operator. Miss Evian Littlejohn is Assistant Operator. Both Mrs. Plier and Miss Littlejohn invite their friends to come to see them or call 208-M for an appointment.

ORPHANAGE CAR TO BE LOADED

The Orphanage car for the orphan home at Troy, will be loaded here as usual.

The car will be loaded jointly by the Chilton-Unity Associations. The churches of both Associations are urged to make necessary preparations for this most worthy cause.

The car will be at Thorsby November 19 and at Clanton November 20. It would be nice if every church would see that some individuals are appointed to look after this matter.

SEVEN HATEFUL THINGS: These six things doth the Lord hate; yea, seven are an abomination unto him, a proud look, a lying tongue, and hands that shed innocent blood, a heart that deviseth wicked imaginations, feet that be swift in running to mischief, a false witness that speaketh lies, and he that soweth discord among brethren.—Proverbs 6:16-19.

Thanksgiving Week

We who are free from tyranny, free from aggression, free from the killers' bombs, free from want and misery, have so much to be thankful for that twice each day during this week—morning and evening—we should go into the Great Silence for a few minutes at least, and in spirit and truth commune with the All Wisdom of the Universe in constant thankfulness for the protection and bounteous plenty which has been accorded us.

About Spiders

Why don't spiders get caught in their own webs? You can see the answer for yourself if you will look closely enough. Notice where the spider puts her feet. They are always on certain threads in the web, that are heavier than the rest of the filaments and not equipped with the sticky stuff that entraps insect victims. This is most easily seen in the wheel-shaped webs of the orb-weaving spiders. The "glueless" threads are the line spokes of the wheel. These, and not the connecting rungs are the spider's footpaths.—Ex.

Hope For Farmers

Food prices will go up. A scarcity of farm labor will produce a shortage of crops and what you do make will bring a good price. The farmer for the next few years will be in position to make good provided he does not plant cotton and tobacco. Uncle Sam feeds his Army and Navy and labor eats when it is prosperous, so Mr. Farmer get ready to face a prosperous America. Poll Tax Repeal

John Hix Tuesday morning in his Strange As It Seems confirms what many of us already knew in these words: "The right to vote is not conferred by the U. S. government, it is a state right." Read it again, you Poll Tax Repealers.—Alexander City Outlook.

Meaning one of whom we are which. And we demur: Because it is a state right instead of a federal statute doesn't make it right.

MORAL ECHOES

REV. D. W. HASKEW, D.D.

I boarded a fast passenger train in Washington and was soon fast asleep on a Pullman bed. During the night hours that train went north and south, east and west, forward and backward. I had no worries when I changed direction for I knew that its final destination was Montgomery, Alabama. It was comfort to have faith and trust in the engineer and the train master, and to know that the train was moving toward its destination, regardless of its stops, sidings, turns and curves. Many years ago I decided to travel on the train of salvation. My travel has been without excitement or uncertainty. I have gone backward, to the right and the left, but all the time I have been going toward the destination of Paradise. It is great to trust the Master of this salvation train.

While riding along we came to a mud pond by the roadside. The water was foul and there were signs of impurity everywhere. Slime oozed over the green moss and bugs and snakes crawled in the pile of decay. Out quite a distance from the shore I saw a lillie as it lifted its head above the slime. It was floating on the sullied, stained waters, but there was no stain on that lily. It lived in the midst of impurity, but it was pure and white as the snow, as it lifted its face toward God. It was clean in the midst of uncleanness. We hear people saying that we can not live clean and be sweet in our character and life when we have unclean environments, but go to that lily and learn the lesson that we can live in a sinful world and stay clean and good.

The good missionary placed his sundial before his humble cottage and the savages would come to hear him tell them the time of day. The natives became very anxious to own the sundial and by much persuasion, they finally carried the instrument home with them. The sundial became almost sacred to them and to show their appreciation of it, they built a little house and roofed it over. The dial was placed in the dark enclosure, it was useless. Their very devotion took the dial from the sunlight and it became worthless. Many people treat the Bible as those natives treated the sundial. They reverence it, but they hide it in some trunk. Your Bible is not good to you unless you keep it out in the sunlight of life.

Not many years ago a valuable diamond was found in the fields of south Africa. The owner carried this stone to a jeweler who looked at it through a strong magnifying glass. Imagine his astonishment when he saw in the middle of that diamond a brilliant little fly, with body, wings and eyes in the most perfect state of preservation. How that little fly was embedded there, no one will ever know. No human skill can ever take it out. Since that day the diamond has become famous as the fly stone. It matters not what passage we may read of God's Word, we can see God. We can see Jesus Christ and the Holy Spirit embedded there. The Holy Trinity sparkles in the midst of the Bible, and in all Bible truth. If we try ever so hard we cannot remove God from His Book. It is Deo-Centric.

"If Thou Hadst Known"

A war correspondent who saw service in France during the years 1914-18 tells of the one scene that brought tears to his eyes. He was watching a division of soldiers plodding along a country road in a driving rain, the mud splashing over their shoes and uniforms till they were literally dripping with mud. Along came one man leading a mongrel dog, the soldier's pet, tied with a cord around his neck. The little dog toddled along with the mud splashing into his eyes and all over his body, blinking with a pathetic expression of helplessness. The tired, bewildered dog seemed to symbolize all the men; not knowing where he was going, what would happen to him, or what it was all about. The men did not know why they were going out to kill or be killed, why they were engaged in this ghastly business. Is not this one of the darkest as-

Wake Lazy Insides All-Vegetable Way

Thousands turn to this way to get relief when they're lazy intestinally and it has them headachy, bilious, irritable, listless. A quarter of a half-teaspoonful of spicy, aromatic, all-vegetable BLACK-DRAUGHT on your tongue tonight, a drink of water, and there you are! Thus, it usually allows time for a night's rest; acts gently, thoroughly next morning, so relieving constipation's headaches, biliousness, bad breath. BLACK-DRAUGHT'S main ingredient is an "intestinal tonic-laxative," which helps impart tone to lazy bowel muscles. The millions of packages used prove its merit. Economical, too: 25 to 40 doses, 25c.

Satisfied

The election went to suit us exactly, and of course there are many that did not vote for the President and have their own reasons for not doing so, but we hope that the country will now settle down and everyone get behind President Roosevelt and help build up a defense machine that will withstand any and all enemies, and that everything will not go to H. . . like both sides have predicted if their candidate was not elected.

We are still living in a free country where we have more liberties than any nation in the world, and it is now the job of every American citizen to see that the United States and its possessions remain that way. The people of this country will not allow a dictator, whether he be from Europe or from this country to take away our liberties.—Centerville Press.

"We humbly bow our heads and recognize Almighty God as the Supreme Master of our lives and we give thanks to Him for all these rights and privileges which are ours."

We advised Mr. Willkie in plenty of time not to give up that good job holding the holding company—and he just wouldn't pay any attention. So now see where he is.

Not So Much Rubbin' and Scrubbin' IN THIS HOME

THERE won't be a great deal of wood-work washing in the kitchen of an attractive home like this; and yet, the kitchen will always seem to have that fresh look. The secret—or have you already guessed it? will be the fact that the kitchen is completely electrified—the kind of a kitchen where woodwork, walls, curtains, stay clean longer; where "kitchen headaches" are rare.

Other things that can contribute to the livability of this home are plenty of convenience outlets for the use of sewing machine, vacuum cleaner, numerous reading and decorative lamps. An electric ventilating fan to make cooling breezes during the hot summer months, and a mechanical stoker to provide even, economical warmth during the winter. An electric washing machine to do those quick emergency jobs when necessity doesn't permit waiting for the laundry man, and for laundering those silken things that many women will trust to no hands other than their own.

Are You Thinking of Building a New Home or Remodeling Your Present One?

We are not home planners, but many builders of new homes have told us that our suggestions regarding the electrical facilities in them were helpful in making the home more comfortable and livable, and contributed to its interior beauty.

Electrify Now—Electricity is Cheap in Alabama

By Charles Dickens

A Christmas Carol

Since Shakespeare, no Englishman has supplied the world with as many notable characters to every generation of life as Charles Dickens. In all his numerous works are characters who are as real today as the day they were created.

Among the most famous of these characters are:

STAVE ONE

Marley's Ghost

Marley was dead. Scrooge knew he was dead? Of course he did. Scrooge and he were partners. Scrooge was his sole executor, his sole friend, and sole mourner. And even Scrooge was not so cut up by the sad event.

There is no doubt that Marley was dead. This must be distinctly understood, or nothing wonderful can come of the story I am going to relate. If we were not perfectly convinced that Hamlet's Father died before the play began, there would be nothing more remarkable in his taking a stroll at night.

The firm was known as Scrooge and Marley.

Oh! But he was a tight-fisted hand at the grindstone, Scrooge! A squeezing, wrenching, grasping, scraping, clutching, covetous, old sinner!

Once upon a time—on Christmas Eve—old Scrooge sat busy in his counting-house.

"A merry Christmas, uncle! God save you!" cried a cheerful voice.

"Bah!" said Scrooge, "Humbug!"

"Christmas a humbug, uncle!" said Scrooge's nephew. "You don't mean that, I am sure."

"I do," said Scrooge. "Merry Christmas! What right have you to be merry? You're poor enough."

"Come, then," returned the nephew gallily. "What right have you to be miserable? You're rich enough."

Scrooge having no better answer ready on the spur of the moment, said "Bah!" again; and followed it up with: "Keep Christmas in your way, and let me keep it in mine."

"Keep it!" repeated Scrooge's nephew. "But you don't keep it."

"Let me leave it alone, then," said Scrooge. "Much good may it do you!"

"There are many things from which I might have derived good, by which I have not profited, I dare say," returned the nephew. "Christmas among the rest. But I am sure I have always thought of Christmas time, when it has come round—apart from the veneration due to its sacred name and origin, if anything belonging to it can be apart from the good—that is, a kind, forgiving, charitable, pleasant time: the only time I know of, in the long calendar of the year, when men and women seem by one consent to open their shut-up hearts freely, and to think of people below them as if they really were fellow-passengers to the grave, and not another race of creatures bound on other journeys. And therefore, uncle, though it has never put a scrap of gold or silver in my pocket, I believe that it has done me good, and will do me good; and I say, God bless it! Come! Dine with us to-morrow!"

Scrooge said he would see him—yes, indeed he did. He went the whole length of the expression.

"But why?" cried Scrooge's nephew.

"Why did you get married?"

"Because I fell in love."

"Because you fell in love!" growled Scrooge. "Good afternoon!"

"Nay, uncle, but you never came to see me before that happened. Why give it as a reason for not coming now?"

"Good afternoon," said Scrooge. "I am sorry, with all my heart, to find you so resolute. We have never had any quarrel, to which I have been a party. But I have made the trial in homage to Christmas, and I'll keep my Christmas humour to the last. So a Merry Christmas, and a Happy New Year to you."

His nephew stopped to bestow the greetings of the season on the clerk.

"There's another fellow," muttered Scrooge, who overheard him: "my clerk, who has fifteen shillings a week, and a wife and family, talking about a merry Christmas."

Two portly gentlemen came in.

"At this festive season of the year, Mr. Scrooge," said one gentleman, "it is more than usually desirable that we should make some slight provision for the Poor and destitute. Many thousands are in want of common necessities."

"Are there no prisons?" asked Scrooge.

"Plenty of prisons."

"And the Union workhouses?" demanded Scrooge. "Are they still in operation?"

"Under the impression that they scarcely furnish Christian cheer of mind or body to the multitude," returned the gentleman, "a few of us are endeavouring to raise a fund to buy the Poor some meat and drink, and means of warmth. What shall I put you down for?"

"Nothing!" Scrooge replied. "I help to support the establishments I have mentioned: they cost enough; and those who are badly off must go there."

"Many can't go there; and many would rather die," said Scrooge, "than be bothered with the surplus population."

Seeing it would be useless to pursue their point, the men withdrew. At length the hour of shutting up the counting-house drew near.

"You'll want all day tomorrow, I suppose?" said Scrooge.

THE AUTHOR

actors are old Scrooge and "Tiny Tim" in Christmas Carol.

The better part of two months were spent in the writing of this little story.

Dickens himself referred to his "Carol" as the greatest success he has ever achieved. This selection is rare praise from a prodigious writer whose works place him among the greatest of English writers. The stories which he produced in such great numbers include such masterpieces as "Nicholas Nickleby," "David Copperfield," "Pickwick Papers," "Bleak House" and "Great Expectation."

"So a Merry Christmas, Uncle."

The clerk observed it was only once a year.

"A poor excuse for picking a man's pocket," said Scrooge.

Scrooge took his melancholy dinner in his usual melancholy tavern; and having read all the newspapers, went home to bed.

Now, it is a fact, that there was nothing at all particular about the knocker on the door, except that it was very large. Let it also be borne in mind that Scrooge had not bestowed one thought on Marley. Then let any man explain how it happened that Scrooge saw in the knocker, not a knocker, but Marley's face.

As Scrooge looked at this phenomenon, it was a knocker again.

To say that he was not startled would be untrue. But he put his hand upon the key he had relinquished, turned it steadily.

He closed his door and locked himself in; which was not his custom, and sat down before the fire in his garret. The fireplace was an old one, paved all round with quaint Dutch tiles, designed to illustrate the Scriptures. There were Cains and Abels, Pharaoh's daughters, Queens of Sheba, Apostles putting off to sea in butter-boats, hundreds of figures to attract his thoughts; and yet that face of Marley, seven years dead, came like the ancient Prophet's rod, and swallowed up the whole.

"Humbug!" said Scrooge.

As he threw his head back in the chair, his glance happened to rest upon a disused bell that hung in the room. It was with great astonishment that as he looked, he saw this bell begin to swing.

It was succeeded by a clanking noise, deep down below; as if some person were dragging heavy chains over the casks in the wine merchant's cellar. Scrooge then remembered to have heard that ghosts in haunted houses were described as dragging chains.

It came on through the heavy door, and passed into the room.

The same face: Marley's was made of cash-boxes, keys, padlocks, ledgers, deeds, and heavy purses wrought in steel.

"You don't believe in me," observed the Ghost.

"I don't," said Scrooge.

"Why do you doubt your senses?"

"Because," said Scrooge, "a little thing affects them. A slight disorder of the stomach makes them cheats. You may be an undigested bit of beef, a blot of mustard, a crumb of cheese, a fragment of an undigested potato. There's more of gross than of grave about you."

At this the spirit raised a frightful cry. Scrooge held tight to his chair, to save himself from falling in a swoon. But how much greater was his horror, when the phantom taking off the bandage round his head, his lower jaw dropped down upon its breast!

Scrooge fell upon his knees.

"Mercy!" he said. "Dreadful apparition, why do you trouble me?"

"It is required of every man," the Ghost returned, "that the spirit within him should walk abroad among his fellow-men, and search out their sorrows. It is condemned to do so after death. It is doomed to wander through the world—oh, woe is me!—and witness what it cannot share, but might have shared on earth: and turned to happiness!"

Again the spectre shook its chain.

"You are fettered," said Scrooge, trembling. "Tell me why?"

"I wear the chain I forged in life," replied the Ghost. "I made it link by link. Its pattern strange to you?"

Scrooge trembled more and more.

"Or would you know," pursued the Ghost, "the weight and length of the strong coil you bear yourself? It was full as heavy and as long as this, seven Christmas Eves ago. You have laboured on it, since. It is a ponderous chain!"

Scrooge glanced about him on the floor, in the expectation of finding himself surrounded by some fifty or sixty fathoms of iron cable.

"At this time of the rolling year," the spectre said, "I suffer most. Why did I walk through crowds of fellow-beings with my eyes turned down, and never raise them to that blessed Star which led the Wise Men to a poor abode? Were there no poor homes to which its light would have conducted me?"

Scrooge was very much dismayed.

"Hear me!" cried the Ghost. "My time is nearly gone."

"I will," said Scrooge. "But don't be hard upon me!"

"Now it is that I appear before you in a shape that you can see, may not tell. I have sat invisible beside you many and many a day. I am here tonight to warn you, that you have yet a chance and hope of escaping my fate. You will be haunted by Three Spirits."

Scrooge's countenance fell.

"Without their visits," said the Ghost, "you cannot hope to shun the path I tread. Expect the first tomorrow, when the bell tolls One."

"Couldn't I take 'em all at once, and have it over?" hinted Scrooge.

"Expect the second on the next night at the same hour. The third upon the next night when the last stroke of Twelve has ceased to vibrate. Look to see me no more."

When it had said these words, the spectre walked backward from him; and at every step it took, the window raised itself a little.

After listening for a moment, it floated out upon the bleak night.

Scrooge closed the window, and examined the door by which the Ghost had entered. It was double-locked, as he had locked it and the bolts were undisturbed. He tried to say "Humbug!" but stopped at the first syllable.

STAVE TWO

The First of the Three Spirits

When Scrooge awoke, it was dark. Church chimes struck twelve.

"Why, it isn't possible," said Scrooge, "that I can have slept through a whole day and far into another night. It isn't possible that anything has happened to the sun, and this is twelve at noon!"

He remembered, on a sudden, that the Ghost had warned him of a visitation when the bell tolled one.

"Ding, dong!"

"The hour itself," said Scrooge, triumphantly, "and nothing else!"

He spoke before the hour bell sounded, with which it now did with a deep, dull, hollow, melancholy One. Light flashed up in the room upon the instant, and the curtains of his bed were drawn.

The curtains of his bed were drawn aside, I tell you, by a hand. Scrooge, starting up into a half-recumbent attitude, found himself face to face with the unearthly visitor who drew them.

It was a strange figure—like a child; yet not so like a child as an old man. His hair was white as if with age; and yet the face had not a wrinkle in it, and the tenderest bloom was on the skin.

But the strangest thing about it was, that from the crown of its head there sprang a bright clear jet of light.

"I am the Ghost of Christmas Past," it said.

"Long Past?" inquired Scrooge, observant of its dwarfish stature.

"No. Your past."

Scrooge then made bold to inquire what business brought him.

"Your welfare!" said the Ghost.

It put out its strong hand as it spoke, and clasped him gently by the arm.

"Rise! and walk with me!"

The grasp, though gentle as a woman's hand, was not to be resisted. He rose; but finding that the Spirit made towards the window, clasped his robe in supplication.

"I am a mortal," Scrooge remonstrated, "and liable to fall."

IN MEMORIAM

It is with humble and contrite hearts that we attempt to write a few words of tribute to the kindest man we've ever known.

On Nov. 8, at 12:05 A. M. our husband and father received a call from his Heavenly father to come up higher to a fuller and richer life.

It is unnecessary for us to try to elaborate on his many deeds done while down here on earth, for his hundreds of friends know the kind of life he led. We thank God for the privilege of having had him for husband and father, and his life here shall never be forgotten, and even though he died, yet shall he live again through the thousands of people to whom he ministered. Of this world's goods he had few, but we know that he is far richer today and we are poorer because of his home going. The man of whom we are writing is W. P. Lowery. In conclusion, we can best sum up his life by using the words of a poet: "True greatness is obtained in but one way—by living daily without thought of gain, and giving self for other's on life's way. A life of love real greatness will attain. Then let me live for others—self deny, and I shall live again, although I die."

—Mrs. W. P. Lowery & Family.

Alabama's Draft Quota

Alabama's draft quota, first call is 39,522, less National Guard and volunteers in regular branches, which leaves 13,711 to be called.

FARMERS ESSENTIAL TO NATIONAL DEFENSE

Auburn, Ala.—National Defense looms ever larger on the political, industrial and agricultural horizon as the big item for 1941. And, as the defense program increases in importance, so does the American farmer increase in importance for the machinery of national defense cannot be manned by unhappy, unhealthy Americans.

To the American farmer falls the task of assuring the nation's workers enough food and clothing to make them healthy and happy and able to proceed with the great task at hand. Aiding the farmers of Alabama in their defense role is the Extension Service with its county and home demonstration agents who assist rural families in improving conditions in farm homes and communities.

These workers are emphasizing the building of better citizenship, healthier people, happier homes and prosperous communities behind the line of battle and industry.

Home and county agents are stepping up demonstrations in gardening, nutrition, home building and related lines of assistance. State and national agricultural leaders are urging farmers to help the nation by helping themselves to the advantages and opportunities offered by farm and home agents.

Invites Friends, Alumni To "Alabama Homecoming"

Dr. Richard C. Foster, President of The University of Alabama

University, Ala.—Thousands of alumni and friends of the University of Alabama will return to the Capstone on November 29-30 for the annual homecoming program that will be featured by a gigantic pep rally, convocations, receptions, luncheons, concerts, smokers dances and climaxed by one of the most important football classics of the South between the Crimson Tide and Mississippi State.

The vanguard of the University alumni will arrive Friday afternoon November 29th. The executive committee of the board of trustees will meet at 4 p. m. in the administration building and the trustees will meet at 8:30 to clear the decks for the main homecoming day program.

The fireworks will start Friday evening at 7:00 when the alumni gather round the huge bonfire on the campus. A gigantic pep rally will be staged in the stadium. There will be open house at all fraternity, sorority houses and dormitories. There will be keen rivalry again this year for best house decorations.

Plans for an elaborate program for the "Women's World" are being completed. On Saturday morning there will be an academic procession of women students and women faculty, reviewed from the steps of Farrah Hall by Gov. Frank M. Dixon, President Richard C. Foster, board of trustees and alumni. Mrs. Frank M. Dixon will give the principle address at the convocation of alumni in the new auditorium.

After the concert at 10:15 by Alabama's "Million Dollar Band" on the steps of the Alabama Union a homecoming gathering will be staged in the lobby where alumni and friends of the University will meet Governor Dixon, President Foster, trustees, Dr. French Craddock, president of the Alumni association and other alumni officials, deans of various schools and colleges, and faculty members.

At 11:00 there will be a meeting of the Alumni council in the faculty room of the Alabama Union, and a Jason reunion. The alumnae association will hold a reception in the alumnae room of Foster Hall at 11:15 honoring Mrs. Frank Dixon. The annual homecoming luncheon will be staged in Tutwiler dining room.

A shout is predicted for the homecoming game between the Crimson Tide and Mississippi State in Denny stadium. The evening program includes a concert by Denny Chimes, smoker by the "A" Club and a dance under the auspices of the Athletic Association in the new auditorium. Throughout the day there will be special conducted tours of the University buildings.

Alabama's toll bridge at Florence-Sheffield, which was freed by the voters in the Nov. 5th election, should become toll-free in about thirty days.

Notice To Registrants And To The Public

By Chilton County Local Boards Numbers 1 and 2

November 9, 1940
The Selective Service Regulations provide

Mailing a Questionnaire (Form 40) by the Local Board to the registrant is notice that the process of "classification and selection" with regard to that registrant has begun. Each day his Local Board will post at its office a notice of the order numbers of the registrants to whom Questionnaires have been mailed that day.

This Local Board keeps in its office a Classification Record (Form 100). On this Classification Record will be entered the date each action is taken by the Board or the Board of Appeal concerning each registrant. The entry of this date in the Classification Record is notice of the action taken. Other notice will be mailed to each registrant at his address last known by the Local Board, and to any other person who files a claim for him. Either the mailing of a notice or the entry in the Classification Record of the date the notice was mailed shall constitute notice to the registrant and all concerned. This is true whether or not the mailed notice is actually received by the person to whom it is addressed.

Any person required by law to register, or any registrant, who fails to perform a duty required by the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940, within time provided by the law (generally 5 days), has violated the law. A person violating the law is subject to trial in the United States District Court, which may impose a fine or imprisonment or both.

The date when action was taken by the Local Board will be written in the Classification Record in each of the following instances:

Whenever a period of time begins to run within which a registrant is to perform a duty.

Whenever a period of time begins to run within which a registrant may claim a privilege.

All registrants and other persons concerned should examine from time to time the notices posted by the Local Board and the Classification Record. The Classification Record is open to inspection by the public during the Board's business hours.

H. M. NIX,
Member of Local Board No. 2

Jemison Chapter FHA Held Regular Meeting

The Jemison Chapter of F. H. A. had its regular meeting in the school auditorium on November the sixth. The meeting was called to order by the president Helen Hubbard. The opening ceremony was then given by the officers. The committees then gave their reports. The president then called for unfinished business, there being no unfinished business we proceeded with the new business.

After the business part of the meeting the chairman of program took charge. The program was as follows: A talk "Your Appearance," by Willodene Jones; A reading, "Welcome," by Doris Jean Smith; Two Tap Dances by two small girls, Mary Julie Booster and Jackie Lee Jackson; Two piano solos, by Louise Cooper and our advisor, Miss Pace.

After the program games were enjoyed by all. Refreshments were then served. There being no further business to come before the meeting the meeting adjourned.

AIR SHOW AT THORSBY SUN. NOVEMBER 17

On Sunday November 17th there will be an Air Show at Thorsby. This Air Show will be presented by the American Air Shows. Balloon bursting, stunt flying, a wonderful ground show and last but not least, a Bat Wing Jump from an airplane 10,000 feet in the air by Elmo Bannister. This is a show that seldom comes to a town the size of Thorsby and is a chance for one and all to see this aviator glide and bank to within 500 feet of the ground with nothing but a pair of wings and then open his parachute and soar lightly to the earth. The Human Bat will also leave an airplane on a delayed jump with a 48-pound sack of colored flour and drop straight down for two miles before he pulls the rip cord leaving in his wake a beautiful trail of red, white and blue smoke.

There will be many other feature acts with the American Air Shows, such as a man stepping from an automobile going at the rate of 20 miles per hour without any protection whatever. According to Mr. Bannister of the American Air Shows, you will witness sights at Thorsby Alabama on November 17th that in the past you have only been able to read about in the past.

MISS ANNIE TERRY
Miss Annie Terry, age 42, died at Central Alabama Hospital about 7 a.m. Tuesday, November 12. Funeral will be held at 2:30 p.m. Wednesday at Pleasant Grove Church. Conducted by Rev. G. G. Williams.

She is survived by her father, Mr. H. T. Terry, Maplesville, Ala., three brothers, Taylor and Earnest, Lawley, Ala., and Barney at Maplesville, eight sisters. Nephews served as pallbearers. Spigener in charge.

CLANTON MUSIC APPRECIATION CLUB HOLDS MEETING

Wednesday, November 6th the Clanton Music Appreciation Club was the guests of the Sylacauga Music club at an exchange meeting.

The idea for this meeting originated each May when the president, Mrs. N. P. Christian, was the guest of her sister, Mrs. Percy Pitts at the annual banquet of the Clanton club.

The members of the Clanton club assembled at the home of the president, Mrs. Percy Pitts, and from there motored to the home of Mrs. E. C. Crowell in Sylacauga. Mrs. Crowell received in her most gracious and charming manner in her lovely home. She was assisted by several members of the Sylacauga club.

From the home of Mrs. Crowell the guests were conducted to the auditorium of the Sylacauga Grammar School where the meeting was held, Mrs. Christian presiding.

The welcome address was given by Mrs. Crowell and responded to by Mrs. Luther Little.

Mrs. John Powers gave the topic discussion on American Music which was interspersed by songs of Stephen Foster, sung as duets by Mrs. Earl Ellis and Mrs. Raymond Mims.

Mrs. N. C. Parnell played a piano solo.

Mrs. Ellis and Mrs. Mims each gave a vocal number accompanied by Mrs. Pitts. Miss Elsie Tinker of Thorsby Institute rendered two beautiful piano numbers.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess club.

This meeting will be long remembered by the Clanton Club as a most delightful one. And the club is looking forward to the March meeting when they entertain the Sylacauga Club.

Robot SOS for Planes

A radio transmitter that would automatically reveal the location of an airplane in the event of a crash has been invented by a Pan American Airways employee. The emergency radio would continue to broadcast signals as long as the batteries last. This may be several days. The signals so broadcast would lead searching parties either in airplanes or on the ground provided with radio compasses, to the exact location of the crash, the inventor asserts.

The radio is mounted on springs or on cushions of sponge rubber in the tail of the plane to safeguard it from the impact of a crash. It is insulated against fire by an asbestos "suit."

447 DRAFTEES

Called For Training Beginning December 13th

Four hundred and forty-seven Alabamians will be drafted for a year's military training by Dec. 13, it was learned yesterday from an official quota list to the right States in the Fourth Corps Area.

Of Alabama's 447 conscript quota 313 will be whites; 134 negroes. The total quota of the eight States has been set at 3,283, of which 967 will be negroes.

The reception centers to which these conscripts will be sent for duty assignment and preliminary training were announced as (all white unless otherwise indicated):

Where They Go.
Fort Barrancas, 122; Camp Blanding, Fla., 242; Fort Bragg, 390 whites and 484 negroes; Fort McPherson, 477; Fort Oglethorpe, 395; Camp Shelby, 564 whites and 483 negroes; Fort Jackson, 126.

Although there has been no official assignment, it is expected by Selective Service officials here that some of Alabama's conscripts will be stationed at Camp Blanding along with units of the Alabama National Guard.

These quotas represent the first batch of this area's share of the 800,000 conscripts to be inducted into the service from over the nation by June 15—Montgomery Advertiser.

VOLUNTEERS

May Make It Unnecessary To Draft Anyone Until Next Spring

Washington.—Men are volunteering for one year of training in the Army at a rate that may make it unnecessary to draft anyone until next Spring or Summer, selective service officials said.

Between 200,000 and 500,000 volunteers had been expected, but it was believed that the number would be between 600,000 and 800,000. The Army plans to accept for training only 800,000 this year—400,000 by the middle of March and the remainder by June 15.

The response of volunteers will lighten the load of local draft boards in classifying registrants. Volunteers will be classified to determine that none have dependents or physical defects, or are needed in industry. But the investigation will not be as detailed as in the case of those being examined for draft.

Volunteers would not be likely to appeal from classification, whereas in the case of persons who do not want to go into the Army it would be necessary to determine whether their claims for deferment are justified.

PEANUT CROP IS TOP OF 1938 RECORD

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—A peanut crop for picking and threshing more than 20 per cent larger than the previous record high production of 1938 was forecast by the Agriculture Department Tuesday on the basis of Nov. 1 outlook.

Present indications pointed to a production of 1,574,315,000 pounds, about 2 per cent above the Oct. 1 forecast, and 33 per cent above last year's crop. Estimated production in the Virginia-Carolina area was 501,640,000 pounds, only 3 per cent larger than last year's crop.

In the Southeastern area, this year's indicated production of 850,280,000 pounds exceeded last year's production of $2,240,000 pounds by 60 per cent, while in the Southwestern area the estimate of 222,395,000 pounds was 38 per cent larger than last year.

Floyd News

Last Saturday night prayer service was good and Bro. Wilson brought us a good message. There was a large crowd.

Our Sunday School and B. Y. P. U. was also good but there was not many here on account of the weather being bad.

Next Saturday night and Sunday, Bro. Charley Moates will be with us. Everybody come and be with us.

Don't Forget... your crops will need POTASH in 1941

Preparedness is the keynote in America today. It is not too soon for Southern farmers to be looking ahead to 1941 crop production and income. Checking this year's harvests will disclose where more potash could have been used with profit.

Begin planning now to use enough potash next year, not only to replace the amounts removed from your soil in this year's crops, but to lower your production cost per unit. Rusty cotton, low yields and poor quality of tobacco, corn, vegetable, fruit, and legume crops result if the soil and fertilizer do not supply enough potash. Wherever legumes are grown, more potash is needed to provide for the large amounts removed by these crops or to balance the nitrogen and organic matter supplied when legume crops are turned under.

Your county agent or experiment station will talk over with you what you can expect from your soil if given the right amounts of plant food. Use the high analysis fertilizers recommended. They are cheaper per pound of plant food.

Ask your dealer or manufacturer about fertilizers high in potash. He will tell you that there will be plenty of potash on the market. You will be surprised how little extra it costs to apply enough to prepare you for more income in 1941.

Write us for free information and literature on the profitable fertilization of Southern crops.

FOLKS and THINGS ABOUT TOWN

The News this week carries the Final Statement of the conditions of the City of Clanton as promised by the Mayor and Councilmen during the recent campaign. As promised, it is readable and understandable and every citizen should read and digest every line of it.

A door for the New First National Bank Building has arrived. Now, that it is not new, but this door happens to weigh just a little better than 1000 pounds, being a vault door. Now the question is—who in Clanton can move a vault door—just one block.

A report like this looks good for Clanton's Volunteer Fire Department. Early Friday morning a fire broke out at the Alabama Mills and the local "bribe" answered. Damages: according to information, about thirty-five dollars. About two hours later a call came in from Crown's Mill. Again the locals rushed to the scene of the blaze. Damages: approximately five dollars. The truck was leaving the City Hall within half minute each time the signal sounded.

Morsley White is going to have a new filling station. It appears. Work has already started on a brand new $5,000.00 filling station at the same address. Elsewhere in this issue Horsley explains that he will be unable to continue his fishing and Alighting service but is very anxious than ever to see his friends and customers at the Gas Station. A few more fine buildings like Clanton now has under construction and we'll have to recall some of those carpenters that have been moving over to Anniston.

Speaking of the flow of carpenters and workers to Anniston and other workers to Clanton, where so much construction is going on, we heard a story out of one of the foremen on any other day. The story goes that a new helper came on the job bright and early Monday morning. After watching the fellow for a while the foreman decided that he was green at the side and so told the superintendent that the superintendent watched the progress of the new comer for a while and when he had been carpentering for a while he pulled out his watch, looked at it and replied, "To be exact, mister, it is now thirty-five minutes." No need to say the would be carpenter got pink slip there and then.

Saw Charlie Wade's picture in Sunday's Alabama Journal all dressed up and shaking hands with some dignitary at Montgomery. Charlie had on a hat. "I am not much good at after all. If for no other reason we're glad to see the picture—we found out that Charlie has a hat."

Our bouquet this week will go to the girls who so willingly gave their prizes in aiding the local Red Cross Committee in collecting donations on the streets Saturday—and here's a warning—they'll be after you again on Saturday, so loosen up and give the girls a helping hand.

Dick Hayes, "big boss" down at the Hayes Chevrolet Company was at the local Cafe the other morning for the Cross Breakfast. Dick was Captain of the men's team. When called to make his talk Dick's first words were, "I am not much good at after all. If for no other reason we're glad to see the picture—we found out that Charlie has a hat."

The Pilots served Turkey and dress with all the trimmings at the Methodist Church last Tuesday noon and when all reports it was some feed. We, of course didn't get to go—turkey being a little too rich for our indigestion but reports are that it was a big success.

Dick Hayes, "big boss" down at the Hayes Chevrolet Company was at the local Cafe the other morning for the Cross Breakfast. Dick was Captain of the men's team. When called to make his talk Dick's first words were, "I am not much good at after all. If for no other reason we're glad to see the picture—we found out that Charlie has a hat."

Geo. McCain, local horse and mule dealer, has some interesting snap shots taken by S. E. Scott. They are of the little trick horse that Geo. has named himself. There are at least a dozen different shots and all very good.

Earnest Ratliff Is Injured On Highway

Earnest Ratliff, about 40, who lives one mile west of Pletcher was found at 7:00 o'clock Tuesday morning on the Maplesville Highway seriously injured. It is believed that he is suffering from a fractured skull. Latest reports are that after running over a rabbit, he had evidently opened the door of his truck to see if he had killed it and fell out of the truck. Martin and Sons Ambulance brought him to Central Alabama Hospital where there is grave doubt of his recovery. Alabama Highway Patrolmen are investigating.

70-Year-Old Man Hurt As Car Upsets

Robert Pope, 70, of Calera, suffered a fracture of the right arm and leg and head injuries when an auto in which he was riding overturned several times on the Montgomery Highway late Saturday afternoon. The injured man was taken to Hillman Hospital, where attendants said his condition was critical.

Farmers Are Aided By Defense Boom

Washington.—The Bureau of Agricultural Economics said Saturday that the national defense program was stimulating domestic buying of farm products by boosting incomes of industrial workers. Its monthly report on economic conditions in October said wholesale commodity markets continued to reflect improvement in industrial conditions and in consumer buying power. The general upward trend in commodity prices is expected to be maintained, subject to temporary relapses, the bureau said, adding that it expected no marked rise such as occurred during the World War.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

A special Thanksgiving Sunrise Service will be held in the First Baptist Church at 6:45 o'clock Thursday morning, November 21st.

Regular services are announced for both morning and evening hours of worship on next Sunday, with the pastor in the pulpit. An attendance goal of 300 is set for the Sunday School on Sunday morning. Every Baptist in Clanton is urged to be in attendance, both at the Sunday School and worship. Visitors are cordially invited to attend.

Meetings of the W. M. S. circles will occur on next Monday afternoon, at 3:00 o'clock as follows:

1. Mrs. C. T. Richardson; 2. Mrs. Luther Bean, 3. Mrs. A. C. Smith; 4. Mrs. A. Caloway; 5. Mrs. Oscar A. Davis; 6. Mrs. George McCain.

The week of prayer for Foreign Missions will be observed by the women of this church, December 2-6.

I want try to describe them—just take my word that they are worth seeing.

While driving into our driveway the other night a rabbit ran out into the light beams and across the back yard. We stopped as quickly as possible thinking we might run over a "nigger" or two—but no sir, times sure are getting better—no one was after that rabbit.

Financial Statement Of City of Clanton as of September 30

November 18, 1940
TO THE EDITOR:

You will recall that prior to our recent general election for Mayor and Councilmen, we stated that if elected Mayor we would give to the public a readable statement of the City's financial condition.

If you will read the attached statement and publish same, that the citizens of Clanton may understand our financial condition. We will appreciate your cooperation.

Signed: Mayor and Councilmen,
By C. E. STAPP, Mayor.

Honorable Cohen E. Stapp, Mayor, and Members of the City Council, City of Clanton, Alabama.

Pursuant to engagement, we have made an analysis and review of the financial condition of the City of Clanton, Alabama, as at September 30, 1940. Pertinent facts, as taken from our detailed report on file in office of the City Clerk, are submitted herein.

Scope of Examination
Our procedure was confined to verification and proof of resources and liabilities of the City of Clanton, as shown by the books at September 30, 1940, and establishment of appropriate fund accounts and relationship of funds at that date. With the exception of balance on deposit in banks, and notes payable to banks, we made no outside verification of resources and liabilities.

Subject to the scope of examination, set forth above, it is our opinion that the Combined Balance Sheet and Statement of Revenue and Expenditures, as shown in our report, fairly reflect, respectively, the financial condition of the City of Clanton, Alabama, at September 30, 1940 and the amount and nature of operating expenses of the City for the fiscal year ended September 30, 1940.

Comment on Financial Condition of the City of Clanton, Alabama.
Reference to the Combined Balance Sheet, will show that the aggregate surplus of the City at September 30, 1940, in all funds, was $162,506.61.

The analysis of surplus account, which is explained in our report, clearly shows that while the City of Clanton has a substantial surplus in City properties, less bonds outstanding, the Current General Fund of the City is in such depleted condition that it demands prompt attention.

The books showed the following facts at September 30, 1940: Cash on hand and in Banks, including Sinking Funds, $1,223,011; uncollected Meter Sales $191,001; uncollected Ad Valorem Taxes, dated over period of last five years, $1,133; delinquent Water Accounts, $1,206.80; salary advance to employees,

250 Loans Allotted Chilton County Farm Loan Security

Marvin Durbin, County Supervisor, Farm Security Administration, today announced that Chilton County had been tentatively allotted to make loans for 250 more farmers to finance their 1941 crop. These loans are made to pay off old debts, purchase livestock, tools, food, clothing, feed, seed etc. Mr. Durbin stated that these loans were to be repaid over a period of 5 years at 5 per cent interest, and all farmers who will need a loan to finance their 1941 crop, should make application at an early date in order to avoid the rush. Applications can now be had at the FSA office which is located upstairs, street entrance, Chilton News.

SINGING SOCIETY AT NEW SALEM MET LAST SUNDAY

The New Salem Singing Society met last Sunday afternoon. Although there wasn't many directors, we had a good singing. The directors for the afternoon were as follows: Paul Popwell, Mrs. Beulah Bean, Dock Harris and Curtis Bean. A duet was rendered by Curtis and Margaret Bean. The Friendly Four Quartet gave several numbers and a piano solo was given by Miss Emogene Lowery. Pianist for the afternoon were Eason Maddox and Emogene Lowery. Everyone remembers that we have a singing at New Salem every third Sunday afternoon.

We invite everyone to bring your new books and attend our singing.

HIGHLAND NEWS

All members of this church have a special invitation to be at this place next Sunday, November 24 at 11:00 o'clock for the purpose of calling a pastor for the coming year. It is your duty so we urge all members to be present.

Accident Toll In State Heavy

Montgomery, Ala.—One hundred and thirty-three persons were killed in the total of 765 motor accidents that occurred in Alabama in the period comprising the months of July, August and September.

The current number of "WHERE-WHEN-WHY" issued by the Accident Record Bureau of the State Department of Public Safety, after setting out these figures shows that three out of five of the accidents involved a collision of two or more motor vehicles and that this type of accident accounted for one-third of the casualties.

One out of seven accidents involved a pedestrian and one-third of the 133 persons killed were pedestrians. One fifth of the accidents involved automobiles running off the highway, hitting fixed objects and turning over, a fifth of the fatalities being accounted for by crashes of this kind.

Another third of the total of accidents reported by Highway Patrol officers was made up of collisions where motor vehicles traveling in opposite directions smashed together; and one out of seven accidents involved rear end collisions.

In keeping with previous trends straightaway, level stretches of road were the scenes of nearly three-fourths of the motor accidents. They happened on paved highways when the weather was clear and road surfaces were perfectly dry.

Accidents were most frequent between the hours of seven and eight p. m., and between nine and ten p. m. The six hour period from three to nine p. m. accounted for two-fifths of the accidents reported during each 24 hours.

An old fact developed by the compilation of figures was that the same number of accidents occurred during the hours of darkness that occurred during daylight hours. The week-end days, Saturday and Sunday, continued to lead the day of the week on which accidents were most frequent, contributed 42 per cent of the total.

Of those who were driving when the 765 motor accidents occurred, one-half had been operating an automobile or other motor vehicle for more than 10 years; one-fourth for as long as six years; and only one in every 100 had been driving for less than a year.

Two-thirds of the drivers within 25 miles of the scene of the accident in which they were involved, and one out of every seven were non-residents of this State. More than half of these drivers lived in communities having a population of less than 2500. One out of four accidents involved drinking drivers, but only one out of 20 of these drivers was reported as being obviously under the influence of intoxicants.

Traffic accidents in Chilton County for these three months were ten of which 2 were fatal with seven persons injured in all accidents.

William E. Yerby Passes At Age Of 76 After Brief Illness

Greensboro, Ala.—William E. Yerby, 76, editor of the Greensboro Watchman for 55 years and a former member of the Alabama Legislature, died Friday morning after a brief illness.

He remained actively in charge of the Watchman newspaper here until his death.

A lifelong Methodist Mr. Yerby was the oldest member of the Greensboro Methodist Church and had served as a steward for 50 years.

At the time of his death he was chairman of the Hale County Democratic Executive Committee and member of the county jury commission.

He also had served as mayor of Greensboro and as a member of the city council. In 1908, he wrote and published a history of Greensboro.

Survivors include a daughter, Mrs. J. L. Lawson of Auburn, and three grandchildren, Susan Marie, Mable Taylor and Jimmy Lawson, Jr.

Beacon at Gragg Field Completed

The new beacon at Gragg Field that has been under construction for the past few weeks has been completed. The light is now in operation and had it been completed earlier would probably have saved the lives of the three Army fliers who were killed in a crash near Centerville two weeks ago.

CHANGE OF DATE

The White Christmas program at the Methodist Church of Clanton will be given at 7:00 o'clock December 15, instead of 5:00 o'clock December 22, as formerly announced. Please be liberal at this service in your contributions of cash and produce and gifts to our Children's Home. They will be delivered at the proper time.

MR. J. C. MADDOX PASSES

A $20,000 statue of Jefferson Davis, first president of the Confederate States, gift of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, was unveiled on the State Capitol grounds at Montgomery Tuesday.

W. E. HARRISON PASSES

Friends of State Senator Carl Harrison, here learn with regret that his father, W. E. Harrison, died last Tuesday at Montevallo. The elder Harrison had served Shelby County for many years as County Treasurer and Tax Assessor.

Nearly Six To One

An official canvass of Alabama's presidential election returns, completed Friday afternoon, showed, the Democrats polled a total of 250,726 votes as compared with 42,184 for the Republicans. The vote majority given President Roosevelt for a third term was slightly less than six to one, the record revealed.

The new bridge at Tallahassee has been named Benjamin Fitzpatrick for Alabama's ninth Governor.

FIRST DRAFT

Chilton County To Send Five; Board One 3, Board Two 2

Chilton County will send five draftees for the first military training on first call, it is indicated today. Three will come from Board No. 1, and two from Board No. 2. It is more than likely that these places will be filled by volunteers by the time the call is made.

Transportation for conscripts from home to training post will be provided by the government, according to Aft. General. Ben M. Smith.

"The chairman of the local boards will see the men off and will present the leader with an official certificate of his designation."

"The conscript will be allowed 50 cents for breakfast and lunch; 75 cents for supper. If it is necessary to make a night-long stop-over he will be allowed up to $1.50 for a room."

"The conscript is given a physical examination before being sent off. But a second examination will be given at the induction center. Conducted by an Army doctor, it will be more rigid and some will be found to be physically unfit. Their return trip expenses will be paid at the same rate."

This is the one the conscript will take:

"I, John Doe, do solemnly swear that I will bear true faith and allegiance to the United States of America; that I will serve them honestly and faithfully against all enemies whomsoever; and that I will obey the orders of the President of the United States and the orders of the officers appointed over me, according to the rules and articles of war."

That charity is bad which takes from independence its proper pride, and from modesty its proper shame. — Somber.

County Red Cross Leaders To Meet

Leaders in Chilton County of the War Relief Production Program are urged to attend a meeting to be held in the building formerly occupied by the Dixieland Dairy in the Exchange Hotel Building next Monday morning.

All ladies in Chilton County who are interested in this work are cordially invited to attend and help out with this program.

Plenty of materials with which to work will be on hand according to Mell Martin, in charge of the meeting. Remember the time and place. Exchange Hotel Building at 10:00 o'clock Monday November 25th.

From what we read in the papers, Governor Dixon has been saving a lot of money since he became Governor, but his "pet eaters" demanded meringue on their pie, so he had to turn what he saved over to them.

Financial Statement

to meet estimated cash requirements for the year ending September 30, 1941. Estimated cash requirements include operating expense, payment of notes and accounts payable at September 30, 1940 and retirement of bonds and interest on bonds.

Bonded Indebtedness
As shown in detail on Page 33 of our complete report, the City of Clanton has outstanding bonds including Water Revenue Bonds totalling $154,000.00 at September 30, 1940.

Particular attention is directed to Old Water Works General Obligation Bonds amounting to $25,000.00 dated April 1, 1914 and which become payable on April 1, 1944. Provision must be made for retirement of these bonds on the date shown as no sinking fund has been established for this purpose.

It is noted from files of the City of Clanton that total assessed valuation of property in your City is shown as $1,510,626.00. Eight, (8) percent of this sum is $120,850.08 which represents approximate debt limit of the City. Outstanding bonds plus current debts at September 30, 1940, less legal exemption of 25 percent of estimated revenue for the current year, leave an apparent margin of approximately $3,500.00 before debt limit is reached.

We have attempted in this resume to direct attention to only the most important aspects of the City's financial position. For further particulars you are referred to our complete report, a copy of which is on file with the City Clerk.

Yours very truly,
SCREVEN & SCARBOROUGH,
J. O. Screven,
Certified Public Accountant.

JAMES W. DAVENPORT DIES

These statistics are obtained from the records of the County Health Department and are published for the purpose of showing a better registration of births and deaths. Filing of a certificate for births and deaths with local registrars is made compulsory by the State Vital Statistics law. Responsibility for filing birth certificates within five days after the birth rests on the physician or midwife in attendance; undertakers or persons in charge of burials are required by law to obtain a burial permit before the body is interred. Such permits are obtainable only on the presentation of a completed death certificate to the registrar in the beat in which the death occurred.

Anyone having knowledge of births or deaths occurring during October and not included in the above list should report this matter to the County Health Office immediately.

Chilton Tigers Win Over Montevallo 12-0

CLANTON, Ala.—The Chilton county Tigers under the leadership of Coach F. H. Spicer, ended their 1940 season last week by defeating Montevallo High 12 to 0. The Tigers lost only one game this season, those going to Selma and Centerville.

Coach Spicer reports that prospects for the 1941 squad are bright, and a better team is in the spotlight, although they will lose four linemen by graduation, J. Smith, Williams, Burson and Captain Readley. The backfield will all be back with the exception of Quarterback Charles Thomas.

The deeds of charity we have done shall stay with us forever. Only the wealth we have bestowed do we keep; the other is not ours.—Middleton.

The man who confers a kindness should be silent concerning it; he who receives it should proclaim it.—Seneca.

Give work rather than alms to the poor. The former drives out indolence, the latter industry. Tryon Edwards.

A Christmas Story

Santa and Mysto Conspire!

When Christmas Came

BRICE HARPER stepped from her train happily. A whole month, with Christmas only ten days away. That meant nearly three weeks for after-Christmas jollification, skating, visiting round with old friends and just squatted before the big fireplace reading and talking. Wouldn't Aunt Margaret and Uncle Jake be pleased and surprised, for she had not written. After three steady, grinding, monotonous years in the department store, it would be heavenly.

She flashed a look down the platform. Yes, there was wooden-legged Sam, the expressman. Things hadn't changed a bit in three years.

"Hoo-hoo!" she challenged.

The old expressman looked up, stared, then turned forward.

"Blest if 'tain't Brice Harper!" he cried. "Back among your old friends ag'in. Fine! Come to stay, or a-visitin'?"

House Is Deserted.

"Just visiting, Uncle Sam—two whole weeks, though. Out to Aunt Margaret Holmes. After three years! I'd never have believed I could stay away that long. But 500 miles—too far for a poor girl to afford paying fare for a few days' vacation. Now it's a month, though, because I haven't taken a vacation in so long. Can you take me and my trunk right out? I'll ride with you, and—"

"Ain't ye heered—had no letter nor nothin'?" asked the old man, whose face had been growing troubled.

"No-no. Anything the matter?"

"No, except they ain't there. Your Aunt Marg'ret said Christmas was so lonesome here she couldn't spend another like the last. So two, three days ago she an' your Uncle Jack went into the next county to spend Christmas with a cousin who has a passel o' children. I was by there yee-day, an' that house did look dismal all shot up."

"Isn't there any one to look after it?"

"One o' the Dill boys was asked to, I b'lieve. He—"

A shrill hail came from a store front across from the station.

"S-say, Brice," wheedled the old expressman, "would ye mind waitin' three, four seasons? That mad shouter was Storekeeper Tomson. Been 'spectin' a box o' Christmas stuff more'n a week, an' 'twas jest throwed off this train. S'pose I take the box 'cross to him, he'll come an' carry you an' the trunk out to any o' your girl friends? They'll all be glad to have ye visit 'em."

But Brice had been thinking rapidly.

Invites Girl Friends.

"Take the box over to the store, Uncle Sam," she said, "and I'll run across to the post office while you're gone. I want to write some postals. And no, I won't embarrass any of my girl friends. You may carry me right out to the farmhouse. I know where Aunt Margaret hides the keys, and I'm perfectly sure she and Uncle Jack would want me to go right there and use everything as my own. I'll take care of the poultry," enthusiastically, "and I'll roast one of the turkeys for Christmas and cook everything that goes with it, pies and cakes and all. Won't it be fun?"

"You can invite a lot of your girl friends to eat with you," grinned the expressman, entering into the spirit.

"Afterward," agreed Brice. "They'll all want to eat at home on Christmas. Then we'll have a round

CHILTON COUNTY RED CROSS

ROLL CALL NEARING QUOTA

—O—

Approximately Two-Thirds Of Amount Is Already Raised

With Number Of County Workers Unreported

—O—

Reports from Chairman Cohen E. Stapp Wednesday morning indicate that Chilton County will go well over their quota in the 1940 American Red Cross Roll Call. With all of the local workers reporting there has been turned in nearly $600. One hundred six dollars of this amount was from workers outside of Clanton. Fifty dollars represents the amount raised by the workers on the down-town streets last Saturday. These workers will be in their places again Saturday November 24.

Chairman Stapp urges all who have not made their donation to please do so at once, either by contacting a worker or mailing it directly to him. Those workers in the County who have not reported are asked to turn their collections in as soon as possible.

ANNOUNCEMENT

The Homemakers class of Clanton Baptist church, will have their Christmas party on Friday, December 20, at 7 o'clock in the basement of the church. All members who have not drawn somebody's name for the Christmas tree and wish to do so, please get in touch with Mrs. Spurgeon Calloway immediately.

Mrs. Geo. H. Rogers of Washington, D. C. has been visiting her mother, Mrs. B. W. Ware.

Miss Lona Thompson spent last week end in Montgomery.

Mrs. Jack Crowder and little son are visiting her mother in Birmingham this week.

Miss Helen Moore is spending the Thanksgiving holidays at home.

"Why didn't you write so I'd have known what to expect?" retorted Brice.

"Lucky none of us did," laughed Aunt Margaret, "for then we might not have these five extra nice girls. Come, I must get into the kitchen."

"But we've cooked and cooked, and cooked, till—"

"Not enough," declared Aunt Margaret firmly, "no matter how much friends that must be invited to come—though they'll come anyhow. And we must invite a lot of extra young people in evenings to help keep things going. Then—my land! There's a wagon-load outside. Cousin Mary didn't want us to leave, so we brought 'em all along. Jack's going into town this evening to buy what he can find. If any of your girls want to go along he'd like your company."

"But, Aunt Margaret, we've got a tree jam-packed full," protested Brice.

"Not enough," firmly. "We can pack on the floor under the tree. Now I'm going into the kitchen. Can't you see, girls," her firm voice dropping pathetically, "being Christmas, I've just got to cook something."

German Priest and Schoolmaster Wrote 'Silent Night'

"SILENT NIGHT," the favorite Christmas carol, was written by a German country priest and his friend, the schoolmaster of a neighboring village, for a Christmas now a century gone. After its first use in 1818, in a little Austrian town, it gradually made friends until it came to be known in all Germany and, in translation, in many other countries, observes a writer in the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The author of the verses of "Silent Night!" was Joseph Mohr, born in Salzburg, Austria, in 1792. He was ordained a priest in 1815, and when he wrote the song was assistant at Laufen, on the Salz, near Salzburg. Later he held pastorates in various other places, and died in 1848.

The schoolmaster of Arnsdorf, near Laufen, who wrote the music of this and also of a number of lesser known hymns, was Franz Gruber, born in Hochburg in 1797.

NEWS ITEM: At the November 5th election the voters of Idaho, South Dakota, and Nevada approved constitutional amendments to guarantee that gasoline tax and registration fee revenues will be used solely for highway improvements. To date eleven states, as shown in the cartoon, have erected constitutional barriers of this kind to prevent the raising of highway funds.

Clanton's Population More Than Doubled In Past 10 Years... Chilton County Increase 3,684. The Population, Geographical and Hydro-Electric Power Center of Alabama. Chief Occupations—Farming, Dairying, Cattle Raising, Fruits, Vegetables, Melons, Berries, Forest Products. Fine Fishing, Splendid Opportunity for Locating Small Industrial Plants.

CLANTON NEEDS: A RECREATIONAL CENTER—A CHILLING PLANT—STOCK YARD—CANNING PLANT—SYRUP PROCESSING PLANT—KNITTING MILL

Self Preservation

Economic self preservation demands that every farmer, and every individual in Chilton County who is in possession of or controls a plot of ground, begin right now to use that farm or plot of ground for the purpose of producing every item of food and feed that it can be made to yield up.

The world is consuming far more than is being produced in the way of food and feeds, and not many months hence more than half the world's population is going to be face to face with starvation—the direct result of this non-sensical and terribly destructive war which is still spreading throughout the land.

Tons and tons of food and feedstuffs are coming into Chilton County, every pound of which should be produced right here on our own farms—first for the consumption of our own people—the surplus to go to the industrial centers.

Financially Chilton County has little to depend upon, other than its agriculture and kindred activities, and if we continue to send what money we have to other states for commodities which we can produce ourselves, there will come a time when, instead of being at the top among Alabama's blessed counties, we will find ourselves rapidly slipping towards the bottom.

Economic self preservation demands that we begin to do something about it, and that we begin right now.

Cave Dwellers

Great numbers of Earth's humans have again become cave dwellers, and for the same reason that they were thousands of years ago forced to live in holes in the ground: Protection from marauding beasts.

Old Mark Tucker felt so good over the election results in Chilton County that he never wrote a line for his page in the last week's Chilton County News, but went home and went to sleep for a week.—Alexander City Outlook.

W. E. W. Yerby

When W. E. W. Yerby, veteran editor of The Greensboro Watchman, laid aside his pen and went home to rest, Alabama's Fourth Estate lost one of its noblest, kindest, gentlest spirits. He was a living definition of the word Gentleman.

Would that more men like Will Yerby were being born into the world and fewer dying. Another sweet spirit has joined the Choir Invisible.

Alabama's Official 1941 Highway Map

We have just received Alabama's new official highway map from Curtis J. Sherlock, State Highway Director, and we are proud to say that it is the most attractive piece of advertising that the State has ever sent out. It is really an artistic gem. We have official maps of practically every State in the Union, and Alabama's new map outshines them all. It will do much good in the way of attracting visitors and tourists from other States who will come to feast upon the beauties and enjoy the blessings of Alabama, "The Star of the South."

Winning The War

H. G. Wells, the English novelist, who recently spoke in Birmingham, said the British won the war at Dunkirk. We rather believe, if Britain loses the war, it will be because the army deserted its allies—the Dutch, Belgians and French at Dunkirk—and when the British navy fired on and killed many of its French allies on their own defenseless French ships at Oran.

You said it: hog jowl and sweet potatoes.

No more elections until 1942. That year a governor and many other State and County officials will stand for nomination and election in Alabama. The third term issue may be injected into the Governor's race. If you know what I mean.—The Greensboro Watchman.

We know what you mean all right and are already scared, not knowing just exactly what to do about the whole thing.—Alexander City Outlook.

Make it unanimous. You know what I mean.

MORAL ECHOES

REV. D. W. HASKEW, D.D.

A negro man owed me two dollars, and he still owes the same amount, but he told me that he was going to pay me on Monday night without fail. The night passed and he did not come. Tuesday morning I went to see him and he came forth with his sad story. Said he, "Boss, I am truly sorry that I did not get there with the money last night and to show you how sorry I really am, I am laid off my job today to tell you." I knew that the Negro was paid two dollars a day for his labor at a saw mill, and so I proceeded to tell him that he could have made the two dollars that day if he had reported for duty and left word that he would bring it in that night. Do you ever hear of like bad business practices by both white and black? Men will lose a day to tell one whom they owe that they can not pay. If a man is going to pay his debts, he has got to make every moment count.

I remember the day when I nourished a queer idea about how we were to get God's best gifts to men. I thought that God had them stored up on shelves, one above another, and the tallest people in character got the choice blessings from the top shelves. I am now growing to see things in a different light. To be sure God has His gifts stored on shelves, one above the other, but growing taller is not the way to get them. The way to God's best gifts to man is not the way up, but the way down. We have got to stoop low in humility to reach them, and the more humble we become, the more easily can we lay hold upon God's best gifts to us.

In a church at Copenhagen there is a statue in marble that represents Christ as He utters that invitation, "Come unto Me all ye that labor and are heavy laden and I will give you rest." A noted traveler came to see the statue and while standing at a distance in a critical manner, he showed signs of disappointment upon his face. A little girl standing near by seeing that he was disappointed said to him, "Mr. if you want to see that statue as it is you will have to go near the foot of the Master and look up into his face, while kneeling upon your knees. The traveler did so and while in that position he looked up as he thought of the great invitation and the tears streamed from his eyes. It is impossible to come to Christ in a critical attitude and see Him as he is. Humility is a crowning virtue of life and it beautifies every living soul.

Do you know who is really a great man? He is one who knows his business and knows that he knows it. A great man is one who is usually right in his opinions and knows that he is right. He is one who marks out a path for good and walks in it himself. He is one who knows justice and measures it out in every deal. He is one who lives in the light of truth and brightness that light with his living. Yet the man does not think too highly of himself because he knows and does these things. A great man goes on in his greatness, never expecting people to fall down and worship him because of what he is doing. I love to refer to Dr. Carver at Tuskegee as a really great man because he works and gives God the praise. He has wrought wonders in the Scientific world and yet he claims that he is nothing but God's hand, through which he passes His blessings to the world.

A high churchman came to George Whitefield and in a critical way stated that he did not believe that John Wesley was ever converted. He asked of Whitefield if he thought that they would ever see John Wesley in heaven? The keen Evangelist replied, "No, I do not think that you and I will get to see much of John Wesley in heaven. He will be so close up to the eternal throne, that we will rarely ever see him." That is what I call pushing the truth where the truth should be. The man who thinks that he is "Something," it matters not if he is a preacher, should have the feathers picked from him sometimes. It is not the critical and the fault finding who will get close to the throne of glory.

"Build-Up" for Women Helps Avoid Distress

Do you suffer periodically from headaches, nervousness, irritability, cramp-like pain?

If so, here's good news! These may be symptoms of functional dysmenorrhea due to malnutrition, often helped by CARDUI.

CARDUI usually increases appetite and the flow of gastric juice; so aids digestion and helps build up strength, energy, physical resistance. Result: many less periods of distress. Or you may find this also helps ease your periodic discomfort. Take CARDUI a few days before and during "the time." 50 years of use and popularity invite your confidence in CARDUI.

17,500 miles of Alabama highways, roads and streets were constructed or improved by WPA in 5 years. Typical items shown above are:

(1) A long concrete span in South Alabama. (2) A hard surfaced farm-to-market road. (3) Another of the 1,990 concrete bridges and viaducts. (4) Some of the 212 miles of WPA-improved walks. (5) A large native stone culvert. (6) A WPA State and county hard surfaced highway. (7) A 4-span native stone bridge.

Motorists Should Watch Bus Stops

Between the hours of six-thirty and eight in the morning, three and four-thirty in the afternoon three thousand school children of Chilton County are on Chilton County roads. During these hours many of them are either getting or alighting from buses. At such times all motorists are urged to be very careful. A little carelessness may cause the loss of some child's life.

It is reported that many motorists are passing school buses while children are getting in or alighting from the bus. Some of these motorists are driving at high rates of speed. Such practices endanger the lives of school children and are against the law. An act passed by the Legislature in 1935 reads: "Section 1. That every person using, operating or driving a motor vehicle upon or over the roads and highways of the State of Alabama shall, when approaching a school bus, or other vehicle engaged in transporting school children, bring said motor vehicle to a complete stop, while said school bus, or other vehicle used in transporting school children, is engaged in taking on or discharging school children."

Section 2. That any person violating this Act shall upon conviction be punished by a fine not to exceed three hundred ($300.00) dollars, or by imprisonment in the County jail not to exceed ninety (90) days, or both, at the discretion of the court.

Now some motorists have the idea that if they are traveling in the opposite direction from that of the bus they are not required to stop. Such is not the case. Any vehicle when approaching a school bus must "stop while said vehicle is engaged in taking on or discharging school children."

Motorists are urged to cooperate in this matter so that Chilton's record may be kept free from accidents.

A Strange Coincidence

One of the many strange war-made coincidences took place yesterday in Tuscaloosa. Mrs. Frederick E. Roberts of Holt, a native of England, received a message from her family in London via a motion picture newsreel.

She had not heard from her two sisters or other relatives in England for several months. Last year she had planned to visit them, when war came. Yesterday, Mrs. Roberts went to a local theatre. She was indeed amazed and delighted when a newsreel showed her two sisters, several cousins and an uncle, in a London air raid shelter. One of the sisters "sent a message" to Mrs. Roberts by the talking movie. Her message was:

"Hello. We are all well and happy, and where Hitler can't get us."

Mrs. Roberts has not actually seen her relatives since she came to this country in 1920 after her marriage. Her husband, a boiler-maker for the Central Foundry Company, was at one time in the U. S. Navy. She is a sister-in-law of Mrs. James A. Thomas of Tuscaloosa.

To speak of something being 99% "perfect" is to indicate that it is about as nearly perfect as a thing can be. You may even refer to your electric service as being 99% perfect when talking to a friend about the excellent, dependable service you get.

If so, we appreciate your compliment; however, 99% isn't good enough. There are 8,760 hours in a year. 1% of that is 87 hours and 36 minutes; or three and two-thirds days, during which you would be without electric service each year if it were only 99% perfect! Compare that with the rare—AND SHORT—occasions when the current is off . . . and then usually only as a result of causes beyond our control.

To the extent humanly possible, our ideal is 100% perfect electric service.

TURKEY DAY IN DIXIE

By Irvin S. Lande

In the heart of the Black Belt, at Uniontown, Alabama, the first annual Turkey Day Festival took place on November 11th, 1940, the day of Armistice. A drizzling rain dampened the hopes of many spectators who were here to see the extravaganza. But promptly at noon, the rain packed itself up and left, and a bright sunshine put Uniontown's hopes soaring for the most successful of all occasions. The rain once gone, the crowd began to think that it was really Turkey Day and that all were here for a grand time.

At 9:00, the day officially opened with a Band Concert, but following that, the parade of floats dominated the afternoon's festivities. The floats, depicting everything from the Mayflower and the Pilgrims to the Modern Miss Turkey, numbered about twenty-five, and the winning float was the one sent by the City of Linden. Other floats that won in their respective groups, were the floats of the Demopolis Parent-Teachers Association, and the Wolford Oil Company.

The float of the City of Uniontown was not eligible for the contest, but probably was the prettiest there, and from that float the first Queen of Turkey Day was presented—Miss Martha Brown as Martha Lisa.

After the floats were presented, and after the afternoon speakers had had their share of barbecue, the afternoon followed through with a football game between Marion Military Institute and St. Bernard College, ending with Marion upholding the larger side of the 26-6 score. But those who did not desire to see the football game, went either to the picture show for the afternoon or watched the Canbrake in action when it really lets loose.

After various turkey shoots, turkey novelties, turkey derbies, turkey flights, and turkey calling contest, Uniontown and its visitors stepped out in a street dance from 5:00 until 6:30. Obvious reason for the street dance was to limber up some steps for the big ball of the evening.

And all this had taken place while 15,000 turkeys were being sold, at a price averaging 20 cents per pound. One large bird, a 28-pound one, was bought by Mrs. F. T. Haisford, publisher of the Selma Times-Journal. It will be sent to President Roosevelt as a gift for his Thanksgiving Day dinner.

And then, a portion of the 10,000 visitors attended the Governor's Banquet, at which Governor Dixon said that the carnival was "another departure from our cotton economy . . . Alabama is becoming more and more self-supporting."

After the banquet, attended by those 400 who were lucky enough to get a seat, Jan Garber, the "Idol of the Air Lines," and his Orchestra played for the grand climax of the day, which reached into the break of dawn on Tuesday. Jan Garber and his organization, graciously autographing souvenirs for fans, found popular acceptance among all the dancers, to whom a good time was not to be denied. Those who managed to get up after the dance the following day probably had but one opinion—Southern hospitality was ably shown by Uniontown in its successful Turkey Day.

Many men will be employed in this new, ultra-modern plant of the Marigold Coal Mining Company near Jasper, Ala.

NEW ENTERPRISE FOR THE SOUTH

By November 15, it is expected that coal colored yellow for identification will be moving from the new MARIGOLD Coal mine in Jasper, Alabama.

This mine located 9 miles from Jasper is served by the Alabama Central Railroad, which connects at Jasper, with the Southern, the Frisco and Illinois Central. The coal is mined from the famous Alabama Black Creek Seam. The newest and most modern coal preparation plant in the South is now nearing completion at the MARIGOLD site. This plant incorporates all modern screening and preparation equipment, including a washer.

To help meet the rapidly increasing demand for stoker coal this new mine will make a specialty of stoker sizes.

This new mine will employ a considerable number of men and will provide one of Jasper's largest payrolls. It is the first mine in the South to trade mark its coal by coloring. The lump and nut sizes of coal will be colored a golden yellow and the stoker sizes will be trade marked by yellow and black trade mark labels scattered in the coal. The primary territory in which Marigold coal will be sold and merchandised includes Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Tennessee, Georgia, Florida, Arkansas and Missouri.

W. G. Parrott of Kansas City is President of MARIGOLD Coal Mining Company and the wholesale distribution will be handled exclusively by the Southern Coal Company from their offices located in Memphis, Nashville, Knoxville, New Orleans, Atlanta and Birmingham.

Notice To Registrants And To The Public

By Chilton County Local Boards Numbers 1 and 2

November 9, 1940

The Selective Service Regulations provide:

Mailing a Questionnaire (Form 40) by the Local Board to the registrant is notice that the process of "classification and selection" with regard to that registrant has begun. Each day his Local Board will post at its office a notice of the order numbers of the registrants to whom Questionnaires have been mailed that day.

This Local Board keeps in its office a Classification Record (Form 100). On this Classification Record will be entered the date each action is taken by this Board or the Board of Appeal concerning each registrant. The entry of this date in the Classification Record is notice of the action taken. Other notice will be mailed to each registrant at his address known by the Local Board, and to any other person who files a claim for him.

Either the mailing of a notice or the entry in the Classification Record of the date the notice was mailed shall constitute notice to the registrant and all concerned. This is true whether or not the mailed notice is actually received by the person to whom it is addressed.

Any person required by law to register, or any registrant, who fails to perform a duty required by the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940, within time provided by the law (generally 5 days), has violated the law. A person violating the law is subject to trial in the United States District Court, which may impose a fine or imprisonment or both.

The date when action was taken by the Local Board will be written in the Classification Record in each of the following instances:

Whenever a period of time begins to run within which a registrant is to perform a duty.

Whenever a period of time begins to run within which a registrant may claim a privilege.

All registrants and other persons concerned should examine from time to time the notices posted by the Local Board and the Classification Record. The Classification Record is open to inspection by the public during the Board's business hours.

The Gambling Mania

That gambling has become a widespread mania in America anyone acquainted with existing conditions must admit. Perhaps gambling has always been a mania, is essentially a mental and moral derangement. Certain it is that gambling results in moral perversion, and certain it is that it has become a frenzied craze in this land of ours during recent years. There are more devices for gambling, more forms in which games of chance are pursued, more people who take part in some kind of gambling than we have ever known. Men, women, youths and even children are caught in this madness. We have seen crowds standing round a slot machine filled with nickels, dimes and quarters; we have heard the excited conversation in groups where some story of a big winning made each one want to "try his luck"; we have heard of bridge parties and poker games where the men and women spent hours in feverish playing for prizes, "pools" or "pots"; we have read in the daily papers of the betting on all sorts of games, races and matches; we have heard of school children using their lunch money to feed the slot machines with the hope of winning a larger amount.

Concerning all this gambling mania we have just two things to say at this time. First, those forms of gambling which are contrary to the laws of our State should be stopped by the legal authorities. For the protection of the purse of the people, for the prevention of the habit which is ruinous in its effects, for the punishment or expulsion of professional gamblers these laws which were enacted for the good of the people should be enforced with vigor. In a few places we have noted that the authorities have waged a determined campaign against all these gambling devices and dens of vice with the most salutary results in the community life. The same should be done everywhere.

In the second place, our preachers and church leaders should teach the evils of gambling to the young people and urge them to abstain from it in every form, and our church members should themselves refuse to engage in anything that has the gambling feature connected with it. If this were done consistently by all the members of the Christian churches of the United States the wholesome effects would be apparent in a very short time. That any church, or any organization within the church, could conduct or approve the raffling of a quilt or cake or automobile for the benefit of the church seems almost incredible; and yet we have heard that such has been done in this gambling mania, as in every other form of wrong-doing, we should take earnest heed to the exhortation of the apostle Paul and "abstain from all appearances of evil"—Alabama Christian Advocate.

First Ford Goes Home From Fair

HOMeward bound from the World's Fair in New York, here's Henry Ford's very first horseless buggy. It is one of many World's Fair wonders which you can see by visiting Henry Ford's famed Greenfield Village and the Edison International Museum in Dearborn, Michigan.

The Ford Motor pavilion is preserving all its outstanding attractions. They will be set up in newly constructed exhibit rooms in Dearborn. They are the most spectacular displays of the seven-acre Ford Exposition at the Fair. It will cost $250,000 to house and install them. The public is invited to view them without cost.

This first Ford was completed in 1896, three years after Henry Ford got an inspiration for a gasoline motor at another world's fair in Chicago. Ever since then, he has shown a unique interest in great expositions, combining with them other stimulation and education to other young men.

Ford pavilion officials packed this museum piece like a Sultan's jewel. The carpenter in this photo is rolling the carriage into a fir plywood box to make sure that the dimensions are exactly right. Afterward, he completed the waterproof paper lining of the case. Then he built struts on which to suspend the car by its frame within the case. Every glass and wood surface that touched the case was wrapped with felt padding and paper.

The Ford was then lifted, in its case, into a plain stage truck, and it was driven to Dearborn.

Farmers May Secure Income From Trees

By Dr. Walter B. Jones, Director of Conservation

Christmas without a decorative tree of holly, cedar or pine in the house is unthinkable to thousands of people in Alabama. The long established custom of having a gaily-lighted tree at Yuletide is as much a part of the observance as the traditional Christmas dinner or the exchange of gifts.

Every season thousands of small trees are cut, transported to the urban markets and sold as Christmas trees. Some are offered for sale by the owners of the land upon which they grew, but many are the products of a form of vandalism that has spread rapidly in this State in recent years. By this I mean that certain unscrupulous persons trespass on property, steal the trees and sell them at market. There is a great need to curb the illegal use of cedar, holly and other decorative trees.

The Alabama Federation of Garden Clubs is now engaged in a statewide campaign to put an end to this theft of trees, and the Department of Conservation heartily endorses the move and offers its cooperation through the Department's division of forestry.

The commercial production of Christmas trees offers the farmer and landowner a potential income that compares favorably with timber production—provided some method can be devised to halt the depredations of cedar and holly vandals. A small cedar or holly tree, suitable for Christmas decoration, usually sells for one dollar, and that is as much as the tree would be worth for timber 15 or 20 years later. Raising of Christmas trees for the market enables the owner to make something out of his trees while they are young, without having to wait years for the tree to grow up.

As suggested by the Garden Clubs, the tagging of trees grown by farmers on their own property will do much toward putting a stop to illegal cutting and sale of trees. Municipal control of tree-selling markets also will help. The 100,000 colored posters that the garden clubs are sending out bearing the legend "Be Sure Your Christmas Tree Has A Tag" undoubtedly will prove valuable in the campaign.

Fred Taylor, political writer for the Birmingham News, made every effort last Sunday to justify the increased expenditures of the Dixon administration over previous ones, but without much success. He couldn't put it over for his friend Dixon—Colbert County Reporter.

Giving an added "personal" touch to an electric refrigerator Christmas gift is accomplished in an effective and attractive way this year, Big Four Hardware Co., Frigidaire appliance dealers here announces by means of a sterling silver medal placed on the refrigerator door which may be engraved either with the name of the receiver or with the words "Christmas 1940."

"We are living in a realistic age," Mr. Jones said; "and most persons recognize the value of a practical Christmas Gift. But this doesn't mean that sentiment need be lacking in its selection and presentation.

"The engraved sterling silver medal we are offering with each refrigerator Christmas gift is a perfect way of having this Christmas day remembered for years. In fact, the medal will be a part of the refrigerator during its entire period of use.

"Any woman who does not now have an electric refrigerator or whose mechanical refrigerator is out-dated, and therefore lacking in modern convenience and economy, has a definite interest in wanting a modern electric refrigerator. Add the silver medal to the refrigerator and you have a perfect gift combination."

Anyone who wishes the medalion attached to the refrigerator, Mr. Jones said, may have it without extra cost.

UNCLE NATCHEL RETURNS IN A NEW RADIO SERIES

An old favorite, Uncle Natchel, returns to the airwaves on Sunday, Nov. 24th. For the fifth consecutive season, the Natural Chilean Nitrate folks present this lovable old Negro character with the group of young folks. Uncle Natchel will continue the type of program that has proved so popular in the past—dramatized stories of highlights and sidelights of early Southern history. The young folks will supply the many old songs which always have been a feature of the Uncle Natchel program.

Important stations all over the South will carry the new Uncle Natchel series. The Chilean Nitrate folks invite you to listen to all Uncle Natchel programs. Exact hour of each broadcast will be listed in the radio time tables in all newspapers which publish a radio listing.

Archer's Chapel

The Alabama Congregational-Christian Conference formally extended fellowship to Archer's Chapel as a Congregational church in the Clanton-Larue Parish last Sunday. Dr. F. P. Essinger, superintendent of the conference, gave the right hand of fellowship to Mrs. Jady Porter, secretary of Archer's Chapel.

Dr. Essinger explained to the church some of the characteristics of the Congregational Church in an effective manner. Miss Margaret Davison, head of the work for young people of this state, also offered the young people of the church her hearty cooperation. The sermon was delivered by Rev. Luther Ballou.

Thursday, Nov. 21st, Mr. Ballou will preach the Thanksgiving sermon at Archer's Chapel at 3:00 p.m. After the service plans will be discussed for the formation of a Women's Society of the church, likewise arrangement will be made for a Christmas program.

UNCLE SAM SEEN AS A BIG BROTHER TO THE WORLD

Henry Ford Thinks United States Can Call Halt On War At The Proper Time

James L. Kilgallen, I. N. S. Staff Correspondent interviews Henry Ford.

New York, N. Y.—Henry Ford visualizes the United States as the future "big brother" among nations of the world so that—"at the proper time"—it can call a halt on war.

He does not think that this country will get into the war as a belligerent.

In an exclusive interview, Mr. Ford attributed the cause of war to "pure ignorance" on the part of the people whose nations are involved in the gigantic conflict.

"If either Great Britain or Germany wins the war, there will be another war," Mr. Ford said.

"If neither side wins, and America is the 'big brother' and makes them quit this senseless fighting, that will put an end to war. Then, the people can go back to work the land of their countries and produce for their own benefit, and for the benefit of mankind."

"I hope neither side wins. I don't think either side will win. I think this is going to be the last war. Whoever wins will lose, paradoxical as that may sound."

Discussing America's national defense activities and the prospect that eventually that slack of unemployment will be taken up, the famous Detroit automobile manufacturer announced he was for the continuance of the eight-hour day and the five-day week.

"We instituted the five-day week twenty-six years ago—and it works," Ford asserted. "We have no trouble with our employees. We pay them well over the union scale, and see to it that they are never over-tired in mind or body."

Leads In Pay Increases

(In 1914 Ford started the world with his $5 minimum wage and his reduction of the working day from ten hours to eight. In 1922 he increased the minimum daily wage to $6, and in 1926 adopted a five-day week of forty hours. After the stock market crash in 1929, when President Hoover was urging industry not to cut wages, Ford increased every man on his payroll to a minimum of $7 per day. It was then, and still is, his belief that the influence of high wages and earned leisure stimulates production and contributes to prosperity.)

I talked with Mr. Ford in his private car, "Fair Lane," parked on a siding in Grand Central Station. He had come to New York to receive the Holland Society's gold medal and diploma in recognition of his "eminence in science."

He went to Wendell L. Willkie, New Jersey, told his followers, that he was stepping down as their leader. At least, Mr. Lewis had the magnanimity to admit that he was defeated.

And on the last Monday, Mr. Lewis, at the CIO convention in Atlantic City, New Jersey, told his followers, that he was stepping down as their leader. At least, Mr. Lewis had the magnanimity to admit that he was defeated.

Because labor unions did play such an important part in the Presidential campaign, there is more than enough reason to see why the conventions of the two big labor parties are so important this year. The American Federation of Labor is meeting at New Orleans, and the CIO is meeting at Atlantic City.

And on the eve of the conventions, President Roosevelt acted to fill the vacancy in the National Labor Relations Board. Former Chairman J. Warren Madden was not reappointed.

That Board's head, and speculation concerning his successor followed. Finally, Dr. Harry A. Mills, a Chicago educator and labor expert, was nominated to replace Madden. His appointment is designed to satisfy both groups and perhaps employers as well.

In the nomination of Dr. Mills, it is interesting to note, the Labor Board is without any lawyer-member. Hence then, for the future days to come, there will probably be a more practical rather than legislative, approach to the problems arising under the Wagner Act.

President Roosevelt wants three things from the two labor unions. He wants approval of all aid to Britain short of war, complete cooperation in the national defense program, and readjustment and new leadership to permit reconciliation of the two organizations into a unified labor union movement.

In return, the labor unions want stricter enforcement of the National Labor Relations Act and the Wage and Hour Law, sound enforcement of the labor standards laid down by the Defense Commission, and replacement of Miss Frances Perkins as Secretary of Labor by some union leader.

The AFL will probably grant all that, favoring all possible aid to Britain, and the Administration wants. The AFL is in accordance with Administration policies. But the CIO, Mr. Lewis, the isolationist, is bitterly against Mr. Sid. Hillman, the Defense Commissioner, who favors aid to Britain vigorously.

Ironically enough, though, both organizations have pledged themselves to act in the best interests of the nation by not fighting with one another in this crisis, but neither of the two groups interpret that pledge as one which asks themselves to sacrifice some of their individual prestige. The AFL already has succeeded in forcing contractors, building army cantonments to yield to its demands for time and one half or double time for week end and holiday work. The CIO has now called a strike at the Vultee Aircraft Corporation to obtain a collective bargaining agreement and wage increases.

And that same threat is being made against the Bethlehem Steel Company.

Reconciliation is desired between both the CIO and the AFL, and the majority of the member of both organizations want unity, but to obtain it is harder than what appears on the surface. One of the reasons why labor can't unite is that if they were to make peace, both organizations would lose larger numbers of members and their identity. There is no way, under the two organizations' constitutions, which could force such action.

Besides that reason, both organizations are split and divided with personal prejudices and petty selfish interests.

Labor today is the thing which can make the national defense program click. The foundation for our national defenses has been laid down on paper. Now it must be worked out, through labor and capital.

Americans can not get up and make speeches about national unity. Many of us have done that. The real unity will come in unselfish, manifested action. And the first action that this nation can take towards a really united and efficient national defense program is to unite labor with itself and to unite labor with capital. Then, and only then, will the written and the speeches and the Presidential proclamations be of real tangible benefit to this nation.

REVIEWS and PREVIEWS

By Irvin Lande

During the homestretch of the Presidential campaign, when it was just as likely for Mr. Willkie to have been elected as it would have been for Mr. Roosevelt to have been re-elected, John L. Lewis, President of the Congress for Industrial Organization, promised that his organization would support Mr. Willkie, and that Mr. Willkie would be elected to the office of the President of the United States. If Mr. Willkie were not elected, Lewis said, then he would resign.

And on the last Monday, Mr. Lewis, at the CIO convention in Atlantic City, New Jersey, told his followers, that he was stepping down as their leader. At least, Mr. Lewis had the magnanimity to admit that he was defeated.

Farm and AAA News From the County Agent

Cotton farmers, who will vote December 7 on a marketing quota for their 1941 crop, should give serious consideration to the European War and its effect on cotton, declares P. H. Smith, County Agent. Quotas will be in effect if approved by two-thirds of the farmers voting.

"Regardless of the outcome of the war," Mr. Smith said, "cotton farmers face difficulties ahead. If Germany and her allies win, we may be faced with unfavorable trade policies and economic blockades. If Great Britain wins, it will be extremely difficult to carry on normal trade in the markets of the world because a great part of the world's resources and purchasing power will have been dissipated."

Already the war has caused a severe reduction in cotton exports. During the first three months of the 1940-41 marketing season, the United States sold less than 300,000 bales abroad as compared with about 1,750,000 bales during the same period last year. A major part of this slump in exports is due to the disruption of communications, blockades, exchange difficulties, and other factors directly traceable to the war.

Domestic consumption of cotton, he stated, continues at a high level. Estimates are that about 8 million bales, a new record for domestic consumption, will be used in this country in the 1940-41 season. However, Mr. Smith warned that loss in exports would more than offset the prospective gain in domestic consumption.

"Clearly," Mr. Smith said, "cotton farmers must use every provision of their farm program to meet this situation. They must work together to keep the supply in line with demand. Only in this way can they hope eventually to solve the problems affecting cotton which have been further aggravated by the war. Considering the situation which confronts cotton farmers, they have need for marketing quotas in 1941 more than ever before."

FOLKS and THINGS ABOUT TOWN

We received a most interesting letter from Samuel Jackson Lawrence, or is it "Jack" Lawrence, this week end. Jack says among other things that the most things he doesn't like about this Navy is having to get up in the morning at 4:30 a. m. and not being able to go where he pleases—after he does get up. Jack will spend the Xmas holidays at home and has promised to make us a call—we're waiting to hear more about this Navy business.

Have you seen or heard from M. D. Fother since that deer hunt he went on last week? Well, if you are one of those who haven't, then I'll give you the results—four beautiful deer—bucks of course—and he has the heads to prove it. M. D. Says that he is going to mount the two best heads. There is a chance for those who always let the deer get away—contact M. D., ect him to let you have the two he doesn't use, mount them, hang them on your wall, just as though you done it yourself—and none will be the wiser, that is of course—unless they ask M. D.

Lots of old Faces about during Thanksgiving, and lots of new ones. Everything about town was quiet and peaceful. Everybody seemed to enjoy the day very much and no serious accidents reported. Clanton had plenty to be thankful for.

All the boys are getting out their Christmas decorations and working like wildfire down at the stores, trying to be first with their display. Mr. Mell says that it won't be long now before the street decorations will be put up and then Clanton will take on a Xmas atmosphere sure enough. Homes will be decorated and brilliantly lighted for the honor of having the prettiest Christmas decorations—and then Santa Claus, the old red faced guy who gives us a thrill, whether we're six or sixty. It won't be long now.

According to the directors of Chilton County Red Cross War Relief Committee, those who could in the County are not responding as they should. The work of making clothing for the war refugees. This is a wonderful work and scores are needed to give what time they can spare to help. The headquarters are now on the corner in the Exchange Hotel building and in a plea elsewhere in this issue. Mr. Martin says, "If you can loan us a sewing machine, it will be appreciated, if you can loan the machine and bring it to us it will be more than appreciated, and if you can loan the machine but can't bring it to us—let us know and we will make arrangements to come and get it." We hope that more women of the county can see fit to help in this most necessary undertaking.

Miss Alice Polk (Potsy) to you informs us that there will be a Christmas Pageant. A wonderful Christmas Pageant at the First Methodist Church on Sunday night December 15th. She also informs us that everybody is cordially invited and promises something that will make your Christmas Season more enjoyable for the going.

Our most humble apologies to the Hayes boys Dick and Alex. It seems the "type-out" last week got mixed up on his corrections and played havoc with both "Hayes" items.

Big Mulberry Swans has claimed two more victims. Last week City Free, and Billy Leverett went down there to try their luck on some still hunting. (Understand we mean still squirrel hunting.) Well they went into the swamp about two o'clock and back down to avoid developments. Luck wasn't so good as they moved deeper into the swamp and so on and on until about dark. Guy and Billy decided it was about time to start back to their car which they had left at a farm house on the highway, then it dawned on them that they didn't know which way to start. Billy says let go north, Guy says no, let's go south—so it seems they were about gone both ways, for within the next three hours they recovered some unmetten miles according to Mr. Free—it was about eight o'clock at night and they were still lost. Finally in desperation they cut back with their guns and began following for assistance.

Meanwhile the farmer with whom they had left their car had become uneasy and started to meet them. If we are to believe Guy, that meeting was the sweetest in his whole life. And to make the story complete—next result of the hunt were some tree men, swollen ankles, bruises and scratches but not a single squirrel.

RED CROSS DRIVE NEARS 1940 QUOTA

The Chilton County Red Cross drive for 1940 is within approximately $200 of their 1940 goal. Lacking only 210.01 to be exact and a number of communities and schools unreported. According to a statement made Tuesday by County Chairman, Cohen E. Stapp, if those who have not reported make as good a show, over our quota, which was boosted to $900 this year.

Chairman Stapp asks those who have not reported to please let him hear from them quickly as possible so that he may be able to tell just how the County stands up to this time.

District Sunday School Convention

The District Sunday School Convention was held at Alpine Baptist church November 3, 1940. The meeting was held for the purpose of electing officers for the coming year. The following were elected: Rev. J. R. Bearden, chairman, Mr. Henry Reid, vice-chairman, Pauline Ousley, Secretary, Treasurer, Mrs. Harvey McGee, Adlai, Mr. Bearden, Mrs. Eula Ruddick, Intermediate Leader, and Mrs. J. R. Bearden, Junior Leader. This district is composed of the following churches: Jones, Milton, Bethel, Alpine, Stanton, Maplesville, and Mr. C. Martin. The meeting will be held at Jones Baptist church, December 1, 1940. The Sunday School officers are especially asked to attend these meetings.

Safety Meeting At City Hall Saturday 2:00 p. m.

There will be a Safety Meeting at the City Hall, Saturday afternoon at 2:00 p. m. and the general public is urged to be present. Chilton County School drivers have an enviable record to date and all drivers are requested to attend this meeting.

T. Weller Smith, State Safety Director will have a representative speaker here for the meeting.

Written Leases Valuable To F. H. A. And Farm

"Dozens of misunderstandings and unpleasantness between Chilton County landlords and tenants have been avoided simply by putting into writing what had been agreed upon already by word of mouth," Marvin Durbin, Farm Security Administration Supervisor said as he announced that 100 per cent of the county's FSA borrowed land was under written leases during 1940.

Six years ago, when FSA began its rehabilitation program here, only 2 per cent of the borrowers had written leases. "This number has almost doubled each year since then," he said. "Landlords and tenants began to see the value of having things down in black and white."

"The biggest saving of all," said Mr. Durbin, "has not been in tempers, but in opportunities. For example, a tenant planted a field of Austrian Winter wheat because the written lease provided that he and the landlord share the soil building payments on the same basis they share the crop. Besides receiving payment, both the landlord and tenant on this farm will have a larger crop to divide next year, because it got the benefit of turned over cover crops."

Through the efforts of the Farm Security Administration, 17,395 tenants in Alabama farmed with written leases in 1940.

Chilton High Opens Basketball Season

On December 4, the Chilton County High School play their first game against Ensley High of Birmingham. The report is that Ensley is strong, not losing a game by graduation from last year's strong team.

Ten players will come from this number for Chilton High: Osmond Johnson, Wellington Collins, Clark Chambers, Paul Smith, F. C. Cost, L. L. Riggins, Curtis Daniels, Clinton Dean, Junior Coggins, Curtis Hayes, William Lowery, James Payton and Chester McLean.

There will be a preliminary game starting 7:00 o'clock between Collins Chapel and Chilton B. Team. The Ensley game starts at 8:00 o'clock. Admission for both games will be 10 and 25c.

BAPTIST ORPHANAGE CAR LOADED AND RECEIVED

The car for the Baptist Orphanage at Troy has been shipped and received by Bro. Colly. We loaded a very nice car, even though some churches were not represented.

Maple Springs broke all records since I have been representing the home in the Chilton Association. The produce from this church amounted to $72.1. Several churches gave to the amount of more than $20.00. But you who gave did not get in on this produce offering, remember that the home must have some cash and you can make up a Christmas offering and send to the home—M. Lockhart and J. Watts Moore.

Below is a copy of the letter just received from Bro. Colly, the superintendent of the Baptist Orphanage: Rev. M. Lockhart, Representative, Chilton Baptist Association, Route No. 5, Clanton, Ala.

Dear Bro. Lockhart: How grateful we are to you and to all our friends in Chilton county for the car of donated produce which you so generously sent for the care of the children in the home! If we could, we would thank every individual personally for what he had donated. Will you please have the pastors and representatives in each church to express our thanks to all the people at the next church service. It is through such cooperation that we can care for the children entrusted to our care. To you we are especially grateful for soliciting and gathering the produce. You have been most interested and cooperative from year to year.

Kindest regards and appreciation to you and to all the people. Very sincerely, J. O. Colly, Supt.

City Sends Out SOS To Tax Payers

On orders of the City Council, and as suggested by the Auditors in the report issued last week, letters are going out from the City Clerk's office to all who owe delinquent Water Bills, Ad Valorem taxes and Assessments. The letters call for payment of same not later than the 28th day of December. This gives all delinquents plenty of time to make arrangements to take care of the past due obligations. This, according to Mayor Stapp is being done to replenish the City's General Fund which was shown in last week's Financial Report as being in a rather unhealthily condition.

NEW BRIDGES

WPA Head Advises With City Fathers On Construction

Col. Gray Henderson, of Montgomery, State WPA Administrator was in Clanton all day last Friday, aiding Mayor Stapp and the City Council in arranging for the rebuilding of the bridge on the old Birmingham Highway.

The State WPA will not aid in the rebuilding of this bridge other than to assist in getting better prices on materials and letting the contract.

Work is also expected to start in the near future on the new bridge on the Kinchen Road. These are the two main objects at present of the City Council and Mayor.

The ordinance which was passed by the Council last Tuesday night, providing for the drainage and blacktopping of Second Avenue to the Selma Highway will appear in next week's issue of The News.

MEETING AT RELIEF HEADQUARTERS ON FRIDAY MORNING

There will be a meeting of the Red Cross Division for War Relief at the headquarters in the Exchange Hotel Building Friday morning at 9:00 o'clock according to Mel Martin, in charge of the work in this county. All cutting chairmen are especially urged to be on hand and those others who can be welcome.

The material for knitting one-hundred sweaters and plenty of material for other use is here and ready for distribution. Mr. Martin is anxious that this distributed to these community chairmen so as to give all a chance to help in this work.

COTTON GROWERS BALLOT DEC. 7 ON SALES QUOTA

By P. H. Smith, County Agent Chilton County cotton growers will vote on Saturday, December 7, along with other cotton growers of the Nation, to determine whether they wish a marketing quota to apply to the 1941 cotton crop. The quota will go into effect only if approved by two-thirds of the farmers voting.

Marketing quotas have been in effect for the last 3 years. P. H. Smith, County Agent points out. The 1940 quota was approved last fall by 91.2 per cent of the Nation's growers who voted in the referendum.

As in former years, the county committee will be in charge of the referendum. Plans are now being made locally for holding the vote in each community.

The Secretary of Agriculture declared at 1941 marketing quota in September when it was determined that the supply of American cotton, on August 1, 1940, totaled 24,900,000 bales or 137 per cent of the normal supply, which is 18,200,000 bales. Under the Agricultural Adjustment Act, a marketing quota must be declared when supplies reach 107 per cent of normal.

The national quota for 1941 is the same as the one in effect this year and will make possible the marketing through the quota program of about 11 million bales during the year beginning August 1, 1941.

"Chilton County's cotton growers are familiar with marketing quotas," Mr. Smith says, "since they have used them for three seasons to avoid adding to the already large cotton supply, to protect the income of farmers who plant within their AAA acreage allotments and to prevent growers who overplant from defeating the work of farmers who are trying to balance the cotton

CAPT. W. P. LAY

Founder Of Alabama Power Company Passes At Home In Gadsden

GADSDEN, ALA., Nov. 21.—Capt. William Patrick Lay, 87, founder of the Alabama Power Company, died at his home here early today after a brief illness.

Funeral services will be held from the home at 3:30 p. m. Friday with the Rev. W. M. Davidson, pastor of the First Methodist Church, and Rev. Robert Marlowe, rector of the Episcopal Church of the Holy Comforts, officiating. Interment will be in Forrest Cemetery.

Surviving are five sons, Earl, of Santa Monica, Calif., Tracy, Washington, D. C., Orville, Birmingham; Carl and Everett, Gadsden, a brother, James Lay, of Rome Ga., and a sister, Miss Minnie Newberry of Philadelphia, Penn.

Capt. Lay was born in 1853, at the home of his grandfather on the banks of the Coosa River in Cherokee County. With his father he moved to Gadsden in 1870 and in 1876 married Miss Laura Hollingsworth, daughter of the late Major W. P. Hollingsworth. Mrs. Lay died the latter part of 1929.

Capt. Lay was active in the civic and industrial affairs of Gadsden until just a few days of his death. He was an active member of the Chamber of Commerce and the Rotary Club and took a leading part in Gadsden's centennial celebration Oct. 28, 1930. He had a part in helping locate in Gadsden a large industry now operating there. His early effort in industrial development resulted in the establishment of the first blast furnace in Gadsden in 1883. In 1887 he built and owned the first electric light plant in Gadsden, was a leader in the building of the Printup Hotel, and for a number of years headed the company which owned it. In 1888 he was one of the leaders in building a railroad from Gadsden to Anniston.

The railroad was built in 1883. In 1897 he was one of the leaders in building the first large hydro-electric project in Alabama on the Coosa River. During this period he also built one of the early water power plants of Alabama on Willis Creek. In 1906 he organized the Alabama Power Company, and in 1914, realized his ambition of seeing the turbulent waters of the Coosa River tamed. Clanton, hard on the heels of the first large hydro-electric development in Alabama. Known as Lock 12 for a number of years, it was later named Lay Dam in his honor.

Although Capt. Lay relinquished active participation in the Alabama Power Company several years ago, he remained active until just a few days before his death, and saw his ideal of additional large hydro-electric projects on the Coosa River become a reality. From his early years until his death, Capt. Lay was active in many efforts to bring about the development of the Coosa River for navigation purposes.

Miss Nix And Mr. Macon Wed

Miss Helen Nix, one of Chilton county's most popular young ladies, will be married this afternoon (Thursday) at 5:00 o'clock to Mr. Joseph Macon, of Wetumpka. The ceremony will take place at the First Baptist Church in Maplesville, home of the bride. Miss Nix is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. M. H. Nix, of Maplesville.

PRATTVILLE WINS OVER MARBURY SEVEN TO 0

Marbury, Ala. Nov. 21.—Before a crowd of 800 Prattville's red and white section root to their heights here on Thanksgiving Day, to smack Marbury's favored black and gold bulldogs, in a bitterly-fought pigskin battle.

Prattville held the spotlight in the first quarter, after Marbury receiving the kick-off, failed to make the first yardage. Prattville took over and went on the march as the quarter ended. Prattville was on Marbury's two yard line at the opening of the fifth quarter. Moncrief went over for a touchdown on the second try. Bice fumbled on the extra point, but Prattville upped and kicked 15 yards for the point.

At the beginning of the third period, Daniels booted a 80-yard kick-off. Prattville fumbling on their goal line kicked out. Then Marbury brought it back to the one yard line and the ball kicked out. Then Marbury brought it again to Prattville's one yard line and failed to score.

In the fourth quarter both teams were fighting for a score but the game ended: Prattville 7; Marbury 0.

Mrs. E. G. Clanton and daughter, of Prattville, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Martin and Mrs. Clyde Jones this week.

Where Do We Come In?

Billions of dollars are flowing out from Washington in the National Defense program.

Chilton County, unfortunately just now, is not in a position to get much of this money.

Three poor crop years leaves us without much surplus to sell to the industrial districts to which is going most of this great sum. We have few industries through which we can get much of this money.

Therefore, it is necessary that the business men and the forward thinking minds of the county regardless of occupation, profession or political affiliation, get together and map a plan of action that will bring Chilton County into the orbit of this national spending.

Located as we are in the center of the State with a greater population within a radius of 60 miles from the center of the county than from the center of any other county in the State; with good roads in every direction, and three great trunk line railroads, we are the logical "distribution" center for the billions of tons of essential products and commodities required by these millions of people.

With the almost unlimited hydro-electric power of the Alabama Power Company right here in the County we should have a hundred or more small industries turning out the products which the buying public is demanding. If we get it we will have to go after it. It will not be brought to us.

Our Own Defense

Much has been written and spoken about the National Defense, which is, we think, the first consideration of every loyal citizen in the United States.

But national defense must begin in the home, in the precinct, in the county, in the State and grow upward and outward and not be left to a few self-opinionated individuals to say who is to protect a hundred and thirty million people.

During the first World War we of the United States spent billions of dollars and sacrificed thousands of lives in what we thought was national defense of our "democratic way" of life. We found out later that the sacrifice was made to create one hundred or more millionaires, and collect a few billion dollars for the rich American money lenders who had made loans to the European belligerents, and which they were about to lose.

We mortgaged future generations in order to make this sacrifice. That was not national defense.

Lord Lorton, the British ambassador is just back from London. He brings word that Britain will soon be at the end of her rope financially and already the propaganda mills are grinding more loans from Uncle Sam—notwithstanding the fact that Great Britain refused point blank to pay the billions of dollars that she now owes the United States for money that was loaned to her 25 years ago—to save her from destruction—and for which loans the people of the United States are still being taxed to pay.

Great Britain has more land in the Western Hemisphere than the United States has. We need strategic naval and air bases for our Own National Defense. If Great Britain or any other nation is unwilling to cede these islands and land for naval and air bases so necessary to our Own National Defense, then the president, every Senator and every Congressman should flatly refuse to loan one dollar to any nation that has not agreed to not intend to pay back the money borrowed during the World War.

We are inclined to believe that the pressure to aid Great Britain is coming more from the American money grabbers than from England. They will not hesitate to mortgage additional future generations in order to further concentrate the wealth of this nation under the control of a few plutocrats whose only ambition is power, whose only God is gold.

Mr. President and Congress watch your step.

Dishonest elections in the United States, are far more dangerous to democracy than any of the foreignisms of which we read and hear so much about.

The "Drive" racket made popular by the last World War is increasing in activity. It should be nipped in the bud.

Gen. Hugh Johnson says: "It is much too early to begin boasting Willie for 1944." Quite so. Quite so.

When the "Ladies From Hell" took out after the Roman Soldiers it was hard to tell which was going faster.

The esteemed Tuscaloosa News tells us that a shoat escaped from a truck traveling a business street in that thriving settlement and when it struck the pavement it bounced more than eight feet high and then scattered away. It must be the Capote influence. That pig probably has his eye on some sort of record for the pole vault—Sylacauga News.

Gov. Graves And The Third Term

Says the alert Anniston Times: "Rumors are that Colonel Bibb Graves, after making so many speeches in the north in support of Franklin D. Roosevelt's third term, came home to Alabama just about sold on the idea."

This of course is a polite and delicate reference to the personal opinion of that this third term business may have for the colonel before many more years roll around.

There is a distinct difference however between a third term for President and a third term in Alabama for Col. Graves. The president's term runs consecutively, keeping him in office without interruption for twelve years. Alabama's constitution does not permit that kind of consecutive service. An Alabama governor cannot succeed himself. The constitution makers feared that a governor might be tempted to serve his third term in office in another term. Hence it is provided in the Alabama organic law that the governor shall "not be eligible as his own successor," and that "the governor shall not be eligible to election or appointment to any office under this state, or to any office in this country, during his term and within one year after the expiration thereof."

Col. Graves therefore will have to serve his terms as governor intermittently. His first term was from 1927 to 1931. He then waited four years to 1935. His next chance is to be elected in 1942 to serve from 1943 to 1947.—Alabama Journal.

MORAL ECHOES

REV. D. W. HASKEW, D.D.

While at the cottage on the bay I heard the anxious calls of the Negro fisherman. He had observed the coming of a large school of mullet and he was calling to his boatmen for help. Each moment his call was more anxious, but not a sound did he receive in reply. Finally he ran up to the top of the embankment and fairly screamed for help. His call was heard and Negro men came running from all directions and the boat made its circle with speed. As they drew in the net it was very evident that help had come too late. While the men tarried the school of mullet had passed. The chief of that fishing crew growled furiously as he blamed the lazy men for not responding to his call. They were loitering around in the sunshine when they should have been on duty. The opportunity came for a large haul of fish, but they were not there. Many a time have I cried for help when I saw a great opportunity for the church, but the membership was strolling abroad and the opportunity passed. Like a school of mullet, opportunity is on the move.

For the first time an old darkey was sent to the hospital. No suffer being placed in bed a nurse put a thermometer in his mouth to take his temperature. The old man started sucking it with the vigor of a six months old calf. The nurse got busy and for some time the old man tugged away at the glass tube. The doctor came in at the door as the nurse passed out with the thermometer, and on going to the bed he inquired, "How is your temperature?" Are you hungry?" The old man replied, "Doc, I is as hungry as ever. Dare was nothing in dat tube dat the young lady gave me and I is still powerful hungry." We listen to men make theories and suck on them with vigor, but they never get the strength. Like a Man made theories of life are like feeding on the dust and drinking of the wind. If you want your soul to be strong, feed it on God's theories of life. Christ is the Living Bread.

While preaching to a group of children I was trying to tell them how the love of money would hide God, but they did not seem to understand. Then I wrote the word, "G O D" on a white sheet of paper and holding it before them I inquired, "What do you read there?" A dozen children replied, "God." I then held a dollar bill I spread it over the word and asked again, "Can you see God?" They replied, "The money hides out God." Love of money, love of pleasure and love of power will never fail to hide out God. Make these first and God is gone.

High up in the dome of St Peter's church in Rome there is a beautiful painting, but it is so high that no one can look upon its beauty. To overcome this difficulty a large mirror has been placed directly under the work of art so as to give it the proper reflection. Travelers are constantly standing around this mirror, looking with admiration upon this masterpiece. The mirror brings the glory and beauty of the picture right down to the floor and there it can be seen in ease and comfort. We often speak of God as being high and lifted up. Jesus came down among us to bring the beauty of God into our presence. The Christ is the mirror of God and he that hath seen the Son hath seen the Father also. Even a Christian saint can bring God

STATEMENT FROM PETE JARMAN

Washington, D. C., Nov. 23, 1940

Editor, Chilton County News: When war clouds gathered in 1917 I enjoyed no military experience but I immediately applied for admission to the First Officers Training Camp. It was my happy privilege to serve as an officer for more than two years during that war. In 1922 I was appointed Inspector General of the Alabama National Guard with the rank as Major. In 1929, when the 31st Division, which consists of troops of Alabama, Florida, Louisiana and Mississippi, was organized, I was promoted to Lieutenant Colonel and became its Inspector. I have served in this capacity since, attending camp each summer with rare exceptions.

Some confusion recently occurred when General Persons assumed Command of our Division. Regulations prescribe that when doing so a Division Commander appoint his staff officers from the full inventory of enjoying the year's active duty as Division Inspector, although I realized the existence of some doubt about holding both positions.

Even though the daily sessions of the Congress have not been particularly strenuous since August because all concerned were in general agreement with the preparedness program, I have been much busier since then, largely because of that program, than heretofore during strenuous sessions. That fact, together with reflection on the considerable military training already experienced, finally caused me to become positively convinced that the duty I am performing for my country and for my people as a member of Congress during these trying times is far more important than an additional year of training and that I should not forsake the performance of this duty for training alone.

While quite reluctant to indulge in any request which could not be granted to the lowest ranking private or officer in the Guard, I felt that the preservation of my experience and training to the National Defense justified a request for a year's leave abeyance of my commission in the Guard against the possibility of war at some future date. Although we all sincerely hope it will not occur, war would present an entirely different picture. The granting of this request would have continued my direct connection with the Guard as a detailed man to commence immediately upon the outbreak of hostilities should such occur. Unfortunately, although very naturally, all of our military laws except the most recent ones are based on either peace or war, whereas, we now find ourselves in what might be termed a twilight zone. Consequently, there was no law or regulation authorizing the Adj. General to grant my request although I am convinced that he, Commanding General Persons, The Secretary of War, the Adjutant General and the Judge Advocate of the Army, and the Attorney General of the United States were anxious to find a way to do so. While no official opinion to that effect was rendered, there was developed serious doubt of the constitutionality of one being simultaneously a member of Congress and a National Guard Officer on active Federal duty which prompted me to request one of both the Attorney General and the Judge Advocate General. Much to my surprise, and without my knowledge, the former submitted the matter to the White House and recommended that an Executive Order covering the situation be issued. This occurred, however, just prior to the President's departure for down into our very presence when he lives like God.

A man came to my study to tell me of what strange things that he had made his Bible do for him. He said that he was debating whether he should run the ways of sin with an evil woman, or whether he should let his Bible at random and expected God to tell him what to do as he read the first verse. The passage described David as he called for the wife of Uriah. He honest now. Have you ever made a wish or turned to the Old Testament to see if you could find, "And it came to pass" A man was cured of his foolish way of using the Bible when he requested God to tell him out of his book whether he was to visit a certain place. On opening the Bible he read, "Hell from beneath is moved to meet thee at thy coming." The Bible is not a book of magic. Better use common sense and let God speak to your heart.

REVIEWS and PREVIEWS

By Irvin Lande

Major George Fielding Elliot, the Military expert of the Columbia Broadcasting System and special writer for many newspapers throughout the United States, spoke Thanksgiving night at Montgomery, Alabama. In his lecture he said that the victory of the Greeks against the Italians was of greater importance in that it strengthened the morale of liberty-loving people everywhere than that which showed that the Italian army was incompetent.

Major Elliot's opinion is similar to the common American opinion that any nation, to wage a successful war, must have the militant spirit, the love of a victorious campaign. The Italian armies neither wanted to wage a successful war for Duce nor wanted to give themselves up to a successful one. They had no purpose. This is not the first time that a more superior army was defeated by a more inferior one. In the American Revolution there was no doubt but that the British army, consisting largely of Hessians, was better trained and better equipped than the American colonists, but the hired soldiers the Thanksgiving holiday and no such Order has resulted.

In the meantime, only two positively proper courses seemed to remain open to me unless this unanticipated and unexpected Executive Order occurred. One was to resign my commission in order to continue my service in Congress and the other was to request a transfer in my present grade and branch, Lieutenant Colonel of Infantry, to the full inventory of enjoying the year's active duty as Division Inspector, although I realized the existence of some doubt about holding both positions.

Having thoroughly enjoyed my service and delightful associations in the Guard, I naturally regret exceedingly the necessity of discontinuing them on active basis which must deny me the pleasure of a year at Camp Blanding with my comrades. I am delighted, however, to retain my State status in the Reserve Corps.

LAZY MAN'S ORCHARD FOR ALABAMA FARMERS

Auburn, Ala.—W. A. Ruffin, extension horticulturist, is advocating that Alabama farmers establish a "Lazy Man's Orchard."

Ruffin has written all Alabama county agents enclosing a list showing varieties of fruits recommended to plant in a "Lazy Man's Orchard" in north and south Alabama.

"The recommendation for north Alabama can wisely be used in all of the Piedmont area and all counties north of Chilton," he says. "The southern half of the state should use varieties included for south Alabama." Recommendations for a "Lazy Man's Orchard," in north Alabama includes: 1 C. Red June, 2 Hackworth, 1 Delicious and 2 Yates apples; 18 young and 18 Lucratic dewberries; 2 Concord grapes; 2 Scuppernon, 1 Thomas and 1 James muscadines; 1 Keiffer and 1 Baldwin pears; 1 Stuart and 1 Money-maker peaches; 150 Missionary and 150 Blackmore strawberries.

The recommendations for south Alabama include: 18 Young and 18 Lucratic dewberries; 2 Brown Turkey figs; 2 Concord grapes; 2 Scuppernon, 1 Thomas and 1 muscadines; 150 Missionary and 150 Blackmore strawberries.

We have noticed this headline in several dailies: "Captain Tells How 2000 Greeks Rout 20,000 Italian Soldiers." And every one of them left out the little three-letter word between tells and how.

Vegetable Laxative

Has Important Points

Most people want a laxative to do three things: (1) act punctually, (2) act thoroughly, (3) act gently.

Here's one that usually fills all three requirements when the easy directions are followed. It's an all-vegetable product whose principal ingredient has medical recognition as an "intestinal tonic-laxative." That's the ingredient which enables BLACK-DRAUGHT to help tone lazy bowel movements. It is the main reason for the satisfying relief from constipation that generally follows each morning when BLACK-DRAUGHT is taken at bedtime. The millions of packages used are proof of its merit.

ers of King George could see no reason for fighting a battle for gains which the British Empire did not need. Consequently, the British lost. Likewise, up to now, the Italians have lost. And the Italians, a deeply religious people, will probably lose even greater confidence in Mussolini once their inflated ego has been punctured by reverses in the invasion of Greece.

In the same fashion as the Italian reverses have hindered the plans of the Italian Fascists regime, those same reverses have given the British, and the Turks, and the Bulgarians, and even the people of this country, a new incentive to resist the aggression of the totalitarian countries and the attacks of their pugnacious neighbors. Moreover, the victories of the Greeks have given the subjugated and conquered people a new hope for the future—a hope that their freedom might be regained. In truth, the Greek that in ancient times carried culture from Egypt and the Near East had passed it on to us, might be the nation that today is showing the rest of the world how to resist the aggression of those who wish to destroy that same and augmented culture.

It is not wishful thinking, either, that the victories of the Greeks have stirred the rest of the world to a state of mind of resistance against Hitler and his partners. We see every kind of evidence that Hitler is fearing for his own position. Hitler, then in recent weeks, has organized and executed a pact which is attempting to line the rest of the Balkans with him. Hungary became a member of the pact along with Rumania and Slovakia. These so-called diplomatic maneuvers and victories were hailed in the German papers as great achievements. In that way, Hitler is attempting to quiet and to content his own people.

But, Bulgaria and Turkey and Yugoslavia have not joined Hitler. The victories of the Greeks and the effective aid of the British gave naturally pro-British countries a hope for the future. Even Russia has taken a turn in the British side of the story. Through official Moscow papers and official men, Stalin has informed the rest of the world that Hitler's actions and Mussolini's war did not have his approval.

Through the victories of little Greece, the rest of the world learned that though the totalitarian countries are formidable, they are not invincible. Moreover, the reverses that Mussolini has suffered, have caused speculation as to whether or not Hitler will come and rescue Italy. Hitler could not afford an Italian retreat, nor could he afford a stalemate. Furthermore, Hitler does not have the time for his meticulous preparation. He may have to come in now into the war, or all might be lost for the Italians. And the only other possible route of escape that is obvious is for Hitler to invade the British Isles. The weather is not right for such an invasion, but Hitler might attempt it.

The mighty effort of the British in the Adriatic Sea have caused even greater wonderment to military experts than the accomplishments of the Greeks on land. The Greeks, it is true, through their inspired efforts have succeeded greatly, but their victories have been paralleled by the colonists and more recently by the Finns in their fight against the Russians. But the actions of the British in the Adriatic have been unexpected. From the outbreak of the war, the Adriatic Sea was under the entire control of the Italians, who had bases at the entrance to the Sea on both sides, at Italy and at Albania. But through the Straits of Otranto the British have succeeded in sinking other Italian ships, in shelling bases in Albania, and in sending men and supplies to the Greeks. The Italian navy has been unable to stop them, and the Italian air force has been of only small importance. The British have won a great naval victory, both in mind and in body, and their victory has been of great importance to the victories of the Greeks.

That, the world condition from the present perspective, is a particularly bright picture for the British, the Greeks, and even for the United States. No one can dare to forecast what the future may bring—we can only hope for a victory for the British, and there, for a victory for this country.

The Second term examinations of Thorsby Institute will be held on Nov. 28-29. Friday night there will be the annual stunt night of Thorsby Institute to which everyone is invited. The four classes put on stunts. Each one not lasting over twenty minutes. Admission will be ten cents. Judges will decide which class did the best.

Thorsby Institute Boarding Department and invited guests had their annual Thanksgiving Dinner in the Dining Hall on Thursday, November 21. The turkey and all good things that go with a good turkey dinner were prepared by the dormitory girls under the supervision of Miss Lois Leech. After the dinner, Rev. Luther Ballo of Eastview, Alabama gave a talk appropriate to Thanksgiving. Mr. H. M. Adair, Mathematics teacher at the Institute also gave a talk as did Miss Ula Mae Spears, a senior at the Institute. A quintette composed of Miss Elsie Tinker, Miss Marguerite Daivon, Mrs. H. R. Maddox, Mrs. T. E. Campbell, and Miss Lillian McKee sang 3 numbers. Sarah Petty recited a poem on Thanksgiving and William Sargent gave a humorous reading. The program was watered and piano solo. The program was concluded with the singing of the Alma Mater and the Mizpah Benediction.

Miss Ruth Ford had charge of the Chapel program Monday morning November 25. The program consisted of an original poem, "Scenes of Nature," by Inez Littleton.

On Christian Endeavor of the Congregational Church held its regular meeting on Sunday night. The topic for discussion was "Missionaries carrying the Christian Cross to Foreign Lands." Hazel Pete was the leader for the program. The devotional was given by Frank Marcus after which Rev. J. B. Gonzales offered prayer. The Missions in Non-Christian lands and their efforts in establishing churches, schools and hospitals were discussed. The leader next Sunday night will be Howard Lambert.

ALL COTTON FARMERS MAY VOTE ON DEC. 7TH

Auburn, Ala.—All farmers who produced cotton in 1940 are eligible to vote in the December 7 referendum to determine if cotton marketing quotas will be in effect on the 1941 crop, announced A. J. Jones, Alabama AAA Administrative Officer.

Under the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, marketing quotas are applicable to all cotton except that with a staple length of 1-1/2 inches or more. Each 1940 cotton producer, whether owner, tenant, or sharecropper, will be entitled to one vote.

County AAA Committees will be in charge of all arrangements for the referendum and the voting will be carried out as in any other election, Jones says. The committees will choose three local farmers to serve as the referendum committee in each county. Convenient voting places will be provided for all communities where cotton is produced.

The county committees will designate the voting place in each community and see that a ballot box is provided at the polling places. Voting will be by ballot, which means that each farmer will mark his ballot privately as in other elections.

The question to be decided December 7 is whether marketing quotas will be used in connection with the 1941 cotton crop. If two-thirds of the voting farmers approve, quotas will be in effect and will apply to all States, counties, and communities where cotton is produced.

Farmers are being urged to consider the quota provisions and the present cotton situation closely and to vote their own convictions.

Miss Pardue Is Wed To Homer D. Lee

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Wesley Pardue, of Saginaw announces the marriage of their daughter, Ruth, to Mr. Homer Denison Lee of Troy, Ala.

The marriage was solemnized on November 24 at the home of the groom's brother, Reverend R. J. Lee, pastor of Chisholm Baptist church, Montgomery, who performed the ceremony. The altar was banked with vari-colored chrysanthemums.

The bride wore a semi-tailored ensemble of soldier blue light weight wool, with hat and other accessories in contrasting brown. Her flowers were orchids and valley lilies. Her going away costume was English tweed in tones of tan and brown.

Immediately following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Lee left for an extended wedding trip, after which they will make their home in Troy and Montgomery.

Mrs. Lee is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Wesley Pardue of Saginaw, Ala. She received her bachelors degree in home economics from Alabama College, Montevallo, and later her master's degree from Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn. She was formerly associated with Extension Service, serving as home demonstration agent in Chilton county. Later, she joined the staff of the Farm Security Administration as district home management supervisor and is now on the home management staff of the Farm Security Administration, regional office in Montgomery.

Mrs. Lee is the youngest son of Mr. John Thomas Lee and the late Mr. John Thomas Lee, of Roanoke, Ala. Mr. Lee attended the University of Alabama. Later, he was graduated from the Mass. ey Business College. He is associated with the Farm Security Administration in the capacity of district supervisor and has headquarters at Troy, Ala.

Floyd News

We are sorry that our pastor was sick and could not preach for us Saturday night. We had our prayer meeting but there was not many present.

Our Sunday School was good. After which Bro. Edward Wilkins delivered us a wonderful message and there was a large crowd present.

Our B. Y. P. U. is doing nicely. We hope it will continue. Bro Wilson delivered a wonderful message. We were glad that Bro. Wilson was able to be with us Sunday night.

Next Sunday Bro. Ir Harris from Montgomery will preach for us. Every body come and hear Bro Harris.

We are glad that Sister Elmer Pritchett has returned from the hospital.

CARD OF THANKS

We sincerely wish to express our thanks and heartfelt appreciation for the kindness and help rendered to us during the illness and death of our husband and father, John D. Houston.

We also thank Rev. J. T. Nail for his comforting words and those who showed their love by the beautiful floral offering—Mrs. J. D. Houston and family.

In 1921, the railroads carried the average passenger 32 miles for his dollar; in 1925 they carried him 34 miles; in 1930 they carried him 37 miles; in 1935 they carried him 52 miles; in 1939 they carried him 54 miles.

Standard Gauge

The standard gauge of American railroads, four feet, eight and one-half inches, was adopted because that was the gauge generally used by the English railroads, whose choice had been determined by the fact that ancient Roman chariots were built with a clearance of about 4 feet, 8 and one-half inches, and this had influenced European designs down through the centuries.

OLD RELIABLE

The Louisville & Nashville Railroad was chartered on March 5, 1850, and is one of the few major railroads in the United States which has served the public uninterruptedly under its chartered name since the date it was chartered.

FREE FLYING SCHOOL

This great opportunity is given also, but free by the government, so far as both ground and flight training goes. If you are between the ages of 19 and 26 and in good physical condition, and interested in learning to fly, you should investigate right now. Uncle Sam stands ready to give you a free ground school and then spend $350.00 in flight training on each successful contestant in the final examination at close of the ground school.

Our only expense will be $600 for a physical examination, a very small sum for government bulletins on flying, and a small insurance charge for your own protection in case of accident or injury. The entire amount will total less than $200.

The ground school will be in charge of Chilton County High School. It will be held at night so as not to interfere with one's daily work. It will be held two or three nights in the week and two or three hours per night. The government pays the instructors, pays for the use of the building, heat, lights, and necessary equipment for training, you pay only for three small items mentioned above.

Mr. Evans of the Chilton County High School or Mr. Charles Wade, one or both, will visit the following places and make to take your applications.

Maplesville—Postoffice, Monday, Dec. 2nd, 9:30 A.M.

Thorsby—Postoffice, Monday, December 2nd, 11:30 A.M.

Jemison—Postoffice, Monday, December 2nd, 10:30 A.M.

Cooper—Postoffice, Tuesday, December 3rd, 10:00 A.M.

Verbona—Postoffice, Tuesday, December 3rd, 11:00 A.M.

This is your last chance. The list will be returned to Washington on closing this last date. They will give you names of C. A. A. examiners who will make the necessary physical examination.

Farmers To Vote

Mr. Smith points out that if marketers who are in effect in 1941, farmers who plant within their allotment may market without penalty all cotton which they produce in 1941. Farmers who overplant their acreage allotments or who have penalty cotton from a previous crop must pay a penalty of 3 cents a pound on all cotton marketed in excess of their farm marketing quotas.

A Christmas Carol

By Charles Dickens

WNU Service.

THE STORY SO FAR

Miserly, tight-fisted, selfish old Scrooge, who didn't believe in Christmas, was awakened one Christmas night by the ghost of his dead partner. In chains forged by his own misdeeds, his partner warned that even were fate aware of him, adding that the three spirits would come to visit him. The first ghost showed Scrooge his former self. Together they watched Scrooge one Christmas as he stood alone in front of his school when a young boy. He was shown again the friends he had known as a young man, his apprenticeship. How he thrived to the scene showing their Christmas eve gaiety

(Now continue with the story)

STAVE THREE
The Second of the Three Spirits

Awaking in the middle of a prodigiously tough snore, Scrooge had no occasion to be told that the bell was again upon the stroke of One.

Now his bed became the very center of a blaze of ruddy light, which streamed upon it when the clock proclaimed the hour. Light might be in the room. He got up softly and shuffled in his slippers to the door.

It was his own room. But it had undergone a surprising transformation. Living green filled it that it looked a perfect grove. The crisp leaves of holly, mistletoe, and ivy reflected back the light, as if so many little mirrors had been scattered there; and heaped up on the floor, to form a kind of throne, were turkeys, geese, game, poultry, brawn, great joints of meat, barrels of oysters, red-hot chestnuts, oranges, and seething bowls of punch. In easy state upon this couch, there sat a jolly Giant.

"I am the Ghost of Christmas Present," said the Spirit.

"You have never seen the like of me before!" it continued.

"Never," Scrooge answered.

"Have never walked forth with the younger members of my family; meaning (for I am very young) my elder brothers born in Phantoms, later years?" pursued the Phantom.

"I don't think I have," said Scrooge.

"Have you had many brothers, Spirit?"

"More than eighteen hundred," said the Ghost.

"Spirit," said Scrooge submissively, "conduct me, please, to the first of them."

"I went forth last night on compulsion, and I learnt a lesson which is working now. Tonight, if you have taught to teach me, let me profit by it."

"Touch my robe!"

Scrooge did as he was told, and held it fast. They stood in the city streets on Christmas morn.

But soon the steeples called good people all, to church. And at the same time there appeared many people, carrying their dinners to the bakers' shops. The sight of these poor revellers appeared to interest the Spirit very much, for he stood with Scrooge beside him in a baker's doorway, and looking in, he saw the bakers' boys, passing, sprinkled incense on their dinners from their torch.

And it was a very uncommon kind of torch, for once or twice when there were angry words between some of the bakers, he had justled each other, he shed a few drops of water on them from it, and their good humour was restored directly. For they said, it was a shame to quarrel upon Christmas Day. And so it was! Good loved it!

"Is there a peculiar flavour in what you sprinkle from your torch?" asked Scrooge.

"There is. My own."

"Would it apply to any kind of dinner on this day?" asked Scrooge.

"To any kindly given. To a poor one most."

"Why to a poor one most?" asked Scrooge.

"Because it needs it most."

Perhaps it was the Spirit's sympathy with all poor men, that led him straight to Scrooge's clerk's. On the threshold of the door the Spirit smiled, and stopped to bless Bob Cratchit's dwelling with the sprinklings of his torch.

Then up rose Mrs. Cratchit, Cratchit's wife, dressed out but poorly in a twice-turned gown, but brave in ribbons, which are cheap and make a goodly show for sixpence; and she led her two little boys, who were clad in their best frocks, and who followed her with their heads bowed, and their hands clasped in prayer, to the door.

Tiny Tim upon his shoulder.

coming upon Christmas Day!"

Martha didn't like to see him disappointed, if it were only in joke; so she came out prematurely from behind the closet door, and ran into his arms, while the two young Cratchits hustled Tiny Tim, and bore him off into the wash-house, that he might have the pudding singing in the copper.

"And how did little Tim behave?" asked Mrs. Cratchit, who she had rallied Bob on his credulity, and Bob had hugged his daughter to his heart's content.

"As good as gold," said Bob, "and better. Somehow he gets thoughtful, sitting by himself so much, and thinks the strangest things you ever heard. He told me, coming home, that he hoped the people saw him in the church, because he was a cripple, and it might be pleasant to them to remember upon Christmas Day, who made little beggars walk, and blind men see."

Bob's voice was tremulous when he told them this, and trembled more when he said that Tiny Tim was growing strong and hearty.

Master Peter, Cratchit's eldest son, went to fetch the goose, with which they soon returned in high procession.

Such a bustle ensued that you might have thought a goose the rarest of all birds. Mrs. Cratchit made the gravy (ready before-hand in a little saucepan) hissing hot; Master Peter mashed the potatoes with incredible vigour; Miss Belinda sweetened up the apple-sauce; Martha dusted the hot plates; and Tiny Tim beseamed the turkey with his cruet of sauce.

And so it was, that the two young Cratchits set chairs for everybody, not forgetting themselves, and crammed spoons into their mouths, lest they should shriek for goose before their turn came to be helped.

At last the dishes were set on, and grace was said. It was succeeded by a breathless pause, as Mrs. Cratchit, leaning low along the carving-knife, prepared to plunge it in the breast; but when she did, and when the long expected gush of stuffing issued forth, one murmur of delight arose all round the board, and even Tiny Tim, excited by the two young Cratchits, beat on the table with the handle of his knife, and feebly cried Hurrah!

There never was such a goose. Bob said he didn't believe there ever was such a goose cooked. Its tenderness and flavour, size and cheapness, were the themes of universal admiration. Eked out by apple sauce and mashed potatoes, it was a sufficient dinner for the whole family. The youngest Cratchits, in particular, were steeped in sage and onion to the eyebrows. But now, the plates being changed by Miss Belinda, Mrs. Cratchit left the room alone—too nervous to bear witness—to take the pudding up and bring it in.

Hallo! A great deal of steam! The pudding was out of the copper.

Oh, a wonderful pudding! Bob Cratchit said, and calmly too, that he regarded it as the greatest success achieved by Mrs. Cratchit since their marriage. Everybody had something to say about it, but nobody said or thought it was at all small, puffy, or large, for that. It would have been flat heresy to do so. Any Cratchit would have blushed to hint at such a thing.

At last the dinner was all done, all the Cratchit family drew round the hearth, in the warm glow of the fire, and the pudding was brought in.

"A Merry Christmas to us all, my dears," God bless us, every one!" said Mrs. Cratchit, and they all

"God bless us every one!" said Tiny Tim, the last of all.

(Now continue with the story)

He sat very close to his father's side upon his little stool. Bob held his withered little hand, as if he dreaded he might be taken from him.

"Spirit," said Scrooge, "tell me if Tiny Tim will live."

"I see a vacant seat," replied the Ghost, "in the poor chimney-corner, and a crutch without an owner, carefully preserved. If these shadows remain unaltered by the Future, no other of my race," returned the Ghost, "will find him here. What then? If he be like to die, he had better do it, and decrease the surplus population."

"No, no," said Scrooge. "Oh, no, kind Spirit! say he will be spared."

"If these shadows remain unaltered by the Future, no other of my race," returned the Ghost, "will find him here. What then? If he be like to die, he had better do it, and decrease the surplus population."

LOOK AT YOUR DATE

FOLKS and THINGS ABOUT TOWN

We spent a most interesting thirty minutes with Miss Mattie Jo Barber yesterday morning. She took time to explain some of the many duties and accomplishments of her office. Mattie Jo has a splendid job in Chilton County with her 4-H club and home demonstration work. At one of her mattress demonstrations the other day they made one-hundred twenty-four mattresses in one day and to date they have made more than three thousand. Boy—follow could do a lot of slumbering that many mattresses these cold mornings.

When you read about the big Basketball Game to be held at the High School gymnasium next Friday night. Did you notice the date? Friday the thirtieth. The date bodes evil for Lions and Kiwanis, we know not which—but we do know—should it have been on the other date, or day, or the other day, the teams will come out on the short end anyway. Alright, smartale then it might be a tie.

Well, the Christmas toys are all out on the counters at the local stores. We wish that we were tried just about all of them out now, but don't know which we will tell Santa to bring around our way. Last year we had him bring a rug with a rubber cap that stuck to the bulls eye when you scored a hit this year we sorta lean toward a rug and arrow.

ON TUESDAY MORNING ROUND first stop, as always, Dixie Cafe. A cup of coffee with "Sleepy" Miller who draws his salary over at "Rip's" later. Later Wiley Bean, ex-candidate in with some cakes and passes them around—stuck "Sleepy" for the link and on down the street to "Jim's" of course. Jimmie wants me to buy a "Jimmie Bell of Bell Hardware" I'm not going to do it. That's free-riding. No soap at the Hardware store and so to "Big Four". Lester and I in unusually good spirits and proceeded to get my copy in early—which I believe is a record. Then we went to the Dr. Joe Edgar, Ed and "Scottie" pretty lucky too—Scottie came around. Doug Craig, five minutes later over at Western Auto, shook his head and says, "no dice, see you next week, and he's not fooling—he certainly will, down the hill on second avenue to Harold Blackthorn's. Don't know what comes across—nearly. He'll give me my later. Chilton County Exchange, A. Jones at Jones Seed and Feed, Alan Evans at Southern Seed and Feed, "Shorty" Williams at E. L. Farmers—boy what an exciting life newspaper guys have. Dick Hay wasn't in so I'll have to go back down there. . . By the postoffice to wear the rag a while with Messers Bean and Sutley where we discussed just how picture was on a Ten thousand dollar bill. . . in case you know, my number is 22. Saw "Bulldog" and "Chicks" and the two were indulging in a bit of horseplay. . . Chick says he wants to advertise his fish but has been bringing that for low these many weeks. . . never he did come across as you will find out on an inner copy of this issue. . . in at Clanton Building Supply. . . Dewey Rockett promised us a nice Claus Ad for next week. They give a swell line of Christmas things to watch for the ad. So, its about time to get back to the office. Here we go, by way. Stopped in to see our favorite barber at the Ideal, Ollie Barber. He says business in his line is good. . . matter what comes or goes, folks will have to get hair cuts and shaves in a while.

CHILTON CO. AUX. NO. 13
S. W. U. ELECT OFFICERS

The Chilton County Auxiliary No. 13, S. W. U. held its regular meeting the courthouse Sunday afternoon, December 1st and felt honored by having Mrs. Linnie Mae Brobston, of Bessemer, in at Clanton Building Supply. . . Dewey Rockett promised us a nice Claus Ad for next week. They give a swell line of Christmas things to watch for the ad. So, its about time to get back to the office. Here we go, by way. Stopped in to see our favorite barber at the Ideal, Ollie Barber. He says business in his line is good. . . matter what comes or goes, folks will have to get hair cuts and shaves in a while.

THORBY LADIES' GUILD TO HOLD BAZAAR DEC. 7TH

The Ladies Guild of Thorby will hold a Bazaar in the old Post Office building on the 7th of December. Lunch will be served from 11:00 o'clock on. Various articles will be on sale throughout the afternoon and delicious homemade cakes will be served. Every one invited.

Patillo To Speak To Clanton Lions

At the regular bi-monthly meeting of the Clanton Lions Friday night, Cato Patillo, Chilton County Circuit Clerk, will be guest speaker. Mr. Patillo is an able speaker and a large attendance is expected.

TUBERCULOSIS Seal Sale Begins Officially December Ninth

The Chilton County Tuberculosis Association announced this week that its annual Christmas Seal Sale will officially begin December 9th. Final preparations for the sale are being completed now. Bangles and seals are being distributed to the schools by workers of the department of Education and on the 9th letters containing seals sent to citizens of Chilton County will be in the mail. Persons who do not receive seals through the mail may obtain them from Mrs. M. R. Shepherd, of the Health Office or the Board of Education.

Over three-fourths of the money from the seal sale will remain in Chilton County for the promotion of Tuberculosis work. This money is sorely needed as there are now 23 active cases of Tuberculosis in Chilton County and 125 contacts. Fifteen cases are in Clanton. Last year the Association purchased a pneumothorax machine (machine for collapsing lung with air) and paid the cost of these treatments. The treatments were given to patients returned from the Sanatorium. Sputum cups were furnished to all tuberculosis cases free of charge. The Association also had valuable diagnostic work as well as sponsoring a Tuberculosis educational program. A Tuberculosis essay contest was conducted in the high schools and it's the intent of the Organization to carry this work this coming year.

Anyone interested in the Tuberculosis program of this county is invited to the Tuberculosis Exhibit at the County Health Office. Come see the map of Tuberculosis cases in the county, a pneumothorax machine, and other features of the Tuberculosis project.

Let us make this campaign a success. Purchase seals so that this work of diagnosis, treatment, and Tuberculosis education for our protection as well as for the benefit of the afflicted may be carried on successfully this coming year.

Marriage Of Miss Nix And Mr. Joseph Macon Solemnized

A pretty wedding of November 28 was that of Miss Helen Nix, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. H. M. Nix, of Maplesville and Mr. Joseph Macon, of Wetumpka, which was solemnized at 5:00 o'clock at the Maplesville Baptist church.

Rev. Shepard Bryan, of Wetumpka, read the vows in the presence of a large assembly of friends and relatives, using the ring ceremony, which was accompanied by music furnished by Mrs. Charles Ruffin, Aunt of the groom.

Southern Smilax, palms and ferns formed the background for the altar. The center and each side was illuminated with tapers in candlesticks, flanking each side of the candlesticks were white pedestal baskets holding pastel shades of gladioli and snapdragons.

The candles were lighted by Miss Bess Nix, a cousin of the bride and the bride, Miss Sanford, a cousin of the bride.

H. M. Nix, Jr., a brother of the bride and John William Macon, a brother of the groom, acted as ushers.

The best man was Ed Sanford, a cousin of the groom.

The bride's only attendant was her sister, Miss Margaret Nix. Her dress was rose wool with black accessories. Her corsage was red roses.

The bride entered with her father, who gave her in marriage. She wore a costume of blue wool crepe, with accessories in the same shade, and her corsage was orchids and lilies of the valley.

After the ceremony, Dr. and Mrs. Nix entertained with a reception at their home for the bridal party, relatives and out-of-town guests. The bride's table was covered with an imported lace cloth and was centered with a three tier cake embossed in white and pale green. It was further ornamented with tapers in crystal holders and bows of white snapdragons.

The bride was educated in the public school of Maplesville and Montevalle. She attended the University of Alabama and received A. B. S. degree in Home Economics. While there she took a prominent part in student activities—being a member of Phi Mu Sorority and president of Woman's Student Government Association in her senior year.

The groom is a graduate of Wetumpka High School, and University of Alabama Law School. He was a member of Sigma Chi social Fraternity. He is practicing law in Wetumpka, where the couple will make their home.

"WHITE XMAS" CAMPAIGN GETS UNDERWAY

Again the call comes to Methodists of Alabama, and West Florida, from 161 children at the Methodist Children's Home at Selma, with many more clamoring for admission, for sustenance during the coming year. The call must again be answered through a "White Christmas" campaign, culminating on Sunday, December 22, with what is hoped will be a generous response through the North Alabama and the Alabama Conferences.

Kenneth E. Cooper, of this city, chairman of the Board of Directors of the Home, in appeal in behalf of the Home, points out that this Children's Home is not supported by any organized charity, and its needs are not represented on any known budget. It must depend absolutely on the generosity and kindness of the Methodists of Alabama.

The "White Christmas" quota for this year from both the North Alabama and the Alabama Conferences jointly is $30,000, an amount barely sufficient to provide the many needs of the children and at the same time also provide for much needed improvement of the facilities of the home for many little ones "on the waiting list."

Chairman Cooper in his plea urges that every Methodist church school and young people's department arrange a special "White Christmas" observance for the benefit of this Home, and that an offering be made, by every man, woman and child of the Church, to be turned in during these exercises as a part of the respective White Christmas programs. Every Methodist Church should organize now for this effort, says Mr. Cooper.

White Christmas campaign headquarters are now open at 606 First National Building, Birmingham, with Mrs. Olin H. Horton, in charge of the office, and suitable programs, plans for events, Christmas plays and other needed material may be obtained by communicating with her.

Clanton Methodist Church

Rev. T. C. Casaday, Pastor

The Clanton Methodist Church has a new pastor and everyone is cordially invited to come worship there at all services, not only next Sunday, but, beginning with Mr. Casaday, constantly. Let us begin full cooperation with him immediately, not waiting until he has been here for a few weeks or longer. Then may we never slack up on this full cooperation. Included in full cooperation would be constantly praying for our church and all its officers and members, prayerfully attending all church services, supporting our church with at least a tithe and standing ready and offering ourselves for service at every opportunity or call in any capacity. Let us love each other and our church and its pastor with his family.

The services will be as usual next Sunday, Church School at 9:45, Morning Worship Service at 11:00, Young People's and Junior League at 6:30 and Evening Worship Service at 7:15.

Mayor Calls Meetin

Mayor Cohen E. Stapp has called a meeting of the Carpenters Union in Chilton County to be held at the City Hall next Sunday morning at 9:15 o'clock. All members are urged by Mayor Stapp to be at the City Hall at this meeting as subjects vital to the Union in this county are to be discussed.

BIG STREET FAIR

Here All This Week Benefit City High School Athletic Association

This is the Alabama Amusement Co., featuring the closest amusement in Alabama. There is safe rides and clean shows and fun. There is plenty of thrills and this is the first time for the Big Free Act to be shown here in Clanton. Featuring Capt. Sandeland and his fighting lions each night on the midway for your amusement. There is no gun-whip-chair or rod used while in the big steel cage. That is the big free act you will see when you visit the Midway of Thrills.

Mr. King says this show caters to the entire family and its our business to make people happy.

This is Alabama's own show and it stays in Alabama all the year, go out and see the Big Free Acts each night. Free admission to show grounds. Located in rear of the Ford Motor Co.

Communication Received From State Guard Headquarters By Stapp

Mayor Cohen E. Stapp received the following communication from State Guard Headquarters in Montgomery Tuesday morning:

Members of the Home Guard, chosen from Legionnaires but the state is self explanatory.

To Post Commanders and Adjutants: November 23, 1940.

1. The Home Guard is a part of the State Guard to which no new members are to be added and a maximum of 500 men is to be maintained.

2. The Home Guard is to be organized in each county with the exception of those counties with Mobile Counties, which have three and two units respectively. Each unit to have a minimum strength of forty men and a maximum of fifty men, with a Captain, 10 Second Lieutenants and the necessary number of Sergeants and Corporals to perform the military duties.

3. The Home Guard will receive its personnel through voluntary enlistment and will accept men between the ages of eighteen and sixty, excepting those who are subject to draft under the recent selective service act.

4. The officials of the Legion are desirous that all commissioned and non-commissioned officers be members of the American Legion. The commissioned officers of each unit will be selected by The American Legion membership of their respective posts and are to be approved and commissioned by the Governor of Alabama.

5. January 15th is the tentative date that the Home Guard will be called in to service. By the Governor, since this is the date set when "the balance of National Guard" will be drafted into Federal Service.

6. Your Department Commander is anxious to have each Unit organized and ready for service when the call comes, to do this it will require about one month of hard work to get all units properly organized, so on or before December 15th enlistment blanks and other information will be furnished the officers of each Legion Post to enable them to complete their organization by January 15th.

7. In the meantime, you as an officer and member of the Legion, must realize your responsibility in perfecting an organization that will be a credit to the State of Alabama, the community in which your unit will be located. This I am sure will be your thought and purpose in perfecting the "State Guard."

8. It is requested that you immediately take steps to secure the personnel, first the commissioned officers, a Captain, a First Lieutenant, and Second Lieutenant, and have at least five Sergeants and it is expected that all of these will be members of the Legion—then secure the required number of enlisted men—a minimum of forty and maximum of seventy-five, all of these to be of course, volunteers for this service.

9. The enlistments will be for a period of three years or until the return of the National Guard to the State. Details of organization will be furnished not later than December 15th but it is absolutely necessary that you perfect the organization with the least trouble, at the same time bearing in mind the necessity of forming the best unit possible.

For the Adjutant General: —George L. Cleere, Colonel, Alabama State Guards Commanding.

The next regular meeting of the local Legion Post will be held Friday night, December 13 at 7:30 at the courthouse. All members are urged to be present for this meeting. It is important that you attend.

HOWARD THOMAS MOVED TO SELMA HOSPITAL

Howard Thomas, who was seriously injured several weeks ago in an automobile accident, has been transferred to the King Memorial Hospital in Selma, his condition is improving.

Mrs. Thomas underwent an operation in Selma Hospital Tuesday but we have not received word as to her condition. Mrs. Thomas together with their two children were injured in the same accident.

First Baptist Church

Oscar A. Davis, Pastor
Clanton, Alabama

Teams of workers in Every Member Cathvas will begin a thorough visitation of every Baptist Home in Clanton on next Sunday afternoon. Members of the First Baptist Church are asked to co-operate by deciding before hand the amounts that they can give weekly through their church for the year 1941, thus definitely and at once being able to state the amount of their pledge to the workers. Help the workers by a prompt and cordial response to their appeal. If possible, increase your pledge for the coming year.

A Christmas Story

Mystic magic has brought all the sleeping children to Christmasland. Suddenly they are awakened...

The Greeting!

AND SO BEGINS THE FIRST BIG CONVENTION OF CHILDREN AT SANTA'S HOME! IT'S A HAPPY TIME FOR EVERYONE!

IN MEMORY OF MRS. LUTHER DUNLAP

Only a few weeks ago we lost our darling mother, one we loved so well; She has gone to live with Jesus, in the land where Angels dwell. Our hearts were filled with pain; But we have this consolation, Our loss, is Heaven's gain.

Seems as though my heart will burst as Christmas draws nearer. I always planned to go home to see mamma and carry her presents which she always appreciated so much. If we live the life mamma lived, when our work here is finished, Thou wilt say: "Well done, come up higher and live with mother, Father, an dmany other precious one."

Oh, dear mother, how we miss you. Our hearts are sad and lone. But we know that you are happy with father and loved one around the bright and shining Throne.

—Mrs. Luther Williams.

The day of prayer for Foreign Missions will be observed at Mulberry Baptist church on Friday, December 6th at 10:00 o'clock a.m. Everyone in the community is cordially invited to attend.

Brislin Funeral Home Sold

SELMA, ALA.—The Brislin Brothers Funeral Home here, established in 1916 by the three Brislin brothers, M. S. Charles F. and Andrew D. Brislin, was sold Thursday to the Funeral Directors Insurance Company of Birmingham. It is announced here by M. S. Brislin.

A. M. Blanton, of Tuscaloosa, named as manager by H. G. Jones, president of the insurance company, assumed immediate charge.

IN THE COTTON MARKETING QUOTA REFERENDUM, DEC. 7

1941 COTTON MARKETING QUOTA REFERENDUM BALLOT

Do you favor cotton marketing quotas for the 1941 crop?

If you are for quotas put "Y" in this box

YES ☐

If you are against quotas put "N" in this box

NO ☐

Cotton producers will have the opportunity on Saturday, December 7, to decide whether cotton marketing quotas, which have been in effect during the past three years, will apply to the 1941 crop. Every producer of cotton should go to his community polling place where he will be given a ballot, like the one shown above, on which to express his opinion. It is both a privilege and a duty of each producer to cast his ballot in the referendum. Whether the referendum is really representative of the farmers' thinking depends upon the number of producers who vote on December 7.

On Saturday, December 7, the farmers of Chilton County will vote in the 1941 Cotton Marketing Quota Referendum.

Voting for or against the marketing quota is not a vote on the AAA program. There will be a program in 1941 regardless of whether or not the vote carries.

There is about 25,000,000 bales of American cotton carry-over this year. This is about two and one-half years supply at the present rates of consumption. Everyone who produced cotton in 1940 is eligible to vote in this referendum. It is hoped that all eligible voters in Chilton county will vote next Saturday.

For the purpose of the Referendum, voting will be at the following places:

- Beat 1.—Mullins Schoolhouse.
- Beat 2.—Jemison and Mars Hill.
- Beat 3.—Isabella.
- Beat 4.—Courthouse (Clanton) and Haynes' Store
- Beat 5.—Verbena
- Beat 6.—Enterprise, Kincheon and Training School.
- Beat 7.—Maplesville.
- Beat 8.—Stanton.
- Beat 9.—Thorsby and Collins Chapel.
- Beat 10.—Cooper.
- Beat 11.—Cane Creek.
- Beat 12.—Union Grove.
- Beat 13.—Providence.
- Beat 14.—Macedonia.
- Beat 15.—Pletcher and Culp School.
- Beat 16.—Providence.

Alabama County Bonds Approximately $43,945,625

Montgomery, Ala.—Debts of Alabama's 67 counties total approximately $43,945,625 at state Department of Finance compilation has revealed.

Only two counties, Butler and Talladega, are debt-free it is shown, Jefferson having the largest debt of all—$13,432,500.

The debts are in the form of bonds, warrants and temporary loans. Several counties owe more than the State constitution allows. These debts, however, were made before property values crashed during the depression, departmental officials said.

The compilation, first of its kind in the history of the State, was supervised by Edward Crosland, chief of the local Finance Division of the State Finance Department.

The object of the report is to improve the credit of counties and increase the market value of county securities, he said. Copies of this report are being sent to securities dealers. Mr. Crosland expects to make a similar report on municipalities, he stated.

Only the period up to September 30, 1939 is covered in the compilation. The report does not indicate debts to which only revenues from a particular project are pledged, but it includes temporary loans not usually charged to the constitutionally allowed limit. This limit represents three and one-half per cent of any county's assessed property valuations.

One hundred and seventeen with accrued interest was recently offered for Chilton County bonds, with no takers.

Billiard Magician To Appear Here Soon

If you are a lover of billiards or pocket billiards, and are particularly intrigued and mystified by exhibitions of trick and fancy shots, you had better come early and secure an advantageous spot in the Clanton Billiard parlor, where on Tuesday, December 10th, Clarence Anderson, world's champion fancy shot pocket-billiardist will display his wizardry and uncanny control of the ivories. Anderson first gained recognition in 1934 when the National Billiard Association used him as an instructor in the promotion of billiards. In all rooms where he appeared he was tireless in his efforts to improve both beginner and veteran alike, and soon gained a national following. Never a champion in the competitive sense, Anderson possesses an almost limitless repertory of fancy shots, which he either copied or originated, but nevertheless perfected greater degree than any billiard exhibitor on the circuit. He has been featured as a special attraction during world championship tournaments, and no finer comment could be paid him than the unsolicited assertion by "Charlie" Peterson, that "Andy is in a class by himself as an entertainer on a pocket table." Willie Hoppe says Clarence "Tops in his line".

Anderson features his show with a sizzler in which he clears the table all fifteen balls in one stroke, without the use of strings or mirrors. Hailing from Kane, Pa., the "Houdini of Pocket Billiards", knows and plays more trick shots, and misses less than any player in the world. Anderson will follow up his exhibition with free instructions to all on how to improve your game. He will not instruct in fancy shots. Exhibition starts at seven p.m. promptly, with admission free to all.

Meeting Industry's Defense Telephone Needs

MANY southern industries are strenuously at work building new plants, expanding existing ones, and generally gearing their facilities and man-power to advance the nation's defense program.

It is a tremendous and urgent job they have taken on. Their rapidly increasing communications needs create an equally important job of service expansion for the Telephone Company, including the engineering and installation of enlarged telephone facilities in many localities.

These industries are going ahead with their production and expansion activities and plans, with confidence that the Telephone Company will meet their telephone needs promptly and fully. Their daily requirements are being provided now, and the thousands of highly trained telephone workers are prepared with materials and experience to meet whatever service demands the future holds.

ALABAMA CAN AFFORD CONCRETE ROADS

How Many More Spoiled Holidays?

THE unfortunate holiday experience of thousands of motorists on inadequate roads again emphasizes the need for highways and streets adapted to modern traffic.

Many so called improved roads are actually obsolete — too narrow, high crowned with sharp curves and poor surface. Pleasure of driving is gone. Motoring costs are increased. And commercial interests are also at stake.

Widening; paving; cutting back corners; banking curves; grade separation; elimination of bottle necks, hazards, rail crossings and congested intersections are all vital highway needs.

And see it that the new paving of concrete, for first cost and maintenance cost of concrete are less than for any other pavement of equal load-carrying capacity.

Recommend concrete for safe modern highways at lowest annual cost.

Agency, this is to be included in determining the number of mattresses which the family may receive under the program.

Applications for mattresses will be taken in the various communities on December 10, 11, and 12, 1940, and on January 21, 22, and 23, 1941, by the chairman in the community. Persons making applications are urged to make applications at their nearest community center since it will be necessary to report to the center at which the application was made for making the mattresses.

I am listing below a partial list of persons who are to serve as chairmen. If your community has not been listed do not go out of your community to make application as a chairman will be appointed for your community and you will be advised to whom application will be made.

As in the first program NO applications will be taken in the office of the Home Agent County Agent or AAA. All applications must be submitted by community chairmen.

They may be had in every color, in all types of foliage, and in heights from ground cover types to six and eight foot specimens. Such as hollyhocks and tree dahias. Annuals and perennials may be used in border planting. These plantings should be in the private areas of home grounds. Seldom, if ever, will it be found advisable to use many plants of this nature in the front lawn area."

He also discussed propagation and ornamental plants and make this statement regarding ornamental plants, "In preparing the soil for growing any type of ornamental plant, just as care of consideration should be given as for any vegetable or field crop. No elaborate equipment is necessary for propagating ornamental plants for the home grounds. Probably the most essential things are a sharp knife, water, boxes of flats, and ATTENTION."

The 1940-41 Cotton Mattress Program is being started in Chilton county as of December 1, 1940. This marks the beginning of a second program.

Requirements for eligibility are listed below:

(a). A family consists of two or more persons having a common or a separate independent household, pooled income and living together as an interdependent economic unit in one household, or one person maintaining

(b). A low income rural family is any family which had for the last preceding calendar year a total income of not more than $500, plus $50 for each member of the family in excess of four persons, and which (1) lives in the country OR (2) lives in a village, town, or city, and derived at least one-half of its total income during the last preceding calendar year from agricultural occupations.

(c). Total Income means the cash income received from all sources or earned and collectible, plus the local market value of unsold farm products raised for sale or received at payment for services or rent and held for sale minus farm rent paid or to be paid in cash.

Maximum Number of Mattresses Per Family. Each eligible family may receive one mattress for each two persons in the family, but not to exceed a total of three mattresses. Where one person constitutes a family under the provisions of this program, such person is eligible to receive one mattress. If the family has already received a mattress or has made application for material to make a mattress, under the Cotton Mattress Project, or has received a mattress or the material to make a mattress from the Farm Security Administration or the State Welfare

Stanton 4-H Club

The Stanton 4-H Club girls were ready and waiting on Tuesday morning, November 19, for our Home Demonstration Agent to arrive. The meeting was called to order at 10:00. We were ready to start our school year off with a good beginning in 4-H Club work, because we had, on the last meeting of last year, chosen our club officers, and they were ready to take their part.

They are as follows: President, Mary Golsen; Vice-president, Dorothy Harrison; Secretary, Evelyn Gregg; Reporter, Vera McKinney and Song Leader, Mrs. A. J. LeCroy.

After the roll call for the officers, Miss Barber said that it was the first school to have all the officers back for the following year. Then she called the roll to see if all the members were back that were there last year and if we had any new members.

Then she gave us a book showing us how to sew and how to make different kind of stitches. She also gave us a hat and pocket-book pattern.

Then she gave us our record books for the year 1941 and a 4-H magazine. For the closing of the meeting, our song leader had us in a number of songs.

We ended the program by giving the club pledge.—Reporter.

Mobile Judge Shot Accidentally

MOBILE, ALA.—Matt A. Boykin, Judge of Mobile county probate court and brother of Rep. Frank W. Boykin (dem., Ala.), was accidentally shot to death in a hunting accident Saturday. He was about 50 years old.

His body was found on a deer stand by his hunting companions, after his favorite bird dog had attracted their attention and drew them to the scene.

The supposition is, he tripped over a log and his gun discharged the full load, entering his abdomen.

Dr. Casaday Comes To Clanton

Most communities are accustomed to seeing their Methodist Episcopal ministers moved from place to place because of the requirement for many years in force that no minister should remain in the same place for more than four years.

Often the partings are very sad. Able ministers draw the members of their flocks close to them and there is a bond that becomes so strong between pastor and congregation that its severance is often a trying ordeal. Yet the bishops in ordering removals have in mind the greatest good to the greatest number and feel that especially well qualified and well-beloved ministers should be moved so that others may have some of the advantages of their ability and spiritual leadership.

There is one Methodist minister in Montgomery who has been here for 18 years and now is to be removed to another field. The Rev. T. C. Casaday pastor of the Capitol Heights Methodist Church began his work in Montgomery as a minister of the Methodist Protestant denomination which did not have the same rules about removals as the other branches of the Methodist denominations. Recently the union of Methodist Protestants brought them all into the same organization. Dr. Casaday thus became subject to the orders of the Methodist bishop stationed in Alabama and he is now removed to the Methodist Church of Clanton.

Dr. Casaday is so intimately associated with the religious life of Montgomery that his removal and that of Mrs. Casaday call for special regrets. Dr. Casaday has been an influential leader and is responsible for the building of the Methodist Church at Capitol Heights as well as the parsonage. More important even than that he has been a wheel horse in the work of the ministerial association of the city and has contributed much more than his share of thought and effort to the civic and religious life of the community.

Montgomery's loss is Clanton's gain for Dr. Casaday will make himself felt wherever he is stationed, and to the personal friends he has formed in Montgomery it is gratifying that he and Mrs. Casaday will be stationed closely enough to Montgomery that they can make frequent renewals of friendships and acquaintances. Certainly he goes with the good wishes of thousands of Montgomeries familiar with his work and appreciative of his services here.—Editor C. M. Stanley, in Montgomery Alabama Journal.

Who's Next, ALABAMA?

As usual, Alabama Magazine this week nominated another candidate for Governor.

Using the same formula by which it has nominated already Jim Simpson, Hayse Tucker, Sam Hobbs and Hugh Comer, Alabama Magazine announced that a movement was taking form to interest Harwell Davis in the race, and that "it was sprouting from many sections."

Alabama's political writer has a remarkable nose for detection of public sentiment. He can "sniff out" "groundswells," "flurry of sentiment" or "movement in favor of" in every issue of his publication. This talent is the envy of every other political observer in the state.

Only sad thing about this is that Alabama's candidates fade so fast. Their "flurry" and "groundswells" movements come in such rapid succession that they bump into each other with sickening results.

This is not to throw off on Harwell Davis, former state's attorney general and federal collector of internal revenue who is now serving as president of the Howard College. He is a distinguished product of Etowah County, and we admire him.

But Harwell Davis is not a likely prospect for Governor of Alabama, and Alabama Magazine knows it. The search for a more hopeful candidate than Chauncy Sparks against Bibb Graves will have to go further.

We look forward to next week's trial balloon. Who will he be, Alabama? Don't have the boys crowding—Anniston Times.

Poll Tax Repeal

John Hix Tuesday morning in his Strange as it seems confirms what many of us already knew in these words: "The right to vote is not conferred by the U. S. government, it is a state right." Read it again, you Poll Tax Repealer.—Alexander City Outlook.

Meaning one of whom we are which. And we demur: Because it is a state right instead of a federal state doesn't make it right.—The Chilton County News.

Well, here we go again, you Mark Tuckers, John Temple Graves, J. Arthur Downers, et al. Whether poll-tax paying is right or wrong is not what this writer is concerned with so much as our objection to a California Congressman or any other law maker undisturbed the state of Alabama having anything to say about what we of Alabama shall do.

It's cold this morning; our fingers are stiff; this old Remington is about as inviting as riding muleback "to the store," if you want our idea about the poll tax question we refer you to our attorney, Judge Walter B. Jones, who can be found in the court house in Montgomery. Anyhow we merely wish for Citizens of Alabama the right to enact their own laws.

Roosevelt's Responsibility

As we turn from our political preoccupations, the European sky looks darker, the hour later. And this leads back to what is actually the most important effect of the election as translated into terms of foreign policy. It is the effect on Mr. Roosevelt himself.

The reporters at Hyde Park on election night noted that there was no elation in the first reaction of the White House family to the news of his reelection. One of those present said it was received in a silence weighted by something like gloom and foreboding. Another heard the President sigh heavily as he sat alone by the fire. For the first few minutes the shadow and burden of the years to come seemed to fall on the President's elect.

No wonder; for if ever the head of a government took the world on his shoulders it is the chief executive of the United States in this moment. Mr. Roosevelt himself elected not to shift that load; now he has been elected to represent America for four more years, and in this period America will decide its own fate, the outcome of the war and in great degree the pattern of the future.

The responsibility assumed by Mr. Roosevelt in the local panic of 1932 was small indeed compared to his responsibility today.—Annie O'Hara McCormick in New York Times.

Papers Consolidate

The biggest shuffle in Alabama news-papery in a decade took place Sunday, December 1st, when The Montgomery Advertiser took over the Alabama Journal and Times.

Both these old established newspapers have consistently opposed dictatorial schemes which is mightily close kin to monopoly.

The editors and makers of both papers are tops, and while the consolidation as a business proposition may be profitable, we doubt if the removal of editorial competition will be profitable either to the papers or their constituencies.

Judicial Persiflage

Courts are dignified places and the men around them normally keep themselves wrapped in mantles of dignity and decorum. But outside the court room to the public channels, the four judicial friends of long standing are J. O. Middleton, the Republican referee in bankruptcy of the Federal Court in Montgomery; Judge John J. Hayne, the veteran assistant attorney general of Alabama; Judge James Rice of the Court of Appeals, and Walter K. McDory, clerk of the Montgomery Juvenile Court and court of Domestic Relations and former head of the State Department of Public Safety.

Chief McDory is a veteran Democrat who takes pleasure in telling Judge Middleton that if he had made one more Republican speech in Maine during the recent campaign, Roosevelt would have carried the state. Whereupon, Judge Middleton takes judicial notice of the fact that the members of the Court of Appeals have recently adopted black silk robes as symbols of the dignity and impersonality of the court, and the practice of Judge Rice wears while they are sitting, as symbols of their dignity.

Chief McDory insists that Judge Haynes has already given Judge Middleton an opinion on the subject but that Judge Middleton refuses to make it public because Judge Haynes ruled that it was all right for Democratic justices to wear robes of the finest silk, but that Republican justices in Chilton County, Judge Middleton's home county, would be entitled to wear nothing but black calico robes.—C. M. Stanley's Column, "Under The Capitol Dome" in Alabama Journal.

Judge Middleton discloses that he has called upon Judge Haynes for a formal opinion as to the propriety of Alabama's justices of the peace adopting silk robes like Judge Rice wears while they are sitting, as symbols of their dignity.

MORAL ECHOES

REV. D. W. HASKEW, D.D.

A German author recently quoted Hitler as saying, "One is either a German or a Christian; he can not be both" and then he followed that statement that in time Hitler would, "Crush Christianity". Advocates of the German faith tell us that only the man who is free from the church can find his way back to the springs of life. They tell us that the words of Christ, "I say unto you love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you", this is either for morons and idiots. They also tell us that the ethics of the sermon on the mount were intended for cowards and idiots. In other words, the church of Christ, the kingdom of God, are face to face with the Arch demon of our Christianity and the battle is on. Christian people should be praying as never before. God is not dead.

The question is being asked, "Can Hitler win?" The record made during the first year of the war says, "Yes, he can win." Hitler may win battles, but he can't win the war. The wish of the writer may be father to the thought, but we think that the explanation of Victor Hugo's fall of Napoleon will prove true in the case of Hitler. Hugo said, "Was it possible for Napoleon to keep up with the practice of the Supreme Courts of the United States and of Alabama."

Judge Middleton discloses that he has called upon Judge Haynes for a formal opinion as to the propriety of Alabama's justices of the peace adopting silk robes like Judge Rice wears while they are sitting, as symbols of their dignity.

Chief McDory insists that Judge Haynes has already given Judge Middleton an opinion on the subject but that Judge Middleton refuses to make it public because Judge Haynes ruled that it was all right for Democratic justices to wear robes of the finest silk, but that Republican justices in Chilton County, Judge Middleton's home county, would be entitled to wear nothing but black calico robes.—C. The will went into the courts, but the Finish courts decided that the man was sane and that he had a right to will his property to the person of his choice. In upholding the will it was decided by the courts that the land should be left alone, never touched by human hands, allowing it to revert to its wilderness state. The decision of that court causes me to ask this question, "Do things that are left alone to themselves naturally and of necessity go to the devil?" We all admit that children left to themselves alone will rapidly go to the devil. Let them run wild and they become a wilderness of sin.

It is a fact that we do not believe in the devil today as our fathers used to do. We have broadened the door of our creed and we have let the devil through. He has become a bit known in pulpit and pew, and we only speak of him in bated breath. We are kinder ashamed to let his name escape from our lips. To be sure it is not polished pulpit etiquette, but what I would like to know is it that is throwing the fatal shaft that pains heart and brain. Who is it that is releasing war and covering the earth with millions torn and slain? Who is it that digs the steps of saints and digs pits for unprotected feet, and who is it that sows his tares wherever God sows His wheat? For some sound reasoning I believe that there is a devil. Don't you?

Dies and "Rackets"

The Dies Committee would perhaps be serving a better purpose if it would let the constituted authorities of the Federal Law Enforcement Department look after the saboteurs, and devote its time and attention to the "rackets" which are springing up to separate the average American from his dollar and his dime.

Syphilis Patient Arrested

Last week a 19 year old negro male was turned over to city authorities for failure to take venereal disease treatment. This patient was given adequate warning of the penalty for failure to take treatment but chose to learn by experience.

Dr. Crowell states that it is necessary to keep syphilis patients in line even when drastic measures must be used because they are a danger to the community. Syphilis is spread by persons with the disease and may be transmitted to those in contact with them or articles infected by them. Persons employing cooks or other help in the household are advised to require blood tests before employment. Send your cook or nursemaid to the Health Department on Monday from 2:00 to 5:00 p.m. or Saturday morning for a blood test. If you have someone working for you who is under treatment, please cooperate with us by seeing that they attend the clinic regularly.

Medallion Features Range Gift

A unique and attractive way to make an electric range a really personal Christmas gift has been developed by the makers of one such home appliance. The "personal" touch is accomplished with the use of a sterling silver medallion, engraved with the name of the receiver or the words "Christmas 1934," attached permanently to the range. Such a memento carries out the sentimental side of Christmas gift giving. Dealers who are offering it declare, and permit selection of a wonderful gift that actually is of a personal nature.

"Swanee River"

Georgians should be especially interested in the news that the author of "Swanee River" or "Old Folks at Home," has been elected to New York University's Hall of Fame. Stephen Collins Foster, composer of songs that have flitted their way around the world, never saw the river he immortalized. But he must have known that it sprang from Georgia's green earth and meandered for many miles through her lowlands ere it broadened to a larger life in Florida and rolled onward to the Gulf.

A century and fourteen years have passed since Foster was born, July 4, 1826, in what was then the little town of Pittsburgh, Pa.; and it is now seventy-six years since he died in a New York charity hospital, penniless and lonely. But his songs live on, in every language of civilization and in hundreds of millions of hearts. As a poet and a master of the art of music he cannot remotely compare with Georgia's Sidney Lanier, whose name has been unsuccessfully proposed for a place in the Hall of Fame. This fact, however, in no wise diminishes the fame to which Stephen Collins Foster—a singer of a wholly different kind from the noble maker of the "Marsh Hymns"—is justly entitled.

Strange that this son of the North should have given the South its best-known melodies. And yet not strange for there are no boundary lines in the realms of music, no North or South in the mystical touches that make all human hearts akin. "My Old Kentucky Home," "Nelly Gray," "Come Where my Love Lies Dreaming," "Old Black Joe," "Oh—Susanna," "Massa in de Cold Ground," "Hard Times Come Again No More," "Jeanie With the Light Brown Hair,"—these and others of the more than 200 songs he wrote before he died, aged 37, are as perennial as healthful and the flowers of the field. Best remembered, best-loved perhaps of them all is "Way Down Upon de Swanee Ribber."

In Clinch County, Georgia, at the village of Fargo, where a national tourist highway crosses the Southern Railroad, there has stood since 1928 a shaft of Stone Mountain granite on which is inscribed: "Erected in Memory of Stephen Collins Foster at the Source of the Stream Which He Made Immortal in Song, Swanee River." The donor of the memorial is Charles J. Haden, of Atlanta, known for many apt and beautiful deeds. "The Swanee," says Mr. Haden, "is a Georgia stream by birth right, though the State of Florida endows it with the right of way to tide water." From the wonderland of the vast Okefenokee Swamp, now a reservation of the Federal Government, the river emerges and flows southwestward some 25 miles, where it crosses the Florida border. An enchanting stream in its own right, but above all a river of song, winding, like Burns' "sweet Afton," through the hearts of the world.—Atlanta Journal.

By Irvin Lande

The United States is rapidly approaching the cross-roads of its destiny. That is to say, the United States is coming at a reckless pace to the most conclusive decision in its entire history. We are approaching that point where we shall be forced to make up our minds to our future policy in this world of hopes and fears.

The British Empire, we have heard over and over again, is our outpost of protection against totalitarian aggressors. I have been informed by the calm observer and by the hysterical reporter that if that empire is to fall our defense shall be the very blood of American soldiers. But until Britain falls, our way of life shall continue as before, and we shall only be asked to make some small sacrifices in order that we shall be able to render some aid to the United Kingdom.

The war has dragged on now for about fifteen months, and we have watched the United States and Great Britain become the last remaining strongholds of democracy. Little did Americans think that after fifteen months of warfare, France, the Netherlands, Belgium, Norway, and Denmark should have fallen without comparative resistance to Hitler and the Nazi. Therefore, if, within fifteen months more than five countries shall have fallen, how long can we expect a nation which has endured all those previous fifteen months to withstand many more months of devastating war? How long can we expect a nation to endure the ceaseless bombing of their important cities—cities like London, Manchester, Bristol, and Coventry? For how long will a nation suffer its ships to go down on the high seas, its crews to become bodies of the deep? How long will Great Britain, the nation who is suffering all this, be able to watch her great masterpieces of construction be destroyed?

Of course, we know the answers to all those questions. We do expect Great Britain to hold out against the Nazis indefinitely—even until victory is won—because we know that Britain has the will to win which was lacking in those other nations. We expect Britain to defeat the Nazis, because of her superior resources, even if she does say that her money reserves in the United States are nearly exhausted. We know that the British love their government, as symbolized by their king, too much to cast it aside in a moment of their history in which they are undergoing severe pain.

We know those things, and, surely, if we expect so much of Britain, and we know they are capable of so much, then it is asking too much that Americans face squarely now their responsibilities in this fight for democracy?

That is the first highway sign which tells us that we are approaching our destiny as a nation. And not much further down the road, we reach the first sign of decision—a decision which once made, cannot be changed. That is the decision of giving Great Britain every aid in this fight. We have already, more or less, pledged ourselves to make that decision. And by so doing, we shall have made the first great decision in our future; for our ability to make decisions and then to stick to them shall be the greatest aid we shall have besides the tangible aid of resources, man-power, and equipment.

Having won the war, our battle shall just be begun. For, from there, we shall have to carry on the aim of that war. We shall have to, in the truest sense of the word, make the world safe for democracy—for, by so doing, we shall have made the world safe for the American way of life.

Yes, we all have heard these things—repeated and repeated. We know them and we believe them. But the time is not far distant when we shall have to act upon them. If this nation is really united, if she has the leadership she claims to possess, then she shall manifest her ability, and become the citadel and founder of freedom for all men.

By so insuring peace for all, Americans will, for the first time in their life, be able to work earnestly toward the solving of their own problems. We Americans need peace and we need it badly. We need peace so that we may balance the budget, that we might find jobs for the millions of unemployed, that we might raise the standard of living to even greater heights, and that we might find a new sense of human happiness. Those things might seem small beside the fact that two great nations are engaged in defeating brutal aggression. But the small things are products of the larger, and from them both we shall receive the real solution to them all.

And just as the Founding Fathers declared a Declaration of Independence from War. As the Founding Fathers held that "Life, Liberty, and the pursuit of happiness" were self-evident, so must we hold self-evident the facts that to achieve the apex of human development, to solve the social and economic problems that are ours, to become physically strong, we must be free of war.

That is our destiny. It has its causes and its consequences. We may not realize it in the generation of us, or of those who follow us, but it shall be guided by principle in the benevolent governments of mankind.

Christmas Card Was Invented
By a Man With Many Friends

This is believed to be the first Christmas card. It was made in London in 1846.

CHRISTMAS cards are almost as much a part of Christmas as Santa Claus himself, yet they have been in use less than a century.

According to most records, the first Christmas card was designed in 1846 by Mr. J. C. Horsley, a prominent member of the Royal Academy of London. It was produced at the request of Sir Henry Cole, a popular man with many friends.

Sir Cole wondered how he could express his personal Christmas greeting to a thousand friends spread throughout England. After dismissing the thought of visiting each personally, or giving presents, he decided to send them each a card by mail.

One thousand hand colored cards were prepared with a picture showing a jolly family seated at a huge dinner table. Each member of the family was looking into a brimming glass which he held in his hand. When these cards were distributed, they raised a furor among temperance proponents throughout the country. The disturbance focused nation-wide attention on the new greeting card.

It was not until several years later, however, that the first lithographed Christmas card made its appearance. Originality was almost completely lacking. The greeting was invariably "A Merry Christmas" or "A Jolly Christmas." Designs seldom had anything to do with the season, but contained pictures of birds, flowers, animals or children.

America soon adopted the British custom, and the Christmas card was born.

IT ORDAINED, by the City Council of the City of Clanton, Alabama that the grade of Second Avenue North from the East property line of 14th Street (Kicker Street) to the East roadway line of Selma Road and 7th Avenue North from the Northeast property line of 8th Street to the Southwest property line of 10th Street and the curbs on both sides thereof be and the same are hereby fixed and established as shown on plan and profile sheets, Nos. 1, 2, and 3, inclusive, prepared by J. W. Goodwin Engineering Company, heretofore exhibited to this Council and now on file in the office of the City Clerk.

Approved December 3rd, 1940, Cohen E. Stapp, Mayor, City of Clanton, Ala. A true copy, V. J. Heard, City Clerk.

CITY ORDINANCE

Improvement Ordinance No. 105

An Ordinance to provide for certain improvements on Second Avenue North from East property line of 14th Street (Kicker Street) to the East roadway line of Selma Road and 7th Avenue North from the Northeast property line of 8th Street to the Southeast property line of 10th Street.

BE IT ORDAINED by the City Council of Clanton, Alabama as follows:

1. That Second Avenue North from the East property line of 14th Street (Kicker Street) to the East roadway line of Selma Road and 7th Avenue North from the Northeast property line of 8th Street to the Southwest property line of 10th Street shall be graded.

That a roadway 20 feet wide along the center line of Second Avenue North from the East property line of 14th Street (Kicker Street) to the East roadway line of Selma Road, and also along the center line of 7th Ave. North from a point 10 feet Northeast of the center line of 8th Street to a point 10 feet Southwest of the center line of 10th Street shall be paved with bituminous concrete and the existing street, cold lay asphalt seal on a 6" sand-clay gravel base.

That vitrified clay or concrete drain pipe, inlets, manholes of brick, cast iron covers, shall be constructed along said street between said points.

2. That said improvements shall be made in accordance with the established grades on file in the office of the City Clerk, for said portions of said highways and according to full details, drawings, plans, specifications, and surveys of said work, and estimates which have been prepared by the J. W. Goodwin Engineering Company, exhibited to this Council, and now on file in the office of the City Clerk in the City Hall where property owners who may be affected by the said improvements may see and examine same.

3. That the cost of constructing said improvements shall be assessed against the property abutting on the portions of the highway so improved, provided: (a) that the cost of improving any intersection or any part thereof shall be assessed against the lots or parcels of avenues, alleys, or other highways so land abutting on each other street intersection for half block in each direction therefrom, provided; that for the purpose of computing assessments no block shall be considered as extending more than 1000 feet from any intersection so improved; (b) that no assessment shall exceed the cost of such improvements or the increased value of such property by reason of the special benefits derived on such improvements.

4. That the detail estimates of cost of such improvements on file in the office of the City Clerk aggregate $13,219.05, and that the City Council of the City of Clanton, Alabama will meet on the 7th day of January 1941 in the Council chamber of the City Hall of Clanton, Alabama at 7:30 o'clock p.m., to hear any objections, remonstrances, or protests that may be made against said improvements, the manner of making the same, or the character of materials to be used.

Approved December 3, 1940, Cohen E. Stapp, Mayor, City of Clanton. A true copy, V. J. Heard, City Clerk.

Bethlehem Unchanged

In Twenty Centuries Bethlehem, "royal David's city," is still a city set on a hill. It is about six miles from Jerusalem.

It is a city of flat-roof houses which look cozy enough, and its narrow streets have an air of friendliness.

More Christians live in Bethlehem than in any other town in Palestine. On its hillsides you may still see shepherds with their flocks, while blinking overhead are the everlasting stars.

God Rest You—

God rest you, merry gentlemen,
Let nothing you dismay.
For Jesus Christ, our Savior,
Was born upon this day.
To save us all from Satan's power,
When we were gone astray.
Of tidings of comfort and joy,
For Jesus Christ, our Savior
Was born on a Christmas Day!

—Old English Carol

Legends Tell Story Of Christmas Tree

Christmas trees are as old as Christmas itself, if the story which has come down to us from the first Yuletide is true.

The legend relates that after the Three Wise Men and the shepherds who had heard the angels' "Peace on earth and good will to men" had worshipped Mary's babe, trees began coming to Bethlehem to worship the Holy Child; trees from all parts of the world.

First came the native palms from around Bethlehem, then came the maples, oaks, birches and hemlocks. At last there crept in a tiny fir tree from the frozen North. It was so small and modest that none paid any attention to it until suddenly a star dropped from the skies and twinkled on a bough of the little tree, then another and another, until the fir tree was spangled with celestial lights.

Decorations Old

Many more stories are told about the Christmas tree. The idea of decorating trees for festivals is very old, going back to the Egyptian pharaohs, whose people dressed their homes with palm leaves in mid-winter.

Another story is about Winifred, an English crusader who happened upon a group of Teutons worshipping a mighty oak in honor of Thor, their thunder god. Winifred stopped them from sacrificing a young boy to appease Thor's "anger," then with his great sword felled the oak with one stroke. In its place there suddenly appeared a young fir with a star twinkling on its top branch.

"Here," said the Christian knight, "is the living tree. This shall be the sign of your new worship. Carry this fir tree into your home and worship it there."

Some historians say the Christmas tree originated in Alsace in 1605 when the people brought fir trees to their homes and decorated them with paper roses, apples and wafers.

America's first Christmas tree was set up in Wooster, Ohio, in 1843, by August Imgard, a German immigrant. The first lighted tree in a church was at a Cleveland Lutheran church in 1848.

Christmas Decorations

Have Deep Meaning

Not many, probably, know of the deeper meaning associated with the three plants we ordinarily use for Christmas decorations, an authority writes. The holly has prickles and red berries. By the prickles we confess the bitter life of Jesus on earth. His watchings, His fastings, His weariness, His crown of thorns. By the berries we confess that He shed His blood for sinners.

The yew has little outside bark, but only a small kind, to teach us not to make a great outside show of religion; it is a lasting timber, suggesting the soundness of a Christian; it has many branches, meaning plentifulness in good works; and it is always green and prospering, even as the Christian should always grow and thrive in grace.

The laurel has the significance of victory. Jesus came into the world to loose the bonds of sin and to ascend into Heaven, leading captivity captive.

When Pere Noel Comes to France A French Christmas is a children's Christmas. The French Santa, "Pere Noel," comes on Christmas eve with gifts to pack into empty shoes. In southern France the burning of the Yule log is a ceremony when wine is poured over it as it blazes in the hearth.

It's Easy to Select A Christmas Tree That Holds Needles

IF YOUR Christmas tree shed its needles early last winter, you probably had the wrong kind of tree. All trees will drop their leaves after they are cut and stored in a warm room, but some kinds hold their leaves far longer than others. Trees used most commonly on Christmas are the spruces, fir, hemlock, pine and redcedar.

Spruces are the least desirable of all evergreens because they are the first to shed their needles. A spruce can be identified by a branch tightly, as its sharp pointed needles will prick your hand.

The ideal Christmas tree is the fir. It resembles the spruce except that its needles are not sharp. The needles stay on the tree for a longer time, and become a golden brown before they finally drop. Needles of a Douglas fir are flat and soft to the touch. This popular tree can be recognized by examining the cones which have small appendages on each side.

Hemlocks tend to shed their foliage early when kept indoors at a warm temperature. The distinguishing feature of this tree is the two white lines on the lower side of each of its needle-like narrow leaves.

Pine needles are evergreen but popular as Christmas trees, in spite of the fact they do not shed their needles early. This is probably due to their unsymmetrical appearance, which does not closely resemble the conventional Christmas tree.

Longer needles are associated in clusters of three or five.

Redcedars are occasionally used as Christmas trees in neighborhoods where they grow wild. The foliage is very scaly and is prickly to the touch. It grows berries instead of cones.

No matter what kind of Christmas tree you select, it will hold its needles longer if it is standing in water. Place a little water in the base of your Christmas tree stand, and you will be bothered less with falling needles than you were last year.

Basket of Preserves

Makes Welcome Gift

A gift that anyone will appreciate is a basket of your own preserves. Take a half dozen or so of your greatest and most delicious ones, tie gay bows of red ribbon around the tops, and put them in a wicker container. Then tie another bow on the handle and insert a card.

Good Present Every Icelander is certain of one Christmas gift, a candle.

No 'Merry Christmas' In English Monastery

There is one place where the joyous cry of "Merry Christmas!" will not ring out. This is the Trappist Monastery at La Trappe, England. Officially it is known as the Mount Saint Bernard's Monastery, and there are about 40 monks resident.

In addition to abstaining from meat and fish, these men have imposed upon themselves the vow of perpetual silence. On Christmas eve at 12 o'clock they will attend Mass, then retire to their cubicles for sleep or meditation till 4 a. m., when they will rise and join in the chanting of lauds and matins. Presumably the vow of silence holds good only for conversation.

Christmas breakfast will consist of tea, coffee and an slice of bread and jam. Dinner will be weighed carefully to ensure that there is no over-indulgence, and at night they will sup off vegetables and tea or hot milk. They usually retire at nine, so as to be ready for prayer at two in the morning on Boxing day. The Guest Master says: "This way of spending the Holy Season is the best of all."

Christmas Is Really Celebrated in Europe

Many countries in Europe celebrate Christmas on the principle that you cannot have too much of a good thing. In Italy, Holland, and elsewhere, the first celebrations begin on December 6, St. Nicholas' day, and last till Twelfth Night on January 6. In Poland the Christmas season lasts till February 2.

NEVERLY A STARTER

With young folks the mistletoe plays havoc. Can you doubt it? For kissing, started by it, Soon gets along without it.

"If This Be Treason--"

Patrick Henry had no doubts as to whether or not his utterances against the British crown were treasonable. Henry plainly was a traitor to the established order, as defined by the government at London.

So certain was Benjamin Franklin that he and his friends were guilty of treason that he observed: "We must hang together or be hanged separately." And because the founders of our country ran afoul of the British laws of treason every time they opened their mouths in the way they made certain that the word "traitor" could not be used as an excuse in the new country to throw a political enemy in jail.

Frank L. Dennis, writing in the Washington Post, reminds us that the Constitution of the United States says: "Treason against the United States shall consist only of levying war against them, or in adhering to their enemies, giving them aid and comfort. No person shall be convicted of treason unless on the testimony of two witnesses to the same overt act or Circle 6 held their final circle meeting for the year at the home of Mrs. Thompson. The Mission Study Book was finished and all business and reports rounded up for the year. The chairman, Mrs. John Mullins, gave the devotional. After the business session the group was graciously served delicious refreshments by the hostess.

Circle one had as their last meeting for the year, a splendid day at the home of the chairman, Mrs. R. L. Bryson. They had as their guests, Rev. and Mrs. O. A. Davis. Everyone had a lovely time eating lunch together. After lunch games were enjoyed by everyone and this social hour was followed by a business session during which time all unfinished business for the year was concluded. Mrs. Davis closed the day of social fun and business, of Circle One, with a lovely devotional.

There will be a very important business and program meeting of the W. M. U. at the church on Monday afternoon at 3:50 o'clock. Circle six will have charge of the program and immediately following the program will be Circle drawing. Everyone is urged to be present.

Monday and Tuesday nights of this week and next at 7:00 o'clock, there will be rehearsals for the Christmas Pageant at the Baptist church. These rehearsals will be full rehearsals with all the choir. Everyone who is taking part in this pageant is urged and requested to be on hand for each rehearsal.

Attention Everybody! Have you heard about the Basketball game at the High School on Friday night of this week between the Lions and Kiwanis Clubs? It's going to be lots of fun and for a good cause, too, Clanton Grammar school. So be on hand and bring somebody with you.

There was such a very nice crowd of Methodists and Baptists at the welcome the new pastor. Let's keep it up and go to church regularly and we will feel better.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Scott left last Saturday for Lawrenceburg, Ind., to get Mr. Scott's mother, who will spend the Christmas holidays in Clanton.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Todd and daughter from Texarkana, Ark., are visiting her mother, Mrs. Bowen Jones.

Howard Thomas is back home rapidly improving after the automobile accident in which he and his family were seriously injured. Mrs. Thomas is still in Kings Memorial hospital in Selma, but is also much improved and is expected to be home by Christmas.

Friends of Mrs. R. N. Griffin were very glad to see her down town this week. Mrs. Griffin is still recovering from injuries she received in an auto mobile accident quite a while ago.

Mrs. Joe Mullins, who is in Highland Avenue Hospital in Birmingham is expected home this week.

Miss Frances Popwell student at the University of Alabama, was home last week end and had as her guest, one of her classmates, Miss Nell May.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Van Derveer, of Springfield, Ohio, are spending their Christmas vacation with relatives in Clanton and Duncanville.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Williamson and Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Maddox made a trip last Sunday to Wetumpka, returning by the way of Jordan Dam.

Mrs. Marvin Rutherford and children have moved in the house with Dr. and Mrs. V. J. Gragg. Marvin, who has been with the Clanton Motors for many years, has accepted a position with the government.

Orlene Wyatt, student at Howard College, was home for the week end. Miss Mary Love Ward, of Auburn, spent the week end here with Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Edgar.

Callen Alred, student at A. P. L., was home over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Williamson and children spent Sunday in Marion visiting relatives. Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Barnett returned with them. Mr. Barnett will be employed here.

Messrs. Guy Alred and Burnace Powell visited Montgomery Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Armstrong and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Honeycutt recently moved to town from the Reynolds addition.

Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Chism, of Prattville spent last week end with Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Martin and Mrs. Clyde Jones.

On Wednesday night December 4th, Joe Ware was honored with a "Surprise Birthday Party". Those who shared his birthday cake and the fun of the evening were: Doris Deloach, Pearl Henley, Mary Ellen Higgins, Lilian Smith, Nell Sessions, Flen Higgins, Jr., Ferrell Williamson Paul Gow, an, Olen Vinson and Joe Ware.

CIRCLE NO. 3

Circle No. 3 of the First Baptist church was entertained last Monday afternoon, December 9th, at the home of Mrs. Jess Meates, with Mrs. P. T. Hinkle, chairman in charge. Mrs. Billingsley was visiting with us and she gave the devotional using for the theme, "The Saviour is Born". Mrs. J. B. Downs, Jr. taught the 1st chapter in the study course book on "Stewardship of work". The majority of business consisted of checking reports on the different phases of our work and seeing if all goals had been reached. The meeting was adjourned with prayer.

Only ten members were present to whom refreshments were served. Messdames: Popwell, Still, Nivens, Downs, Harris, Lenoir, Roper Smith Hinkle and Meates with Mrs. Billingsley visiting.

SPECIAL MEETING OF PAST MASTER MASONS

NO ADMISSION WILL BE CHARGED, JUST BRING A CHRISTMAS TOY

This Is Your Chance To Make Some Underprivileged Child Happy Through The Christmas Season

Clanton Lions are presenting Chilton County with their first Happiness party. All children under the age of sixteen years, who care to come or well come to attend this party. It is for the underprivileged children of Chilton County and the toys will be turned over to the Kiwanis Club to be distributed with their annual Christmas Baskets. And seeing "Captain Is A Lady" which feature picture for the Happiness Party, is not all that you see for your toy. You will see a number of feature attractions presented by local talent on the stage after the show is over. We are not going to tell you just what it will be as that is a surprise, but—let us tell you this—it will be worth many, many times more than the price you will bring for admission, and that's not counting the good you will be doing for some little boy or girl who is not as fortunate as you are, and who, unless you are willing to do your share, will not get any Santa Claus Christmas morning. Come out and help the Clanton Lions Club put the "Happiness Party" over for the underprivileged children of Chilton County—it is a worthwhile cause and the Lions need your help.

Is Your Family Financially Protected Should You Die Suddenly?

"The origin of life insurance is lost in antiquity, but there is a record of one case going back to 1583.

In that year, "William Gybbons, citizen and salter of London," is said to have bought a year's protection for 32 pounds, and died within the year. His beneficiaries collected 400 pounds. Each year approximately 60,000 Americans die within a year of taking out a Policy and their beneficiaries are paid over 60 million dollars.

William Gybbons' "policy" insured his life for one year only. This is the simplest form of life insurance, and is called Term Insurance, meaning that it protects the insured for a specified period.

This type of policy has been greatly improved through the years and is useful today for temporary purposes—as for example when a man is paying off a debt and doesn't want his estate burdened with the debt. Or he may need more protection, temporarily, than he can afford in a permanent form; sometimes, also, a man may wish to protect his interest in a business which is just getting underway.

The drawbacks of term insurance as permanent insurance are that the premiums go up as a man grows older and that it has little or no cash value. As lifetime protection, therefore, most people prefer the more modern form of life insurance. There are several of these, the most popular of which is "straight life."

These modern forms have different merits, but they are alike in that the premium is fixed for the term of the policy and in that they build up values which may be used to provide income for you if you outlive your beneficiaries' need protection."

We represent the AETNA LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY, one of the strongest and best known Life Insurance Companies operating today, and we will be glad to discuss your life insurance needs with you.

We also represent four of the strongest Fire Insurance Companies in which we can give you protection on your buildings and contents against FIRE AND WINDSTORM. Through the four strong Casualty Companies represented by us, we can give you complete protection on your Automobiles and Trucks. Through one of our Casualty Companies, we are able to give you the attractive HOSPITALIZATION CONTRACT.

Any Insurance business you can give to us, or turn our way, will be greatly appreciated.

Baby Beef Calves Are Making Gains

Good gains are being made by all baby beef calves being fed by thirteen 4-H Club boys in this county reports C. L. Breedlove, Assistant County Agent.

These calves were bought by the club boys in early October and have been on full feed since that date. All club boys are feeding their calves a mixture containing three parts corn and meal and one part cottonseed meal. Plenty of good legume hay, such as peanut, kudzu, soybean, and lespedeza sericea is being fed and the calves have access to steamed bone meal and salt.

Competition is keen among these boys to see who can feed out the best calf. "A common question, when I visit the calves is, 'Does my calf look as the others' ", says C. L. Breedlove.

The purpose of the project is to give the boys experience in feeding animals, to sell surplus feeds on the farm through the beef calves, and to make a profit on the animals. These calves which the club boys are feeding out will be carried to Montgomery in April and will be shown and sold at the Montgomery Fat Stock Show.

JONESTOWN NEWS

Health of the community is good. Preaching at Bro. Ed Giles' Home Sunday night and Bro. Aaron Parker delivered a wonderful sermon. We had a profit on the animals. These calves which the club boys are feeding out will be carried to Montgomery in April and will be shown and sold at the Montgomery Fat Stock Show.

ALABAMA CAN AFFORD CONCRETE ROADS

Concrete pavements, built to the standards developed by highway engineers of this state, are the last word in safety. Yet they actually cost the public less than so-called "cheap" pavements. Concrete is safe because it provides a better "track" for vehicles. From your own experience you know that its even, gritty surface reduces skidding, wet weather or dry. Its freedom from bumps, ruts and chuckholes gives you better control at the wheel. Concrete's light gray color and high reflection factor help you see better at night. Yet, with all these advantages, concrete is actually the cheapest road to have. First, because it costs less to build than other pavements of equal load-carrying capacity. Second, because concrete costs less to maintain—saves hundreds of dollars per mile, every year, compared with less enduring surfaces. Urge public officials to build your roads with safe and saving concrete.

Shaking Off Head Leaves Helps Control Pecan Scab

Shaking off old shucks and dead leaves from pecan trees this winter is the first step in controlling pecan scab. During the meeting a farm that has the fungus disease that cuts down yield and grade tremendously on susceptible varieties, says W. A. Ruffin, extension entomologist.

A foggy or misty day when the shuck and leaves are weighted with moisture makes only a slight jarring of the trees necessary. It is then best to plow them deep enough so spring disking will not turn them up again. The scab carries through the winter on shucks and leaves, and if they are not shaken from the tree the infection is liable to be earlier and heavier than when treated in the manner described above.

In tests conducted in Albany, Ga., by the Federal Plant Industry, this treatment together with a spray program during the growing season have given good commercial control of the pecan scab.

The first spray, a 4-1-100 Bordeaux mixture, was applied when the leaves were one-fourth grown. This was followed by a 6-2-100 Bordeaux spray soon after pollination. A third and fourth spray with the same mixture at three or four week intervals follow.

Five years of treating trees at the Albany station showed that tree yields of susceptible varieties were boosted from an average of 11 pounds a tree to 51 pounds. The nuts were larger, requiring only 68 to make a pound compared to 101 nuts to the pound from untreated trees. The average trees, because of deformity and low yields, was 77 cents a tree compared to $6.65 from treated trees, after figuring in the cost of spraying.

"This Is Berlin" Wm. L. Shirer Of Skipperville Speaking

The following paragraph is from John Temple Graves' "This Morning" in the Age-Herald:

A famous Alabamian who hardly anybody knows is an Alabamian at all is coming home to the United States for Christmas. He is William L. Shirer, the Columbia Broadcasting Company's news commentator from Berlin. His mournful but immensely competent and informative words from the German capital have been a feature of the war. Here's hoping he visits Skipperville, Dale County, Alabama, where he was born and reared. Tom Huey tells us that his people knew Shirer down there well. Skipperville must be quite a place. It produced Huntingdon College's famous young President Hubert Searcy, too.

| Section 9.—All licenses due under this schedule are due January 1, and are delinquent after February 1, and after becoming delinquent, in addition to any and all other penalties provided for in the ordinance, shall be subject to a penalty of 10 per cent. Provided, however, that the date of delinquency shall not apply to any weekly, monthly or daily license, which shall be delinquent when due, nor to any license taken out for one-half year after July 1, which shall be delinquent thirty-one days after one-half year license should be paid. | |
| Section 10.—That it shall be unlawful for any person, firm, corporation or association to engage in any business, vocation or profession for which a license is required herein without first paying for and taking out said license and each day during which any person or corporation engages in business without a license shall constitute a separate offense. | |
| Section 11.—Any person, firm, corporation or association who shall violate provisions or any provision of this ordinance shall upon conviction be fined not less than one dollar nor more than one hundred dollars, and may also be sentenced to hard labor for not more than six months, in the discretion of the court trying the case. | |
| Section 12.—That the taking out of a license under this ordinance shall be an authority for the person or corporation to engage in any business on the streets, sidewalks, avenues or alleys of the City of Clanton, Alabama, and no person shall use the streets, avenues, sidewalks and alleys for any other purpose than that of the usual traffic for which the same are commonly used. | |
| Section 13.—The term "police jurisdiction" as hereinafter used in this ordinance, shall be construed to mean the territory without the corporate limits of the said City of Clanton, Alabama, over which the municipal police power is exercised Code 1923, Section 1954. | |
| Each person, firm, company, corporation and association or their agents shall take out and pay for a license equivalent to half the license charged and collected as license for the businesses, trades or professions done within the corporate limits of the said City of Clanton, Alabama, as is provided for by an act of the Legislature, approved September 6, 1927. Acts 526, p. 67. Provided, however, this shall not apply to railroads, express companies, sleeping car companies, telegraph companies, telephone companies and public utilities. | |
| Section 14.—Should any section, schedule or paragraph of this ordinance be held invalid or void, it shall not affect the validity of any other section, schedule or provision hereof which is not itself void or invalid. | |
| Read, adopted and approved this 3rd day of December, 1940. | |

The United States, with 3,065,000 miles of highway has a road mileage nearly three times as great as the total road mileage of England, France, Spain, Portugal, Germany and Italy combined.

One-third of all the motor vehicles ever made are still operating.

This Is Part of Our Mechanized "Army"

BUILT to "take it," line trucks such as this, with equipment ranging from a concealed derrick down to a screw driver, and manned by crews of husky, capable workmen, are a part of our "mechanized field army," ever on the alert to keep open Reddy Kilowatt's "lines of communication" to your home, store or factory. They're one of the reasons why, even when Nature stages a surprise attack, interruptions to your electric service are rare, and then only for short periods of time.

Backing up the line crews are well-equipped machine shops where both regular and emergency mechanical repair work can be done quickly. "Quartermaster" depots at numerous locations keep on hand thousands of pieces of equipment and spare parts for replacement in case of need.

At nearly a hundred points in the state, groups of employees are assigned to definite areas, and charged with the responsibility of maintaining service in these communities. Other men work singly, patrolling the transmission lines—often afoot, sometimes by boat—with their eyes alert for a condition which might result in an interruption of service.

At the steam- and hydro-generating plants, a corps of specialists keeps the big generators tuned up and running smoothly, so that Reddy Kilowatt will be ready to perform light and heavy tasks the instant you flick the switch.

And yet, with all of this—which involves heavy expense—

CITY ORDINANCE Improvement Ordinance No. 105

An Ordinance to provide for certain improvements on Second Avenue North from East property line of 14th Street (Kicker Street) to the East roadway line of Selma Road and 7th Avenue North from the Northeast property line of 8th Street to the Southeast property line of 10th Street.

BE IT ORDAINED by the City Council of Clanton, Alabama as follows:

1. That Second Avenue North from the East property line of 14th Street (Kicker Street) to the East roadway line of Selma Road and 7th Avenue North from the Northeast property line of 8th Street to the Southeast property line of 10th Street shall be graded.

That a roadway 20 feet wide along the center line of Second Avenue North from the East property line of 14th Street (Kicker Street) to the East roadway line of Selma Road, and also along the center line of 7th Ave. North from a point 10 feet Northeast of the center line of 8th Street to a point 10 feet Southwest of the center line of 10th Street shall be paved with bituminous surface treatment with a pro-mix, cold lay asphalt seal on a 6" sand-clay gravel base.

That vitrified clay or concrete drain, age pipe, inlets, manholes of brick, cast iron covers, shall be constructed along said street between said points.

2. That said improvements shall be made in accordance with the established grades on file in the office of the City Clerk, for said portions of said highways and according to full details, drawings, plans, specifications and surveys of said work, and estimates which have been prepared by the J. W. Goodwin Engineering Company, exhibited to this Council, and now on file in the office of the City Clerk in the City Hall where property owners who may be affected by the said improvements may see and examine same.

3. That the cost of constructing said improvements shall be assessed against the property abutting on the portions of the highway so improved, provided: (a) that the cost of improving any intersection shall be assessed against the abutting owners, alleys, or other highways so land abutting on each of the streets, intersection for half block in each direction therefrom, provided; that for purpose of computing assessment no block shall be considered as extending more than 1000 feet from any intersection so improved; (b) that no assessment shall exceed the cost of such improvements or the increased value of such property by reason of the special benefits derived from such improvements.

4. That the detail estimates of cost of such improvements on file in the office of the City Clerk aggregate $13,219.05, and that the City Council of the City of Clanton, Alabama will meet on the 7th day of January 1941 in the Council chamber of the City Hall of Clanton, Alabama at 7:30 o'clock p.m. to hear any objections, remonstrances, or protests that may be made against said improvements, the manner of making the same, or the character of materials to be used.

Approved December 3rd, 1940, Cohen E. Stapp, Mayor, City of Clanton.

A true copy, V. J. Heard, City Clerk.

MOONSHINE

Former Clanton Business Man Indicted By Grand Jury

Knox McEwen, 51-year-old Republican leader and former postmaster at Rockford, Ala., was arrested and placed under $2,000 bail late Wednesday on an indictment returned by the Federal Jury charged him with possessing 185 gallons of moonshine whiskey and with transporting it to Birmingham.

The indictment was returned in a special presentment made by the Grand Jury to U. S. District Judge T. A. Murphy Tuesday, and McEwen was arrested at Rockford on an instant capias sent to the U. S. marshal at Montgomery.

McEwen was said to have eluded arrest by federal and liquor tax investigators on the night of November 28, when they pursued a truck loaded with whiskey into Birmingham and overhauled it in Ally G near Twenty-Second Street South.

The truck and liquor were seized and James King, a negro, who was riding on the truck with another man, was arrested. The second man was caught by his pursuers, but is said to have escaped by slipping out of his overcoat and coat. In the pockets of the coats were found a number of letters from prominent Republican leaders addressed to McEwen and private papers belonging to the latter.

Among them were letters addressed to McEwen by Representative Joseph W. Martin, Jr., Republican leader in the House of Representatives and recent manager for Wendell Willkie; Paul Parsons, Republican state leader; and W. Logan Martin, prominent Birmingham attorney. All of them were related to the recent presidential campaign.

McEwen has been Republican chairman in Coosa County for the past several years. He was formerly in the banking business at Clanton, Thorby and Rockford, and from 1922 to 1926, he was in government service with the income tax division of the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

He was appointed postmaster at Rockford in 1925 and held that post during the Coolidge and Hoover administrations. Since that time he has been engaged in running a farm and orchard near Rockford.

At the time he is alleged to have eluded arrest, federal alcohol tax investigation still, the liquor truck was being piloted by Will (Doc) Cook, 350-pound Negro who has figured in federal liquor cases on previous occasions. Cook, who lives at 820 South Twenty-Third Street, also was arrested and truck seized. He was later placed under a $300 bond for appearance in court. Cook was placed under $2,500 bail—Birmingham Post.

Star Of Bethlehem May Spread Glow In Christmas Skies

New York—A rare heavenly conjunction of two planets and a newly discovered comet—which astronomers believe may be one explanation of the Star of Bethlehem—will shine in the Christmas skies this year.

Prof. William H. Barton, Jr., executive curator of Hayden Planetarium, said Saturday the Cunningham Comet and the planets, Jupiter and Saturn would be visible conjunction by Christmas.

It will be the first time since 1683 that the two planets have been in conjunction, Barton said.

"The great astronomer, Kepler, was so impressed by a conjunction of Saturn and Jupiter that he figured back and found that in the nativity there two planets were not only close together as they are at the present, but had been joined by the planet Mars, to form an extraordinary sight in the sky," Barton said, "perhaps that was the 'star' the wise men followed to Bethlehem."

Leland E. Cunningham, of Harvard College observatory staff, discovered the comet Sept. 18.

Vegetable Laxative With Proved Feature

The punctual, satisfying relief from constipation and its headaches, biliousness, bad breath, so often experienced by users of this laxative, is mainly due to its combination of purely vegetable ingredients.

BLACK-DRAUGHT'S principal ingredient has high medical recognition as an "intestinal tonic-laxative"; helps impart tone to lazy bowel muscles.

A little of this spicy, aromatic product by simple directions at bedtime, generally allows time for a good night's rest; acts gently and thoroughly next morning.

Christmas Carol

By Charles Dickens

Miserly old Scrooge, who didn't believe in Christmas, was warned by his dead partner one night that his selfishness was casting him into the fire. He was so shocked that he changed his ways and became a generous man.

INSTALLMENT FIVE

Yes. Softer it as they would, their hearts were lighter. The children's faces, hushed and clustered round to hear what they so little understood, were brighter; and it was a happier house for this man's death!

"Let me see some tenderness connected with a death," said Scrooge. They entered Bob Cratchit's house.

Quiet. Very quiet. The noisy little Cratchits were as still as statues in one corner, and sat looking up at Peter, who had a book before him. The mother and her daughters were engaged in sewing.

"And He took a child and set him in the midst of them."

Where had Scrooge heard those words? He had not dreamed them.

The mother laid her work upon the table, put her hand up to her face. "The colour hurts my eyes," she said.

The colour? Ah, poor Tiny Tim!

"They're better now again," said Cratchit's wife. "It makes them weak by candlelight; and I wouldn't show weak eyes to your father when he comes home, for the world. It must be near his time."

"Past it rather," Peter answered, shutting up his book. "But I think he has walked a little slower than he used, these few last evenings."

"They were very quiet again. At last she said, and in a steady, cheerful voice, that only faltered once:

"I have known him walk with—I have known him walk with Tiny Tim upon his shoulder, fast indeed."

"And so have I," exclaimed another. "So had I."

"But he was very light to carry," she resumed, intent upon her work, "and his father loved him so, that it was no trouble: no trouble. And there is your father at the door!"

Bob was very cheerful with them, and as soon as they were all in the family, he looked at the watch upon the table, and praised the industry and speed of Mrs. Cratchit and the girls. They would be done long before Sunday, he said.

"Sunday? You went today, then, Robert?" said his wife.

"Yes, my dear," returned Bob. "I wish you could have gone. It would have done you good to see how green a place it is. But you'll see it often. I promised him that I would walk there on a Sunday."

"Little, little child!" cried Bob, "my little child!"

He broke down all at once. He couldn't help it.

They drew about the fire, and talked; the girls and mother working still. Bob told them of the extraordinary kindness of Mr. Scrooge's nephew.

"I'm sure he's a good soul!" said Mrs. Cratchit.

"You would be surer of it, my dear," returned Bob, "if you saw and spoke to him. I shouldn't be at all surprised—mark what I say—if he got Peter a better situation."

"And then," cried one of the girls, "Peter would be keeping company with someone."

"Get along with you!" retorted Peter, grinning.

"It's just as likely as not," said Bob, "one of these days; though there's plenty of time for that, my dear. But however and whenever we part from one another, I am sure we shall none of us forget poor Tiny Tim—shall we?"

"Never, father!" cried they all.

"And I know," said Bob, "I know, my dears, that when we recollect how patient and how mild he was, although he was a little, little child; we shall not quarrel easily among ourselves, and forget poor Tiny Tim in doing it."

"No, never, father!"

"I am very happy," said little Bob, "I am very happy!"

Mrs. Cratchit kissed him, his daughters kissed him, the two young Cratchits kissed him, and Peter and himself shook hands. Spirit of Tiny Tim, thy childish essence was from God!

"Spectre," said Scrooge, "something informs me that our parting moment is at hand. I know it, but I know not now. Tell me what man that was whom we saw lying dead?"

The Ghost of Christmas Yet To Come conveyed him to a churchyard.

"Before I draw nearer to that stone to which you point," said Scrooge, "answer me one question. Are these the shadows of the things that will be, or are they shadows of things that may be, only?"

"Still the Ghost pointed downward to the grave by which it stood.

Scrooge crept towards it, trembling as he went; and following the finger, read upon the stone of the neglected grave his own name, Ebenezer Scrooge.

"Spirit!" he cried, tight clutching at its robe, "hear me! I am not the man I was. I was not the man I must have been but for your interposition. Why show me this if I am past all hope?"

Holding up his hands in a last prayer to have his fate reversed, he poor clerk and him see how they were happy in spite of his unreasonable attitude as an employer. He watched his nephew and niece at play and said that even they considered him a disagreeable lost soul. The third spirit showed Scrooge how the town people would react to his death: some joked about his decease, and two debtors were glad to lose a merciless creditor. Scrooge was now a pretty miserable man. At last he let them go, and said that only a day before he had said that if people died, it showed there was "surplus population."

(Now continue with the story)

"It's I—your Uncle Scrooge."

saw an alteration in the Phantom's hood and dress. It shrunk, collapsed, dwindled down into a bedpost.

STAVE FIVE The End of It

Yes! and the bedpost was his own. The bed was his own, the room was his own. Best and happiest of all, the time before him was his own, to make amends in.

He was so fluttered and so glowing with his good intentions, that his broken voice would scarcely answer to his call.

"I don't know what to do!" cried Scrooge, laughing and crying in the same breath. "I am as light as a feather, I am as happy as an angel. A merry Christmas to everybody! A happy New Year to all the world!"

He was checked in his transports by the churches ringing out the lustiest peals he had ever heard. Clash, clang, hammer; ding, dong, Bell, Bell, ding, dong; hammer, clang, clang! Oh, glorious, glorious!

Running to the window, he opened it and put out his head.

"What's today?" cried Scrooge, calling to a boy in Sunday clothes. "Eh?" returned the boy, with all his might of wonder.

"What's today, my fine fellow?"

"Today?" replied the boy. "Why, Christmas Day."

"It's Christmas Day!" said Scrooge to himself. "I haven't missed it. The Spirits have done it all in one night. Hallo, my fine fellow!"

"Hallo!" returned the boy.

"Do you know the Poulterers, in the next street but one, at the corner?" Scrooge inquired.

"I should hope I did."

"An intelligent boy!" said Scrooge. "A remarkable boy! Do you know whether they've sold the prize Turkey that was hanging up there?—that little prize Turkey: the big one?"

"What, the one as big as me?" returned the boy.

"What a delightful boy!" said Scrooge. "It's a pleasure to talk to him. Yes, my buck!"

"It's hanging there now."

"It's hanging there now." "Go and buy it!"

"Walk—er!" exclaimed the boy.

"No, no," said Scrooge, "I am in earnest. Go and buy it, and tell 'em to bring it here, that I may give them the direction where to take it. Come back with him in less than five minutes and I'll give you half-a-crown!"

The boy was off like a shot.

"I'll send it to Bob Cratchit's!" whispered Scrooge, rubbing his hands, and splitting with a laugh. "He shan't know who sends it. It's twice the size of Tiny Tim."

He dressed himself "all in his best," and at last got out into the streets. The people were by this time pouring forth, as he had seen them with the Ghost of Christmas Present; and walking with his hands behind him, Scrooge regarded every one with a delighted smile. He looked so irresistibly pleasant, in a word, that three or four good-humoured fellows said, "Good-morning, sir! A merry Christmas to you!" And Scrooge said often afterwards, that of all the blithe sounds he had ever heard, those were the blitest in his ears.

He had not gone far, when coming on towards him he beheld the portly gentleman, who had walked into his counting-house the day before.

"My dear sir," said Scrooge, "How do you do? I hope you succeeded yesterday. It was very kind of you. A merry Christmas to you."

"Mr. Scrooge?"

"Yes," said Scrooge. "That is my name, and I fear it may not be pleasant to you. Allow me to ask your pardon. And will you have the goodness"—here Scrooge whispered in his ear.

"Lord bless me!" cried the gentleman. "My dear Mr. Scrooge, are you serious?"

"If you please," said Scrooge. "Not a farthing less. A great many back-payments are included in it, I assure you."

"My dear sir," said the other, shaking hands with him. "I don't know what to say to this. I'm serious."

"Don't say anything, please," retorted Scrooge. "Come and see me."

"I will!" cried the old gentleman. He went to church, and walked about the streets, and patted children on the head. In the afternoon he turned towards his nephew's house.

"Is your master at home, my dear?" said Scrooge to the girl. Nice girl! Very.

"He's in the dining-room, sir, along with mistress. I'll show you upstairs, if you please."

"Thank you, I shall be glad to see Scrooge, with his hand already on the dining-room lock. "I'll go in here, my dear."

"Fred!" said Scrooge.

Dear heart alive, how his niece by marriage started!

"Who's that?"

"It's I. Your uncle Scrooge. I have come to dinner. Will you let me in, Fred?"

Let him in! It is a mercy he didn't shake his arm off. He was at home in five minutes. Nothing could be heartier. His niece looked just the same. So did Tuppence when he came. So did the plump sister, when she came. So did every one when they came. Wonderful party, wonderful games.

But he was early at the office next morning. If he could only be there first, and catch Bob Cratchit coming late!

And he did it; yes he did! The clock struck nine. No Bob. A quarter past. No Bob. He was full eighteen minutes behind his time.

"Hallo!" growled Scrooge, in his accustomed voice as near as he could feign it. "What do you mean by coming here at this time of day?"

"I am very sorry, sir," said Bob. "Now, I'll tell you what, my friend," said Scrooge, "I am not going to stand this sort of thing any longer. And therefore," he continued, leaping from his stool, and giving Bob a dig in the waistcoat: "and therefore I am about to raise your salary!"

Bob trembled, and got a little nearer to the ruler. He had a momentary idea of knocking Scrooge down with it, holding him, and calling to the people in the court for help and a stool-waitcoat.

"A merry Christmas, Bob!" said Scrooge, with an earnestness that could not be mistaken, as he clapped him on the back. "A merrier Christmas, Bob, my good fellow, than I have given you for many a year! I'll raise your salary, and endeavour to assist your struggling family, for I believe that you are a good man."

Scrooge was better than his word. He did it all, and infinitely more; and to Tiny Tim, who did not die, he was a second father. He became as good a friend, as good a master, as good a man, as the good old city knew, or any other good old city, town, or borough, in the good old world. Some people laughed to see the alteration in him, but he let them laugh, and little he heed them, for he was wise enough to know that nothing ever happened on this globe, for good, at which some people did not have their fill of laughter in the outset.

He had no further intercourse with Spirits, and it was always said of him, that he knew how to keep Christmas well, if any man alive possessed the knowledge. May that be truly said of us, and of all of us, and so, as Tiny Tim observed, God bless Us, Every One!

[THE END.]

Those Who Discover God

There has been some discussion recently of the inability of Einstein to discover a personal God, yet there is nothing in the situation to warrant surprise. Einstein is a mathematician and God is not discovered with a slide rule or by invoking the multiplication table.

God is not discoverable by rule of thumb but by rule of reason. He is discovered by logic, not by logarithms. Some profound scientists find Him some do not, but He is found by countless numbers of persons whose knowledge of celestial statistics is nil.

It is a grand thing, too, that one does not have to figure astronomical distances and know many mysteries of the universe in order to discover God. Far better that He can be found in such commonplace things as the bubbling brook or the blooming flower, or in the coming of night and day with unfailing regularity.

Far better, too, that He can be found in human experiences that defy scientific analysis yet are as real as life itself. Millions find Him by walking with Him and talking with Him and finding in this companionship the solution to all the problems with which the heart is troubled.

It is not the most learned that know the most of God. Through all generations He has been found by simple folk: by fishermen by shepherds, by tentmakers; by men and women whose toil brought them in contact with the earth and the sea and the changeless manifestations of nature.

To such persons God does not dwell at the end of a column of figures. He dwells among those who love Him the present and creating an abiding faith in the future.

Yet while the humble often are first to discover God it remains true that convincing evidences of His reality comes most frequently from men of science, including the relatively few who doubt His existence. These gentlemen prove the beautiful order that exists in the universe and in proving this prove the existence of a Creator.

Man has not yet been able to create a machine that works with the same precision that characterizes the known universe and to say that this colossal unity is the result of an accident is equal to saying that a modern locomotive is the result of an accident. The precision in the universe proclaims the existence of God but more moving and compelling is the faith of multitudes whose very lives proclaim His reality and His power.—Tuscaloosa News.

Blitzkrieg campaigns built up by press and radio will not clothe the naked backs and fill the empty stomachs in Europe this winter. And we Americans are being handed entirely too much hocus for our own good.

The Grip of Doom

(Alabama Christian Advocate)

The grip of doom is upon us all.

Subtle, intangible, invisible, yet everywhere felt, it exerts its pervasive pressure of compulsion in how many ways

Like a vast weight, too heavy to be borne, it bows us down, makes us crawl, sometimes grovel.

Like some devilish power it hypnotizes us to go where we would not, to do what we hate, to say what we do not believe.

Like a formless fear it curtails our liberty, destroys our individuality, reduces us to the dead level of mediocrity.

Like a huge, cosmic press it forces us into set conventional, artificial shapes.

Like an irresistible wave it sweeps us on to corporate crime, follies, cruelties, stupidities, of which as individuals we would not have dreamed.

Whence comes this power? Is it some demonic force against which mortal man is impotent? Some fate some resistless destiny to which all must surrender?

Not at all. The grip of doom is of the earth, earthly. It is the manipulated might of man himself acting as mass.

It is the ghostly power of dead men—men who died as individuals and now stalk about the graveyards of the world as a vast, invisible mob.

It is that gray, shadowy mass we call "They"—the "They" who determine our customs, our manners, our morality, our sins.

It is "the System"—the dull, stolid, unintelligent, respectable, powerless, social inertia that obstructs all reforms, resists the application of reason to economics, to industry, to politics, to world government to the spiritual life of mankind.

It blocks prison reform, perpetuates child labor, smites capital with blindness and labor with folly, prostitutes political parties, foments class strife, cultivates national selfishness, racial hatred, and religious bigotry, and worst of all, it hurls humanity into senseless, suicidal war.

The grip of doom can be broken despite its seeming omnipotence—but only by men who will die rather than surrender their dreams, their ideals, their Christlike way of life.

The Man is mightier than the mob—even though, perhaps because, He dies upon a Cross.—Henry Hitt Crane.

A pretty woman doesn't have to "make up".

This is the season of loving and giving—but not the kind Churchill and Hitler are giving each other.

The one who will be found in trial capable of great acts of love is ever the one who is always doing considerate small ones.—F. W. Robertson.

We see where one Alabama merchant is advertising for lined ski boots. Just like selling ice cream freezers to Eskimos.

Probably the most of the difficulties in trying to live the Christian life arises from attempting to half live it—Drummond.

No person, firm, corporation or nation is a "good loan risk" who has repeatedly defaulted or refused to repay a previous loan made in good faith.

No nation can possibly win the war in Europe—all those engaged have already lost it—and the more we tinker with it the worse our fingers are going to get burned.

The revenuers are still raiding stills just like they have always been doing although we were repeatedly told that repeal of the prohibition act would stop all that.

Every push towards getting us into Europe's war, gets us that much farther away from freedom and democracy. We will not be able to find either in Europe's war, for it isn't there.

Is Britain A Good Loan Risk?

Jesse Jones, RFC head, says so. Secretary Morgenthau chips in with an OK, and Henry Ford says if they want it let'em have it.

But what do the peanut roaster on the corner, the lawyer, the merchant, the farmer, the banker think about it? They are the ones who are paying the interest on the billion and a half dollars owed by Britain to the United States loaned twenty-odd years ago, to get her out of the same kind of a hole she is in right now. And which she has flatly refused to pay.

Britain's Lord Privy Seal, Clement R. Attlee, stated in the House of Commons only a day or so ago that the British government "will not barter the sovereignty of any British territory for war supplies from foreign countries."

Many American financiers say if we furnish more aid in the way of money, ships and munitions that it will have to be in the form of a gift, as Britain will not be able to pay it back.

We do not think this additional burden should be heaped about the neck of the rank and file of American citizens without first letting them say whether or not they are willing for it to be done.

If Britain is unwilling to "barter" any territory in the Western hemisphere in exchange for money, ships and airplanes, then let her fight her own battles in her own way.

All this talk about fighting our war is pure bunk. She is fighting her own war—and is doing it largely at our expense, and like Oliver Twist, she is constantly calling for more and more.

It is our opinion that before Britain can become a "good loan risk" she must do something about paying back that billion and a half, gotten under the same pretext that she is now using to get more.

You see so much in your reading today about "Glamour Girls," but take it from us, there is only one really glamour girl, that's the one who knows something about making a home.—Alexander City Outlook.

A vault door for the First National Bank at Clanton weighing more than thirty thousand pounds has arrived and the Chilton County News asks: "Who in Clanton can move a door weighing that amount?" If the bank had known that no doubt they would have arrested the guy to begin with and saved the expense of buying such a burglar-proof door.—Fort Payne Journal.

TALES OF TWO CITIES

London—The Air Ministry said 460 Italian airplanes had been destroyed since Italy's entry into the European war, while British losses were put at 58.

Rome—Authoritative sources said 667 "enemy" planes had been destroyed against a loss of 110 Italian planes.

Take your choice. They are both lies.

No human with hatred in his or her heart knows what Christmas is.

There isn't a man in the British empire who can come as near cementing the friendship between the English and Americans as can the Duke of Windsor, former king. He has the respect and confidence of the common people of both nations. No other man has. He should be named ambassador to Washington, to fill the vacancy caused by the death last week of Lord Lothian.

Another of Alabama's upstanding, clean, courageous, gifted newspaper men has passed on to his reward. Leon M. Stevenson, long connected with the Roanoke Leader, died after a four-weeks illness at the age of 72. His friends were legion.

We sing "Joy to the world... peace on earth, good will to men," then speed up production of death dealing devices with which to destroy our fellow man, go to church Sunday, put on a sanctimonious look and proclaim ourselves Christians. Bah! Hell is already overcrowded with that type of Christianity.

The dollar you spend away from home will not help repair the church or parsonage, the school house or the sidewalks. It will not help build any good roads in Chilton county or sidewalks and streets in Clanton, Maplesville, Jemison, Thorsby, Verbena or Billingsley. The dollar you spend here at home can be used over and over again.

Greetings

Some Of The Advantages Of Being A Soldier

- The soldier knows that he is following an honorable career, rich in tradition and glory.
- He enjoys the feeling of security which results from an assured and regular income. If he chooses to remain in the service and retire after thirty years, he can face the prospect of old age with confidence, knowing that his needs will be well provided for.
- He will make true friendships which will endure for life.
- The means are provided whereby he may improve his technical training and general education.
- He doesn't lose any time because of bad weather or sickness—the pay goes on just the same.
- He doesn't worry about the cost of clothing, food or rent. He gets his clothing, his three square meals a day, and a comfortable, healthful home.
- Neither does he worry about doctor's bills nor dentists' bills—Uncle Sam pays them.
- If he wants to see the distant lands where our overseas garages are located, he will sooner or later have the opportunity, on full pay and with travel expenses paid by Uncle Sam.
- If he wants to return to civil life at the end of an enlistment, his Army training will be of great value to him. With his training and the discharge that testifies to good character and faithful service, his earning capacity and ability to get a job will be greatly increased. He may also expect to return a much stronger and more capable man, physically and mentally. With his honorable discharge, he will be eligible for enlistment in the Regular Army Reserve and thus become a modern "Minute Man," provided he is under 36 years of age and physically qualified.
- His service will take the humps out of his back, broaden his shoulders, deepen his chest, develop and train his muscles and his mind; in brief, it will make him more capable and useful man.
- If he desires to remain in the service, there is room at the top for the capable and ambitious; the service offers exceptional facilities for advancement.
- Enlisted men, of any grade what, ever, may compete for commission, or

MORAL ECHOES

REV. D. W. HASKEW, D.D.

We had a new driver and to show his skill with the car he took one hand from the wheel and started driving with the other hand. He wanted to show us that he could drive with one hand. At once I ordered him to put both hands on the car wheel and keep them there. Did you know that a large per cent of the auto accidents or caused by one handed drivers? It is estimated that one driver out of ten, travel a large part of the time with only one hand on the steering wheel. A one armed man never will make the ball team. To drive along the highway with one arm swinging out of the car window, or detached from the driving wheel, is as dangerous as when a man is walking with his gun cocked. We should have a law that would make any one driving a car with one hand, when he has two, amenable to the courts. When a driver takes one hand off the wheel to light a cigarette, or to do this or that, he is needlessly endangering his own life and the lives of others.

her heart and hand to a man who made a good show. This girl was full of smiles and had been ambitious to go places and do things. She tried hard to make the grade but the man who married her held her back like a sack of sand. He growled and found fault and crushed her spirit. He kept company with the vile and finally the poor girl gave up and quit. There can be no greater tragedy than for a fine man to be married to a sorry woman, and for a fine woman to be married to a sorry man. It stands to reason that we should all be very cautious before the wedding day. Think not one, but a thousand times. Be careful, say.

Here is the way it happens. There is an auto ride. A dance hall is visited, a beer joint is patronized. The girl comes home at a late hour. She thinks that the one with whom she has been so intimate loves her. She is swept off her feet with the untrodden paths of youth and with flower fields of anticipated companionship. She is not restrained with the blush that beautifies purity and personal protection, and in some distant court house a marriage occurs. Soon there is disillusionment and the Lack of knowledge causes many a weak, undernourished girl a lot of suffering!

Many others, however, know how the headache, nervousness, cramp-like pain of functional dysmenorrhea due to malnutrition are helped by the proper use of CARDUL.

Some take it a few days before and during "the time," to help ease periodic distress. But CARDUL's principal use is to help increase appetite; stimulate the flow of gastric juice; so aid digestion, assist in building up physical resistance and thus help remove periodical distress. Women have used CARDUL for over 50 years.

In the Sunshine magazine I saw this statement that was so true that I am passing it on to you. Do not just read it and then let it pass from your minds, but read it and think it over. "Brace up, brush up, think up and you will get up." Then following the opposite thought, "Think down, look down, set down and you will stay down." The way we think, the way we look, the way we live will determine as to whether we go up or down in life. So then my friends, "Brush up, look up, think up, brace up, and God helping you, you will go up!"

The young people had gathered for the evening of fellowship and fun. They had clustered about the picnic grounds in groups and no one seemed to be having a good time. Then out stepped the play leader and said, "Let's start something!" and she did. Soon merriment was ringing through the woods. Every body was having a good time. When we see people moose and gloomy, it is a good time to start something. Start a smile, start a kind deed, start some sunshine, start a cheerful outlook. Say folks, why not start something? Start a smile and it will grow to be a smile. Start a good cheer and it will travel far and near. Beware how you start a growl or a frown, they will travel too. To be the life of the party, we must learn the art of starting something that brings good cheer.

I know a woman who married a splendid man. He was educated, he had an attractive personality. He had real ability, but that woman became a millstone about his neck. She had a sulking disposition she had an acute case of "want 'tis" and she nagged and snarled until the poor man gave up and quit. I knew a beautiful woman and she gave

Tallassee's Famous Bell Will Ring

Tallassee, Ala.—When Lee surrendered at Appomattox, the giant bell in the cotton mill tower in Tallassee signaled the occasion with its deep, ringing tones.

Within a few days from now it will ring in its ninety-seventh Christmas dawn, and shortly afterwards it will signal the birth of a new year as it has done for almost a century.

In Alabama and perhaps in all the South there have been few bells which have been in continuous service during such momentous and history-making years. Not only has the toll of the Tallassee bell underlined historical moments in the state and nation, but its tones have been heard calling people to the homely pursuits of their daily life.

The bell called the settlers of the town which sprawls along the tallapoosa River to work, worship and play. It called the plantation owners in this fertile valley to their historic fox hunts and when the time came for the squire and country people to die, the bell tolled their requiem.

Today the giant bell may be heard for miles around Tallassee, striking the hours. At night, its reassuring tones inform the people that all is well, and at 4:30 in the morning its big chiming ring for five minutes to warn the workers that 6:00 o'clock and rising time are not far away.

The bell was hung in 1844 in the tower of the Tallassee mills. In 1863 the building was taken over by the Confederate government and used as a munition factory. The mill, still in use today, are the oldest cotton mills in the state which are still producing the South's traditional crop cotton.

God is faithful. Who will not suffer you to be tempted above that ye are able; but will with the temptation also make a way to escape, that ye may be able to bear it—Corinthians 10:13.

A Christmas Carol

By Henry W. Longfellow

I hear along our street
Pass the minster throngs;
Hark! They play so sweet,
On their Hautboys, Christmas songs!
Let us by the fire
Ever higher
Sing them till the night expire!

In December ring
Every day the chiming;
Loud the gleemen sing
In the streets their merry rhymes.
Let us by the fire
Ever higher
Sing them till the night expire!

Shepherds at the grange,
Where the Babe was born,
Sung with many a change
Christmas carols until morn.
Let us by the fire
Ever higher
Sing them till the night expire!

These good people sang
Songs devout and sweet;
While the rafters rung,
There they stood with freezing feet.
Let us by the fire
Ever higher
Sing them till the night expire!

Nuns in frigid cells
At this holy tide,
For want of something else,
Christmas songs at times have tried.
Let us by the fire
Ever higher
Sing them till the night expire!

Who by the fire-side stands,
Stamps his feet and sings;
But he who blows his hands
Not so gay a carol brings.
Let us by the fire
Ever higher
Sing them till the night expire!

REVIEWS and PREVIEWS

By Irvin Lande

There has been growing belief on the part of many Britons and even many Americans that peace with Hitler and Mussolini should now be negotiated. Evidence of such a feeling was shown in the British House of Commons last week when the House of Commons voted 341 to 4 against a peace proposal which was offered. The proposal was that Britain would move in that direction. After several dramatic speeches, the proposal was voted down. The members of the British House of Commons, and all the others who now advocate peace, seem to believe that since Mussolini's troops have been all but driven out of Albania and annihilated, Mussolini would urge Hitler to make peace with the democratic nations. In other words, now that the lesser half of the Axis has suffered a measure of defeat, the time is ripe for a peace conference, or, more truthfully, a more important, and even more disastrous, Peace of Munich.

It is very true that some, but not the majority, of Americans, and some of the English as well, have not really become spirited in the fight to save democracy. They look upon the war as a social game that they have brought Mussolini's Italy a measure of defeat, they feel that the duty is partly consummated, and that we can afford to neglect that duty for a few years of uncertain and unjust peace. Believing that no one wants a war, certain diabolical elements in the United States and England have been urging a negotiated peace.

These pacifists, and it is safe to call them pacifists in this world at war, point out that British cities, American resources, British shipping, and American soldiers are being destroyed by the war, and that, if possible, to make peace to prevent further destruction. They reason that now that Hitler is suffering his first defeat, he might be ready to make peace on fairly compromising terms.

These men are right in their opinions, excepting one important point. They are sincere. They believe fully what they dare to say. And they would be right that we should, and the British should, negotiate peace, if—and this is very serious if—the war would be between two imperial nations, two warring parties, or two openly opposed totalitarian states. But this war is a war between two types of living, the democracy and the totalitarian state. The war would have to be fought sometime, and it is well that it is fought now. To be frank, should we who uphold democracy, make a peace now, and relinquish the gains already made in the war? The democracies, though the military war has thus far gone against them, have made gains in preparing themselves which they can not afford to give up now. Therefore, we should continue the war, since we have an even chance of winning it, rather than to make a temporary peace and run the risk of being attacked again when we would be even more vulnerable than we are now.

No matter what we should like to do, it does not seem very likely that Hitler would even consent to sit down to a conference table on the subject of world peace. And even if he would, there is very little possibility that the British who would distrust every move Hitler would make, and Hitler, who would try to get all he could, would come to terms and put aside arms and forget the whole complication entangled which, when it kills men and women and children, is called a war and is placed in the history books for generations of children to read and to then experience.

When the proposition came up in the House of Commons in London that peace should be considered if Hitler beckoned in that direction, many Americans felt that a growing discontent in continuing the war was under way in the British empire. But, after the proposal was voted down by a vast majority, the confidence and unity of the British fight for democracy was restored.

That the British House of Commons had members who dared to make such a suggestion, and that they were given the privilege, is a sign that British democracy is still alive. That they were voted down by so great a majority is a sign that the British are still fighting, not to give up. Furthermore, it is a sign that American aid to Britain should continue, and that that aid should be augmented for it is going into the hands of a people strong enough to fight through by the harder course of a war rather than take the easy course of a negotiated peace.

A set of Westminster chiming bells are being installed by the First Baptist congregation of Greenville in memory of John S. McMullan.

FOLKS and THINGS ABOUT TOWN

Mr. Gordon Thompson leaves Lowe's grocery after quite a few years of serving the people of Clanton and Chilton County. Gordon is a fine fellow and we wish him every success in his new endeavor. He has been appointed Mail Carrier for Clanton Route.

"He who tooteth not his own horn, shall not be tooted," that's been said before but the latest one we have heard say it is "Chick" Fiquette, "Chick" says "Chick" is giving away pure pork sausage this week and he thinks that anybody who appreciates his customers enough to give them pure pork sausage at Christmas, absolutely free, really appreciates their business.

Enough cannot be said in regard to the beautiful Christmas Pageant at the Methodist Church last Sunday night. Those who took part and those who worked so tirelessly for its success should certainly be satisfied in their wonderful accomplishment. Patsy Kelly, Mrs. Berber Barley, who was in charge of decorations, Mrs. Joe Edgar, Mrs. Burton Mullins and Mrs. C. G. Lawrence, just to name a few who contributed to make this Pageant possible.

Our old friend Floyd Johnston, of Birmingham, came by to see us the other day. Floyd used to be "devil" in a shop that I worked at in the City. At present he is with C. M. A. C. which is the only thing that keeps him from going to death everytime he puts his head in the door—we drive a Ford.

P. H. Smith, County Agent, has a dream. A dream that should and will be a venture to say, come true within a few years. "Pat" dreams of the day that all commodities produced in the County will have a central grading and packing station, and each end of each, every ear of corn, every melon, will go out of Chilton County with small seal bearing the words "Chilton County" and the grade of the product. "Pat" says "I want to see a new year when this day comes, says Pat, a new year will dawn for the farmers of the County and there will be less talk of hard times and the poor crop seasons."

Clanton is about to be re-connected to the outside world. Blacktop is being put down all around us and the highway, (U. S. 31) north and south soon be in good condition for the now "Dodgers" going south for the winter. Later they have been routed and our City and consequently some of our merchants have suffered due to lack of traffic.

Our ears are hanging about 3' from our shoulders from being—led and by said ears. Last week we checked out by stating that the windows in town were at John's Fashion Shop. Since that time have been marched up to every window in town and asked, "Now isn't the prettiest window you ever saw?" Well, could you think of anything better to say than, "Yes, it sure is."

Believe it or not, Chilton County did have a better cotton crop this year than last. According to Mr. V. C. McCarty, special agent of the Department of Commerce, 7655 bales were ginned last year until December first, compared with 7,004 ginned before the date last year. A total of 651 bales increase.

We don't know just what the idea is to place the three large loud speakers at the A & P Grocery to Clanton and Christmas cheer to the people and by serenading us with Christmas Carols but this we can say... they due many thanks from the merchants and the citizens for showing their willingness to aid in creating Christmas Spirit among the populace and, we have a sneaking idea that young, public spirited businessmen at the Radio Electric Service, many Mr. Duffy and Mr. Free, had a deal to do with giving us this holiday music.

There will be a special Christmas singing by the Junior Choir under the direction of Mrs. Clara Driver. The male quartet will also sing several numbers. Rev. Grover Langston, the pastor, will bring the special message on Christmas, his subject, "The Spirit of Conservation," which will no doubt be enjoyed by all who hear him.

A Christmas Tree will be at the church and the presents will be distributed at the close of Bro. Langston's message. You are invited to enjoy this occasion with us.

Lions Happiness Party Big Success

The first annual Lions' Happiness Party held at the New Wadesonian Theatre last Saturday, was a big success.

The toys gathered went to the underprivileged children of the County and boys and girls thronged the Theatre with toys of every description and size. All toys are at the Red Cross Headquarters awaiting distribution to the various homes in the Christmas baskets carried each year by the Kiwanis Club.

BOARD OF REGISTRARS TO MEET JANUARY EIGHTH

Notice is hereby given that the Chilton County Board of Registrars will meet at the County Courthouse in Clanton, on Wednesday, January 8th, 1941, for the purpose of receiving and recording the returns of the registrars.

Get Ready You're Going To Be It

Friday morning representatives of the Clanton Kiwanis and Lions Clubs will canvass the city soliciting donations for the underprivileged children of the city and County. This money will go to make happy some boy and girl who otherwise would not have any Santa Claus. When you are approached, remember these things and dig as deep in your pocket as you can to help these less fortunate than yourself.

Remember, Friday morning, get ready, you're going to be it. Don't squawk, but GIVE.

SINGING AT MAPLE SPRINGS SUNDAY AFTERNOON

There will be a singing at Maple Springs Sunday afternoon, December 22nd, beginning at 2:00. All are invited to bring their new books. Prof. W. M. Devaughn will be present and help with the singing. The public has a cordial invitation to attend. —O. L. Devaughn.

Thorsby Eagles Defeat Stanton

The Thorsby Basketball Eagles opened the current basketball season with a bout of speed and clever passwork Friday night to defeat Stanton's independent eagles by the score of 50 to 19. Hayes for the Eagles led in scoring with 16 points, with his teammate Jackson following close with 10 points. Bearden for Stanton played best for the losers, registering 10 points. In the preliminary game, the Stanton Jr. High team took in the Thorsby Juniors to the tune of 24 to 14.

Christmas Tree Tags

Christmas Tree Tags are now available at the office of C. E. Stapp in the City Hall at Clanton, or from County Agent Pat H. Smith's office.

A supply of tags have been sent to each of these offices by the State Forestry Department of Conservation. The purpose of these tags is to avoid the growers of Christmas trees in developing an additional source of revenue, heretofore lost, and to aid in forestry conservation.

Christmas Services At Temple

On Sunday night, December 22nd, a special Christmas service will be held at the Temple Church, two and one-half miles southeast of Clanton.

There will be a special Christmas singing by the Junior Choir under the direction of Mrs. Clara Driver. The male quartet will also sing several numbers.

Rev. Grover Langston, the pastor, will bring the special message on Christmas, his subject, "The Spirit of Conservation," which will no doubt be enjoyed by all who hear him.

A Christmas Tree will be at the church and the presents will be distributed at the close of Bro. Langston's message. You are invited to enjoy this occasion with us.

Santa Claus Is Coming To Clanton Next Tuesday

"OLD SAINT NICK" IN PERSON WILL MEET YOU AND HAVE A GIFT FOR YOU. BE SURE TO LOOK FOR HIM.

DIRECT COMMUNICATION TO NEWS OFFICE THROUGH SERVICE CLUBS SAYS O. K.

You better Watch out, You better not cry, You better not pout, I'm telling you why, Santa Claus is coming to Town."

Yes sir, we're telling you, Santa Claus is coming to Clanton on the day before Christmas, Christmas Eve.

Through cooperation of the Clanton Service Clubs, Kiwanis, Pilots and Lions, and the business men of the city arrangements have been made with Old St. Nick himself to be here.

He will arrive Tuesday morning around nine or ten o'clock, we believe from the north and at the same time his truck will meet the train loaded with good things for everybody, young and old.

Santa Claus will then drive through the business section of town giving presents and making merry. He and his truck will then tour the residential section to get a glimpse of what Clanton looks like. At 11:00 o'clock he and his truck will return and make the downtown business district again giving to good little boys and girls. And to good papas and mamas, he will also give presents.

At 1:00 o'clock with his truck, he will go to the Red Cross Headquarters where he will dispense with the remainder of his Christmas presents.

For the day special music has been arranged by the Committee in charge and local quartets and choruses will furnish appropriate music for the day. All in all, it is going to be one glorious day and make plans now to spend Xmas Eve in Clanton and meet good "Old Santa Claus" in person.

ROAD FUNDS

$117,286 Made Available For Road Improvements In Chilton County

The latter part of last week a Proclamation to improve the roads of Chilton County received Presidential approval and the County will receive one hundred and seventeen thousand dollars in the near future for this work. This Project, known as WPA Project 5422 is sponsored by the County Commission and will be used as all parts of the county.

At a meeting of the Commissioners, Countywide road money it was unanimously voted to cooperate with and make a permanent fund so that the money could immediately get started on the road.

News of the above reached us in form of two telegrams Saturday, December 14. One was from Senator J. H. Hill and the other from Congressman Pete Lawrence. The contents of the telegrams follow:

Hon. Mark Tucker, Clanton, Alabama

In Congressman Jarman's absence I wish to advise you of final Washington approval of WPA Project to improve roads in Chilton County in amount of One hundred Seventeen thousand two hundred dollars.

Here's A Chance To Join The Homeguard

Editor, Chilton County News:

Recently the WAR DEPARTMENT made request through the State Department in the American Legion, that the Legionnaires in every County endeavor to organize a Home Guard to serve in the place of the National Guard units that have been called to service.

Since the first request that each county endeavor to set up an organization, the Chilton County Post American Legion has been advised that equipment and uniforms are available for only 25 Home Guard units.

A meeting of the Chilton County Post of the American Legion last Friday night, those in attendance requested that we proceed in Chilton County to set up a temporary organization and make application to be included in the list of 25 units which equipment are available.

The organization as we understand it is to be officered by ex-service men but will be opened to able bodied men between the ages of 18 and 45, who are not eligible for draft.

Any person in the county who wishes to be included in the above organization and who is interested in volunteering his membership with the understanding that he will receive pay at the National Guard rate ONLY when called to actual Guard duty may make application for service to me—C. E. STAPP, Post Commander, American Legion.

Plantersville News

The Rev. J. A. Lee, who has endeared himself to the people of Plantersville whom he has served so long delivered two beautiful sermons appropriate to the Christmas season at the Christian church Sunday.

W. C. Head, who has ably led the Bible study at prayer meeting in the absence of a minister taught the concluding chapter on "The Bible", Wednesday night.

A wide circle of friends extend sympathy to the Barnes family in the loss of their brother, Ross Barnes, of Prattville, the past week.

Interment was made in Prattville and members of the family attended from here were Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Chappell, Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Barnes and their two children, E. K. and Murry.

Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Barnes and their daughter, Miss Olivia Barnes, of Eutaw, Mrs. J. W. Friday and the Plantersville Baptist minister, the Rev. J. T. Nail.

The Plantersville P. T. A. entertained with an elaborate turkey supper at the Dallas County High school Friday, Turkey with all the Christmas accessories was served at so much per plate together with hot drinks.

A nice sum was realized for the benefit of both of the Plantersville schools. Miss Ruth Pickering left Wednesday afternoon for Catherine to be present at the marriage of her friend, Miss Juanita Whitley to Frank Turner, which happy event took place Thursday afternoon at the home of her sister, Mrs. D. A. Wiltsie at Prairie. News from the bedside of M. H. Carroll III in a Birmingham hospital states he is now improving.

Mrs. J. C. Baker and her attractive small daughter, Betty, who have been guests of her parent, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Harris returned to their home in Baton Rouge, La., Tuesday.

Mrs. Robby Bernard, who has been in Business College at Chillicothe, Mo. since September, is now at the home of E. L. Walker, where she will be until New Year's.

W. C. Herrod, Jr., of Birmingham, who has been ill at the home of his parents is now able to be up.

Mondral Patterson was carried to a Selma hospital Tuesday.

Raymond Sewell, of Montgomery, who has been at home suffering a throat infection returned to Montgomery Friday and resumed work Monday.

D. A. Hixon, former grammar school principal, was the week end guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Herrod.

The Plantersville schools will dismiss Friday for the holidays.—Selma Times Journal.

Germany Goes On Near-Beer Diet

(If you can remember the days of Bevo in Alabama you will know what this fellow is talking about.)

Berlin—Germany, known as the land of foaming steins, is slowly climbing onto the water wagon.

Near-beer, becoming dominant in Germany restaurants, was demanded by Supreme Youth Leader Robert Ley and Reichs Health Leader, Dr. Leonardo Conti. It is intended to preserve the health of Germany's young men.

In their appeal to German youth to abstain from alcohol, the leaders often referred to Fuhrer Adolf Hitler as a shining example of new German simplicity. Hitler and Rudolf Hess are teetotalers.

Youth was quick to respond. Brewers understood the signs of the times and were equally quick. They have submitted eight different non-alcoholic brews to the health department for approval. One brewery claimed a record sale of 387,000 bottles of near-beer in one month.

The basis of the new brew is barley except in one case, of which sugar-beet chips are used. Officials say that compared to ordinary beer the quantity of barley used for this new brew is considerably less, and this will result in a saving of raw materials.

The new brew has all the qualities of real beer except that its alcoholic contents must be below 0.5 per cent. It looks like beer, tastes like beer, foams like beer and is wholesome, an official description stated.

La Befana, Penitent Old Woman, Brings Christmas Gifts in Italy

Santa Claus doesn't visit children in Italy. It isn't because they are all naughty, but because there is no Santa Claus—in Italy.

No one runs down to a well decorated tree on Christmas morning to look for presents. Brightly colored flowers decorate the room instead of Christmas trees, and presents are not exchanged until January 6. On that night, an old, old lady, La Befana, walks from house to house and leaves a present beside each little child she visits.

Exactly 1,940 years ago, according to the Italian legend, La Befana was very busy sweeping her kitchen when several men dressed like kings stopped in front of her cottage. They asked her where Bethlehem was, but she had never heard of it.

The men told her about a baby which had been born in Bethlehem, and mentioned a star which had been guiding them. The old lady wished she could accompany them when they left her in search of the infant Jesus.

But La Befana stayed home. It was getting too dark out, and besides, the baby could wait until tomorrow. Later that night she noticed the sky quivering with light. The clouds seemed to take the form of angels. All thought of sleep left her. Rising, she carefully wrapped two gifts for the Holy Baby, then ran out into the night in the direction the kings had gone.

Fast as she hurried, she had not reached Bethlehem when the star disappeared and dawn filled the sky. She frantically asked the way to Bethlehem, but no one could tell her.

And so La Befana has constantly traveled since that day, searching for the Christ Child. On the Epiphany, 12 days after Christmas, she goes from house to house, looking into the faces of babies. With each she leaves a gift, hoping that at last she will give her presents to the right child.

FARMER FINDS PROFIT IN REFRIGERATOR PLANT

Union Springs, Ala.—During the early part of the year, J. W. Bassett, in the Still's Cross Roads community, Bullock county, was thinking of new ways by which he might increase the income on his farm. He purchased early in the year a second-hand refrigerating outfit in which he could store 40 or 12 dressed hogs.

Since installing the outfit, he has had from eight to 15 head a week, says J. H. Nunn, county agent. This has meant a market for producers in his community of hogs which they might have any time during the year. It has also made available in the community a source of meat for those who might not be able to cure at any time of the year.

Lothian Ashes To Rest In Arlington

Washington press dispatches state that the body of the Marquess of Lothian, late British Ambassador to the United States, will be cremated and the ashes interred temporarily in Arlington National cemetery, resting place of America's military heroes, the State Department announced today.

The ashes will be placed in an urn and deposited in a vault under the mast of the memorial to the U. S. S. Battleship Maine, there to stay until Lord Lothian's three sisters in Great Britain and the British government decide on the final resting place.

THE BRITISH WAY Swamp Is Offered U. S. In Destroyer Deal

Washington, Dec. 11—By Associated Press to Birmingham Age-Herald—British authorities at Trinidad, it was reported reliably Wednesday, have vainly tried to convince the United States that it should choose a section of swampy land as one of the defense base sites which Britain has promised to turn over to this country in return for 50 destroyers.

This government officials is insisting upon a site northwest of Port of Spain, which offers a good anchorage alongside high ground on which defensive guns might be placed. To the local island authorities' suggestion that the swampy area be reclaimed, the American officials objected that the cost would be prohibitive.

Certain other obstacles also have to be ironed out, it was said, before actual construction can begin on some of the string of Western Hemisphere bases being acquired from Britain. However, Secretary of State Hull said Wednesday that the negotiations were going along normally, and other sources expressed confidence that agreements satisfactory to both the United States and Great Britain would be reached.

(The United States transferred 50 destroyers, approximately 20 years old to Britain. In turn, Britain agreed to cise the United States' 99-year lease on naval and air base sites, the American government to pay for any private properties expropriated in the process.) Location of the bases at Bermuda and St. Lucia also has not been settled definitely, reliable sources said, but only about 10 per cent of the problems there remained at issue.

Plain Fare Preferred

Holiday menus will bring a seasonal change in the customary diet of the U. S. Marines, but following Christmas and New Years Day turkey plum pudding, mince pie and many other items on the holiday bill-of-fare will promptly disappear until some other future occasion of special feasting.

Through tradition as well as economy the marines favor the sort of food on the table of the average American family. Back in the year 1830 the Marine Corps administered a mild rebuke to the commanding officer of the barracks at Boston for serving a rather too sumptuous menu.

The Commandant ruled that "oranges, squabs and old bottled wine cannot be necessary for persons brought up as soldiers."

Evidently the Commandant's criticism of fancy foods has left a lasting impression for, apart from holiday occasions, plain but wholesome food has been the rule in the Marine Corps ever since.

ALABAMA BEES

Are Classed As "Livestock" By Bureau Of Internal Revenue

Bee keepers of Alabama will save $4,000 to $5,000 a year as result of a ruling of the U. S. Bureau of Internal Revenue holding that bees are "livestock".

The ruling exempts from taxation sugar used in feeding bees. Incidentally, it reveals the huge proportion taken by the bee industry in Alabama recognized as the greatest bee state in the nation.

Under the federal sugar act of 1937, a tax of one-half cent per pound was imposed on sugar, with exemption where it was used for "livestock feed." Whether bees came under this exemption was quite an item in the bee belt of Alabama, where a single apiarist has used six or eight tons of sugar per year for winter feeding.

State Apiarist Thomas Atchison and Commissioner of Agriculture Haywood Paterson, busied themselves with the powers in Washington. They contended the busy little bee, working to pile up wealth for Alabama, was an item of "livestock" quite as much as the bluish species of farm animals.

And Senator Hill and Congressman Grant was invoked. Finally a ruling from U. S. Commissioner of Internal Revenue Guy Helvering decreed that bees are livestock, and that sugar used in the feeding thereof is entitled to all the exemption and immunity from taxation as that used for any other farm animals.

In announcing the decision Wednesday, State Apiarist Atchison estimated, saving to Alabama bee keepers of $4,000 to $5,000 per annum. He said that they will be entitled to a refund on tax paid within the last year—Alabama Journal.

FSA Farm Families Will Have A Very Merry Christmas

"Turkey 'n dressing 'n all the fixings" that is what December 25 will mean to many of the 317 of Farm Security Administration families in Chilton County. And the rest will not go hungry—not with a yard full of chickens, a cellar full of yams and a cupboard full of canned snap beans (and tomatoes and fruits, too) and a good fire in the stove. It is going to be a grand feast, and neither the farmer at the head of the table nor the housewife at the end of the table will be worried about the cost. They are going to pay for it. Because these FSA families will be eating a homegrown Christmas Dinner. A year ago, these farm families began to think about this Christmas dinner, and of the breakfast, dinner and supper, in between. They sat down together—the farmer, the housewife and the children—who were to dig potatoes and help with the canning. Marvin Durbie, county farm supervisor and Martha Massey, home supervisor for FSA were with them. A farm and home plan was worked out for the coming year. The number of acres available for cultivation was put down, then the amount of cotton allowed under the triple A agreement, with anticipated yields. Then each family, with the help of Mr. Durbie and Mrs. Massey, worked out a food budget for themselves: the amount of sorghum and corn needed for molasses and meal; the number of chickens and eggs it would take. When the eighty-five quart allowance of fruits and vegetables was multiplied by the number in the family it figured up to an enormous number, but the garden plow could supply the contents if it was planted early and if a fall garden was put in, too. An acre or so of small grain was added for chicken feed. As for that Christmas bird, it could grow on grasshoppers and "fat" on extra corn. Hereofore Christmas has been a day of "do without" to many of these low-income families. They, like most of the other landless farmers in Alabama have been depending on the store or the landlord for goodies. Cotton prices being what they are, and corn, peanuts, truck, etc., little better. Christmas has been little more than a day for an extra church service. These families who have joined FSA no longer do without, nor do they spend the precious cotton dollars for celebration. They grow their own goodies. Onions and pickles and peppers for the stuffing, canned peaches and preserved apples for the deep-dish pies. Whipped cream from the topmings of the family cow; popcorn and peanuts for the evening around the fire; with plenty of molasses to make cracker-jack balls. These are more than the ingredients for a family feast. They are proof of the deep-dish pies. They learned that a farmer lives from what he pulls out of the ground, and the more direct the measurement the better he is. Along with this planning for home-grown food, the FSA families in Chilton county have developed new sources of income. 109 housewives are making their chicken yards pay for most of the food that is not or cannot be grown at home. Instead of putting out cash for their own good times, these families are getting coffee, sugar and nutmeg money by helping to furnish someone's else Christmas table. Improved health that comes from a balanced and adequate diet is perhaps the first thing these FSA families will give thanks for this year. They can be thankful, too, and proud, for during the past five years the average net worth of all FSA families in this region, the

Hundreds Of Chilton County's Underprivileged Children Will Go Lacking Without Your Help

Dolls and doll clothes are not the only gifts needed to bring happiness and a cheerful Christmas to the many, unfortunate children of Clanton and Chilton County. Many a youngster would enjoy very much to have a football, uniform, a real gun, a nice pair of skates, fishing goods, and there are many many who would be thrilled to get a new coat or a pair of shoes that some children have already owned. Then of course, there are many who would like a bicycle, some youngsters will have an old one after Santa comes, so, why not contribute it to the underprivileged, but many of these don't need a bicycle and the machine could be sold and the returns would buy a number of childish things that could cover a large territory of the younger ones. Local welfare workers have pointed out that the demand for these toys are great and the demand for the City and County has not yet been filled. southeast, has increased from $35 to $35. Their landlords can be thankful for the thousand acres of soil building practices carried out on their farms by FSA renters. Finally, the county and each community in it can be thankful that only 18 per cent of the FSA families have moved this last year, as contrasted with 52 percent for tenant families as a whole. For this stability means better churches, better schools and better neighbors. Readers of the Chilton County News are invited and urged to give this matter their preferred attention and help our underprivileged and unfortunate children to share the yuletide of merriment with us all. There isn't much time for reorganizing these toys, but there is time to repair a number of these. So, look for old, outgrown, and new toys and give them to members of the Clanton Lions, Kiwanis clubs or to the County Welfare Office, where they will be properly distributed over the county to the needy ones.

The State Lions Club Convention will be held in Dothan May 11, 12 and 13th. The State Health Department says rabbit fever is on the decline in Alabama. The U. S. export of iron and steel went over the million ton mark for the first time last August.

Clarence M. Dannelly, Jr., son of J. and Mrs. Clarence M. Dannelly of Montgomery, was killed Tuesday when a training sea plane dived into Pensacola Bay. He was an ensign in the U. S. Navy. The Italian government has announced that food hoarders in more serious cases would be punished by death.

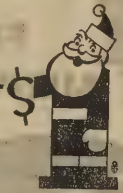

AT THIS CHRISTMASTIDE may we rededicate ourselves to a greater fuller service to our community to help enrich our own lives and those with which we come in contact.

Clanton Methodist Church

Come to church, 9:45 and Morning Worship Service, 11:00 next Sunday. We shall be with the Baptists at their church next Sunday night. At the morning worship service, Dr. Casaday will preach on "Stars that Lead To Jesus".

It is with gratitude and appreciation that we are hearing pleasing comments in the work of the Pageant Committee, of many others of our church for their successful efforts in behalf of the Pageant and we also sincerely appreciate the work of those who helped and who are not members of our church. We say Thank You to each person who has made any contribution to the Pageant of Our Children's Home. If there are others who wish to give or those who wish to give further contributions you may do so by bringing it to the church or Sunday school next Sunday or by seeing our Church School Superintendent, L. J. Stewart, or Secretary Odell Headley. By such service to the Kingdom thou shalt obtain blessings.

We doubt if the average American feels much like making contributions to help feed hungry children of England, when England's Churchill refuses to let food go to the hungry children of other nations.

The business offices of the Montgomery Advertiser and the Alabama Journal are now housed in the Advertiser building. We may expect to hear of Churchill and Hitler kissing and making up any day now.

The Tories have been repeatedly asked by fellow Englishmen since war was declared, to state plainly just what are Britain's war aims. This the political big-wigs have refused to do. Wouldn't it be a good idea to demand of Congress when it gets back to Washington to state just what are our (United States of America's) war aims. We are a democracy and we the people have a right to know.

Though Alabama's tenant purchase borrowers have received loans totaling $2,843,630 under the Bankhead-Jones Act, only 7 per cent are delinquent in repaying interest and principal due up to June 30, 1940.

Mr. and Mrs. William Arthur Willis visited her mother, Mrs. Arledge, who is in the hospital in Montgomery.

Mrs. Joe Mullins came home Tuesday from the Highland Avenue Hospital, and is doing nicely. Her friends are very proud to hear this good news.

Strange. We haven't seen an advertisement offering bomb-proof shelters for sale. Our Yankee blood must be getting sluggish.

Christmas in America will not be what it should be with daily editors counseling hatred and venom towards the people of other nations.

BAKER 4-Hers HELD MEETING RECENTLY

The 4-H Club of Baker Jr. High school met November 10, 1940, in the auditorium. The meeting was called to order by the President, after which a number of songs were sung by the members.

The roll was called and the minutes adopted.

Miss Barber then took charge of the program. She taught the girls to make book marks. Then each girl made the book mark for herself.

Everyone enjoyed the meeting very much and adjourned to meet again on January 21, 1941.—Nara Lee Marcus, Reporter.

Plywood, made by an industry only active in the United States for about ten years, today has over 2,000 uses including radio cabinets, airplanes, luggage, and piano cases.

The Gift That Gives Through All the Year

The ideal Christmas gift is one that never ceases to give pleasure. You give your whole family such a gift when you present them with an extension telephone. Handily located in your home, it will save many tiring, time-wasting steps to the main telephone—afford telephone privacy—and provide an extra measure of protection. All these things it will give every day, yet its daily cost will be only a few pennies. Surprise and delight your family this Christmas with the gift of gifts. Order an extension telephone.

Holiday Festivities At Alabama College

With a giant star shining down from the picturesque tower which stands in the center of their campus, and a busy round of Christmas festivities on their calendar, girls at Alabama College are already acutely conscious of the Christmas holidays which begin for them Friday, December 20.

As its part of the holiday fun, the Recreation Association is sponsoring a "Merry Christmas" dance in the College Field House Saturday evening from 8:00 to 10:00 p.m., to which both the faculty and students are invited.

In Palmer Auditorium at 8:15 p.m. next Wednesday the Christmas note is injected into campus dramatics when the Junior Class presents the popular Christmas comedy by Lewis Beach, "The Goose Hangs High", which is directed by Miss Ellen-Haven Gould, head of the speech department, assisted by Miss Nora Landmark, and John A. Walker, technical director.

Students in the several Montvallo church groups are planning special Christmas exercises this Sunday, with the Presbyterian Student Association of the College producing a Christmas pageant, afterwards serenading Montvallo streets with carols.

Alabama College is cooperating with the town of Montevallo in the matter of Christmas decorations for the community. Besides the great star on the tower which stands in the center of the campus commanding a view of the surrounding countryside, a large cedar tree in front of the Main Dormitory has been illuminated with Christmas lights, bringing into focus many other signs of Christmas cheer brightening the campus this week.

Students return to their classes on Monday, January 6.

Among the students at Alabama College from Chilton county returning home for the Christmas holidays are Misses, Charlie Margaret Bell, Ola Mae Parrish, Frances Popwell, Emily Sawyer, and Hilda Mae Smith, of Clanton; Misses Mary Elizabeth Bald, Lera Dee Conway, Doris Guy, Paralee Henson, of Jemison; Misses Mary Lou Gaines, Verena, Miss Geraldine Hollis, Mitchell Dam; Miss Frances Mims, Thorsby; and Miss Margaret Kelly Moore, Rte. 2, Montevallo, Ala.

WINTER COVER CROPS

Chilton County farmers have planted a very large acreage of winter cover crops this fall, reports P. H. Smith, County Agent. According to the best figures available there has been 15,731 acres of winter cover crops of all types planted this fall. Included in this are 10,900 acres of Austrian winter peas, 1,075 acres of vetch, 600 acres of Crimson clover, 6 acres of bur clover, 3,000 acres of oats and 150 acres of other crops.

A very large percentage of these cover crops have been fertilized with phosphate. The crops are up to a good stand and are rapidly growing.

Included in these crops are 152 acres of Williams vetch and 600 acres of Crimson clover. Both of these crops produce seed well in this county and the plans are to save a large quantity of county grown seed next spring.

These 3,000 acres of oats will furnish very valuable grazing during this winter and will produce an excellent grain crop next spring.

4-H Club Council Elects Officers

The 1940-41 officers of the Chilton County 4-H Council were elected Saturday, December 14, at the first Council meeting this year. Twenty-five members were present representing eleven 4-H Clubs of the County.

Officers elected were: President Charles Collins, Baker Club; Vice-president, Louise Riggins, Baker Club; Secretary, Jesse A. Culp, Mt. Nebo Club; Treasurer, Sara Dean Glass, Union Grove; Yell Leader, Loma Edwards, Mt. Pleasant; and Song Leader, Elizabeth Coggins, Mt. Pleasant Club.

The Chilton County 4-H Council is an organization composed of the president, vice-president, an secretary of all 4-H Clubs in the County, both boys and girls. The purpose of this organization is to coordinate the work of all clubs in the county, to assist in planning camps, rallies, and other 4-H activities and to assist in teaching others about club work.

At the meeting Saturday the Council included the following things among the goals for 4-H Clubs to reach this year:

1. To keep project record books better and to turn in more record books to the 4-H leaders.
2. To make the regular 4-H club meetings more interesting by: (a) More members taking part on the program; (b) More recreational activities with special meetings for recreation; work.
3. To have good attendance at the county-wide 4-H rally to be held March 1941.
4. To plan and hold a good summer camp.
5. To have active local leaders in each community.

Meetings of the Chilton County 4-H Council will be held again in February to make plans for the county-wide 4-H rally and again in the summer to plan the camp.

TAXES DELINQUENT

Editor, Chilton County News:

We find that quite a few people are under the impression that City Ad Valorem Taxes are not delinquent until after March 1. We will appreciate it if you will call to the attention of property owners in Clanton that their City Ad Valorem Taxes are due and delinquent after January 1st, just as are State and County Ad Valorem Taxes. We would also like to have you state that we find an Ordinance providing for the payment of Street Tax by all male persons between the age of 18 and 45. The Ordinance provides for the annual payment of $2.50 or three days work on the streets. This tax becomes delinquent March 1st.

The Council has ordered enforcement of this Ordinance. Your cooperation in giving publicity of this will be appreciated.

Congregational Church News

In spite of bad weather and roads a fine congregation was present at both services last Sunday. The program of sacred Christmas music rendered by the choir was greatly enjoyed by all present.

Services for Sunday, December 22: Sunday school at 9:45, Morning Worship and Sermon at 11:00. Sermon Theme: "Hearing the Message of the Angels." Junior C. E. and Choir practice at 2:30. Senior C. E. prayer meeting at 6:00. No evening service at 7:00. We will attend the Christmas exercises being put on at the Baptist church. All are urged to attend.

On Monday night at 7:00 the Sunday School will put on an old fashioned Christmas, a program with a Christmas Tree and treats for every member of the school. The public is invited to attend.

Are you in this class? Many Christians aim at nothing and hit the mark every time.

Thorsby Institute News

The Senior Class of Thorsby Institute held its annual Arbor Day exercises, Friday morning, Dec. 12, at 8:30 on the campus of the school. The tree given was a beautiful Red Bud. The devotionals were given by Doris Wiley. In the cool breezes of the December air, we listened to inspiring readings about trees given by different members of the Senior class. They were Frances Wood, Norman Harris, and Una Spears. William Hicks, representative from the Senior class, presented the shovel to Lowell Smoot, representing the Junior class. The Senior class gave to the Freshman class the responsibility of caring for the tree during the four years they attend Thorsby Institute. French Duke, representative from the Freshman class, made a formal acceptance of this duty. The exercises were closed by singing the Alma Mater. Mr. T. E. Campbell, science instructor at the Thorsby Institute, had charge of the exercises.

The Helen Keller Literary Society of the Institute held its annual Christmas

Program in the Helen Jenkins Hall on Friday evening, December 13, at 7:30. The program consisted of a procession-al by the Glee Club singing "O Come, All Ye Faithful" and "The First Noel." The quartet composed of Ruby Raybon Katherine Pratt, Frances Wood, and Annette McLeod, sang "A Manger." Ruby Raybon sang a solo "The Christ Child" after which the Glee Club sang "Hark! the Herald Angels Sing" and "Silent Night." After the presentation of the Glee Club quartet there was a Christmas Cantata "The Music of Bethlehem" chanted by the Glee Club and chorus giving the story of Christmas in Song. The program was under the direction of Miss Elsie Tinker, music instructor of the Institute. There was a large attendance. The Philomathic Club won the point for attendance.

The choir of the Congregational Christian Church which is composed of students from the Thorsby Institute presented a most inspiring Christmas program at the church Sunday night, December 14, at 7:00. The program was under the direction of Miss Elsie Tinker.

Be sure to get your cup of coffee at Thorsby Cash Store Saturday. Servings to begin at noon.

The Truth Seekers annual Xmas party will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. K. C. Karm, Thursday night, December 19th. All members are urged to be present.

to spend a few days with Maj. and Mrs. Robert Robinson.

Mrs. Anna Vallades spent the past week-end in Birmingham with her sons and their families.

Mr. and Mrs. Coy Gibbons left Monday for Florida where he will take up his new job.

Mrs. Bob Arledge is in St. Margaret's hospital in Montgomery, where she underwent an operation last Friday. She is doing nicely at this writing.

The Christian Endeavor Sunday night was led by Hazel Pate. The topic was "Christmas in Many Lands."

A special song, "Away in a Manger" was sung by Kathryn Pratt and Frances Wood. The devotionals were given by Katholene McLeod. Those who took part on the program were William Sargent, Doris Wiley, Kathryn Pratt Sarah Petty, Una Mae Spears, Judy Bullard and Jeanette Plant.

The rules for the contest were read by Ruth Duke.

The Executive Committee of the Christian Endeavor called a special meeting on December 15, 1940 to discuss the Rally Day Program for the third Sunday in January. Homer Sims told about the Rally Day in Lanett, Ala. Definite plans were made for the occasion.

NEW SALEM

Our regular Third Sunday afternoon Singing Society met last Sunday, Dec. 15th. Everyone did their part toward making the singing a success. The directors for the afternoon were: Doc Harris, Chm., Curtis Bean, Thomas Childress and Mrs. Beulah Bean. A duet was rendered by Mrs. Beulah Bean and Margaret Bean. Several numbers were rendered by the Thorsby Trio. Pianists for the afternoon were Eason Maddox and Emogene Lowery. Everyone remember that we have a singing at New Salem church every third Sunday afternoon. All singers and listeners are invited to attend.—Reporter.

A temporary new recruiting office is to be opened at Selma Friday and Saturday, December 20-21, at the Post office.

Screen Stars Donate $800,000

THE "Screen Guild Theater" has signed a new radio contract with more than 700 Hollywood stars, directors and writers which will enable these artists to donate $800,000 to build a home for the movie industry. During the next few weeks such screen celebrities as Ronald Russell (1), Nelson Eddy (2), Martin Scott (3), Ginger Rogers (4), and Bette Davis (5) will join other stars on "Hollywood's Own Program." Roger Pryor (6) is the director and emcee.

BAYBERRY CANDLES
For Christmas

This young lady is not going to use her sprig of bayberries for decoration. She is doing what hundreds of housewives around the East coast line are doing during the Christmas season—preparing to make bayberry candles. The berries are boiled for their wax, which is purified and made into the candles that give off the distinctive aroma when burned.

Here you see a phase in the mass production of bayberry candles for the Yule season. Great bunches of wicks are dipped simultaneously until they are of desired thickness.

ROCKY MOUNT

Those who are interested in rightly celebrating Christmas come to Evangelistic services at Rocky Mount, 3 miles east of Jemison, beginning December 26. Join us in prayer for this meeting Christmas. A young preacher is to be with us from the school in Nashville.

SINGING AT THORSBY

Don't forget our singing at this place next Sunday, December 22, beginning at 1:30 o'clock. We are expecting one of the best singings at this place we have ever had. All quartets have a special invitation to attend. The 1941 books will be used (Golden Key and others). Every body come and enjoy an afternoon of singing with us—J. Thomas Childress, Chm.

Is Your Family Financially Protected Should You Die Suddenly?

"The origin of life insurance is lost in antiquity, but there is a record of one case going back to 1583. In that year, "William Gybbons, citizen and salter of London," is said to have bought a year's protection for 32 pounds, and died within the year. His beneficiaries collected 400 pounds. Each year approximately 60,000 Americans die within a year of taking out a Policy and their beneficiaries are paid over 60 million dollars. William Gybbons' "policy" insured his life for one year only. This is the simplest form of Life Insurance, and is called Term Insurance, meaning that it protects the insured for a specified period. This type of policy has been greatly improved through the years and is used today for temporary purposes—as, for example when a man is paying off a debt and doesn't want his estate burdened with the debt. Or he may need more protection, temporarily, than he can afford in a permanent form; sometimes, also, a man may wish to protect his interest in a business which is just getting underway. The drawbacks of term insurance as permanent insurance are that the premiums go up as a man grows older and that it has little or no cash value. As lifetime protection, therefore, most people prefer the more modern forms of life insurance. There are several of these, the most popular of which is "straight life." These modern forms have different uses, but they are alike in that the premium is fixed for the term of the policy and in that they build up values which may be used to provide income for you if you outlive your beneficiaries' need protection." We represent the AETNA LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY, one of the strongest and best known Life Insurance Companies operating today, and we will be glad to discuss your life insurance needs with you. We also represent four of the strongest Fire Insurance Companies in which we can give you protection on your buildings and contents against FIRE AND WINDSTORM. Through the four strong Casualty Companies represented by us we can give you comprehensive protection on your Automobiles and Trucks. Through one of our Casualty Companies, we are able to write a very attractive HOSPITALIZATION CONTRACT. Any insurance business you can give to us, or turn over to us, will be greatly appreciated.

XMAS PAGEANT AT BILLINGSLEY

Given For Benefit Of The Underprivileged Children Of The Community

An unusually impressive Christmas pageant was given at the Billingsley Methodist church Sunday night for the benefit of underprivileged children of that community. Mrs. Louise Higgins, who is a very talented musician contributed much to the success of the occasion, through her efforts in getting up the program and rendering two beautiful solos, and also playing with the entire ensemble throughout. The theme was the birth of Christ beautifully rendered in music. The Montgomery Guitar Studios orchestra furnishing the music aided by Mrs. Higgins, who will be heard over Montgomery future broadcasts with this orchestra. The pageant was a big success in every way, and a generous sum was raised which will be used in spreading Christmas joy among many children who otherwise would not know Santa Clause.

FOLKS AND THINGS ABOUT TOWN

The Kiwanis, Lions and Pilots took the stage in Clanton this week with their wonderful work in behalf of underprivileged children and in playing Santa to all of the boys and girls who came to town Tuesday. Santa arrived on the 9:30 train and from that minute on there was a spirit of Christmas in the air as he went about town giving toys, fruits and candies to the kiddies. From the loud speaker atop of the A & P Grocery came carols of Christmas sung by the Chorus of the Clanton County Training School and the Liberty Hill quartet.

The streets were packed and jammed with last minute shoppers, loaded down with gifts for loved ones. Truly, this is a glorious season. Peace and good-will reign in Clanton.

We were in a downtown mercantile establishment the other day when a man came in to buy a pair of shoes. He walked up to the nearest clerk and stated briefly, "Give me a pair of shoes for my wife, 'bout a inch high heel and a broad toe." The day we ever try something like that with our wife we'd be paying "Pee Wee's" ambulance to be ready, 'cause we'd need it.

Well, tomorrow is Christmas—we have waited exactly three hundred and sixty-five days for the occasion and we haven't the first thing to do when it gets here.

Thanks to our friend Mr. Johnson of Johnson's Fashion Shop for a nice box of cigars for our Christmas. We appreciate them very much and by-the-way, thanks also for the salve, it helped.

LeRoy Martin and myself had the job of making the rounds to raise money for the local Service Clubs Christmas bazaar. We made out real well and as a whole, everybody was liberal and willing in their donations. It is a mean job to have to go around asking for money, and a job that none wants, but a job that is very necessary and has to be done. Seems that everybody thinks that when money is needed, whether it be for Christmas or a sick horse or a burned barn, that they are the first one called on. Incidentally we think the same thing.

Jimmie Bell (that's Jimmie Bell on Bell Hardware, dealers in toys and stuff), says that out of 365 days in the year, we have to come around raising money on one of the three days that he has any business.

Soldiers, soldiers, soldiers—Clanton this week is being invaded by soldiers. Boys from the Camps are piling into town to spend the holidays with their folks. All seem to be well satisfied with the treatment they are receiving and with camp life in general—L. D. Easterling, who is stationed at Orlando, Fla., and among those spending their furlough at home was supposed to come by and aid us in writing this paragraph but he hasn't yet. . . guess he had a hard night last night and then too, no bugle call this morning either.

and a Happy New Year.

BERRY GROWERS

President's Ball Preparations Under way

New York.—Mobilization for the 1941 "Fight Infantile Paralysis" campaign was speeding to completion this week as leaders in business, the sports world and women's activities prepared for a record-smashing drive against the crippling disease.

Messages from all parts of America informed Keith Morgan, National Chairman for the Celebration of the President's Birthday that the nation is solidly determined to fulfill this year's slogan, "Help the Youngster Around Your Own Corner."

Among the first to give his full support to the drive was former Postmaster James A. Farley who accepted the chairmanship of the National Sports Events Committee. Mr. Farley will work in close cooperation with Grantland Rice, Chairman of the Sports Council who completed a program of 1,884 events to raise funds for national defense against infantile paralysis.

In accepting the chairmanship Mr. Farley told Mr. Morgan that "sportsmen always bat high in the league of citizenship. You can be sure that there will never be any batting slump as they step into this battle."

Mr. Farley will organize a committee of leading men and women who will sponsor or encourage sports events from coast to coast.

In the business field, General R. E. Wood, chairman of the Board of Sears Roebuck and Company of Chicago has taken the leadership for the drive. General Wood accepted the chairmanship of National Retail Committee which will bring to the campaign the support of thousands of retail merchants.

General Wood assured Mr. Morgan that the National Retail Committee will spare no effort to bring the campaign constantly before the nation's buyers and thousands of coin collectors would be placed in retail stores of every type.

"In making this decision," said General Wood, "I am mindful of President Roosevelt's recent words: 'Nothing is closer to my heart than the health of our boys and girls and young men and young women. To me it is one of the front lines of our national defense.'"

Meanwhile, committees in 48 states speeded their mobilization plans. Indiana is the first state to be completely organized with chairman and their assistants operating in all its 92 counties. Indiana's State Chairman, Don Stiver, Superintendent of the State Police and Director of Public Safety, informed Mr. Morgan that he is convinced the campaign is shared by the entire Middle West.

America's women are preparing to follow the example of Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt who will give the First Party in the chain of Home Parties planned for this year. Mrs. Roosevelt will launch the nationwide festivities at the White House on January 14th.

The First Lady's party will be an event of the annual meeting of women campaign workers and will provide the motif for all the other affairs. Special table decorations will express the theme of "Helping Hands for the Helpless." Place cards will be fashionable as an open hand and will be made of glossy gold paper.

But while America prepares for its greatest battle against infantile paralysis, the disease continues to take its toll among men, women and children. The United States Public Health Service reported 9,600 cases on the 49th week of the year.

CHILTON COUNTY HIGH TO PLAY ISABELLA

The Clanton County High Cagers will play Isabella Friday night, January 3, at the High School auditorium. The game starts promptly at 8:30. The C. C. H. S. players will wear extra game uniforms to date and expect to hang up another win over their old rival Friday night week.

WILLIAM HENRY LITTLE

Prattville, Ala.—William Henry Little, 58, a resident and farmer of Autaugaqua County for 20 years, died late Saturday night at his home in the Billingsley Methodist church, near Billingsley with the Rev. C. J. Fuller officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy P. Mims of Sylva, Ga., were over for the Christmas holidays.

New Year's Greetings!

For each of the Twelve Months in Nineteen Forty-one. Our wish is that you enjoy perfect Success, Health, Abundance, Joy, Love, Blessedness.

Independent Basketball Team Is Making Fine Showing

(By Clark Headley)

Clanton Basketball fans may well feel proud of the City's interest shown in basketball this season. Besides having a first class high school team, Clanton has one of the finest independent teams to be found in Central Alabama and one of the top-ranking teams of the state.

The team was recently organized by J. E. "Bull" Easterling and James "Gaby" Tiffin, who always have their fingers in any sports event that may come Clanton-way. The got their heads together and organized an Independent team. And we say, "hurray" for the fine job they did.

Just look over this line of players and we think you'll agree with us that better material couldn't have been found anywhere near Clanton:

First on the list is little "Snowy" Melton, who was all-state in 38 and was always a show when he was playing with Clanton and Mt. Pleasant. "Lefty" George Chambers who can do more with a basketball than a monkey can with peanuts; Mayfield, who has been dribbling for the Mitchell Dammers for the past few years, but is with Clanton this year as Mitchell will have no team; J. E. Easterling, manager, and pitcher; Harvey "Bucky" Armstrong, star high school player who had a big hand in bringing the State Championship trophy to Clanton in 38. J. W.

Johnson, another high school dribbler who is an asset to any man's basketball quint; Maurice Thornton, who was also a member of the 38 champions; and last but not least, "Sleepy" Powell, local Highway Patrolman, who still enjoys having his hands on a basketball as well as some poor devil without any driver's license, is in there fighting for a winner.

The Independents or "Woco-Peppers" have won three out of three since getting organized this season and the first two games were won by a safe margin but narrowly edged over a fighting Buck Creek team here last Thursday night to a score of 19 to 25. Manager Easterling stated that they were scheduling a number of thrillers for Clanton fans after the holidays and the first will probably be Bemiston here January 15th, notice the paper for a verification of this date.

Then, along about January 20th, the Clanton boys will take on the famous House of David team in the high school gymnasium. Be sure and watch for the exact date of this game as you know, they're always a something. For the three games played this season the individual scores run something like this: Melton 52, Chambers 10, Mayfield 6, Easterling 7, Armstrong 12, Johnson 11, Thornton 15 and Powell 2.

Mark Remarks:

The demand by C. I. O. that the contract between the government and Henry Ford $2,000,000 be cancelled, is not because Ford is unfair to men he employs, but because Ford is unwilling to take money of his employees and turn it over to labor racketeers.

The big hogs have been feeding at the trough for a long time while the runts have been running around squealing. Now when an export is being made to push the big ones to the side and give the runts a chance, the big ones are doing a lot of loud growling and howling their tusks.

We would be pleased to announce that annexing Lash, who was a United States last week, has been planted just south of the border. The "kiss" made has taken character as things in Canada and western Europe. That Lord Halifax, 1938, former minister, is to be sent as ambassador to Washington. We are just word-rap.

European countries are complaining that one dictator is on too many, but shucks, here in America we have one by the dozens—but we don't pay much attention to 'em.

We are sorry that Skeezix Waller didn't get to go home Christmas.

The next problem in America? What to do with all those Christmas decorations.

If Uncle Sam has decided to finance the whole British Empire, in addition to the Western Hemisphere, he will soon be digging deep into that gold pile in the Kentucky hills.

Flu germs are a whole lot closer to us here in Alabama than the Germans. Defense measures: Keep warm and dry, don't over eat and drink, don't exert yourself to the point of fatigue—in just two words—live sensibly.

People who commit suicide don't believe there is a hell.

Dishonesty, sooner or later, leads to disaster, but at the present time it is considered smart to tell a lie in order to make a sale.

Either Britain is just about at the end of her rope or else there is a lot of lying going on about it. If Britain is not at the end of her rope there is a lot of lying about it.

Here's helping Halifax don't get us into a helvafix.

The wise men of the East were listening for sirens instead of looking for Stars Christmas Eve night, 1940.

We still think that Franklin D. Roosevelt and Edward Duke of Windsor are the two men in all the world best fitted to bring order out of chaos to befuddled humanity. There is more politics than peace in the Halifax appointment.

LORD HALIFAX

Is Chosen As Lothian's Successor

Monday dispatches from London to American Daily Papers carry the following story of the appointment of Lord Halifax as ambassador to Washington, succeeding the late Lord Lothian.

"Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax erstwhile appeaser and 'man of Munich', today became Britain's ambassador to the United States in a move that restores departed Anthony Eden as foreign secretary.

Eden, leaving his post as war minister, returns to the same post which he quit in February of 1938 in protest against the appeasement policies and coding of the dictators under Lord Halifax and the late Neville Chamberlain, then prime minister.

The appointment was announced from No. 10 Downing Street shortly after midnight by King George VI's "gracious pleasure," were three-fold in their purpose.

1—Filling the Washington ambassadorship suddenly left vacant by the death of Lord Lothian.

2—An effort to achieve better relations with Russia because excepting for venerable David Lloyd George Eden is the strongest British champion of Anglo-Russian understanding and is well regarded in Moscow.

3—Elimination from the British cabinet of the last survivor of Chamberlain's inner "appeasement circle" and a man who frequently has been attacked because of his reputed former stance as a member of the so-called Cliveden set.

The selection of Lord Halifax was greatly construed in London as "high compliment" to the United States on the part of Britain.

FARM CROPS

Alabama Products Valued At $109,000,000

Value of all Alabama farm crops for 1940 showed an increase of more than five million dollars over 1939 according to annual crop summary by J. C. Hester, agricultural statistician. A bumper crop, a sharp increase in cotton yield despite reduced acreage, and increased production of peanuts and hay was reported. Production of potatoes, sugarcane and sorghum was off, due to unfavorable weather. The total crop value for the 1940 season was placed at $109,000,000 compared with $103,923,000 for 1939.

A crop of 43,450,000 bushels, compared with 34,000,000 for 1939, and well above the 30,000,000 average for the past five years, was the value of the cotton crop. The 1940 crop was valued at $62,500,000, compared with $52,500,000 for 1939. The 1940 crop was valued at $62,500,000, compared with $52,500,000 for 1939.

Average of 1939 and 1940 was 1.37, compared with 1.35 for 1939. The 1940 crop was valued at $62,500,000, compared with $52,500,000 for 1939.

While the cotton crop of 790,000 bales was only 5,000 ahead of 1939 it was picked from 400,000 fewer acres.

The cotton crop was far below the 10-year average, to be expected from the cotton curtailment program and emphasis on food and feed crops. Cotton still retained first place in crop value, however, the 1940 crop being worth, on basis of average price to Dec. 1, $37,130,000, with an additional $24,800,000 for seed.

The hay crop of exceptional quality and well above the 10-year average is valued at $2,294,000.

Production of Potatoes was below 1939 and sweet potatoes and sugarcane yields were lower than in any recent years due to unfavorable weather conditions. Yield of sweet potatoes was placed at 4,920,000 bushels for 1940 and 8,800,000 bushels for 1939; sugarcane syrup, 1,350,000 gallons for 1940, against 3,360,000 gallons for 1939. Sorghum syrup showed a slight increase over 1939.

Abnormal weather of the preceding winter and spring was reflected in a heavy drop in fruit production. The peach crop was placed at 700,000 bushels for 1940, and 1,705,000 (or 1939); peaches, 2,219,000 pounds, compared with 4,035,000 for 1939. "The satsuma crop was practically nil, being only 1,000 standard boxes while for 1939 it was 75,000 and for a 10-year average, 96,000.—Alabama Journal.

CHRISTMAS

City Packed With Hundreds Of Last Minute Shoppers

Clanton is enjoying a rush of Christmas shoppers. Although getting away to a late start the streets are jammed with those who have put off until the last minute buying things for Santa. Customers are buying more than for the past three years and trying to crowd their buying into the last few days. The outlook for a prosperous Christmas is good and business in general has a brighter outlook.

The Next Step Means War

Public opinion is the all important element that guides a nation's policy. Public opinion is not a spontaneous development that represents the uninfluenced belief or state of mind of the masses. Public opinion is a plastic, pliable element, which can be slowly moulded or bent by careful, painstaking, persistent propaganda on the part of skilled leaders.

Public opinion, passively sympathetic toward Britain's cause in the present war, has been veered towards endorsing ever increasing open aid to the beleaguered Britons during the past six months. Mass American opinion is still predominantly against our open entry into the war at present. But successful assaults are being waged to break down one barrier after another, until we will be plunged into the holocaust swiftly and inescapably with the fall of a few more resisting barriers now being badly bent by the hidden assaults of powerfully directed propaganda.

The conveying by our navy of freight ships of American, British or other register, thru the war zone to Britain, now being strongly advocated, will put this nation directly into war with Germany. Ships, as both naval vessels and freighters will be sunk. American lives will be lost—quickly America will be at war.

We don't oppose every aid to Britain. We do not oppose open war upon Germany if the Germans are about to crush Britain. But we do believe the American people should be told the truth—that this nation will be openly at war with Germany immediately after the proposed American naval convoy is instituted. We entered the last war when American lives were lost at sea. We will do so again whenever American lives are lost at sea—a matter of certainty if our Navy starts to convoy merchant ships with supplies for Great Britain—Cullman Democrat.

Propaganda and Patriotism

As American armed strength begins its gradual growth, with no peak in several years away, this nation is being flooded with the usual flow of propaganda. It is designed to appeal to the patriotism and sympathy of Americans. This propaganda will doubtless increase as our military powers increase and will probably reach its height when our peak strength arrives, if not before. Then, if not sooner, the United States will face a tremendous pressure to make use of her armed might.

Already many have accepted the vitally incorrect claim that "Britain is fighting our war. Why not help her?" There is the point where our patriotism and sympathy have fallen quick and easy prey to propaganda.

By no stretch of the imagination can anyone attempt to prove that "Britain is fighting our war." Britain is fighting her own war for her own preservation, and Americans in general sympathize with her fight and hope she will win.

United States security is admittedly somewhat tied up with British security. This nation and England have much in common in addition to a mutual language.

But we must keep in mind the fact that our business is to keep the United States safe and free. We should not throw a nation of 131,000,000 into war for the sake of saving some other country, although we may like that country a lot as we do Great Britain.

Britain has not been fighting our war, and if at any future time we enter the conflict, we should not do so with the intention of fighting Britain's war. Our interests and the security of our own country are the only factors that should determine when, where and how we engage in any sort of warfare.

Our patriotism and sympathy and propaganda at home and from abroad should not be allowed to mix—Tuscaloosa News.

Why Not Fair Exchange?

We are puzzled by statements of British officials that the British Treasury is about empty, and that Uncle Sam should consider the problem of loans.

Only a few months ago we were told that England had enough money for a long while to come, and that U. S. willingness to sell was all England wanted. Why not change?

After the last war, England called us, "Uncle Shylock" when we politely asked payment of debts when some Americans suggested that a few English islands in this neighborhood of the globe might be turned over to us on account, the response was very cold.

Well what about this for a good time to trade?

The U. S. needs many additional bases for defense along our outskirts, and some of the most ideal are owned by England. We have the money England needs, she has the property we need. We favor a fair exchange and no more "loans" for which repayment is not intended.—Anniston Times.

Castor Oil And "Tummy-aches"

H. O. Coffey, in his column, Ribbon Rumbblings, has quite a bit to say about "Grandma's visit" in the fall. He says the "younguns" are standing the first cold snap. He goes on to tell about unpalatable concoctions that the grand old "Dame" brought with her. But somehow he failed to mention that awful dose, Castor Oil. The editor grew up beside Mr. Coffey, and he does not believe that Mr. Coffey, no matter how urban he may have become could have forgotten the bottle of this vile remedy that always sat on the shelf in the buggy shed. Whether it was a screechy wheel or a green apple "tummy-ache" dose, Castor Oil, the editor grew up beside Mr. Coffey, and he does not believe that Mr. Coffey, no matter how urban he may have become could have forgotten the bottle of this vile remedy that always sat on the shelf in the buggy shed. Whether it was a screechy wheel or a green apple "tummy-ache" dose, Castor Oil, the editor grew up beside Mr. Coffey, and he does not believe that Mr. Coffey, no matter how urban he may have become could have forgotten the bottle of this vile remedy that always sat on the shelf in the buggy shed.

WHY HAS THE BIBLE DISAPPEARED IN SCHOOLS?

(Auburn Plainsman)

Why has the Bible disappeared from our schools both public and private in the past several years? There was a time when the reading of the Bible in most of our schools was a regular part of the schooling. Where are we going? What will be the outcome of our journey? Are we to follow in the footsteps of France, who for the past 60 years has prohibited the reading of the Bible and other forms of religious instruction in its schools. This has been one of the major factors in the increase of juvenile crime and the restriction of births, both of which have played a great part in the downfall of France. An alliance of Church and State is not caused by the reading of the Bible in schools. American courts have passed rulings that the Bible is not a sectarian book and thus may be read in schools without harm to any certain group. Horace Mann, the great educator, said that this great book could be read in the schools of America without note or comment.

It may be that the failure of reading the Bible in our schools possibly will lead us along the path that other nations which have fallen to the power of dictatorial maniacs have trod. It seems that in times of such a crisis that is enveloping this nation, it would be well for us to pause in the bustle of everyday life and get a little closer to our Maker. The profound wisdom that is contained throughout this great book could do anything but help us, if we are willing to listen, for a change. The deep philosophy that comes out of the pages of this great work, should aid us in battling the fear and greed that is at present sweeping over the universe.

The 13 stripes in the American flag should remind us that those 13 original states made provisions for the reading of the Bible in their schools. Could we take a wiser step than to follow the steps of those great commonwealths? We can never go wrong by following God. And our nation can never go wrong when its people can take enough time from their tasks and pleasure to consider for a moment, that we are the disciple of Our Father. And we should not betray the greatest trust the world has ever known.

MORAL ECHOES

REV. D. W. HASKEW, D.D.

A lady near Enterprise, Alabama was letting down the bars to her pasture fence when she received a terrific blow on her forehead that felled her to the ground. After recovering sufficiently to lift herself, she looked about for the source of the blow. Near by was a large rattlesnake that held in its mouth a half-swallowed rabbit. The snake had made an effort to plant its poison in the brow of the woman, but the rabbit in its mouth had prevented the fangs from finding their way into her life stream. That was one time when a rabbit saved a human life. However that snake was just as guilty as if it had succeeded in taking the life of the woman. It is the intention that counts and not results alone.

One cold day a farmer was splitting rails in the woods near his home. On splitting a Chestnut log that had a hollow in it, he found a large reptile that was frozen. He thought to amuse his children with the frozen snake and so he carried it home with him. The snake was placed on the warm rug in front of the fire and the children gathered around the reptile. After a few moments they were no longer interested, but the snake was not. He thought to amuse his children with the frozen snake and so he carried it home with him. Two men set out to walk from Bath to York and agreed that they should share alike on the journey. When about half way to their journey's end, one of the men found a purse that was full of paper money. "Ah!" said he, "I shall now buy me a horse and ride the rest of the way." The other man inquired, "And why do you say 'I' when we share alike in the find?" Just then a rider came swiftly toward them and the man said, "Look pal, we had better hide that man may think that we have stolen this bag of money." Then the pal said, "Make it 'I' this time good sir!" This leads me to say that a man's word should be as good as his bond and that an agreement should not be an individual matter. In sunshine an agreement should hold.

A mule and a lamb were very sick in the same lot. All the animals on the range came to help the ass and sympathize with him, but not a one called to see the lamb. On seeing the fox go by, the lamb made an inquiry, "My dear sir, can you tell me why all the animals go to see the donkey, and not one comes to see me?" "That is easy," said the fox, "When he gets well his bray can be heard afar." "What the Major High Top gets sick those who like to have their deeds known far and

STATE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Montgomery, Ala.—Announcement of a huge expansion program by the Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad Company, unofficially estimated to involve expenditures of approximately $30,000,000 dominated the Alabama industrial scene during November, it is shown in the monthly industrial review of the Alabama State Chamber of Commerce. The T. C. I. program will increase its annual iron production by about 400,000 tons.

The month's industrial developments also included the announcement that Woodward Iron Company will air-condition its third blast furnace. Two new industries, a bauxite mining concern in Henry County and a new planning mill at Jacksonville were announced during the month.

Other developments during the month included the following:

Paulk Products, Inc. peanut butter plant at Opp, has doubled its capacity by addition of new machinery.

Work is under way on a large addition to the plant of the Standard-Cook-Thatcher Company plant at Piedmont. The new building will house the finishing and shipping departments of the cotton mill.

New machinery which more than doubles its capacity has been installed by the Greenville Pecan Cracker. The plant now has a capacity of 1,200 pounds of nut meats daily.

A modern brick office building is being erected at Lanett Mill, unit of the West Point Manufacturing Company. Cost of the new building will be about $25,000.

Is Your Family Financially Protected Should You Die Suddenly?

"The origin of life insurance is lost in antiquity, but there is a record of one case going back to 1583.

In that year, "William Gybbons, citizen and salter of London," is said to have bought a year's protection for 32 pounds, and died within the year. His beneficiaries collected 400 pounds. Each year approximately 60,000 Americans die within a year of taking out a Policy and their beneficiaries are paid over 60 million dollars.

William Gybbons' "policy" insured his life for one year only. This is the simplest form of Life Insurance, and is called Term Insurance, meaning that it protects the insured for a specified period.

This type of policy has been greatly improved through the years and is used today for temporary purposes—as, for example, when a man is paying off a debt and doesn't want his estate burdened with the debt. Or he may need more protection, temporarily, than he can afford in a permanent form; sometimes, also, a man may wish to protect his interest in a business which is just getting underway.

The drawbacks of term insurance as permanent insurance are that the premiums go up as a man grows older and that it has little or no cash value. As lifetime protection, therefore, most people prefer the more modern forms of life insurance. There are several of these, the most popular of which is "straight life."

These modern forms have different uses, but they are alike in that the premium is fixed for the term of the policy and in that they build up values which may be used to provide income for you if you outlive your beneficiaries' need of protection.

We represent the AETNA LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY, one of the strongest and best known Life Insurance Companies operating today, and we will be glad to discuss your life insurance needs with you.

We also represent four of the strongest Fire Insurance Companies in which we can give you protection on your buildings and contents against FIRE AND WINDSTORM. Through the four strong Casualty Companies represented by us, we can give you complete protection on your Automobiles and Trucks. Through one of our Casualty Companies, we are able to write a very attractive HOSPITALIZATION CONTRACT.

Any insurance business you can give to us, or turn our way, will be greatly appreciated.

Do Not Neglect
The Peach Trees

(By Pat H. Smith, County Agent)

There are certain things that are to be done to the peach trees during the winter that will materially add to the value of the orchard. These things can be done anytime during the month of December and January.

Proper pruning is one of the most important things done to a peach tree. This is particularly true for the first three years as the tree is given shape by pruning during this time.

Pruning the first season is done soon after the trees are set in the winter. This pruning is for the "heading" of the tree or to force the main branches out at the proper heights. This pruning is to cut the "Switch" at knee high and to cut any lateral or side branches that might be on the tree.

Pruning the second season is very important. This pruning is probably the most critical in the life of the tree. Prune to force the branches out in such a way that the tree is balanced. The main lateral or "side" branches should all be cut back to not over waist high. Some of the branches should be cut out to allow the sunshine to penetrate the entire tree. By cutting these main branches to waist high, the fruiting wood the following year will be low enough for the fruit to be picked easily.

Pruning the third year is to further develop the shape of the tree. The main lateral or "side" branches should be cut to shoulder high. Some of the inside branches should be cut to let all sunshine to reach the fruit that will be set on the inside of the tree. The general shape of the tree at the end of this pruning should not be more than shoulder high. During all pruning operations, all dead wood should be cut out.

Training For Defense

By Rufus T. Stroh

Dean, International Correspondence Schools

SKILLED man power is needed to put national defense plans in operation. New jobs are being created faster than they can be filled. It takes time, much time, for a man to learn the work of a skilled mechanic or technician. You can't educate a man overnight, no matter how great the emergency.

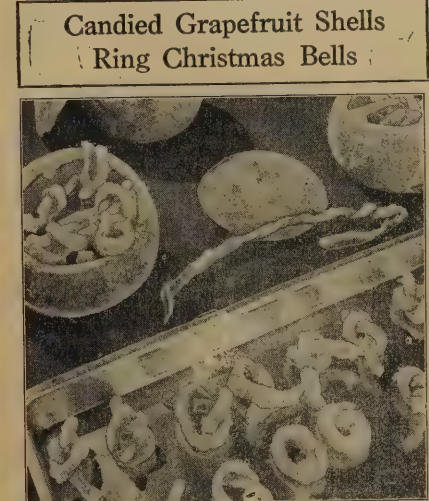

These are facts of the greatest importance to industry. The War Department, under the National Defense Act of 1916, has surveyed 20,000 manufacturing plants to ascertain what equipment they can produce in case of war. More than 10,000 of these have been earmarked as being available for carrying out one or another phase of defense production when needed. The plants cannot be put to work making weapons and equipment overnight. Machine tools must be designed and made, the mechanism of production must, in many instances, be rearranged and adapted to different uses.

The problem of national defense, therefore, is one of men and machines. The men must be highly trained, and the machines must be fashioned for special jobs. The problem is so important and so complicated that we cannot afford to have any illusions about it. We cannot afford to overestimate or to underestimate our ability to do it. The job will be done, but it requires cool, earnest, realistic, and intelligent effort, with a full understanding of what is to be done and how to do it.

THESE grapefruit are just shells of their former selves, but who cares when they're candy containers for candied orange and grapefruit peels, clever Florida Christmas gifts that can be eaten wrapping and all! Each strip is tied in lover's knot after you make them with these directions.

Candied Grapefruit Shells
Select large Florida grapefruit. Wash; break off cells by grating lightly on fine grater. Cut slice from stem end of grapefruit; remove inside, leaving thick part of peel. With small sharp paring knife cut fruit from rim, removing as much as possible this way; scrape remaining membrane and pulp from rim with heavy spoon. Cover shell with cold water; bring to a boil; cook about ten minutes. Drain off water. Repeat process 3 or 4 times. Cook shell. Put in a syrup made of equal parts of sugar and water. Use sufficient syrup to float the grapefruit. Cook to 220° F. (medium thick syrup); let fruit stand in syrup at least 24 hours. Turn several times during this period. Then cook to 232° F. (very thick syrup). Remove from syrup and turn it over a glass to shape; cook. When grapefruit is cool enough to handle roll in granulated sugar.

Candied Orange Peel
Peel of 4 Florida cold water oranges. 2 cups sugar
Remove peel from orange in four lengthwise sections; cover with cold water; bring to a boil and cook until tender. Drain. Cut peel in thin strips with scissors. Combine 2 cups sugar and 1 cup water; cook, stirring constantly until sugar is dissolved. Cook until the soft ball stage is reached (235° F.). Add peel and cook slowly for 30 minutes, and cook slowly for 30 minutes. Roll peel, a few pieces at a time, in granulated sugar. If desired the long strips in knots. Store in tightly covered container.

Candied Grapefruit Peel
Substitute peel of 2 Florida grapefruits for the orange peel. Cook grapefruit peel with cold water and boil 12 minutes. Drain and repeat 3 times, cooking last time until tender. Follow directions for orange peel.

FARMERS APPROVE MARKETING QUOTAS

Alabama farmers are in favor of marketing quotas for 1941 according to the official tabulation of the results of the December 7th referendum. Of the 421,875 farmers participating in the referendum, 115,006 favored and 6,899 opposed.

Incomplete returns of the referendum in 19 cotton producing states showed a total of 181,054 or 92.7 per cent of those voting favored marketing quotas while 61,802 opposed quotas. The Alabama was about 92 per cent favorable.

DECEMBER 31 IS DEADLINE FOR PARITY SIGN-UP

Auburn, Ala.—Alabama farmers who have not already done so should sign applications for their 1940 AAA parity payments before December 31, the deadline. A. W. Jones, State AAA administrative officer, announced this week. Those who do not sign by this date will be ineligible for payments under the program.

"These parity payments are based on the normal yields of the allotted acre of cotton and are being made at the rate of 144 cents per pound," he said. "They are payments made to farmers to help bolster cotton income up nearer the parity. Farmers who have not signed applications should go to the county AAA office immediately and do so."

At the same time, Jones said that farmers have until March 31, 1941, to sign applications for 1940 conservation payments made for diverting acreage from cotton production to soil-conserving crops. He urged farmers to stand ready for signing these applications when requested by the county officials so that the State AAA office should certify them for payment as early as possible.

HOME-MADE BROODER
HELPING PRODUCERS

Auburn, Ala.—An easily constructed, inexpensive and economical operated home-made lamp brooder was developed by Clyde Ingram, poultry specialist, Louisiana Extension Service. Since that time it has been tried and recommended in most other southern states. Thousands are now in use and others are being constructed.

It is designed to fill the need on many farms for a brooder to take care of from 30 to 75 chicks, or less. It is built of ordinary lumber, tin, hardware, cloth, and poultry wire. The bottom, top and sides are made in sections which make the brooder easy to clean or move to other locations.

It contains a brooder four feet long and wire-covered sun porch six feet long to allow the chicks plenty of sunshine.

Instructions for building the brooder are available at Alabama Experiment Station, Auburn, Ala.

COWS UTILIZING
JOHNSON GRASS

Auburn, Ala.—Six years ago harns in the Black Belt sections of Alabama and Mississippi were overflowing with Johnson grass hay and farmers were pleading for help in marketing their surplus.

Unsuccessful they turned their attention to finding a way to use the grass on their own farms. Today they are utilizing the grass in wintering hays, cattle in the fields in which it is produced. It is used both as hay and as frosted grass.

About July the grass is mowed and stacked in the field in two-ton stacks. The grass then makes a second growth which stands in the fields until killed by frost in the fall. Three strands of barbed wire are stretched around the stacks and cattle are turned into the fields to graze the standing frosted grass. After the frosted grass is consumed the temporary wire fence is removed and cattle eat the stacked grass. While on the frosted and stacked grass each cow is given from one to three pounds of cottonseed meal daily, the exact amount depending upon the condition of cattle and the severity of the weather.

This practice is now being advocated by the Alabama Experiment Station which has conducted experiments showing that it is a profitable practice for farmers in Johnson grass areas to follow in producing beef cattle.

NEW YEAR'S CELEBRATION

LUCILE PARKER was standing at the door of her apartment looking out at a gorgeous New Year's setting—the heavily packed snow, the crisp seasonal atmosphere and the moon shining down upon it all!

"What a night!" thought she. What fun it would be to join in the New Year's celebration for once. This she had not done for some time, as her husband had always attended the annual stag party and had never thought she minded.

Now when he kissed her good-by and happily rushed off, she somehow felt a stifling vacancy in her heart, and longed to go with him.

The stag party, ablaze with lights, was in full swing, the very air permeated with the rip-roaring, hilarious spirit of New Year's! Streamers and decorations hung from walls and ceiling, also banners bearing all sorts of quotations such as "No Ladies!" "Night of Nights," and so on.

At the very height of the celebration with music ringing in thunderous tones, the door opened, and in rushed a band of masqueraders waving banners, blowing horns and scattering confetti.

The orchestra started playing—"My Wife's Gone to the Country, Hurrah!"

"That was too much! The masqueraders pulled the masks from their faces and the startled stars beheld their own wives."

Before they knew it each one had a partner and was dancing merrily, regardless of entangled streamers, and confetti, regardless of the unexpected interruption, regardless of everything, only conscious of the New Year's Spirit.

Vegetable Laxative
Makes Happy Friends

Here's a laxative that usually acts thoroughly as harsher ones but is a gentle persuader for infants when used this way: A quarter to a half-teaspoonful of spicy, aromatic BLACK-DRAUGHT on your tongue tonight; a drink of water. There's usually time for a good night's rest, with a gentle, thorough action next morning relieving constipation's headaches, biliousness, sour stomach, bad breath.

BLACK-DRAUGHT is a splendid combination of vegetable ingredients, chief of which is an intestinal tonic-laxative that helps impart tone to lazy bowel muscles. It's economical. 25 to 40 doses: 25c.

the best interests of the dairy industry.

"Both the Army and the State Health Department are determined, of course to see that the highest standards of purity are maintained in the milk that is furnished the troops at the training camps" he said. "All herds supplying milk to army posts are required by Army Regulations to have been Tuberculin-tested and the milk must meet all requirements of the local and state health departments. The Army ration includes at least a half-pint of milk per day for each soldier. The public health agencies and military authorities are working, and will continue to work, in close cooperation in the effort to insure absolute purity of all milk consumed by the men in camp."

Here Is How Santa Claus First Found United States

Practically all the world celebrates Christmas, but only two countries have a "Santa Claus." True, the coming of boys and girls everywhere, but only the youngsters of Holland and the United States call that character "Santa Claus."

The name "Santa Claus" as practically everyone knows by this time, is derived from the name Saint Nicholas. And if you pronounce it very fast, accenting the "ias" you can easily understand how the name eventually became "Santa Claus." Why Santa Claus, or San Nicholas, became a bearer of gifts is another story—and a story which will set aside any group of historians arguing.

To begin with historians can't even agree that there was a real St. Nicholas. But most of them do say that such a man lived in the third century and was the bishop of Myra in Lycia, a part of Asia Minor. St. Nicholas became the Santa Claus of the Middle Ages and later America, because of an apocryphal episode in his life. Even in his time a girl had to have a dowry in order to attract a husband, and St. Nicholas one day came upon three sisters who had no dowries and an impoverished father ready to sell them "into a life of sin." St. Nicholas furnished the needed dowries and the girls were saved.

So Santa Claus to the Hollanders has always been a bishop and because he was supposedly born in Spain, he is known as "The Bishop from Spain." He wears a bishop's robes and carries a staff but he has the traditional white whiskers of the American Santa Claus. And he customarily visits Netherlands children on the eve of his feast day, Dec. 6. Just as boys and girls in this country hang stockings from the fireplace, Dutch children place their shoes beside the fireplace. They start several days before the anticipated visit of "Old St. Nick," however, leaving equine tidbits, such as carrots, in their shoes. And stockings were hung by the fire instead of shoes being placed there—Birmingham News.

When Dutch colonists settled part of this country, they brought their Santa Claus legend with them. It survived the Dutch colonies, but with adaptations. As most of the early settlers in America were English, Christmas Eve, and in a sleigh drawn by prancing reindeer instead of the single white horse of the Dutch St. Nick. And stockings were hung by the fire instead of shoes being placed there—Birmingham News.

FASHION PREVIEW

High style for Christmas loveliness! A beautiful lame dinner dress worn by the cover girl of Cosmopolitan Magazine sets the stage for a festive Christmas season. Many of the women who would soon wear presented for a gift her magnum clip of diamonds, emeralds, and blue lapis with earrings to match.

SELECTIVE CUTTINGS

Trees are just as much a crop as cotton or corn, and like these crops should be harvested when mature, according to Mr. James Wood, Superintendent of the Soil Conservation Service in the CCC camp area near Clanton.

In nearly all woodlands there are mature trees that dominate the stands, Mr. Wood points out. In most cases they have not only ceased growing but are deteriorating in quality and no longer making use of the full capacity of the ground to produce wood. These mature trees usually slow up the growth of the surrounding younger trees considerably.

Cutting out mature trees liberates the young trees, allowing them to grow faster. The young trees in a crowded woodland are like the children in an overcrowded tenement. They are unhealthy and more susceptible to disease. When the mature and diseased trees are thinned out, the health and vigor of the young saplings is improved.

However, before cutting the trees in a woodland, Mr. Wood recommends the drawing up of woodland plan of cutting that outlines in advance the trees to be harvested. When the wrong trees are cut out or the stand is cut too heavily, the woodland is weakened. A good plan of cutting keeps a supply of trees coming along all the time.

POPLAR SPRINGS

Last Sunday was our preaching day. Rev. Burrell delivered a wonderful message. The young people of the church put on a good program. The Birth of Christ and a nice Christmas Tree which every body enjoyed. On next Wednesday night. There will be prayer meeting at the church and Bro. Leslie Gilleland will preach for us. He is one of our home boys. We hope to have a good service so be sure and be there.

Miss Myrtle "Lump" Pitts, of the University of Alabama was home for the holidays.

Eyes Seldom Used To Fullest Extent

OF the five senses with which the normal human being is endowed at birth, eyesight is the most precious and the most important. Yet, few people use their eyes to the fullest extent.

The famous author, Royal Brown, writing in the January issue of Cosmopolitan Magazine, says he never was aware of this until he completely lost his hearing. His eyes must now obtain the information for him instead of his ears. But this enforced use of his eyes has brought him in many small ways an enrichment of life.

"I am almost always the first to notice when a person is bothered by a draft or a light shining too brightly," Brown says. "My eyes tell me when a person needs a match or is in any way uncomfortable. My eyes have made friends for me because people are gratified at having their wants anticipated."

A child, he points out, is often spoken of as "all eyes." He is using his eyes continually to adjust himself to a world that seems strange. He is as alert of eye as our primitive ancestors had to be to survive. Any magician, whose art is deceiving the eye, will quickly state that an audience of children is the toughest to face.

Constant and proper use of the eyes brings treasured rewards. It can enrich human relations, Brown relates, and give a fuller meaning to life. "To be interesting," he concludes, "you must be interested. Your interest must be turned outward, not inward. You must see everything that is going on about you. Therein, I believe, lies the answer to many of life's important questions."

MOTHER HAS FALLEN ASLEEP

Mother was tired and weary,
Weary with toil and with pain;
Put by her glasses and rocker,
She will not need them again.
Into Heaven's mansion she's entered,
Never to sigh or to weep.
After long years with life's struggles,
Mother has fallen asleep.
Near other loved ones we laid her,
Low in the churchyard to lie,
And though our hearts are near broken,
Yet we would not question, "Why."
She does not rest 'neath the grasses,
Though o'er her dear grave they creep,
She has gone into the Kingdom,
Mother has fallen asleep.

Rest the tired feet now forever,
Dear wrinkled hands are so still,
Blast of the earth shall no longer,
Throw o'er our Loved one a chill.
Angels through heaven will guide her,
Not forth the world would we wake her.
Mother has fallen asleep.

Rest thy feet for the weary,
Well deserved rest for the true.
When our life's journey is ended
We shall again be with you.
This helps to quiet our weeping,
Hark! Angel music so sweet!
He giveth to His beloved,
Beautiful, beautiful sleep.

MONTGOMERY HIGHWAY OPENED TO TRAFFIC THROUGHOUT HOLIDAYS

The Montgomery Highway from Birmingham to Montgomery will be open to traffic through the Christmas holidays, State Highway Department Officials said Saturday with no construction work in progress anywhere along the route.

The highway is now dust and mud free the entire distance, and with the exception of a two-mile stretch, perfectly passable just north of Clanton is either paved or the pavement partially completed.

For several weeks motorists have been instructed to go from Birmingham to Montgomery via Sylacauga, but during the holiday has been opened up for the heavy Christmas traffic, officials said.

Paving on the two-mile stretch near Clanton will be resumed after the new year. A contract for roadside work in the vicinity of Prattville amounting to $65,863, was awarded by the Highway Department to Grant Construction Company at Troy.

JR. G. A. HAS XMAS PARTY

The Jr. G. A. conducted its final meeting of the year with a Christmas party on Monday afternoon at the Baptist Church. Mrs. T. M. Dennis leader, directed the games. After the games and contests Christmas Carols were sung by the children.

Devotions significant of the Yuletide were read and gifts were exchanged by the G. A. girls. Delicious refreshments were served to 16 members. Mrs. J. B. Atkinson, Mrs. O. A. Davis, Elizabeth Dennis and Joan Atkinson assisted Mrs. Dennis with the enjoyable party.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Giger daughter and son, Mary and Ralph Giger, of Birmingham, visited their parents Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Tyus.

The Executive Board of the W. M. of the First Baptist Church will meet at the home of the president, Mrs. J. P. Hayes, Friday, December 27 at 2:30 p. m.

Both the out-going and the incoming officers will attend this meeting.

PEACE SOUGHT

English Churches Making Peace Proposals

London.—Heads of the Protestant and Roman Catholic Churches in Great Britain put forward joint proposals today for lasting peace.

The association of the churches, including the established Church of England of which King George is supreme head, was believed to be without precedent in a gesture of the sort.

The archbishops of Canterbury and York, primates of England as spiritual leaders of the Church of England; Arthur Cardinal Hinsley, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Westminster and head of the Catholic Church in Britain; and Walter H. Armstrong moderator of the Free Church Federal Council, in a letter to The Times propounded "five standards" to guide statesmen in solving post-war economics and social questions.

They suggested that their five points, combined with five points for Christian peace enunciated by Pope Pius last Christmas Eve, would provide a basis for lasting peace.

The five standards are:

Extreme inequality of wealth should be abolished.

Every child regardless of race or class should have equal opportunity for education suitable to its peculiar capacities.

The family as a social unit must be safeguarded.

The sense of divine vocation must be restored to man's daily work.

Resources of the earth should be used as God's gift to the whole human race and used with due consideration for the needs of the present and future generations.

The churchmen expressed confidence that the British Empire would accept these principles and The Times in an editorial intimated that they should be taken into consideration in drafting Britain's war aims.

Pope Pius's points outlined in his message to the College of Cardinals last Christmas Eve were:

The right to life and independence of all nations, large, small strong or weak must be safeguarded.

Disarmament must be mutually accepted, organic and progressive, both in letter and spirit.

International institutions must be created or recast to insure the loyal and faithful execution of international agreements.

Real needs and just demands of nations and peoples should be benevolently examined.

A peace settlement must be dictated by a sense of acute responsibility which weighs human statutes according to the holy unshakable rules of divine law.

Gallico Put Sweat and Smell Of Sports Into Reporting

JOURNALISM'S hall of fame boasts no more outstanding personality than Paul Gallico. A crack reporter, one of the nation's greatest sports writers, Gallico's recent Hiram Holliday stories now stamp him as a white hope of our literature.

"He is forty-three now," writes sports columnist Bob Considine in the January issue of Cosmopolitan Magazine, "a big, friendly guy with a romantic heart and a lust for life and liberty." An untimely end at the age of 102 is Considine's prediction for Gallico's demise, but even then he probably won't forgive his Maker for sweeping him off the earth before he had time to try, see, and write all the things that fill his heart and mind.

His Viennese father, one of the leading pianist-composers of the early nineteenth century, according to Considine, wanted him to follow in his own footsteps, but the youngster, once he was forbidden to play football, had other ideas. He decided he must do things on his own, so he became a turn a stevedore, a score-hammering usher in the Metropolitan Opera House, a munitions worker, a sailor and a tutor.

As captain of the varsity crew at Columbia, Gallico built up a solid background for the sports writing he did later. Startling his colleagues, he began to attack sports from the human angle. He always worked on the premise that a ball on the back of Ty Cobb's neck was as important as his batting average. More than any other writer, Gallico "re-writes" Gallico put the sweat and smell of sports into sports stories. As a re-

Paul Gallico

He is hopelessly infatuated with deep-sea fishing, and knows enough about moving picture cameras to have amassed a film library which he uses constantly for descriptions of foreign homes, landscapes, customs and clothes.

At the moment, Gallico is in the throes of the greatest tragedy of his life. On the eve of World War II, which he was assigned to cover, he developed phlebitis, an excruciatingly painful affliction. The direct descendant of this ailment is the most recent Hiram Holliday story. In this brilliant fact-studded fiction, Hiram accomplishes everything Gallico himself could not. He is equipped with the dogged Gallico strength, the same imploding gall, plus his own curious humility.

"Where Gallico will be or what he'll be doing when this appears," Considine concludes, "heaven only knows. But it is safe to say that if he can stir, he will be where things are happening, throwing his full 210 pounds into everything he tackles."

DAYLIGHT 24 HOURS will bathe this six-lane Boulevard from Bessemer to Birmingham after Dec. 30, thanks to a wide awake Junior Chamber of Commerce. In the picture above a committee of Jaycees and State officials examine the 6,000-lumen lamps which will be installed. Shown are Walter Mills, Gadsden, State Jaycee President; Maxwell Pickens, and W. R. Phillips, Bessemer Jaycees; Gov. Dixon; Highway Director Chris Sherlock, and Capt. N. W. Kimbrough of the Highway Patrol.

BESSEMER - BIRMINGHAM SUPER-HIGHWAY TO BE DEDICATED DECEMBER 30th

Bessemer, Ala.—Of general interest among public spirited Alabamians who are following the progressive steps being taken daily to make the State's highways safer an encore comfortable for those who use them, by night as well as by day is the announcement that the lighting project to illuminate the Bessemer-Birmingham superhighway is expected to be completed by the end of the present month. This announcement has just been made by officials of the Bessemer Junior Chamber of Commerce, sponsors of the project.

Covering a distance of more than five miles and forming a direct connection with the city limits of Birmingham and those of Bessemer, the super six-lane boulevard is to be illuminated by 227 special highway lighting fixtures spaced at 125 ft. intervals along each side. Designed to provide safer illumination for night driving, the lighting units will be a major factor in the reduction of traffic accidents in the territory the superhighway serves.

All lighting installations are being made by the Birmingham Electric Company under a contract with the Highway Department, approved and signed by State Highway Director Chris J. Sherlock, under which Department agrees to pay the company an agreed figure for the lighting service on the basis of a specified sum per light per year.

Bessemer Jaycees are now planning a formal dedication ceremony to mark the opening of the longest section of lighted highway in the entire South. With the announcement from the Birmingham Electric Company, contractors for the job, that the installation will be completed by the end of the month, present plans are for opening ceremonies and dedication to take place at 7:00 p.m. on Monday, December 30, at Bessemer.

Training For Defense

By Rufus T. Strohm

Dean, International Correspondence Schools

At this moment, we in the United States have a 14 billion dollar job confronting us. It is the job of providing the money which has been appropriated for a national defense program. It is a stupendous undertaking, one which may well decide the future of our civilization. Vast quantities of materials and supplies must be assembled to build ships, tanks, airplanes, guns; to maintain the fighting men who man our first line of defense; to equip the one or two million men who make up a "protective mobilization force." There are new plants to be erected, machinery to be built and installed, and skilled men to be developed.

The United States has virtually all the essential needed for the money, the natural resources, the man power, and the industrial leadership.

Only one thing is lacking—a sufficient number of trained men. This problem can and will be solved, but it is one that will take our defense program slow up in spots. Although much has been done by some industrial groups to provide for a sufficient force of skilled workers, others have been slow in establishing an apprentice training plan.

The skilled mechanic never had a greater opportunity to serve his country and himself.

a reception will be held in honor of officials and other guests participating in the program.

Early in the past week a committee, that organization and Walter B. Mills, William R. Phillips, also an official of Gadsden, State President of the Jaycees and chairman of the Safety-Light Committee of the Junior Chamber of Commerce of the United States, were in Montgomery for conferences with Gov. Frank Dixon, State Highway Director, Sherlock and Director T. Weller Smith of the Department of Public Safety, to acquaint them with details of the opening program and invite them to be present. The committee brought along one of the huge lighting units, each of 6,000 lumens capacity, to illustrate exactly what the lighting project equipment will consist of.

President indications are, it is stated that a record-breaking crowd will be on hand when the electric switch is thrown that will illuminate the superhighway for its entire length. Predictions are being made that this crowd will total not less than 20,000 people.

New Year Begins More Than Once, Believe It or Not!

New Year's day isn't always New Year's day. The actual date varies among the Egyptians, Chinese, Jews, Romans and Mohammedans from September 6 to March 1.

January 1 was designated to be New Year's day when Julius Caesar established the Julian calendar in 46 B. C. However, the calendar year thus established was 11 minutes longer than the astronomical year.

To correct this discrepancy, Pope Gregory XIII suppressed 10 days in 1582 by ordering that October 5 be called October 15. England and its colonies, however, did not adopt this new calendar until 1752. For almost three centuries, therefore, New Year's was celebrated twice every year—both times on January 1.

New Year's never fell on the same day two years in succession in old China. The new year began on the first moon after the sun entered the sign Aquarius. This date varied from January 21 to February 18. Jewish New Year's, when translated into dates of the Gregorian calendar, varies from September 6 to October 4.

Mohammedans celebrated Muharram, or New Year's, on February 10 last year. But it wasn't the beginning of 1940 for them; it was the first day of 1359. Because the Mohammedan calendar is arranged differently from ours, the new year does not always fall on the same date according to the calendar in use by the Christian nations.

Happy New Year! When will YOU celebrate?

The speed for profits is outspeeding the speed for mechanized National Defense, it seems.

You who spent your Christmas dollar here at home may get a chance to spend that same dollar again before long. Get the point.

Looks like somebody is trying to make Santa Claus out of the gamblers.

REVIEWS and PREVIEWS

By Irvin Lande

To those of us who believe in comparisons and analogies, there is hidden and deleterious meaning to the condition of Europe this year as the end of 1940 comes near. At Christmas time last year you may recall, Finland was valiantly fighting for her life against Russia. This year, a nation, similarly out-numbered, is facing a totalitarian enemy. The defending nation is Greece against the would-be aggressor, Italy.

Last year, when Finland called for aid, the democracies laughed, and thought that they were secure. Within a few months, France fell, and Britain was left to face the consequences. Last year the democracies stayed on the defensive, hoping for the best. From their catastrophic failure of a year before the British learned many things. First of all, when little Greece was invaded, Britain woke up, and sent aid immediately to the little nation. But that was not all. Britain had learned that by standing still she would gain nothing. After aid was sent to Greece she further aided that nation by attacking the Italian forces in Egypt and then proceeding into Libya. By this move Britain had taken the offensive, and had also relieved Italian pressure on Greece, in order that General Papadogiorgis of the Greeks, might have sufficient time to carry out a successful annihilation of the Italians.

Now as we approach Christmas, there have been many reports that Germany is now preparing to invade Britain, probably on Christmas day. These reports may well be true. Germany may be getting ready to invade Britain—not the British Isles, but Britain's colonies in Africa. For Hitler has been sending troops through the Brenner Pass to Italy to bolster the Italian war machine. Some of these soldiers have been sent to Sicily, and Sicily might well be jumping off place for Hitler's Nazi to attempt an invasion of Egypt to join Mussolini's forces in Italian Libya.

Up to now, the British have been able to re-capture Sidi Barrani, Matruh, and have driven all the Italians out of Egypt. The British have been carrying the war on into Libya, and have bombed Ft. Capuzzo, and are surrounding Bardia. Thousands of the fleeing Fascists are heading toward Tobrouk, the headquarters of Italian operations. If the British capture the Italian armies at Bardia, an important Fascist support, Britain will have captured about one-third of the entire Italian army that is in Libya, and that was equipped to carry on the African campaign.

Though the British are defeating the Italians in Africa and Greece is pushing in the Italian closer and closer to the sea in Albania, the very victories of the British and the Greeks may cause even greater problems to arise for the United States. This reasoning is based on the fact that Mussolini can not afford to lose Libya, and Hitler can not afford to let him lose his African empire. Hence, then, whether Mussolini loses Albania or not, Hitler will send all aid to the Italians in Libya, and will send this aid through men and materials from Italy to Africa. To send such aid, German and Italian warships will have to be used. Inevitably, the British will try to prevent such move and by so doing, the majority of the British navy will be used to attack the Fascists in the Mediterranean. And British shipping will be left unguarded in the Atlantic Ocean. If Hitler's submarines and airplanes inflict much more serious damage to the British merchant marine, Britain will probably ask America for an increased number of destroyers to convey British supplies and for aid in the way of arms, airplanes, and even cargo ships.

Perhaps as 1941 approaches, we shall see more clearly the path the war will take in the months to come. Whether the war is fought in Africa or in Europe, the course of American destiny will vitally be affected.

The war in the past year, has taught Americans many basic principles of warfare; it has taught us how to build better war equipment; it has taught us the ways and moods of men in order that we may better know how to make an everlasting peace.

As Christmas day approaches, let us pray that we may make the very best use of the knowledge that has been handed to us, without our own blood being shed in its experience.

There are entirely too many "press conferences" for the good of the country, and folks in general.

ACCENT ON SIMPLICITY FOR CHRISTMAS MODES

(From Bulova, New York)

SOPHISTICATED simplicity is accented by this handsome pair. Tempered to the new pompadour hairdo, is Missy's black felt cat with leopard fringe in front. A square-cut neck and ruffled shoulders distinguish the simple black crepe dress. On her wrist is the new 21-jewel "Dolly Madison" watch, designed by Arde Bulova, who also designed her escort's handsome, new 21-jewel "President" wrist-watch, in the unique color of the new pink gold. The black suede bag is trimmed with leopard and finger-free gloves of black suede have contrasting fourchettes.

Christmas In Carolina

Wilson, N. C.—Three Negro tenant farmers went out and cut a big dead pine tree to turn it into firewood. At the top of the tree in a little dead hollow they found a nest of squirrels. Under the squirrel nest they found three raccoons in a nest. They caught one of them. Right under the 'coons' nest they found two beehives that contained about 100 pounds of pure honey. Then, when they began to cut the tree up, they jumped a nice plump possum. They caught that too.

ANNUAL BERRY MEETING SATURDAY, JANUARY 4TH

The Annual meeting of the Clanton Berry Growers Association will be held in Clanton Saturday, January 4th, 1942. It will be a most important meeting, and all interested are asked to read the papers for full particulars next week.—R. M. Roper, President and Secretary, J. N. Dennis.

WOOD HAULERS

To the Editor: Since the publication of the License Schedule for the City of Clanton, I have had many people over the county tell me that a report is being generally circulated that the City Council passed an ordinance providing that: Farmers who brought in a load of wood would have to pay a license for the privilege of doing same. I have attended all the meetings and I DO NOT recall such a question even being discussed, and I have been unable to find any mention of same in the booklet containing the License Schedule, adopted by the City Council December 3, 1940. As a matter of fact, with the exception of raising and lowering the amounts of a very few licenses, neither of which affects farmers of the county, the Schedule of License as adopted December 3, 1940, and the Schedule of License in effect at that time is the same. Anyone desiring a copy of the Schedule of License may get same in booklet form at the City Hall in Clanton. C. E. STAFF, Mayor.

Baffling Numbers Trick Enlivens Dull Parties

SURE-FIRE fun for any party is a magic "deciphering" trick. Besides adding life to a group that finds conversation running thin, a numbers trick attests the mental prowess of the commanding magician. Roy Haulk has one in the January issue of Cosmopolitan, that will baffle even the know-alls who usually spoil the fun.

| 762 | 147 | 284 | 687 | 773 |

Ask someone to check off from the above diagram one number in each column, naturally while your back is turned, and then have them called off as rapidly as possible and then YOU tell them the total. It's simple as A B C. Suppose the numbers checked off and called were the numbers checked as above. Pay no attention to the hundreds mention. Just listen to the last digit of each number and keep adding them as called off, as

|-----|-----------------|
| 168 | only think of 8 |
| 642 | only think of 2 |
| 180 | only think of 6 |
| 568 | only think of 8 |
| 377 | only think of 7 |
| | 31 |

Now you have the total 31. Always subtract your result from fifty (in this case 31 from 50 is 19) and prefix this difference to your result as 19-31 and that's your answer for this case. It always works. Don't call off your answer as nineteen thirty-one, though; always say one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one.

CLANTON ENJOYS CHRISTMAS CAROLS THROUGH COOPERATION OF CITIZENS

Clanton, through the cooperation of its public minded citizens enjoyed beautiful Christmas Carols throughout the holidays.

Radio Electric Service Company furnished the loudspeakers and their services while Mel Martin arranged the local programs.

Saturday afternoon was heard the chorus of the Clanton County Training School for colored, who contributed a number of Christmas songs and spirituals. Rev. Lenard Hand talked on "Why We Celebrate Christmas." On this same program Mrs. Raymond Mims sang accompanied by Mrs. Eric Ellis.

Tuesday's program consisted of those mentioned above who so graciously gave their services both days plus Susan Powers, the Clanton County High School Glee Club and others.

At 11:00 o'clock Mayor Cohen E. Stapp made a short talk and extended best wishes to all for a very Merry Christmas in behalf of the City of Clanton. Mr. Duffey, Mr. Free, Mr. Martin and all those who worked so hard to make this a real Christmas for Clanton are to be highly commended in the way in which their efforts were received. It was a huge success and contributed to the spirit of Christmas in Clanton.

Alex Hayes is spending the holidays with relatives and friends.

L. D. Easterling is home for a ten-day furlough.

Mrs. Karl Finch is spending a few days with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Mark L. Tucker.

Says the Montgomery Advertiser: "Many farmers raise peanuts for use as livestock feed." Yes, and many "city slicker" eat the peanuts raised by farmers for use as livestock feed.

Cal Cooper and Orne Wyatt, students at Howard College were home for Christmas.

Sewing Clothes Electrically Speeds Work and Eases Toil

By IRA MILLER

Rural Electrification Bureau

MEENDING and making clothes always is a big job on the average farm. But it becomes even more of a chore during the school term when the youngsters more than ever must be neatly and carefully dressed. Undoubtedly, this is one of the principal reasons why a sewing machine still is considered a real household necessity by three of every four families living in rural areas.

Of course, there are other explanations for the continued popularity of this century-old household appliance. Despite the universal availability of cheap ready-to-wear clothing, many farm wives—especially those with large families—find it more economical to make many clothes at home. Then too, home sewing makes it possible to obtain an individuality in styling and design not usually found in cheaper ready-made articles.

Unfortunately for the womenfolk of the farm, a Government study shows that only from 10 to 30 per cent of the sewing machines in rural homes throughout the country are electrically driven. A foot-powered machine is tiresome to run and this lessens the amount of sewing which can be done in a given time. Also, because of its necessarily irregular operation, such a machine seldom produces articles as perfectly finished as does one driven by electricity.

The farm wife need not wait until her present sewing machine is worn out to enjoy the advantages of electric power. A small motor can be attached with very little trouble and expense, and will give entirely satisfactory service. Of course, the majority of new machines can be purchased with motor drive.

Sewing really becomes a pleasure when done electrically.

Power requirements of an electric machine are so small that energy consumption seldom will exceed one kWh. per month (usually less) even when much sewing is done. At the average domestic rate, this is less than the cost of running a vacuum cleaner much greater ease and convenience for so little money.

America's Heirs Apparent Dislike Financial Burden

DEMOCRATIC America boasts of no royalty. Titles, in so far as being inherited or officially decreed are nowhere extant. They were banned in 1787.

But eagerly read publicity about United States families of thick blue blood and fabulous bourgeois fortunes has accorded such names as Rockefeller, Whitney, Vanderbilt, Mellon, and Roosevelt a place equally important in the nation's social hierarchy of things as assorted European Dukes and Barons and Earls enjoy in their native lands.

Domestic households, such as these, writes Greta Palmer in the Christmas issue of Town and Country Magazine, suffer identical difficulties of operation—namely in the training of their heirs apparent. Though lordly parents have strived to emulate the British tradition which demands that royalty in the tadpole stage be treated with Spartan severity, their efforts have achieved little success. Wealthy pedigrees with few exceptions, Miss Palmer points out, care little for the responsibilities attendant to the inheritance of a hundred million dollars or more.

Cornelius Vanderbilt is a yet another example of recalcitrant youth. Educated to be an ornament of Fifth Avenue Society, it has often been rumored that he was disinherited for his journalistic exploits. The Whitneys, Jock and C. V. the Vanderbilts, Alfred G. and George, John Jacob Astor, Huntington Hartford Jr. and various members of the Thomas Fortune Ryan clan are other examples of America's crown princes who would forfeit financial careers to the pursuit of sport, theatre, and divorce.

Only the five Rockefeller boys seem to appreciate the words of their grandfather, the original John D. Said he: "Wealth will go only to those who show fitness and ability to handle it wisely."

We take this opportunity of expressing our appreciation to the members and friends of the association for their co-operative assistance during the past years.

May we be of more service to one another in the future, all showing the good will and prosperity of the people of Chilton County.
